Desire of me. and I will give thee the heathens for thy inheritance: and the vneruost partes of the earth for thy possession. Thou shalt bruise them with a rod of iron: and breake them in pieces like a potters vessel.

Wherefore be thou not. valued O ye kynges: he you learned ye [that are] judges of the earth. Serve ye God in feare: and reioyce ye with a trembling. Hisse ye the sonne lest that he be angry. and ye perish. [from] the way. if his wrath be never so little kind. wise are all they that put their trust in hym.

The Psalms.

Morning prayer.

The argument of the iij. psalme.

David marvelling at the great number of his enemies, calleth upon God for help. He putted his trust in God, and therefore he feareth not his adversaries, but he依靠 at the successe that God giveth unto him.

A psalme of David when he fled from the face of Abolom his sonne.

1. God's love are my enemies increased; many do rise up against me.
2. Many say of my soule: there is no salvation for it in God. Selah.
3. But thou of God art a buckler for me: thou art my worship, and the lifter up of my head.
4. I dyd call upon God with my boye, and he hearde me out of his holy hyll. Selah.

The argument of the iii. psalme.

David at the rebellion of his sonne Ibsalom, cryeth to God for help, he reproueth the chiefe doers of his adversaries, and exhorteth them to repent. He is glad that they have plentie of visualls and other necessaries, seeing that he him selfe is assur'd of God's favour.

To the Chiefe musition on O Neginoth a psalme of David.

1. Hear me when I call upon God of my righteousness: thou hast set me at liberty when I was in distress.
2. O ye sons of men, how long shall my glory be commended? ye looke vanity, ye seek after lyes. Selah.
3. For ye must know that God hath chosen to him seale a godly (man); God byd heare when I call into hym.
4. Be ye angry, but sinne not: commune with your owne heart in your chamber, and be bylly, Selah.

The argument of the v. psalme.

David afflicted with enemies, required God to heare his prayers, to guide him, and to destroy wicked flattering rebels, trusting most assuredly that the godly shall be of him defended and blessed.

To the chiefe musition upon Onchiloth a psalme of David.

2. Hearken thou unto the voice of my cryning my kyng and my Lord: for unto thee I will make my prayer.
3. Thou hast by thy wordes betrayed God: I will early in the morning direct my prayer, and I will looke for help from thee.
4. For thou art the Lord that hath no pleasure in Wilchesbleness, neither can any cruelly dwell with thee.
5. Suches as be foolishie, can not stande in thy sight: thou hatest all workers of unquietie.
6. Thou wilt destroy them that make a lyce: God will abhorre both the blood-thirstie and deceitfull man.
The Plaumes.

As for me, I will come into thy house, (trusting in the multitude of thy mercie,) and in the fear I will humble my selfe in thy holy temple.

8. Lead mee O God in thy righteousness, because of thyne enemies: make thy way plaunce before my face.

9. For no truth is in their mouth, their inwarde partes are very wickednesse: their throat is an open sepulchre, their fatter with their tongue.

10. Destroy thou them O Lord, let them perish through their owne counsaiates:

cast them out in the multitude of their ungodliness, for they have ° rebelled against thee.

11. And all they that trust in thee will rejoice, they will triumph for ever, because thou defendest them: and they that love thy name, will be joyful in thee.

12. For thou O God wilt blesse the righteous: and thou wilt compass hym about with benvolence, as with a shield.

13. To the chiefest musition on Neginoth upon Cyguth, a psalm of David.

14. O Lord, rebuke me not in thine indignation: neither cast me in thy wrath.

15. Have mercy on me O God, for I am weak: O God heale me, for my bones are very sore.

16. By soule also is greatly troubled: but O God holde long shall be in this case.

17. Turne thee O God, and deliver my soule: O save me for thy mercies sake.

18. For in death no man remembereth thee: and in the grave which can acknowledge thee.

19. I am wearye of my groining: I walke my bed every noight, and I wate my course with my tears.

20. Mine eye is almost put out through griefe: and woue out through all mine enemies.

21. Awaye from me all workers of iniquitie: for God hath hearde the voyce of my weeping.

22. God hath hearde my petition: God will receaue my prayere.

23. All myne enemies haue confounded and forse becase: they haue turnede backe, they haue put to shame sodainly.

The argument of the vii. psalme.

24. O Lord my God, in thee I have put my trust: save me from all them that do persecute me, and deliuer thon me.

25. Left he like a Lion seasoneth on my soule: threateneth in pieces, having no revenge.

26. O God my God, if I have done any such thing: or if there be any wickedness in my bandes.

27. If I have done euery vnto hym that had peace with me: and if I have not deliuered hym that is without a cause myne aduerarie.

28. Then let myne enemie persecute my soule and take me: yea, let hym put me to death, and lay hym in honour in the dust, Selah.

29. Arie O God in thy watch, and stand thou vp against the rage of myne enemies: since thou for me, according to the judgement which thou hast geuen, A men.

The Psalmes.

Evening prayer.

Moneth the i. day.

25 And so shall the congregation of the people come about thee: for their sakes therefore place thy seat on the high.

8 God will judge the people: give thou sentence with me, O God according to my righteousness, and according to my perfection (that is) within me.

9 My desire is, that wickedness of the vngodly may come to an end: and that thou wouldst assist the weak, who are the tyrer of hearts and of reins, O most righteous Lord.

10 My buckler is with God: who preserueth them that be right in heart.

11 The Lord is a righteous judge: and the Lord is provoked to anger every day.

12 If the wicked will not turne, he will when his slooode: bestride his boile, and have it in a reduness (to shooce).

13 He hath prepared hym instruments of death: he hath ordained his arrowes against them that be perfectors.

14 Behold, he will be in travaile of a mischiese, for he hath conceaved a labour: but yet he shall be brought to bed of a falsehood.

15 He hath made a graue and digged it: but he bym selfe will fall into the pit which he hath made.

17 I will praise "God according to his righteousnesse: I will sing psalmes unto the name of the most high God.

The argument of the vii. psalme.

David setteth forth the magnificenc of Sodackno wedged of babes and abiectes of this world: he marualleth at Gods works, and at the great exceeding love of God to man, who is created to that excellencie, that he is Lode ouer all things in this world.

To the chiefe musition upon O Girtith, a psalme of David.

1 O God our Lode: howe excellent is thy name in all the earth: for that thou hast set thy glory above the heauen.

2 Out of the mouth of very babes and sucklings thou hast laide the foundation of thy strength for thine abuerlares sake: that thou mightest byl the enemy and the averger.

3 For I will consider thy heavens, even the workes of thy fingers: the moone and the stares which thou hast ordained.

4 What is man that thou art mindful of him: and the sone of man that thou bistenest hym:

5 Thou hast made hym sondyng inferior to angels: thou hast crowned him with glory and bownship.

6 Thou makest hym to haue dominion of the workes of thy handes: and thou hast put all things (in subjection) under his seete.

7 All sheepe and oren, & also the beasts of the field, the foules of the air, and the friunte of the sea, and whatsoever (swymmeth) in the seas.

8 O God our Lode: howe excellent great is thy name in all the earth:

The argument of the ix. psalme.

David prayseth God for the victorie that he had obtauned over his enemies, attribuyng it wholly to God: he betheth God to continue his mercy towarde hym, that he may continuallie set forth his praises.

To the chiefe musition at the death of O Labben, a psalme of David.

1 Wiy" prays God with all myne heart: I wyl recite all thy marueleous workes. I wyl be glad a recoupy in thee: I wyl sing psalmes unto thy name, O thou most wyse.

2 For that myne enemies are returned backward: are fallen and perished at thy prescence.

3 For that thou hast given judgment in my right and caue: thou hast sette right, haft sitt in the thron of judg ment.
The Pfalmes.

The argument of the xiii. Psalme

David complayneth that God seemeth to forget hym in his afflictions. He maketh his prayer, and declareth his trust to be in God.

1. He cometh long weary thou forget me, O God ; for ever ; thou long weary ; thou hyde thy face from me ; thou long shal I feke (c) countenance in my soule, and be so vered in mine heart every day ; thou long shal my nym enemie triumph over me ;

2. I looke doubling and hence me : O God my Lord ; lighten my eyes, lest that I sleepe in death.

3. Left my enemy enemy say, I have prevailed against hym ; lest they that trouble me rejoice that I should be removed.

4. But I repose my trust in the mercie, and my heart is joyful in the salvation : I will sing to God, because he hath rewarded me.

The argument of the xiii. Psalme.

David seeth how the oppression of the people in his time, the regard of God touching mens behauiour, the mockes of the wicked against the that put their trust in God, and the joy of the godly after they be delivered out of their bondage.

1. The soul hath Sayde in his heart there is no God ; they have corrupted them selues, and done an abominable worke, there is not one that doth good.

2. God looked downe from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that did understand, and seke after the Lord.

3. But they are all gone out of the way, they are altogether become abominable : there is none that doth good, no not one.

4. Do not all the workers of inquietude know, devoueryng my people as though they devoured bread : that they (c) talk not upon God ;

5. Hereafter they shalbe taken with a great fear : for the Lord is in the generation of the righteous.

6. As for. Now ye make a mooke at the countenance of the poore : because he reposeth his trust in God.

7. Who shall give salvation uto Israel : out of Sion : When God will deliver his people out of captaine ; then will Jacob rejoice, and Israel be glad.

The argument of the xvi. Psalme.

The prophete teacheth what behauiour the people of God ought to haue, that they may truly be of his Church in this life, and afterwarde be placed in heaven.

1. God who shall dwell in the tabernacle : who shall rest upon the holy place : Even he that leadeth an incorruptile : and both the thing that is just, and speaketh the truth from his heart.

2. He that hath yeke not with his tongue : noz both any evil to his fellow, noz rayseth a slander upon his neighbour.

3. He that disperseth in his eyes the repose hate : and honoureth them that are in God.

4. He that hath done to his owne hurt, and yet not go from his oth. such change.

5. He that giveth not his money upon blure : noz taketh rewarde against the innocent.

6. He that doeth these thinges shall never at any time be removed.
The Psalms.

The argument of the xvii psalme.

David expresseth briefly the confidence, trust, gladness, and other such affects of the children of God, in praying to God, in confessing hym self to be an uprisable servant, in declaring that he hath nothing to do with such as trust in any other seat only in God, in tainting God to be his inheritance, in acknowledging that God will instruct hym, save hym from falling, make hym glad, rape hym from death, and set hym on his right handes at the day of judgement.

The golden psalme of David.

1. Preserve me O Lord: for I have reposeth my trust in thee.
3. But all my [regali] delight is [to do good] unto the saintes that are in the earth: andunto such as crite in vertue.
4. As for them that rume [after] another [God]: they shall have great trouble: I will not offer their bkynke offerynge [of blood], neither will I make mention of their names within my lyppes.
5. O God, thou thy selve art the portion of my inheritance and of my cup: thou wilt maruynge my lot.
6. My lot is fallen unto me in a pleasanlive [grounde] I have a goodly heritage.

The argument of the xviii psalme.

David prayeth God to deliver hym from his enemies, which were many, mightie, and cruel. He taketh God for a wintesse of his innocency, trusting to see his face at the day of resurrection.

A prayer of David.

1. Hear thou O God of justice, be attentive unto my complaint: give care unto my prayer, not (proceeding) out of fayned lyppes.
2. Let judgement come sooth for me from thy face: and let thine eyes lobe upon equity.
3. Thou hast pased myne heart, thou hast visited [it] in the nightseason: thou hast tryed me, and found me not wickedness, for I purposed that nothing shoulde (in) shape my mouth.
4. As touching [other] mens workes: though the wordes of thy lyppes I have kept me from the way of (3) the violent.
5. Whode thou by my goynes in thy pathes: that my footstepes syp not.
6. If alat upon thee O God, for thou wilt heare me: incline thine care to me, hearken unto my wordes.
7. Shewe thy merciusous louynge kindnesse: thou that art the favour of them that trust in thee, from such as rype by agaynst thy right hande.
8. Keep me as the apple of an eye, hyde me under the shadowe of thy lyppes: from the face of the bugodly that go about to destroy me, (from) myne enemies that compasse me rounde about to take away my soule.
9. They have [3] inclosed [them felows] in their owney face: with their mouth they speake ponde thynges.
10. They have noale compassed me on every hyde [where] our wind [breath]: they toote with their eyes to overthryde me, dogone on the grounde.
11. His [thongs] be lyke a lions that is greedy to take a pray: and as a lions whelles lurking in serkete places.
12. Arype O God, prouente his comyns, make hym to dayl: deliver thy soule from the bugodly [which is] thy noddre.
The argument of the, xviii. Pfolme.

David declareth that he will at all times trust in God and call upon him for help, because God hath with his mysticke armes and wonderful meanes delivered him from cruel enemies, which dyd let upon him, yet fended of hell. He imputeth this Gods favour towards hym to proceed of that he loved Gods wode, ryght dealing, and honest company. Thus encouraged with Gods presence and ayde, he makes sure count, not only to overcome and destroy his enemies and rebels: but also to subdue unto hym other nations of the heathen, that God amongst them also may be played.

To the chiefe mutation the feruain of God, and of David who spake unto God the wordes of this song in the day that God delivered him from the hande of all his enemies, and from the hande of Saul: And he sayde.

1. I will entirely lose thee, O God my strength, God is my song rooke my forteesse, and my delpuerer: my Lorde, my castell in which I will tryst, my buckler, the home of my safition, z my refuge.

2. I will call upon God, Who is most worthy to be praised: so I shall be safe from myne enemies.

3. The panges of death have compassed me about: and the outrages of the wicked have affrayed me both of feare.

4. The panges of a grave have compassed me about: the snares of death otrcke me.

5. But in this my distresse I dyd call upon God, and I made my complaunt unto my Lorde: he hearde my voys out of his temple, and my eye came before his face, even unto his cares.

6. The earth trembled and quaked: the very foundations of the hylls tottered and shooke, because he was wroth.

7. In his anger a smoke ascended by: and a fire out of his mouth dyd consume, and every cote thereof dyd set a fire.

8. He boiled the heavens also, and he came doonew: and it was darke under his feete.

9. He rode upon the Cherub, and he dyd see: he came sleepping upon the wynges of the wynds.

10. For his secret place he dyd put backe: and for his pavilion rounde about hym, he dyd put darkest of waters into cloudes of the apr.

11. His cloudes, haplesstones, and coles of fire: fell doonew before hym after lyghtning.

12. God also thundred out of heaven: and the nock hyghshet made his voyce to sounde, haplesstones, and coles of fire.

13. He shot out his arrows, and scattered them: he cast southe much lyghtnynges, and destroyed them.

14. And the bottomes of waters appeare, and the foundations of the rympde weights were discovered at thy chidying, O God: at the blast of the breath of thine anger.

15. He hath sente doonew from aboare to fetch me: he hath taken me out of many waters.

16. He hath deliuered me from my strong enemy: and from them which hate me, for they were to sloute for me.

17. They prevented me in the day of my trouble: but God was vnto me a sure stay.

18. He bought me also fourth into a place of libertie: he bought me forth, because he had a favour vnto me.

19. God rewarde me after my ryghteous dealing: according to the cleansesse of upre handes he recompened me.

20. Because I had kept the wayes of God: and had not darkeledly thronke from my God.

21. For all his labours were before me: and I reserced none of his commandements from me.

22. And I was made pure together with hym: and I was verry left I shoulde offende hym with my wickednesse.

23. Therefore
The Psalms.

23 Therefore hath God rewarded me after my righteousness: and according to my cleanness of my hands in his sight.

24 With the holy thou wilt be holy: with a perfect man thou wilt be perfect.

25 With the clean thou wilt be clean: and with the scum bruise thou wilt be scum.

26 For thou hast hated the people opprest: and thou hast brought downe the hygh toke of the proud.

27 Thou also hast lightened my candle: God my Lorde hath made my darkness to be light.

28 To me I have comforted an host of men: and with the helpe of my Lorde I have skipped over the wall.

29 The way of the Lorde is a perfect way, the worde of God is tried in the fire: he is a shield vnto all them that put their trust in hym.

30 For who is a Lorde besides God: or who hath any strength besides our Lorde:

31 It is God that hath gyded me with valiantnesse of warre: and he hath made my way "playne:

32 He hath made my feete like hartes feete: and he hath set me vp on "hygh.

33 He hath taught my hands to fight: and myne armes to breke a boylde of steale.

34 Thou hast greene me the shield of thy saluation: thy ryght hande also hath helde me vp, and through thy great gentiencesse I have increased.

35 Thou hast made me roodethough so to go on: so that my feete have not flipp.

36 I have pursued myne enemies and overtaken them; neither dyd I returne backward: but I had destroyed them.

37 Alnot them boylde, and they are not able to apple: they have taken such a fall under my seete.

38 Thou hast gyded me with strength into battayle: thou hast made them to boylde boylde under me who have rynen vp against me.

39 Thou hast germen myne enemies neckes: and I have destroyed them that hated me.

40 They traped, but there was none to saue them: they ryned vnto God, but he dyd not heare them.

41 I dyd beat them to pouder, like vnto dust in a wynde: I have brought them as boylde as durt in the streates.

42 Thou hast deliuered me from fession of the people, and thou hast made me head of the heathen: a people whom I have not knowne but they as they hearde of me, they obeyed me.

43 Children of a "stranger have made a lie vnto me: the heartes of the children of a stranger hath fyled them, and they feared in them (strong) holdes.

44 God lyseth, and he [15] my strength most worthy of bliss: and the Lorde of my saluation ought to be magnifed.

45 It is God that hath germen me power to take (or) avengeance: and he hath subdued the people vnder me.

46 It is he that is the aukehowr of my deliuerie from myne enemies: and he hath set me vp above them that roke against me, he hath ribbed me from the wicked man.

47 For this cause I wyll acknowledge the God among the gentiles: and syng psalines vnto thy name.

4 Sing psalms unto God ye his saintes:

and make your confession unto the remembrance of his holyne.

For a little short time [pallet] in his anger, [his] life is [spente] in his good wyll:

at eveningsweeping shall begin the night, but to ymage in the mornig.

6 And in my prospectie I laude: I shall never have a fat: thou God of my goodnes hast made my 3111 to strong.

7 Nevertheless, when thou dydest turn the face, I was troubled: [then] I try-ed unto thee O God, then made I my humble prayers to thee my Lorde.

8 [Saying] what porsite is there in my blood when I goe doone to the pitch: the dust " gene thankes unto thee : or shall it declare thy truthe?

9 Hear me O God, and have mercie by upon me: O God be thou my helper.

10 [And fastly] thou hast turnep my mourning into dauming: thou hast put of my sackcloth, and rejoide me with gladnes.

11 Therefore my 3glory that sing psalmes unto thee and not esteale: O God my Lorde I wyll " praise thee for ever.

" Confesse.

The argument of the xxxj. psalme.

David brought into that distresse that he had no hope to escape, cryeth to God: he commended him telle wholly to him, he declareth the complaints, to wanes, and afflictions which he felt in that dangerous time, he purpeth for help. He willed confess-to wicked lers, he rehearsed what good things God bath prepared for them that hare him and put their trust in him, he thanketh God for his goodnes towards him, he exhorted all men to love God, and that continually.

It is thought that this psalme pertyns to the Lorde. [Psalm.13.

To the chiere musition, a psalme of David.

1 If the De O God I haue put my trust, let me never be confounded: deliver me in thy rightcounes.

2 Robe doune thine care to me, to make halfe to deliver me: be unto me a strong roche and a houlpe of defence, that thou mayest save me.

3 For thou art my strong roche and fortresse: even for thy name sake conduct me, and directe me.

4 Take me out of the net that they have laye pituly for me: for thou art my strength.

5 Into thy hande I commende my soule: [for] thou hast redeemed me O

God the Lorde of truthe.

6 I have haten them that observe superstitious banities: and my trust hath ben in God.

7 I wyll be glad and reioyer in thy loving kindnes: [for] thou hast considered my trouble, and hast knolwen my sole in adversities.

8 Thou hast not shut me up into the hande of the enemy: [but] hast set my fece in a large room.

9 Have mercy upon me O God, for I am in distresse: mine eye, my soule, and my belly be confused for very heaninesse.

10 For my life is wasted with soffow, and mine cares [with] many a sigh strength faythes me because of mine 3111 iniquite, and my bones are purified.

11 I became a reprope among al mine eneemies, but especialy among my neighbones; and they of mine acquaintance were afraide of me, and they that dyd see me without, coneyed them selves quicky for me.

12 I became cleane forgotten as a dead man out of minde: I became like a broken belfell.

13 For I have heard the invill of the multitude, and care was on euery side me: whiles they conspired together against me, and take their counsell to take away my life.

14 But my hope hath ben in thee O God:

I have sayd thou art my Lorde.

Evening prayer.

15 My(1) true is in thy hande, deliver me from the hande of nine enemies; and from them that persecute me.

16 Cause thy countenaunce to shine vpon thy sernaunt: save me for thy merites sake.

17 Let me not be confounded O God, for I have called vpon thee: let the ungodly be put to confusion, and be put to silence in the grave.

18 Let the bying lippes be put to silence: which speake against righteous generous things with disdain and contempt.

19 Howe plentifull is thy(2) goodnes which thou hast byde vphome them that scare thee: (and where) thou hast prepared for them that put their trust in thee before the lounes of men.

The argument of the xxxij. psalm.

David teacheth mans celestie to consist in the fouregenese of his times, when God impute them not byto and that he knoweth them from the bottom of his heart intagnibly without all hypocrisie. He exhorteth the wicked to have a tenke and seeing of their times and putting to God in his heart, shall obtaine mercy.

20 Thou lydest them palely in thynne owne presence from the ragings of all men: thou kepest them secretly(3) in a tabernacle from the(4) strife of tongues.

21 Blest be God: for he hath shielded me marvelously great kindness in a(5) strong citie.

22 And when I had walked at haste, I said, I am cut out of the sight of thine eyes: nevertheless, thou hearked the boyes of my prayer when I cried vnto thee.

23 Love God all ye his saintes: for God preferreth them that are faithful and reverend most abundantly the(6) praise doer.

10 Great plagues remaine for the burgeoby: but who so putthis his trust in God, mercy imbateth him on every side.

11 Be glad in God, & crye O ye righteous: be joyful also all ye that be byighted of heart.

The argument of the xxxiii. psalm.

David exhorteth all men to pabry God, in calling to remembrance his goodnes, truth, promises, power, and promisenc, for whatsoever be faith or pommest, he persoometh.

Gods power appeareth by things created, his promisenc in disappoying mens beuils, God kes and knoweth all things, and taketh care of all, God delivereth those that leare him, and is their ape and bucker in all distresses.

The Psalms.

Morning prayer.

The argument of the xxxv. psalme.

David desireth God to be his Judge and defence against his enemies, who without all cause grieve of his part, like cruel hypocrites, parasites, and flattering courtiers, lay and do all that they can for to put him to death. He declareth his hope, confidence, and joy that he hath in God, of hope, defence, and deliverance: for the which he promiseth to give him thanks, not only by him selve, but also by such other as have any regard of his righteousnesse and innocencie.

Of David.

Lead thee out of all thy enemies, and the Lord shall save thee. 15 But in mine adversitie they rejoyned and gathered them together: yea, the very abodes came together against me, yea I vyspt they (b) rent me a piece and ceaseth not.

2 Lead thee out of all thy enemies, and the Lord shall save thee.

3 Byng forth the peare, and stop (the way) against them that persecute me: lay into my soule, I am thy salvation. 16 With hypocrites, sloffes, and parasites: they gnashed upon me with their teeth.

4 Let them be confounded and put to shame that feke after my soule: let them be turned backe and brought to confusion, that imagine mischief for me. 17 And obey long vyspt thou looke (upon this): O deliver my soule from their raguings, and my (c) bearing from Lions Whichelpes.

5 Let them be as dust before the winde: and let the angell of God scatter them. 18 So I vyspt confesse it unto thee in a great congregation: I will praye thee among multe people.

6 Let their way be darke and slippery: let the angell of God persecute them. 19 O let not my decepfull enemies triumph over me: let them not winke with an eye, that hate me without a caule.

7 For without a cause they have prouly layde for me a pit (full) of their nettes: without a cause they have made a digging into my soule. 20 For they speake not peace: but they imagine decepfull knides against them that (d) quietely in the lande.

8 Let a fadayne destruction come upon hym unawares: and his net that he hath layde prouly catch hym seale, let him fall into it with this (e) destruction. 21 They gaped upon me with their mouths: and said this is well, this is well, our eye hath (f) scenes.

9 [Ind] my soule shall triumph in God: it shall rejoyce in his saluation. 22 Thon harm scene (this) O God, holde not thy tongue (there): go not farre from me O Loose.

10 All my bones shall say, God who is like unto thee: which delivered the poore from hym that is strong for hym: ye the poore and hym that is in miserie, from hym that spoyleth hym. 23 Stirre thou and awake O my God and my Loose: to judge my caule and controverse.

11 False witnesse did rise by: they layde things to my charge that I know not. 24 Judge me according to thy rightousnesse O God my Loose: and let them not triumph over me.

12 They rewarded me cull for good: to the great discomfort of my soule. 25 Let them not say in their heart, it is as we would have it: nothing let them say, we have deuoured hym.

13 Nevertheless, when they were sike I did put on tuckcloth: I afflicted my soule with hanging, and my prayer (b) returned into my owne bosome.

14 I kept them (g) company wheresoeuer they went, as though they had ben my friends or brother: I went heavly, as one that mourne for his mother, and my tongue was lusting of thy rightousnesse: and of thy people all the day long.
The argument of the xxxviij. psalme.

1 David confesteth the godly, that they be not offended at the prosperitie of the wicked, or with the same prosperity from godliness, though they had no regards of justice, innocenc, and drought dealing, when they see commonly the worstsort of men to have the world at their will, abounding in health, riches, and authoritie. He confesteth that the condition of the godly and the ungodly be divers, and how that God at the last rooteth out those that do evil, notwithstanding all their prosperitie, and defendeth those that put their trust in him. God guideth the faithful, and never forsaketh them or their seed.

2 Ket not thy selke because of the ungodly: neither be thou envious against the ungodly doers.

3 Put thou thy trust in God, and be doing good: dwell in the land, and be wittier even as the green hearbe.

4 Delight thou also in God; and he shall give thee thy hearts desire.

5 Commit thy way unto God: and put thy trust in him, and he shall bring it to passe.

6 He shall make thy righteounesse appeare as clear as the light: and thy indictment as the noonday.

7 Hold thee still in God, and waite patiently upon him: lest not thy selke at him whose way doth prosper, at the man that hath abominations.

8 Leave of from wrath, and let go displeasure: fret not thy selke, lest thou be moued to do euill.

9 For the malicious doers shall be rooted out: and they that patiently waite after God, they shall inherit the lande.

10 Looke at them yet a little wylple, and the ungodly shall cleane gone: thou shalt looke after his place, and he shall not be there.

11 But the meek spirited shall possesse the earth: and shall be delighted in the abundance of peace.

12 The ungodly buseth his head: all against the just: and gnatheth upon him with his teeth.

13 The Lord shall laugh him to scorn: for he seeth that his day is come, and the ungodly have haunten out the dovoide, and have bende their bowe: to cast doone the poore and needie, and to flay such as be of right conversation.

14 But their dovoide that goeth about their owne heart: their bowe shall be broken.

15 And a small thing that the righteous hath: is better then great riches of the ungodly.

16 Only for to do euill.

There have heard with our ears O Lord: our fathers have told us what works thou hast done in their days in the old time.

Howl thou hast driven out the heathen with thy hand and planted them in: howl thou hast destroyed the nations placed them.

For they gat not the land in possession through their own volfe: neither was it their own armes that saved the.

But thy right hand, and thine armes, & the light of thy countenance: because thou hast a favour towards them.

Thou art my lyng O Lord: command that Jacob be saved.

Though thee we will overthron our enemies: and in thy name we will trample them under that ryle by agaynst us.

For I will not trust in my bowe: and it is not my sword that can save me.

But it is thou that savest vs from our enemies: and thou puttest them to confusion that hate vs.

We make our boast of God all the day long: and we will confess thy name for ever. Selah.

But know thou art farre of, and thou puttest vs to confusion: neither goest thou foorth with our armies.

Thou maketh vs to turne away back: where the enemy is from us: so that they which hate vs do make vs a spoyle unto them.

Thou hast deliuered vs as shepe to be eaten: and thou hast scattered vs among the heathen.

13 Thou hast solde thy people for naught: and thou hast taken no money for them.

14 Thou hast made vs a rebuke to our neighbours: to be laughed to toone and had in derision of them that are round about vs.

15 Thou hast made vs to be a rare offence among the heathen: and to be such that the people shake their head at vs.

16 My confusion is daily before me, and the shame of my face is turned me: for [to hear] the opprobre of the slanderer & blasphemer, and for to see the enemy and the averger.

[And though all this be come upon vs: (ver 7) we do not forget thee, nor thebe our selves to be false in thy covenant.

18 Our heart is not turned backe, neither our steppes he declined out of thy pathes: no not when thou hast moued vs in the place of dragons, and couerd vs with the shadowe of death.

19 If we had forgotten the name of our Lord, and held vs by our handes to any strange god: woulde not God search it out: for he knoweth the very secretes of the heart.

20 For thy sake also are we dyed all the day long: and are counted as shepe appointed to be slayne.

21 Stirre up O Lord, why sleepest thou? Awake & be not slent from vs forever: Wherefore hyest thou thy face, and forgettest our misterie & tribulation.

22 For our foule is brought lowe into the dust: our belly cleareth into the ground.

23 Arise by thou our aide, and redeem vs: for thou lougst kindenesse sake.
The argument of the xlv. Psalm.

The argument of the xlvi. Psalm.

1. My heart is enufying of a good matter: I will dedicate my works unto the king, my tongue is as the pen of a ready writer.

2. Thou art fairest among women, full of grace are thy lips: because the Lord hath blessed thee for ever.

3. Gracious art thou in thy works: and in thy creation, the earth is full of thy riches.

4. Properly thou with thy majesty, by thy powers, by thy work, by thy creation, both in the ends of the earth, and in the most remote parts of heaven.

5. Their arrows are sharp: a people that aim at their enemies shall subdue in heart those that are about them.

6. Thy throne Lord endureth for evermore: the scepter of thy righteousness is the scepter of thy kingdom.

7. Thou hast given me joy and gladness: Wherefore the Lord hath prepared me with the joy of his people.

8. All thy garments smell of Myrrh, Aloes, and Cassia: out of the most palaces: whereby they have made thee glad.

9. Kings daughters are among the companions of honourable women: upon thy right hand standeth the queen in a vesture of gold.

10. Hearken, O daughter and consider, enquire thine ears: forget also thine own people and thy fathers house.

11. So shall the king have pleasure in thy beauty: for he is thy Lord, and worship thou him.

12. And the daughter of Tyre shall come with a present: the riches among the people shall make their earnest prayer before thee.

13. The king's daughter is all glorious within: her clothing is of wrought gold.

14. Shalt be brought into the king, in a figured eou;e: the virgins that follow thee and her company shall be brought into thee.

15. With joy and gladness shall they be brought: and shall enter into the king's palace.

16. In stead of thy fathers, thou shalt have children: whom thou mayst make princes in all lands.

17. I will remember thy name from one generation to another: therefore shall the people praise thee without end.

8 Come, let us take our entertainment: what [soever] he hath brought upon the earth.

9 He maketh warres to cease in all the world: he breaketh the bowe, & knappeth the speare in lunder, and burneth the charrettes in the fire.

10 Be thy will, and knowe that I am the Lord: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.

11 The God of hosts is with us: the Lord of Jacob is our refuge, Selah.

The argument of the xlviij. Psalm.

[The prophet doth stie the earth; and to praise God with all his pride of melody; for that he subdueth their enemies under them. He also declarte how the heathen with their princes shall receaunt the earth.

Lap your handes all ye people: make a noise unto the Lord with a joyfull voice.

For God is high and terrible: he is the great king upon all the earth.

He will subdue the people under vs: and the nations under our feet.

He hath chosen vs for vs inheritance: the glorie of Jacob whom he loved, Selah.

5 The Lord ascendeth in a triumph:

6 Sing psalms to the Lord, sing psalms: sing psalms to our King, singing psalms.

7 For the Lord is king of all the earth: sing psalms [all you that be] all ye.

8 God reigneth over the heathen: God sitteeth upon his holy throne.

9 The princes of the people are assembled together [to be] the people of the God of Abraham: the shields of the earth be Gods, who is high and exalted.

† The argument of the xlviii. Psalm.

[The prophet doth magnifie the majestie of God for his goodnesse, benefites, earth, and wondrful defence towards his Church, which he commendeth under the name of the citie of God, of mount Zion, of the holy hill, and palaces of the north side.

A 1 Great is God, and hyghly to be praised: in the citie of our Lord, his holy hill.

2 The hill of Zion is faire in situation, and the top of the whole earth: upon the north is the citie of the great king.

3 God is well known in her palaces: as a most sure refuge.

4 For loe kings did assemble, and passe by together: they them selves gave it, lyked they marueld, they were astonied with fear, and sodely in haste they were gone away.

5 A feme cam there upon them and sovole: as upon a woman in her childe trauaile.

6 Thou dost breake the ships of the sea: through the east yeuande.

7 Lyke as we have hearede, so have we scene in the citie of God of hosts: in the citie of our Lord, God upholdeth the same for ever, Selah.

8 O Lord wee have wapted: for thy louyng kindnesse in the mynddest of thy temple.

9 O Lord, according to thy name, so is thy power unto the worlds ende: thy right hande is full of justice.

10 Mount Sion shall rejoice, and the daughters of Juda shall be glad: because of thy judgments.

11 Compass about Sion, and go rounde about her: and tell the towres thereof.

12 Marke well her bulwarke, beholde her hygh palaces: that ye may tell it to your posteritie.

13 For this God is our God for ever and ever: he will be our guide unto death.
Hear every ye people: give ear all ye that dwell in the vorld.

As well loove as higher and poor, one with another.
My mouth shall utter wildtone: the cokigations of myne heart, well bring forth (I) knowe the graue.
I will enlire my mine ear to a parable: I will open my darke sentence upon a harpe.
Wherefore should I seare in euyl days: the wickedness of my heales then would compass me round about.
There be some that put their trust in their goddes: and boast them selves in the multitude of their riches.
But no man at all can redeem his brothre: noe gue a raumsonne unto God for hym.
For the redemption of their soule is very costly, and must be let alone for ever: pey though he live long and not set the graue.
For he seeth that wyse men pye: and that the fool and ignorante perish together, and leave their riches for other.
And yet they thinke that their houses shall continue for ever, and that their dwelling places shall endure from one generation to another; therefore they call landes after their owne names.

Neuerthelesse, man can not abyde in [such honour]: he is but lyke unto (I) brute beastes that perish.
This they haye in their foolishness: yet their posterite "people they joying.
They shalbe put into a grave [dead] as a shepe, death shall seede on them: but the righteous shall have dominion of them in the (2) morning, their beautie shall continue alway, hell shall receaue them from their house.
But God will deliver my soule from the plantation of hell, for he will receaue me, Selah.
Be not thou afraye doth though one be made riche: or the glorie of his house be encreased.
For he shall carry nothing alway with hym when he dyeth: neither shall his pompe folowe after hym.
For why he "Ipeg he counted him selfe an happy man: and so long as thou dost (x) well unto thy selfe, men will speake good of thee.
But he shall folowe the generations of his fathers: and shall never see righte.
A man is in an honourable state, but he wyll not understand it: he is lyke [herein] unto brute beastes that perish.

The argument of the L Palsme.
The prophetes pryngeth in God to call to judgement heaven, earth, and all the worlde, declaring that he is not euytly worshipped of them who offer sacrificies without earth, and who pretending religion in worldes and counternamesses, leads a lyfe euyt contrary. True worship of God consisteth in offering unto hym sacrificies in prospere, and calling upon his name in adorare, and withall, in leading a good conterection of lyfe.

Thou visist the earth, and thou makest it oversonde, thou enrichest it greatly: the ruer of God is full of water, thou preparist their course, so to thou (9) providest it.

Thou waterest her foode, thou breakest downe her hilllakes: thou makest it soft with the drops ofayne, and blestest the increace of it.

Thou crowne oth the perse with thy goodnes:
The argument of the lxvi. psalm.

C The prophet saith upon all men to praise God for his wonderful power, declared not only in the old time in drying the red sea that the children of Israel might escape Pharaoh's hand; but also now for saving his people from their enemies, and from Pharaohs and tyrants of their days. He also incidently other to be thankfull unto God through his example.

Chapter xxvii.

To the chief musician upon the harp, to accompany. A doxology.

The argument of the lxvii. Psalm.

David after some notable victories thankest God, who is and hath been through his mighty power a present help and comfort to the afflicted, to orphans, widowses, and prisoners that sit in darkness, who also overcometh with his mighty arm all wickedness and his adversaries, and maketh them his subjects for ever, to the great joy of the godly.

To the chief musician upon the harp, to accompany. A doxology. A Psalm of David.

I will exalt the Lord, I will praise my God, whose lovingkindness is for ever: and say, My soul hath greatly trusted in the Lord: therefore will I praise him for ever.

My soul shall make the Lord my song: my soul shall magnify him for ever.

I will praise the Lord; I will sing praise unto my God. If he be pleased with my way, then will I make him my song: and it shall be mine praise.

Thought ye have been among the pottes, yet shall ye be as the dwynages of a done that is covered with sliver, and hath her servers as yolove as golde.

The argument of the lxx. psalme.

David descreth God to helpe hym with all speede, and to take abenquene of his enemies, he also describeth the joy of the godly, who feeth hym delivered.

To the chiefe mutation (a psalme) of David, to reduce in remembrance.

1 Halke thee O Lorde to delypuer me: make haste to helpe me O God.

3 Let them be returned bachward: for a rewarde of their shamypg [other] which say, "there, there.

The argument of the lxxi. Psalme.

The prophet being assured of Gods ayde, descreth to be delypuer of his wicked and cruel enemies, agaynst whose matter he complaine before the face of God. And so smuch as even from his youth he bath put his trust in God: he prayeth that nowe in his olde age he be haere and helped, to the intent that God may be played for his deliverance, wherefore, after he hath b同伴 his enemies thoughts, and prophesied of their destruction: he layeth that he will go to warre, trusting in the power of God, who before lyke hath reduced him out of sundry affections and temptations, into a better state and condition then ever he had before.

p thee O God I have put my trust, let me never be put to confusion; ridde me and delypuer me in thy righteousnesse, and incline thine care unto me, and save me.

The argument of the lxxij. Psalme.

The prophet in the name of the whole Church prayeth that the kyngdome promised unto him may come, which is the kyngdome of Jesus Christ. He declareth that then there shall peace, the number of the full shall increase, so that all nations shall subject unto hym. He setteth forth the affliction of the people toward their kyng, the abounds of all things in his kyngdome, so that his name shall endure for ever.

The argument of the lxxxiii. psalme.

The prophet in the name of the people of Israel complaineth of their affliction, how that they be as sanctified of God: howe that their temple is set a fire, and razed, and the words of God abolished. He describeth the enemies, cruel, outrageous, and blasphemies of the enemies. He humbly prayeth that these calamities may have an ende, that foul punishment a vengeance may be taken of the enemies, and that they may be defended for his counsaint sake, as his fathers were comming out of Egypt.

Care my ladie, O my people: enlyce your cares into the bwdyes of my mouth.
I will open my mouth in a parable: I will declare harde sentences of the olde tymne past.

3 Which we have heard and knowen: and such as our fathers have tolde vs.
4 We will not hyde them from their children: nay we will set foorth in bwdyes to the generation to come, the piapes of God, and his might and wonderful wonderfull worke that he hath done.

5 For he removed a statute in Jacob, and gave Israel a law: in the which he commanded our forefathers to teache their children.

6 To the intent the posteritie should know it, (and) children which should beone: that they should vph by and describe it to their children.

7 That they should put their trust in God, and not forget the worke of God:
buthpe his commandements.

8 And that they be not as their forefathers, were rebellious and a mutable generation: a generation that directed not their heart aright, and whose pride came not by stedfastly unto God.

9 (As the children of Ephraim, which being harnessed staving bowes: turned their backes in the day of battayle.

10 They kept not the covenant of God:
and they would not walke in his law.

11 But they forgot his worke: and his wonders which he had shiled them.

12 Baracious things dyde he in the ight of their fathers: in the land of Egypt, in the field of Zoon.

13 He subdued the sea and let them go:
there: he made the waters to stande as an heape.

14 In the day time also he led them with a cloude: and all the night through with alight of fire.

15 He cloued the harde rockes in the wildernes: gave them binke therof, as it had ben out of the great hepe waters.

16 He brought running streames out of a stony rocke: and caused waters to gowse bovne, like as out of rier:

17 Pet for all this they sinned stil against hym: so that they provoked the most wyghet in the wildernesse.

18 And they temped god in their hearte:
in requiring neate for their lust.

19 They spake against God: they said, can God prepare a table in the wildernesse

20 Behinde, he hath smitten the stome rocke, and waters have gushed out, and streames have flowed out abundantly:
but can he likewise ginge brede, can he provoe the she for his people?

21 Wherefore God hearde them: He was woth, a fire was kindled in Jacob: and there arose by heape of bigpleasure against Israel.

22 Because they beleue not in the Lord:
not did put their trust in his saluation.

23 And yet he commanded the cloudes aboue: and opened the doores of heauen.

24 He raigned owne: "Hanna also went them, that they should care: and gave them coaze from heauen.

25 (So) man dyed eate the head of angels:
he sent them meate enough.

26 He remoued the east winde from under the heauen: and through his power he brought in the south winde.

27 He rained flethe upon them as thryke as dust: and fethered soules like as the flake of the sea.

28 He let it fall among their tents: even rounde about their pavilions.

29 So they dyde care and were Wel filled, for he gave them thir owne desire: neevertheless they were not alienated from their lust.

30 But while the meate was yet in their mouthes, the heawe wrath of God came upon them, and blew the wetherpe of them: and made the choson men of Israel to slope.

31 For all this they sinned stil: and be-tied not his wonderous workes.

32 Therefore their days dyde they consume in vanitie: their yeres in a short (iron bious)time.

33 When they sware, they sware hym:
they repented them, and made God:
their morrings worke.

34 And they remembered that the Lord was their rocke: that the Lord most wyghet was their redeemer.

35 Nevertheless they dyed but slater him with their mouth: and they made hym a lye with their tongue.

36 For their heart was not bight with him: neither continued they faithfull in his covenant.

37 Pet for: all that he bryng most merciful: cleane and bared all their unbecedes, and destroyd them not.

38 Behold many a tyne he dyd much for:
to repesse his anger: and never would futer his lare rage to breake out.

39 For he considerd that they were but sche, and that they were even a winde that passeth away: someth not agaite.

57. They turned backe towards, and they went atraight like their forefathers: they started aside like a booke that heareth.
58. For they stiered hym to anger with their hygh places; and provoked him to trouble with their their images.
59. When the Lord heard this, he was wroth: he took sore displeasure at Israell.
60. So that he forsooke the tabernacle in Silo: the tabernacle wherein he dwelt amongst men.
61. He delievered his force into captuittie: and his glorie into the enemies hande.
62. He gave also his people over to the hande: and was wroth with his inheritance.
63. Fire consumed his young men: and his maydens were not delivered.
64. His priests were flaine with the sword: and his bydoddes made no lamentation.
65. But the Lord alaketh as though he had slept: like a giant making a triumphante noise after wine.
66. He fust his enemies in the hynder parts: & put them to a perpetual shame.
67. He refuseth the tabernacle of Joseph: and chose not the tribe of Ephraim.
68. But he chose the tribe of Juda: even the hill of Sion which he loved.
69. And there he builded his temple on high: and layde the foundation of it like a grounde ever to continue.
70. He chose also David his servant: and took hym away from the sheepefolds.
71. As he was following the sides great with young he take hym: that he might feede Jacob his people, and Israel his inheritance.
72. So he led them according to the similitude of his heart: and guided them by the direction of his handes.

The argument of the lxxxix. psalme.

The prophet in the name of the Israelites greatly afflicted lamenteth at the destruction of the temple, and of the city of Hierusalem done by the Heathen, and at the slaugther of his people. He prayeth God at well to take vengeance of the enemies in turning his displeasure on them, as to pardon him and his manyfold times for his names sake, that they might praise him for ever.

A psalme of Asaph.

Morning prayer.

1. Lord, the heathen are come into thyne inheritance: they have despoiled thy holy temple, they have made Hierusalem an heaps of stones.

2. They have given the dead bodies of thy servants to meate into the sountes of the ayre: and

3. They have flooded their blood like water on every side of Hierusalem: and ther is none to bury them.

4. We are become an open shame unto our neighbours: a very scorne and derision amongst them that are round about us.
The argument of the 1xxx. psalme.

The prophet earnestly prays God for to deliver his people of Israel out of affliction, wherein they were wrapped. Herequeth the benefactors done unto them, in bringing them out of Egypt, as a vine of God to be planted in the holy land. He laments the destruction of Jerusalem, deeming that it may be requited.

1 The prophet expostueth the ministers of the Church, and all other, to set forth Gods praises with all kind of musicke, according to his ordinance given to the Israelites. God declared his benefits to his people in delivering them out of the pharaohs dominion of Egypt. He declared also that they should easily have subdued their enemies, and have their grounds and fields very fruitful, if they had not been disobedient unto him.

9 If thou wilt hearken unto me, there shall be no strange God in thee: neither shalt thou give worship to any other Lord before me.

10 I am God thy Lord which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: open thy mouth wytpe, and I will fill it.

11 But my people would not hear my voice: and Israel would not obey me.

12 So I gave them up into the wicked cogitations of their own hearts: and I did let them solvle their owne imaginations.

13 O that my people would have hearkened unto me: O that Israel had walked in my ways.

14 I should have tamed their enemies: and turned myne hynde against their adversaries.

15 The haters of God should have ben founde: tiers: and their time should have endured for euer.

The Psalms.

The argument of the xcij. Psalme.

The prophet made this psalm to be sung upon the Sabbath days, for to stirre them up the better to knowe God, and to praise God in his works. He commendeth the singing of God's praises in mensall instrumentes, he requires much and wondereth at God's works. But the foolish understandeth not that the wicked, be they never so fortunate, shall come to a wretched end, for the wicked shall be destroyed, and the godly shall prosper. The greatest felicitie that the righteous hath in this life, is to be planted in the house of God, there continually for to praise hym.

The argument of the xciii. Psalme.

The prophet putteth the mightinesse of the majestie of God, which is declared from the beginning of the world: partly by the wonderful continuance of creatures made in it, and partly by testifying his will, commandements, and holinesse to his people.

The argument of the xciii. Psalme.

The prophet calleth upon God earnestly for to take avengence of the wicked who do afflict the innocent without cause. He complaining of their outrageousnesse and strump. He repeateth them of soilthinesse, in that they think and say that God seeth them not, for God knoweth their wickednesse, and seeth their proue thoughts. And in punishing them, he shall cause the good to live uprightly, who sympathize no way against the wicked but only God. For God favoureth no iniquity, it is he that will destroy all them that oppose the innocent.

5. Who satisfieth thy mouth with good thynges: causyngh thy youth lyke an agfe to be reuered.

6. God executeth justice and judgement: for all them that are oppressed with wrong.

7. He made his wydes knouen unto popples: his workes unto the children of Israel.

8. God is full of compassion and pity: loth to be angry, and exceeding great in mercie.

9. "He bleth not to continue in thynynge: neither referveth he his anger: for ever.

10. He dealeth not Wyl: vs according to our synnes: nor rebardeth vs according to our wretchedness.

11. For according to the hyghnesse of heauen above the earth: his mercie presencteth to them that feare hym.

12. [Looke] howe farre distaunt the easte is from the west: so farre a lunter letteth he our synnes from vs.

13. Dea lyke as a father pitcteth his owne: children: even so is God mercifull unto them that feare hym.

14. For he knoweth whereof we are made: and remembereth that we are but dust.

15. The dayes of man are as the dayes of an heare: he floureth as a flower in the field.

16. For the blinde passethe ouer it: and it is no more [leene]: and the place thereof knoweth it no more.

17. But the mercifull goodnesse of God endureth for ever and ever, upon them that feare hym: and his righteousness upon childrens children.

18. Even upon such as kepe his commandements: and thinke upon his commandements to do them.

19. God hath prepared his state in heauen: and his kyngdones ruleth over all.

20. Blessed be God his angels mightye in operation: who fulfylle his worde in hearkening unto the bocke of his book.

21. Blessed be God all ye his hostes: ye his ministers that do his pleasure.

22. Blessed be God all ye his workes in all places of his dominion: O my soule bless ye God.

The Psalms.

The argument of the, ciii. psalme.

Ps 104:1 P. soul blest thou God: O God my Lord thou art become exceeding great, thou hast put on glory and majesty.

2 Who is deckt with light as it were with a garment: speaking out the heavens like a curstaine, who doth his upper chambers with waters: and makest the clouds his charriot, and walketh upon the wings of the wind.

3 He maketh his angels spirits: and his ministers a flaming fire.

4 He bath laid the earth sure upon her foundations: that it can never move at any time.

5 Thou coveredst it with the dry seze, like as with a garment: the waters stand upon the hilles.

6 Arthy revoue they see: at the noyle of the thunder they bluster doune apace.

7 The hilles mount aloft: and the hales sette doune beneath the plaet where thou hast laid a foundation on them.

8 Thou hast set them their boundes which they shall not passe: neither shall they returne aagaine to cover the earth.

9 Who also causeth the synginges which come betwene the hilles: to howde into the rivers.

10 All beasts of the fielde drinke therof: and the wyde assesse quyenth their thirst.

11 The foules of the aye haue their habitation nigh unto them: singing out of the midst of the dolbes [of trees.]

12 He watereth the hilles from above: the earth is replenished with the fruite of the workes.

13 He causeth grass to growe for cattell: and herbages for the bife of man.

14 That he may bying*499 footed foode out of the earth: both vine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oyle to make him have a chearful countenaunce, & alfo bread to strengthen mans heart.

15 The trees of God be satisfied: 2uen the Cedars of Libanus which he hath planted.

16 Where the birds make their nestes: in the syre trees the fowres buildes.

17 The high hilles are a refuge for goates: and so are the stonic rocks for conies.

18 He hath made the moone for certaine seasons: and the same knowing his goynig doune.

19 Thou makest barines and it is night: wherein all the beastes of the forest do go abynde.

20 The Lions do roare after a prey: and in seeking their meare of God.

21 When the sunne ariseth, they recolle bare: and lay them downe to rest in their densses.

22 Man goeth fasth to his worke: and to do his service untill the evening.

23 Wode the sea it selfe large and wyde in compass: wherin are things creeping unnumberable, both small and great beastes.

24 There go the hipples, and there is that (c) Leuathan: Whoem thou hast made to take his pasture therein.

25 These vaype all upon thee: that thou mayest gene them meat in due season.

26 When thou openest thy hande, they are filled with that which is good.

27 When thou shuttest thy face, they are troubled: when thou takest away their spirit, they dye, and are turned agayne to their dut.

28 When thou sendest out thy spirit, they be recreated: and thou renewest the face of the earth.

29 The glorious majestie of God shall endure for ever: God will receyve in his worke.

30 He beholdeth the earth, and it trembleth: he toucheth the hilles and they smoke.

31 I will sing sung psalmes into my Lord so long as I shall be.

32 My meditations of hym shalbe very pleasant: for all my joy shalbe in God.

33 As for sinners they shalbe confounded out of the earth: and the ungodly shall come to an end, blest thou God O my soule: and praise you the Lord.

The Psalms.

Morning prayer.

The argument of the cv. psalme.

The prophet exhorteth all men to acknowledge God, to call upon God for help, to seek God, and to praise God: but especially he moveth the Israelites to remember the promises that God made to their forefathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and also the benefits that he had bestowed on them above all other nations. For God had such care of them, being pilgrims in strange lands, that he would not suffer anyone to touch them, yea he rebuked kings for their sakes, and he preferred them in famine and other adversities, as Joseph was sold into Egypt, but it had a good successe. The entry of the children of Israel into Egypt is set forth, and what happened into them whilst they were there. Likewise their topfull departing out of Egypt, their going by the way in the wilderness, and at length their entering into the land of promise where God placed them, that they should keep his commandements, is most amply declared.

15. Whole seate they dyd hurt in the stockes: the iron entred into his bowe.

16. Until the ymse came that his caufe was known: the bowe of the Lorde tyed hym.

17. The king sent and caused hym to be let go: yea the prince of the people opened a way soothe for hym.

18. He made him Lorde of his house: and ruler of all his substructure.

19. That he might enscroll his princes according to his mind: and teach his senators Goddone.

20. Israel also came into Egypt: z Jacob was a stranger in the lande of Cham.

21. And he encreased his people exceedinglie: and made them stronger then their enemies.

22. Whole heart to turned that they hated his people: and dealt hibitly with his herauntes.

23. (Then) he lent Moses his heraunt, and Aaron whom he had choosen: they did his message, workehing his signes among them, and wonderes in the lande of Cham.

24. He lent darkenes, & it was darke: and they went not from his bowdnes.

25. He turned their waters into blood: and smote their fishe.

26. Their lande brought foule stogges: yea euene in their kinges chambers.

27. He spake the bowde, and there came a swarme of all maner of flies: and of lyre in all their quarters.

28. He gave them bailystones for raipye, [and] flamnes of fire in their lande.

29. He smote their bines also & figge trees: and he destroyed the trees that were in their coastes.

30. He spake the bowde, and the grasshoppers came: & caterpillers unmeraerable.

31. And they did caste up all the grasse in their landes: & devoured the fruit of their grounde.

32. He smote at the first home in their land: euene the first frutes of all their cumpitence.
The Psalms

He also brought them forth with silver and gold: there was not one feeble person in their tribes.

Egypt was glad at their departing; for they were unpren with dread of them.

He fixed out a cloud to be a covering: and fire to give light in the night season.

The people required and he brought quanies: and he filled them with the head of heaven.

He opened the rocke of stone and the waters flowed out: so that streams ranne in drye places.

For he remembered his holy words: (spoken) unto Abraham his seeruant.

And he brought forth his people with glasse: (and) his chosen with a topfull noyse.

And he gave them the landes of the Heathen, and they took to inheritance the labours of the people.

To the intent that they should keep his statutes: and observe his lades.

Pray ye the Lordye.

The argument of the cvi. psalme.

The prophet exhorted all men to praise God, and to do duty. He maketh his paper, acknowledging his owne times, and the names of the forefathers of the Practices, who not considering the great benefits of God, rebelled against God at the red sea. After were in the wildernes they did tempt God, Cose, Dathan, and Abiram conspiring against Moses and Aron, were swallowed up of the earth. They worshipped a caule made of gold. They murmured against them that they were the lande of promisse, abhorring to hear of it. They sacrificed to Baal Peor. They grudged at God for lacke of water. Finally, when they came to the holy lande, they committed idolatry, and all kinds of wickednes of life, so that they were given up unto their enemies handes, but God most mercifully deliered them to his promise sake.

Psalme xxviii. 1

If ye praise God, for he is gracious: (and his mercy enduretherefore) for ever.

Who can express the balaunt actes of God: Who can publish all his praise:

Blessed are they that kepe judgement: and do justice at all times.

Remember me D God according to the favour that thou bearest unto thy people: D bist mee with Thy saluation.

That I may see the felicite of thy chosen, that I may rejoyce at the gladnes of thy people; (and) that I may gloire with thyne inheritance.

We have smite with our fathers: we have done amisse and dealt wickedly.

Our fathres did not well consider thy wondres in Egypt, neither did they remember thy manifold goodnes; but they rebelled at the sea, even at the red sea.

Nevertheless, he fauod them for his names sake: that he myght make his power to be known.

And he rebuke the red sea, and it was dyed vp: so he led them through the depe, as through a wydbernesse.

And he fauod them from the hande of suche as hated them: (and) redeemed them from the hande of the enemie.

As for their adversaries the waters overthrown them: there was not one of them lefte remanynge.

Then belovd they his wordes: and long pynne into him.

But within a very short while they forgot his workes: they would not (as) warke for his counsell.

And they were taken with a great lust in the wydbernesse; and they tempted God in the defert.

And he gane them their desyre: and sent (as) leenes withith unto their soule.

They enuied also at Doyles in the tenites: (and) at Aron the lamb of God.

So the earth opened and swallowed dykath and covered the company of Abiram.

And the fire was kindled in their company: the flame brent by the ungodly.

They made a calfe in houe: and worshiped the mouten image.

Thus they turned (as) their glory into the similitude of a calfe that eateth hay.

They forgot God their favour, who had done so great thynge in Egypt: wondrouses worikes in taynd of Cham, (and) terrible thynge at the red sea.

Wherefore he appointed to destroy them had not Doyles his chosen stand in the breache before hyn: to tune aday his wrathful indignation, lest he shoule destroy them.

Yet they thought some of the lcmds must to be desirde: they gane no credite into his worde.

But they murmured in their tenites: they would not hearken unto the doyce of God.

Then liest he vp his hand against them, to goue them an overthowe in the wil.

The argument of the cviii. psalme

David declieth his redines to praise God amongst all nations, not only with wordes, but also with musickall instrumentes, for this ende, that his glory may be set forth to the whole world: and his elese saved and delivered from enemies. Part of this psalme is taken out of the 57. psalme, and part out of the 59.

A songe the psalme of David.

My heart is redy to lode: I will singe praise ther in singinge of pfalmes, peevy glory also is [redye.] 1. Welshere the O lute: and harpe: I will singe and welshere me right early up morning.

2. I will praise the O God among the people: I will sing pfalmes unto thee among the nations.

3. For the greatnes of thy mercy reacheth unto the heauens: and thy truth unto the clouds.

4. Extal thy skell O Lord about the heauens: and let thy glory [be] about all the earth.

5. That thy beloved may be delivered: saue [me] both thy right hande, and heare thy fone.
The Lord hath spoken this in his holy places, he will shew them the valley of Shittim, and measure the valley of Sion.

Silead shall be mine, and Manasseh shall be mine: Ephraim also shall be the strength of my head, and Juda my right hand.

Violent shall be my vindictive: over Edom I will call my sword, (upon Philistia I will triumph.)

The argument of the cix. psalm.

David grievously complained before the face of God of his enemies malice and craft, he witheth them the horrible vengeance of God, uttering the cause why he doth witheth. He required of God help in his great manner, to this end, that both his enemies might well perceive that his help cometh from God's hand, and also that he may cease might praise God therefore.

To the chief musician, a psalm of David.

Hath not thy tongue: O thou the Lord of my praise.

For the mouth of the ungodly and the mouth of the deceitful is opened upon me: they have spoken against me with a false tongue.

And they have compassed me about with hateful words: and fought against me without a cause.

For the love that I bare unto them, they are become mine adversaries: but I have declared my faith unto prayer.

Thus have they rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my good will.

Set thou an ungodly man to be ruler over him: and let Satan stand at his right hand.

When sentence is given upon him, let him be condemned: and let his prayer be turned into a stone.

Let his days be seven: and let another take his office.

Let his children be fatherless: and his wife be a widow.

Let his children be vagabonds and go a begging: and let them fall out of their house, and be brought to barren ground.

Let the extortioner upbraid his house all that he hath: and let strangers spoile his labour.

Let there be no man to shew him any grief: nor to have compassion upon his fatherless children.

Let his posterity come to destruction: and in the next generation let his name be cleane put out.

Let the wickedness of his fathers be had in remembrance in the light of God: and let not the name of his mother be upbraid away.

Who will lead me into the strong citie: who will bring me into Edom?

Hast not thou removed us from the corner? and wilt thou not go out with our hoast?

Give us help against trouble: for the help of man is but vanity.

Through the Lord we do pass before the armies of our enemies.

Let them be all way before God: that he may root out the memorial of them from the earth.

Because that he remembered not to do good: but he persecuted the afflicted and poore man, and hym whose heart was broken with food, that he might take his life from hym.

His delight was in cursing, and it shall happen upon hym: he loved not to bless, therefore hath he ben fare for hym.

He clothed hym selfe with cursing, as with his girdment: and he had entered into his bowels like water, and like oyle into his bones.

Let it be into hym as the garment that he is wages in: and as the girdle that he is always girded withall.

Let this reward be from God his to mynes adversaries: and into this that speaketh evil against my soule.

But thou O Lord, do unto me according unto thy name: for thine is the mercy.

Deliver me, for truly I am afflicted: and I am poore, and my heart is wounded within me.

I passe away like a vading shadow: and I am opyen from place to place like the grassopper.

By thouns are deadeth through falling: my flesh is dyed by want of fatine.

The argument of the cxvi. psalme.

The prophet saith that he must needs love God, for that he heard him and delivered him out of wonderful extreme afflictions of death and hell. He acknowledgeth the benefits of God, and that he can give no reward for them but bare thanks when he is in the congregation, and in worshipping him all the days of his life.

1. Havinge louver: because God hath hearde my boce (and) my prayers. Because he hath enligned his care vnto me: therefore I will call vpon hym as long as I lyue.

17. I will walke before the face of God: in the lample of innocens.

The argument of the cxvij. psalme.

The prophet exhorteth the Gentiles to praise God, for that he hath extended his mercie vpon them in Christ, aswell as vpon the Jews.

O praise God alway heasten: praise hym all ye nations.

For his mercifull kyndnesse is ever more and more tobarde vs: and the truth of God endureth for ever.

The argument of the cxviii. Psalm.

David would have God praised and thanked, for that by his means only he was delivered from extreme perils, and made lying of that people, who with their lying had a little before persecuted him, reirect hym, and drove him out of the maine. He wyleth the priestes to sacrifice in remembrance therof.

A 1 1. Confesse you [as] into God, for he is gracious: and his mercie endureth for euer.

2. Let Israel nowe confesse: that his mercie endureth for euer.

3. Let the house of Aaron nowe confesse: that his mercie endureth for euer.

4. Let them nowe that fear God: confesse that his mercie endureth for euer.

5. I called upon the Lord being in dillese: and the Lord hath hearde me at large.

6. God is with me: I wyll not scare what man can do unto me.

B 7. God is with me amongst them that ayde me: [thereof] I shall see [my deere] upon them that hate me.

8. It is better to trust in God: then to put any confidence in man.

9. It is better to trust in God: then to put any confidence in princes.

10. All nations compassed me rounde about: but I trusted in the name of God that I shoulde destroy them.

11. They kepte me in on every lyde, they kepte me in lay on every lyde: but I trusted in the name of God that I should destroy them.

12. They swarmed about me like bees, and they were exstingued as the fire [made] of thomes: [for I trusted] in the name of God that I shoulde destroy the.

13. Thou hast shalfe soe at me, that I might fall: but God byd ayde me.

16. The ryght hande of God is on hygh: the ryght hande of God byngeth mightie thynges to passe.

17. I shall not [as ye] bype, but I shall line: and I wyll declare the worikes of the Lord.

18. The Lord hath greatly chastened me: but he hath not gaven me ouer into death.

19. Open me the gates of righteousnesse: I wyll enter in by them: that I may gene thanks into the Lord.

20. This is the gate of God: the ryghteous shal enter in by it.

21. I wyll "thank thee for that thou hast hearde me: and art become my salvation.

22. The same dowe which the bypwers refused: is become the head dowe of the corner.

23. This was the drynke of God: and it is maravellous in our eyes.

24. This is the day whence God hath made: we wyll rejoyce and be glad in it.

25. O God I pray thee nowe faue me: O God I pray thee nowe gene blessed be he that commeth in the name of God: we do believe you out of the house of God.

27. It is the Lord God who hath gaven his right: bynde a facrifice with todes into the houses of the anicter.

28. Thou art my Lorde, and I wyll confesse it unto thee: thou art my Lorde and I wyll magnifie thee.

The argument of the cxix. Psalm.

The prophete in this golden psalme, exprelth his earnest move inflamed with a zealous desire of Gods lawe: for that it is the light of man of all his dopenes, it greteth also perfect woldome and felicite to such as observe them. Wherefore he desirith God to open the eyes of his heart, that he may know, understand, leere, and in lyfe exprelse his holy commandementes. He exprelth his great grieue, in that he feeth them transgrett and contemned of the wold fote of men.

And I will lift up my handes unto thy commandements which I have loved: so my study shalbe in thy statutes.

Be my full of thy promise made unto thy covenant: wherein thou hast caused me to put my trust.

That same is my comfort in my affliction: for thy word maketh me to live.

The proud have had me exceedingly in derision: yet I have not shrinked from thy lawe.

I called to remembrethence thy judgements from the beginning of the world O God: and so I comforted my selfe.

An extreme unnatural heat hath assayed me: because of the bugody: who transfreteth thy lawe.

Thy facts have beene upon my longes: in the house of my pilgrimage.

I have thought upon thy name O God in the night season: and I have kept thy lawe.

This came to passe for me: because I kept thy commandements.

Thou art my portion O God: I have purposed to kepe thy lawe.

I made myne humble petition to thy face with my whole heart: be mercifull unto me according unto thy word.

I have considered mine owne ways: and I have turned my feets into thy testimonies.

I made halfe and I made no delay: so to kepe thy commandements.

The bugody have tangled me in their snares: but I have not forgotten thy lawe.

I will yse at midnight to confess mee unto thee: because of thy righteous judgementes.

I am a companion of all them that fear thee: and kepe thy commandements.

The earth O God is replenished with thy louing kindness: O teach mee thy statutes.

The argument of the cxlv. psalme.

David layth forth to be talked and sung of all ages the wonderful works of God, wherein is declared his goodness, mercifulness, power, and piouenice. God aught to ever, he appeth the oppossed and afflicted, he feedeth all creatures, he is tull and mercifull in all his works, he is present with thoes that call upon him and feare him: such he heareth and laueth, whereas he is trolith the wicked.

The prayse of David.

I will magnifie thec Lord my king: and I will blesse thy name for ever and ever.

2 I will blesse thee every day: and I will praise thy name for ever and ever.

3 Great is God and most worthy to be praised: and his greatness can not be searched out.

4 One generation shall praise thy works into another: and they shall declare thy mightie power.

5 I will set forth in words the glorious maiefic of thy excellencie: and thy wonderous works.

6 I will also declare thy greatness: to that men shall speake of the fote of thy terrible acts.

7 They shall better out of their mouth a memorail of thy boundamund kindnesse: and they shall sing of thy rightouesnesse.

8 God is gracious and mercifull: loth to be angry, and great in louing kindnesse.

9 God is good unto every man: and his mercie is over all his works.

10 All the works shall confess it unto thec God: and thy names shall blesse thee.

11 They shall shewe the gloire of thy king-the children of Israel, a peole that is most npe unto hym. Prayse ye the Lord.

A 1 Prayse ye the Lorde, sing unto God a newe song: he ought to be praysed in the congregation of saints.

2 Israel should rejoice in his maker: the children of Zion should be joyfull in their lyng.

3 They should prays and his name in a daunce: they should sing praysmes unto God upon a tabret and a harpe.

4 For God hath a pleasure in his people: he will beautifie the afflicted with lauination.

5 "The sauiors saide to God: they shall expresse a joyfull noysle in their beds.

6 The hight promotions of the Lorde be in their mouth: and a two edged sword in their hands.

7 That they may take auengement of the heathen: and correction of the nations.

8 That they may bynde their lynges in chaynes: and their nobles with iron fetters.

9 That they may execute the judgement prescribed: this honoure saiale to all his sauiors. Prayse ye the Lorde.

The argument of the, cl. psalme.

The prophete exhorted generally all hungry creatures to prayse the mightinesse and greatnesse of God. He wolleth men to do it with instruments of musitce.

A 1 Prayse ye the Lorde, prayse ye the Lorde in his sancturie: prayse ye him in the sterriment (n) of his power.

2 Prayse ye hym in his strength: prayse ye hym in his excellent greatnesse.

3 Prayse ye hym in the sounde of a trumpet: prayse ye hym upon a Lute and an Harpe.

4 Prayse ye hym with a tabret and a daunce: prayse ye him upon the fringes and upon the Oragnes.

5 Prayse hym upon the well tuned Cimbales: prayse ye hym upon the loude Cimbales.

6 But I have kept thy words in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee.
7 Pardon me for mine iniquity, and my offences; for mine iniquity is great.
8 *Let the words of thine mouth be a blessing, and not remembrance of me, when I am dead.
9 That thou givest to thy servant the wealth of thine house, and the strength of many years.
10 That other men be not filled with thy care, and that thy labours come not into a strange house.
11 Pea, that thou mourn not at the last, when thou hast spent thy body and lustie youth, and then say: 12 *Alas, why haste I nurture? why did I my heart dispute correction?
13 Wherefore was not I obdient unto the doye of my teachers, and heartened not unto them that enloured me:
14 *I was come almost into all mischief, in the middest of the multitude and congregation.
15 *Drink of the waters that spring out of thine owne house.
16 Let thy welles bowte out abode, that there may be rivers of waters in the streate:
17 But let them be only thine own, and not strangers with thee.
18 Let thy well be blessed, and be glad with the wyfe of thy youth.
19 Let her be as the springing hinde and pleasant Roe: let her breasts always satisfy thee, and holde thee ever content with her love.

20 Why
20. Why wilt thou my sonne have pleasure in a strange woman, and embrace the bosome of a stranger; for every mans vayes are open in the sight of the Lord, and he pondereth all their goynge.

22. The wickednes of the vngodly shall catch him selue, and with the sharres of his owne sinne shall he be trapped.

23. He shall dye without amendment, and for his great foolishes he shall go astray.

The vi. Chapter.

1. Instruction for seditives. 6 The mouthfull and sluggishe is stirred to worke; he discovereth the nature of the wicked. 16 The things that God hateth. 20 To observe the wordes of God. 14 To see cuntrie.

2. \( p. \) some * if thou be seditive for thy neighbour, and hast faftened thyne hande for another man:

Thou art bounde with thine owne wordes, and taken with thine owne speech.

3. Therefore my sonne do this, and thou shalt be dothcharge: when thou art come into thy neighbours daunger, go thy vayes sone thenoone, humble thy selfe, and with thy fraughte intreate [the * cromour.]

4. Let not thynge eyes sleepe, nor thynge eydes slumber.

5. Sature thy self as a Doe from the hand of the [hooter] and as a byde from the hande of the fouler.

6. Go to the ennet thou sluggarde, consider her vayes, and learn to be wyse:

7. She hath no guody, nor overseer, nor ruler.

8. Put in the sommer [be poute] her meate, and gathereth her foode together in the haruest.

9. *volye long wyly thou sleepe thon sluggishe man: when wyly thou art out of thine sleepe;

10. *volye sleepe on still a little, number a little, solde thyne handes together yet a little that thou mayest sleepe:

11. So haull poortes come unto thee as one that trauellith by the way, and necessitie like a weaponed man.

12. An vngodly person, a wicked man, goeth with a trobadore mouth.

13. He blinketh with his eyes, he taketh with his feete, he teareth with his faggers.

14. He is ever imaginings nuchishe and trobadores in his heart, and catteth disease.

15. Therefore shall his desstrution come happlie upon hym, sodainly shall he be all to broken, and not be healed.

16. *These are thinges doth the Lorde hate, and the seuenthe he vterly abhorreth:

17. A vroudke, a lyng tongue, handes that shet innocent blood,

18. An heart that goeth about wicked imaginations, * feete that be vnyt in running to nuchische,

19. A false witness that bringeth by eye, and hym that Lowell deceit among brethren.

20. By some, hepe thy fathers commaundement, and forsake not the laude of thy mother;

21. Eye them continually in thynge heart, and bynde them about thine necke.

22. That shall leave thee when thou goest, preserue thee when thou art asleep, and when thou awakes taketh with thee.

23. *For the commaundement is a lantern, and the laude a ligh: yea chastening and nurture is the way of life:

24. That they may hepe thee from the cupl woman, and from the flattering tongue of the strange woman.

25. Lust not after her beautie in thynge heart, lest thou be taken with her face lokes.

26. By an harlot (a man is brougt) to beg his head, and a Woman wyll hunte for the preious life of man.

27. May a man take fire in his bosome, and his clothes not be bented.

28. Who can one go upon hote coales, and his feete not be bented:

29. Even so, who soever goeth in to his neighbours wife and toucheth her, can not be vngate.

30. *Ben do not vterly despise a thiefe that stealeth to fanifie his house, when he is hungrie.

The
Doth not wisdom cry, and understanding put forth her voice?

She standeth in the top of high places, by the way in the place of the paths:

She crieth at the gates of the city, at the enter of the gates:

If thou perceivest her, thou shouldest kiss my true love:

Thus saith his wisdom, that loneth me, and encreaseth their treasures.

And of the wiser than her strength, and of the understanding, and of the fear of the Lord, and of the knowledge and understanding,

The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and knowledge is the excellent things of men:

Riches and honour are with me, and my fruit is better than gold and prenious stones, and fine ore than fine gold.

And the way of righteousness is the way of life, and the traveller thereon is the man that liveth, and hath long days for evermore.

That wisdom may enter into thine heart, and that understanding may dispose thine mouth, and that righteousness may be for thy way of life.

But the Lord knew me, and I taught him my children, and I perceived, and I am rejoicing for his people, and I am rejoicing for his work.

And the Lord said, There shall be peace, and there shall be peace, and I am rejoicing for his work, and I am rejoicing for his people.

14 The kynges displeasure is a messenger of death: but a wise man Wyll pacifie hym.

15 The chearfull countenaunce of the kyng is life: and his louing favour as a doule of the latter rayne.

16 To haue wilson in possession, is better then to haue golde: and to get understanding, is rather to be chosen then to haue fluer.

17 The path of the ryghteous is to Excel wyth euyl, and who so lookeith well to his lopes, kepeth his owne foule.

18 Wyde goeth before destruction, and an hygh mynde before the fall.

19 Better it is to be of humble mynde with the lobbly, she to undre the spoyles with the poude.

20 He that handeth a matter wisely obtayneth good: and blessed is he that putteth his trust in the Lordye.

21 Who so is wyse in heart, shall calle prudent: and the sweetenes of his lippes encrealeth learning.

22 Understanding is a well of lyfe unto hym that hath it: as for the challenging of foesith is but foolishness.

23 A wyse heart ordreth his mouth wisely, andunistreth learning unto his lippes.

24 Fayre wordes are an hony combt, a refreshing of the mynde, and healeth of the bones.

25 There is a way that men thynke to be ryght: but the ende thereof leadeth unto death.

26 A troublous soule dilquieteth her selfe, for her owne mouth hath brought her therto.

27 An ungodly persone striketh with euyl, and in his lippes he is as an hotte burrenyng hys.

28 A towarde body causteth strife: and he that is a blabbe of his tongue maketh deuision among princes.

29 A wicked man beguyleth his neyghbour, and leadeth hym into the way that is not good:

30 He shutteith his eyes to deal well; and mouth his lippes to byng euyl to passe.

31 Age is a crowne of worshiip, if she be founde in the day of ryghteousnes.

32 A patient man is beter the one strong; and he that can rule hym selfe, is more worth then he that Wynneth a citie.

33 The lottes are cast into the lappe: but the owberyng therof standeth all in the Lordye.

The xvij. Chapter.

6 Childers children are a crowne of the aged, and the fathers are the honour of the children.

7 Speache of authentye becommeth not a foole, much lesse a lyng mouth then bescamment a piante.

8 A gyft is as a precious stone unto hym that hath it: but unto hym issueth it upon him, it maketh hym bumble.

9 Who so couereth a fault, procureth love: but he that discloseth, bendeth very frendes.

10 One reproose more seere then a wise man, then an hundred stripes both a fool.

11 A sedition persone feketh gulchefe, and a cruel messengers solel sent a gaynt hym.

12 It were better to meete a wyse beare robbed
The xviij. Chapter.

Who so hath an earnest desire [to wisdom] he will seeketh him seale to sake it, and occupy him selfe in all studious, and founde doctrine.

A fool hath no delight in understanding: but only to taste the favours of his own heart.

When the ungodly commeth, then commeth also dissaflat and with the dishonest person commeth shame and dishonour.

The bodyes of a manes mouth are like deep wateres: and the well of wisdome is like a full streame.

It is not good to regard the person of the ungodly, to overcomowe the righteous in judgement.

A fooles lippes come with brawling, and his mouth provoketh into stripes.

A fools mouth is his owne destruction, and his lippes are the sharpe for his owne soul.

The bodyes of a slanderer are very wounding, and go through into the inward partes of the body.

Who is thought in his labours, is the brother of hym that is a wasted.

The name of the Lorde is a strong tale, the righteous runneth into it, and is in safegarde.

The riches mans goodes are his strong citie, and as an hygh wall in his owne concept.

Before destruction the heart of a man is poude: and before honour goeth humiliation.

A yule heart possesseth knowledge, (a prudent care) seeth his understanding.

A mans gift maketh an open way, to bring hym before great men.

The righteous declareth his owne caufe first hym selfe, and his neighbour commeth, and reproves hym.

The lot caufeth variance to cease, and parteth the mighty a funder.

Beareth beynge at variance are harder to be borne then a strong citie, and their contentions are like the barre of a casket.

A mans belly shalbe satisfied with the fruit of his owne mouth, and with the increase of his lippes shall he be filled.

Death and lyfe are in the instrument of the tongue, and they that loue it, shall eate
Pro. xxiii. 22. *Who so tendeth a wyse, tendeth a good thing: and recaueth savoure of the Loode.

23. The poore prayeth meekly: but the riches geneith a rough aumunche.

24. A man that wyll have frenede, must shelve hym selfe freely: and there is a frenede which is neerer then a brother.

The xix. Chapter.

1. Ette * is the poore that lyceth godly, then he that abuseth his lippes, and is a soole.
The desrve without discretion is not good;
but [88] a man which hasteth with his seete offendeth.

2. The stoutheheth of man parnereth his way: and his heart freche agaynst
the Loode.

3. Riches maketh many frenedes: but the poore is separated from his neighbour.
A false wittnesse shall not be unpun-ished: and he that speareth lyes shall not escape.

4. All the brethren of the poore do hate lym, pe his owne frenedes withhaue them liues from hym: and he that genehly reverence to wydes, geteth nothing.

5. He that is lyve toucheth his owne soule, and kepyth understanding, that he may prospert.

6. A false wittnesse shall not be unpun-ished: and he that speareth lyes shall periche.

7. Pleasure is not leemely for a soole:
much leesse for a bondman to have rule of princes.

8. A wye man can put of displeasure, and it is his honour to let some fautes passe.

9. The kynges displeasure is lyke the roaryng of a Lyon: but his favoure is lyke the deale wynt the geese.

10. An inaungere lambe is the beautifull of his father; and a bawling wyse is lyke the top of an house wherthoung it is ere dropping.

11. House and riches may a man have by the heritage of his sisters: but a dis-cree woman is the gift of the Loode.

12. The sympathy of a man that is rich, is more than the bones of a man that is poverte.

13. A man that is soule is soule of his soule: and every man forgettest his soule.

14. The wyse man to knowe what is good, is soule: and a man that knoweth what is good, is soule.

15. Slouthehethes bepyngeth sleeepe, and a soule accluethed with craft, shall suffer hunger.

16. Who so tendeth the commandement, kepyth his owne soule: but he that regardeheth not his wydes, shall dye.

17. He that bath pite upon the poore, tendeth unto the Loode: and take what he layeth out, it shalbe payde hym agayne.

18. Chasteth thy sonne while there is hope:
and let not thy soule spare for his crying.

19. A man of great Wyatth shall suffer pu-imnent: and though thou [once] de-hyner hym, thou must do it agayne.

20. O gene care vnto good counteplar, and be content to be forsonned, that thou mayest be wyse in the latter bydes.

21. There are many beules in amans heart: nevertheless, the counsale of the Loode shall stande.

22. It is a mans wythth to do good: and a poore man is better then a lyer.

23. The feare of the Loode [bringeth a man] to lyke: and he shall rest the whole night in plentifulis not without oblivation of any plague.

24. A slouthshill man shuteth his hands into his bosomme, and wyll not take payne to put it to his mouth.

25. If thou liuyst a soonefull perlon, the ignoamunt shal take better heed:
and if thou repouzet one that hath understanding, he wyll be the wyser.

26. He that shuteth his father of shuteth out his mother, is a shamefull and an vandousty sonne.

27. By some here no more the doctrine that leadeth thee into erroses from the wordes of understanding.

28. A Wicked Wittnesse mocketh judgment: and the mouth of the bugody
"devoureth\vithcheuene.

29. Judgementes are ozdyped for the soonefull, and stripes for fooutes batters.
The xx. Chapter.

The children of the unrighteous man which walketh uprightly, shall be blessed after him.

A lying tongue that speaketh in the thick of judgment, a slacker away all envy with his looke.

Who can say, I have made my heart clean, I am pure from [my] sinne?

Two manner of weightes, or two manner of measures, both these are abomination unto the Lord.

A reproach is known by his conversation, whether his workes be pure and right.

The care to heare, the eye to see: the Lord hath made them both.

Lowe not slye, lest thou come into pestilence: open thine eyes, that thou mayest have bread enough.

It is naught, it is naught (saith he that speaketh): but when he cometh to his owne house, then he boasteth of his petty worth.

There is golde, and a multitude of precious stones: but the lipses of knowledge are a precious bievell.

Lace his garment that is surete for a stranger: and take a pledge of him for the unknouen sake.

Any man lieth the bread that is gotten with deceit: but at the last his mouth shall be filled with gruen.

Thou sayest counsall, the things that men do else are made strong: and with good advice take warre in hand.

The craftie deceiptfull be thy soyle and deceit counsall: therefore meddle not with hym that flattereth with his lips.

Who do curseth his father and mother, his light shall put out in the depth of darkness.

The heritage that commeth hastily at the field, shall not be blessed at the end.

Say not thou, I will recompence euill: but put thy trust in the Lord, and he shall deliver thee.

Dyers dyedges are an abomination into the Lord, and a false balance is not good.

The Lord ordreth every mans goinges: how can a man then understand his owne way?

It is a snare for a man to devour that where is sould, and after the avolue to make inquiure.

A boyle lyking disperseth the vpongly, and bringeth the white under them.

The lanterne of the Lord is the breath of man, searching all the inward parts of the body.

Pity and truth be precious to the king, and with loving kindnes his face is holden vp.

The strength of young men is their worship, and a gray head is an honour unto the aged.

Blewe wounds be easy away euill, and stripes in the inbound parts of the body.
he lynges heart is in the hand of the Lord, lyke as are the river of water, he may turne it wherther soever he will.
Every mans way seemeth right in his owne eyes: but the Lorde pondereth the heart.
16 The man that wandereth out of the way of wypdome, shall remaine in the congregation of the dead.
17 He that hath pleasure in vankettes thabe a poore man: and who do delight in wine and dublettles, shall not be riche.
18 The vngodly shalbe a raunbome for the righteousness: and the wicked for the lust.
19 It is better to dwell in the wypdenete, then with a chying pig: and an angry woman.
20 In a vsie mans house there is a great treasure and dylke: but a fooliche body spendeth by all.
21 Who so foloweth righteousness and merry, findeth both life, righteousness, and honour.
22 A vsie man skaleth the citty of the nightie, & overwolde the strength wheren they trusted.
23 Who so kepeth his mouth and his tongue, the same kepeth his loue from troubles.
24 He that is proud and arrogante, is cated a corner, which he in his wrath vowseth presumtiously.
25 The desire of the hotsuemfull causeth him: for his handes wyl not labour.
26 He counteth greedyly all day long:
but the righteous generly and parcely not.
27 The face of the vngodly is abomination: "howe muche more when they offre the thing that is gotten with vycenentesse;"
28 *A false witnesse shall persue: but[a good] man speaketh constantly what he hath hearde.
29 An vngodly man hardeneth his face:
but the fults reformeneth his owne way.
30 *There is no wpdome, there is no understanding, there is no coumtayle ag again the Lorde.

The xxj. Chapter.
Chapter.

The xxii. Chapter.

Good name is more to be desired than great riches: and loving favour is better than silver and gold.

The rich and poor meet together: the Lord is the maker of them all.

A wise man feeth the plague, and hy- bel thy soul: but the foolish go on till, and are punished.

By humility and the fear of the Lord, riches, honour, and life.

Thieves and snares are in the way of the foolhardy: but he that kepeth his soul, will see farce from them.

Cease a childe what way he should go: he shall not leave it when he is old.

The ruleth the poor, and the borrower is servant to the lender.

He that soweth wickedness, shall reap wickedness: and the rodde of his anger shall fail.

He that hath a bountifull eye, shall be blessed: for he g_Des of his bread to the poor.

Call out the house of man, and to that arise, and with hym: ye varianceme and clamour shall cease.

Who so loneth cleannes of heart, for the grace of his lippes the hegth shall be his friend.

The eyes of the Lord prefer reasonable knowledge, and he overthoweth the woorde of the transgressors.

The bountifull body of faith there is a Lord without: I might be blame in the great.

"The mouth of strange women is a deep pit: wherin he faileth that the Lord is angrye withall.

Foodliness is bounde in the heart of the childe: and the rodde of correction shall drive it away.

Who so doth a poore man wrong, to increafe his owne riches and greate the childe, at the last commeth to pouer's hym selfe.

Wode downe thyne care, and hearre the wordes of the wise: appil thy mind into my doctrine:

For it is a pleasant thing if thou kepe them in thy heart, and ordre them in thy lippes:

That thou mayest put thy trust in the Loide, I have shewed thee this day the thing that is good.

Have not I warned thee, very oft with coumpaile and learning.

That I might make thee knowe the truth, that thou with the verite mightest annuclide them that sende unto thee.

No not the poore, because he is poore: and oppresse not the simple in judgement:

For the Lord him selfe will defend thee in ane, and do violence unto them that have beene violence.

Make no frindship with an angrye wyffull man, and walke not with the furious:

Left thou learnes his wares, and revenge hurt to thy soule.

Be not thou one of them that bindeth their handes upon promises, and are sure.

For if thou shalt nothing to pay, they shall take away thy bed from under thee.

Thou shalt not remove the ancient lande marke, whiche thy forefathers have set.

doth not that they which be diligent in their businesse stand before kings, & not among the simple people:

5 But see thou thy selfe in the presence of the king, and yeasse not into the place of great men: 17 Whoso heareth false wittnesse against his neighbour, he is a very club, a sword, and a sharp arrow.

6 For it is he that it be lade vnto thee, conte by myther: then thou to be put lower in the presence of the prince whom thou seest with thine eyes. 18 The confidence that is put in an unfaithfull man in tyme of trouble, is like a broken tooth, and a slinding stone.

7 Be not haste to go to lawe: lest haply thou knowest not what to do when thy neighbour hath confounded thee. 19 Whoso taketh away a mans garnement in the cold weather, is like begging upon hyme, or lyke hym that singeth longues to an heaine heart.

8 Handle thy matter with thy neighbour hinselde, and discover not thy secrete to another: 20 If thy enemie hunger, feede hym, if he thridt, give him drinke:

9 Lest he that heareth it put thee to shame, and thy insatiable do not ceaseth. 21 For so shall thou haue rules of fire upon his head, and the Loode shall regard be hee.

10 A word spoken in due season, is lyke apples of golde in a greaude woorke of silver. 22 The northwande doth away the rapte: even to both an angry countenance a backbiters tongue.

11 Who so repoussheth a wyple man that hath an obedient eare, is as a golden earring, and an ornament of fine golde. 23 It is better to sit in a corner upon the house toppe, then with a hauling woman in a wide house.

12 As the cold of snowde in the tyme of haruest: so is a faithfull messenger to them that sende hym, for he receieth his masters upbunde. 24 Good neses from a strange country, are as cold water to a thirsty soule.

13 Whoso maketh great boastes and generally nothing, is lyke cloudes and wunde without rayne. 25 A righteouse man falling downe befor the ungodly, is like a troubled vet, and a spring that is corrupted.

14 With patience is a prince pacified, and with a lorde tongue is rigoulesly brooken. 26 As it is not good to eate to muche hony, so curiously to searche the glory of heavenly thinges, is not commendable.

THE words of Agur, the sonne of Jake:

1 And the prophete that the same man spake unto Ithiel, even unto Ithiel and Uchal.

2 Truly I am more foolish than any man, and have not mans understanding.

3 I never learned wisdom, noz had knowledge of holy thynges.

4 Who hath clowned up into heaven, and come downe from hence? Who hath held the lyvre fast in his hande? Who hath gathered together the waters in a garment? Who hath established all the endes of the worlde: What is his name, and what is his names name, if thou canst tell.

5 Every word of God is pure: he is a shield unto all them that put their trust in hym.

6 Put thou nothing unto his wordes, lest he reprovye thee, and thou be found a lyar.

7 Two thynges haue I required of thee, deny me them not before I dye:

8 Remove farre from me banitte and lyues, give me neither pocterie nor riches, only graunt me a necessary lyving:

9 Let peradventure I beying full, shoulde deny thee, and say, Who is the Lorde? or beying oppressed with pocterie fall to straunging, and foildere the name of my God.

10 Accuse not a seruantaunt unto his master, lest he speake cuyl of thee, and thou be hurt.

11 There is a generation that curseth their father, and doth not blesse their mother.

12 There is a generation that thinke them selues cleane, and yet is not cleansed from their filthinesse.

13 There is a generation that hath a pounde loke, and doth call by their eyes lyddes.

14 There is a generation whose teeth are as abodes, and theire chalves as knyues, to devour the poore from of the earth, and the needy from among men.

15 The houlde leache hath two daughters crying: baying hyther, baying hyther.

16 The graine, the barren wombe, and the earth that hath never water enough; as for it faith, never houe.

17 Who so laughter his father to some, and letter his mothers commandement at naught, the raucers of the valleie picote out his eyes, and denouer be of the young Egles.

18 There be three thynges which are wonderfull to me, yeare suche which passe my understanding:

19 The way of an Egge in the aye, the way of a serpent upon a stone, the way of a ship in the middest of the sea, the way of a man with a young woman.

20 Such is the way alfo of a lyple that beareth wedlocke, which byppeth her mouth [like as] when the hart eare, and faith, as for me I have done no wickednesse.

21 For these thynges the earth is disquited, and the fourth may it not abyde.

22 A seruantaunt that hearth rule, a soole that is full seede,

23 A spightfull woman when she is married, and an handynayde that is heire to her maiftresse.

24 These be four thynges in the earth, the which are very litle, but in wilde, they exceede the lyple:

25 The enuntts are [but] a weake people, *which yet gather their meate in the sommer:

26 The conies are but a feeble folk, yet make their "bourgothes among the rockes:

27 The grasshoppers have not a "guide, yet go they sooth together by heares:

28 The hyper laboureth with her handes, and is in lyunges palaces, 29 There be these thynges that go well, yeare suche are come in going.

30 A lion which is stronge among beastes, and shunneth not at the sight of any:

31 A gr parachute strong in the hynder parts, a ramme also, and a king against whom no man arysth by.

32 If thou hast done foolishly when thou wait.
of Solomon.

The xxxj. Chapter.

The words of king Solomon, and the lesson that his mother taught him.

What my sonne: What the sonne of my body, and what shall be beloved sonne:

Genne not over thy strength & wavyes unto women, which are the destraction even of kynges.

And Lamuel, it is not for kynges, it is not for kynges to drinke wine, nor sauces strong drynke.

Let them by drinking forget the law, and pervert the judgement of all poor mens children.

Genne strong drynke unto such as are red to prisse, and wine unto those that mourn:

That they may drink it, and forget their misery and adversitie.

Be thou an advocate for the dunite, to speake in the caufe of all such as be miscarried in this transitorie world.

Open thy mouth, defende the thyng, that is lawfull and right, and the caufe of the poor and helpelesse.

Who so syneth an honest faithfull woman, she is much more worth than prates.

The heart of her husband may safely trust in her, for she shall fall into no pouterie.

She will do hym good, and not evil, all the dayes of her life.

She occupieth wooll and flaxe, and laboureth gladly with her handes.

She is like a marchantes ship, that bringeth her butter and she that rubbeth his nose, maketh it bleene: even so he that scorneth wrath, bringeth southe stone.

She planteth a vinearde.

She gredeth her lynpes with strength, and incorporateth her armes.

And of the pecesse that her husbandie doth good, her candell goeth not out by night.

She layeth her fingers to the spindles, and her hande taketh hold of the distaffe.

She openeth her hande to the poore, yea she stretcheth forth her handes to such as have neede.

She feareth not that, the colde of her hande shall hurt her houghthold, for all her houghthold solakes are clothed with scarlet.

She maketh herself faire ornementes, her clothynge is white lyke and purple.

Her husbande is much bett in the gates, when he seeth among the rulers of the lande.

She maketh cloth of lyke, and felteh it: and belongeth gredes unto the marshaun.

Strength and honoure is her clothing, and in the latter day she shall reioper.

She openeth her mouth with wisdom, and in her tongue is the labyt of grace.

She taketh well to the wayes of her houghthold: and eateth not her head with idlenesse.

Her children arise by her call her blessed: and her husbande shall make much of her.

Many daughters there be that gather riches together: but thou goest about them all.

As for favour it is deceitfull, a bausite is a bayne thyng: but a woman that searcheth the Lorde, she love pryeple.

She gree th of the fruit of her handes: and let her owne woakes pizele her in the gates.

The ende of the proverbes of Solomon.
The booke of the preacher, otherwise called Ecclesiastes, which is Solomon the king.

The first Chapter.

2 All things in this world are full of vanity and of none indurance. 3 All many wisdom is but folly and griefe.

he words of the preacher or some of David king of Hierusalem.
(1) All is but most vanity vanity with the preacher, all is most vanity (I say) and but playne vanity.

For what els hath a man of all the labour that he taketh under the sune;

The ynde goeth towarde the south and turneth into the north, setteth his compass about, whereto about, and goeth south, and returneth agayne to his circuits from whence he dyd come.

All fluddes runne into the sea, and yet is the sea ete it selfe not filled: For looke ynto what place the waters runne, thence they come to holde agayne.

All thnges are so harde to knowen, that no man can expresse them: The eye is not satisfied with sight, the eare is not satisfied with hearping.

The thing that hath ben,commeth to passe agayne, and the thing that hath ben done, shalbe done agayne: There is no newe thing under the sune.

As there any thing wherof it may be luyde, is this is newe: for it was long ago in the sunes that haue ben before us.

11 The thing that is past is out of recollection: even so the things that are for to come, that no more be thought upon among them that come after.

12 If my selle the preacher was lyng of Israel at Hierusalem,

And dyd appuye my mynde to take out C a searcue for knowledge of all thnges that are done under heauen: (b) Such transouple and labour hath God gotten int the children of men, to exceed them selues therein.

13 Thus have I considered all these thnges that come to passe under the sune: and lo, they are all but vanity and beration of mynde.

(b) The crooked cannot be made straight, nor the imperfect of thnges can be numid.

16 I communed with myne owne heart, saying: lo I am come to great estate, and haue gotten more wisedome then all they that haue ben before me in Hierusalem.

17 Pea, my hynde had great experience of wisedome & knowledge: for thevbd I applie my mynde, that I myght knowe what were wisedome and understanding, what were error and foolishnesse: and I perceaved that this was also but a beration of mynde.

18 For where much wisedome is, there is also great transouple and disquietude: and the more knowledge a man hath, the more is his care.
Pleasures, sumptuous buildynge, riches, and possession, are but vanity. 14 The wife and the soole have both one ende touching the bodily death.

Then sayde I thus in my heart: Powre go to, (1) I will take myne ease, and have good payes: But to, that is vanity also.

Insomuch that I hate unto the man genen to laughter, thou art madam to mirth, what doest thou?

So I thought in my heart to give my selfe unto wine, and agayne to apply my mynde unto wil dome, and to comprehend foolishnesse: untyll the tyme that among all the thynges which are under the sunne, I myght see what were best for men to do so long as they live under heauen.

(5) I made gorgious faire worke: I builded my houses, and planted vineyards.

I made me orchardes and gardens of pleasure, and planted trees in them of all manner of frutes. I made pooles of water, to water the grene and fruittfull trees withall.

I bought fewe, and many pices of lande: I haue provided me men fingerers and women fingeres, and the delites of the somes of men, as a woman taken captive, and women taken captives.

And I was great and in more woorde then all my predecessors in hierusalem: For wil dome remayned with me.

And take whatsoever myne eyes desier, Let them haue it: and wherin Soever my heart desiered or had any pleasure, I wouldbe it from it: Thus my heart recoverd in all that I did, and this was my portion of all my travaile.

But when I considered all the worke that my handes had wrought, and all the labour that I had taken there in, all was but vanity and vexation of mynde, and nothing of any value under the sunne.

13 Then turned I me to consider wil dome, error, and foolishnesse: for what is he among men that myght be comparde to me the kyng in such worke? 13 And I hate that wil dome excelleth foolishnesse, as farre as light doth darknesse.

14 For a wise man hath his eyes in his head, but the soole goeth in darkness: I perceived also that they both had one ende.

15 Then thought I in my mynde, ye it happen into the soole as it doth into me, what needeth me then to laboure any more for wil dome: So I confesse within my heart that this also was but vanity.

16 For the wise are euer aslable in rememberance as the foolish: for the dayes shall come: When all shall be forgotten: ye the wise man dyeth as well as the soole.

17 Thus began I to be weere of my life: insomuch that I could alwaye with nothing that is done under the sunne: for all was but vanity and vexation of mynde.

18 But I was weere of my laboure which I had taken under the sunne, because I shoule be payne to leaue them unto another man that commeth after me:

19 And who knoweth whether he shall be a wise man or a soole: And yet shall he be loode of all my laboure which I with such wil dome have taken under the sunne: This is also a byne thyng.

20 So I turned me to refrayne my mynde from all such travaile as I toke under the sunne.

21 Forsomuch as a man shoule weere hym selfe with wil dome, with understanding and opportunitie, and yet be payne to leaue his laboure unto another that never useat for them: This is also a byne thyng and great miserie.

22 For what getheth a man of all the laboure and travaile of his mynde that he taketh under the sunne?

23 But heauenesse, forsooke, and disquietness all the dayes of his life: Insomuch that that his heart can not rest in the night: This is also a bayne thyng.

24. If it be not better then for a man to becote and drikynke, and his soule to be murky in his laboure: yea I saye that this also was a gift of God.

25. For who wille eat or go more lustyly to his bozte then I?

26. And why? God geouth to the man that is good before hyrn, widsome, understandyng, and gnderncte: but unto the smer he geouth Weerincette, that he may gather and heape together the thyng that afterwades shalbe geuen unto hyrne whom it pleareth God. This is nowe a bayne thyng, yea a very disquietenesse and vexation of mynde.

The iii. Chapter.

1. All thynges have their tyme, 14. The worke of God are perfect, and caste to to scare hym. 17. God shall judge both the fult an burnell.

2. Very thyng hath a tyme, yea all that is under the heane hath his evenuent seasure.

There is a tyme to be boyn, and a tyme to bye: there is a tyme to plante, and a tyme to plucke vp the thyng that is planted.

3. A tyme to lay, and a tyme to make whole: a tyme to brake downe, and a tyme to build vp.

4. A tyme to wepe, and a tyme to laugh: a tyme to mourn, and a tyme to daunce.

5. A tyme to cast away stONES, and a tyme to gather stONES together: A tyme to imbaze, and a tyme to refrayne from unbaizeynge.

6. A tyme to vpynce, and a tyme to lose: A tyme to spere, and a tyme to spende.

7. A tyme to cut in piecso, and a tyme to solwe together: A tyme to kepe silence, and a tyme to speake.

8. A tyme to loue, and a tyme to hate: A tyme of warre, and a tyme of peace.

9. What hath a man els that dooth any thyng, but Weerincette and laboure: 20. For as touching the treacle and carfynesse which God hath geuen vs to men, I se that he hath geuen it them to be exercised in.

10. All this hath he ordyned marccious goodyly, to every thyng his due thyng: He hath planted ignouance also in the heartes of men, that they shoulde not compresse the ground of his bookes which he doth from the begyning to the ende.

11. So I perceaueth that in those thynges there is nothing bettcr for a man then to be nery, and to do well as long as he lyneth.

12. (b) as it is to the blissing of God to do suche thinges habitley: so is it so in the blest to refecch hym himely the fineties in many partes. Of bothe thinges that conneect hym faile to have called largely, and to saue happy heretery.
of the preacher.

The iii. Chapter.

1 Therein are oppressed. 4 Men's labours are full of abuse and vanity. 10 A young man poor and wise, it is to be preferred before an old

1 man to converse with them, or that would bring them and defend them from the violence of their oppressors. 2 Therefore I judged those who are dead, to be more happy then those that be alive: 3 A hymn that is yet unborn, to be better at all then they both: because he feel not the miserable wares that are done under the same. 4 Agayne, I faie that all trauayle and diligence of labour that every man taketh in hand, was done of envy and against his neighbour: This is also a barren thing, and a vexation of mynde.

5 The fool foldeth his hands together, and eateth by his own fether. 6 One handfull [faih he] is better with rest, then both the handfulls full with labour and trauayle of mynde.

7 But I turned me, and beholde yet another vanity under the same: 8 There is one man, no mo but hym selfe alone, hauing neither childe nor brother, yet is there no ende of his carefull trauayle, his eyes can not be satisfied with riches; [yet faih he not] for whom do I take such trauayle? For whose pleasure do I thus consume away my life: This is also a barren and miserable thing.

9 Therefore two are better then one, for they may well enjoy the profit of their labour: For if one of them fall, his companion helps him by agayne. 10 But who is hym that is alone: for if he fall, he hath not another to help him by. 11 Agayne when two sleepe together, they are warmer: but hoide can a body be warmer alone? 12 One may be overcome, but two may make restancse: A three folde gable is not lightly broken. 13 A poore childe being wise, is better then an olde king that doteth, and can not deliberate in tyme to come. 14 Some one commeth out of prison, and is made a king and another which is born in the kingdom, commeth but to povertie.

15 And I perceaved that all men hymning under the same: Go with the second childe that shall stand by in the face of the other. 16 As for those people that have ben before hym, and that come after hym, they are innumerable, and they that come after hym shall not recopie of hym: This is also a barren thing, and vexation of mynde.

17 When thou commest into the house of God, keep thy foote and deine yee, that God which is at hand may see that thou gue not the offervyngs of sooles: for they knowe naught but to do euill.

The vi. Chapter.

1 Not to speak lightly, chiefly in Gods matters. 2 The courtesies can never have enough. 11 The laboures sleepe is sweeter. 14 Man when he dureth taketh noything with hym. 18 To live joyfully and with a contented mynde, is the gift of God.

B 2 not hastily with thy mouth, and let not thine heart speake any thing rashly before God: For God is in heaven, and thou lyest on earth, therefore let thy words be seuer.

3 If thou make a boyle unto God, be not slacke to perfoune it: As for foolish boyles he hath no pleasure in them: pf thou promis any thing, pay it. 4 For better it is that thou make no boyle, then that thou shouldest promise and not pay.

5 Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy selue

Deu.xxii.11 Barm.c. 4 I say not to boole thy things, the things of God, for which are no cause to per. 4

Deu.xxii.11 Barm.c. 4 I say not to boole thy things, the things of God, for which are no cause to per. 4

is the so to *hune, neither say thou before the angel that it is thy ignorance: for then God will be angry at thy voice, and destroy all the work of thy hands.

6 And why: whereas are many dreams and many words, there are also divers vanities: but loke that thou fear God.

7 If thou feest the people to be oppressed, and willingly dealt withall, so that equity and right of the labbe is vexed in the lande, manyplee not then at such a thing: for he that is *higger then the highest regardeth, and there be higger then they.

8 *The increase of the earth veboldeth all thing: yea the yng hyncliffe is manufactured by husbandp.

9 He that loueth money, will never be satisfied with money: and he that loueth riches, alwaie without the sene thereof: This is also a filey thyng.

10 Whereas much riches there are many also that spendeth them: And what pleasure more hath he that posseseth them, sauing that he may take upon them with his eyes:

11 A labouring man sleepeeth sweety whether it be little or much that he eateth: but the abundance of the yng will not suffer hym to sleepe.

12 Pet is there a filey plague which I have scene under the sunne [namely] riches kepe to the hurt of hym that hath them in possession:

13 For of tyne they persweth with his great miserie and trouble: and if he have a childe, it geteth nothing.

14 Lyke as he came naked out of his mothers wombe, so goeth he thynke agayne, and carneth nothing alway with hym of all his labour.

15 This is a miserieable plague, that he shall goe even as he came away: what helpeth it hym then that he hath laboured in the ynde?

16 All the dayes of his lyfe also he laborte at ease in the daie, with great carefulle, sikerlyke, and soode.

17 Therefore me thinketh it a better and a faire thing, a man to eate and to drink, and to be refresheth of all his labour that he taketh under the sunne, all the dayes of his lyfe which God giveth hym: for this is his portion.

18 For unto whomsoever God giveth riches, goodes, and power, he giveth it hym to empo, to take it for his position, and to be refreshed of his labour: this is the gift of God.

19 For he thinketh not much hode long he shall yng, forasmuch as God willeth his heart with gladasure.

The booke.

The miserable estate of hym to whom God hath given riches, and not the grace to bise them.

1 There is yet a plague under the sunne, and it is a genereall thyng among men: when God giveth a man riches, goodes, and honour, so that he wanteth nothing of all that his heart can desire, and yet God giveth hym not leue to enjoy the same, but another man spendeth them: This is a filey thyng and a miserable plague.

2 If a man beget a hundred children, and bye many peres, so that his dayes are many in number, and yet can not enjoy his good, neither be byed: as for hym I lay, that byynych birth is better then he.

3 For he commeth to nought, *spendeth his tyne in darknesse, and his name is forgotten.

4 Therefore he seeketh not the sunne, and knoweth not of it: and yet hath he more rest then the other.

5 Pea, though he ipset two thousand peres, yet hath he no good lyke: Come not all to one place:

6 All the labour that a man taketh is for hym *liffe, and yet his desire is never yffled after his mynde.

7 What hast thou more then the foole? what helpeth it the poore that he knoweth to walke with foole before the lyng:

8 The clear light of the eye is better then that the soule shoulde walke after devises of the lust: holdweth this is also a filey thyng, and a disquietedness of mynde.

9 The thyng that hast ben, is named alrely,
Divers precepts to follow which is good, and to avoid the contrary.

14. The well the type of prosperity, and remember the type of misfortune: for God both doth temper the one and the other, that a man (a) can finde nothing els.

15. All things have I considered in the time of my vanity: that the (b) last man perisheth for his righteousness sake, & the vngodly lusteth in his wickedness.

16. Therefore be thou neither to righteous (c) nor to wyses, that thou perish not.

17. (d) Be neither to rightousnesse also nor to foolishe, lest thou die before the time.

18. It is good for thee to (e) take holde of this, and not to let that go out of thy hande: for he that seareth God, cometh forth with them all.

19. Wysome geneth more courage into the wysle, then ten nighte men of the cite.

20. (f) For there is not one suck upon earth that both good, and kinde not.

21. Take no heede into every word that is spoken, lest thou heare thy servaunt curse thee: for the whole heart knoweth that thou thy self hast oftentimes spoken evil by other men.

22. All these things have I proved in Wysome, for I thought to be Wysle, but he went farther fro me then she was before: yea and so depe, that I might not reache unto her.

23. I applied my minde also to wyses knowledge, and to seek and search out science, Wysome, and understanding, to knowe the foolishnesse of the vngodly, and the error of doing woles.

24. And I founde that a woman is beter then death, the which halest abode her heart as a net that men fish with, and her handes are chapes:

(a) What so man can finde foolish God doth escape it.

(b) Denying them the least occasions for the innocent to death, spare the blest.

(c) Follow not the good examples in those things which be contrary to Gods commandements, and purpose not every light fault with res remissum.

(d) Be not wise in those same conceits.

(e) Spare not brethren from hurt that is violent.

(f) The heart of wise men adumbrations.

(g) Notwithstanding.

(h) Par.xvi. 5. Prou.xx.vi. 1 John.i.d.

(f) Lxxviii.c

Becoushe woman is entraped only by the grace of God.
To obey princes and magistrates. 17 The works of God passe man's knowledge.

25 Behold (safly the preacher) this have I diligently searched out and pondered: One thing must be considered with another, that a man may come by knowledge, which as yet I seek, and finde it not.

26 Among a thousande men I have founde one: but (c) not one woman among all.

27 Lo this only have I founde, that God made man iust and right: (c) but they bought many inentiones.

1 The viij. Chapter.

1 To obey princes and magistrates. 17 The works of God passe man's knowledge.

A 1

Vho is wise: who hath knowledge to make an aunswere? A man wise Wyldeborne make keth his face to shine: but unhamoffullnes putteth it out of fa dour.

2 Kepe the kynges commandement, namely for the oth that thou hast made into God for the fame.

3 (b) Be not hauie to go out of his surg, and see thou continuelo in no enuyll thing: for whassoever it pleasaunt hym, that doth he.

4 Like as when a king geteth a charge, his commandement is mightie. Even so, (b) who may lay into hym, what doeth thou?

5 (a) who so kepeth the commandement, shall beeste to hauie: but a wyde mans heart differeth the tyne and judgement.

6 For every thing Wylly have opportunitie and judgment: and this is the thing that maketh men full of carefulnessse and souldere.

7 And why? a man knoweth not what is for to come: for who can tell hym when it shalbe?

8 Neither is there any man that hath power over the spirite to kepe shill the spirite, nor to haue any power in the tyne of death, nor that can make an ende of the battaile, either may Wyldeborne deliuer them that meddle withall.

9 All these things have I considerd, and applied my minde into every worke that is under the summe, howe one man hath lordship upon another to (c) his owne baime.

10 For I have seene often the bugodly bought to their graues, (b) and yet they have returned into the cite agayn: and (c) came from the place of holy men, whiche in the cite were graven out of memorie, as were those also that lived well: This is also a bayne thing.

11 (b) Because no dyre that enuyll worke are not hathly punished, the heart of man geuet hym selue oute into wic dednesse.

12 Because an enuyll person offendeth an hundred tymes, and God deserveth getting hym long life, therefore am I sure that it shal goe well with them that fear God, whiche have hym before their esyes.

13 Again,B for the bugodly it shal not be well with hym, neither shall he prolong his bates: but even as a shadwode, so shal he be that feareth not God.

14 Yet is there a vanitie upon earth: (c) There be inst men into Whom it happeneth as though they had the Wokses of the bugodly: Againe,there be bugodly, with Whom it goeth as though they had the Wokses of the royallous: This haue I called also a bayne thing.

15 Therefore I commendede gladnesse, because a man hath no beter thing under the summe, then to eate and drinke, and to be merry; (b) for that shal he haue of his labour, at the bates of his life which God geueth hym under the summe.

16 And so I applied my minde to leve Wyldeborne, and to knowe the travaile that is in the Wode, and that of such a fashione, that I suffered not myne eues to sleepe neither day nor night.

17 I understeode of all the Wokses of God, but it is not possible for a man to attayn into the Wokses that are done under the summe: and though he beslowe his labour to seeke them out, yet can he not erach into them: ne though a wyde man would undertake to know them, yet shal he not finde them.

Of the preacher.

By no outward thing can man know whom God loveth or hateth. 11 No man knoweth his end. 12 Whoso possesseth, possesseth.

1. Of all these things, purposed I in my mind to seek out: The righteous, 2 the wise, and their scribes: also are in the hand of God; and there is no man that knoweth either love or hate, but all things are before God.

2. It happeneth unto one as unto another: it goeth with the righteous as with the ungodly; 3 with the good and the clean, as with the wicked and the unclean; with him that offereth, as with him that offereth not: like as it goeth with the vertuous, so goeth it also with the sinner: as it happeneth unto the parricide, so happeneth it also to him that is as much to be feared.

3. Among all things that come to passe under the sun, this is a matter, that it happeneth unto all alike: This is the cause also that the hearts of men are full of wickedness, and madde foolishness is in their hearts as long as they live, but all they dye.

4. And why as long as a man liveth, he hath an hope: for a quicke dogge [say they] is better then a dead lion.

5. For they that be living knowe that they shall dye: but they that be dead knowe nothing, neither deferue they any more, for their memoriall is forgotten.

6. Also their love, and their hatred, and their enime is like sufch, neither have they any more part in the worde in all that is done under the sun.

7. (So thou thy way, and eate thy bread with joy, and drinke thy wine with a glad heart, for thy vessels please god: Let thy garments be alwayes white, and let thy head lache no ornament.

8. The thy selfe to live joyfully with thy wife whom thou lovest all the dapes of thy life which is but vayne, that God generally thee under the sunne all the dapes of thy vanite: for that is thy portion in this life of al thy labour and travaile that thou takest under the sunne.

9. Whosoever thou takest in hande to do, that doeth with al thy power: for in the grante that thou goest [unto] there is neither work, countayle, knowledge, nor lybdom.

10. So I turned me unto other things under the sun, and I said that in running it helpeth not to be swift, in battell it helpeth not to be strong, to seeking it helpeth not to be lytle, to riches it helpeth not to be a man of muche understanding, to be had in fauer it helpeth not to be running: but that all heat in tyne and Fortune.

11. For a man knoweth not his time: but like as the fishes are taken with the angle, and as the hyybes are caught with the snare: even so are men taken in the perilous time, when it commeth abruptly upon them.

12. This lybdom have I seen also under the sunne, and me thought it a great thing:

13. There was a little city and a few men within it: so there came a great king, and besieged it, and made great bulwarke against it.

14. And in the citie there was founde a poor man, but he was lytle, which with this Iybdom delivered the citie, yet was there no body that had any respect to such a simple man.

15. Then sayd I, Iybdom is better then strength: Nevertheless, a simple mans lybdom is despised, and his words are not heard.

16. A lytle mans countayle that is followed in silence, is farre above the crying of a captaine among fooles.

17. For lybdom is better then that [the] thyself: but one sinner alone destroeth muche goodness. 18 Sip.vii.a. 1.Reg xvii.c. 1.Reg.xxvii. 1)i. 11. The

The difference of foolishnes and wisdom. 10 A slanderer is like a serpent that can not be charmed. 15 Of foolish kings and rufious princes. 16 And of good kings and princes.

1. Dead sre both corrupt, Sweete oyntment, and makes it to shrive; Even to oye tymes he that hath ben had in estimation for wisdome and honour, is abhorr'd because of a little foolishnesse.
2. Whose mans heart is upon his right hand, but a fooles heart upon his left. A foole Wyl shewe him selfe When he goeth by the way, yet thinketh he that every mans doeth as foolishly as himselfe.
3. If a principal partie be given thee to heare rule, be not negligent then in thine office: for he that can take care of his selfe, anodeth great offences.
4. Another plague is there Whiche I have seen under the Lancme, name, the ignorance that is commonly among princes: in that a foole sitteth in great dignite, and the (b) riche are set downe beneath.
5. If have seen serviamtes ride upon horses, and princes going upon their feete as they were serviamtes.

The xii. Chapter.

To think on God in youth, and not to deferre till age. The soule returneth to God. Wisdome is the gire of God, and consisteth in fearing him, and keeping his commandements.

At away displeasure out of thine heart, and remove cuill from thy body: for childhooD and youth is but bantrie.

Remember thy ma\(\text{t}\)ker the sooner in thy youth, or enter the days of adversitie come, and as the years balde the ype when thou shalt say, I have not pleasure in them:

Before the house, the light, the moone, and lalrues be darkened, and as the doowes turne agayne after the rayne:

When the keepers of the house shall tremble, and when the strong men shall bowe their lutes, when the nulnes stand still because they be so feble, and when the light of the windowes shall bare dimme:

When the doores in the streets halbe shut, and when the doore of the miller halbe layde doonne, when men shall ryse up at the doore of the hynde, and when all the daughters of mirth halbe brought towe:

When men shall feare in hye places, and be afraide in the streets, when the Almowe tree shall fiolifie and be laden with the groundopper, and when all that passe because man goeth to his long home, and the morners go about the streets.

Duer the siluer lade be taken away, and as the golden well be broken: Or the pot be broken at the well, and the wheele broken upon the reftone.

Then shall the dust be turned agayne from thence it came, and the spirit shall returne into God who gave it.

Alls but bantrie (Faith the preacher) all is but playne bantrie.

The preacher was yet more wise, and taught the people knowledge, he gave good heed, sought out the ground, and set foorth many parables: his diligence was to finde out acceptable doyes, right scripture, the dooves of deceit.

For the dooves of the wyse are like prickes and nayles that go thoreof, of the auncources of gatherings which are gueem of one shippewade.

Therefore beware my louers of that doctrine that is beside this: for to make many bookes, it is an endlesse booke, and to make shilfe Weecrieth the body.

Let as heare the conclusion of all things, Feare God, and keep his commandements: for that toucheth all men. For God shall judge all bookes and secret things, whether they be good or euy.

The Ballet of Ballerines of Solomon, called in Latin, Canticum Canticorum.

The first Chapter.

That as he would kiss me with the kisses of his mouth: so thy love is more pleasaunt than wine, and that because of the good and pleasaunt favour of thy most preceous baulnes.
(b) Thy name is a sweet smelling oymment when it is hedd forth, therefore do the myndens love thee.

Davide thou me [unto thee] we will rome after thee. The kyn hath brought me into his princie chambers: we romde glad and recioipe in the, we thinke more of thy love then of wine: they that be righteous love thee.

I am blacke (O ye daughters of Hierusalem) but yet I faye and well favoured, like as the tentes of the Dactenes, and as the hanginges of So-lonom.

Warrerpe not at me that I am so blacke for why the kynne hath thun-d upon me: my mothers chyldren have enpiled byll at me, they made me the keeper of the vineyardes, but mine owne vineyarde have I not kept.

Tell me O thou whom my soule loveth, where thou seedest the shepe, where thou makest them rest at the noon day: for why shall I be like hym that goeth Wrong about the flothes of thy companions?

If thou knowe not thy selfe (O thou fayest among women) then go the way foorth after the footsteps of the shepe, and seeke thy goats beside the shephardes tentes.

Unto the boast of Pharaos charets have I compared thee, O my love.

Thy cheekes and thy necke is beautiful as the turtles, and hanged with spanges and goodly teides, a neacband of golde byll we make thee, with bluer buttons.

When the king stentes at the table,he shall smell my Hairus: a bundell of myrc is my hone into me, he will pe beburst my bestes: a stuffer of Camp phire in the vineyardes of Engaddi is my hone into me.

My holie faye art thou my hone,
O holie faye art thou thou hal dowes eyes. O holie faye art thou my beloued, holwe well favoured art thou.

Our bed is dect with floures, the fee-tinges of our hone are of Cedar tree, and our croule ionytes of Cysيط.

The. ij. Chapter.

The Church desireth to rest under the shadowe of Christ. She heareth his voice. 14 She is compared to the hone, 15 And the enemies to the foxes.

As the litle among the thones: so is my hone among the daurteres.

My delight is to sit under his honde, for his fruite is licente into my throte.

He bringeth me into his wine celler, his banner spread over me, which is his lone.

Set about me cuppes of wine, conforme with apples, for I am like of love.

His left hande lyeth under my head, and his right hande shall uncover me.
The Church desireth to be joined inseparable to Christ the husband. So her destiny cannot be another but Christ.

The iiij. Chapter.

1. Night in my bed I sought hym whom my soul longed: ye diligently sought him, but I found him not.

2. I will get up and go about the city, in the squares in all the streets thereof: I seek him whom my soul longed: but when I sought him I found him not.

3. The watchmen also that go about the city, said to him whom I found: Salvation ye not hym whom my soul longed.

4. So when I was a little pat them, I found him whom my soul longed: I have gotten holde upon hym, and will not let him go, but I bring him into my mothers house, and into her chamber that bare me.

5. I charge you of daughters of Jerusalem by the roes and hinds of the field; that ye wake not my love, till she be content her self.

6. Who is this that commeth by me out of the wilderness like capon of smoke, as it were a smell of myrrh, frankincense, and all manner spices of the Apothecaries?

7. Behold, about Solomon's bedchamber there stood threefrofe balaurum, of the most mightie in Israel: They hold divines every one, and are expert in warre.

8. Every man also hath his sivode upon his thigh, because of fear in the night.

9. King Solomon had made him sife a palatte of the wood of Libanus, the pillars are of silver: the covering of gold, the seat of purple, the ground is pleasauntly paved with love for the daughters of Jerusalem.

10. Go forth (O ye daughters of Zion) and behold king Solomon in the crown wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his marriage, and in the day of the gladness of his heart.
The. iii. Chapter.

1. The popes of the Churche. 7. She is without blemish in his sight. 9. The love of Christe towards her.

1. A flocke of goates that be shome upon mount Silead.

2. Thy teeth are like a flocke of sheepe of the same bignesse whiche went by from the washing place, where every one bearctneth two thimbnes, and not one unfruitfull among them.

3. Thy thimbnes are like a rose coloured ribande, thy woodes are loosely, thy checkes are like a piece of a pomegranate within thy heeres.

4. Thyneke is like the towre of David builded with costly stones, lying out on the hoves whereupon there hange a thousande theses: yea all the weapons of the gaunttes.

5. Thy two breathes are like two thimbnes of young Roes, which feede amongst roses.

6. That I might go to the mountaine of mypre, and to the hill of frankencense, till the day breake, and till the shadowes be past alway.

7. Thou art all saye (O my loue) and no spot is there in thee.

8. Come to me from Libanus (O my spouse) come to me from Libanus: looke from the top of Amane, from the top of Sante and Hermon, from the hounse derrnes, and from the mountaine of the lopardes.

9. Thou hast [with love] bewished my heart O my sister my spouse, thou hast bewished my heart with one of thyne eyes, and with one chayne of thy nekke.

10. O howe thy saye are thy breathes, my sister, my spouse: Thy breathes are more pleasant then vine, and the smell of thyne oyminentes pasteth all spiccs.

11. Thy thimbnes, O my spouse, drop as the honey combe, pea mylike and honie is under thy tongue, and the finell of thy garments is like the finell of Libanus.

12. A garden well locked is my sister, my spouse: a garden well locked, and a sealed well.

13. The frutes that are planted in thee, are like a very paradise of pomegranates with sweeete frutes, as Cypriec, Harunos, Saffron, Calamus, Sinamon, with all sweeete liuing trees, Mypre, Aces, and all the belt spires, a well of gardens, a well of liuing waters which runne downe from Libanus.

14. Up thou north wynde, come thou north wynde and blode upon my garden, that the finell thereof may be caryd on every hoe: yea that my beloved may come into his garden, and eate of the sweeete frutes [that grome therein.]
5 I stood up to open unto my beloved, and my hands dropt down to PSalm, 11.3 the Pyre committed mine fingers upon the lock.
6 I opened up to my beloved, but he was departed and gone his way: now while he spake, my heart was gone: (b) I sought him, but I could not find him: I cried upon him, nevertheless he gave me no answer.
7 So the watchmen that went about the city, found me, smote me, and wounded me: yea they that kept the walls took away my kerchief from me.
8 I charge you therefore O ye daughters of Jerusalem, yee stand by your beloved, yee tell him how that I am like for love.
9 what manner of man is thy love above other loving: O thou fairest among women: O what can thy love do more then other lovers, that thou chargest me so straitly?
10 As for my love, he is whyte and red coloured, a goodly person among tenne thousand.
11 His head is as the most fine gold, the locks of his heare are wavy and blacke as a crowe.
12 His eyes are as the eyes of doves by the water brooks, as though they were wawashed with myrrh, and are set lyke pearles in golde.
13 His cheeks are like a garden bed, wherein the Apothecaries plant all manner of sweete thinges.
14 His lippes are lyke lilies that disppe of sweete smelling Pyre: his hands are lyke golde ringges, having inclosed the precious stone of Tharshis.
15 His body is as the pure ivory, decked over with Saphires: his legges are as the pillars of Marble set upon pockettes of golde.
16 His face is as Libanus: and as the beautie of the Cedr trees.
17 The voices of his mouth are sweete: yea he is altogether lovely: Such a one is my love O ye daughters of Jerusalem, such a one is my love.

The vii. Chapter.

2 The Church allureth her lisse of the loue of Christe; The praises of the Church.
8 She is but one and indesited.

1 Whither is thy loue gone then O thou fairest among women: Whither is thy loue departed, and we will take him with thee?
2 By loue is gone dothume into his garden unto the sweete smelling beddes, that he may refresh the hym life in the garden.
3 By loue is upwne, and I am his, which feedeth among the lilles.
4 Thou art beautiful O my loue as is the place: Thyra, thou art faire as Hierusalem, peacefull as an armie of men with their banniers
5 Turn away thine eyes from me, for they have set me on fire: Thy heeby loydes are like a floche of goates borne upon the mount of Sylend.
6 Thy teeth are like a floche of thone theere where go out of the wawisyng plate, where every one beareth tibunes, and not one unfruitfull among them.
7 Thy cheekes are like a piece of a pomegranate within thy lockes of heare.
8 There are three flore queenes, three flore wines, and dantelles without number.
9 One is my doue, one is my darlings: She is the only beloved of her heart, and bare unto her that bare her: When the daughters sawe her, they sayde she was blest, yea the queenes and wines payed her.
10 What is the this that lokeoth sooth as the mouyng, face as the moonne, clear as the sunne, and fearfull as an armie of men with their banniers?
11 (b) I went doome into the nut garden to see what grewe by the brookes, and to laye vp the vinearde floisht, or vp the pomegranates were not sooth.
12 I knewe not that my soule had made me the charpoyt of the people that be under tribute.
13 Turne agayne turne agayne O thou perfect one, turne agayne turne agayne and we will take upon thee: What will ye see in the (c) Solomone: She is lyke men of Warre singyn in a companie.

The ende of the ballet of ballottes of Solomon, called in latine Canticum Canticum.
The booke of the prophete Efai.

The first Chapter.

1 The prophete accuseth the sines of the people: namely of ingratitude, subversion, faithlesse service of God, and the weth Gods terrible judgement against them unlesse they repent.

2 Heare O heavens, and hearken O earth: for the Lord hath spoken, I have nourished and brought vp children, and they have done wickedly against me.

3 The ore hath knowen his owner, and the ass his masters tribe; but Israel hath not knowen, my people hath given me heed.

4 Alas! a full nation, a people laden with iniquity, a seede of the wicked, corrupt children; they have solatid the Lord, they have provoked the holy one of Israel into anger, they are gone backwarde.

5 Why shoulde ye be stricke out any more: ye are ever falling away: every head is diseased, and every heart heavy:

6 From the sole of the foote unto the head there is nothing sound in it: but wounds, blaines, and putrefieing sores: they have not ben sathid, neither wrapped vp, neither molified with the oilment.

7 Your lande is wasted, your citie is burnt vp, strangers devour your lande before your face, and it is made desolate, as it were the destruction of enemies [in the tyme of warre.]

8 And the daughter of Zion halfe left as a cottage in a vineyard, lyke a lodge in a garden of Cucumberes, lyke a besieged tite.

9 Except the Lord of hoastes had left vs a small remnant, we shoulde have ben as Sodoma, lyke unto Gomorra.

10 Hearce the wordes of the Lord ye loves of Sodoma, and hearken unto the lade of our God thou people of Gomorra.

11 Why offer ye so many sacrifices to me, why the Lord say: I am full of the burnt burn offerings of Heathers, &c.

12 When ye come to appear before me treading in my courtes, who hath required this at your hands?

13 Offer me no inobligations, for it is but lost labour: insomuch is an abominable thing unto me. I may not away with your new moones, your sabbathes, seasons meetings, your solemn assemblies are wicked.

14 I hate your new moones and appointed feates even from my very heart, they make me lvery, I cannot abide them.

15 When you holde out your hands, I will turne my eyes from you: and though ye make many prayers, yet I will heare nothing at all, trying your hands are full of blood.

16 Walke you, make you clean, put away your cupl thoughts out of my sight:

leave from poping of cupyl,

17 Learne to do well, appilte your selves to equity, deliver the opprest, helpe

the fatherless to his right, let the widdowees complaint come before you.

18 And then go to, faith the Lorde, let vs take together: though your finnes be as red as scarlet, they shalbe as white as snowe: and though they were like purple, they shalbe as white as snow.

19 If ye be wylling and obedient, ye shal take the good of the lande:

20 But if ye be obstinate and rebellious, ye shall be bouured with the woode for the mouth of the Lorde hath spoken. [6]

21 Who hath happeneth it then that the righteous citie which was full of equitie, is come unworthy full as a whore: Righteousness dwelt in it, but noisse murm-therers.

22 Thy sluer is turned to drasle, and thy wine nure with water.

23 Thy princes are wicked, and companions of theeues: they londe grifes altogether, and gape for rewardes: As for the fatherless they helpe hym not to his right, neither will they let the widdowes caules come before them.

24 Therefore saith the Lorde God of hosts, the nightie one of Israel: Ah

I must eke me of mine enemies, and avenge me of mine aduerstaries:

25 And I shall lay my hande upon the and purely purge away thy drasle, and take away all thy tyme:

26 And let thy judges agayne as they were sometyme, and thy senatours as they were from the beginning: and then thou shalt be called the ryghteous citie, the faithfull citie.

27 Sion shall be redeemed with equitie, and her concures with righteousshess.

28 But the treangrefours, and the vungodly, and such as forsake the Lorde, shall algethe be utterly destroyed.

29 For ye shall be confounded for the trecs which ye have dyredit: and ye shall be ashamed of the gardens that ye have chosun.

30 For ye shall be as a tree whose leaves are fallen away, and as a garden that hath no meoiliness.

31 And the very strong one [of your doubts] shall as owde, and the maker of it as a sparke [of fire] and they shall both burne together, and no man quench them.

5 Come ye O house of Jacob, and let us walk in the light of the Lord:

6 For thou hast forsaken thy people the house of Jacob, because they be replenished [with culs] from the east, and with sorceries like the Philistines, and in strange children they thyse themselves to have enough.

7 Their lande is full of siluer and goldde, neither is there any ende of their treasure: their lande is also full of horses, and no ende is there of their cattell.

8 Their lande also is full of byne gods, and before the worke of their owne handes they have bowled them selves, yea even before the thyng that their owne fingers have made.

9 There kneeleth the man, there falleth the man bownde [before them:] therefore fogeue them not.

10 Gettree into the rockke, and hyde thee in the grounde for fear of the Lord, and for the gloire of his maiesie.

11 The high looks of man shall be brought lowe, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowled bownde: and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day.

12 For the day of the Lord of holles [halfe] upon all the proude, loftie, and upon all that is exalted, and he shall brought lowe:

13 And upon all high and stout Cedar trees of Libanus, and upon all the beakes of Sathan,

14 And upon all the high mountaynes, and upon all the high hilles,

15 And upon every high towre, and upon every fenced wall,

16 And upon all the chippes of Charsis, and upon all pictures of pleasure.

17 And the pride of man shall be brought bownde, and the lusynesse of men shall be made lowe, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day:

18 As for the idoles he shall utterly abside:

19 And they shall creepe into hales of stone, and into canes of the earth for fear of the Lord, and for the glory of his maiesie, when he ariseth to destroy [the wicked ones] of the earth.

20 In the selfe same day shall man cast away his gods of siluer, and his gods of golde, into the hales of Howles and Bactes, Which he neuerthelesse had made to lymt selle to honour them.

21 And they shall creepe into the cistes of the rockes, and into the toppes of the harde stones for fear of the Lord, and for the glory of his maiesie, when he ariseth to destroy [the wicked ones] of the earth.

22 Castale therefore from man in whose nothes hilles there is breath: so where is he to be acompted of?

The 11. Chapter.

1 She myfthethes that God sendeth on common weakes for the contempte of his wode.

14 The courteousnesse of rulers reproued. 16 The proude niceneesse of women punished to their shame.

10, the Lord God of holles doth take a hate from Hierusalem and Juda all maner of slay all slay of meate and drinke,

The captayne and the soulord, the judge and the prophete, the prudent and the aged man,

The captayne of histre the honorable, the senator, the cunning artificer, and the eloquent oaxter.

And I shall give children to be their princes, and babes shall rule over them.

And the people shall eat one of them violently oppress another, and every one against his neyghbour: the boy shall presume against the elder, and the person of lowe degree against the honorabile.

6 Pea one shall take a friende of his owne kinrede by the bowonde, and say: thou hast cloathing, than that be our head, and say this wyle with thy hande.

7 Then shall he sweare and say, I can not helpe you: there is neither meate nor clothing in my house, make me no ruler of the people.

8 For Hierusalem and Juda must depre: because that both their woods and companyes are against the Lord to provoke the presence of his maiesie to anger.

Theiii. Chapter.

[The mirac le of the subburne. ]

1. The promise of God's favour to the residue.

That day, seven women shall take holde of one man, saying: We will finde our selues mate and apparel only let vs be called by thy name, to take our shamefull reprooche from us.

2. In that day shall the budde of the Lord be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and pleasant, for them that are escaped of Israel.

3. Then shall the remnant in Zion and the remnant at Hierusalem be called holy: (namely) all lych as are written among the lyuing in Hierusalem;

4. After that the Lord had washed away the fitchinesse of the daughters of Zion, and had purged the blood out from Hierusalem in the spirit of judgement and in the spirit of fire.

5. And upon all the dwelppinges of the hylles of Zion, and upon her congregations, the Lord shall create a cloude and smoke by day, and the lyning of a flaminge fire by night: for all the glorious lyning shall be preferred.

6. And there shall be a tabernacle for a shadowe in the day time from the heat, and a safe place and refuge from weather and rape.

The
Chapter.

Lo. To have my beloved friend, a song of my friend touching his vineyard: My beloved friend hath a vineyard in a very fruitful plentiful ground, and gathered out the stones from it, and planted it with the choicest vine: In the midst of it he builded he a tower, also made a wine press therein: and he looked that it should bring him grapes, and it brought forth goodly wine grapes.

3 Holub Ocitzen of Hierusalem, and man of Juda, judge I pray thee betwixt me and my vineyard:

4 What more could have been done for it, that I have not done? Wherefore then hath it brought me grapes, where I looked to have had grapes of it?

5 Well now I shall tell you holub I will do with my vineyard: I will take the hedge from it, that it may perish, and break down the wall thereof, that it may be trodden under foot.

6 I will lay it waste, it shall neither be dug nor cut, but bear thorns and briers: I will also destroy the couples that they shall not come upon it.

7 As to the vineyard of the Lord of hoaftes, it is the house of Israel: And the man of Juda, the plant of his pleasure: Of these be looked for equitie, but see there is oppression for righteousness, and lo it is a crying.

8 Wo unto them that toyne one houte to another, and bring one lande so nigh but to another, that there is no more place: Wo will ye be placed alone in the midst of the earth?

9 These thunge are in the cares of the Lord of hoaftes: of a truely great and faire house shall be without any dweller in them.

10 And enue acres of vinees shall gene but a quart, and thicke bushels of leede shall gene but an Ephah.

11 Wo be unto them that ride by early to solowe drunkenesse, continuing bloody night, till they be fet on fire with wine.

12 In their feastes are harpes and lutes, tabretes and pipes, and wine: but they regard not the word of the Lord, and consider not the operation of his hands.

13 Therefore commeth my soule into captivity, because they have no understanding: Their glory is famished with hunger, and their multitude is spent by thirst.

14 Therefore gapest hell and openest her mouth maruelous bydye, that their glory, multitude, and wealth, which such as rejoice in her, may descend into it.

15 Thus hath man a fall and is brought tobe, and the hygh locke of the powde shall be doone.

16 But the Lord of hoaftes shall be craf ted in judgement, and God that is holy is sanctified by righteousnesse.

17 Then shall the theepe eate as they were wont, and the richens landses that were lade waste shall strangers devour.

18 Wo be unto them that slabe wickedinesse with couples of bannie, and sime as it were with a cart rope.

19 Which be to speake on this manner, Let hym make sheede and hassen his word, that we may see it: let the contemple of the holy one of Israel come and slabe nyc, that we may knowe it.

20 Wo be unto them that call cupp good, and good cupp, which make darknesse light, and light darknesse, that make sodwe sweete, and sweete sowe.

21 Wo be unto them that are wise in their owne light, and thynke them felues to have understanding.

22 Wo be unto them that are strong to lyppe out wine, and expert men to set by drunkenesse.

23 Wo be unto them that gene sentence with the bugody for rewardes, but condemyne the lust cause of the ryghtous.

24 Therefore, lyke as theke liden by the straue, and as the flame consumeth the stubble: even to their roots shall be corruption, and their blossome shall burne away lyke butt: for they have rast away the lade of the Lord of hoaftes, and despised the word of the holy one of Israel.

25 Therefore is the wrath of the Lord bounded.

The vj. Chapter.

1 Esai sawe the glory of the Lode. 9 And was sent to prophesie the desolation of Juirie.

1. N the pere that king Dyzah dyed, I saide also the Lode sittyn upon a high and glorious seat, and his traine filled the temple.

2. And about hym floorde Seraphims, whereof one had fire wynges, with twayne ech one touere his face; with twayne his seete, and with twayne did he see.

3. They spyyt also ech one to another on this maner. Holy, holy, holy is the Lode of hoastes: the whole earth is full of his glory.

4. And the imes of the doore cheeckes moved at his spynge, and the house was full of smoke.

5. Then saide I, wo is me; for I am lost, as much as I am a man of buxtean lippes, and dibbell among people that hath buxtean lippes also: soke my eyes have seen the king the Lode of hoastes.

6. Then fawke one of the Seraphims unto me, having a bote cole in his hand, where he had taken from the aultere with the tongue,

7. And lapyde it upon my mouth, and lapde: Lo, [his] hath toucheyed thy lippes, and thine brightonfullesse hath be taken away, and thy syne forgotten.

8. Also I seide the voyce of the Lode on this maner: Whom shall I sende, and who will se be our messenger: Then I lapyde, here am I, lende me.

9. And he lapyde, So and tell this people: Hearre in decede, yet understande not, ye shall playnely see, and yet percewe not.

10. Harden the heart of this people, stopp their eares, and shut their eyes: lest they see with their eyes, hearre with their eares, and understande with their heartes, and convert and be healed.

11. Then spak my Lord, howe long: He answirered, untill the tyme be breerly wasted without inhabite, and the houses without men, and tyl the lande be also breerly desolate.

12. For the Lode shall put the men farrce away, and [there shall be] great waefte in the middes of the lande.

13. Yet in it shall sucede ten kinges, and it shall returne and be afterwarde wasted: [But] as the Tere tree and the Oke in the fall of their leaves haue yet the lappe remayning in them, [even so] the holy seere shall be the day therof.

The
It happened in the time of Ahaz's son of Jotham, which was the son of Uzziah king of Judah, that Razin the king of Syria, and Pekah the son of Remnah king of Israel, went up to take Jerusalem to believe it: but Razin was not able to winne it.

Ridive when the (o) house of Dauid hearde wordes thereof, that Syria and Ephraim was cededate together, his heart quaked, yea and the heeretis alio of his people, yxe as when the trees of the wood were moved with the winde.

Then sayd God unto Elia: Go meete Ahaz thou and thy sonne Sear Jashub, at the head of the ouer poole in the footpath by the fullers grounde,

And say unto him: Take heede to thy selfe and be hyll, feare not, neither be faynt hearted, for these two tylles, that is, for these two smoking firebrandes, the wrath and furiousesse of Razin the Syrian, and Romelies sonne:

Because that the Syrian, Ephraim, and Romelies sonne have wickedly conspired against thee,

Saying, we will go vp against Juda, bere them, and lyting them under vs, and set a kyng thare, even the sonne of Label:

Thus saith the Lord God thereto,

It shall not go foorth, neither to come to passe.

For the head citie of the Syrians is Damascus, but the head of Damascus is Razin: And after thefere and the peeres shall Ephraim be no more a people.

And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, but the head of Samaria is Romelies sonne: if ye beleue not, surely ye shal not be establisshed.

Moreover, God shalke agayne unto Ahaz, saying:

Require to thy selfe a token of the Lord by God, whether it be towards the depth beneath, or towards the height above.

Then said Ahaz, I will require none, neither will I tempt the Lord.

The prophete answered, Then heare ye of the house of Dauid: Is it not enough for you that ye be greuous unto me, but ye must greene my God also?

Therefore the Lord heem selfe shal geve you a token: Beholde, a virgin shall concerne and heare a sonne, and shall call his name Sionam.

Butter and house shal he eate, untill he knowe to refuse the cuppe and choose the good.

For ouer the chylpe come to knowledge to eschewe the evil and choos the good, the lande that thou so abhorrest (halbe desolate of both her kynges.

The Lord alfo shal sende a tyne upon thee, upon thy people, and upon thy fathers house, such as never came since the tyne that Ephraim departed from Juda, namely thosonde the kyng of the Assyrians.

For at the same tyne shal the Lord hisse for the syres that are about the water of Egypt, and for the bees in the Assyrians lande:

These shall come and shall light all in the desolate valleys, in the holes of stones, and upon all thome and bullye places.

At the same time that the Lord shalke the (o) here of the head, and the fette, and the barende cleane of, with the rage that he shal hype beyonde the waters, namely with the king of the Assyrians.

At the same time that a man nurseth a young cowe, and two sheepe.

Then because of the abundance of mylke that they gene he shall cate buter: to that every one which renayth in the lande shal cate butter and hony.

At the same time al vineyards where in there shalbe a thousand bines, with a thousande shutterings, halbe turned to bypers and thomes.

Thy shall come into the lande with arrooves and holoves, because all the lande shall become bypers and thomes: As for all hilles that shalbe digged with the inatocke, there shal not come upon them any feare of bypers and thomes: but the carell shalbe brenn thyther, and the sheepe shal feed there.
The. vii. Chapter.

The deliverance of the lande by Emmanuel. 14 The sole of offence, at which many shall stumble.

Pray for the Lord, sayde unto me, Take thee a great stone, and write in it as men do with a pen: make haste speedily to rob, and haste to the people.

2 And I called unto me faithfull witnesses to record, Uriah the priest, and Zachariah the sonne of Saraciah.

3 After that went I unto the prophet, and the counsaunc I bare a bone: Then sayde the Lord to me, Say he his name, a speedie robber, an hastie spoyler.

4 For why, or ever the chyldre shall have knowledge to cry my fathers name, shall the riches of Damascus and the people of Samaria be taken away before the king of the Assyrians.

5 The Lord shalke also vnto me a gaine, sayyng:

Forsinne as this people refuseth the spill running water of Soio, and putteth delight in Razin and Rome:

6 Beholde, the Lord shal heacing mighty and great studdes of water, vpon them, namely the king of the Assyrians with all his power, whereunto shall clithe vpon all his studdes, and runne over all his babes.

7 And shall breake in vpon Joppa, he shall foole and passe thorowde, till he come to the necke thereof: he shall fall also the wisedome of the lande with his bygnes of Emmanuel.

8 Breake downe O ye people, and ye shalbe broken downe, hearken to all ye of farre countreyes: muste you, and you shalbe broken downe, prepare you, and you shalbe tone in pieces.

9 Take your counsell together, yet shall your counsell come to naught: determin the matter, yet shall it not prosper: for God is with us.

10 For the Lord spake thus to me in a mighty prophesie, and warned me that I should not walke in the way of this people, sayyng:

11 Ye shall not speake words of conspiracie in all thinges, when this people shall say conspiracie: feare them not, neither be afraid of them.

12 But sanctifie the Lord of hostes, set him be your feare and dread.

14 For he shall be the holy place to see to, and none to stumble at, the roche to fall vpon, and to fall, and be broken, you they shalbe feared and taken.

15 And many among them shall stumble, and fall, and be broken, ye they shalbe feared and taken.

16 Vnde by the testimonie, sealke the law in my disciplyes.

17 And I will vnto you, Asse counsauc at the soothsayers, witches, Charmers, and Conuurers: then make them this auntre: Is there a people any where that aftereth not counsauc at his God? shoulde men runne vnto the dead for the living?

20 Get thee to the lande, and the testimonie: and if they speake not after this lande, there is no light in them.

21 And they shall wander thorowde this lande hardly bestrade and hungry, and when they suffer hunger, they shall be one of patience, and curse their King and their God, and shall take vpwarde and downwarde to the earth,

22 And beholde there is trouble and darkness, dynamesse is round about him, he shalbe drawn into darkness.

23 Heretoforth, the darkness shall not be luche as was in her veracion, when at the first he lightly afflicteth the lande Zadulon, and the lande of Nebythai, and afterwarde vnde more greuously afflicteth her by the way of the sea beyond Joseph in Sichem of the heathen.
The prophesie of Christes natiu sic and dominion.

The ix. Chapter.

HE people that walked in darkness, have seen a great light: As for them that dwell in the lande of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.

2 Thou hast multiplied the people, and not increased their joy: they rejoice before thee, even as men make merrie in harvest, and they be troubled as men that do deude the yole [after the victorie.]

3 For thou hast broken the yoke of his burden, the staffe of his shoulder, and the rod of his oppressour, as in the day of Nadian.

4 And truly every battayle that the Warrior maketh, is done with confused yole: and defiling their garmente with blood, but this battayle shall be with burning and consuming of fire.

5 For unto vs

6 He shall make no ende to encrease the rule of peace, and shall sit upon the seate of Dauid, and in his kingdom, to order the same, and to stablishe it with equitie and righteouesse from hence forth: for evermore: This shall the seale of the Lordes of hoastes bring to passe.

7 The Lord sent a bothe into Jacob, the same is come into Israel.

8 And all the people of Ephraim shall know, and they that dwell in Samaria that say with yole and high stomachers on this maner.]

9 The yole is fallen howse, but the yole will yole it with squared stone: the Mitberie timber is broken, but we shall set it by aagayne with Cedar.

10 But the Lord shall strengthen the enemies of Razin, and lyke his aduersaries together against him.

11 The syrians before, and the Philis thus behinde, and shall devour Israel with open mouth: After all this is not the Wrath of the Lordes caesed, but yet his hande stretched out styll.

12 For the people turneth not unto hym that chastiseth them, neither do they seeke the Lordes of hoastes.

13 Therefore hath the Lordes rooted out of Israel both head and tayle, both ead and redee in one day.

14 By the head, is understande the enaour and honourable man, and by the tayle, the prophete that preached lyes.

15 For the guiders of this people are deceausers, and yole that be governde are utterly lost.

16 Therefore shall the Lordes have no pleasure in their young men, neither have pittie of their fatherieffe and ypoolde: for they are altogether hypocrites and wicched, and at their mouths speake folly: After all this is not the Lordes Wath caesed, but yet his hande is stretched out styll.

17 For bugodipness burneth as a fire, and shall devour byres and thomes, and it shall burne as in the thicket of a wood, and [the wyld] abundance them selves, as the smoke is carped by.

18 Thosonde the wrath of the Lordes of hoastes is the lande full of darkness, and the people be conformed as it were with fire: no man doth spare his brother.

19 But he robbeth on the right hande, and doth familie, he eateth on the left hande, and he shall not have toough: everyone shall eate the flesh of his owne acorne.

20 Manasses [shall eate] Ephraim, and Ephraim Manasses, and they both together shall eate Iuda: After all this is not the Lordes Wath caesed, but yet his hande stretched out styll.

The.

Chapter.

1 And prophesie against Semachthos.

2 Do be unto them that make unrighteous lades, and that causeth their actarities to dyse grovewinnesse, where the poor are put from their right, and my secte people robbed of judgment, that wydowes may be therpay, and that they may rob the fatherlesse.

3 What wyll ye do in the tyrne of visitation, and what destruction shall come from farre; to whom wyll ye runne for helpe; and where wyll you leane your glory?

4 That when I withzathe my hand, ye come not among the peisoners, nor be among the dead; After all this doth not the wight of the Loade restasse, but yet is his hande stretched outstall.

5 Of after which are the stafie of my waith, in whose hand is the rod of mine indignation.

6 I wyll sende hym among those hypocriting people, among the people that have defered my disfavour, wyll I sende hym, that he utterly rob them, spoyle them, and redace them doublie and the more in the streete.

7 Hidbeet, his meaning is not so, neither thinkest his heart on this fashion: But he imagineth hondo he may rote out and destroy muche people.

8 For he faith, Are not my princes all byges?

9 Is not Chano as case to winne, as Chatamias? Is it harder to conquer Hamath, then Arphad? or is it highter to overcome Damascus, then Samaaria?

10 (As who say) I were able to winne the hydones of the dossaters and their gods, but not Hierusalem and Samaaria.

11 Shall I not be Hierusalem and her images, as I dyd into Samaaria and her doles?

12 Wherefore it shalle come to passe, that assoone as the Loade hath perfourmed his whole worke upon the hill of Sion and Hierusalem, then wyll I bite the fruit of the soute heart of the kyng of Assyria with his proude lookes.

13 For he handes his in his owne concept, This do I thhowowe the power of myne owne hande, so thhowowe my wydome: for I am wyple, I am he that removeth the landes of the people, I rob their treasure, and have pulled doonw the inhabitatees like a baallamman.

14 By hand hath found out the strength of the people as it were a nest: and like as egges that were layde here and there, are gathered together, so do I gather all countreys, and there was none [to bode] as to move the winge, that dare open his mouth, or once whisper.

15 Shal the the ar beget it seyfe against him that he weth therewith; or that the sade maye any bagging against hym that ruleth it? That were even lyke as if the rod did elect it seyfe against hym that beareth it, as though the sasse should magnifie it seyfe (as who say) it were no wood.

16 Therefore shall the Loode the God of hoastes sende among his sittinges leaneesse, and burne by his gloyp as it were with a fire.

17 And the light of Israel shalbe that fire, and his holy one shalbe the flambe: and it shall glimbe and burne by his thomes and byrtes in one day.

18 Pea all the glory of his wooddes and stelthes shalbe consumed with body and soule, and they shalbe as an hoast of men, whose standard beareth fayleth.

19 The trees also of his wood which reamayne shalbe of such a number that a chynde may tell them.

20 After that day shall the remanunt of Israel, and suche as are escaped out of the house of Jacob, seeke no more comfort at hym that smite them: but unexpected shall they trueth unto the Loade, the holy one of Israel.
The prophesie

21. The remnant, even the posterity of Jacob, shall convert unto God the nightiote.
22. For though thy people O Israel be as the sande of the sea, yet shall the remnant of them convert unto him: The decreed consummation overhodeth with righteousness.
23. And therefore the Lord of hosts shall perfectly fulfill the thing that he hath determined in the midst of the whole world.
24. Therefore thus saith the Lord God of hosts: Thou people that dwell in Sion, be not afraid for the king of the Assyrians: he shall smite thee with a rod, and shall lift his staff against thee, as the Egyptians dyd sometime.
25. But deep soone after shall my wrath and indignation be fulfilled in the destruction of them:
26. Moreover, the Lord of hosts shall strike by a stroke for him, like as was the daughter of Paddan by the rocke Oreb, and as the destruction of the Egyptians when he lifted by his rod upon the sea.
27. Then shall his burden be taken from thy shoulers, and his yoke from thy necke, for the same yoke shall be destroyed because of the buckton.
28. He shall come to Raph, and go through toward Mizeron, at Richmas shall he lay by his harness.
29. They shall go over the flood, Seba shall be their resting place, Alama shall be afraid, Sibea Saul shall cleave away.
30. Lift up thy boyse O daughter Galbin, gener case to Lulia thy poor: A nathloth.
31. Baddmna shall tremble for fear, but the citizens of Gabim are many.
32. Yet shall he remaine at Hob that day: after that shall he lift by his hands against the mount of the daughter Sin on the hill of Hierusalem.
33. But see, the Lord God of hosts shall break bough the bough with fear, he shall helpe bough the proud, and tell the high minded.
34. The thicketts also of the wood shall he root out with iron, and Libanus shall have a fall thorowe the nighte.

The xj. Chapter.

Be prophesie of the natuiter of Christe, and of his people. Of the remnant of Israel, to And of the faith of the heathen or gentiles.
of Elai.

The xij. Chapter.

1 And in that day thou shalt say, O Lord I will praise thee, for thou hast delivered me, but restrain thou from thy wrath, and comfort me.

2 Behold, God is my salvation, in whom I will trust and not be afraid: for the Lord God is my strength and my song, he also is become my salvation.

3 Therefore with joy shall ye draw waters out of the wells of salvation:

4 And then shall ye say, O Lord I will praise thee, for thou hast delivered me, but restrain thou from thy wrath, and comfort me.

5 Sing praises unto the Lord, for he hath done great things, as it is known in all the earth.

6 Cry out, and sing thou that dwellest in Zion: for great is the holy one of Israel in the midst of thee.

The xijj. Chapter.

1 Be prophesied the destruction of Babylon, the captivity and the coming again of the people.

2 This is the burden of Babylon, which Gai said in the name of Amos did see.

3 Lift up the banner upon the high hill, call unto the nations, gather your hands, that they may go into the gates of the princes.

4 Have also called my battaunt ones, looking in my honour to execute my wrath.

5 There is a multitude in the mountaynes, lyke as of a great people, a rusting as though the kingdoms of the nations came together: the Lord of hosts mustreth his arme to battle.

6 They come out of a farre countrey from the ende of the heauen, even the Lorde hyue selfe with the ministers of his wrath, to destroy the whole lande.
2. Howe rese, for the day of the Lorde is at hande, and shall come as a destroyer from the almightie.
3. Therefore shall all handes be letten downe, and all menes heartes shall melt away.
4. They shall stand in fear, carthines and foode shall come upon them, and they shall have payne, as a woman that trauylycheth with chyldre: One shall be badly of another, and their faces shall brune like the flame of fire.
5. Beholde, the day of the Lorde shall come terribly and full of indignation, swrie and wrath, to make the lande waste,
and to roote out the sinners thereof.
6. For the staries and planettes of heauen shall not sete their light, the sunne shall be darkned in the rising, and the moone shall not shine with her light.
7. And I will visite the wickednesse of the boylde, and the simne of the bogyd-lye. The high nomakes of the proude wyll I take away, and will lay downe
the boasting of the stcam.
8. I will make a man beeore then fine gold, and a man to be more worth then a golden wedge of Ophir.
9. Therefore I will shake the heauen, and the earth shall remove out of her place in the wrath of the Lorde of hautes, and in the day of his fearesfull indignation.
10. And [Babylon] shall be as an hunted orchased Doe, and as a sheepe that no do not taketh vp: Every man shall turne to his owne people, and flee eche one in to his owne lande.
11. Who so is founde shall be shote downe:
and who so taketh their part, shall be destroyed with the sword.
12. Their chyldren shall slayne before their eyes: their house spoitle, and their wives ransched.
13. For lo, I shall bring by the Pedes against them, which the shall not regard forr, nor be destrous of golde:
14. With bowes shall they destroy the young men, and have no pite on women with chyldre, and their faces shall not spare the chyldren.
15. And Babylon that glory of kingdomes, and beautie of the Chaldees honour shall destroyed, even as God destroyed Sodome and Gomor.
16. It shall not endure for euer, neither shall there be any more dwelling there from generation to generation: The Arabians shall pitche no tentes there, neither shall the shephearde make their foldes there any more.
17. But fearefull lyke beastes shall bee there, and the houses shall be ful of great Dyles, Estridges shall dwell there, and Apes shall dance there.
18. Wylde cattes shall eare in the palaces, and dragons slayle in the pleasant houses: And as for Babylon tyne it is at hande, and her bapes shall not be prolonged.

The prophecy.

The returns of the people from captiuitie, the properties of the people of God, and affliction of their enemies. A B The prophecy of Babylon.

1. But the Lorde will be mercyfull unto Jacob, and will percyole Israel againe, and set them in their owne lande, strangers shall clene and get them to the house of Jacob.
2. The people shall take them and carry them home to their owne lande, strangers shall possesse them in the lande of the Lorde, that thay may be seruants and handymepes: and they shall take thoes prisoners whose cap-times they had ben before, and rule thoes that had oppressed them.
3. When the Lorde will be mercyfull to reft from the trauayle, fear, and hard bondage that they were ûghten withall.
4. Then shall thou see this wooshage upon the kyng of Babylon, and lay:
Bodbe happeneth it that the oppositour leaueth of: Is the golden tribute come to an ende:
5. The Lorde hath broken the keper the of the bogydy, and the rod of the lode-she,
which when he is Woth, suflheth the people with continual strokes, aud in Woth raingeth over the heathen, who he persecuteth with compassion.

And therefor the whole world is noise at rest and quieteness, and men sing for joy.

Heauen the Fire trees and Cedars of Lebanon rejoice at the fall, saying: Have thou are layde downe, there come no upp to helpe downe vs.

Bell also beneath trembles to meete thee at thy comynge, and for thy sake hath rayled his dead, all mighty men and princes of the earth, all lynges of the earth stande up from their fates.

That they may all asemble and speake unto thee. Art thou become weak also as we? Art thou become lyke unto vs:

Lby pomp and thy pride is layde downe into the pit, and do is the melody of the instrumentes. Wormes be layde under thee, wormes be thy courting.

Hobe are thou fallen from heauen of Lucifer, thou faire murming chynde: Hobe hast thou gotten a fall even to the grounde, which didst weaken the nations:

For thou saydest in thine heart, I will chynde vs into heauen, and exalt my throne above beside the starrs of God. I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation towards the North.

I will chynde vs above the cloudes, and I will be pyke the lyghtest of all.

Per thou shalt be brought downe to the depe of hell, to the sides of the lake.

That they see thee shall narrowl y lachte upon thee, and thinke in them selves, saying: Is this the man that brought all landes in fear, and made the kyngdomes atcaype:

Is this he that made the world in a mister waste, and layde the cities to the grounde, which let his phisoners go out?

The lynges of the nations ye every one in his owne house with worship.

And thou art call out of the grave like a filthy abonnauncer namely, like as dead men raymente that are hot charuade with the Soude, and goe bouldre to the bones of the depe, as a dead coare that is tromen under seere.

Thou art not buried with them: even because that thou hast vasted thy lande & destroyed thy people: The generation of the wicked shall out of memorie for euer.

Let there a way be sought to destroy their children that be in their fathers wickednesse, that they come not by agayne to possesse the lande, and fyll the world full of enemies.

I will stonde by agaynst them faith the Lord of holiest, and roote out the name and remnant, some and sonne of Babylon faith the Lord.

I will geue it to the Otters, and will make water puddels of it, and I will swepe them out with the del notice faith the Lord of holiests.

The Lord of holiest hath directed an othe, saying: If shall come to passe as I have determined, and haue suffyled as I have deuised.

So that Assyria shall I destroy in my lande, and upon my mountains vs I treade hym under foote, whereas I have by which shall come from them, and his burthen shall take from their shoulder.

This deuile hath God taken through the whole world, and this is his hande stretched out over all people.

For if the Lord of holiest determine a thing, who is able to disannull it: And if he stretch forth his hande, who may returne it agayne:

The same were that lyng Ahaz dyed, was this burthen:

Reicopre not thou whole Palestina, because the rod of him that beateth thee is broken: for out of the serpentes roote there shall come an Ader, and his fruite shall be a kerc sleeping vnione.

But the first bone of the pooste shall be fruite, and the simples shall dwell in fresye: Thy roote also wyll I destroy with hunger, and it shall flap the remnant.

Pourne thou pooste, wepe thou crie, for, O whole lande of Palestina, thou art laid waste: for there that came from the north a smoke, that not one alone may abide at home in his times.

What shal he then annuere the messengers of the Gentiles: For the Lord hath established Zion, and the pooste of his people that be therein shall put their trust in it.

The prophecy against Moab.

Prophecy of God against the Moabites.

This is the burden upon Moab.

1. Moab shall be as a vault that is broken by its inhabitants, and its bars are not put in their place. For the Lord shall destroy it, and will make it like to a hole with no bottom. He shall make the rain to cease from it, and the glory of the Moabites shall be cut off. Moab shall have no victor, and he shall be spoiled.

2. Moab is escaped, but was turned back: he was driven from the pursuers; for the waters of Moab are dried up. He shall have none to help him among the nations.

3. For the waters of Moab, which are the spring of the city, are dry; and the trees thereof are withered: his captains are round as stubble, and his princes are not worthy of bread.

4. Therefore the praisers of Moab are as the praisers of Jazer: for the men of Moab shall belike those that are cut down by the destroyers, and come to the destruction of the earth.

5. For the waters of Moab shall be turned into salt, and the land shall be full of the blood of the Moabites.

Prophecy of God against Moab.

1. Moab shall be as a vault that is broken by its inhabitants, and its bars are not put in their place. He shall make the rain to cease from it, and the glory of the Moabites shall be cut off. Moab shall have no victor, and he shall be spoiled.

2. How doth Moab say: I am adored, the people is not cut off, the children of the Moab are two and twenty princes, of the tribe of Reuben.

3. Gather your counsel together, and hear the counsel of the princes of the people. How say ye: We are adored, the people is not cut off, the children of the Moab are two and twenty princes, of the tribe of Reuben.

4. Let my persecutors dwell among you, Moab be thou their refuge against the destroyer; for the adversary is brought to naught, the robber is turned, the traitor is wasted out of the land.

5. And in mercy shall the scribe be prepared, and he shall sit upon it in the courts of the tabernacle of David, judging and deciding, and making haste unto righteous judgments.

6. He has heard the voice of the pride of Moab, he is very proud, presumptuous, arrogant, and full of indignation, and vain are his eyes.

7. Therefore shall Moab make lamentation because of the Moabites, that he hath made, yea, they shall make wail altogether; because the foundations of the city is made of bathe shall ye complaint, even ye land people that are left only behynde.

8. For the vine of Hebron is cut down; as for the vine of Sibim, the lodes of the heathen have broken down her principal branches, they are come even unto Jazer, they went on wandering into the wilderness; her goodly branches were thrown down as they went over the sea.

9. Therefore peal I mourn, for Jazer, and for the vine of Sibim, I weep my tears upon thee. O Helbon and Elath; for the cry of thy enemies is fallen upon thy sommer fruits, and upon thy harvest.

10. The north and easter is taken away out of the plentiful field, and in the vineyards there shall be no joy no gladness; the treadle shall tread out no wine in their presses, the song of their nery

The, xvij. Chapter.

A prophecy against Damascus.

1 This is the burden upon Damascus: Behold Damascus is taken away to be no more a city, but shall be a heape of broken stones.

2 The waste cities of the nations shall be holden by a carrele which shall ye set there; and there shall be none to stay them a day.

3 Ephraim also shall no more be strong, and Damascus shall no longer be a kingdome, and the remnant of Syria shall be as the glory of the children of Israel, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 And in that day it shall come to passe, that the glory of Jacob shall be made very thin, and the fatnes of his kine shall ware leane.

5 And he shall as one that gathereth vp corn in harvest, even lyke hym whose arm reapeoth the ears of corn: he shall also lyke hym that gathereth ears of corn in the valley of Repham.

6 Some gathering in doore shall there be left in it, even as in the shaking of an Olive tree there remaine two or three berries in the toppe of the highest bough, and soore or drye in the boone fruitful haunches thereof, saith the Lord God of Israel.

7 Then shall man turne againe to his maker, and his eyes shall have respect to the holy one of Israel.

8 As for thealters which are his oluye handy toile he shall not regard them, and the thynge that his fingers hath made, as groves and images, though he not cast his eye unto.

9 In that day shall there strong cities be as the forstaken hyoobbes & branches, which they left because of the children of Israel, and the lande shall be desolate.

10 Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy salvation, and hast not ben rynd full of thy strong rocke: therefore shall thou set pleasant plantes, and shall graffe the bannualc of another mans vine.

11 In that day shalt thou make thy plant to groode, and early in the mornynge shalt thou make thy seede to southe: The harvest shall gone in the day of inheritauce, and there shall noe groode without hope of comfort.

12 Wo thalbe to the multitude of much people, which shall make a bounde lyke to the nolie of the sea, and the violence of the nations which shall rage lyke the cutting in of many waters.

13 Even lyke many waters that the people rage, God shall rebuke hym, and he that see farre of, he shall chaule away lyke as drye strawe vpon the mountaynes before the wynde, and lyke a thynge that turneth before the storme.

14 At even beholde there is trouble, and ouer it be mornynge for it is gone: This is the portion of them that opposte vs, and the lot of them that robbbe vs.

Agains Egypt and Ethiopia.

1 As the vre that Charthan came into Abod when Sargon the king of Assyria had sent hym, and had sought against Abod, and taken it:

2 At the same tyme spake the Lord by the hande of Elai the tounge of Amos, saying: Go and take of the lacedoth from thy lopenes, and put of thy shoe from thy foot, and be dyd to, vallyng naked and baredoote.

3 And the Lord tayde, lyke as my seruante Elai hath walked naked and baredoote, for a signe and wonder they see.

4 Even so shall the king of Assyria take away out of Egypt and Ethiopia, children and olde men naked and barefoote, with their lopenes buncered, to the great shame of Egypt.

5 They shall bongu on feare also, and be ashamed of Ethiopia their hope, of Egypt wher they are wont to gloate.

6 And they that dwell in the same Ille shall say in that day, Beholde such is our hope, whether shall we see for helpe, that we may be delueryed from the king of Assyria: And holwe shall we escape.

The burthen of the waste sea. Even as the stormie weather passeth through the noone day from the witternesse, so shall it come from the terrible lande.

2 A greuous vision was shewed unto me: let one becrystfyl offenbour come against another, and one destroyer against another: Up Elam, lay siege thou of Media, all their groning haue I layde downe.

3 Therefore are my loynes fylled with foode, heauenesse hath taken hold of upon me as the panges of a woman that is travayling: it made me foute when I heard it, and it vexed me when I slaine it.

4 By heart panted, fearefulnessse came upon me: the nyght of my voluptuousnesse hath he turned against me into feare.

5 Whyle they garnished the table, the watchman loked: and whyle I was eating and drinking, it was slayde, by ye captaynes, take you to your chairde.

6 For thus saith the Lord slayde vnto me: So and set a watchman to tel what he seeth.

7 And he saide a charret which two hosemens fat upon, with the carriage of an Aife, and the carriage of a Camel: So he loked, and toke diligent lyere.

8 And he reade, a lion, my Lord slayde continually upon the watche lyde in the day tyme, and an appointed to kepe my watch every nyght.

9 And behold here commeth a charret of men, with two hosemen, and he aumhered and sayd, Babylon is fallen, it is fallen, and all the images of her gods hath he limiter downe vnto the grounde.

10 Thou art he whom I must sheepe, and thou belongeth to my nome flour: This that I heard of the Lord of holies the God of Israel, haue I sheeld vnto you.

11 The burthen of Duma. He calleth to me out of Sce: Watchman what hast thou elpeth by nyght: Watchman what hast thou aispeth by nyght:

13 The burthen concerning Arabia. In the wooddes of Arabia shall ye tary all nyght, even in the streets of Dedanim.

14 The inhabitants of the lande of Phena brought foureth water to hym that was thirstie, they prevented hym that was fded away with their head.

15 For because of Nabode they are become fugituy, Even so, the draven Nabode, and for the bent bowde, and because of the greynessness of warre.

16 For thus saith the Lord slayde vnto me: There is yet a yere, according to the yeres of an hiree seruaunt, and all the glose of Edom shall slayde.

17 And the number of them that shall escape from the bowdes, halbe minished by the myghty children of Edom: for the Lord God of Israel hath spokenn it.

The xxij. Chapter.

I prophecie against Jerusalem.

A 1

The burthen of the baile of vision, what hast thou to do here, that thou climbest to the house toppes?

2 Thou that art full of tumultuousnesse, thou troublesome and proude cite: Why slaye men are neither put to death with the Nabode, nor dead in battayle.

3 All thy captaynes are fugituy togeth, the archers have taken them prisoners: All they I say that are founde in thee are in captivite togeth, and they also that fled fare of.

4 Therfore slayde I, Let me alone, and I wyll make lamentation: He shall not be able to comfort me, because of the destruction.
To the destruction of the daughter of my people.

For this is a day of trouble, of ruin, and of distress, that the Lord the God of hosts will pouring to pass in the valley of Vision, breaking dower, and crying into mountains.

Elam bare the quiver with a charret of footmen and horsemen, and the city of Persia the thirde open.

Thy cleft valley also was full of charrettes, and the horsemen set their faces directly towards the gate.

And that day dyd the enemies take away the corner of Joppa, and then dyd thou look towards the armour of the house of the forest.

And have I seen also the broken places of the city of Dauid, howbe they that are many, and ye gathered together the waters of the lower pool.

And for the houses of Hierusalem ye have numbered them, and the houses ye have broken dower, to make the wall strong.

And it also have ye made betweene the two vallies for the waters of the olde pool, ye have not regarded the maker thereof, neither had respect unto hym that fashioned it long ago.

And in that day dyd the Lord God of hosts call men unto weeping and mourning, to baldness and to girding about with sackcloth.

And behold they have joy and gladness, saying oen, and kyping theepe, eating flesh, and drinking wine: Let us eat and drinke, for to morrow we shall dye.

And it came to the cares of the Lord of hosts, This iniquity shall not be purged from you till ye dye, saith the Lord God of hosts.

Thus saith the Lord God of hosts: Get ye into yonder treasuruer, even unto *Sebna, which is the ruler of the house.

16 What hast thou to do here? and whom hast thou here? that thou shouldest here beide thee out a sepulchre, as it were one that lieeth hym out a sepulchre on hye, or that graneth an habitation for hym felle on an harde rocke.

17 Behold O thou man, the Lord shall carry thee away into captivity, and shall surely cover thee with confusion.

18 The Lord shall turne thee over like a ball with his handes (and shall tread thee) into a farre country: there shall thou dye, and there in stead of the charrettes of thy pompe, shall the house of thy Lord have confusion.

19 I will drive thee from thy place, and out of thy dwelling thou shalt overthowe thee.

20 And in that day shall I call my seruaut Elias, the comme of Eleaza:

21 And with thy garments will I D clothe hym, and with thy girdle will I strength hym: thy power also will I commit into his hande, and he shall be a father of such as didwell in Hierusalem, and in the house of Joppa.

22 And the key of the house of Dauid will I lay upon his shoulder: so that he shall open and no man shut, he shall shut and no man open.

23 And I will slaine hym as a naple in a sure place, and he shall be the glorious fame of his fathers house.

24 Moreover, all generations and possteuries shall hang upon him all the glory of their fathers house, all vessels both great and small, and all instruments of measure and musique.

25 In that day saith the Lord of hosts, shall the naple that is fastened in the sure place, depart and be broken, and fall: and the burden that was upon it shall decline away; for to the Lord hath spoken.

The xxiii. Chapter.

1 I prophesie against Tyrie, and a promise that it shalbe restored agayne.

2 We say that dwell in the Isle, the marchauntes of Zion, such as passe over the sea have made them plentiful.

3 The come that growth by the great waters of Niles, and the springs of the ruer were her bittaples, so that it became.
The prophesie

A 1  And he saide: Take no more thy boats
O virgin thou daughter Zidon, thou Shalt be brought downe: Up, get thee
Over into Tiffiu, where nevertheless Thou shalt have no rest.

12  By the sea and the strength of The sea, is meant Tyre.

4  Be ashamed thou Zidon: for the sea,
Even the strength of the sea hath spoken Saying, I have not transpaied not Bought sooth children, nor nighest by Young men, or bought by virgins.

13  Behold, these people came not of the Chaldbes, but Asur made them strong With great ships: They set up the Strong holdes thereof, and destroyed his Palaces: and he brought it in decay.

10  Get thee out of thy land like a fluyde
Unto the daughter of Charsis, for thou Hast no more strength.

14  Turne ye chippes of Charsis, for your Strength is brought downe.

11  He that note the kingdoms together,
Holdeth out his hands over the Sea: even the Lord him selfe hath geuen
A commandement agaynst the fame
Common place of marshaundise, that They shall utterly destroy the myght Thereof.

The xxiii. Chapter.

1  A prophesie of tribulation to come upon the world because of sinne.

Cholde, the Lord maketh the earth waste
And empiet the earth, it vsipide doth, and Leveth abode the inhabitants thereof.

2  And the people shall be as the people, and the master as the Servaunt, the mistresse lyke the mayde,
The feller lyke the byre, he that tendeth
Upon bluirie, like him that boasteth upon Bluirie, the creditor is the debtor.

3  The lande shall be wasted and Utterly spoiled: for so the Lord hath Spoken.

4  The earth is soye, and consumeth
Away, the world is feeble, perisheth,
The pride people of the earth are come to naught.

5  The earth also is become unprofitable
Under the inhabitators thereof, which Have trespassed the lawes, changed
The ordinance, broken the everlasting Covenant.

6  Therefore bath the curse consumed the Earth, and they that dwel there are Fallen into restfull: Wherefore the inhabi-Tators of the earth are perished with Drought, and fele men are left behinde.

7  The wine fayleth, the wine hath no Myght, all they that haue ben myr of Heart are come to mourning.

8  The myrth of tabrettes is laphe downe, the noyle of such as haue made Mery is ceased, the top at the harpe is At an ende.

9  They shall dynteke no more wine with Mirth, strong dyntke shall bette to them of the earth.

18 It will come to pass, that whosoever escapeth the fearfulness, shall fall into the pit, and he that commeth by out of the pit, shall be taken with the snare: for the windows from on high are open, and the foundations of the earth are moved.

19 The earth is utterly broken down, the earth hath a hole in it, the earth quaketh exceedingly:

20 The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunkard, and Shalheb removed like a tent, and the iniquity thereof Shalheb heave upon it, it shall fall, and not rise by again:

21 And in that day shall the Lorde visit the host above that is on lyre, and the kings of the world that are upon the earth.

22 And they shall be gathered together as they that be in lyre, and they shall be shut in wards, and after many days shall they be visited.

23 *The moon shall be abashed, and the sun ashamed, when the Lorde of hostes that reigneth in mount Sion and in Jerusalem with worship, and in the light of suche as Shalheb of his counsell."

The. xxv. Chapter.

1 I thankes getting to God for his workes.

2 Thou art my Lorde my God, I will magnifie thee, I will give thankes unto thy name, for thou hast bought wonderfull things to passe, according to thine ode counstes truely a faithfully.

3 Thou hast made a citie a heare of bones, and brought a strong tower into decay: the habitation of strangers hast thou made to be no citie, neither shall it be builded any more.

4 Therefore shall the nighte people give glory to thee, the citie of the balaam heareth shall fear thee.

5 For thou hast been a strength unto the poor, and a sucrour for the needy in his trouble, a refuge against enemie weather, a shadow against the heat: for the blast of springe men is like a furnace that causeth downe a wall.

6 Like as the heat in a drye place wasteth all things: so shall thou suppress the nolye of aliantes, the heate is abased with the shadowe of the cloud, [erue to so lade God] all waige the nolye of the cruel tenantes.

7 And in this mountaine shall the Lorde of hostes make unto all people a feast of plenteous and delicate things, even of mostpleasant and dainty dishes.

8 *As for death he hath destroyed it for ever," and the Lorde God shall wipe away tears from all faces, and the rebuke of his peole shall he take away out of all the earth, for so the Lorde hath layde.

L (1) 9 And
And that day shall this long be long in the land of Juda: we have a strong city, salvation that God appoint instead of wallace and bulwarks.

2. Open ye the gates, that the righteous people which keepeth the truth may enter in.

3. By an assured purpose by it thou preserve perfect peace; because they put their trust in thee.

4. Put ye your trust always in the Lord: for in the Lord God there is strength forevermore.

5. For he hath brought buyer the high minded citizens: as for the poude cities he hath brought it lowe, even to the ground shall he cast it downe, and bring it into dust.

6. The foote, even the foot of the poode, and the steepes of such as be in necessitie shall tread it downe.

7. The path of equitable justice thou graunte unto the illustrious [i.e., thou makest the path of law] that is righteous.

8. Be in the way of thy judgements, O Lord, have we put our trust in thee: thy name also and the remembrance of thee, is the thing that our soule longeth for.

9. By justice hast longed for thee all the night, and with my spirit whitho is within me will I feeke thee early in the morning: For when thy judgements are in the earth, the inhabitants of the world shall leaue righteousness.

10. Shall the vngodly man be favoured, which hath not learned righteousness, but both wickedly in the earth, where nothing ought to be done but that which is righteous: he shall not see the glory of the Lord.

11. Lord, when thy hande is lyst up to strike, they see it not: but they shall see it, and be confounded with the zeal of the people, and the fire that continueth ye thy enemies shall devour them.

12. Lord unto vs thou haile poude peace:* for thou also hast brought all our works in vs.

13. O Lord our God, other Lordes beside thee hast subdued vs: but we will be mindful only of thee and of thy name.

14. The dead will not lirfe, they that be of life will not cry againe, therefore half thou devise and rooted them out, and destroyed all the memorie of them.

15. Thou hast increased the people, O Lord, thou hast increased the people, thou art glorious, thou hast set them farre of unto all the coasts of the earth.

16. *O Lord, in trouble haue they visited thee, they polished out their paper whe thy chastening was upon them.

17. *Like as a woman with child which travaileth, her travayle is longe and peryth in her pynes; even so have we been in thy sight O Lord.

18. *We have ben with child and suffered paine, as though we had brought forth a burden: for there is no salvation in the earth, neither do the inhabitants of the world submit themselves.

19. *The dead men shall live, even as my body shall they rise againe: Awake and sing ye that dwell in dust, for the dead is such as the death of heares, and the earth shall call out them that are under her.
Come my people, enter thou into thy chambers, and shut thy doors about thee: hide thyself as a little ape, until the indignation be overpast.

For behold, the Lord is coming out of his place, to visit the wickedness of such as dwell upon earth: the earth also shall disclose her blood, and shall no more hide them that are slain in her.

8 For all tables are full of vomit and hittynece, that no place is clean.
9 Whom then shall fuche one teache knowledge: and Whom shall he make to understand the thing that he hear-eth: for they are as ignoquant as young chyarren that are taken from the milke, and are weaned.
10 For they that be fuche, must take af-after one teccion, another teccion, *after one commandement, another commandement, for one rule, another rule, after one instruction, another instruction, there a little, and there a little.
11 For ye that speakeis unto this people, it is euens as one that veth rudenesse of speache, and a strangue language.
12 If any man laye unto them, lo, this is the rest wherewith ye may eafe hym that is weere, this is the refreshing:
they will not heaken.
13 Therefore shall the word of the Lord be unto them, lesson upon lesson, commandement upon commandement, rule upon rule, instruction upon instruction, there a little, and there a litle: that they may go on and fall backward, be builed, tangled, and snared.
14 Wherefore heare the word of the Lord Ye mockers, ye that hauie rule of this people which is at Hierusalem.
15 Because ye have sain, We have made a covenante with death, and with hell are we at agreement: and though there go sooth a fexe plague, it shall not come vnto vs, for we have made falsehood our refuge, and under banuite are we hid.
16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I lay in Sion for a foundaton a stone, even a tried stone, a precious comer stone, a sure fouation: Who do believethe, let hym not be to fadie.
17 Judgement also will I laye to the rulc, and righteouseth to the balane, so that the (b) nayle shall sweepe abay
as a broome your bypane confidence, and the prine place of your refuge shall the Waters runne over.
18 And thus the covenante that ye made with death, shall be disansulted, and your agreement that ye made with hell shall not stand, yea when the foe plague goeth sooth, pe shall troden downe bur-der it.
19 From the tyme that it goeth sooth it shall take you abay: for early in the morning every day, yea both day and night shall it go throdowe, and when the noyle thereof is percieved, it shall gender veracion.
20 For the bed is narrowe and not large,
and the covering so small that a man cannot wunde hym selue [under it.] 21 *For the Lord shall stand as in mount Herrazim, and shalbe Wotth like as in the valley *Gideon, that he may do his work, his strange worke, and ypping to passe his acte, his straunge acte.
22 Nowe therefore see that ye be no mockers, lest your punishment increaue: For I hearde of the Lord of hoaftes, that there shall come a short ende upon the whole earth.
23 Hear ye then, and hearken unto my voyce, consider and ponder my speache.
24 Dost not the husbandman plowe all the day, and openeth and breaketh the clothes of his grounde, that he may sow?
25 When he hath made it playne, why he not spreade abode the sitches, and sowe corn, and rash in wheete by measure, and the appointed barleye and rye in their place.

26 God
The xxix. Chapter.

1 A prophecy against Jerusalem, and against the bane traditions of men.

28 God wille instruct hym to have discretion, even his God wille teache hym.
29 For stiches shall not be stched wite an harrowe, neither shalle a car witeke be whowe the convin: but the stiches are beaten out with a staffe, and convin with a rode.

30 But the seede that bread is made of, is the shed, though it be not alway a sheding, and the car witeke must be brought ouer it, lest he grounde it with his teeth.
31 This also commeth of the Lord of hoastes, which worketh with wonderfull wipesome, and hungerly excellent workes to passe.

32 Unto thee O Ariel
Ariel, thou citie that Davids dwelt in: So on from pere to pere, and let the lambes be flayne.

33 I wille lay sege but to Ariel, so that there shalbe heaviness and sore with me: and it shalbe unto me even an aurther of slanghister.
34 A will besiege thee rounde about, and fight against thee, and whatsoeuer a bulbarke, and wille care by tiches against thee.
35 Thou shalt be brought downe, and shalt speake out of the ground, and thy speache shall goe loade out of the dust:
36 Thy boype also shall come out of the ground lyke the boype of a bitches, and thy talypng shall whisper out of the dust:
37 Moreover, the noyle of the strange enemies shalbe like thyme dust, and the multitude of trauantes shalbe as d ye sable that can not tare: even sightly and in hate that their blast go.
38 Thou shalt be visited of the Lord of horse with thundr, earthquake, and with a great noyle, with shone and tempest, and with the flambe of a continuing fire.
39 And the multitude of all nations that fight against Ariel, shalbe as a dreame fene by night: even so shalle they be that make barre against it, and strongholds to overcome it, and that lay any seige unto it.
40 In conclusion, it shalbe euen as when a hungry man drea meth that he is etting, and when he awaketh, his soule is empe, or as when a thicke man drea meth that he is drinking, and when he awaketh, he is yet saime, and his soule hast appetite: even so shall the multitude of all nations that fightmeth against mount Sion.

9 Ponder these thinges once in your mindes, and wonder: Blinded are they them selues, and the blinde guides of other: They are drunken, but not with wine: they are dullable, but not thowards strong bonke.

10 For the Lord hath covered you with a slumberly spirit, and hath closed your eyes: your prophets also and rulers that shoulde fee, them hath he covered.

11 *And the vision of all the prophets is become unto you as the bookes of a booke that is sealed up, which men deliver to one that is learned, saying, Readeth thou not: and he faith, I can not, for it is sealed.

12 And the booke is given to him that is not learned, saying, Readeth thou in it: and he faith, I am not learned.

13 Therefore thus hath the Lord said: * Forsomuch as this people when they be in trouble, do honour me with their mouth and with their lippes, but their heart is farre fro me, and the feare which they have unto me proceedeth of a commandment that is taught of men:

14 Therefore wille I do maruerie among this people, even maruerious things [I say] and a wonder: *For the wyfdom of their wyse men shall perishe, and the understanding of their witte men shall hyde it selfe.

15 WO unto them that kepe secrete their thoughtes, to hide their counsel from the Lord, and to do their workes in darkness, saying: *who seeth vs: and who knoweth vs:

L (iii) 16 Doubtlesse
The prophecie

16 Doubtlesse your destruction is in reputation as the porters say: And both the worke lay of hym that made it, he made not me: And both an earthen vessel lay of hym that fashioned it, he had no understanding:
17 Is it not harde at hande that Libanus shall be turned into a lowe fielde, and that the lowe fielde shall be taken as the wood:
18 And in that day shall deafe men hear the wordes of the bookes, and the eyes of the blinde shall see, even out of the cloudes, and out of darkness.
19 The meke spirite also shall be merie in the Lord, and the poore among them that be lowly shall rejoyce in the holy one of Israel:
20 For he that dyd violence is brought to naught, and the scornfull man is confumed, and they rooted out that made haste early to birtighness:
21 Making a man to finne in the wode, and that take him in a hare, where he repoured them in the open place, and they that have turned the caufe of the righteous to naught.
22 Therefore thus saith the Lord to the house of Jacob, even thus saith he that redeemed Abraham: "Jacob shall not be confounded, nor his face pale.
23 But when he seeth his chyldren the worke of my handes in the middes of hym, they shall sanctifie my name, and pryele the holy one of Jacob, and feare the God of Israel.
24 They also that have ben of an accuruous spirite shall come to understanding, and they that have ben scornfull shall learne doctrine.

The, xxx. Chapter.

Against them that forsake the counsell of God, and cleaue to the counsell of men,

The propheye also threateneth the remnaunt of the people, that after the destrucion of Hierusalem went into Egypt.

Lath for those disobedient chyldren saith the Lord, "that they shall take counsell and not of me, that they shall take a secrete advice and not out of my spirite, and therefore addde they shene into synne.

2 Even they that walke to go devente into Egypt, and have asked no question at my mouth, but seeke strengthe in the might of Pharaon, and trust in the shadowe of Egypt.
3 Therefore shall the strengthe of Pharaon be your confusion, and the trust in the shadowe of Egypt your shame.
4 For his captaynes were at Zoan, and his embassadours came into hanes.
5 They were ashamede of the people that could do them no good, and that might not helpe them no; shelve them any profit, but were their confusion and rebuke.
6 The burthen of the beastes of the south, In a land of trouble and anguish, from whence shall come the young and old eion, the viper and fire serpent that sweeth against them that upon coltes bare their riches, and upon canels their treasures, to a people that can do them no good.
7 For byawe and nothing worth shall the helpe of the Egyptians be: Therefore have I creped into Hierusalem, they shall have strengthe though if they wylle telle their mindes in quietnesse.
8 Nothe therefore go thy way, and write this before them in a table, and note it in a book: that it may finally remaine and be kept well for ever.
9 For this is an obstinate people, "and dissembling chyldren, chyldren that refuse to heare the sade of the Lord.
10 For they raye unto the feares, see not, and to them that be cleare of judgement, loke not out right things for: but speake saxe wordes unto vs, loke out errors.
11 Get you out of this way, depart out of his path, and turne the holy one of Israel from vs.
12 Therefore thus saith the holy one of Israel: Because your heartes rese against against this word, and because you trust in wrong dealing and pernicious judgement, and put your confidence therein:
13 Therefore shall ye have this mischief for your destruction and fall, like as an hay wall that falleth because of some riot or blast, whose breaking commeth suddenly.
14 And the hurt thereof is like an ear then vellell which breaketh without help; to that in the bursting of it, there is not found one then her to fetch fire in,
or to take water withall out of the pit.
15 For thus saith the Lord God, even the holy one of Israel: In repentance and in rest shall ye be made; in quietness and sure confidence shall ye be strength, but ye have had no rest thereto.
16 For ye have said, No, but the byphl shall sleep as we sleep, therefore shall ye see: And the byphl get his by upon swift beasts, and therefore shall your perfections be twitter.
17 A thousande shall see at the rebuke deone, and at the rebuke of fine shall ye all see, till ye be left as a chip mast upon the top of a mountain, and as a beaten bypon an hill.
18 Therefore doth the Lord cause you towardeth, that he may have mercy upon you, to the end that he may have the preeminence when he is gracious unto you; For the Lord is the God of judgment, Blessed are all they that hope in him.
19 If the people remaine in Sion and at Jerusalem, thou shalt not be in beaunesse: but at the voope of thy complaint shall he have mercy upon thee, and when he heareth it, he shall give thee manifeste.
20 And thougth the Lord gave you the bread of trouble, and the water of adversity, thy rayne shall no more so faunt, but thyne eyes shall see thy rayne.
21 Pea and thyne ear shall hear the talking of him that doth speake behinde thee: This is the day, walke in it, turne not aside neither to the right
22 He shall destroy all the courting of your fitter images, and the decking of your golden idols, even as fithynesse shall thou put them away: And thou shall lay by it. Get thee hence.
23 Then saith God generayne unto thy seede, that thou shalt sowe the grounde withall, and bread of the increas of the earth, which shall be fat and very plenteous: in that day also shall thy cattell be fed in large pastures.
24 The oreyn lykewyse and the young affes that eare the grounde shall eate delese pouender, whiche is purged with the burne and the same.
25 Finally, upon euery lyce mountayne and hyll shall there be rivers, and streames of waues in the day of the great slaughter when the towres fall.
26 Whereover, the light of the moone shade, as the light of the sonne, and the same light shall be seven soles, and have as much shine as in seven daies before, when the Lord didde by the soxe of his people, and heareth the stroke of their wounde.
27 Behold, the fame of the Lord connecth from farre, and his presence is to hotte, that no man is able to abide : his lypes are full of indignation, and his tongue is as a consuming fire.
28 His breath is a vehement fume of water, that reacheth by to the necke : that he may lift abay the heathen in the fume of banite, and his breath is a bydle of errour in the olaves of the people.
29 And ye shall sing lyke as in the night when the holy temple nitte beginneth, ye shall haue gladnesse of heart, like as when one connecth with a pipe unto the hille of the Lord, and to the most mightie one of Israel.
30 And the Lord shall cause his glorious boype to be hearde, and shall declare his fretched out arme with a terrible countenaunce, & with the flambe of a consuming fire, with notsome lighttening, with a hothe, and with hale stones.
31 Forsoothe the boype of the Lord shall * Astar be destroyed, whiche finote other men with the rodde.
32 And it shall come to passe, that why-ther soever he goeth the rodde shall eate into him which the Lord shall laye upon hym, with tablettes and harpes: and with great warre shall he fight against his hoath.
The prophecy

The.xxxi. Chapter.

1 He curseth them that forsake God, and seek for the help of men.

2 Be ye unto them that go bold into Egypt for help, and trust in horses, and put their confidence in chariots because they be many, and in horsemen because they be lustie and strong: but they regard not the holy one of Israel, and they ask no question at the Lord.

3 And he nevertheless is wise, and will plague the wicked, and goeth not from his vine, he shall appease the judgment of the word, and against the help of evil doers.

4 For thus hath the Lord spoken unto me; *Lyke as the lion and *lions whiche roareth upon the prey, that he hath gotten, and is not afraide though

5 The multitude of the shepharthes crye out upon him, neither be abashed for the heap of them: so shall the Lord of hosts come bold to fight for mount Sion, and defend his hyl.

6 Like as the bydes flutter about their nestes, so shall the Lord of hosts, kepe, save, defend, and deliuer Hierusalem.

7 Therefore O ye children of Israel, turne againe unto him whom ye haue obtained forsaken.

8 For that day every man shall call B out his idols of silver, and his idols of gold, Whiche ye have made with your owne hands and your finne.

9 Asfure also shall hee laye with the woodes, not with a mans woode, neither that the woodes of any man devoure hym, and he shall see from the daunger, and his choise young men shall be consumed.

9 He shall goe for seare to his strong holdes, and his princes shall flee from his standerd vaille the Lord, Whose fire is in Sion, and his square in Hierusalem.

The.xxxij. Chapter.

1 The conditions of good rulers and officers.

2 *Choise, a kyng shall goerne after the rule of righteousness, and the princes shall rule according to the balaunce of equitie.

3 And that man shalbe unto men as a defence for the vine, and as a refuge for the tempes, lyke as a ryuer of water in a thriste place, and the shadowe of a great roche in a dype lande.

4 The eyes of the king shall not be dim, and the cares of them that hear shall take diligent heedde.

5 The heart of the bulbye shall attayne to knowledge, and the imperfect tongue shall speake playnely and distinctly.

6 But the inuagarde wyll speake ignorantly, and his heart wyll work enuy, and play the hypocrites, and imagine abominations against God, to make the hungry leane, and to withholde drinke from the thriste.

7 The Weapons of the churcbse are enuile, he deuilerly noplome deceuseth, that he may beguile the poor with deceitful words, yet even there as he should give sentence with the poor.

3 But the liberall person imagineth honest things, and communicateth liberal acts into promotion.

4 All ye rich and idle women, hearken into my boye, ye carless daughters mark mine and the\'.

5 Many years and days shall ye be brought in peace: Ye carless women, for the vintage shall faille, and the harvest shall not come.

6 Be alashed you that lyue in abundance, tremble you that lyue carless, cast of your cuppyment, make your fiftures bare, and putt fleshliness about you.

7 For as the infants wepe when their mothers teares are dyed by: so shall you wepe for your faire fildes and fruitfull vineyards.

8 My people felle shall byng thomes and thistles: and so shall it be in every houle of voluntuounshesse, and in every cite that reprochet.

9 The palaces also shalbe broke, and the greatly occupied cities desolate: The crownes and bulvarkes shall become shames for evermore, where lybide ales take their pleasure, and sheepe their pasture.

10 Unto the tyne that the spiire be pouered upon vs from above, and that the wilderness be a fruitfull fildie, and the plentious field be reckoned for: a wood.

11 Then shall equite dwell in the desert, and righteousnesse in a fruitfull lande.

12 And the woxie of righteousnesse shalbe peace, and her fruite reft and quietnesse for ever.

13 And my people shall dwell in the times of peace, and in lyure dwellynges, in lat place of comfort.

14 And when the halie faulles, it shall fall in the wood, and the cite shalbe let lode in the valley.

15 O holwe happy shall ye be when ye shall safely lode your seede before all waters, and byue thyther the seate of your oxen and ales.

The xxxiiij. Chapter.

1 Threatening against the Algiians. 20 A destruction of them that shall see the Lord.

D to thee that destroyest when thou wast not destroyed, thou breaste the league where as none hath broken it with thee: for when thou shalt leave destroyong, thou thy selfe shalbe destroyed: and when thou caelest from breaking the league, then shall they brake it to thee.

O Lorde have mercie upon vs, we have put our whole trust in thee: be an armie to finch carly, and our health in the tyne of trouble.

3 At that confuses noble the people fled, and at thine extacyng the heathen were scattered.

4 And the popoles shalbe gathered, which shalbe yours, which are the gatheryng of Brutus, and the multitude going to it shalbe as Lousies, running to and fro.

5 The Lorde is exalted, for it is he that dwelletch on lyce, he hath filled Sion with judgement and righteousnesse.

6 And a lycre abanlyng of thy times, shall be strength, health, Winborne, and knowledge: and the very fear of the Lorde shalbe the treaure of it.

7 Behold the messengers shall cry without: and the embassadours of peace shall wepe bitterly.

8 Their streets are waste, there wanteth no man therein: God hath broken the appointment, the cities are cast away, and men are nothing regarded.

9 The desolate earth is in heauntess, Libanum is staine and heiden doubne, Saron is like a wilderness, Safan and Charmel are spoled of their frutes.

10 And therefore faith the Lorde, I will by noie, noie bylI will be abomined, noie byll I be exalted.

11 Ye shall conceaue stubble, and beare strafe: and your spicre shalbe the fire, that it may confime you.

12 And the people shalbe burnt like lime, and as thones burnt that are heven of and cast in the fire.

13 Holwe
13 Poive hearten to ye that are faire of house, I have done, and consider my power ye that are at hande.

14 The sinners at Sion are ashayde, a sodainye fearfulness is come upon the hypocrites: what is he among vs say they that shall dwell by the continuing fire: which of vs may abyde the everlastinge heate?

15 He that leade by a godly life, and speaketh the truth, he that abhorreth gynes by violence and deceit, he that kepeth his hande that he touche no rewarde, which stoppeth his ears that he heare no conspaire against the innocente blood, which holdeth double his eyes that he fee no cuylt:

16 He it is that shall dwell on hye, whose safegarde shalbe in a bulldarke of rockes: to hym halbe germen icate, and his waysters halbe not saile.

17 Thine eyes shalbe the kyng in his glorie, even the kyng of the faire countreys shalb they see.

18 Thine hart stubed for seare thinking thus: What shalbe then become of the scriue of the receaure of our money: What of hym that tared our fairest houses?

19 There shalbe thou not see a cruell people of a straunge tongue, to have so diuised a language that it may not be understood, neither to straunge a speache but it shalbe percieved.

20 Loke upon Sion the head citie of our solenmpe feastes: thynne eyes shalb see Hierusalem that glorious habitation,

*The tabernacle that never shalbe removed, whose nappes that never be taken out.

21 For the glorious mauchie of the Lorde shalbe there present among vs as a place Where faire hydes rivers and streames are, through the which shalbe neither galley colde nor great shipplye.

22 For the Lorde is our judge, the Lorde is our lawde gener, the Lorde is our king, and he hym fele we shalbe our famour.

23 Thy tachlyn is loosed, therefore it can not make salt the maste, nor spread the speyle: then there is dealt great spoyle, pe aane men runne after the pay.

24 There lyeth no man that faith, I am sike: but all cuylt is taken awaie from the people that dwell there.

The.xxxiiiij. Chapter.

The last destruction of the synagoge, in which the keymonde and pesthood of the people was translated to the Church and congregation of Christ.

1 One ye heasen and hear, take heed you people: hearken thou earth and all that is therein, thou ounde compass and all that dwell eth therupon.

2 For the Lorde is angry with all people, his diuillie is kinded against all the multitude of them, he hath destroyed them, and deluyed them to the slaughter.

3 So that their blute shalbe cast out and their bodyes limke, that euen the very hyles halbe wet with the blood of them.

4 All the staries of heaven shall waks, and the heauens shall solde together lyke a roll, and all the staries therof shall fall, yeke as the leaues fall from the bines and sige trees.

5 For my nybode shalbe bathed in heauen, and shalbe immediately come downe to judgement upon Idumea, and uppon the people which I have curted.

6 And the Lodes Nyoede shalbe full of blood, and be ruly with the fatinesse and blood of lambes and goates, with the fatinesse of the hybeps of heathens: For the Lorde shal lyll a great offering in Bozra, and a great slaunder in the lande of Idumea.

7 There shall the unttoues fall with them, and the bulles with the giannes, and their lands halbe througely solde with blood, and their grounde corrupt with fatinesse.

8 For it is the day of Gods vengeaunce, and the pere of recompence for the vengeance of Sion.

9 And his stubbes shalbe turned to pitch, and his earth to brimstone, and there with shall the lande be kinded.

10 So that it shall not be quenched day nor nighte, but smoke evermore, and so dought ype waks: and no man shall go through it for ever.

11 But Pellecane, Stokkes, great Dukes,
Ivies, and Rauens shall have it in possession and dwell therein: For God shall spread out the line of desolation upon it, and the stones of emptinesse.

Her nobles shall call, and there is no kingdome: and all her princes shall be nothing.

Thomas shall grove in their palaces, netts & thistles in their strong holdes, that the dragons may have their pleasure therein, and that they may be a court for Striches.

There shall strange blures & monstrous beastes meet one another, and the wyde hepe company together: there shall the Laman lye and have her lodging.

There shall the Owle make her nest, build, be there at home, & crying forth her young ones: there shall the Hyles come together, eache one to his lyke.

Seek through the booke of the Lord and reade it: there shall none of these thynges be left out, there shall not one not be such lyke theale: for his mouth commanbeth, and that fame both his spirit gather together,or fulfill.

He shall cast the lot for them, and to those beastes hath his hands devised it by the line: therefore those shall possess it for ever, from generation to generation shall they dwell therein.

Chapter.

Ut the desert & Wilderness shall rejoice, the waste ground shall be glad and joyful as the Litle.

She shall flow the pleasantly and be joyfull, and ever be glowing thankes more and more: For the glory of Libanus, the beautie of Charmel and Saron shall grauen her: These shall knowe the honour of the Lord, & the majestie of our God.

And therefore (b) strength the weake hands, and comfort the feeble knees.

Say unto them that are of a fearesfull heart, be of good cheer and fear not, behold ye God cometh to take vengeance, and you shall fee the wrath of God generallye; God commeth his owne selfe, and will deluyer you.

Then shall the eyes of the blind be lightned, and the cares of the beasse opened.

Then shall the lame men leap as an hart, & the dumbe mans tongue shall gene thankes: *for in the Wilderness there shall Welles spring, and fuddes of water in the desert.

The drye grounde shall turne to rivers, and the thirsty to springs of water: whereas dragons dwell above, there shall grove sweete flowes & greene rushes.

There shall be foote pathes & common streetes, this hath beene called the holy way: no beast nor person shall go through it, for the Lord by shee shall goe with them that way, and the wayfayre nor ignorant shall not erre.

There shall be no lion, & no rauishing beastes shall come therein noz be there, but men redeemed shall goe there free and lye.

And the redeemed of the Lord I say shall conuerse and come to Zion with thankesgiving: euerlasting joy shall they have, pleasure and gladness shall be among them, and as for all spoil and haumesse it shall vanishe.

The xxxvij. Chapter.

*Hierusalem is besieged by Sennacherib in the tyne of hyng Hezekias.

1. *the fourteenth yere of king Hezekias came Sennacherib king of the Assyrians doone, to lay siege unto all the strong cittoes of Juda, to conquer them.

2. And the king of the Assyrians sent Rabshakeh from Lachis towarde Hierusalem, against Hezekias with an exceeding horde, which set hym by the conduit of the ouer pool in the way that goeth through the fuller's lands.

3. And so there came fowte unto hym Eliahim Hezekiasson, the chiefe over the householde, *Sodna the scribe, and Joah Alaphis sorne the secretarie:

4 And Rabshakeh sayde vnto them, Tell Hezekia that the great kynge saith thus vnto hym: What presumption is this that thou trustest vnto:

5 I sayde surely that thou trustest in byne wordes, when countayle and strength are necessary to battayle: but nowe vnderstond thou, that thou rebellst against me?

*Lo, thou puttest thy trust in a broken staffe of reede [Imane] Egypt, Which he that lea\neth vpon, it goeth into his so is Pharao the kynge of Egypt vnto all them that trust in hym.

10 Po\nzeuer, thinkest thou that I am come up hyther to destroy this lande without the Lorde\s wyll: The Lorde\nlaid vnto me, Go vp agaynst this lande and destroy it.

11 Then sayd Eliakim, Sodna, & Joah, vnto Rabshakeh: Speake to vs thy se\n\ntauntes we pray thee in the Syr\nas\nlanguage, for we understande it well, and speake not to vs in the Hebrew\ntongue, lest the olke heare which ly\n\eth vpon the wall.

12 Then answerd Rabshakeh: Hath my master sent me to speake this only to thy master and thee: hath he not sent me to them also that lye vpon the wall: that they may be compelled to care their owne dunges, and drinke their owne stale vith you:

13 And Rabshakeh (vnder stife, and cryd vith) a lounde voyce in the Hebrew tongue, and sayde: Nowe take heede holde the great kynge of the Assyrians gently you Warning.

14 Thus saith the kynge: Let not He\zek\ia decea\ne you, for he shall not be able to deliever you.

15 Po\nzeuer, let not Hezekia comfort you in the Lorde when he saith, The Lorde without double shall defende vs, and shall not gene over this cite into the handes of the kynge of the Assyrians.

16 Harken not to Hezekia, for thus saith the kynge of Assyria: Obayme my favour, encline to me, to may every man enjoy his vineyarde and figge trees, and dispote the water of his cethrene.

17 Unto the tyme that I come my selfe, and byng you into a lande that is like your owne, Wherin is \b\mate & Wine, which is both fowen with secede and planted with vineyardes.

18 Let not Hezekia decea\ne you, when e he faith vnto you, The Lorde shall de\luer vs: Oght the gods of the gen\tiles kepe every mans lande from the power of the kynge of the Assyrians:

19 Where is the god of Hamath and Arphad:
where is the god of Sepharu\nnum: and who is able to defende Sama\ria out of my hande:

20 Of which of all the gods of these landes hath delivered their country out of my power: Is the Lorde in de\ble able to deliever Hierusalem from my hande:

21 Unto this Hezekias messengers helde their tongues, and aunswered not one worde: for the kynge had charge\nthat they should gene him no aunswere.

22 So came Eliakim Helkias some the chief over the householde, Sodna the scribe, and Joah Alaphes some the se\crarie vnto Hezekia with rent clo\thes, and tolde hym the words of Rabshakeh.

HEA HEZEKIA HUMBLED HIMSELF BEFORE THE LORD; FOR THE ARMY OF Sennacherib IS CAPTIVE IN THE HANDS OF THE LORD, AND THE HUMILIATION OF THE LORD IS EARNESTLY DESIRED.

1. Hezekiah heard that he was going to be attacked by the king of Assyria and his army. He sent a letter to the prophet Isaiah, asking for his advice.

2. Isaiah declared that the Lord would protect Jerusalem from the enemy. Hezekiah was relieved and his fear subsided.

3. Hezekiah asked for a sign from the Lord to confirm his faith. Isaiah said that the shadow on the wall of the temple would extend ten cubits.

4. The shadow did indeed extend ten cubits. Hezekiah knew that this was a sign from the Lord and he rewarded Isaiah for his faithfulness.

5. Hezekiah repented of his sins and prayed to the Lord. The Lord answered his prayer and Hezekiah was saved from the Assyrian army.

6. Hezekiah became very sick and the Lord granted him a sign that he would live. Hezekiah thanked the Lord for his mercy.

7. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

8. Hezekiah asked for a sign from the Lord to confirm his faith. Isaiah said that the Lord would send a vision of the heavens opening.

9. The Lord opened the heavens and Hezekiah saw the angels of the Lord ministering to the Lord. Hezekiah was humbled and praised the Lord for his greatness.

10. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

11. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

12. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

13. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

14. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

15. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

16. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

17. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

18. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

19. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

20. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

21. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.

22. Hezekiah's servant Isaiah came to Jerusalem and told him that the Lord was going to save him. Hezekiah was grateful for the Lord's mercy.
The prophecie

O daughter of Jerusalem, 23 But thou Sennacherib, whom hast thou defied and blasphemed: Agagush, whom hast thou lifted by the boyster, and erated thy pride in thee: even aganist the holy one of Israel.

D 24 Thou wert with thy seruantes hast blaspheim the Lord, and thus holdest thou of the selle: I will cover the hyle mountaynes and hyes of Libanus with my housemen, and there will I cut downe the hyle Cedar trees, and the fayrest Fyre trees: I will by in the heighit of it, and into the chiefeest of his tymer woods.

25 If there be no water, I will gnue and brynte: and as for waters of defence, I will bye them vp with the keepe of impure boats.

26 Pec, hast thou not heared what I have taken in hynde and brought to passe of olde tymne: That same will I doe noth else, and walle, destro, and byng strong cities bnto heapes of stones.

27 For, their inabitantes shall be lkea tame men brought in feare and confounded: they shall lyke grasse and greene heartes in the fielde, lyke the hy byn houte toppes, that wythereth before it be gnoten by.

28 I knowe thy wapes, thy going sooth, and thy conning home, yea and thy madnesse against me.

29 Therefor thy surioussete against me, and thy pride is come before me, I will put my ryng in thy nose, and my bridde but in the calves of thee, and turne thee about even the same way thou caunst.

30 I will gne thee also this token [ O }

Hezekiah, this pere shalt thou caste such as growth of it felle, and the second pere that which hyngeth agayne of the same, in the third pere ye shall howd and reape, yea ye shall plant vineyards, and enjoy the frutes thereof.

31 And such of the house of Juba as are escaped shall come together, and the rennauent shall take roote beneath, and byng douoth frute above.

32 For the escaped shall go out of Hierusalem, and the rennauent from the mount Sion: and this shall the zede of the Lord of hoalettes byng to palle.

33 Therefor thus saith the Lord concerning the kyng of the Assyrians: he shall not come into this tittle, and shall hy百分 no arrowen into it, there shall no childe hurt it, neither shall they tak ditches about it.

34. The same way he came he shall returne, and not come at this tittle, saith the Lord.

35 And I will kepe and bauke this tittle [ faith be ] for impure obvne and for my renuante Davids take.

36 *Thus the angel of the Lord went soothe, and sute of the Assyrians haft an hundred fourrse, and five thou fande: and when men arose by early in the monyng, behold they were flaine, and all lay full of dead bodeys.

37 So Sennacherib the kyng of the Assyrians brake by & dibelt at Nine.

38 Afterwaide it channed as he played in the temple of Phryco his God, that Aduamaterch and Sarazer his owne somes fite hym with the towoode, and sted into the lande of Armenia: and Xarabbon his somse raigne in his steede.

The xxxviiij. Chapter.

1 Hezekiah is sicke into death, but is yet recuired by the Lord, and lyeth fiftene peres after: of which benefite he g/settings.

2 But this synne was Hezekiah sike into death, * and the prohete Esai the soune of Amos came bnto hym, and sayde, Thus commyndeth the Lord: Set thy house in order, for thou must dye, and shalt not escape.

3 And sayde: Remember O Lord I beseeche thee, that I have walked before thee in truythe, and a seattt heart, 8 have done the synne that is pleauant to thee. And Hezekiah wepte sore.

4 Then sayde God into Esai: 5 Go and speake into Hezekia: The Lord God of Dauid thy father (ended thee this word, I have hearde thy prayere, and considered thy teares: be hold I will put fiftene peres no bnto.
The xxxix. Chapter.

Hezekiah is reproofed of Esai, because he showed his treasure unto the embassadors of Babylon.

Then came Esai the prophet to king Hezekiah, and sayde unto hym: what have the men sayde, and from whence came they unto thee? Hezekiah answered, They came out of a farre country unto me, out of Babylon.

Esai sayde, What have they lookd upon in thy house? Hezekiah answered, All that is in my house have they seen, and there is nothing in my treasure but I shewed it them.

Then sayde Esai unto Hezekiah: Understand the worde of the Lord of heastes:

Beholde, the tyne shall come that every thyng which is in thyne house, and done, I lift vp mine eyes into the heighth: O Lord, sayde I, my handekepeth me doone, eache thon mee.

What shall I say? The Lord hath made a promisse to me, sayde he: that selfe hath performed it: I shall therefore so long as I saye remember this bitterness of my lyse.

O Lord, to all those that shall lyse hereafter, sayde he: to all men shall it be known, that even in these yeares I have a topsol lyse, and that it was thou that causéd me to sleepe agayn, thou hast gien my lyse to me.

O Lord, bitter as gall was my pelvesness, so longed I for health, and it was thy pleasure to deliuer my lyse from the kynth pit: for thou it is [O Lord] that hast cast all my times benended the backe.

For hell payleth not thee, death doth not magnifie thee: they that go downe into the grave payleth not thy truech.

But the lyng, say the lyng, knowledge thee, as I do this day: the father tellich his children of thy sayings.

To heale me it is the Lordes woake, and he will sing my songes in the house of the Lord all the dayes of our lyse.

And Esai sayde: Take a platter offigges, and lay it upon the sore, to shal it be whole.

Then sayd Hezekiah: O Lord what a miracle is this, that I shall goe into the house of the Lord.

of Esai. lxxxvii.
and all that the progenitors have layde up in store bounti this day, shalbe caryed to Babylon, and nothing left beynde, thus saith the Lord.
7 Ye and part of thy sones that shal come of thee, & whom thou shalt beget, shalbe caried hence, and become gilded chamberlaynes in the kyng of Babylons court.
8 Then sayde Hesdina to Elai, God is the Word of God which thou hast tolde me, he sayd moreover, For there shalbe peace and faithfulnesse in my tyne.

The calling of the Gentiles.

man, he shall gather the lambs together with his arme, and carry them in his bosone, and shall kyrlyd utterate those that beare young.
12 Who hath measured the waters in his fist? Who hath measured heauen with his palme, and hath comprehended all the earth of the World in three measures: Who hath waved the mountaynes and bylles in a ballaunce.
13 Who hath directed the spirite of the Lord: or who gave hym counfyle, and the Wed hym?
14 Who is of his counfyle, and giveth hym understanding, and hath taught hym the path of judgment: Who taught hym cunning, and opened to hym the way of understanding?
15 Scholde, all people are in comparison of hym as a droppe of a bucket full, and are counted as the least thyng that the ballaunce wapeth: yea and the Jucs he taketh vp as a very little thyng.
16 Libanus is not sufficient to munifier fire to his offering, and all the beastes thereof are not enough for one sacrifice.
17 All people in comparison of hym are reckoned as nothing: ye if they be compared with hym, telle then nothing, and as it that is not.
18 To whom then shall ye hken God;
y what advantage will ye let by to hne 19 Shall the caruer make hym a carued image: and shall the goldsmith cover hym with golde, or cast hym into a fourne of siluer plates?
20 Moreover, shall the image maker that the poore man which is disposed may have some thyng to let by also, seake out and choose a tree that is not rotten, and cave thercout an image that moueth
not.
21 Knowe ye nothing: beare ye no care of it: hath it not ben preached unto you since since the beginning: have ye not been en-sourced of this by the foundation of the earth:
22. It is he that stretcheth upon the circle of the heavens, whose inhabitants are in comparison of him: but as grasshoppers, he spreadeth out the heavens as a cou-ring, he stretcheth them out as a tent to behold it.
23. He bringeth princes to nothing, and the judgments of the earth as though they were not.
24. So that of them it may be said, they do not plant nor sow the agayne, nether their stocke rooted agayne in the earth: for as soon as he bloweth upon them, they wither and fade away like the grass in a Whible wind.
25. To whom noise will ye liken me, and whom shall I be like, saith the high one:
26. Lift up your eyes on high, and consider who hath made those things which come out by so great sheapes, and he calleth them all by their names: there is nothing hid from the greatness of his power, strength, and might.
27. Godd may then Jacob think, or may Israel say, by wares are hid from the Lord, and my God knoweth not of my judgments?
28. Knowest thou not, or hast thou not heard that the everlasting God, the Lord, who made all the corners of the earth, is neither wertie nor faint; and that his wisdom can not be comprehended:
29. It is he that giveth strength into the wertie, and power into the faint.
30. Children are wertie and faint, and the strongest men fall.
31. But unto them that have their trust in the Lord, shall strength be increased: Egles shalj strength shall growbe upon then, when they runne they shall not fall, and when they go they shall not be vieere.

The xlj. Chapter.

1. Of the goodness and mercy of God towards the people.

2. He spaketh of the landes, and hearken unto me: let the people lay their strength together, let then come hither, and then thev their caufe: we will go to the lawe together.

3. Who rapeth by the landmanc from the est, and called him to go forth: who call davbe the people, and saboured the kings before him: that he may shoul them all to the ground with his sword, and scatter them like stubble with his bowle.

4. He bloweth upon them, and goeth late him folfe, that in a way where before his loote had not troden.

5. Who hath made and created these things: even he that calleth the generations from the beginning, even I the Lord which am the first, and with the last.

6. The Iews gave and did feare, and the ends of the earth were abashed, were ere, and came hither.

7. The carpenter conferred the goldsmith, and the goldsmith the hammer-man, saying, lower yull do very well meat: and they fastened it with naples, that it should not be moved.

8. But thou, Israel, art my seruant, that Jacob whom I haue choese, thou art the seede of Abraham my beloved.

9. Thou art he whom I led from the ends of the earth: for I called thee euen from among the glorious men of ife, and spake unto thee, thou art my seruant, I have choosen thee, and not call thee alway.

10. Be not afraid: for I am with thee:
Me not away as water, for I am thy God to strength thee, help thee, and keep thee with the right hande of my righteousnesse.

11. Behoove, all they that resteth shall come to confusion and shame, and their abuncaries shalbe destroyed: | brought
to naught.

12. So that who do seeketh after them, shall not finde them, thy destroyers shall perish: and is shall they that undertake to make barttle against thee be as that is not, as a thing of naught.

13. For
The prophecy

13 For I the Lord thy God will strengthen thy right hand, even I that say unto thee, Fear not, I will help thee.

14 Be not afraid thou little vine of Jacob, and thou despised Israel; for I will help thee, faith the Lord, and the holy one of Israel thy redeemer.

15 Behold, I will make thee a reaping cart and a Nebiha slate, that thou mayest thrive the she and grudge the mountaine, and huel the hilles to powder.

16 Then shall famme them, and the vine shall serve them away, and the white vine shall scatter them, but thou shalt rejoice in the Lord, and shalt delight in the holy one of Israel.

17 When the thirstie and poore seekke water and finde none, and when their tongue is drye of thirst, I geue it them faith the Lord, I the God of Israel for sake them not.

18 "I drinking forth studdes in the hilles, and belles in the playne fieldes: I turne the wilderneffe to rivers, and the drye lande to conduites of water.

19 I plant in the waste groundes trees of Cedar, Zore, Myre, and Olives, and in the drye I let Fresse trees, Elmes, and halbthomes together.

20 All this do I, that they altogether may lee and marke, perceame with their hearts and consider that the hande of the Lord makereth these things, and that the holy one of Israel bringeth them to passe.

21 Stande at your cause faith the Lord, and drinking forth your stronges grounde, faith the lyng of Jacob.

22 Let them drinking forth their gods, and let their gods tel vs what shall chauce hereafter, yea let them shewe vs the things that are past what they be, let them declare them unto vs, that we may take them to heart, and know them hereafter.

23 Either thevy do things so to come, and tell vs what shall be done hereafter, so shall we know that ye are gods, do somthing either good or bad, so wyl we both knowledge the fame, and tell it out.

24 Behold ye are gods of naught, and your making is of naught: yea abominable is the man that hath chosen you.

25 Nevertheless, I have waked you from the north, and he shall come from the east, he shall call upon my name, and shall treate upon princes as upon clay, and as the potter treateith downe the mirc.

26 Who declared this from the beginning, and we will knowe hyn: or from the olde times, and we will confess, and say that he is righteous: but there is none that declareth any thing, there is none also that heareth your voudes.

27 The first is he that shall say to Sion, beholde, beholde, they are present; and to Jerusalem it selfe wyl I gene an evangellist.

28 But when I consider, there is not a man among them, not any that can gene counsylle, nor that when I examine them that can anfwer one vodde.

29 Lo wicked are they, and byyne, with the thunges also that they take inhand, yea their images are but wunde and byyne thunges.

2 It calleth the Lord, who hath redeemed thee, D Jacob, and he that hath sanctified thee, D Israel, to the Lord, thus: Fear not, for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine alone.

3 If thou goest through water, I will be with thee, the strong streams shall not overwhelm thee; and if thou walkest through fire, it shall not burn thee, is the name that is not mine upon thee:

4 For I am the Lord thy God, the ho

5 puse of Israel thy favour; I gave Egypt for thy deliverance, the Ethiopians and the Sabeans for thee:

6 Because thou walkest bare in my sight, and because I set by thee and loved thee: I will enjoin all men for thee, and deliver by all people for thy sake.

7 Fear not, for I am with thee, I will help thee, and deliver thee from the wilderness.

8 I will say to the north, Set, let go, and to the south hope not: but bring me my sons from farre, and my daughters from the ends of the world.

9 [sarnctly] all those that be called after my name: For them have I created, I sanctified, and made for mine honour.

10 King forth that people which is blind and yet hath eyes, which are deafen, though they have ears.

11 All nations come in one and be gathered together, whiche among them shall declare these things, and tell by the things that are past, let them bring their vinasesse, so that they be unable to tell them hearce, and say, it is truth.

12 You are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servants whom I have chosen: therefore be lifted, and give me faithfull, and with and consider that I am the befor whom there was never any god, neither shalhe alway after me.

13 I am, even I am the only Lord, and beside me there is no other name.

14 I gaue warning, I made whole, I taught you when there was no strange god among you; and this revelation beareth mean thy visions, saith the Lord, I that am God.

15 And even he am I who was from the beginning, and there is none that can take anything out of my hande: I do the worke, and who shall able to let it?

16 Thus saith the Lord the holy one of Israel your redeemer: for your sake I have sent to Babylon, brought it down: at they are suffitcous with the Chaldaces, whose forscall cote is in their hallowes.

17 Thus saith the Lord, even he that maketh alway in the sea, and a footpath in the nightwates.

18 Remember not things of old, and regard no nothing that is past.

19 Behold, I shall make a new thing, and shortly shall it appear, and shall you not know it? I will make a way in the desert, and rivers of water in the Wildeberesse.

20 The wilde beasts shall worship me, the dragons and the young Elstiches: for I shall give water in the Wildeberesse, and streams in the desert, that they may give drink to my people whom I have.

21 This people have I made for myself, and they shall worship, my people, and they shall notifer my people.

22 For thou Jacob wouldst not call upon me, but thou hastest an enlil red me to thurme, D Israel.

23 Thou gauest me not thy beastes for burnt offerings, neither diddest honour me with sacrifices: I have not ben chargable unto thee in offerings, neither greenious in incense, 24 Thou boughtest me no deare spice with thy money, neither poished the fat of thy sacrifices upon me: but thou hast eaten me with thy hollines, and degrade me with thy vonggedykeles.

25 Whereas as ye yet, even I am onle that for my owne feeues take do alway thine offences, and forget thy feeues, so that I will yeever shalhe upon them.

26 Put me not in remembrance, for the I will reason together, and shew wha thon hast for thee to make thee righteous.

27 Thy first father offended, and thy rules have leamed against me:

28 Therefore I profaned [or cleare] the princes of the sanctuare, I dyd curse Jacob, and gave Israel into reproose.
Chapter 2

1. O hear now, O Jacob my servant, and Israel whom I have chosen.

For thus saith the Lord that maketh thee, fashioned thee, and helpeth thee even from thy mothers womb: Be not afraid. O Jacob my servant, thou righteous whom I have chosen.

2. For I shall pour out water upon the dry ground, and rivers upon the thirsty: I shall pour my spirit upon thy seed, and my blessing upon thy work.

3. They shall grove together like as the grass, and as the wildolives by the waters side.

4. One that lay, I am the Lord: another shall call my name after the name of Jacob: the thirde shall subscribe with his hande unto the Lord, and give hym selfe under the name of Israel.

5. Thus hath the Lord spoken, even the king of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hostes: I am the first and the last, and besides me there is no God.

6. If any be like me, let hym call foorth the thing past, and openly shew it, and lay it plaine before me, what hast chambered since I appointed the people of the boarde, and what that be short, or what that come to passe (in time long to come), let them shew these things:

7. Be not afraid, nor afraid: for have not I ever tolde you hithereto and warned you: ye can heare me recorde your lines: is there any God except me, or am I maker, that I should not know hym?

8. Allcure of images are but bayne, and the carved images that they love can do no good: they must heare recorde their lines, that seeing they can neither see nor understand, they shall be confounded.

9. Who dare then make a god, or fashion an image that is profitable for no thing:

10. Behold, all the fellowship of them must be brought to confusion, truly all the workemakers of them are men: they shall all be gathered together, they shall stand, tremble, and be confounded one with another.

11. The smith maketh an arme, and tempereth it with hotte coales, and fashioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with all the strength of his armes, yet sometime he is saunte for very hunger, and sotheth that he hath no more power.

12. The carpenter or image caruer taketh measure of the timber, and spreadeth forth his line, he marketh it with some colour, he playneth it, he ruledeth it, and squareth it, and maketh it after the image of a man, and according to the beautie of a man, that it may stand in the house.

13. Wherefore, he goeth out to hewe Cedar trees, he bringeth home Timnes and Dues, and taking a bold courage, he seeketh out the best timber of the wood: he him selue hath planted a pine tree, which the rayne hath distilled,

14. Which wood serveth for men to burne: Of this he taketh and warmeth hym selfe withall, he maketh a fire of it to bakebread, and maketh also a god therof to honour it, and a graven image to kneele before it.

15. One piece he burneth in the fire, with another he casteth it seethe, that he may eate rote his belly full: Whith the thirde he warmeth him selfe, and faith, Zha, I am well warmed, I haue ben at the fire.

16. And of the residue he maketh hym a god, and graven image for him selfe: he kneelth before it, he vowthpper it, he prayseth unto it, and faith, Delivered me, for thou art my god.

17. *Yet men neither consider nor understand, because their eyes be stopped that they can not see, and their hearts that they can not perceive.

18. They ponder not in their minds, for they have neither knowledges nor understanding to think thus: I have bent one piece in the fire, I have baked bread with the coales thereof, I take

19. *
Thus faith the Lord thy redeemer, even he that fashioned thee from thy mothers womb: *I am the Lord thy God, and there is none other, for without me there is no God: *I have prepared thee of ever thou knowest me.

24. Thus saith the Lord thy redeemer, even he that fashioned thee from thy mother's womb: *I am the Lord thy God, and there is none other, for without me there is no God: *I have prepared thee of ever thou knowest me.
I have made the earth, and created man upon it: with my hands have I spread forth heaven, and given a commandment for all the host thereof.

I shall wake him up with righteousness, and set all his ways straight: he shall uprightly rule withme, and govern his house, and not be overcharged with riches; therefore the Lord God of Jacob shall be called, the Shepherd of Israel.

Thus saith the Lord, The occupiers of Egypt, the merchants of Ethiopia, Sabae, that come even unto thee with tribute, they shall fall within before thee, and go within and within upon their feeble, they shall fall before thee, and make supplication within thee: for God without whom there is none other God, shall dwelle with thee.

O how profound art thou, O God, thou and favour of Israel:

Confounded are they all and put to dishonour, they are gone hence together with shame, even like the makers of images.

But Israel shall be saved in the Lord with an everlasting salvation: ye shall not come to shame nor confusion among the nations.

For thus saith the Lord, Even he that created heauen, the God that made the earth's fashioned it, and let it follow, he did not make it for naught, but to be inhabited, even I the Lord, without whom there is none other.

And the whole seed of Israel shall be saved, and glory in the Lord.

The xlii. Chapter.

Exo. xxvii.

The first of the Reubenites is repaired: The health that commeth by Christ is prophesied.

A 1

El is fallen, Naboth is broken down: whole images were a burden for the beasts and cattle, to overiade them, and to make them beece.

They are broken down and fallen together, for they may not ease them of their burden, therefore must they go to capture.

Hearten unto me O house of Jacob, and all ye that remain yet of the house of Israel, whom I have borne from your mothers womb, and brought you by your path.

It is even I which shall bear you into your last age: I have made you, I will also nourish thee, bear you, and laue thee.

When I will I make me lyke, and to whom I will I make me equall or compare me, that I should be like him.

Take out silver and gold out of your purses, and way it, and hyve a golden shulph to make a god of it, that men may knece bowde and worship it.

Yet must he be taken on mens shoulders and borne, and set in his place, that he may stand, and not move out of his place: and if one eye unto hym, he geth no ashamed, and declereth not the man that calleth upon hym from his trouble.

Consider this well, and be ashamed: go into your owne fluues.

Remember
The prophecy of the Lord against Babylon.

1. Behold, I will make thee a stone of惊奇, a sorrow of wisdom, and a grudge of the house of Israel, to thee, O daughter of Babylon, who art to be destroyed; for in thine own day are thy sentences fulfilled.

2. Go and tell this tale of thy sorrows, and thine virgin sabbatical, that thou mayest say, I am made desolate, I am destroyed; be not moved at thine heart when I say, for she is not come upon thee.

3. For thus saith the Lord against the vengeful house of Israel; The virgin is full of blood, she is full of the fruit of the arm: they feed upon thee with the feeding of a horseman.

4. For thy & fall by the hand of thy enemies; and thine high places shall be burned up in the fire: the sword of thine enemies shall devour thee, through the multitude of thy sorceries, and through the multitude of thy wrath.

5. The multitude of thy sorceries shall fall upon thee, and the multitude of thy wrath shall pass over thee; and thine eye and thy tongue shall be consumed, and thou shalt be consumed.

6. For thou hast trusted in thy sorceries, and the multitude of thy affirmations, and thous hast said, I am not a woman, to whom sorceries are lawful; but thou hast built an polygon, and thou hast sworn in the day of thine execution.

7. And thou hast defiled the land, and transgressed against the covenant of thy fathers, by afflicting and oppressing thy neighbour: for I will make thee desolate, and will have none in thee to dwell.

8. Therefore shall the sword of thine enemies come upon thee, and the multitude of thy sorceries shall pass over thee; and they shall sing a song of sorrow upon thee, saying, I am thy brother, and thou art my sister, saith the Lord.

9. Thus saith the Lord, I will be thy adversary, and I will work upon thee in thine days, and in thy sorrow, and in thine execution, and in thy labour, and in thine affections.

10. Therefore shall the multitude of thy sorceries be come upon thee, and the multitude of thy wrath shall pass over thee; and they shall sing a song of sorrow upon thee, saying, I am thy brother, and thou art my sister, saith the Lord.

11. Therefore shall the multitude of thy sorceries be come upon thee, and the multitude of thy wrath shall pass over thee; and they shall sing a song of sorrow upon thee, saying, I am thy brother, and thou art my sister, saith the Lord.

12. Thus saith the Lord, I will be thy adversary, and I will work upon thee in thine days, and in thy sorrow, and in thy execution, and in thy labour, and in thy affections.

13. Therefore shall the multitude of thy sorceries be come upon thee, and the multitude of thy wrath shall pass over thee; and they shall sing a song of sorrow upon thee, saying, I am thy brother, and thou art my sister, saith the Lord.

14. Therefore shall the multitude of thy sorceries be come upon thee, and the multitude of thy wrath shall pass over thee; and they shall sing a song of sorrow upon thee, saying, I am thy brother, and thou art my sister, saith the Lord.

15. Thus saith the Lord, I will be thy adversary, and I will work upon thee in thine days, and in thy sorrow, and in thy execution, and in thy labour, and in thy affections.
The hypocrify of the Jews is propos'd.
1 The Lorde alone will be worshipped, which hath choen vs, and which succoureth vs for his owne sake.

1. Care this, O thou house of Jacob, ye that are called by the name of Israel, for the Lorde, and beare witness by the God of Israel, but with truth and right.

2. For they are named of the holy cite, and are grounded upon the God of Israel, whose name is the Lorde of holdes.

3. The thynges that I have shewed you euery since the beginning, haue I not brought them to passe immediately as they came out of my mouth, and declared them, and they are come?

4. Howbeit I knowe that thou art obstinate, and that thy necke hath an iron kninde, and that thy browe is of basche.

5. Nevertheless, I have euery since the beginning shewed thee of thynges for to come, and declared them unto thee or euery they came to passe: that thou shouldest not say, my neidd hath done it, my euered or molten image hath shewed it.

6. Thou hearest it before, and beholde it come to passe: And shall not ye your times theewethoofthou confesseth the same: But as for me, I tolde thee before at the beginning newe and secrete thynges which thou knewest not of.

7. And some done of olde tymne, whereof thou never hearedst before they were brought to passe, that thou canst not say, beholde I knovest of them.

8. Moreover, there be some whereof thou hast neither heard nor knowne, neither have been opened unto thyne eares afore tymne: For I knowe that thou wouldest vnitiously offend, therefore have I calleth thee a transgressour, even from the mothers wombe.

9. Nevertheless, for my namesake I will withdawe my wrath, and for my honours sake I will patiently so bare thee, that I do not root thee out.

10. Beholde I have purged thee; yet nor as yet, "I have choen thee in the fire of affliction."

11. And that only for my neidd sake, yea even for my neidd sake will I do this: or els what dishonour would they do to my name; surely I will not give my glory unto another.

12. Hearken unto me O Jacob, and Israel whom I have called: I am even he that is, I am the first and the last.

13. My hande hath layde the foundation of the earth, and my right hande hath spanned ouer the heauens: as done as I call them, they blende together.

14. Gather you altogether and hearken: which of ponder gods hath declared this: The Lorde hath a loue unto him, and he that performeth his bluyll against Babell, and declare his power against the Chaldees.

15. If my flesse alone, even I have tolde you this, I dyde call him and bryng him south, and he shall make his journey prosperous.

16. Come to me and heare this: haue I spoken any thyng darkly since the beginning: From the tyne that this thyng begyvynge I am there: Wherefore the Lorde God and his spirite hath sent me.

17. And thus saith the Lorde God thy redeemer, the holy one of Israel: I am the Lorde thy God which teachethee * profitable thynges, and leadethe thee the way that thou shouldest go.

18. *O that thou hadst regarded my commandementes, then had thy wealthie nesses ben as the water freame, and thy righteousnesse as the waues flowing in the sea:

19. Thy leede also had ben lyke as the lande in the sea, and the fruite of thy body lyke the greuell stone thoresc: his name shoulebe not be rooted out, no destroyed before me.

20. *Go away from Babylon, see from the Chaldees, with a rauoye speake of this, declare it abode, and go toth into the ende of the worlde, say: The Lorde hath redeemed his freuame Jacob.

21. They suffered no hurt, he led them through the wildeernesse, and raued the waters.

1 And thus saith the Lord: "In the time accepted have I heard thee, and in the day of salvation have I helped thee: "I will preserve thee, and make thee to be the attencion of the people, that thou nayest helpe by the earth againe, and possesse againe the desolate heritages.

9 "That thou mayest lay upon the prisoners, go forth, and to them that are in darkness, come into the light: they shall fee thee in the lyke wypes, and get thei pastoure in all lyke places.

10 "They shall neither hunger nor thirst, heat nor shone shall not hurt them: for he that favoureth them shall leade them, and give them drink of the well springes.

11 I will make Wapes upon all my mountains, and my footpathes shall be exalted.

12 And beholde, these shall come from farre, to some from the north and west, some from the lande of Sinis (which is in the fourth.)

13 "Rejoyce ye heauenis, and sing praises thou earth, tale of joy ye hylites: for God hath comforted his people, & will have merce upon his that be in trouble.

14 But Sion sayde: "God hath forsaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me.

Then shalt thou think by thyself, who hath begotten me these, keeping I am born and alone, a captive and an outcast: and who hath nourished them up for me? I am belated and alone, but from whence come these?

And therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will stretch out my hand unto the gentiles, and set my foot in the midst of them, and they shall bring thee thy fruits in their lap, and every thy daughter their upon their shoulders.

For kings shall be thy nursing fathers, and queens shall be thy nursing mothers: They shall fall before thee with their face down upon the earth, striking the bulk of thy feet: that thou mayest know have that I am the Lord, and that who so putteth their trust in me shall not be confounded.

Shall the MSP be taken from the mighty? or the lawful prisoner from the taker?

But thus saith the Lord: The prisoners shall be taken from the mighty, and the spoil shall be recovered from the violent: for I will cause to cease forever war throughout the earth, and they shall all sleep in peace.

And I will feed thy enemies with their own flesh, I will make them drunken with their own blood, as with sweet wine: And all flesh shall know that I am the Lord thy Saviour, thy noble redeemer.

The L. Chapter.

1. The Jews are reproved, and also called.
Consolation and comfort is promised unto the faithful.

1. Hearken unto me ye that hold of righteousness, and ye that seek the Lord: take heed to the stone wherewith ye are hewn, and to the grace wherewith ye are digged.

2. Consider Abraham your father, and Sara that bare you, how that I called him by name alone, and blessed him, and enriched him.

3. Therefore shall the Lord comfort Sion, and repair all her decap, making her desert as a paradise, and her wilderness as the garden of the Lord: Birth and joy shall forebode there, thanksgiving and the voyage of paple.

4. Have respect unto me then O my people both high and lowe, and lay thine care unto me: for a lade and an obnoumace shall go forth from me, to lighten the gentiles.

5. It is hard by that my health and my righteousness shall go forth, and the people shall ordered with mine armes: the lades that is the gentiles shall hope mine, and put their trust in mine armes.

6. Lift up your eyes toward heaven, and look upon the earth beneath: *for the heavens shall banishe abaye lyke smoke, and the earth shall bare olde like a garment, and they that dwell there in shall perisse in lyke manner: But my salvation shall endure for ever, and my righteoueness shall not cease.

7. Hearken unto me ye that have knowledge in righteoueness, thou people that *bearest up tabbe in thynce heart: *fear not the reuelynge of men, be not afrayde of their blasphemyes.

8. *For wronces and nothes shall cate them lyke cloth and wooll, but my righteoueness shall endure for ever, and my saving health from generation to generation.

9. Wake vp, wake vp, and be strong O thou arme of the Lord, wake vp, lyke as in tyme past, euer, and since the world began.

10. *Art not thou the same arme that hast wounded the proude, and heluen the dragon in peeces: Art not thou even the same which hast dryed up the depe of the sea, which hast made playne the sea grounde, that the delivered might go through?

11. Therefore the redeemed of the Lord shall turne agayne, & com with joy into Sion, *continuall joy halbe on their head, and itch and gladnette halbe with them, and sowebe and bo shall see from them.

12. Pea I, [even] I am he that in all thynges genteth you consolation: what art thou then that feareth a noxall man & the childe of man, which *goeth away as both the flower:

13. And forgettes the Lordes that made thee, that spread out the heavens, and layde the foundation of the earth: but thou art euer afrayde for the light of thynce oppresseur, which is redye to do harme: Where is the wyth of the oppresseour:

14. The exile maketh haste to be loosed, & that he re not in prifon, and that his bread sayle hym not.

15. *I am the Lord thy God that doth the sea, & his waves shall rage, *whose name is the Lord of houles.

16. *I have put my foodyes in thy mouth, and have defended thee in the hande of my hande, that I may plant the heavens, & laye the foundation of the earth, and laye into Sion: thou art my people;

17. *Awake, awake, and flame by O Lutetale, thou that from the hande of the Lordes hast drunken out the cup of his wyth, that hast supped of and luked out the burning cuppe to the bottome.

18. For among all the lones whom he hath begotten, there is not one that may holde it by, and not one to leade it by the hande of all the lones that he hath nourished.

19. Both these thynges are happein unto thee, but Who is thy for: pea destrucion, wallyng, hunger, and sowebe, but Who will comfort thee?

20. Thy lones be comfortlesse at the head of every strete like a take venion, and are full of the terrible wyth of the Lord, and punishment of thyn God.

21. And therefore thou nuerable and drunken dunken(hoibei not with wine)heare this:

10. *And lyke as the rynge and snodd commeth downe from heauen, and returneth not thysyer agayne, but waster the earth, maketh it fruitfull and greene, that it may genere vnto the sover, and bread to hym that eather.

11. So the wordes also that commeth out of my mouth shall not turne agayne vowe he into me, but shal accomplishe my wyll, and prosper in the thing whereunto I sende it.

12. And so shal ye go forward with joy, and be set with peace: The mountaynes and byles shall sing with you for joy, and all the trees of the feld that clappe their handes.

13. For thones, there shall growe fere trees, and the byre tree in the feld of byers: And this shalbe done to the payfe of the Lord, and for an everlastyng token that shall not be taken away.
In exhortation to judgement and righteousness, and to the spiritual keeping of the Sabbath. 10 Agayne shepherdes that detour their flocke,

1 Thus saith the Lord, I Kepe equitie, and do right: for my loyalynge health haie come shottynge, and my rightouynes shalbe opened.

Esa.lix.c. Blessed is the man that doth this, and the mans childe which kepeth the same: he that taketh heede that he unhastive not the Sabbath (that is he that kepeth him selfe that he do no euill.

Deu.xxxii.c Then sball not the stranger which cleaneueth to the Lord, say, *Alas the Lord hath shut me cleane out from his people: Neither shal the gielded man say, Lo I am a dye tree.

Sapi.b. For thus saith the Lord vnto the gielded[that kepeth my Sabbath,[nameles] that holbegeth greatly of the thyng that pleaseth me, and kepeth my conuention.

Iohn.i.c Unto them wyll I gen in my househode and within my walles, a better heritage and name then of the habben called fomes and daughters: *I wyll gene them an euertalbyng name that shall not perchye.

Ioh.viii.e Agayne, the strangerns that stieke to the Lord to serue hym, and to loue his name, *and to be his feuauntes,

A1 and all they which kepe them selues that they unhastive not the Sabbath, namely that they fullfill my conuention:

7 Them wyll I bring to my holy mountayne, and make them topfull in my house of prayer: their burnt offerynges and sacrifices shalbe accepted upon myn aulter: *so my house shall be called an house of prayer for all people.

8 Thus saith the Lord God which gathereth together the scattered of Israel: I wyll byng yet another congregation to hym.

9 Come all ye beasts of the fiele, that ye may bence all the beastes of the woode.

10 *For his watchmen are all blinde, they haue altogether no understanding: they are all dumb dogges not being able to barkke, they are sleepe, bugglye are they and ly e bostynig.

11 They are chamelesse dogges that be never satisfied: The shepherdes also in like manere haue no understanding, *but euery man turneth his owne doap, euery one after his owne coutouones with all his power.

12 *Come [say they] I wyll setche wine, so shal we eftall our seluest, that we may be drunken, and do to my odoyle lyke as to day, peac and much more.

q The lvi. Chapter.

The good men are taken away, the wicked ones take pleasure in idolatry, the godly receive comfort, the wicked both perish.

A1 the *righteous pe

Sapi.i.b. risheth, and no man regardeth it in his heart: good godly people are taken away, & no man considereth, namely, that the righteous is combating away from the world.

2 He commeth into peace, and godly men rest in their chambers, and before the godly man goeth peace.

Mat.xxii.d Come hither therefore ye charmers children, ye somes of the adulterer and the wholes.

4 Whom take ye your pleasure: upon whom gape ye with your mouth, and bleare out your tonge: Are ye not chil-out of the way of my people.

15 For thus saith the Lord, and he is excellent, even he that dwelleth in everlastings, whose name is the holy one: I dwell yonder above and in the sanctuary, and with him also is that is of a contrite and humble spirit do I dwell, that I may be a troubled mind, and a contrite heart.

16 For I say unto thee, that sin not ye without ende: but the blasting goeth from me, and is included in the body, and I made the beast.

17 I am worth with hym for his countenance, I minute hym, I hide me and am angrie, and he turneth himselfe, and followeth thee by the way of his owne heart.

18 I have scene his wavyes, and I heale hym, *I leade hym, and restore to hym comfort, and to those that were for hym.

19 I make the frutes of thanksgiving, that he may say, peace, peace, *unto the that are farre of, and to them that are ye faith the Lord, I make hym whole.

20 But the wicked are lyke the raging sea, that can not rest, whole water to meet with them and gravel.

21 Even so the wicked have no peace, *faith God.

The Lxiv. Chapter.

1 The Lord (by the mouth of the prophet) reproacheth the people for their fastings, *which were full of hypocrisy.

2 For they seek me daily, and will know my wavyes, even as it were a people by right, and had not forsaken the statutes of their God: they afraid of me concerning right judgement, and will be yfe into God.

3 Wherefore fast we (by they) and thou seek it not: I put our times to trauallest, and thou regardest it not:

4 Behold, when ye fast, your last remaynt, fell, for ye do no lesses violence to your betters: to, ye fast to beake and debate, and to stone with your fist without mercy: yfode ye shall not fast thus, that in your bovrce might be bearde above.
The prophecies

Zach. viii. 5 *Think ye this fast pleaseth me, that a man shoude chaffe him selfe for a day: and to hange downe his head like a bine, and to wepe upon the earth in an horrie cloth: Should that be called fasting, or a day that pleaseth the Lord?

Deut. xvi. 6 Dost not this fasting rather please me, That thou lose the wicked bandes, that thou take of the ouer haire burchens, that thou let the appelle go free, and brake all maner of peke?

Eze. xvi. 7 *To deale thy head to the hunger, and to hange the poore wandering home into thy house: when thou seest the naked that thou ouer hym, and hide not thy selfe from thy neighbour, and despise not thyne owne flesh:

Luk. xii. 8 *Then shall thy light beseke southe as the morning, and thy health southe right shortly: righteousnesse shall go before thee, and the glory of the Lord shall embrace thee:

Prou. xxi. 9 *Then if thou callest, the Lord shall answer thee, if thou cryest, he shall say, here I am: peac if thou layest away from the thy burchens, and sorke thy fingers, and ceaste from vnicorous talking:

Zach. viii. 10 *If thou hast compassion upon the hungry, and refreschest the troubled soule: then shall thy light shung out in the darknesse, and thy darknesse shalbe as the noone day.

11 The Lord dothuer be thy guide, and satisfie the desire of thyne heart in the tyne of drought, and fill thy bones with mary: Thou shalt be like a freche warded garden, and like the fountain of water that never leaeth running.

12 Then the places that hauene ben waste, shalbe builded of thee, there that thou lay a foundation for many hindredes: Thou shalt be called the maker by of the breahe, and the buynger a-gayne of the Day to dwell in.

13 Pea if thou turne thy feete from the fabbath, so that thou do not the thing whereof pleaseth thy selfe in my holy day, and thou call the pleasanct, holy, and glorious fabbath of the Lord, and that thou geue hym the honour, so that thou do not after thyne owne imagination, neither feete thyne owne will, nor speake thyne owne wodeses:

14 Then that thou haue thy pleasure in the Lord, and I will eare thee bpe above the earth, and sebe the be Rut the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the Lords owne mouth hath so promis.

The lixiv. Chapter.

1 The Lord is mightie to save, and rede to heare our requestes, 2 our sinnes are the cause why God heareth not by, neither graunteth our requestes.

*Elohe, the Lords hande is not so shortened that it can not help, neither is his care so dopered that it may no not heare:

But your misdeedes have seperated you from your God, and your sinnes hyde his face from you, that he heareth you not.

For your bandes are defiled with blood, and your fingers with burchenousses: your lippes speake lethinges, and your tongue setheth out wickednesse.

No man regardeth righteousnesse, and no man judgeth truely: every man hopeth in bayne things, and imagineth decept, *conceaueth Weernesse, and bringeth sooth euill.

5 They brede coaccomte egges, and weave the spiders webbes, who so eateth of their egges, byeth: but if one treade upon them, there commeth by a ferpent.

6 Their webbes maketh no cloth, and they may not cover them with their labones: their deedes are the deedes of wickedness, and the Wolfe of roborie is in their bandes.

7 *Their feete rume to cupill, and they make haste to thed innocent blood: their counsels are Wicked counsels, barren *and destruction are in their Wapes.
The IX. Chapter.

1 Consolation and comfort to Jerusalem. 5 The Church is gathered together among the gentiles by preaching of the gospel, and abundantly with all good things.

9 The gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness that springeth forth upon thee.

4 Lift up thine eyes, and look round about thee; all these gather their flocks and come to thee, thine fountains shall come unto thee from farre, and thy daughters shall gather them felines to thee on every side.

5 Then thou shalt see this and be glorious, thou shalt marvail exceedingly, and thy heart shall be opened: when the abundance of the sea shall be consumed.
The prophesie

1 He prophesie[th] that Christ shalbe annointed and sent to preache.

The spirit of the Lord is upon me: for the Lord hath annointed me, and sent me to preach good tidings unto the poor, that I might bind up the wounded heartes, that I might preach deliverance to the captaine, and open the prison to them that are bound:

2 That I might declare the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God: that I might comfort all them that are in heavinell:

3 That I might give unto them that mourne in Sion, that I might give a glasse of comfort to them that sorrowed with ashes, to comfort them, and to give them beauty for ashes, the oil of gladnes for mourning, the garland of the loue of the Lord for the drabes of weeping; that they might call upon me in my name, and I will heare them: that my Glasse may be full of the wine of them that be bent, and I will drink it out of the Lord, and give them the socer of the Lord.

4 But, I say, ye are they that trouble mine hand: yet I will put mine hand upon thee, and I will make thy hand strong, and I will make thine hand as the hand of a man: and I will help thee, and deliver thee from the hand of the enemy.

5 I will bring againe captives, and they shall returne; I will increase their numbers, and they shall not be few: I will also greatly rejoyce, and I will be glad with joy:

6 For I will turne many out of their present waies, and will bring them into the straight way; and the一样 wye of the glory of the Lord shall be peace.

7 My holy one: he shall be despised, and shall be hid out of the sight of the Gentiles, and he shall be opened in the sight of the Gentiles: he shall bring many to the righteous, and they shall be instrued in the way of justice; but the wicked shall be confounded.

8 And I will wait for my Lord, that mine hand may be strong for him that spareth me; and mine hand may be strong for him that spareth me.

9 And he shall say, lo, the nations and the kings did gather themselves together; but who hath called them?

10 He saith in mine habitation, and in mine habitation: I will not speak in the name of the Lord God:

11 For the Lord God is in the midst of her, and the glory of the Lord is round about her.

12 Then I beheld, and I heard the voice of one that talked, saying, Arise, get thee to Bethel, and there shall the vine make her branches, and the olive tree shall flourish: and the things I have written will I bring in to effect.

13 And the glory of the Lord was upon mount Sion, and the vision of the Lord was upon them.

14 And he spake unto them in a column, and they hearkened not: for my word was in their mouth, as a fire shut up in a brasse, and they could not hear.

15 Then said he, a light shalbe upon thee, until I come: this shall be the measure of the brasse, and the brasse of the light:

16 It shall be upon the head of him that goeth forth, and upon the head of him that returneth, in the name of the Lord God of hosts.

17 The spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath annointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty unto the captives, and the opening of the prison unto them that are bound;
of Esa.

1 A prophecy of the coming of Christ.

1 O Sions sake whyl I not holde my tongue, and for hierufalens sake I will not ceasfe, vntill their righteounesse brake forth as the shining light, and their salvation as a burning lamp.

2 Then shall the gentiles see thy righteounesse, and all kynge ths glory: Thou shalt be named with a newe name, where the mouth of the Lord shall shewe.

3 Thou shalt be a crowne in the hande of the Lord, and a glorious garlande in the hande of thy God.

4 From this thyne foorth thou shalt never be called the fokaken, and the lande the lande shall no more be called the wildernesse: but thou shalt be called, My pleasure is in her, and the lande shall be called the married woman: for the Lord loveth thee, and thy lande shall bejoyned in mariage.

5 And lyke as a young man taketh a virgin to mariage, so that thy somes be married vnto thee: and as a haidgeome is glad of his haidgeome, so shall the Lord rejoyce over thee.

6 I have set Watches, and the Watches of Hierusalem, which shall neither ceasfe day nor night to praunce the Lord: and ye also that remember the Lord, ye shall not kepe him coyle.

7 Nor leaue to speake of him, until Hierusalem be set by, and made the people of the Lord.

8 The Lord hath sworn by his right hand, and by his strong armes, that from henceforth he will not geue thy comne to be meate for thyne enemies, nor thy vine wherein thou haddestlaboured, to be drinke for the strangers.

9 But they that have gathered in the comne, shall eate it, and geue thankes to the Lord: and they that have borne the vine, shall drinke it in the court of my sanctuarie.

10 So you, go you throuthe the gates, make cleane the way for the people, make playne, make playne the foote path.

path, and take away the stones out of it, and set out a token for the people.

11 Behold, the Lord proclaimeth unto the ends of the world, *Tell the daughter Zion, See thy favoure cometh, behold he bringeth his remittance with hym, and his work go before hym.

12 For they whom the Lord delivereth, shall be called the *Holy people: and as for thee, thou shalt be named the great and珍贵 occupied, and not the forsaken title.

The lxiiij. Chapter.

Wherefore then is thy clothing red, and thy raiment like his that treadeth in the vine press?

I have trodden the presse my selfe alone, and of all people there is not one with me: Thus will I trample them downe in my wrath, and set my feete upon them in mye indignation, and their blood that be sprung upon my clothes, and so will I stayne all my raiment.

*For the day of vengeance is assigned in my heart, and the yere when my people shall be delivered is come.

I looked about me, and there was no man to shew me any helpe, I marveled that no man helde me vp: Then I helde me by myne owne armes, and my reverence fulfilled me.

And thus will I trample the people in my wrath, and bathe them in my displeasure, and upon the earth will I lay their strength.

7 I will declare the goodness of the Lord, yea and the praise of the Lord for all that he hath given vs, for the great good that he hath done for Israel, which he hath given them of their owne favour, and according to the multitude of his loving kindneses.

8 For he saith, These no doubt are my people, and no thinking children: and so was he their favour.

9 In their troubles, he was also troubled with them, and the angel that went forwaid from his presence delivered them: of very love and kindness that he had unto them, he redeemed them, he hath borne them and carried them by ever since the world began.

10 But after they poysoned hym to wrath and bared his holy spirit, he was their enemie, and sought against them hym selfe.

11 Yet rememberd Israel the olde time, of Poples and his people, *saying: Where is he that brought them from the water of the sea, *With them that fedde his sheepe: Where is he that hath gven his holy spirit among them?

12 He led them by the right hande of Moses with his glorious arm, deuind the water before them, wherethe he gat him selfe an everlasting name.

13 He led them in the depe as an horse is led in the playne, that they should not stumble.

14 As a tame beast goeth in the fielde, and the spiritue of God greteth hym red: thus (O God) hast thou led thy people, to make thyselfe a glorious nation withall.

15 *Loke downe then from heaven, and behold from the dwellinge place of thy sanctuary, and thy glorie: *Hodie is it that thy goutlous, thy strength, the multitude of thy mercies, and thy loving kindnesse not to be increasid:

16 *Be it then our father: so Abra- ham knoweth vs not, neither is Israel acquainted with vs; but thou Lord art our father and recone, and thy name is everlasting.

17 *O Lord, wherefore hast thou led us out of the way? *Wherefore hast thou hardened our heartes that we fear thee not? Be at one with us againe for thy meruantes sake, and for the generation of thyne heritage.

18 Thy

The prophecy

Mat. xxvi. 5 If thou commest npe them, they say, touche me not, for I am holy then thou: All these men when I am angry, shall be turned to smoke and a fire that shall burne for ever.

6 Behold, it is written before my face, and shall not be forgotten, but compered: I shall redeem it them into their bosom.

[3 I mean] your middeces, and the middeces of your fathers together faith the Lord, which have made their sinne upon the mountains, and blasphemed me upon the hilles: therefore will I measure their olde deedes into their bosome againe.

Rom.xi. 8 Moreover, thus faith the Lord: *Like as when olde wine is founde in the clutter, and one faith, Loke it not, for there is blessing therein: * even so will I do also for my seruantes takes, that I will not destroy them all.

9 But I will take a seede out of Jacob, and out of Juda one, to take possession of my hilt: *By chosen shall possess it, and my seruantes shall dwell there.

10 Saran saile a chreepseolle, and the valley of Acho; shall gene the faling for the cattell of my people that seeke after me.

[11 But as for you, ye are they that have forsaken the Lord, and forgotton my holy hill: ye haue let by an ailter unto Jupiter, and given riches drinke offerings unto the planets:

12 Therefoe will I number you to the Woode, that ye saile be destroyed altogether: for that when I called, no man gave me aunswere, when I spake, ye hearkened not unto me, but byd wickednesse before mine eyes, and chose the things that pleased me not.

13 Therefoe thus faith the Lord God: Behold, my seruantes shall eate, but ye shall have hunger: behold, my seruantes shall drinke, but ye shall suffer thirst: behold, my seruantes shall be merie, but ye shall be confounded:

14 Behold, my seruantes shall reioyce for very quietnesse of heart: but ye shall crye for loode of heart, and complayne for desparation of mine.

15 Your name shall ye leave assured among my chosen: for God the Lord shall slay you, and call his seruantes by another name.

16 *Who do reioyce upon earth, shall reioyce in the true God, and who do hearthe upon earth, shall see in the true God: for the olde affictiones shall be forgotton, and taken away out of my sight.

17 *For so, I shall make a newe heaven and a newe earth: and as for the olde, they shall never be thought upon, nor kept in minde:

18 [But the Lord faith] Be glad and euermore reioyce for the things that I shall do: For why beholde, I shall make a joyfull herusalem, and his people joyfull.

19 Ver, I my serle will reioyce with herusalem, and be glad with my people: *and the voyce of weeping and sayling shall not be hearde in her from thenceforth.

20 There shall neither be chylde nor olde man that have not their full bayers: but when the chyld be commeth to an hundred yeeres olde it shall dye, and if he that is an hundred yeeres of age do wyng, he shall be cured.

21 *They shall buype houses and dwell in them, they shall plant vineyards and eate the fruitt of them.

22 They shall not buype and another possess, they shall not plant and another eate: *but the life of my people shall be like a tree, and nine elect shall enjoy spill the woork of their hands.

23 They shall not labour in byayne, no beger with trouble: for they are the ye blessed seede of the Lord, and their fruittes with them.

24 And it shalbe, that of ever they call, I shall aunswere them, whyle they are yet but thinking howe to speake, I shall heare them.

25 *The woode and the lambe shall seede together, and the lion shall eate bay like the bucke, *but earth shalbe the serpentes meate: There that no man hurt no sna another in, and all my holy hill, faith the Lord.

The
Chapter

Thus saith the Lord: *Heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: where shall house stand that ye build upon to me? And where half the place that ye build in?

As for these thy things, my hand hath made them all, and they are all created saith the Lord: *which of them shall I regard: Even hym that is poor and of a lowly troubled spirit, and standeth in awe of my words.

For who do slayeth an ox (for me, both to great dishonour) as he that killeth a man: He that killeth a sheep for me *hurleteth a dogge: He that burneth meate offerynges, offereth libynes blood, who do maketh me a memorial of incense, payeth the thing that is unright: Yet take they such wayes in hande, and there soule délygheth in these abominations.

Therefore bylly I alfo haue pleasure in laugheyng them to stone, & the synge that they sacre byll I bring upon them: *For when I called, no man gaue answere, when I spake, they would not hear: but did wickednes before mine eyes, and chose the thynges that displeased me.

Heare the word of God all ye that sacre the thynge which he speaketh: your brethren that hate you and call you out for my name sake, say, The Lord is hypnous against vs: but you shall see hym in joy, when they have confounded.

*Then shall heare a great noyse from the citie, and the voype of the Lorde, that byll retarde and recompence his enemies:

Lyke as when a wise bringeth forth a manchild, or ever the sufer the paine of the birth, *anguish of the travayle:

Who ever heard or saue such thynges: both the grounde beare in on day: or are the people borne at once, as Sion transplanted in childe birth and bare her bones:

For thus saith the Lorde: *Am I he that maketh other to beare, and beare not my selfe: Am I he that beareth and makest barren, faith thy God:

10 Rejoyce with hierusalem, and be glad with her all ye that love her, *be topfull with her all ye that mourne for her.

11 For ye shall sucke comfort out of her breasts, and be satisfied: He shall take, and have delyte in theiyghtnesse of her glory.

12 For thus saith the Lorde: Behold, I byll let peace into her lyke a water sluide, and the glory of the heathen like a Nothing streme: Then shall ye lute, ye shall be borne upon her hydes, and be topfull upon her knees.

13 For lyke as a chylde is comforted of his mother, so shall I comfort you, and ye shall be comforted in hierusalem.

14 And when ye see this, your heart shall rejoyce, *and your bones shall flexile lyke an heare: Thus shall the hande of the Lorde be knorden among his seruantes, and his indignation among his enemies.

15 For behold the Lorde shall come with fire, and his charret shall lyke a white wynde:that he may recompence his vengeaunce in his wrath, and his indignation with the flame of fire.

16 For the Lorde shall judge all ye with fire and with his lynde, and there shall a great number slayne of the Lorde.

17 Such as haue made them selves holy and cleane in the gardens, and those that haue eaten libines sejse,one, and other abominauons, haue taken away togethe the Lorde.

18 For I do knowe their wyckednes and thoughtes, and I Wyll come to gather all people and tongues: then they shall come and see my glorie.

19 Unto them shall I geue a token, and sende certayne of the that be deliered among the gentiles, into Cilia, Afric, and Lydia, where men can handle bowles, into Italie, and also Grekke lande: *The Iles faree of that haue not hearde heare of me, and have not seene my glorie, shall preech my paradis among the gentiles.

20 And
The prophesie

20 And shall byng all your brethren for an offering unto the Lord out of all the people, upon horses, charrettes, and houseteres, upon mules and carres, to Hierusalem my holy hill faithfully the Lord: lyke as the children of Israel byng the offering in clean vessels to the house of the Lord.

21 And I will take out certayne of them for to be priests and Leuites, faith the Lord.

22 For lyke as the nebe heauen and the nebe earth which I will make, shalbe fast established by me, faith the Lord: that your seede & your name continue,

23 And it shall come to passe, that from moone to his moone, from Sabbath to his Sabbath, all s the Lord shall come to worship before me, faith the Lord.

24 And they shall go southe and lyke by on the curations of them that have transgressed against me: for their vows shall not dye, neither shall their fire be quenched, and all s the Lord shall abhorre them.

The booke of the prophete Jeremie.

The first Chapter.

1 The booke of Jeremie, and in what tyme he prophesied, he encourseth him selbe and would refuse the office of a prophete, because he is young and inexperienced, & he is taught of the Lord and becommeth bold. 2 God openeth unto him, that the destruction of the Jews by the Babyloniens is at hand. 3 Jeremie is commanded to speake the word of God unto the Jews without feare.

1 These are the sermons of Jeremie the sonne of Heliah the priest, one of them that dwell at Anaroth in the lande of Benjamin, when the Lord had first spokem with hym in the tyne of Josiah the sonne of Amon kyng of Juda, in the xii. yer of his raigne;

3 And so duryng unto the tyne of Jehoahum the sonne of Josiah kyng of Juda, 4 and untill the x. yer of Zedekiah the sonne of Josiah kyng of Juda were ended, when Hierusalem was taken, even in the fifth moneth.

The word of the Lord spake thus unto me.

5 Before I fashioned thee in the bowels of thy mother, I spake unto thee, and thou saidst, I will not hear.

6 And the Lord said, Where wast thou? And I said, I dwelt with the uncircumcised in Egypt.

7 Then said I, I am unclean; yet make me as thine servant, that I may run before the children of the uncircumcised.

8 And the Lord said, Go to, get thee to Jerusalem, and say the words thereof.

9 And they will cast thee out, and thou shalt say, Why have ye cast me out? and they will say, Because they have sinned before the Lord, and because they have provoked the habitation of the Lord of hosts.

11 Then said they unto me, Behold, they are of thy bones which were cut off from thee; when thou wast born, I found thee in the secret place, and when thou wast as an hidden treasure.

12 I said unto them, Had I been in the secret place of the Lord, had I been among the sons of the mighty, I should have set the Lord before me always:

13 But I went forth to the end of the earth; and my sight remained until I came into the sanctuary of the Lord, and I was with the tenures of the sons of the covenant.

The word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

34 Say, I am the Potter, and ye are the clay; and if I say unto you, Be ye vessels unto me, according to my purpose; shall ye say unto me, What is the work of the Potter? or, what is the form that I shall make in the inward parts thereof?

35 And now I have set my mind to make you a vessel unto glory, even a vessel of holiness, to be esteemed and highly prized.

36 For as the clay is in the hand of the Potter, so are ye in mine hand, O house of Israel.

37 And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to enter into the heart of the nations, and I will succeed you, and I will make you fruitful, and I will multiply you, and I will set my tabernacle among you, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people.

38 And I will establish the tabernacle of Isaiah among you, and my law shall be before your eyes; and I will give you princes according to the heart of all the people, and your king shall be one of them.

39 And I will make thee a great nation, and I will set thee among nations, and I will receive thee again, and I will place thee on the mount of Jacob, and I will give thee the heathen for thy inheritance, and the kingdoms shall be thy spoils.

40 And I will make thee a great name, and thou shalt be known among the nations, and thou shalt be a blessing.

41 And I will bless those that bless thee, and I will curse him that curriculum thee: and I will bless them that regard the Tabernacle of my people, and I will curse him that despiseth it.

42 And I will make thy name great, and I will set my tabernacle among thee, and I will cause thee to inherit the land of thy fathers, and I will set my people over thee, and I will be a sanctuary for thee among the heathen, and I will be known among the nations, and thou shalt know the Lord.

43 And I will pour upon thee the spirit of grace and of supplications, and I will make the sun and the moon to stand still, and the signs of heaven to return, and I will show unto thee the arm of the Lord, and I will heal thee.

44 And I will make thee a great nation, and I will set thee above the nations, and I will give thee the heathen for thy inheritance, and I will set thee over the nations, and I will make thee a name, and I will bless thee, and I will make thee a blessing.

45 And I will make thee a crown of glory, in the land of the living, and I will put thee on thine enemies, and I will make thee a name, and I will set thee on the mount of Jacob, and I will cause thee to inherit the land of thy fathers, and I will make thee a name, and I will bless thee, and I will make thee a blessing.

46 And I will make thee a great nation, and I will set thee above the nations, and I will give thee the heathen for thy inheritance, and I will set thee over the nations, and I will make thee a name, and I will bless thee, and I will make thee a blessing.

47 And I will make thee a crown of glory, in the land of the living, and I will put thee on thine enemies, and I will make thee a name, and I will set thee on the mount of Jacob, and I will cause thee to inherit the land of thy fathers, and I will make thee a name, and I will bless thee, and I will make thee a blessing.

48 And I will make thee a crown of glory, in the land of the living, and I will put thee on thine enemies, and I will make thee a name, and I will set thee on the mount of Jacob, and I will cause thee to inherit the land of thy fathers, and I will make thee a name, and I will bless thee, and I will make thee a blessing.
of the same ye went forth and defiled my lande, and brought mine heritage to abomination.

8. The priests them selues sayde not, where is the Lord? They that had the lande in their hands knewe me not, the shepheardes offered against me, the prophets did prophetic in Baal, and followed such things as that bying them no profit.

9. Wherefore I am conftrayed, saith the Lord, yet agayne to contente in judgement with you, and with your childrens children.

10. Go into the Isles of Cethim, and loke well: sende into Cedar, take diligent heed, and see whether such thynge be done there,

11. Whether the gentisles them selves have chaungd their gods which yet are no gods in deere, but my people hath chaungd their (a) honour for a thing that may not helpe them.

12. He astonished Oye heauens, be astraide and abatide at such a thing, laie the Lord.

13. For my people hath done two euis: they have forsaken me the well of the water of life, and diggmed them pits, yea bale and broken pits that can holde no water.

14. Is Israel a bonde seruant, or one of the houhould,why is he the so spoild:

15. They roxe and crye upon him as lions, they have made his lande waste: his cities are so burnt vp, that there is no man dwelling in them:

16. Ye the children of Noph & Taphnes shall crache their crondine.

17. Commeth not this into thee because thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, euhen when hee thee by the way?

18. And what hast thou noide to do in the streets of Egypt, to dypping water out of (a) Nilus? Either what maketh thou in the way to Assyria, to dypping water of the sudde:

19. Thine olde Wickedness shall re-pone thee, and the turning away shall condempne thee: that thou mayest knowe and understand howe euypt and hurstfull a thing it is, that thou hast for-saken the Lord thy God, and hast not feared me, saith the Lord God of hosts.

20. I have euer broken thy yoke of oide, and burst thy bonde, yet sayest thou: *I will no more transgress but like an harlot thou rumes about upon all ye hylies, and among all greene trees.

21. Whereas I planted thee a notable vine, D and wholly a right seede: *hove are thou turned then into a bitter unfruit-full and strange grape.

22. [Pea and that sauc.] that though thou wakhe thee with Nutrus, and make thy selfe to favour with that sweete finel-yng hearde of worth: yet in my light thou art shamed with thy Wickedness, saith the Lord thy God.

23. Hove sayest thou noide, I am not uncleane, and I have not soled Ban-lim? Loke upon these olde vapes in the valleys what thou hast done? Thou art like a Swift womane that goeth easly her way.

24. And thy Waponees is lyke a Wyple clere that bheet the Wilderness, and that miffleth and blooweth at her Wyll: Who can tace her: All they that seeke her,shall not fayle but fynde her in the moneth.

25. Kepe thy foote from nakedesse, and thy thoote from thieft, and thou thinkest in thy selfe: tuld, I will take no lyode, fo? I have loved the (c) draungers, and them wyll I solode.

26. Lyke as a shee that is taken wth the deede, commett fo to the hone: even so is the house of Israel come to confusion, the common people, their kynges and rulers, their priests and prophetes.

27. For they say to a focke, Thou art my father, & to a stone, Thou hast begotten me: * pea they have turned their backe upon me, and not their face: *but in the tyme of their trouble, when they say, stande vp and helpe bs:

28. [I shall answere them] where are noide thy gods that thou hast made thee bid them stande vp, and helpe thee in the tyme of thy neede: For loke holde many cities thou holde O Juda, for many gods hast thou aile.

29. Wherefore then will ye go to labbe with me: seyng ye all are smiers a-gainst me, saith the Lord.

30. It is but lost labour that I suee your children, for they receaue not mine correction: *your olde fwoode delteoph your prophetes,lyke a denoungyn lion.

31. Oh generation, hearken unto the wode of the Lord: Am I become a Widoresse unto the people of Israel?"
The iiij. Chapter.

1. God being merciful, calleth to repentance his people which he had forsaken for their whoredom with idols. Be折扣teth Israel unto repentance, promising them the recompense of the land.

2. Lift up thine eyes to the hallow places, and look where thou hast not been defiled: Thou hast waited for them in the desert, and as a mourner in the wilderness, though thy whoredom and shamefull blasphemies is the lande desiled.

3. This is the cause that the rayne and emptying death hath reached: Thou hast gotten thee an whore forehead, and wilt not be ashamed.

4. Whilce thou not heretofore satte into me, O my father, thou art he that hath brought me up, and fed me from my youth.

5. Wilt thou continue his wrath for everly? be heare our faults in memore to the ende: Neverthelesse, thou speakest such worde, but thou art euer doing worste and worste to the tempest of the pyr.

6. The Lord sayde also unto me in the time of Josiah the kyng, hast thou seen what that rebellion Israel hath done: holde the hath runne by upon all the hillles, and among all thicke trees, and there played the harlot.

7. Hast thou seen also when the had done all this, have I sayde unto her, that she should turne agayne unto me, and yet she is not returned? Juda that unfaithfull sister of hers also had this:

8. Namely, that after I had well seen the audite of the whorlyng harlot Israel, I put her abyde, and gave her a bitt of denouement: For all this, her unfaithfull sister Juda was not ashamed, but went backe and played the whozoe.

9. Sea and the wantonesse of her whoredome hath desplyd the whole lande: For the hath omitted fornication with stones and bastes.

10. Neverthelesse, her unfaithfull sister Juda is not turned unto me agayne with her whole heart, but sagedlye the Lord.

11. And the Lord sayde unto me, The bastlpyke Israel, is more righteous then the unfaithfull Juda.

12. And therefore go prach these worde toward the north, and say, Thou disobedient Israel, turne agayne faith the Lord, and I will not bring my wrath upon you: for I am mercifull faith the Lord, and I will not alwaies heare displeasure against thee.

13. But on this condition, that thou know thy great blasphemy, namely that thou hast
The prophecie

I. The true repentance of turning to God, 2 he exhortseth to the circumscription of the heart. 3 The destruction of Jerusalem is prophesied for the sake of their hearts.

Israel, if thou wilt turne thee, then turne into me, saith the Lord; and if thou wilt put away thine abominations out of my sight, thou shalt not be moved.

2 And shalt swear, The Lord is true, in truth, in equity, and righteousness, and all people shall be found trustworthy and toftull in thym.

3 For thus saith the Lord to all Juda and hierusalem: Plove your lande, and forew not among the thomes.

4 Be circumcised in the Lorde, and cut away the foreskynne of your heartes allye of Juda, and all the indwellers of hierusalem: that myne indignation break not out lyke fire, and kindle, so that no man may quench it, because of the wickednesse of your imaginations.

5 Preach in Juda and hierusalem, eye out and speake, blowe the trumpettes in the lande, crye that every man may heare, and say, Gather you together, and we wyll go into strong cityes.

6 Set by the token in Sion, speede you and make no tarrying: for I wyll bring a great plague and a great destruction from the north.

7 For the hooper of the gentiles is broken by from his place as a lion out of his denme: that he may make thy lande waste, and desstrop the cityes, so that no man may dwell therin. 8 where:
wherefore gird ye your loines about with sackcloth, mourn and weep: for the peacefull wars of the Lord is not withidrawn from vs.
9 At the name tyne faith the Lord, the heart of the kyng of the prince Halbe gone, the princes Halbe astonisht,and the prophetes Halbe sore afrayed.
10 Then faide I: Oh Lord the God, haft thou then decausethis people and Hierusalem, saying, *the shall have peace:
and the Lord goeth through their hues:
11 Then shall it be to the people and Hierusalem: *A strong winde in the tyre places of the wilderness commeth through the way of my people, but nether to famine nor to cleanse.
12 After that, shall there come unto me a strong winde from those places, & then shall I also gende sentence upon them.
13 For, he ariseth like a cloude, and his darres are like a storm wynde, *his hotes are wister then the Egie: wo unto vs, for we are destroyed.
14 D jerusalem, *Waxe thine heart from wickednee, that thou mayest be helped: howe long shall thy banye thoughts repayn with thee?
15 For a booyce from Dan and from the hill of Ephraim speaketh out, and tel-let of a destrucion.
16 Remember the heathen, and gene jerusalem warning, and preache unto her, that watchers over her are comynge from farre countries, they haue eyed out against the cities of Juda.
17 And they haue best her about in ency place, lyke as the watchmen in the field: *For, they haue provoked me to wath, saith the Lord.
18 *Thy bapes and thy thoughtes haue bought thee unto this, such is thine obne wickednee and disobedience:
and because it is a better thyng, it hath stirred thee to the heart.
19 At my belly, at my belly shalt thou car, howe is my heart so sore: my heart paneth within me, I can not be hyt, for I haue hearde the crying of the trumpettes, and peales of warr.
20 They crie mutcher upon mutcher, the whole lande shall periche: Immediately my tents were destroied, and my hanges in the twinkling of an eye.
21 Howe long shall I see the tokens of warr, and heare the noyle of the trump-ettes?
22 [Nevertheless, this shall come upon them,
*because my people is become foolishly, and hath not knowen me: *they are the children of foolishness, and without any discretion: To do euyl, they have but enough: but to do well, they have no wil dome.
23 I haue loked upon the earth, and see it was waste and voyde: *I loked toward heauen, and it had no shyne.
24 I behelde the mountaynes, and lo, they trembled, and all the hilles were in a scare.
25 I loked about me, and there was no body: and all the birds of the ayre were away.
26 I marked well, and the plotwed feld was become waste: yea all their cities were broken downe at the presence of the Lord and the mignation of his wath.
27 For thus hath the Lord saide: The whole lande Halbe deblate, yet wyl I not then heave done.
28 And therefore shall the earth moune, and the heauen be loxe above: for the thyng that I haue spoken to the prophetes, purposed, and taken upon me to do, shall not repent me, and I wyl not go from it.
29 The whole lande shall see for the noble of horsemen and boldmen, they shall runne into bennes, into wooddes, and clime by the stonde rockes: all the cities Halbe voyde, and no man dibellyng therin.
30 What wyl thou nowe do, thou being destroyed? *For though thou clothest thy self with scarlet, and berrkest thee with golde, *though thou paintest thy face with colours nowe, yet haile thou stained thy self in voyde: For those that hether to haue ben thy louers, shall abhorre thee, and go about to slay thee.
31 For I heare a noble lyke as it were of a woman traunlyng, one labouring of her first childe, even the bope of the daugther Sion, that casteth out her armes, and boldlty, saying: Al,Mbo is me, howe soe bereed: and fast is my heart for feare of the mutcherers:

The prophecie

The v. Chapter.

1. In Jure is there no righteous or faithful man found; either amongst the people or the rulers, for whole [take the Lodes shoule spare the cite], is wherefore Jure is destroyed of the Asyrians.

2. For though they can say, the Lode [hath not forsaken me], faith the Lode.

3. Whereas thou (O Lorde) lokest only upon faith and truth: Thou hast scoured them, but they take no repentance, thou hast corrected them for amendment, but they refused thy correction, they made their faces harder then a stone, and would not amend.

4. Therefore I thought in my selfe: peradventure they are so simple & foolishly that, they understand nothing of the Lodes way, and judgements of their God.

5. Therefore will I go unto their heades and rulers, and talk with them, if they know the way of the Lorde, and judgementes of their God: But these [in lyke maner] have broken the yoke, and buck the bondes in fnder.

6. Wherefore a bon out of the wood hath hurt them, and a woole in the encaying shall destroy them, the Leopards both lye lurking by their cities, to ears in pieces all then that come thencout: for their offences are multiplied, and their deparathing away is increas'd.

7. Should I then to all this have mercy upon thee? Thi children have forsaken me, and dwonne by them that are no gods: and albeit that I fed them to the full, yet they fell to adulterie, and haunted harlottes houses.

8. In the desire of unlawfully lust they are become like the stoned host, every man nepeth at his neighbours wife.

9. Therefore I not correct this, faith the Lode; should I not be avenged of every people that is lyke unto this?

10. Climb by upon their valles, beat them downe, and [destroy them not utterly: take away their battlemates, because they are not the lodes.

11. For unfaithfully hath the house of Israel and Juda forsaken me, faith the Lode.

12. Therefore I will say to the Lode and say, It is not he that toke upon vs: But, there shall no indoe nor cupyn vs, we shall see neither hoope nor hunger.

13. Had for the warning of the prophets, it is but by wynde, yea there is not the word of God in them: such thinges shall happen unto them selues.

14. Therefore thus saith the Lode God of Hostes, Because ye speake such wordes, behold, the wordes that are in thy mouth will I turne to fire, and make the people to be wood, that the fire may consume them.

15. Lo, I will byng a people upon you from farre, O house of Israel, saith the Lorde, a mighty people, an olde people, a people whole speache thou knowest not, neither understandest what they say.

16. Their arrrolves are todayne death, yea they then selues be very gauntes.

17. This people shall eat by thy fruites and thy neat, yea they shall devour thy sonses & thy daughters, thy shepe and thy bullockes, they shall eate by thy grapes and figges: As for the strong and wel defended cities wherein thou didst trust, they shall byng to pouerice, and that through the woode.

18. *Nevertheless, I will not then have done with you, faith the Lode.

19. But if they say, Wherefore both the Lode our God in this butt vs: Then amnnder them: * because that lyke as ye have forsaken me, I, saue strange gods in your lande, even so that ye serue strangers out of your lande.

20. Preach this butt unto the house of Jacob, and crye it out in Juda, and say thus: * I will not heare thee, faith the Lode: but ye peere not at my preence: * which bynde the sea butt the lande by a contintall decree, so that it cannot passe his boundes: for though it rage, yet can it do nothing, nothing, and though the waves thereof do swell, yet may they not go over. 23 But this people hath a false and obstinate heart, they are departed and gone away from me. 24 They think not in their hearts, who giveth his rain in due season, when it fadeth, which keepeth ever still the harvest for by verry. 25 Nevertheless, your misdeeds have turned these from you, and your times have robbed you of good things. 26 For among my people are found wicked priests, that plainly lay snare and wrath for men, to take them and destroy them. 27 And like as a net is full of bysses, so are their houses full of that which they have gotten with falsehood and deceit: Hereof commeth their great subsaunce and riches, 28 Hereof are they fat and wealthy, and are more wicked than any other: *they number not the tabor, they make no pride of the fathereth cause yea and they prosper: Yet they judge not the poor according to equitie. 29 Should I not punish these things faith the Lord? should not I be avenged of all these people as these be? 30 Horrible and gresious things are done in the lande. 31 The propheteys teache falsely, and the preachers receaue gifts, and my people * hath pleasure therein: What will come thereof at the last.

The vj. Chapter.

1 The times for whiche Hierusalem is afflicte. 10 Uncumisized cares, 11 contouvelle, 14 deceit. 20 The Lord receeoth the sacrifices of the Jews. 21 The comming of the Babylonians is prophesied againe.

The vii. Chapter.

Jeremiah is commanded to bring into the people the words of God, which punished in the outward service of the temple. The evil that shall happen to the Jews for the desecrating of their prophets. Sacrifices do not the Lord chiefly require of the Jews, but that they should obey his word.

And therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold, I will lay stumbling-blocks among this people, and there shall fall at them the father with the child, the neighbour shall perish with another.

22 Thus saith the Lord: Behold, there shall come a people from the north, and a great people that arise from the ends of the earth.

23 With bowels and with breasts shall they be wounded, it is a rough and fierce people, of whom the Lorp saith:

24 Thus saith the Lord: We heard our arme are feeble, we are almost fainting under the grapes, strong men buckle under the yoke.

25 Let no man go forth into the field, lest no man come upon the yoke of the Lord, for the yoke of the Lord and the rod of the enemy is on every side.

26 Wherefore gird ye a sackcloth about thee, O thou daughter of my people, humble thyself with ashes: *mourn and weep bitterly as upon thy own rejoicing, for the destroyer shall suddenly fall upon vs.

27 These have I set for a strong tower (O thou prophet,) and a well fenced wall among my people, to seek out and to try their vapors.

28 *For they are all stubborn apostates and fallen away, walking deceitfully, they are clean bridle and iron, for they hurt and destroy every man.

29 The beloves are bent in the fire, the leape is not molten, the melteth in the fire, for the enire is not taken away from them.

30 Therefore do they call them naught the silver, because the Lord hath call them out.

The vii. Chapter.
6 Oppresse not the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, lest not innocent blood in this place, clean not to strangers gods to your obvic destruction:

7 Then will I let you dwell in this place, yea in the land that I gave afore time to your fathers for ever.

8 But take heed, ye true in lying tales, that beguile you and do you no good.

9 For when ye have stollen, murdered, committed adultery and perjury, when ye have offered unto Baal, following strange and unknowen gods: shall ye be unpunished:

10 Yet then come ye and stand before me in this house (whiche hath my name gonne into it)and say, truth, we are absolved quite, though we have done all these abominations.

11 What thinke ye this house that beareth my name, is a beme of thicnesse: And yet I see what ye thinke, saith the Lord.

12 Soot my place in Silo, whereunto I gaue my name abed time, and looke well what I did to the same place for the bichenesse of my people of Israel.

13 And now be ye done all these deedes faith the Lord, and I my selfe rolke by ever betimes to warne you and to commune with you, yet would ye not heare me, I called, ye would not aunswer:

14 Therefore, even as I have done uuto Silo, so will I do to this house that my name is ginnen upo, and that you put your true in, yea into the place that I have gienen to you and your fathers:

15 And I hath shalied you out of your sight, as I have cast out all your brethren the whole seede of Ephraim.

16 Therefore thou shalt not pay for this people, thou shalt neither guee thanke norbid payere for them: make thou no intercession for them, for in wise will I heare thee.

17 Sest thou not what they do in the citie of Judea, and in the streets of hec:

18 The ch’allen gather chaffes, the fathers kiule the fire, the women kneade the dough to bake cakkes for the qene of heaven: they poole out fine offeringes into strange gods, to provoke mee into wrath.

19 Howbeit they hurt not me faith the Lord, but rather consounde and shame them selues.

20 And therefore thus faith the Lord: Beholde, my wrath and indignation shalbe poynd out upon this place, upon men and cattell, upon trees in the field, and frute of the lande: and it shal burne, so that no man may quench it.

21 Thus faith the Lord of hostes the D God of Israel: heape by your burnt offeringes with your sacrifices, and eate the flesh.

22 For when I brought your fathers out of Egypt, I spake no wordes into them of burnt offeringes and sacrifices:

23 But this I commended them, sayning, *hearken and obey thy boyse, and I shal te your God, and ye shal te thy people, so that ye walke in all the wapes which I have commannde you, that ye may prosper.

24 But they were not obedient, they inclined not their carres thereunto: but went after their obvice imaginations, and after the motions of their obvice wicked heart, and so turned their selues away, and converted not unto me.

25 And this have they done from the time that your fathers came out of Egypt, unto this day: *Neverthelesse, I senth unto you all my seruantes the prophets, I rose by earlie, and sent you word.

26 Yet woulde they not hearken nor offer me their carres, but were obstinate, and worse then their fathers.

27 And thou shalt nowe speake all these wordes unto them, but they shall not heare thee: thou shalt peyre upon them, but they shall not aunswere thee.

28 Therefore shalt thou lay unto them, This is the people that neither heareth the voce of the Lord their God, nor receaueth his correction: forthwithly and trueth is cleane rooted out of their mouth.

29 Wherefore cut of thine heere, O Jerusalem, and cast it away, take by a complaint on hye: for the Lord hath cast away and forasken the people that he is displeased withall.

30 For the children of Judea have done euill in my sight, faith the Lord: *they have let by their abomimations in the house that hath my name, and have defiled it:

The prophecie

Deut. xxxii. 4. Re. xi. 4. Psal. cix. Irec. xix.

31 They have also builded an aulter at *Topheth, where the children of Hennom, that they might burne their sons and daughters in fire: Wherefore I shall not recompense them, neither came it ever in my thought.

32 And therefore behold the daies shall come, saith the Lord, one shall no more be called Topheth, or the valley of the children of Hennom, but the valley of slaughter: *for in Topheth shall they be buried, because they shall have no room.

33 *Thee dead bodys of this people shall be eaten by the foules of the axe, and wild beasts of the earth, and no man shall fray them away.

34 *And as for the vopice of murther, and gladness of the cities of Juda and Hierusalem, the vopice of the bloodcom and of the bride, I will make them cease: for the lande shall haue deoliate.

The viii. Chapter.

1 The destruction of the Jews. 4 The Lord moucheth the people to amendment, reckening by their fames. 10 He reprehended the lying doctrine of the prophets and priests.

1 The same tyne faith the Lord, the bones of the kings of Juda, the bones of his princes, the bones of the preachers and prophets, yea and the bones of the citizens of Hierusalem, haue brought out of their graves.

2 And layde against the *stone, the moone, all the hauenly hoofs, whom they looked, whom they feared, whom they came after, whom they sought and wonderfully: they shall neither be gathered together no buried, but shall lye as dunge upon the earth.

3 *And all they that remaine of this wicket generation, that deliue rather to die then to live, when euere they remaine, and where as I scatter them, faith the Lord of hoales.

4 Thus shal thou say unto them also: Thus saith the Lord, Do men fall dow, that they arise not by againe? or if Israel repent, will not God turne againe to them?

5 Wherefore then is this people of Hierusalem gone so farre backe, that they turne not againe? They are euere the longer the more obstinate, and will not be corrected.

6 For I haue tolked and considered, but there is no man that speakes a good woode, there is no man that taketh recompence for his saine, that will so muche say, what haue I done? but euery man turneth to his owne course, like a sere hore headlong to the battalle.

7 The Stoyle in the axe knoweth his *appointed tyne, the Lurke dowe, the Siballowe and the Crane consider the tyne of their teame: *but my people will not knowe the tyne of the punishment of the Lord.

8 Holve bare ye say then, we are wyse, we haue the lade of the Lord among vs: Truely in bayne hath he prepared his penne, and baincly haue the writers Written it.

9 Wherefore shall the wyse be confounded, they shall haue afraide and taken: for lo, they haue cast out the wyse of the Lord, What wildeone can then be among them?

10 Wherefore I wil giue their vouses by to alienates, and their fields to destroyers: For from the loweste into the highest they holde filthily lyere, and from the prophete into the priest they deckle all wilt lies.

11 *Nevertheless they haue the hurte of my people very tenderly, saying, peace, peace: where there is no peace at all.

12 Fye for shame, holde abominable things do they: and yet they be not ashamed, yea they knoole of no shame: *wherefore in the tyne of their vitallity on them shall fall among the dead bodys, and be overtlyeoure, faith the Lord.

13 Moreover, I wil consume them in dede (faith the Lord) so that there shall not be one grape upon the vine, neither one figg upon the figge tree, and the leaves haue plucked up; and the thing that I haue geuen them, halfe taken from them.
of Jeremiy.

Who * will give my head water tough, and a use of tears for mine eyes, that I may weep night and day for the slaughter of my people? 10. 2. woulde God that I had a cottage somewhere farre from folks, that I might leave my people and goe from them, for they be all adulterers and a whoring sort. 3. They bend their tongues like doves to drope out lyes, they were strong upon earth: As for the truth, they may nothing abait withall in the world, for they goe from one wickednes to another, and will not knowe me, faith the Lord. 4. * Pea, one must kepe hym selfe from another, no man may latelie trust his owne brother: for, one brother bereaveth another, one neighbour bereaveth another. 5. Pea, one dissembleth with another, and they deal with no truth: They have practised their tongues to lye, and taken great paynes to do mischief. 6. Thou strest in the middes of a decep- tive people, which for very dissembling faldhood will not knowe me, faith the Lord. 7. Therefore thus faith the Lord of hosts: Wholde, I will melt them and yre them: for what should I els do to my people? 8. * Their tongues are like sharpe axes to doe kinde deceit: with their mouth they speake peaceable to their neighbour, but privilie they lay wayte for hym. 9. * Should I not punishe them for these things, faith the Lord: or should I not be avenge of any suche people as this: 10. Upon the mountaunes will I take vp a lamentation and a sodoldfull crye: and a mourning upon the face places of the wilderness: Namely, howbe they are to bent vp, that no man goeth there any more, yea a man shall not heare one beast crye there: bydes and cattell are all gone from thence. 11. * I will make Hierusalem also an heap of stones, a den of bencious towmes: and I will make the cities of Juda to waste, that no man shall dwell therein. 12. What man is so wise as to understand this: to whom hath the Lord spok- en by mouth, that he may shewe this, and lay: O thou lande, why persecutest thou so: wherefore art thou so bent vp, and like a wilderness that no man goeth tospode?
The prophecy

13. "Vea the Lord hym selfe tolde the same vnto them that forsoke his laude, and kept not the thing that he gave them in commandement, neither lived thereafter.

14. "But folowed the wickednesse of their owne heartes, and errred strange gods as their forefathers taught them.

15. Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel: Beholde, I will send this people with Womne wood, and gene them gale to banke.

16. "I will scatter them also among the heathen, whom neither they nor their fathers had known: and I will send a wode among them to persecte them, until I hing them to death.

17. Moreover, thus saith the Lord of hostes: Beware of the vengeance that hath over you, and call for mourning wves, and bende for Wylpe wome, that they come shortly.

18. And sing a mourning long of vs, that the tears may fall out of our eies, and that our eye liddes may gulle out of water.

19. For there is a lamentable nople heard of Dn: O hole are we so sore destroyed: O hole are we so pitiously confoundede, we must forake our owne natural country, and we are shut out of our owne lodgings.

20. Yet heare the word of the Lord (O ye women) and let your eares regard the wordes of his mouth: that ye may learn your daughters to mourn, and that every one may teach her neighbour to make lamentation.

21. [Namely thus] Death is coming vp in at our windowes, he is come into our houses, to destroy the chyldre before the doore, and the young man in the streee.

22. But tell thou playnly, thus saith the Lord: The dead bodyes of men shall lie upon the ground as the dungge upon the fielde, and as the handfrill after the mother, and there shalbe no man to take them vp.

23. Thus saith the Lord: Let not the wilde man rejoyce in his wilde, nor the strong man in his strength, neither the riche man in his riches:

24. But who do Wylp rejoyce in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which do mercy, equitie, and righteousnesse vpon the earth: therefore have I pleasure in the thinges, that saith the Lord.

25. Beholde the time commeth (saith the Lord) that I will vistle all them whose foresname is bunctimelitie, and the remnder,

26. The Egyptians, the Jewses, the Eobites, the Ammontes, the Moabites, and the Chauen (The) danites that dwell in the wildernersse, for all the gentiles are all bunctimelitied in the fielde, but all the house of Israel are bunctimelled in the heart.

The x. Chapter.

The constellations of the staries are not to be feared. Of the weakeenesse of iolds, and of the power of God. 11 Of full curates.

1 Care the wordes of the Lord that he speaketh unto thee, O thou house of Israel. Thus saith the Lord: ye that not lerne after the manner of the heathen, and ye shall not be afraide for the tokens of heaven: for the heathen are afraide of suche.

3 Pea al the custome and lawes of the gentiles are nothing but vanitie: They haue dovbine a tree in the Wood (with the handes of the worke-man, and fashion it with the are.

4 They cover it ouer with golde or silver, they fasten it with nailes and hammers, that it move not.

5 It standeth as stiffe as the palm tree, it can neither speake no, goe no foote, but must be borne: But not ye as afraid of suche, for they can do neither good no eull.

6 But there is none lyke unto thee O Lord, and great is the name of the poerver.

7 Who would not feare thee, O king of the gentiles: for thyne is the dominion for among all the wilde men of the gentiles, and in all their kingdoms, there is none that may be likened vnto thee.

8 They are altogether brutish and brutishe in this one thing: Wood is the teaching of vanitie.
17 Gather up thy vases out of the land, that are in the strong place.
18 For thus saith the Lord: behold, I will now throbble as with a stone fling, the inhabitants of this land at this once, and I will bring trouble upon them, that they shall prove true the vases that I have spoken by the prophets.
19 Alas hoive am I hurt; alas hoive painefull are my soregoues unto me; for I consider this sorrow by myselfe, and I must suffer it.

20 By tabernacle is destroyed, and all my vases are broken, my chylpoxen are gone fro me, I can no where be founde: Hoive have I none to speade out my tent, not to let by my hanginges.

21 For the heardmen are become so foly, and they have not sought the Lord: therefore have they dealt vnwistfully with their cattell, and all are scattered aboyde.

22 Behold, the vessel is harde at hande, and great sedition out of the north, to make the cities of Juda a wildernesse, and a dwelling place for dragons.

23 *Hoive I knowe (O Lord) that it is not in mans power to order his owne vases, or to rule his owne steppes and gounges.

24 Therefore chaffen thou me O Lord, but with favour, and not in thy wrath, lest thou bring me vterely to naught.

25 *Hoive out thine indignation upon the gentiles that knowe thee not, and upon the people that call not upon thy name, and that because they have consumed, devoured, and destroyd Jacob, and have made his habitation waste.

The. xj. Chapter.

1 I curse to them that obey not the vode of Gods promise. 10 The people of Juda following the steppes of their fathers, too shippeth strange gods. 15 The Lord faie thy that he will not hear the Jews, and forbiddeall to Jeremie to pray for them.

2 This is a sermo which the Lord commanded Jeremie for to preache, saying: Hear the vodes of this covenant and speake unto the men of Juda, and to all them that dwell at Hierusalem,

3 And say unto them, Thus faith the Lord God of Israel: Cursed be every one that is not obedient unto the words of this covenant,

4 Whereby I commanded unto your fathers, what time as I brought them out of Egypt from the ironfurnace, say: D (iii)
Therefore pay not thou for this people, by no neither pitt be paper for them: for though they cry unto me in their trouble, yet will I not hear them.

What part hath my blood in my house, being he hath maintaining abomination, leasing many gods: The holy stile the offerings in the temple are gone from the[O] Judah and thou when thou hast done cruel, made thy boast of them.

The Lord called thee a greene olive tree, a faire one, a faire full one, a goodly one: but with great calamity hath the enemy let thee free upon it, the branches of it are destroyed.

For the Lord of hosts that planted thee, hath devised a plague for thee (O thou house of Israel and Judah) for the evil that ye have done to provoke hym to wrath, in that ye dyd service to Baal.

This (O Lord) haue I learned of thee, and understante it: for thy hand had shewed me their imaginations.

But I am as a meke lamb, and ane that is reared alway to be slayne, not knowinge that they had devisd such a counsell against me (saying,) *We will destroy his neste with wood, and drive him out of the lande of the living, that his name shall never be thought upon.

Therefore *I will deliver thee whole (O Lord of hosts) thou righteous judge, thou that estext the rightnes and the heares, let me see thee avenged of them: for unto thee haue I committed my cause.

The Lord therefore spake thus of the citizens of Sichem that sought to slay me, saying: *Preach not unto us in the name of the Lord, lest thou shal e of our bandes:

Thus [say] spake the Lord of hosts: Behold, I will visite you, your young men that pertainith with the Nob, your sons and your daughters shall utterly dyse of hunger.

So that none shall remaine: for upon the citizens of Sichem will I bring a plague even the perce of their vitation.
Loke thou art mere righteous, then that I shoude dispute with thee; nevertheless, let me talke with thee in thynges reasonable. Holde happeneth it that the way of the vngodly is so prosperus: and that it goeth so well with them which without any shame offend and lust in wickednesse.

2 Thou plantest them, they take root, they growe, and byng forth feuente: they boast much of thee, yet art thou farre from theire (8) rapynes.

3 But thou Lorde to whom I am well knowne, thou that hast seen and proved my heart, take them alway, like as a snake is terr'd to the slaughter house, appoint them for the day of slaughter.

4 Holde long shal the lande moune, and all the breaves of the fliede perisse for the wickednesse of them that dwell therein. The catell and the birdes are gone, yet say they true, *God will not destroy by vertee.

5 Syng thou art weere in rumpeing with the foote men, holde wilt thou then runne with hores: In a peaceable sure lande thou mayest be safe, but holde wilt thou do in the curious prude of Jordane?

6 For thy brethren and thy kinrede have altogether despised thee, and cryed out upon thee altogether: *Believe them not, though they speake faire words to thee.

7 As for me, I say I have forsaken mine owne dwelling place, and left mine heritage: my lyfe also that I love so well, have I gonen into the hands of myne enemies.

8 *Mine heritage is become unto me as a lion in the wood: it sere out upon me, therefore have I forsaken it.

9 Is not mine heritage vnto me as a speckled birde: are not the birds round about against her: Come and gather pe together all the beasts of the fliede, come, that ye may eate it up.

10 *Dyers herde they have broke downe my *biparade, and rodden upun my portion: of my pleasant portion they have made a vilderness and desert.

11 They have layde it waste, and nove that it is waste it sighteth vnto me: ye the whole lande lyeth waste, and no man regardeth it.

12 The destroyers come oute the borders in the desert every way: for the swords of the Lorde both confunde from the one ende of the lande to the other, and no flesh hath rest.

13 They have sowne wheate, and reaped chomes, they have taken heritage in possession, but it both them no good: and they were ashamed of your freutes, because of the great wrath of the Lorde.

14 Thus faith the Lorde vpon all my cuyl neighbours that lay lande on mine heritage which I have possessed, even my people of Israel: Beholde, I will plucke them (namely Israel) out of their lande, and put out the house of Juda from among them.

15 *And when I have rooted them out, I will be at one with them agayne, and I will have mercy vpon them, *and byng them agayne every man to his owne heritage, and into his lande.

16 And pf they, namely that trouble my people, I will learne the Wayers of them to sweare by my name, the Lorde yueth, yse as they learned my people to sweare by Baal, then shall they be built among my people:

17 *But pf they will not obey, then will I root out the same folke, and destroy them, faith the Lorde.
Thus saith the Lord unto me: Go thy way and get thee a linen girdle, and gird it about thy loines, let it not be wet.

Then I got me a girdle according to the commandment of the Lord, and put it about my loines.

After this, the second time the Lord spake unto me again.

Take the girdle that thou hast prepared and put about thee, and get thee up, and go unto Euphazias, and hyde it there in a hole of the rocke.

So went I, and hid it at Euphazias, as the Lord commanded me.

And it happened long after this, that the Lord spake unto me: Up, and get thee to Euphazias, and fetch the girdle from thence, which I commanded thee to hyde there.

Then went I to Euphazias, and digged vp, and take the girdle from the place where I had hid it: and behold, the girdle was corrupt, so that it was profitable for nothing.

Then hidde the Lord unto me,

Thus saith the Lord: Euen so will I corrupt the pride of Juda, and the hye mynde of Hierusalem.

This people is a wicked people, *they will not hear my voice, they folowe the wicked imaginations of their owne heart, and hang upon straunge gods, them they serve and worship, and therefore they shalbe as this bleece that fleeth for nothing.

For as delightfully as a girdle lyeth upon a mans loines, so delightfully I bynde the whole house of Israel, and the whole house of Juda unto me, saith the Lord: *that they might be my people, that they might have a glorious name, that they might be in honour: but they would not obey me.

Therefore lay this girdle before them, and lay, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel: Every pot shall be filled with wine. And they shall lay upon thee. Thinkest thou thinke not that every pot shall be filled with wine;

Then shalt thou say unto them, thus saith the Lord: Behold, I shall slay all the inhabitours of this lande with dumbnesse, the kynges that sit upon Dauds thron, the priests and prophetes, with all that dwelle at Hierusalem.

And I will let them one against another, yea the fathers against the sons, & the sonnes against the fathers, saith the Lord: I will not pardon them, I will not spare them, nor have pitie upon them: but destroy them.

Hear ye, give ear, take not disbayne at it: for it is the Lord ymn fele that speaketh.

Honour the Lord your God: he take his light from you, and of your feete stumble in darkness at the light, lest when you take for the light, he turne it into the shadowe and darknesse of death.

But if ye will not heare me that gue ye secretely warnyng, I will mounet from my whole heart for your subburmeffe: *Piteously will I wepe, and the teares shall gulfe out of your eyes, for the Lords flocke shall be captur.

Tell the kyng and the queene, humble your selues, sit you downe to day, for your dignite shalbe throwen downe, and the crowne of your glorye shall fall from your head.

The citie towards the south shalbe shut vp, and no man shall open them: all Juda shalbe carried alway captur, so that none shall remayne.

Lift up your eyes, and behold them that come from the north, where is the flocke that thou lookest? that was grene there, and where are thy fat and riche sheepe:

To whom wilsh thou make thy none when the enemie shall come upon thee, for thou hast taught them thy lyfe, and made them masters over thee: Shall not sovorne come upon thee as on a woman travayling with child?

And if thou wouldest then lay in thine heart, Wherfore come these things up on me? Even for the multitude of thy blaspheemies shall thy lynder partes and thy secte be dis trouer.

The xiii. Chapter.

1 And he spake unto Jereme by the word of the Lord, saying, of Jereme.

2 Jereme, the prophet, thou art the comfort and help of Israel in the time of trouble: why speakest thou as a stranger in the land, and as one that goeth his journey, and cometh in only to remaine for a night? why spakest thou as if thou wert in a strange land, and thinkest not, that yet thou mayest help: But thou, O Lord, art in the midst of us, and thy name is called upon of us, for sake us not.

10 Thus saith the Lord: As for those prophets that preache in my name, whereas I have not sent them, neither gave I them any charge, neither did I speak unto them: yet they preache unto you falsities, charmingly, looking, and deceitfulness of their own heart.

15 Therefore thus saith the Lord: As for those prophets that preache in my name, whom I nevertheless have not sent, and that say, Thus saith the Lord, there shall no sword, nor hunger be in this land: with sword, and with hunger shall those prophets perish.

16 And the people to whom they preache shall be cast out of the land, and be taken, and they shall not be able to build houses, or to plant vineyards, neither shall they dwell in the land.

18 And the Lord shall make thee a landmark unto the heathen, and a rebuke, and a reproach, and a hissing, among all nations whereon thou goest.

21 Therefore shall I scatter them like as the stubble that is taken away with the south wind.

23 Make ye this boughs, and thrust it into the hand of the woman, and say, Thus saith the Lord: Behold, I will make thee barren, and thy womb full of grief, and thy breast full of pain:

24 Then said to the woman, Be not afraid, for thou shalt bear seed, and thy seed shall be a holy bishop in the land.

26 Therefore shall I turne thy clothes over thy head, and discover thy shame.

27 Thy adulteries, thy whoredomes, thy shamefull whoredome on the hyles in the fields, and thy abominations have I seen: Who be unto thee (O Jerusalem), that I have never cleansed any more: O, when shall that be?
and their daughters: for thus will I pour their wickedness upon them.

17 This shall thou say also unto them, *Eyes shall be without seeing, day and night: for my people that be destroyed with great famine, and shall perish with a great plague.

18 For if I go into the city, to, lo, they be all famished of hunger: yea their prophets also and priests shalbe led into an unknown land.

19 But thou shalt utterly take them all; Doest thou to abhorre Sion? Wherefore hast thou so plagued vs, that we can be healed no more?* We looked for peace, and there commeth no good, for the rhyme of health, and to her is nothing but trouble.

20 We knowledge (O Lord) all our miseries, and the times of our fathers: for we have offended thee.

21 Cast vs not of (O Lord) for thy names sake, *forget not thy loving kindness, ouerthou not the thone of thou honour, break not the covenant that thou hast made with vs.

22 Are there any among the gods of the gentiles that sende rainye, or give the showers from heaven? Art not thou thy selfe our Lord God? We will trust in thee, for thou dost all these things.

_The xv. Chapter._

Thus spake the Lord unto me, *Though the house of Judah and Samuel woodo before me, yet have I no heart to this people: drive them away, that they may go out of my sight.

2 And of they lay unto thee, Whymere shalt we go: then tell them, The Lord geareth on this answering: *Some unto death, some to the woodo, some to hunger, some into captiuitie.

3 For I will bring foure plagues upon them, saith the Lord: The woodo that flay them, the dogges shall eate them in pieces, the foules of the ape and beasts of the earth shall eate them up, and destroy them.

4 I will scatter them about also in all kingdoms and landes to be plagued, because of *Manasse the sonne of Hezekia king of Judah, for the thynge that he did in Hierusalem.

5 Who shall then have pittie upon thee O Hierusalem: who shalbe pitie for thee? Or who shall make intercession to obtaine peace for thee?

6 Sceng thou goest from me, and turnest backwarde, saith the Lord: therefore I will stretch out mine hande against thee to destroy thee, and I will turne mine hande so long that I am berafe.

7 I have scattered them abode with the 12 saym of every side of the land, *I have wasted my people and destroyed them, yet they have had no lust to turne from their owne wypes.

8 I have made their woodo no number then the landes of the sea, upon the mothers of their children by I byng a destroyer in the noone day: *todayly and shadwes did I sende a feare upon their cities.

9 She that hath borne feuen children, hath none, her heart is full of sorrow: *the sweene doth fayle her in the clare day, she is confounded and saine for very heaneesse: As for those that remayne, I will deliver them into the woodo before their enemies, faith the Lord.

10 O mother, alas that thou euer didst bear me, a bawdrey and rebel of the whole lande: though I never lent not receaved upon blure, yet all men speake euyl upon me.

11 And the Lord answarde me, *Eerily thy *rennan shall have wealth: Come not I to thee when thou art in trouble, & helpe thee when thine enemies oppress thee:

12 Dost one iron hurt another? or one mettall that cometh from the north another?

13 As for thy riches and treasure, I will take them out into a pay: not for money, money, but because of all thy sines that thou hast done in all thy coasts.

14 And I will bring thee with thine enemies into a land that thou knowest not: for the fire that is kindled in mine indignation shall burne you vp.

15 O LORD thou knowest, therefore remember me, and visite me, revenge me of my persecutors: take me not from this life in the tyne of thine anger, thou knowest that for the sake I suffer re\n
16 When I had founde thy wothes I dwelt them up greedyly, they have made my heart toyfull and glad: for thy name was called upon me O LORD God of hosts.

17 I dwell not among the soulers, neither is my delight therein: but I dwell alone because of thy hande, for thou hast fullest me with bitterness.

18 Shall my hauinesse endure for ever:

Are my plagues then so great that they may never be healed: wylt thou be as one that is false, and as a water that falleth, and can not continue;

19 Upon these wothes, thus sayde the LORD unto me, If thou wylt turne agayne, I shall set thee in my seruice, and of thou wylt take out the thynges that is precious from the vide, thou shalt be euyn as inyne odwyn mouth: they shall conueut unto thee, but turne not thou unto them.

20 And so shall I make thee a strong wall against this people, they shall fighte against thee, but they shall not preuype: for I my selue wyl be with thee, to helpe thee and deliver thee, saith the LORD:

21 And I will rid thee out of the handes of the wicked, and deliver thee out of the handes of the evauntes.

1 The strowardnesse of the Jews. 5 Cursed be those that put their confidence in man, and those blessed that trust in God. 9 Many a heart is wicked. 10 God is the searcher of the heart. 11 The liuing waters are lostaken. 21 The balowyng of the Sabbath is commaundad.

Adamant clabe:

2 That as the fathers thynke upon their children, so thynke you also upon your anitters, wooddes, thicke trees, hye hylls, mountaynes, and fieldes.

3 Wherefore, I will make my mount that standeth in the fielde, all your substance and treasure to be spoyled, for the great sinne that ye have done upon your hye places throughout all the coastes of your lande.

4 Ye shalbe cast out also from the heritage that I gaue you: and I will subdue you under the heauie bondage of your enemies, in a lande that ye knowe not: for ye have nummered fire to mine indignation, which shall burne evermore.

5 Thus saith the Lord, *Cursed be the man that putthe his trust in man, and that taketh fleche for his arme, and he whose heart departeth from the Lord.

6 He shalbe like the heath that groweth in wildernesse: As for the good thing that is to, to come, he shall not see it, but dwell in a dyre place of the wildernesse, in a salt and unoccupied lande.

7 O blessed is the man that putthe his trust in the Lord, and whose hope is in the Lord his myne felse.

8 For he shalbe as a tree that is planted by the water side, which spreadeth by the roote into moistnesse, whose beate cannot harme when it commeth, but his leafe shalbe greene: And though there grove but little fruite because of yould, yet is he not carefull, but he never leaueth of to bring forth fruite.

9 Among all ephinges, man hath the most deceiptfull and subburne heart: who shall then knowe it?

10 *Even if the Lord searche out the grounde of the heart, & trye the raynes, and and rewarde every man according to his wayes, and according to the fruite of his worke.

The patriarch maketh a nest of egges, which she layed not: he commeth by riches, but not righteously, in the midst of his life must he leave them behinde him, for the last he found a very loole.

But thou (O Lord) whose throne is most glorious, excellent, and of most antiquity, which dwelleth in the place of our holy rest:

Thou art the comfort of Israel, all they that take thee shalbe confounded, all they that do depart from thee shalbe written in earth: for they have sought the Lord the very conduite of the waters of lyse.

Heale me O Lord, and I shalbe whole: saue thou me, & I shalbe saue: for thou art my praise.

Whereas I nevertheless obediently followed thee as a shepheard, have not bcalld taken this office upon me, this knowest thou well: my words also were righte before thee.

Be not thou terrible unto me O Lord: for thou art in whom I hope when I am in perill.

Let my persecutors be confounded, but consume them, & let them be astrayde, and not me: Thou shalt byng upon them the yme of plague, and shalt destroy them righte fore.

Thus hath the Lord said unto me, Go stande under the gate where-through the people and the kynges of Juda go out and in, yea under all the gates of Hierusalen,

And laye unto them, heare the worde of the Lord ye kynges of Juda, and all thou people of Juda, and all the citizens of Hierusalen, that go through this gate.

Thus the Lord comandeth, Take heed for your lyues that ye carie no burthen upon you in the Sabbath, to byng it through the gates of Hierusalen.

We shall heare no burthen also out of your houses in the Sabbath, you shall do no labour therein: but halowe the Sabbath, as I comanded your fathers.

Houldbet they obeyed me not, neither hearkened they unto me: but were obstinate & stubborn, and neither obeyed me, nor receaued my correction.

Nevertheless, if ye wil heare me faith the Lord, and beare no burthen into the cite through this gate upon the Sabbath, ye wil halowe the Sabbath, so that ye do no worke therein:

Then shall there go through the gates of this cite kynges and princes that shall sit upon the throne of Dauid, they shalbe carried upon charrettes, and ride upon houles, both they & their princes: pe a whole Juda and all the citizens of Hierusalen shall go here through, and this cite shall ever be inhabited.

There shall come men also from the cities of Juda, from about Hierusalen, and from the lande of Benjamin, from the plaine fieldes, from the mountaynes, and from the wildernesse, which shall byng burne Offerpyngs, sacrifices, oblatiouns, and incense, and offer up chamel-geryng in the house of the Lord.

But if ye will not be obedient unto me to halowe the Sabbath, so that ye wil heare your burthenes through the gates of Hierusalen upon the Sabbath: then shall I set fire upon the gates of Hierusalen, and it shall burne by the houles of Hierusalen, and no man shalbe able to quench it.
acceding to his nypde.

Then saide the Lorde thus unto me: to go into a Way not designated to be troden [20] Wherethrough they have brought their lande into an eueraisyng wiuere neffe and stone: * so that whohsoever abaptizeth therby, Halfe abathd,and wagge their heads.

17 Wth an eall Wynde Wyll I scatter them before their enemies: and when their destruction commeth, I will turne my backe upon them, but not my face.

18 Then sayd they: *Come, let vs imagine somertnyng against this Jeremie: for the paeukes shall not be desitute of the lade, neither shall the Wife men be deser offe of tommyle, nor that prophetes desitute of the Wode of God: Come, and let vs unite hym with the tongue,
and let vs not marke all his Wodes.

19 Consider me O Lorde, and heare the voyce of many enemies.

20 *Shall they recompence voyce with voyce:
for they have digged a pit for my soul:
*Remember holde that I Wode before thee to speake good for them, and to turne away thy Wrath from them.

21 *Therefore, let their children dye of hunger, and let them be oppressed with the Wode: Let their blus be robed of their children, and become Wodobes, let their husbands be Wane, let their young men be blynd with the Wode in the fielde.

22 Let the Wode be hearde out of their houses when thou bringest the mur theree sodainly upon them: * for they have digged a pit to take me, and layde shares for, my fette.

23 Yet Lorde thou knowest all their commeaile, that they have desuised to lay me, foigne not their wickednesse, and let not their finnes be put out of thy sight, but let them be budge before thee as gilte: this do thou under them in the ynke of thine indignation.

The prophecey

Thus sayde the Lorde: To the day and bupe thee an earthen pitche, and byng sooth
the senatours and chiefe
puerles, Unto the valley of the cuddy of Jerualem, which leet without thee the east gate, and shewe them there the wordes that I shall tell thee.

2 And say thus unto them, Behere the wordes of the Lorde ye kinges of Juda, and ye citizens of Jerualem, * thus faith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israelt.
Isaiah: *Behold, I will bring upon this place, and the cities thereof, and upon all the countries about it, the king of Babylon. And I will set up a king over these cities, and chief officers of the province, and officers, and a baker. Then will I send the whole remnant to Babylon, and they shall be a possession and a reproach to Babylon, which gave them refuge and a stay of heart. And I will lay them up among the places that never were inhabited, among the cities that were not built up; and they shall be desolate for ever; yes, forever.

And I will make it a possession for beasts, and it shall be rooted out forever.

And I will cause it to be inhabited, and will place in it the house of Jacob; and I will plant them forever, and I will not remove them any more for all time.

And I will make it a possession for the beasts of the wilderness, and for the fowls of the heaven, and for the beasts of the earth; and no man shall trouble them.

And I will make it a possession for the swine of the desert; and they shall eat thereof, and lie down in it; and the beasts of the wilderness shall walk therein, and all the birds of the heaven shall sing in it; and it shall be desolate forever.

And I will cause it to be inhabited, and will place in it the house of Jacob; and I will plant them forever, and I will not remove them any more for all time.

And I will make it a possession for the beasts of the desert, and for the fowls of the heaven; and I will give it to them to eat; and no man shall trouble them any more for all time.

And I will make it a possession for the beasts of the desert, and for the fowls of the heaven; and I will give it to them to eat; and no man shall trouble them any more for all time.
The prophesie

5. "Moreover, all the substance of this city, whatsoever they have gotten with their transe, all their precious things, all the treasure of the kings of Judah, will I give into the hands of their enemies, which shall hope them, and carry them unto Babylon.

6. But as for thee (O Pharaoh) thou shalt go into captivity with all thy land, which is assembled, unto Babylon thou shalt come, where thou shalt dye and be buried, thou and all thy princes, and whom thou hast praeced and lies.

7. O Lord, if I am deceived, [then hast thou deceived me, thou enchanted me, and hast deceived daily and laughed to the face of every man]

8. For since I began to preach, I expected against violence, and exclaimed against oppression: for the which cause they cast the voice of the Lord in my teeth, to my reproche continually.

9. Wherefore I thought from henceforth not to speak of hym, nor to preche any more in his name: but the voice of the Lord was a very burning fire in my heart and in my bones, which when I would have stopped, I might not.

10. Wherefore I heard the evil reprotes of many, terror was on every side of me: (c) complained upon hym lay they, and we will tell his tale: Oea all myne owne companions, and suche as were conreant with me, lay in wait for my halting, saying: peradventure he will be decaued, and to shalt we present again hym, and be avenged of hym.

11. But the Lord stode by me lyke a mightie gaunt, therefore my persecutors fell and could do nothing: they shalbe before confused, for they have done unwisely, they shalbe have an everlasting shame, which shall never be forgotten.

12. And noble O Lord of hostes that triest the righteous, which knowest the raysnes and the very hearts, let me see them punished: for unto thee I have declared my cause.

13. Sing unto the Lord and praise hym, for he hath delivered the oute of the oppressed from the hande of the violent.

14. Curse be the day wherein I was borne, unhappie by the day wherein my mother brought me forth.

15. Curse be the man that bought my father the tidinges to make hym gald, saying, Thou hast begotten a sonne:

16. Let it happen unto this man, as to the cities (c) which the Lord turned upside downe and repented not: let hym heare crying in the morning, and at noone day lamentable howling.

17. Why sethyst thou not assoone as I came out of my mothers wombe: or that my mother had ben my graue her selfe, that the bysh might not have come out, but rayned still in her.

18. Wherefore came I forth of my mothers wombe: to have experience of labour and sorrow, and to lease my life with shame:

The xx. Chapter.

He prophesie that Jezekielis halbe taken, and the citie burned.

T

These are the words that the Lord spake unto Jeremias, what time as king Jezekielis sent unto him Pharaoh the sone of Meschias, and Sophoni as the sone of Maaxis priest, saying: Afts countable at the Lord (we pray thee) on our behalfe, for Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon belegeth vs, if the Lord (peradventure) wyll deale with vs according to his marneous power, and take hym from vs.

Then spake Jeremias: Gene Jezekielis chas this annueller.

Thus saith the Lord God of Israel Behold, I wyll turne bache the weapons that ye have in your hands, wherewith ye fight against the king of Babylon and the Chaldies, which beleghe you rounde about the walles, and I wyll byng them together into the middest of this citie.
Thus saith the Lord: Go downe into the house of the king of Juda, and speake there these wordes.

And say: Hear the wordes of the Lord thou king of Juda that sittest in the highe seat of Dauid, thou and thy seruantes and thy people that goeth in and out at these gates.

Thus saith the Lord comandeth: *Repeue and righteousnesse, deliver the opprest from the power of the violent, do not greeue nor oppresse the stranger, the fatherlesse, not the widowe, and shed no innocent blood in this place.

And if ye repe these thinges saith the Lord then shall there come in at the doore of this house, hinges to sit upon Dauids seat, they shalbe caerted in charrers, and ride upon horses, both they and their seruantes and their people.

But if ye wyll not be obedient unto these commandementes, *I will cleave by mine owne selfe, saith the Lord, this house shalbe waste.

For thus saith the Lord spoken upon the hinges of Juda: Thou Giladart unto the head of Libanus: Shall I not make thee to waste as the citie that no man dwell in:

I wyll prepare a destroyer with his weapons for thee, to hellon doine the especial Ceder trees, and to call them in the fire.
And all the people that go by this cite, shall speak one to another: "Wherefore hast the Lord done thus unto this noble cite?

Then shall it be a memorial: "Because they have broken the covenant of the Lord their God, and have worshipped and served strange Gods.

Hence not over the dead, and be not bid for them: but be wise for thy son that departeth away, for he cometh not again, and seeth his native country no more.

For thus saith the Lord as touching Selah the some of Josias kingly of Judah, which reigned after his father: when he is carried out of this place, he shall never come by thy agame.

For he shall dye in the place whereunto he is led captive, and shall see this lande no more.

Wo worth hym that buildeth his house with unrighteousnesse, and his parlours with the good that he hath gotten by violence, which never recompenceth his neighbours labour, nor payeth hym his hire:

Who thinkest in hym selfe, I will build me a hyde house and glorious parlours, who causeth windoows to be heventherm, and the feelings and toytes make thy of Cedar, and painteth them with Sinoper.

Thinkest thou to rainge nowe that thou hast inclosed thy selfe with Cedar?

Did not thy father eate and drinke and prosper well, as long as he dealt with equity and righteounesse:

Pey, when he helped the oppressed and poore to ther right, then prospered he well: From whence came this, but of thy because he knewe me, saith the Lord:

Nevertheless, as for thynge eyes and thynge heart they lye upon contoune, to shed innocent blood, to do wrong and violence.

And therefore thus saith the Lord against Jehoakim the some of Jothas kingly of Judah: They shall not mourn for hym [as they be to do] Alas brother, alas sister: neither shall they say unto him, Alas sir, alas for that noble prince.

But as an att shall he be buried, to rupt, and be cast without the gates of Hierusalem.

Chimbe by the hyll of Libanus [so thou daughter Sion] lift by thy boype upon Zaan, crye from all partes: so all thy lowes are destroyed.

I gave thee warning while thou wast yet in prosperity: but thou failest, I will not heare: And this maner hast thou beed from thy youth, that thou wouldest never heare my boype.

All thy heardmen shall be drowne with the waide, and thy baringes shall be carrd away into captuic: then shalt thou be brought to shame and confiffion, beacause of all thy wickednes.

Thou that didelest upon Libanus, and madest thy nest in the Cedar trees, O hode little stalt thou be regarded when thy soowe and panges come by

Thou that didst set upon Zaan, and madest thy nest in the Cedar trees, and thy sonne commingangeling with chyldre:

As truly as I live saith the Lord, though Conanias the some of Jehoahin kingly of Judah were the signet of my right hande, yet willy I plakke of.

And I willy gonne thee into the hande of them that seek thine life, and into the power of them that thou fearest, even into the power of Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babylon, and into the power of the Chaldees.

Moreover, I willy sende thee and thy mother that bare thee into a strange lande where ye were not borne, and there shall ye dye.

But as for the lande that ye willy de

This man Conanias shalte lyke an image robbed and come in peeces, and like a defelt therin there is no pleasure: Wherefore both he and his seede shall be fent away, and cast into a lande that they knowe not.

O thou earth, earth, earth, heare the wode of the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord: Write this man desitute of children: for no prospere saith this man have all his house, neither shall any of his seede be to be bap of Jeremie.

The xxiiij. Chapter.

He speaketh against false prophets that make hatchets of the flocke of the Lord. 7 Of the conversion of the remnant of the Jews to the faith. 8 The coming of the true shepheard Christ is prophesied. 9 Against false prophets. 10 When a prophet speaketh the words of God, God convereth the hearts of the hearers. 11 Against prophets that prophesy lies under the name of God. 12 The miracles of false prophets.

O'unto the shepheardes that destroy and scatter my flocke, faith the Lord. Wherefore this is the saying of the Lord God of Israel concerning the shepheardes that scatter my people, ye scatter and thrust out my flocke, and look not upon them: therefore shal I visit the wickedness of your imaginatiouns, faith the Lord. And I will gather together the remnant of my flocke from all landes that I had driven them into, and will bring them againe to their foldes, that they may geode and increafe. I will let shepheardes alio over them, which shall scatter them: they shall no more feare and deade, and there shall none of them be loste, faith the Lord. Beholde, the lyme commeth faith the Lord, that I will rapie by the righteous branch of David, whichbi shall bear rule, and he shall prosper both his bones, and that set by equitie and righteousesse among in the earth. In this lyme shall Juda be sauned, and Israel shall dwell without feare: and this is the name that they shall call him, even the Lord our righteouse.
And therefore the Lord of hosts ge-mutter you this warning: *Hear not the words of the prophets that preach unto you and decease you, truly they teach you vanity: for they speak the meaning of their own heart, and not out of the mouth of the Lord.

They lay unto them that despise me,

The Lord hath spoken it, truth, ye shall prosper right well: and unto all them that walk after the lust of their no misfortune happen you.

For who hath listen in the countable of the Lord, that hath heard and who hath marked his device, and heard it?

Behold, the tempe weather of the Lord [that is] his indignation, shall go forth, and a violent whirlwind shall fall downe upon the head of the godly.

And the wrath of the Lord shall not

*Hay any man hide himselfe so, that

I shall not see hym faith the Lord?

*Do not I fulfill heauen and earth faith

the Lord?

I have hearde well enough what the

The xxiii. Chapter.

1 The vision of the two manneurs of sigges. 1 The first vision signifieth, that part of the people should be brought againe from captivity. 2 The second, that Zedechias and the rest of the people should be destroyed.

2 Babylon had led away the childe of Jechonias the sonne of Jeconiah king of Juda, the mighty men also of Juda, with the workmen and running men of Hierusalem into Babylon.

3 In the one mannde were very good sigges, even like those that be first ripe: and the other mannde were very naughtie sigges, which might not be eaten they were so acupl.

4 Then sayd the Lord unto me: What seest thou Jeremie? I sayde, sigges, whereof some be very good, and some so acupl that no man may eate them.

5 Then came the words of the Lord unto me, after this manner:

6 And I will smite thee with a childe of very good sigges, and thou shalt eate thereof, that thou mayest know that a man may eate them.

7 Then sayd the Lord unto me: What seest thou Jeremie? I sayde, sigges, whereof some be very good, and some so acupl that no man may eate them.

8 Then sayd the Lord unto me, after this manner:

9 Then I spake to the Lord, saying, O Lord, thou hast gathered me, and seest me: what should I say when they shall say to me, Wherefore art thou gathered?

10 Then sayd the Lord unto me: A cup, a common cup bydoode, a lauging stocche and shame in all places where I shall cause them to be:

The xxv. Chapter.

1 Jeremie prophesieeth that they shall be in captivity the space and ten yeres, because they continued and delipt the words of God. 10 He saith that after the three and ten yeres, the Babylonians should be destroyed, 14 The destruction of all nations is prophesied. 15 He loueth the priests of the nations to wagling.

2 A Sermon that was geuen unto Jeremie upon all the people of Juda, in the fourth yere of Jechoniah the sonne of Josias king of Juda (that was in the first yere of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon.)

3 Which sermon Jeremie the prophete made unto all the people of Juda, and to all the inhabitants of Hierusalem, on this maner.

4 From the thirteenth yere of Josias the sonne of Amon king of Juda unto this present day (that is even twenty and three yeres) the words of the Lord hath ben committed unto me, and so I have spoken unto you, I have spake with a man.

season, yet would ye not obey, ye would not encline your cares to heare.

5 He saith: "Lerne againe every man from his eare way, and from your wicked imaginatioms, and so shall ye dwell forever in the lande that the Lord promised you and your forefathers.

6 And go not after strange gods, serve them not, worship them not, and anger me not with the workes of your owne handes, then I will not punish you.

7 Nevertheless, ye would not heare me (faith the Lord, but have pounted me to anger with the workes of your handes, to your great harme.

8 Wherefore thus saith the Lord of hostes: "Because ye have not hearkened unto my worde, 9 Lo, I will send out and call for all the people that dwell in the north (faith the Lord, and I will prepare Haborchobodzer the king of Babylon your servant, and I will bygn them upon this lande, and upon all that dwell therein, and upon all the people that are about them, and I will bygely roote them out: I will make them anashed, a mockage, and a continual defeter.

10 Moreover, I will take from them the voyce of gladussesse and solace, the voyce of the bidergone and the bride, the voyce of the millstones, and the light of the cressets.

11 And this whole lande shall become a wilderness and astonished; and these nations that serve the king of Babylon therefore yeere, and ten.

12 "When the thirste and ten yeere are expired, I will visite all the wickednesse of the king of Babylon and his people, when the Lord, ye and the lande of the Calabees, and I will make it a perpetuall wilderness,

13 And I will fulfill all my wordes upon that lande whiche I have declared againe, all that is written this booke, wherein Jeremias hath prophesiied of all people.

14 So that they also shalle subdownde unto divers nations and great kinges, for I will recompence them according to their doodes and workes of their owne handes.

15 For thus saith the Lorde God of Israel spoken unto me: take this wine cup of indignation fro my hande, that thou mayest cause all people to whom I send thee, for to drink of it.

16 That when they have drunken thereof, they may be madde and out of their wittes, when the swordd commeth that I will send among them.

17 Then take I the cuppe from the Lordes hande, and made all people to drink thereof unto whom the Lord had sent mee:

18 But first the cite of Jerusalem, and all the cites of Juda, their kinges and princes, to make them defoliate, anashed, despised, and hasted at, and curst, according as it is come to passe this day.

19 PEA and Pharaon the king of Egypt, his sersurates, his princes, and his people altogether one with another;

20 And all kinges of the lande of Rus, all kinges of the Philistines lande, Asiaon, Azah, Acoran, and the remnent of Alood,

21 The Edomites, the Moabites, and the Ammonites,

22 All the kinges of Elyus and Sdon, the kinges of the Isles that are beyond the sea, 23 Deban, Themia, Buz, and all them that dwell in the uttermost partes of the worde.

24 All the kinges of Arabia, and generally all the kinges that dwell in the defeter,

25 All the kinges of Zimni, all the kinges of Elam, all the kinges of the Odes,

26 All the kinges towarde the north, whether they be farre or nere, every one against his neighbour, ye and all the kyngdomes that are upon the whole earth: and the kyng of Scarch shall dyneke all after them.

27 Therefore lay them unto them, This is the commandeement of the Lord, of hostes the God of Israel: Dyneke and be drunken, spewe and fall, that ye never arise, and that thoulue the worde whiche I will send among you.

28 But ye they will not receave the cup of thy hande, and dyneke it, then tell them, thus doth the Lord of hostes threaten you, Dyneke it ye shall, and that shortly.

29 For lo, I begun to plague the cite that my name is geuen unto, think ye then then shall I will leave you unpunished: ye shall not go quite; for why? I call for awords upon all the inhabitants of the earth, saith the Lord of hosts.

Therefore tell them all these words, and lay them to heart: the Lord shall not hearken to the voice of his people, saith he, for they are a provoking people, and they have hearkened and done according to all the words which I spake among them.

And the same day shall the Lord his servant, that teacheth the people to know the Law; yea, he shall also do judgment among his people, and shall be a light of truth of rest unto the Jacobites, and the brightness of hope to the people of Judah.

The Lord, that smiteth, shall speak to these men, and the Lord shall spell a word in their ears.

I have broken Jacob, and made all the inhabitants of Israel as. an unclean thing, so that I cast them out with the breath of mine mouth before all the nations, upon whom I have poured out my indignation.

Then shall ye know that I am he: and they shall know that I am the Lord: when I shall have brought them again from the people, and gathered them out of all the countries, and shall cast them into their own land; then shall the uncircumcised be使える, and the uncircumcised be filled with shame.

And they shall fear the name of the Lord from the west, and of the glory of the Lord from the sun rising in the east; for he hath coming unto Zebalad, and shall be worshipped in the temple of the Lord, in Jerusalem.

And when ye see this, ye shall say in your heart, We have made a covenant with our fathers in our youth, saying, We will not go off from the Lord, nor will we go off from our God: for he is our strength, and we shall not be put to shame.

And he shall make them according to this covenant, which was in the day of the oath, which the Lord made with the house of Jacob, saying, We will not make a covenant with them, that they shall go off from us, and that we shall make a covenant with them, that they shall be bound in our covenant.

And the Lord shall make them according to this covenant, which was in the day of the oath, which the Lord made with the house of Jacob, saying, We will not make a covenant with them, that they shall go off from us, and that we shall make a covenant with them, that they shall be bound in our covenant.

And the Lord shall make them according to this covenant, which was in the day of the oath, which the Lord made with the house of Jacob, saying, We will not make a covenant with them, that they shall go off from us, and that we shall make a covenant with them, that they shall be bound in our covenant.

And the Lord shall make them according to this covenant, which was in the day of the oath, which the Lord made with the house of Jacob, saying, We will not make a covenant with them, that they shall go off from us, and that we shall make a covenant with them, that they shall be bound in our covenant.

And the Lord shall make them according to this covenant, which was in the day of the oath, which the Lord made with the house of Jacob, saying, We will not make a covenant with them, that they shall go off from us, and that we shall make a covenant with them, that they shall be bound in our covenant.
people these words, *This man is worthy to dye: for he hath preached against this cite, as ye your selves have heard with your cares.

12 Then sayde Jeremie unto the rulers and to all the people, The Lord hath sent me to preach against this house, and against this cite, all the words that ye have heard.

13 Therefore amend your ways, and your adulteries, and be obedient unto the voice of the Lord your God, so shall the Lord repent of the plague that he hath decreed against you.

14 Noe, for me I am in your handes, do with me as ye thinke expedient and good.

15 But this shall ye knowe ye ye put me to death, *ye shall make your selves, this cite, and all the inhabitours thereof guiltie of innocent blood: For this is of a truth, that the Lord hath sent me unto you, to speake all these worordes in your cares.

16 Then sayde the rulers and the people unto the priests and prophetes: This man may not be condemned to death, for he hath preached unto us in the name of the Lord our God.

17 The elders also of the lande stode vp, and sayde thus unto all the people.

18 Micheas the Dochebrite, which was a prophete under Ezekias kynge of Judah, spake to all the people of Judah, thus faith the Lord of hostes, *Sion shall be ploved like a field, Hierusalem shall be an heape of stones, and the hyl of the Lodes house shall be turned to an hpe wood.

19 Did Ezekias the kynge of Judah and all the people of Judah put hym to death so this: No brelye: but rather feared the Lord, and made their prayer vnto hym, for the which cause also the Lord repented of the plague that he had decreed against them: Shoude the then do such a shamefull deede against our oules?

20 There was a prophete also that preached stilly in the name of the Lord, called Urias the sonne of Sennaiach, of Kiriaithiaun: this man also preached against this cite and against this lande, according to all as Jeremie faith.

21 Noe, when Jeoakim the king with all the estates and princes had heare his worordes, the kynge went about to slay him: when Urias perceived that, he was affrighted and fled, and departed into Egypt.

22 Then Jeoakim the kynge sent seruantes into the lande of Egypt (namely) Elaschan the sonne of Asjho, and certaine men with hym into Egypt:

23 Which fetched Urias out of Egypt, and brought him unto king Jeoakim, that slew hym with the sword, and cast his dead body into the common peoples grave.

24 But Ahikam the sonne of Saphan helped Jeremie, that he came not into the handes of the people to be slayne.

The xxvii. Chapter.

Jeremie at the commandement of the Lord senteth bonds to the kynge of Judah, and to the other kynge that were ne, whereby they are monished to become subiectes unto Nabuchodonosor. He warneth the people, and the kynge, and rulers, that they believe not false prophetes.

1 In the beginning of the raigne of Jeoakim the sonne of Josias kynge of Judah, came this word unto Jeremie from the Lord, which spake thus unto me:

2 Make thee bonds and chapnes, and put them about thy necke,

3 And sende them to the kyng of Edom, to the kyng of Boab, to the kyng of Ammon, to the kyng of Tyus, and to the kyng of Sidon, and that by the messengers which shall come to Hierusalem, vnto Zebekiah the kyng of Judah:

4 And bid them saye unto their masters, Thus faith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, speake thus unto your masters:

5 *I am that made the earth, the men, and the cattell that are vpon the grounde, with my great poweres stretcht out arme, and have gaven it vnto whom it pleased me.

6 *And noo, whoe is hee that shall persuade thy seruantes, that they doe not obey the word of the Lord their God? For the Lord is not among suche as are desirous of life, but among such as are desirous of death. And I JEREMIAH, vii. 16. 17. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 33. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 42. 43. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 50.
And it came to passe in the fourteenth year, even in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year, the first money, that Hananiah the lonic of Assur the prophet of Gibon spoke to me in the house of the Lord, in the presence of the priests, and of all the people, and said:

1. "Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: I have spoken the voice of the king of Babylon,
And after two years will I bring again into this place all the ornamental stones of the Lord's house, that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon carried away from this place into Babylon.

Nabuchodonosor the son of Techoamin the king of Juda spake, with all the puliters of Juda that are carried into Babylon, even into this place, faith the Lord: for I will break the yoke of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon from the necke of all nations, yea and that within this two years. And so the prophete Jeremie went his way.

Nabuchodonosor the prophete had taken the chapynge from the prophete Jeremias necke and broken, the yowde of the Lord came into the prophete Jeremie, saying:

Go and tell Hanamias these wordes; Thus saith the Lord: thou hast broken the chapynge of wood, but in stead of wood thou shalt make chapynes of iron.

Thus saith the Lord of hostes and the God of Israell: I will put a yoke of iron upon the necke of all these people, that they may serve Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon, yea and so shall they do: and I will geue hym the beastes of the field.

Then sayde the prophete Jeremie unto the prophete Hanamias: Hear me, Hanamias, The Lord hath not sent thee, but thou hystengest this people into a false believe.

And therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold, I will sende thee out of the land, and within a yere thou shalt dye, because thou hast falsely spoken against the Lord.

So Hanamias dyed the same yere in the fourth moneth.

These are the wordes of the booke that Jeremie the prophete sent from Hierusalem into the puliters, the seneours, puliters, prophete, and all the people, whom Nabuchodonosor had led from Hierusalem into Babylon.

After that time that king Jerusalem and his queene, his chamberlaines, the princes of Juda and Hierusalem, the warckmasters of Hierusalem, were departed thither.

Which booke Eliajah the foune of Sapphan, and Samaariah the foune of Hellias did berae, whom Zedekias the king of Juda sentt unto Babylon to Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon: These were the wordes of Jeremias bookes.

Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel spake, unto all the puliters that were fled from Hierusalem to Babylon:
or Jeremie.

5 Beside you houses do dwell therein, plant you gardens, that you may enjoy the fruits thereof.

6 Take you Idues to bear you sones and daughters, provide idues for your sones, and husbandbres for your daughters, that they may get sones and daughters; and that ye may multiplie there, and deereake not.

7 Seek after the peace and prosperitie of the cite wherein ye be prisoners, and pray unto the Lord for it: for in the peace thereof shall your peace be.

8 For thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, "Let not these prophets and soothsayers that be among you deeree you, and beleue not your owne dreams:"

9 For they sepeche you lyes in my name, and I have not sent them, saith the Lord.

10 But thus saith the Lord, "When ye have fulfilled seuerentie yeres at Babylon, I will bring you home, and of mine owne goodnesse I will eare you hither againe into this place.

11 For I know what I have destilld for you, saith the Lord: By thoughts are to gene you peace, and not trouble, and to geue you an ende as you wil ehe and hope to have.

12 Ye shall cry unto me, ye shall go and call upon me, and I will heare you.

13 Ye shall take me and smite me, yea ye lobe that ye take me with your whole heart.

14 I will be founde of you, saith the Lord, and will deliver you out of prisen, and gather you together againe out of all places wherin I have scattered you the Lord, and will bring you againe to the same place from whence I fauce to you to be eared alat capture.

15 But where as ye say that God hath rapsed you by prophets at Babylon,

16 Thus saith the Lord spokon to the king that sitthe in the throne of Davib, and to all the people that dwell in this cite, your brethren * that are gone with you into capturitie:

17 Thus (I say) speakest the Lord of hostes, saith the Lord: * I wyll send a idue, hunger, and pestilence upon them, and wyll make them lyke uncomely figges that may not be eaten for bitterness:

18 And I wyll percerte them with the idue, with hunger, and pestilence, I wyll deliver them by to be vexed of all kingdomes, to be cursed, abhorrred, langed to stome, and put to confusion of all the people among whom I haue scattered them:

19 And that because they haue not ben obedient unto my commandementes saith the Lord, which I spake unto them by my seerauntes the prophets: * I spoke by early and sent spoke them, but they would not heare, faith the Lord.

20 Hear therefore the word of the Lord all ye prisoners whoso I sent from Hierusalem to Babylon.

21 Thus hath the Lord of hostes the God of Israel spoken of Abad the tyme of Colaiah, and of Zedekiah the tyme of Maashiah, which prophettic lyes into you in my name: Behosbe, I wyll deliver them into the hande of Nabuchodonozor: the kyng of Babylon, that he may slay them before your eyes.

22 And all the prisoners of Juda that are in Babylon, shall take this teare of euring, and spie: Shobe God do thine as he did unto Zedekiah and Abad, whom the kyng of Babylon roset in the fire:

23 Because they spakon shamefully in Israel, for they have not only defined their neighbours burres, but also practised lying wordes in my name, which I have not commaundd them: This is teftifte and affaire, faith the Lord.

24 But as for Semaniah the Helamite, thou shalt speake unto hym:

25 Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Because thou hast sent letters in thine owne name unto all the people that is at Hierusalem, and to Sophoniah the tyme of Maashiah the prsett, ye a sent them to all the priests, wherin thou best thus thus unto hym:

26 The Lord haue ordered thee to be prsett in the steade of Gehonad a the prsett, that thou shouldst be cheeke in the house of the Lord above all prophets and preachers, and that thou nightest set them upon the pillory, or in the stocks:

27 Holde happeneth it then that thou hast not removed Hieronym of Ana thoth, which newe leaeth of his pro phesying.

28 And beside all this, he hath sent by idue unto Babylon, and tolde vs playnely
The prophecies

plainly set that our captivity shall long endure, that we should abide as houes to dwell therein, and to plant vs gardens, that we may enjoy the fruits thereof.
29 Which letter Sophonias the priest read, and let Jeremias the prophet hear it.
30 Then came the worde of the Lord unto Jeremias, saying;
31 Sende worde to all them that be in captivity, on this maner, Thus hath the Lord spokne concerning Semianiah the Neboamite: "Because that Semianiah hath prophesied unto you without my commiission, and brought you into a false hope:
32 Therefore thus the Lord doth certifie you, Behold, I will make Semianiah the Neboamite, and his seed, so that none of his shall remaine among this people, and none of them shall see the good that I will do for my people, faith the Lord: for he hath preached falsely of the Lord.

The xxx. Chapter.

1 The returne of the people from Babylone. 8 God by his chaunting the weth that the people is timefull. 16 The destruction of the enemies of Israel.

These are the worthes that the Lord thieweth.

Thus saith the Lord God of Israel: Write by diligently all the worthes that I have spokne unto thee in this booke.

3 For to, the same commeth faith the Lord, that I will bring againe the punishers of my people of Israel and Juda faith the Lord: for I will restore them unto the lande that I gave to their fathers, and they shall have it in possession.

4 Againie, these worthes sake the Lord concerning Israel and Juda, 5 Thus faith the Lord, we have heard a terrible crye, feare and quiets of the.

6 For what els doth this signifie that I see: (namely what is the Lord) that many long men smite every man his bande upon his toines, as a woman in the payne of her travaile: who ever saw a man travaile with childe: Enquire thereafter and see, yea all their faces are marueulos pale.

8 Alas for this day, which is so dreadfull that none may be likened unto it, and alas for the time of Jacob's trouble, from the which he shall yet be delivered.

9 For in that day faith the Lord of hostes, I will take his poke from of thy necke, and breake thy bondes, and strangers shall no more have dominion over them:

10 But they shall do service to God their Lord, and to David their king whom I will raise upon them.

11 For I am with thee to help thee, faith the Lord: And though I shall destrope all the people among whom I have scattered thee, yet will I not destrope thee, but correct thee, and that with defrecion: for I will not utterly destroy thee.

12 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Thy boodinges are perillous, & thy wounds redy to call thee unto kinneke.

13 There is no man to meddle with thy cause, or to lay platter upon thee, or to bynde by thy wounds to heale thee.

14 All thy lovers have forgotten thee, and can nothing for thee: for I have given thee a cruel stroke, and thaffeered thee roughly, and that for the multitude of thy mubredes: for thy sines have had the oure bande.

15 Why makes thou mony for thy harne: In deed thou art sore wounded and in leoparde: but for the multitude of thy mubredes and sines I have done this unto thee.

16 And therefore all they that devote thee, slabe devoured, and all thine enemies slabe led into captiuitie: all they that make thee waste, slabe wont themselves, and all those that rob thee, will I make also to be robbed.

17 For I will gene thee thy health agayne, and make thy wounds whole faith the Lord, because they troued thee, as one cast abaye and despised:
The xxxj. Chapter.

Be prophecied that the people of Israel shall be restored againe unto their prosperitie.

2. So be turned from sinne is the gift of God. 3. The birth of Christ is prophecied.

2 I. All the wicked shall dye in their wickedness. 4. The new testament and covenant is prophecied. 5. The Christians are taught and instruct of the Lord. 6. Our times shall be remittit, that they shall not once be thought upon. 7. God promiseth that he will cast of the Jews. 8. The building againe of Hierusalem.

1. The same time, faith the Lord, that I the God of all the generations of Israel, I shall save my people.

2. Thus saith the Lord: The people of Israel which stayed in the wilderness from the sabbode, found grace to come into their rest.

3. Even shall the Lord also appear unto me from sabbode, and say, I love thee with an everlasting loute, therefore by my mercie I have bidden thee unto me.

4. I will repeape thee againe O thou daughter of Israel, that thou mayest be fait and sure: thou shalt take thy tabrets agayne, and go fouthe with them that leade the daunces.

5. Thou shalt plant vines agayne upon the hyles of Samaria, and the grape gatherers shall plant, and commonly caitce it.

6. For the dayes shall come when the watchmen upon the mount of Ephraim shal crye, Arise, let us go vp unto Sion to our Lord God.

7. For thus saith the Lord, Reioype with gladnesse because of Jacob, crie into the head of the gentiles, speake out, sing and say, O Lord save thy people the remnant of Israel.

8. Behold, I will bryn them agayne from out of the north lande, and gather them from the ends of the world, with the hynde &laue and that are among them, with the women that be great with childe, &such as be also delivered: and the companie of them that come agayne shall be great.

9. They shall come weeping, and with mercifull pitte I will bring them againe agayne: I will leade them to the rivers of water in a straught way where they shall not stumble: For I am Israel's father, and Ephraim is my first bome.

10. Hear the voice of the Lord: Ye gentiles, preach in the Isles that ye farre of, and say: he that hath scattered Israel, shall gather hym together agayne, and shall kepe hym as a sheep hearted both his flocke.

11. For the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and ridde hym from the hande of the violent.

12. And they shall come and reioype upon the hyll of Sion, and shall have plentifulnesse of doodes, which the Lord shall cause them, especially wheate, vine, oyle, young shepe, and calves; and their soule shalt be as a well watered garden,
Then shall the people rejoice in the valley, and be glad in the plains:
for they shall no more be hungry, nor naked shalt thou be in the land any more.

And thy light shall be as the light of the sun, and thy peace shall be none diminished, and thine husband shall be the hope of thy meat, and thy daughter within thee.

And it shall come to pass, that you shall eat the old with the new grain of the land.

And it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people;
they shall say, The Lord our God is with us.

And it shall come to pass, that I will make a new covenant with them; it shall not be as the covenant which I made with their fathers, when I took them out of the land of Egypt, after that they had broken my covenant, and I smote them and the plagues came upon them.

But this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, saith the Lord; I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

And they shall teach no man his neighbour, neither instruction to his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord.

For I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.

Thus saith the Lord, The people that did not know me shall understand, and they that did not hear shall understand.

Now shall ye know that the Lord he is God; and that there is none else.

I will also turn a new heart to the two houses of Israel, to the house of Israel and to the house of Judah, that I may put my spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments and do them.

And it shall come to pass, that like as I have watched over them to destroy, and to cut them off, saith the Lord;
yet for mine own sake, and for my name's sake, which is great and broad, my ear shall hear them, and my heart shall consider, and I will do judgment for them withiquity.

And I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel; and with the house of Judah;
and I will put my law in their mind, and will write it in their hearts, and will be unto them for a Father, and they shall be my sons:
and they shall walk in my judgments, and they shall keep my statutes, and do them.

And they shall teach no man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.

Thus saith the Lord, If ye turn away your feet from my statutes, and will not hearken unto all these words by the mouth of my servants the prophets, which I spake unto you sent for to thee, and thou heardest not; that I would do this unto thee, and unto thy seed after thee.

Behold, the days come saith the Lord, that the city of the Lord shall be enlarged, from the *towre of Hananeel, unto the gate of the corner wall.

Fear therefore shall the right measure be taken before her into the hill toppe of *Gareh, and shall come about Gath.

And the whole valley of the dead carasses, and of the ashes, and all the fields, into the brooke of Eden, and unto the corner of the horse gate towarde the east, it shall be broken not cast downe any more.

The.xxxii. Chapter.

1 Jeremia is cast into prison, because he prophesied that the cite should be taken of the king of Babylon.
2 By the late that Jeremia bought at the commandement of the Lord, is signified that the people should come againe to their owne possession.
3 The people of God are his terraines, and he is their Lord.
4 To spare God, is Gods grce, to the entent that times may be eschewed.

These words (sake the Lord unto Jeremia in the tenth yere of Zedekias king of Juda, which was the eighteenth yere of Nabuchodonosor,

2 What time as the king of Babylon's host layde siege unto Jerusalem: but Jeremia the prophete lay bounde in the court of the prylon, which was in the yng of Judas house,

3 where Zedekias the king of Juda causeth hym to be layde, because he had prophesied on this manner: Thus saith the Lord, "Behold, I will deliver this cite into the handes of the king of Babylon, which shall take it.

4 As Zedekias the king of Juda, he shall not be able to escape the Chaldees: but surelie he shall come into the handes of the king of Babylon, which shall speake with him mouth to mouth, and one of them shall tooke another in the face.

5 And Zedekias halfe taryd into Babylon, and there shall he be bnyll the ymage that I vise hym faith the Lord: but if thou takest in hande to fight against the Chaldees, thou shalt not prosper.

6 And Jeremia lade; Thus hath the Lord spoken unto me:

7 Behold, Hananeel the sonne of Sela, flume thine vnlesse thone, shall come unto thee, and require thee to redeem the lande that through Anathoth into thy selfe: for by reason of kinred it is thy right to redeem it and bye it out.

8 And Hananeel myne vnlesse cometh to me in the court of the pyylon, acording to the vord of the Lord, and sayde unto me: Bye my lande I pray thee, that lieth in Anathoth in the country of Beniamin, for by heritage thou hast right to tote it out for thy selfe, therefore redeem it. Then I perceived that this was the comandement the Lord:

9 And so I boughtthe lande from Hananeel of Anathoth myne vnlesse sometime, and waphe hym there the money, even seven sicles, and ten spurer pence.

10 And I wrote it in a booke, and sealed it, and took witnesses, and waphe hym there the money vpon the weightes.

11 So I toke the evidence with the copie, when it was openly sealed, and read it over:

12 And I gaue the evidence to Baruch the sonne of Periah, the sonne of Pashah, in the sight of Hananeel my sonne, and in the presence of the witnesses that be named in the evidence, and before all of Jeremie.
the Jewes that were thereby in the court of the pylon.

13 I charged Baruch also before them, saying:

14 The Lord of hoastes, the God of Israel commandeth [here] to take this sealed evidence with the copie, and to lay it in the earthen vessel, that it may long continue.

15 For the Lord of hoastes the God of Israel hath determined, that houses, fields, and vineyards shall be possessed againe in this lande.

16 Nowe when I had delivered the evidence unto Baruch the booke of Jeremiah, I besought the Lord, saying:

17 O Lord God, it is thou that hast made heauen and earth with thy great power and thy arme, and there is nothing hid from thee.

18 Thou shewest mercy upon thousandes, thou resou ruthless wickednesse of the fathers into the bosome of the chylde of that come after them.

19 Thou art the great and mightie God, whose name is the Lord of hoastes, great in counsel, and excellent in worke, these eyes looke upon all the dayes of mens chylde, to retarde every one after his way, and according to the fruits of his inventions.

20 Thou hast done great tokens and wondres in the lande of Egypt, as we see this daye, upon the people of Israel, and upon those men, to make thy name great, as it is come to passe this day.

21 Thou hast brought the people of Israel out of the lande of Egypt, with tokens, with wonders, with a mightie hande, with a stretched out arm, and with great terrors.

22 And hast given them this lande, like as thou haddest promised unto their fathers, [namely] that thou woulst give them a lande that floweth with milke and honey.

23 Nowe when they came therin and possessed, they followed not thy voice, and walked not in thy lawe: but all that thou commandedst them to do, that have they not done, and therefore come all these plagues upon them.

24 Beholde, there are bloodhacks made notable against this citie to take it, and it shalle beone of the Chaldees that besiegeth it with blood, with hunger, and death: and looke what thou hast spoken, that same shall come upon them, for to all things are present unto thee.

25 Yet sauest thou unto me O Lord God, and commandest me that I shali bye a piece of land unto my selke for money, and take witnesses thereunto: and yet in the meanse season the citie is delivered into the power of the Chaldees.

26 Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremie, saying:

27 Beholde, I am the Lord God of all seabe: is there any thing then to hide for me:

28 Therefore thus saith the Lord: beholde, I shall deliver this citie into the power of the Chaldees, and into the power of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon, they shall take it:

29 For the Chaldees shall come and warne this citie, and set fire upon it, and burne it, with the gorgious houses, in whose parlours they have made sacrifice unto Baal, and polished famine offerings unto strange gods, to provoke me unto wrath:

30 For the chylde of Israel and the chylde of Juda have only been doing wickedneffe before me from their youth by, they have ben only provoking me to wrath with the works of their owne handes, saith the Lord.

31 For what hast this citie benets, but a provoking of my wrath ever since the day that thei builded it, into this house wherein I cast it out of my sight:

32 Because of the great blasphemies of the chylde of Israel and Juda, which they have done to provoke me, yea they, their kings, their princes, their priests, their prophets, the men of Juda, and the citizens of Jerusalem:

33 When I strode by earlie and taught them, and instructed them, they turned their backes to me, and me not their faces,

34 They woulde not heare to be retourned and correct: but let their idols in the house that is halowed to my name, to defile it.

35 They have builded hye places for Baal in the valley of the chylde of Hennom, to cause their hones daughters to passe thorow, in the honer of Holoch, whiche I never commandde
The xxxiii. Chapter.

Deceit, the voice of the Lord came into Jeremia againe* where he was yet bounde in the court of the prison. Thus saith the Lord who made Hierusalem, who fashioned the lame to enable it, whose name is the Lord:

1. *Ere unto me, and I will answer, and shew thee great things which were knowne unto thee. Thus [I say] speaketh the Lord god of Israel, concerning the houles of this citie, and the houles of the kynges of Juda that are broken throuh the damnation and the voice.

2. The inhabitours of this citie have come to fight against the Chaldees, and they are filled with the dead carakasses of men, whom I have slaine in my wrath and displeasure, when I turned my face from this citie, because of all her wickednesse.

3. Behold, saith the Lord, I will repair and heale their wounds, and make them whole: I will open them the large treaute of peace and truth, and will returne the captiuitie of Juda and Israel, and will let them vp agayne as they were before:

4. *From all murtherers wherein they offended against me, I will cleanse them: and all their blasphemes which they have done against me when they regarded me not, I will forgeo them.

5. And this shall get me a name, a payse and honour among all the people of the earth, which shall heare all the good that I will thede into them, yea they shall be afraid and ashamed at all the good deeds and beniftes that I will do for them.
Moreover, thus saith the Lord: In this place (whereof ye say that it shall be a videntnesse, wherein neither people nor cattle shall dwell) in like manner in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Hierusalem (which also shall be so voyde that neither people nor cattle shall dwell there.)

11 Shall the voice of gladness be heard agayne, the voice of the vndergrome and of the bride, the voice of them that shall sing, *Myse the Lord of hostes, for he is louing, and his mercy endureth for euere, and the voyde of them that offer vp gyftes in the house of the Lord: for I will restore the captivitie of this lande as it was afoe, saith the Lord.

12 Thus saith the Lord of hostes: It shall come yet therto, that in this lande which is voyde from men and cattle, and in all the cities of the lande, there shalte be set vp shepheards cottages to rest their flockes.

13 In the cities upon the mountaines, and in the cities that lie upon the plaine, and in the cities of the south, in the lande of Benamun, and rounde about hierusalem, and in the cities of Judah shall the sheepe passe agayne vn- der the hande of him that telleth them, saith the Lord.

14 Beholde, the same cometh saith the Lord, that I will performe that good thing whiche I have promised unto the house of Israel, and unto the house of Judah.

15 In those days, and at the same time, I will hong forth vnto David the brcanche of righteousness, and he shall do equitie and righteousness in the lande.

16 In those days shall Judah be taunc, *and Hierusalem shall dwell safe: and this shall be her name, (3) God our righ- teousnesse.

17 For thus the Lord promiseth, Da-
The xxxii. Chapter.

He threatened that the city, and the king Zedekias also should go into the bonds of the king of Babylon. He rebuketh them that brought youth of their brother into captivity, as were pardoned to go at their libertie.

These are the words which the Lord spake unto Jeremie, what ytyme as Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, and all his host, and all the kings-domes that were under his power, and all his people fought against Hierusalem and all the cities thereof.

Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Go and speake to Zedekias the king of Judah, and tell hym, the Lord saith the Lord Spake of this word: Beholde, I will deliver this city into the hande of the king of Babylon, he shall burne it with fire,

And thou shalt not escape his handes, but shalbe taken prisoner, and deliuered into his power: Thou shalt looke the king of Babylon in the face, and he shall speake to thee mouth to mouth, and then shalt thou goe to Babylon.

Verhaere the words of the Lord, O Zedekias thou king of Judah, thus saith the Lord, I will not blayne thee with the sword,

But shalbe in peace: And as thy forefathers the hynges, thy progenitos were brest, so shalt thou be brest also, and in thy mourning thy shall lay, O Lord: for thus have I determined, saith the Lord.

Then faide Jeremie the prophet all these wordes unto Zedekias king of Judah in Hierusalem,

What ytme the kyng of Babylonions host belewed Hierusalem, and the remannant of the citie[namely] Lachis and Asteh, which yet remained of the strong defended cities of Juda.

These are the words that the Lord spake unto Jeremie the prophet,

When Zedekias was agreed with all the people at Hierusalem, that there shoude be proclaimed a libertie:

So that every man shoude let his seruante and handmaid goe free, Hebrew and Hebrewesse, and no Jewe holde his brother as a bondman.

Howe as they had consented, all the princes and all the people which had gathered unto this agreement, that every man shoude let at libertie his bonder and bondwoman, and no longer to holde them bounde: even so they were obedient, and let them goe free.

But afterwarde they repented, and toke againe the seruantes and handmaidens whom they had let goe free, and so made them bonde againe.

For which cause, the wordes of the Lord came unto Jeremie from the Lord hym selfe, saying: Thus saith the Lord God of Israel: I made a covenant with your fathers when I brought them out of the lande of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, saying:

When seven yeres are out, every man shall let his bought seruante an Hebrew goe free, if he have fermed hym yere yeres: but your fathers obayed me not, and hearkened not unto me.

As for you ye were not bourn turned, and dbd right before me, in that ye proclaymed every man to let his neighbour goe free, and in that ye made a covenant before me in the temple that beareth my name.

But yet ye turned your selves againe, and blathphemed my name, in this, that every man beth required his seruante and handermayde agayne whom ye had let goe quite and free, and compelled them to ferme you agayne, and to be bondmen and bondwomen.

And therefore thus saith the Lord: Ye have claim his freedom unto his brother and neighbour: Wherefore will I call you unto freedom, faith the Lord, even unto the word, to the persialence, and to hunger, and will make you to be pla-used in all thy dominions of the earth.

18 Hearke men that have broken my covenant, and not kept the wordes of the appointment which they made before me, when they helde the calfe in two, and when they went there is able the two halves thereof.

19 The princes of Judah, the princes of Hierusalem, the gebred me, the priests, and all the people of the lande, which 20 Those men will I pegr into the power of their enemies, and into the hands of them that solowe upon their lives:

and their dead bodies shall be made for the foules of the aple and beasts of the field.

21 As for Zedekias the king of Judah and his princes, will I deliuer them into the power of their enemies, and of them that delire to slay them, and into the hande of the kyng of Babylons hoast, whiche noode is departed from you.

22 But the word of my commandement (fault the Lord) they shall come again before this citie, they shall fight against it, burne it, and burne it: Moreover, will lay the cities of Judah to waste, that no man shall dwell therein.

The xxxv. Chapter.

There propoundeth the obedience of the Kechabites, and thereby confounded the hyde of the lewes. The commandement of Jonadab the frather of the Kechabites.
He threatned punishment unto the rebellious communites. He promised prosperity unto the Kechabites for their obedience.

A 1

The wordes which the:

Lord spake unto Jeremie, in the reigne of Jehoakim the sonne of Julus kyng of Juda, are these:

Go unto the house of the Kechabites, and call them out, and bring them to the house of the Lord, into some commodious place, and give them wine to drinke.

3 Then take I Hazaniah the sonne of Jeremie, the sonne of Habadzimah, and his brethren, and all his sonnes, and the whole houhold of the Kechabites,

4 And brought them into the house of the Lord, into the closet of the children of Hanan the sonne of Jegebaiah the man of God, which was by the closet of the princes, that is above the closet of Maaliah the sonne of Selum, which is the treasurer.

5 And before the sonnes of the houred of the Kechabites I set pottes full of wine, and cuppes, and sayde unto them, Drinke wine:

6 But they sayde, We will drinke no wine: for Jonadab the sonne of Re-chab our frather commanded vs, saying: Ye and your sonnes shall never drinke wine, but drinke houte, bowe no seed, plant no vines.

7 Ye shall have no vineyards: but for al your vine ye shall delivere remain, that ye may live long in the land wherein ye be strangers.

8 Thus have we obeyed the commandment of Jonadab the sonne of Re-chab our frather in all that he hath charged vs, and so we drinke no wine all our life long, we no; our seed, our sonnes and our daughters,

9 Neither buyde we any house to diew therein: we have also among vs neither vineyards, nor come lande to love:

10 But we diewell in tentes, we obey, and do according unto all that Jonadab our frather commanded vs.

11 But nowe that Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon came by into the lande, we sayde, Come, let vs go to Hierusalem, that we may esper the houd of the Chaldees and the Assyrians; and so we diewell nowe at Hierusalem.

12 Then came the wordes of the Lord unto Jeremie, saying:

The. xxxvij. Chapter.

1 Baruch wryteth (as Jeremie endieth) the booke of the curses against Juda and Israel: he is sent with the booke unto the people, and readeth it before them all:

2 He is called before the rulers, and readeth it before them also.

3 The rulers thereunto the kyng the wordes of the booke.

4 Jeredah take the booke, and readeth it into the house of the rulers.

5 And Jeremie commauandeth Baruch, saying: I am in prison, so that I may not come into the house of the Lord.

6 Therefore go thou thither, and read the booke that thou hast written at my mouth, namely, the wordes of the Lord, and read them in the Lordes house upon the (last) day, that the people, which are in the land, may heare.

7 Veruadimately they shall pay meke the before the face of the Lord, and turne euery one from his wicked way:

8 Whereas the word of the Lord is full of quick and displicence that the Lord hath taken against this people.

wodes of the Lorde out of the book in the Lodes house.

And this was done in the sixth yere of Jeboakim the sonne of Josias kyng of Juda, in the ninth moneth, when it was commanded that all the people of Jerusalem shoude fall before the Lorde, and they also that were come from the cities of Juda into Jerusalem:

Then read Baruch the wodes of Jeremiem out of the booke within the houfe of the Lorde, out of the treaure of Gamariah the sonne of Saphan the scribe, which is beside the hyre loft of the newe dooze of the Lodes houfe, that all the people might heare.

Now when Micheas the sonne of Gamariah, the sonne of Saphan, heard all the wodes of the Lord out of the booke,

He went downe to the kynges palace into the scribes chamberes, so there all the princes were set, Elsama the scribe, Dalaiah the sonne of Semei, Ethanah the sonne of Ichboz, Gamariah the sonne of Saphan, Zecharias the sonne of Hanaun, with all the princes.

And Micheas tolde them all the wodes that he hearde Baruch read out of the booke before the people.

Then all the princes sent Jehudi the sonne of Pathamiah, the sonne of Seleuniah, the sonne of Chust, unto Baruch, saying: Take in thine hande the booke whereout thou hast read before all the people, come. So Baruch the sonne of Jeriach tolde the booke in the hande of Jehudi, and came before them.

And they layd before him: Sit downe and read the booke, that we may heare also: So Baruch read that they might heare.

Hodie when they had hearde all the wodes, they were abashed one upon another, and layde before Baruch: We will erusie the king of all these wodes.

And they examined Baruch, saying: Tell vs, howe diddest thou write all these wodes out of thy mouth?

Then Baruch answered them: He spake all these wodes vnto me with his mouth, and I wrote them in the booke.

Then layd the princes vnto Baruch: So thy way, hide thee with Jeremiem, so that no man knowe where ye be.

And they went in to the kyng to the court (but they kept the booke in the chamber of Elzama the scribe) and tolde the kyng all the wodes, that he might heare.

So the kyng sent Jehudi to set hym the booke: which he brought out of Elzama the scribes chamber, and Jehudi read in it, that the king and all the princes which were about hym might heare.

Noide the kyng sate in the winter houfe (for it was in the ninth moneth) and there was a fire before hym.

And when Jehudi had read three or foure leaues thereof, he cut the booke in peeces with a penknife, and cast it into the fire vpon the harch, until the booke was all burnt in the fire vpon the harch,

Yet no man was abashed thereof, nor rent his clothes, neither the kyng hym selfe nor his seruanntes, though they hearde all these wodes.

Heuerthelie, Ethanah, Dalaiah, and Gamariah besought the kyng that he woulde not burne the booke: notwithstanding, the kyng wode not heare them:

But commaunded Jeremiel the sonne of Ameliech, Sareah the sonne of Ezriel, and Seleuniah the sonne of Abdeel, to lay handes vpon Baruch the scribe, and vpon Jeremiem the prophet: but the Lorde kept them out of sight.

Hodie after that the kyng had bent the booke, and the seruants which Baruch had at the mouth of Jeremiem, the boode of the Lorde came vnto Jeremiem, saying:

Take another booke, and write in it all the fessyde seruants that were written in the first booke which Jeboakim the kyng of Juda had bent.

And tell Jeboakim the kyng of Juda, thus saith the Lorde: Thou hast bent the booke, and thoughtest within thy selfe, why hast thou written them, that the kyng of Babylone shall come and make this lande waste, so that he shall make both people and cattell to be out of it:

Therefore thus saith the Lorde, saith Jeboakim the kyng of Juda: There shall none of his generation sit vpon the throne of Davids, his dead coare that be cast out, that the heart of the day and the frost of the night may come vpon hym.

And I wyll vsete the wickednesse of hym,
Ezechia the son of Josiah * which was made king through Nabuchodonozor; king of Babylon, reigning in the land of Judah, in the head of Cononiah.

2 And neither he, nor his scribes, nor the people that was in his land, would obey the words of the Lord which he spake by the prophet Jeremiah.

3 Nevertheless, Zedekia the king sent Jehucall the son of Selemiah, and Sophoniah the son of Pashiaiah the priest, to the prophet Jeremiah, saying: O pray thou unto the Lord our God for us.

4 And Zedekia sent Jeremiah into the house of the prophet Jeremiah, saying:

5 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, This am I that goeth to the king of Judah that sent thee unto me for counsel: "Thou shalt say, Pharaoh's horse is come no further than his own land. But the Chaldees shall come againe, and fight against this city, winne it, and let thee be there.

6 For thus saith the Lord. Decease not thy olde menbes, think not on this manner, Tush, the Chaldees go no more then thy way from vs: No, they shall not go their way.

7 For though ye had slayne the whole hoast of the Chaldees that besiege you,

8 And gave it Baruch the scribe the sonne of Jeriah, which wrote them out of the mouth of Jeremie, all the sermons that were in the first booke which Jerohamin the kyng of Judah did burne: and there were added into them many mo sermons, lyke unto the former.

The xxxvij. Chapter.

1 Zedekia succeeded Cononiah; he sendeth unto Jeremie to pray for hym. 2 Jeremie going into the lande of Benjamin is taken; he is beaten and put in prison, he is delivered by hyng Zedekia.

3 Ezechia the son of Josiah * which was made king through Nabuchodonozor, king of Babylon, reigning in the lande of Judah, in the head of Conoinia, the sonne of Jehoaunam.

4 But neither he, nor his scribes, nor the people that was in his lande, would obey the words of the Lord which he spake by the prophet Jeremia.

5 Nevertheless, Zedekia the king sent Jehucal, the sonne of Sallamiah, and Sophoniah the sonne of Haggiah the priest, to the prophet Jeremia, saying: Pray thou unto the Lord our God for us.

6 And Zedekia sent Jeremiah into the house of the prophet Jeremiah, saying:

7 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, This am I that goeth to the king of Judah that sent thee unto me for counsel: "Thou shalt say, Pharaoh's horse is come no further than his own land. But the Chaldeans shall come againe, and fight against this citie, winne it, and let thee be there.

8 For thus saith the Lord. Decease not thy olde menbes, think not on this manner, Tush, the Chaldeans go no more then thy way from us: No, they shall not go their way.

The prophecy.

That the king of Babylon should not come against you, and this land: 20 And therefore hear now, O my Lord the king, the word of the Lord, and let my prayer be accepted before thee, and send me no more into the house of Jonathan the high priest, that I dye not there.

Then Zedekia commanded to put Jeremias in the fore entrie of the prison, and daily to be gotten hym a cake of bread of the bakers streete, butt all the bread in the citie was eaten by: Thus Jeremias remaind in the fore entrie of the prison.

The.xxxvii. Chapter.

1 By the motion of the rulers, Jeremias is put into a dungeon. 14 At the request of Abedmelech the chamberlayne, the king commanded Jeremias to be brought forth of the dungeon. 17 Jeremias theved the king: he might escape death.

Aphathai the sonne of Nathan, Seballai the sonne of Pahur, Jucal the sonne of Selerim, 6 Pahur the sonne of Belechia, per ceaued the woods: that Jeremias had spoken unto all the people, namely, on this maner.

Thus saith the Lord, *who so remappeth with this citie, shall perish either with the woodde, with hunger, or with pestilence: but who so falleth into the Chaldee that escape, winning his soule for a prays, and shall lyve.

For thus saith the Lord, This citie no doubt must be delivered into the power of the king of Babylon, and he also shall winne it.

Then saide the princes unto the king, Sir, we believe you let this man be put to death: for thus he discourages the handes of the souldiers that be in this citie, and the handes of all the people, when he speaketh such wooddes unto them: This man laboureth not for peace of the people, but mischief.

Zedekia the king aunderwered, and sayde, Lo, he is in your handes: so the king may deny you nothing.

Then took they Jeremias and cast him into the dungeon of Belthaih, the sonne of Ameliech, that dwelt in the fore entrie of the prison, and they let downe Jeremias with cordes into a dungeon, where there was no water, but drinke: So Jeremias draynke the mine.

Noewe when Abedmelech the Moian being a chamberlayne in the kynges court, understood that they had cast Jeremias into the dungeon, 8 He went out of the kynges house, and spake to the king, which then sate under the post of Senannu, these woodes.

By Lord the kyng, where as these men meddle with Jeremias the prophet, they do hym wrong. [Omely] in that they have put hym in prison, there to dye for hunger: so there is no more bread in the citie.

Then the kyng commanded Abedmelech the Moian, and sayde, Take from hence thirtie men whom thou wylt, and daube by Jeremias the prophet out of the dungeon before he dye.

So Abedmelech took the men with hym, and went to the house of the king, and there under the treasure he got olde ragges and wone cloutes, and let them downe by a corde into the dungeon to Jeremias.

And Abedmelech the Moian sayde unto the prophet Jeremias: Oputhe thy ragges and cloutes under thine arme holes be twixt them and the corde: And Jeremias did so.

So they draynke by Jeremias with cordes, and took hym out of the dungeon: and he remained in the fore entrie of the prison.

Then Zedekia the kyng sent, and caused Jeremias the prophet to be called unto hym, into the third entrie that is in the house of the Lord, and the kyng sayde unto Jeremias: I wylle also the same what, but byde nothing from me.

Then Jeremias aunderwered Zedekia, If I be playne unto thee, thou wylt cause me to suffer death: ye I gene thee counspace, thou wyl not solowe me.

So the kyng take anothr secretely to Jeremias, saying: As the Lord livest that made vs these loues, I wyl not lay thee, nor gene thee into the handes of them that seke after thy lyf.

Then sayde Jeremias unto Zedekia, Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel: If case be that thou wylle Thereof all thy wyues with thy children shal they lead forth unto the Chaldees, and thou shalt not escape their handes: but shal be the kyng of Babylons pilon, and this c cite shal thou cause to be burnt.

Then saide Zedekia unto Jeremie:

18 For thou wyll not go sooth to the kyng of Babylons prince, then shal this cite be delievered into the handes of the Chaldees, which shal set fire upon it, and thou shal not be able to escape them.

19 And Zedekia said unto Jeremie: I am afraye for the yeues that are fled unto the Chaldees, lest I come into their handes, so they to have me in desision.

20 But Jeremie answered, No, they shal not betray thee: O hearken unto the voice of the Lord: I beseeche thee, which I speake unto thee, so shall thou be well, and laue thy lyfe.

21 But if thou wyll not go sooth, the Lord hath tolde me this plaine ly:

22 Behold, all the women that are left in the kyng of Judas house, thinke led forth into the kyng of Babylons prince: and they shall say, thou art deceaued, and the men in whom thou didst put thy trust, have gotten thee under, and set thy fete fast in the mire, and gone their waie from thee.

23 Therefore all thy wyues with thy children shal they lead forth unto the Chaldees, and thou shalt not escape their handes: but shalt be the kyng of Babylons pilon, and this cite shal thou cause to be burnt.

24 Then saide Zedekia unto Jeremie:

25 For the princes perceau that I have talked with thee, and come unto thee, saing: O speake, what saye the kyng to thee, hyde it not from vs, and we wyll not put thee to death: tell vs (we pray thee) what saye the kyng to thee.

26 See thou gene them this answerere:

I have humbly besought the kyng that he wyll let me he no more in Jehonathan card house, that I dye not there.

27 Then came all the princes unto Jeremie, and asked hym: and he tolde them after the maner as the kyng bad hym. Then they helde their peace, and lett them alone: for they perceaued nothing.

28 So Jeremie abode still in the sye enty of the pryson, untill the day that Jerusalem was wonne.
The prophecie

1 Habuchodonosor beselgeth Hierusalem. 4 Zedekia fleeth; he is taken of the Chaldees, 6 his forbes are layne, 7 his eyes are thurld out. 11 Jeremie is pounded for. 15 Hebdomelah is delivered from capturtrie, because of the confidence that he had in God.

1. Owe* when the cite of Hierusalem was taken (for in the ninth yer of Zedekia kyng of Judah, the tenth moneth, came Habuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon and all his host, and besieged Hierusalem, and fought against it, 2. And in the eleventh yer of Zedekia, in the four moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, he brake into the cite) 3. Then all the princys of the kyng of Babylon came (and late them downe under the post: Neregel, Sarzer, Samgarunbo, Sarsachin, Rablaris, Neregel, Sarzer, Rabmag, with all the other pryncys of the kyng of Babylon. 4. *And when Zedekia the kyng of Judah with his soldiers saide them, then they fled and departed out of the cite by night through the kynges garden, and through the post that is betweene the two walles, and so the kyng went towards the wildercrnes: 5. But the Chaldees host folowed fast after them; and toke Zedekia in the field of Hiciricho, and brought hym prisoner to Habuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon, unto Reblath, that he put in the lande of Henach, where he gave judgment upon hym. 6. So the kyng of Babylon caused the children of Zedekia and all the nobles of Judah to be slayne before his face at Reblath, 8. And made Zedekias eyes to be put out, and bounde hym with two chaynes, and sent hym to Babylon. 9. *Moreover, the Chaldees burnt up the kynges palace, with the other houses of the people, and brake downe the walles of Hierusalem.

As for the remnament of the people that were in the cite, and such as were come to hym, and whatsoeuer was left of the common for, Nabuzaradan the chief capayne carried them to Babylon.

10. But Nabuzaradan the chief capayne let the cattell people and those that had nothing, dwell yet in the lande of Juda, and gave them vineyards and came fielde at the same tyme.

11. Habuchodonosor also the kyng of Babylon, gave Nabuzaradan the chief capayne a charge concerning Jeremie, saying:

12. Take and euerthe hym, and make much of him, see thou do him no harme, but entreate hym after his owne desire.

13. So Nabuzaradan the chief capayne, Nabuzaradan, Rablaris, Neregel, Sarzer, Rabmag, and all the kyng of Babylon's lodes, sent for Jeremie, 14. *And caused hym to be set out of the citie, to the entrie of the prison, and committed hym unto Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Saphan, that he shoulde cary hym home: *and so he dwelt among the people.

15. *And when Jeremie lay yet bounde in the foere entrie of the prison, the worde of the Lord came into hym, saying:

16. Go and tell Abednecch, the Asiant, thus saith the Lord of heauens the God of Israel: Beholde, the cruell and harpe plague that I have devisd for this cite wyll I bring upon them, that thou shalt see it:

17. But I wyll deliuer thee in that day faith the Lord, & thou shalt not come in the handes of those men whom thou fearest:

18. For doubtlesse I wyll have thee, so that thou shalt not persifie with the floodes, but the lyfe shall be saved, and that because thou haft put thy trust in me, faith the Lord.

The

This is the word that the Lord spake unto Jeremiah, when Nabuchadenezr the chief captain had set hym gofree from Ramah, whyber he had led hym bounde among all the prisoners that were carried from Jerusalem and Judah unto Babylon.

2. The chief captain called for Jeremia, and sayde unto hym, The Lord thy God spake mightily before of the miserie upon this place.

3. Hode the Lord hath sent it and performed it as he hath promised: for ye have sinned against the Lord, and have not been obedient unto his voyce, there fore commeth this plague upon you.

4. I helde, I looke the baudes from the handes this day: ye shou shall not go with me into Babylon, by then, for I will goe to thee, and provide for thee:
but if thou wilt not go with me to Babylon, then remayne here. *Beholde all the land is thy wyn, loke Where thou thinkest contentment and good for thee to abide, there dwell.

5. For as yet he was not gone bache againe to Gedaliah: therefore he sayde to him, Go bache to Gedaliah the monne of Atcian, the monne of Saphan, whom the kyng of Babylon hath made governour over the cities of Juda, and dwell with hym among the people, or remayne where suiteth it pleaseth thee. So the chief captayne gave him his expenses with a revenue, and let hym goe.

6. *Then went Jeremia unto Gedaliah the monne of Atcian to Pilsa, f dwell there with hym among the people that were left in the lande.

7. *Hode why the captaynes of the hoaste of Juda, which with their fellowes were scattered abroad in every land in the lande, understand that the kyng of Babylon had made Gedaliah the monne of Atcian governour in the lande, and that man, wyse, and chyde, men and the poore men in the lande that were not led captive to Babylon, should be under his jurisdiction.

8. They came to Gedaliah unto Pilsa, (Namely) Israel the sonne of Hathniah, Joabann and Jonathan the sonnes of Careah, Sarael the sonne of Thanchuniah, the sonnes of Ephrathe Noboth, Heman the sonne of Baachai, with their companions.

9. And Gedaliah the sonne of Atcian, the sonne of Saphan, sware unto them and their fellowes in this maner: *We not a frayed to serve the Chaldees, dibel in the lande, and do the kyng of Babylon serve, so shal ye prosper.

10. *Beholde I dwell at Pilsa, to be an officer in the Chaldees behalfe, and to lant the same as come to vs: therefore gather wine, corn, and olde, kepe them in your ware hountes, and dwell in your cities that ye have in kepyng.

11. Pea all the Jebes also that dwell in Boad, under the Annuntites, Jounnea, and in all the countreyes, when they hearde that the kyng of Babylon had made Gedaliah the sonne of Atcian the sonne of Saphan, governour upon all them that were left in Juda:

12. All the Jebes [I supposed] returned out of all places where they were fled unto, and came into the lande of Juda to Gedaliah unto Pilsa, and gathered wine and other fruittes, and that very much.

13. Moreover, Joab an the sonne of Car-each, and all the captaynes of the hoast that were scattered on every hond in the lande, came to Gedaliah to Pilsa, and sayde unto hym:

14. Knowest thou not that Zabais the kyng of the Annuntites hath sent Is-nael the sonne of Hathniah to say thee: But Gedaliah the sonne of Atcian deliued them not.

15. Then sayde Joab an the sonne of Careah unto Gedaliah in Pilsa these words secretly. Let me go I pray thee, and I will say Israel the sonne of Hathniah, so that no body shall knowe it: Whereas will he kill thee, that all the Jebes which reste unto thee ought to be scattered, and the rem-

And Gedaliah the son of Ahicam, said to Johanan the son of Careah, Thou shalt not do it: for they are but lyes that thou layes of Israel.

The xl. Chapter.

Israel and Gehaliah gavefully, and many others with him. 10 Johanan followed after Israel.

But when Joahan the son of Careah, and all they which had ben captaynes over the kings hoast with him, heard of all the Wickednesse that Israel the sonne of Nathaniah had done:

"They take their companions, went out for to fight with Israel the sonne of Nathaniah, and founde hym by the great waters that are at Gideon.

When all the people whom Israel led captaine, sall Joahan the sonne of Careah, and all the other captaynes of the hoast, they were glad.

So all the people that Israel had caried away from Egypt, were brought agayne: and when they returned, they came to Johanan the sonne of Careah.

Then Joahan the sonne of Careah, and all the captaynes of the hoast that were with hym, took all the remnant of the people, whom Israel the sonne of Nathaniah had led away when he had slaine Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam, whom they also had reserued from hym, sightlyng men, women, and children, and gelded men, whom they brought agayne from Gideon.

And went from the entrance, and late them downe at Geruth Chanaan, which layeth beyond Bethlehem, that they might go into Egypt for scare of the Chaldes.

Of whom they were afraid, because that Israel the sonne of Nathaniah had slaine Gedaliah Ahicams sonne, whom the king of Babylon had made governour in the lande.
The capitaines after counsale of Jeremie what they ought to do. 19 Jeremie admonisheth the remnant of the people not to go into Egypt.

1 O all the capitaines of JoHanam the sonne of Careoth, Jesanan the sonne of Diah, came with all the people from the least unto the most, and sayde unto Jeremie the prophet: O heare our petition, that thou mayest pray for vs into the lande of the Lord thy God, Namelee, for all the remnant, whereof there be seue of vs left of many, as thou seest vs.

2 That the Lord thy God may shewe vs a way to go in, and tell vs what we should do.

3 Then Jeremie the prophet sayde unto them: If heare you, behold I will pray into God your Lord as ye have required me: and loke what answer the Lord giveth, I shall erewrite you thereof, and keep nothing backe from you.

4 And they sayde unto Jeremie: The Lord be a true and faithful witness betwixt vs, that we will do all that the Lordethy God commandeth vs.

5 Whether it be good or evill, we will heare into the voys of the Lord of God, to whom we sende thee, that we may prosper when we have followed the conference of the Lord our God.

6 And after ten dayes came the voys of the Lord into Jeremie.

7 Then called hee JoHanam the sonne of Careoth, and all the capitaines of the people that were with hym, and all the people from the least to the most.

8 And sayde unto them: Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, unto whom ye sent me to lay forth your paperes before hym:

"If ye will dwell in this lande, I shall bade you, and cause hym to pitte you, and bying you agayne into your owne lande.

9 Nevertheless, if ye purpose not to dwell in this lande, not to solowe the voys of the Lord your God:

10 But ywil say thus, We wil not dwell ever, but go into Egypt, where we shall neither see warre, heare the noyse of the trump, nor suffer hunger, there ywil we dwell:

11 Wherefore heare nowe the voys of the Lord Godremainaunt of Juda; Thus saith the Lord of hoastes the God of Israel: If ye be wholly purposed to go into Egypt, and to dwell there as strangers,

12 The voys that ye feared, shall over take you in Egypt: and the hunger therof ye shall have afraide, shall hang you, and solowe you into Egypt, and there shall ye dye.

13 And all they that of let purpose undertake to go into Egypt to souerne there, shall persue with the voys, with hunger, and pestilence, not one of them shall remayne, there shall none escape the plague that I wil yeing among them.

14 For thus saith the Lord of hoastes the God of Israel, Like as my wrath and indignation is moved againstst the inhabidours of Hierusalem: so shall my displeasure be kindled againstst you all: yf ye go into Egypt, and there ye shall be reuint, abhorsed, bough to shame and confussion, and as for this place ye shall never see it more.

15 The Lord forbidde thee, or any remaunt of Juda, that ye shall not go into Egypt: and forget not that I haue warned you earnestly this day.

16 For ye haue dissemble with me, to yf ye sent me into the Lord your God, and sayde, O pray thou the Lord our God for vs, and loke what answer the Lord our God giveth thee, that bying vs agayne, and the vs shall do thereafter.

The xliij. Chapter.

A 1. Dide when Jeremia had ended all his words of the Lord his God unto the people, which to declare the Lord their God had sent him to them, even all these words [Isaiah]

2. Azariah the sonne of Osaiah, and Johanan the sonne of Careah, with all the subdume persons, spake unto Jeremia; "Thou speakest, the Lord our God hath not sent thee to speake unto us, that we should not go into Egypt, and dwell there.

3. But Baruch the sonne of Jeriah provoketh thee again to vs, that he myght byvs into the captivity of the Chaldees, that they myght lay vs, and carry vs away prisoners unto Babylone.

4. So Johanan the sonne of Careah, and all the captaines of the host, and all the people, folowed not the commandement of the Lord; (namely) to dwell in the lande of Juda;

5. But Johanan the sonne of Cariah, and all the captaines of the host carried away all the remnant of Juda, that were come together againe from all the heathen, among whom they had ben scattered, to dwell in the lande of Juda,

6. Men, women, children, the kynges daughters, all those that Nebuzaradan the chiefe captayne had left with Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Saphan; they carried away also the prophete Jeremia, Baruch the sonne of Jeriah.

7. And he came into Egypt: for they were not obedient unto the commandement of God. Thus came they to Thaphhmis.

8. And in Thaphhmis the wordes of the Lord happened unto Jeremia, saying:

9. Take great stones in thine hande, and hyde them in the ba|che wall under the doo|se of Pharaohs house in Thaphhmis, that all the men of Juda may see.

10. And lay vs to them, thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel: "Beholde, I will sende and call for Habucodonozo; the kyng of Babylon my seruante, and Babel let his lea|s upon these stones that I have hyd, and he shall spreade his tent over them.

11. And when he commeth, he shall smite the lande of Egypt, some with daughter, some with banishment, and some with the wordes.

12. He shall set fire upon the temple of the Egyptians gods, and burden them up, and take them selues prisoners: Moreover, he shall arape hym selfe with the lande of Egypt, lyke as a shepheard purreth on his goate, and shall depart his way from thence in peace.

13. The pople also of the temple of the sune that is in Egypt shall he break in pieces, and burne the temples of the Egyptians gods.

The xliij. Chapter.

Ye reproue the people for their Idolatry. 15. They that set light by the threatening of the Lord are challenge. 6. The destruction of Egypt and the Jews therin, is prophesied.

A 1. This is the word that was revealed to Jeremia concerning all the Jevves which dwelt in Egypt, at B|gol, at Thaphhmis, at Hop|ly, and in the lande of Pa|hyres.

2. Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Ye have seen all the miserie that I have brought upon the|rusalem, upon all the cities of Juda: so that this day they are desolate and no man dwelling therein.

3. And that because of the great blasphemies, which they committed to provoke me unto anger, in that they went baire to do sacrifice and worship unto strange gods, whom neither they, no, pe, nor your fathers have known.
4 Howbeit I sent unto them my sernuates all the prophets, *I sent by early, I sent unto them and gave them warning, Do no lure abominable things, and things that I hate.
5 But they would not solvde no hearten to tincture from their wickedness, so do no more sacrifice unto strange gods.
6 Wherefore, my poor indignation and wrath was tamed, and it went up by the cities of Judah, with the streets of flat-salem, so that they were made waste and desolate, as it is come to passe this day.
7 Moreover thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: Howbe happened it that ye do so great exfil unto your own souls, thus to destroy the men and woman, children and bades of Juda, so that none of you is left.
8 Because ye provoke me to wrath with the holocausts of your own hands, when ye offer unto strange gods in the lande of Egypt where as ye be gone to dwell, they might betterly perish, and that y might be reviled and shamefully in-treated of all nations.
9 But ye have not forgotten the Viciulence of your forefathers, the Vi-zence of the kings of Juda and their wives, the viczence that ye your fates and your wives have done in the lande of Juda, and in the streets of Hierusalem.
10 Yet are ye not soxe this day, ye scarce not, neither walk ye in my laide, and in my commandementes that I have given unto you and your forefathers.
11 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hoates the God of Israel: I am forsly abused and determined to punish you, and to root out all Juda.
12 As for the remaunt of Juda that purposely went into Egypt there to dwell, I will take them, *and they shall all be destroyed, in the lande of Egypt shall they perishe, being confun-ded with the Ivozde and with hunger:
so from the least unto the most they shall perishe with the Ivozde and with hunger: Moreover, they shall be reviled, adored, shamed, and con-sounded.
13 For I will visit them that dwell in Egypt, *as I have visited Hierusalem, with the Ivozde, with hunger, and with pestilence.
14 So that none of the remaunt of Juda which are gone to dwell in Egypt, shalle left to come againe into the land of Juda, although they shalke to come thyther againe and to dwell there: for none shall come againe but luche as are fled away.
15 Then all the men which knewe that their wickednesse had offerde unto strange gods, and a great sort of three that stode there, yea and all the people that dwelt there in Egypt in the citie of Pharetus, amansvered Jeremie and saide:
16 As for these words that thou hast spoken unto us in the name of the Lord, we will in no wise heare them:
17 But whatsoever goeth out of our owne mouth, that wilt we do, we will do sacrifice, and offer oblations unto the Queene of heaven, *like as we and our forefathers, our kingses and our heads have done in the citie of Juda, and in the streets of Hierusalem: so then had we plentifulness of vitacles, then were we in prosperitie, and no misfortune came upon vs:
18 *But since we left to offer and to do sacrifice unto the Queene of heaven, we have had scarcenesse of all thinges, and perishe with the Ivozde and hunger.
19 Last of all, when we [women] dyd sacrifice and offered unto the Queene of heaven: dyd we make her cakes and pottrde her hone and offeringes to do her service, without our husbandes wylles?
20 Then said Jeremie unto all the people, to the men, to the women, and to all the folke which had geuen hym that amansvered:
21 Dyd not the Lord remember the sacrifices that ye, your forefathers, your kings and rulers, with all the people, have offerd in the citie of Juda, in the streets of Hierusalem: and hath he not considered this in his minde?
22 In sonuice that the Lorde might no longer suffer the wickednesse of your incensons, and the abominable thynge which ye dyd: Is not your lande desolate and yeade, pead and abhorred, so that no man dwellleth therein any more, as it is come to passe this day:

23 Did not all this happen unto you, because ye made such sacrifice, and sinned against the Lord: Ye have not followed his yope, to walke in his law, in his ordnaunces and statutes: pead this is the cause that all suffocation happeneth unto you, as it is come to passe this day.

24 Wozeasure, Jeremie speake unto all the people, and to all the women: Herte the word of the Lord God all Juda that be in the lande of Egypt.

25 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Pe and your yules haue spoken with your owne mouthe the thing that ye have fulfilled in deede, pead thus haue ye yape: We wyll not speke, but perfourne the yobles that we haue yobled, we wyll do yasfatice, and yowre out yomke offerings to the Queene of heauen: Purposely wyll ye let by your owne meaneinges, and perfourne your yobles.

26 And therefore herte the word of the Lord God all Juda, that dwell in the lande of Egypt: Beholde, *I have sowe by my great name, saith the Lord, that my name shall not be re-heapened byزوowe any mans mouthe of Juda in all the lande of Egypt, to say, the Lord God lueeth.

27 For if wyll watch to plague them, and not for their wealth: *And all the men of Juda that be in the lande of Egypt shall persie with the wyll, and with hunger, but they be utterly destroyed.

28 Neuerthelesse, those that fled abaye for the wyll, shall come againe out of Egypt into the land of Juda, but there shall be very fewe of them: and all the reuannaunt of Juda that are gone into Egypt there to dwell, shall knowe whole words haue founde true, thyes, or mynde.

29 Take theis for a token, that I wyll lyte you in this place fouth the Lord, and that ye may knowe yohde that I without doubt wyll perfourne my purposse uppon you, to punishe you.

30 Beholde saith the Lord, I wyll be- lerne Pharaoh Hopheea kyng of Egypt, into the handes of his enemies that seekke after his lyfe: *even as I gave Zedekias the kyng of Juda into the handes of Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babylon his enemie, whiche sought after his lyfe.

The xv. Chapter.

Baruch is respoyned of Jeremie.

These are the wordes that Jeremie the prophete spake unto Baruch the sonne of Ne- rah, after that he had written these sermons in a booke at the mouth of Jeremie, in the foure yer of Je- hoakin the sonne of Josias kyng of Juda, saynig:

2 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel thus, O Baruch:

3 In such as thou thoughtest thus (When thou was writing) doth me, the Lord hath gessen me payne for my trouuble, I have wearied my selfe with sighinge, and haue founde no rest:

4 Therefore tell hym O Jeremie, that the Lord saith thus: Beholde, the thing that I have yuipido, wyll I yake downe agayme, and roote out the thing that I haue yanted, yea this whole lande:

5 And lekke thou yet promotion (look for it, and) defere it not, for I wyll byzg a miserable plaghe upon all stee the Lord: *but thy lyfe wyll I geve thee for a praye in all places why euerfor thou goest.

Hes. The xlvii. Chapter.

The worde of the Lorde against the Philistines.

These be the wordes that the Lorde spake unto Jeremias the prophet against the Philistines before that Pharaoh spoketh these words of Zeph.

Thus saith the Lorde: Behold, there shall waters arise out of the north, and shall groove to a great flood, running over covering the lande and all that is therein, the cities and them that dwell therein; and the men shall cry, All they that dwell in the land shall mourn.

At the noise and stumping of their strong barred horses, at the shaking of their chariots, and at the rumbling of the wheels: the fathers shall not look to their children, so feeble and weepie shall their hands be.

At the same time when he shall there to destroy the whole lande of the Philistines, he shall make waste both Tyre, Sion, and the residue of their ayde: for the Lorde will destroy the Philistines, the remnant of the Isle of Caphtor.

Baldness is come upon Zabul, Asaalon is put to silence, with the rest of their valleys: hav ing long lyttle thou seekest thy seises.

Whom the Lorde, howe long lyttle thou not ceased, Lame againe into thy heart, rest, and leaue of.

But how can it ceaseth, when the Lorde him selfe hath given it a charge against Asaalon, and raiest it up against the citie of the sea cost?

The xlvi. Chapter.

Thus saith the Lorde of hosts the God of Israel against Hadad: Wo be to the citie of Rebo, for it is thy lyttle walke, brought to confusion, and Kiriatthaim is taken: Gilgab is brought to shame and afraid.
A voice shall cry from Boznom:
Great walking and destruction shall come upon them,
Bozab is now made desolate, her little ones have cried out.
For at the going up unto Beth he arose with lamentation and mourning, and downe together Boznom they heard a cruel and deadly cry:
Get you away, fame your lines, and be lyke unto the heath in the wildernesse.

*For because thou hast trusted in thine own works and treasure, thou hast betaken: Chamos with his priests and princes shall go away into captivity.

The destroyer shall come upon all cities, none shall escape: The valleys shall be destroyed, and the fields shall be waste, lyke as the Lorde hath spoken.

Give wings unto Bozab, that she get her away speedily: for her cities shall be made to desolate, that man shall dwell therein.

Curse be he that doth the worke of the Lorde fraudulently, and cursed be he that deprieth back his "woode from the burning of blood."

Bozab hath cver been rich and careless from her youth on, the harty ben still welde upon lies, she was never yet put out of one bestel into another: that 1st he newt' went away into captivite, therefore her face remaineth, and her favour is not yet changed.

But lo, the yrne committeth faith the Lorde, that I shall sende her tentacles to tryste her by, where she may remove her from her dwelling, and emptie her bestels, and breake her wine pottes.

And Bozab shalbe ashamed of Chamos, lyke as Israel was ashamed of Bethel, wherein she put her trust.

Wherefore do ye think thus: We are mightie and strong men of warre:
Bozab is destroyed, and her cities burnt by, her choosen young men be flayne, laith the byng whole name is the Lorde of hooltes.

The destruction of Bozab commeth on peace, and her fall is at hande.

All ye neighbours mourn for her, and all ye that knowe her name, say, O hodie happeneth it that the strong

And thou daughter Dibon, come, come from thy glory, and sit in thy sight for he that destroyeth Bozab shall come by to thee also, and breake dovt-ne thy strong holdes.

And thou that dwelt in Arnor, get thee to the freece, and looke about thee, aske them that are fled and escaped, and say, What thing is happened?

By Bozab is confounded and overcome: mourn and crye, tell it out at Arnor, that Bozab is destroyed.

For judgment shall come upon the place of lande [names] upon Bozlon, and Jalzah, and upon Peptachat.

And upon Dibon, upon Nabo, and Beth Deblathaim,

Upon Kriathaim, and upon Beth Gamul, upon Beth Maon,

And upon Carloth, upon Bozrah, and all the citie in the lande of Bozab, whether they be farre or nere.

The home of Bozab is shutten dovetne, and her armie broken faith the Lorde.

Make her drunken, for she magnified her selfe above the Lorde, that men may clap their hands at her women, and that the ald may be laughed to scorne.

Diddest not thou laugh Israel to scorne, as though he had ben taken [with them] amongst thicke: for so often as thou maketh mention of hym, thou skippest forjoy.

De Bozabites, leave the cities, and dwel in roches of stone, and become like doves that make their nestles in holes.

As for Bozabo we have heard of it, he is very hye minded, Knowe her stoutnesse, her boastinge, her arroganie, and the pride of her stomache, [with the Lorde.]

I knowe (faith) the Lorde her indignation, she doth not right, her words are hyes, and they have not dealt truly.

Therefore will I mourn for Bozab, for whole Bozatsake: my heart shall lament the men of Kirates.

O thou vineyarde of Sabannah, I will decepe thee as for Jazer: thy vine braches shall come over the sea into the sea of Jazer, the destroyer shall break break into thy harvest and grape gathering.

33 Byzith and thceare shall be taken away from the fertile field, and from the land of Boab: there shall be no sweet wine in the press, the treafer that have no homadce to cry, yet there shall be none to cry unto him.

34 Whiche asoertynpe were hearde from Helbon to Scar, and JazBah, which lyked by their boye from Zab unto Azaainim, that bulloch of three bare olde: the waters also of Nenuim shall be dyped vp.

35 Moreover, I will make Boab cease saith the Lord, from the offeringes and eating that the hath made herto her gods in her places.

36 Wherefore my heart mourneth for Boab like a cauwe playing an heauen song, and for the mens sake of Birshares my heart mourneth also, even as a pipe that psaeth a dolefull song: for their riches which they have gathered, shall be destroyed.

37 All heads shall be shaken, and all bearded clipped off, all handes bound, and all tonges gydded about with lackcloth.

38 Upon all the house toppes and streetes of Boab there shall be lamentable mourning: for I will breake Boab lyke an unprofitable vessell, saith the Lord.

39 O God, is the destroyed: O God, mouneth the: O God, both hang downe her head and is ashamed:

Thus shall Boab be a laughing stode, and had in derision of all them that be rounde about her.

40 For thus saith the Lord: Beholde, the enimie shall come seent as an Egle, and espie his wingses upon Boab.

41 They shall take the cities, and winne the strong holdes: then the mightie mens hearts in Boab, shall lyke the heart of a woman travauaing with chynde.

42 And Boab shall be made to desolate, that the shall no more be a people, because the bath let by her selfe against the Lord.

43 Fear, pit, and shacre, shall come upon thee O Boab, saith the Lord.

44 Whoso escapeth the fear, shall fall into the pit, and Whoso getteth out of the pit, shall be taken in the nare: for I will bryng a prey of distillation upon Boab, faith the Lord.

45 They that are able to keepe, shall stand under the shadowe of Helbon, for there shall go a fire out of Helbon, and a flame from Sion, and shall burne by that pounde people of Boab, and the toppes of those sevicious chyvden.

46 Wo be unto thee O Boab, thou people of Chanaos that perisse: yea thy children and daughters shall be led away captive.

47 But at the last wyl I bryng Boab out of captynite agayne faith the Lord: Thus faire is of the plague of Boab.

6 But after that, I will by the Ammonites also out of captivitie agayne, saith the Lord.

7 Upon the Edomites hath the Lord of hostes spoken on this manner: Is there no more wyppome in themane? Is there no more good countayle among his people? Is their wyppome then turned cleane to naught.

8 Get you hence, turne your backes, crepe downde into the depe O ye citizens of Dedan: for I will byng destrucion upon Eau, yea and the day of his dibution.

9 If the grape gatherers come upon thee, thonbe they not leave some grapes? If the night robbes come upon thee, thonbe they not take so much as they thought were enough.

10 But I will make Eau bare, and discover his secretes, so that he shall not be able to dyde them; his sede shall wale away, peax his brethren and his neighbours, and he hym self shall not be left behyne.

11 Tho shalt leaxe thy fatherlesse children behyne, and I will kepe them, and thy wyppowe that take their comfort in me.

12 For thus hath the Lord spoken. Behold, they that men thought were butter to drinke of the cuppe, have drunken with the first, and thinkest thou them to be free? No no, thou shalt neither be quit nor free: but thou must drunke also.

13 For why? Have I sowne by my selfe saith the Lorde, that Zosrah shall become a wyppomelte, an open shanie, a laughing stocke, and cursing, and all her cities halfe a continual desert.

14 For I am perfectly informed of the Lord, that he hath sent a message alredy unto the heathen; Gather you together, and go forth against her, make you redy to battaple.

15 For lo, I will make thee but small among the heathen, and little regarded among men.

16 Thy lyne comacke, and the wyppome of thy heart hath decreased thee, because thou dost dwell in the holes of stone rockyes, and hath the wyppome of mountains in possession: Neverthelss, though thy nest were as wyppe as the Egles, yet I will call thee dwelle in the Lorde.

17 Hance, Edumea shalbe a wyppomelte, *whoso goeth by it, shall abash and wonder at all her miserable plagues.

18 Like as Sodom, Gomoraz, and the citieze that lay there about, were turned byppome dwonne, faith the Lord: so shall no body dwelte in Edumea, and no man shall have his habitation there.

19 Beholde, lyke as the lion, so shall a desroper come by from the pleasant inhodves of Zobane, unto the strong dwelling place, & when I have made hym quiet, I will make hym to flee from her, and all chosten men wyppome I let in array against her: Who is lyke unto me? What is he that wyppome with me? What theephearde may stande in my hands;

20 Therefore heare the counsell of the Lorde that he hath taken upon you, and his purpose that he hath bineth upon the citizens of Edumia: The leaf of the stoke shall trapple them, and looke what fayre habitation they have, they shall make it waste, and them selues also.

21 At the noyle of their fall the earth shall quake, the eye of their boype shall be hearde but the red sea.

22 Beholde, the enemye shall come and see by hyther lyke as it were an Egle, and spreade his wings upon Zosrah: then shall the heerites of the worthyes in Edumia be as the heart of a woman tranapling of eypide.

23 *Upon Danaeus, demath, and Apoph, shall come confusion: for they that R (vij) heare
The prophecies

The prophecies the destruction of Babylon, and the deliverance of Israel, which was in captivity.

A 1

The prophecies that the Lord spake unto the prophet Jeremiah, concerning Babylon and the land of the Chaldees:

Psudammon, and Zedebias, and the land of the Chaldees: *Preach among the gentiles, let your voice be heard, make a token, cry out, hepe no silence, but say, Babylon is woman, *Sel is confounded, and Perodach is overthrown, yea their gods be brought to shame, doze barres, but dwell alone.

32 Their camels shall a prey, and the nations of their carriell drunken alwayes: Moreover, thee shalt scatter to all the wyndes, and to the fatter pautes of the world, yea from all the sides thereof will I bring their destruction, saith the Lord.

33 Babylon shall a dwelling for dragons, and an everlasting hynderness, so that no body dwell there, and no man shall have there his habitation.

34 These are the words that the Lord spake to the prophet Jeremiah concerning *Ezlam, in the beginning of the rage of Zedekias king of Juda.

35 Thus saith the Lord of hosts: Behold, if I will break the bowe of Ezlam, their principal strength.

36 And upon Ezlam I will bring the fowre wyndes from the four quarters of heaven, and will scatter them against the fowre wyndes: and there shall no people, but some of Ezlam shall see them.

37 For I will cause Ezlam to be afraid of his enemies, and of them that seek their lives, and will bring upon them a multitude, even my wrath saith the Lord: And I will persecute them with the woddes so long till I have brought them to naught.

38 I will set my throne in Ezlam, I will destroy both the king and princes from thence saith the Lord: But in poore of tyne I will bring Ezlam out of captivity agayne, saith the Lord.

The 1. Chapter.

The prophecies the destruction of Babylon, and the deliverance of Israel, which was in captivity.

A 1

The prophecies that the Lord spake unto the prophet Jeremiah, concerning Babylon and the land of the Chaldees:

Psudammon, and Zedebias, and the land of the Chaldees: *Preach among the gentiles, let your voice be heard, make a token, cry out, hepe no silence, but say, Babylon is woman, *Sel is confounded, and Perodach is overthrown, yea their gods be brought to shame, and their images burst in peeces.

3 For out of the north there shall come a people against her, which shall make her lande to waste that no body shall dwell therein, neither man nor beast, for they shall see and depart from thence.

4 In those days, and at that time saith the Lord, the children of Israel shall come, they and the children of Juda, weeping and making haste, and shall see the Lord their God.

5 They shall alke the way to Sion, the people, and every man shall flee to his own land.
17 Israel is a scattered flocke, the lions have dispersed them: first the king of the Assyrians deouered them, last of all this Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon hath hule all their bones.
18 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hoastes the God of Israel, Beholde, I will vistle the king of Babylon and his kingdome, as I have vistle the king of the Assyrians, 19 And will bying Israel agayne to his pleaunt pasture, that he may seebe upon Charnel and Salan, and be satisfied upon the mount of Ephraim and Galaad.
20 In those dayes and at the same tyne faith the Lord, ye the offence of Israel be sought for, there that none be founde, ye men enquire for the sinne of Juda, there halbe none: for I will be mercifull unto them whom I suffer to remayne.
21 Go dowlne [O thou avenger] into the enemies lande, and wiste them that dwell then dowlne with them, set out upon the barks faith the Lord, do according to all that I have commaundad thee.
22 There is gone about the lande a rape of a slaughter and great murmure,[neme[pe on this maner]
23lovde happeneth it that the hammer of the whole world is thus broken and busied in rumor: lovde chauneth it that Babylon is become a Wildernes among the heathen [on this maner]
24 If my selte have lape a snare for thee, and thou art taken vnawares, thou art traped and snared: for why, thou hast contended against the Lord.
25 The Lord hath opened his house of odmaunce, and brought forth the weapons of his wrath: for the thing that is done in the land of the Chaldees, it is the Lord of hoastes work.
26 Come against her, for this is her ende, breake by her cheffes, thynke her as ye thynke she come, destroy her that nothing halbe left.
27 Slay all their mightieoudiers, and put them to death: go be into them, for the day and tyne of their volution is at hande.
28 [Oye thynke] I heare (alredy) a rape of them that be sied and escaped out of the lande
The prophecy

1 And the vineyard of God in Zion, the beseance of the Lord our God, the beseance of his temple. [Pea a voice of them that cry against Babylon]

29 Call up all the archers against Babylon, pitch your tents round about her, that none escape; *recompense her as she hath deferv'd, and according as she hath done, to deal with her as she hath done for the land of Beth-lheum, and all the land round about it, for so the Lord hath done to Babylon the glory of his land; and all the people that round about it.

30 Therefore shall her young men fall by the sword, and all her men of war fall, and her wall shall fall down without her, and her wall shall fall from before her, and her foundations shall be disarranged, and all her buildings shall fall down, and all her archers, and all her men of war shall fall; and the land shall be wasted for ever, and Babylon shall not be inhabited for ever.

31 Behold, I speak unto thee O thou pride of the Lord God of hostes; for thy day shall come, even the time of thy visitation.

32 And the whole land shall be wasted, and Babylon shall be utterly destroyed: she shall fall by the sword, and all that are round about her shall be cut off, and none shall remain among them: i.e. none shall be saved from their captivity. (one with another]

33 Thus faith the Lord of hostes, The children of Israel and Judah suffer violence together, all they that hate them in captivity keep them fast, and will not let them go.

34 But their avenger and redeemer is mightie, whose name is the Lord of hostes, he shall manifest their cause, he shall make the land shake, and judge them that dwell therein, (one with another].

35 The fwoode shall come upon the Chaldees, and the Lord shall bereave them of their sight, and they shall be confus'd and given up to assured calamity; their eyes shall be dim, and their heart shall be confus'd with fear, and they shall be confus'd and confus'd.

36 The fwoode upon their prophets, and charicetts, and upon all the common people that dwell among them, so that they shall all become vile women; The fwoode upon their treasure, so that it shall be stolen away.

37 A drought upon their waters, so that they shall be dyed up; for the land waxeth stivated, and delighteth wonderfully in idols.

39 Therefore shall wyllde beasts, Lania, and Cat of mountaines, and Extrachus dwell therein; for there shall never man dwell there, neither shall any man have his habitation there for evermore.

40 As God destroyed Sodome and Gomorrah, with the cities that lay there about, so shall the Lord destroy Babylon, and much nations, and men, and many tongues shall come from the end of the earth.

42 They bear holy dances and bucklers, cruel are they and unmerciful: their voice raeth like the raging sea, they runde upon horses, and come to fight against the Lord, and Babylon.

43 As done as the king of Babylon heare telleth of them, his handes shall bare feeble, foote and heaumes he shall come upon him as a woman transpyling with sypple.

44 Behold, like as the lion commeth up from the mountains of Zo'dah into the dunes of Ethan, so wyll I dyne them forth, and make them runne against her: But whom shall I choose out of all the earth? to whom shall I say, thou art like me? or who will strike with me? or what shephearde may stand against me?

45 Therefore here the compayle that the Lord hath given upon Babylon, and the denece that he hath taken upon the land of the Chaldees, the ten thousand the people shall daie them out, and loke whi what pleaunt houses they have, they shall lay them waste.

46 The nolle at the wypping of Babylon shall move the earth, and the eye shalbe hearde among the gentiles.

The 12. Chapter.

1 Howe Babylon should be overthrown. 2 Jeremite gathereth his books to Saratais.
bolwten, and to them that advance them siles in their armour: ye shall not spare her young men, byllove all her hoast.

4 Thus the layne shall fall bylove in the lande of the Chaldees, and the wounded in the streets.

5 As for Israel and Juda they shall not be fotalen of their God of the Lord of hoastes, pe for the holy one of Israel take have the Chaldees filled their lande full of stime.

6 Flee away from Babylon, every man face his lyfe, that ye be not rooted out with his wickediness: for the tyne of the Lordes vengeance is come, pe be halthe and give her againe.

7 Babylon hath ben in the Lordes hande "a golden cuppe, that maketh all lands drunken: of her wine have all people drunken, therefore are they out of their wistes.

8 But liebly is Babylon fallen and destroyed: mourne for her, byng platers for her wounds, pf the may penduncture be healed againe.

9 We woulde have made Babylon whole lay they, but she is not resoucred, therefore will we let her alone, and go eueryman into his owne countrey: for heryngdunum is come into heaven, and is gon up to the cloudes.

10 Ye Lord of hath brought forth our rightenousnesse: and therefore come on, we byll thede in Sion the worke of the Lordes our God.

11 Bake sharpe the arrowes, and multiply your shields: for the Lord shall raple by the spryte of the lynge of the Pers, which hath alerey a deleece to destroy Babylon: this shall be his benceanne of the Lord, the benceanne of his temple.

12 Set by tokens upon the walles of Babylon, make your watch strong, let your watchmen in arape, pe holde plate watches, and bet for all that shall the Lord go southe with his deute which be hath taken upon them that dwell in Babylon.

13 O thou that dwellest by the great wa- ters, O thou that hast so great treasure and riches, thine end is come, and the reckynge of thy wypplneges.

14 The Lord of hoastes hath sowne by his seethe, that he byll overwhelme the with men lyke grasshoppers in number, which with a courage shall eye alatun alatun against thee:

15 Pere euene the Lord of hoastes that with his powde made the earth, with his wicome prepared the round world, and with his discretion spread out the heavenet.

16 As done as he letterly his lykke be hearde, the watres in the axe ware fierce: he dianach by the cloudes from the ends of the earth, he turneth the lightynge to rayne, he byngeth the byndes out of their freete places.

17 (If they be esteemed) by their wicome, all men are become fools: confounded be all the casters of images, for the thing that they make is but deceipt, and hath no breath.

18 Laynes it and an erronous woste, and in the tyne of vifutation it shall perse.

19 The portion of Jacob is none such: but he that made all things whose name is the Lord of hoastes, he is the roode of his enuience.

20 (Thou hast ben nine hammer and Weapons for warre: for with thee have I broken the people in peeces, and with thee have I destroyed lyngdones.

21 Through thee I have beaten to polder hote and hosfemen, pe the y parchettes and such as late upon them.

22 Through thee I have broken man and woman, olde and young, bacheleer and maibden.

23 Through thee I have destroyed the sheepheard and his flocke, the husbandman and his cattell, the pricess and the rulers.

24 Therefore byll I rewarde the citie of Babylon, and all the inhabitants of Chaldea, with all the cuppl which they have done unto Sion, peat ye your selues shall see it, faith the Lord.

25 Beholde I come upon thee that know some (byll) faith the Lord: thou that destroyest all landes, I byll stretch out my hande over thee, and cast thee downgrade from the slyny rockes, and byll make thee a burnett hyll.

26 So that neither corner stones she be taken any more out of thee: but wnte and desolate that thou lyke for euermore faith the Lord.

27 Set by a token in the lande, blothe the trumpets among the heathen, pronouke the nations against her, call the lyng- domes
The prophesie

28 Prepare against them the people of the Medes, with their kings, princes, and all their chief rulers: yea and the whole land that is under them.
29 The land also shall shake and be asunder when the decree of the Lord shall come forth against Babylon, to make the land of Babylon to waste, that no man shall dwell any more therein.
30 The righteous of Babylon shall be left to the earth, and the remnant of the Jews shall possess the land.
31 One puritan shall meet another, yea two shall be joined together, to bind the king of Babylon tidues that his soul be taken on every lyde.
32 The swordes shal be occupied, the femmes burnt up, and the soldiers for asraynde.
33 For thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: The daughter of Babylon hath been in her tyne lyke a thyngyng floore, but shortly shall her harkeft come.
34 Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylon hath denoued and destroyed me, he hath made me an emptie vessel, he stablated me by lyke a dragon, and filled his belly. With my delicates, he hath cast me out.
35 By substance wherof he hath spoild me, and the thyng that was left me which he hath earped away, rape out aginst Babylon saith the daughter that livelied in Zion, yea and my blood also against the Chaldees, saith Hierusalem.
36 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold I will defend thy cause, and avenge thee. I will brynke by her sea, and dye by her water byppes.
37 Babylon shall become an heape of stones, a divelying place for dragons, a fearefulness and wonderung, and no man shall dwell there.
38 They shall roze together lyke lions, and as the young lions when they be angry, so shall they bende their felines. In their hear I shall gave them a duner, and they shall be drunke for lyfe:
39 Then shall they sleepe an euerlastyng sleepe, and never wake, faith the Lord.
40 I shall care them downe to be slayne lyke sleepe, lyke weathers and goates.
41 O holwe was Selaach woman; O holwe was the glorie of the whole lande taken: holwe happeneth it that Babylon is so Wondred at among the heathens.
42 The sea is filled wround Babylon, she hath covered her with her great names.
43 Her cityes are lyde Vasse, the lande lyeth bunbulbe and hoyde, it is a lande where no man dívelleth, and where no man traumynleth through.
44 Moreover, I will visite Bell at Babylon, as the thyng that he hath stablated by, that same shall I plucke out of his mouth: the gentiles also shall rumne no more unto lymp, yea and the valles of Babylon shall fall.
45 O my people, come out of Babylon, that every man may sace his life from the fearefull wrath of the Lord.
46 Be not fayne hearted, and feare not at every rumour that shallhe hearde in the lande: for every yer byngether newe thinges, and in the yer sololving newe thinges,and robbype in the lande, and lode upon lode.
47 And to the tyne commeth that I will visite the images of Babylon, and the whole lande Whale confounded, yea and her slayne shall lyce in the middest of her.
48 Heauen and earth with all that is therein that reioyce over Babylon, when the destroyers shall come upon her from the north, faith the Lord.
49 Like as Babylon hath beaten downe and slayne many out of Israel, so shall there fall many, and be slayne in all her kingdom.
50 Be that have escaped the lode, haste you, stande not sty, remember the lode a face of, and thynke upon Hierusalem.
51 For we are ashamed to heare the blasphemies, our faces were couered with shame, because the strange aliament came into the sancturie of the Lord.
52 Wherefore, beholde faith the Lord, the tyne commeth that I will visite the images of Babylon, and through the whole lande they shall mourne and fall.
53 Though Babylon eyned up into heauen, and kept her power on lyfe, yet shall I slende her destroyers laith the Lord.
of Jeremie.

This is the charge that Jeremie the prophete gave unto Saraiah the sonne of Peraiah, the sonne of Haanaiah, when he went towarde Babylon with Zedekiah the kyng of Juda, in the fourth year of his raigne: nowe this Saraiah was a peaceable

Jeremie wrote in a booke at the miserie that should come upon Babylon, peo and all these sermons that be written against Babylon.

And gane Saraiah this charge: when you committ into Babylon, see that you read these Wordes;

And say, 0 Lord thou art determined to come to this place, so that neither people nor corn shall dwell there any more, but to the daunce for ever.

And when thou hast read out the booke, burne it in the middes of Ephræites.

And say, Even thus shall Babylon smike, the shuld bold one with the burth then of trouble that I vsed, byng upon her: so that she shall never come by againe. Thus faire are the peace chinges of Jeremie.

The liij. Chapter.

He repeated the taking of Zedekiah. 4 Hierusalem is taken of the Chalderes. 10 Zedekiah somme are kylled before his face, and his eyes put out. 11 The citie is burned. 14 The temp ule is spoold and robbe. 25 They that were left in Hierusalem are carped to Babylon, byng Iehoakim is brought toged of prison, and set the as a kyng.

Edejah was one and euente yeres olde wh
he was made kyng, and ranyed euene yeres in Hierusalem; his mothers
name was Hamutal,
Jeremies daughter of Libna.

He lumed wickedly before the Lord,
euen as Iehoakim did.

For the Lord was angry at Hierusalem and Juda, so long tyll he had cast them out of his presence: and Zedekiah fall from the kyng of Babylon.

*But in the ninth yere of his raigne, in the tenth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth it happenede that Nabuchodon oso the kyng of Babylon, with all his hosts, came before Hierusalem, and be siege it, and made bulwarke rounde about it, and be consumed in the fire.

5 And this besieging of the citie endured unto the eleuente yere of byng Zede kiah.

6 *And in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, there was a great hunger in the citie, that there were no more victuals for the people of the land.

7 So all the souldiers brake away, and shone out of the citie by nyght through the way of the port, betwixte the two wailes by the kaynes garden: (Hode the Chalderes had compassed the cittie rounde about) yet went these men their way through the wildernesse.

8 And to the Chalderes howed uppon them, and toke Zedekiah the kyng in the feld of Hancho, when his hoast was ronne from byng.

9 So they carped the kyng away pris ner to Reblath, unto the kyng of Ba bylon in the lande of Henith, *Where he
The prophecie

he gave judgement upon hym.

10. The lyng of Babylon also caused Ze- debias fences to be slayne before his face, and put all the princes of Judah to death at Reblath.

11 Moreover, he put out the eyes of Ze-dehiahs, caused hym to be bounde with two chapines, to be caered unto Babyl-on, and let him lye in prison til he dyed.

12 Howe the tenth day of the fift month, in the nineteenth yer of Nabu-chodonosor, lyng of Babylon, Nabu-zaradan the chiefe captayne, and the lyng of Babylons seruantes came unto Hierusalem.

13 And burnt by the house of the Loode: he burnt by all the bynges palaces, all the housees, and all the gorgeous buildings in Hierusalem.

14 And the whole hoast of the Chaldees that were with the chiefe captayne, brake downe all the walle of Hierus-alem rounde about.

15 As for the poore people, and lych folk as was yet left in the cyme, which also were fallen to the lyng of Babylon, pe and what people as yet remainede, Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne carped them away prifoneers.

16 But the poore people of the countrey did Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne leave in the lande, to occupy the vinepardes and fieldes.

17 The Chaldees also brakke the basen pillers that were in the house of the Loode, pe the seat and the basen laver that was in the house of the Loode, and carped all the mettal of them unto Babylon.

18 They toke away also the chalderns, thowsels, fliehjokes, spinklers, spoones, and all the basen belles that was occupied in the seruice.

19 With the basons, cole pannes, spink-

lers, pottes, candeclitches, spoones, and cuppes, wherof some were of golde, and some of silver.

20 The chiefe captayne toke also the two pillers, the laver, the twelue basen bullockes that stoode under the faze which king Solomon made in the house of the Loode: and all the belles conteyned so much mettal that it might not be vazed.

21 For every piller was euyscheene cubites lyge, and the rope that went about it was euyscheene cubites and foure fynners thicke, and rounde.

22 Howe upon the rope were basen knappe, and euery knoppe was soure cub-ites lyge, and upon the knoppe were hoppes, and pomegranates round about of cleane baife.

23 After this maner were both the pillers fashioned with pomegranates, where of there were an hundred ninetie and sic, which hanged upon the hoppes rounde about.

24 The chiefe captayne also toke Sarah the lye priest, and Sophonah that was chiefe next hym, & the three keepers of the doore:

25 He toke out of the cyme a chamberlaine who was the chiefe of the loudyres, and seuen men that were the bynges ser-uantes, which were founde in the cyme: and Sophar a captayne that vio to muster the men of warre, with three-score men of the cymery that were vaken in the cyme:

26 These Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne toke, and carped them to the king of Babylon unto Reblath:

27 And the kyng of Babylon carped them to be put to death at Reblath in the lande of Hamath: And thus Judah was leede away captayne out of his owne lande.

28 This is the summe of the people by-non Nabuchodonosor led away capture: in the seuenthe yer of his raign he carped away of the fluids thire thonande twente and thire.

29 In the eighteente yer Nabuchodo-nosor carped away from Hierusalem eight hundred thrytie and two persons.

30 In the three and twente yer of Na-buchodonosor, Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne toke away seven hundred fourtie and five fluids,prisoners. The whole summe of the prisoners is some thonande and sic hundred.

31 In the thrite and seuenthe yer after that Jehoakim the kyng of Judah was carped away, in the fivte and steenthe day of the twelue moneth, Eulmer-dach kyng of Babylon (the same yer that he raigne) gave Jehoakim the kyng of Judah his pardon, and let hym out of prison.

32 And spake louingly to hym, and let his thone above the thones of the other kynges that were with hym in Babylon.

33 He chaunged also the clothes of his pilon,
The lamentations of the prophete Ieremie.

The first Chapter.

I. It happened after Israel was brought into captivity and Hierusalem destroyed, that Hieremie the prophete late weeping, and sorrowfully bewailing Hierusalem, and sighing and howling with an heavy and wofull heart, saide,

7 Howe Hierusalem remembrèd in the tyne of her miserie and bare estate all her joy & pleasure that she hath had in tymes past, telyng her people is brought doone under the power of their enemies, and there is no man so to helpe her: her enemies stande lysting at her, and laugh her Sabbath daies to some.

3 Hierusalem hath sinned greewously, therefore is she come to decay: all they that had her in honour despise her, for they have scene her filthiness, yea the sighth and is ashamed of her self.

9 Her skirles are defiled, she remembered not her last ende, therefore is her fall so wondrefull, and there is no man to comfort her: O Lorde consider my trouble, for myne enemie hath the yPPER hande.

10 The enemie hath put his hande to all the precious things that she had, pe auen before her eyes came the heathen in and out of the sanctuarie, *whom thou nevertheless hast forbidden to come within thy congregacion.

11 All her people secke their head with heauness, and loke what precious thing every man hath, that geueth he for meate to fawne his lyfe: Consider O Lorde, and see howe vile I am become.

12 Have ye no regarde all ye that goe fowde, beholde & see if there be any soddy lyke into mine, whereby the Lorde hath troubled me in the day of his faire full Wrath.

13 From above hath he sent doone a fire into my bones, and it burneth them cruelly: he hath laye a net for my feete, and thowe them I wyde open, he hath made... made me desolate, so that I must ever be mourning.

14. The (b) point of my transgressions is bound fast to his hande, they are wrapped (a) within, (b) and come by about my necke: he bath caused my strength to faine, the Lord hath delivered me into those handes whereout I cannot quite my selfe.

15. The Lord hath destroyed all the mighty men that there were in me, he hath proclaimed an appoynted time to slaughter all my best men: the Lord hath troden downe the daughter of Juda, yea as it were in a winepress.

16. They do I weep, and mine eyes guile out of sacrifice for the comfort that should quicken me is farre from me, my children are driven away: why? the enemie hath gotten the upper hande.

17. Sion casteth out her handes, and there is no man to comfort her, the Lord hath laid the enemie round about Jacob, and Jerusalem is become abomination in the midst of them.

18. The Lord is righteous, so, I have provoked his countenaunce unto anger, Drake heede all ye people and consider my heaine: For my name is called by no name, but only of Chanaan prerall grace and mercy.

The 2. Chapter.

1. The Lord hath the daughter of Sion in his wrath: As for the honour of Israel he hath cast it downe fro heaven unto the earth, and he remembered not his owne footstowe when he was angry.

2. The Lord hath cast out all the habitations of Jacob without any favour, all the strong places of the daughter of Juda hath he broken in his wrath, and thrown them downe to the grounde, her kingdome and her princes hath he prepared.

3. In the wrath of his indignation he hath broken all the (b) home of Israel, he hath washed aben his right hande from the enemie, yea a flambe of fire is kindled in Jacob, and hath confounded by all rounde about.

4. He hath bent his bowe like an enemie, he hath fastened his ryght hande as an aduertisarie, and euery thing that was pleasant to see, he hath slayne: he hath power upon his bowe like a fire, into the tabernacle of the daughter of Sion.

5. The Lord is become like as it were an enemie, he hath denoue Israel and all his palaces, yea all his strong holds hath he destroyed, and spilt the daughter of Juda with much sounde and heaine.

6. His tabernacle as a garden hast he destroyed, his solempne meetings hath he put downe the Lord hath brought it so to passe that the lyre solempne soundes and Sabbathes in Sion are cleane forgotten: in his heavy displeasure hath he disolved the kyng and priests.

7. The Lord hath forsaken his owne baulter, and hath abhorred his owne sanctuarie, and hath gaven the walles of their towres into the handes of the enemie: their enemies made a nooke in the house of the Lord, as it had ben in a solempne feast day.

8. The Lord thought to brake downe the walles of the daughter of Sion, he spread out his hande, and brewe not in his hande till he had destroyed them: therefore morned the turrets, the broken walles fall downe together.

9. Her gates are hurke downe to the grounde, her barres are broken and smitten saying: let vs benowe, for the tyme that we looked for is come, we haue founde and seen it.
17 The Lord hath assailed the thing that he was purposed to do, and prepared that he had deuised long ago: he hath destroyed and not spared, he hath cauntie thyn e aduerarie to triumphe ouer thee, and set vp the houe of thyne enemie.

19 Stand vp, and make thy prayer in the first watche of the night, poisse out thyne heart like water before the Lord:
21 Young and olde he thereof the streets uppon the grounde, my maydens and young men are slaine with the Lord, whom thou in the day of thy wrathfull indignation haft put to death, yea euery thou haft put them to death, and not spared them.
22 By neighbours that are rounde about me haft thou called as it were to a feast day, so that in the day of the Lordes wrath none escaped, neither was any left behinde:those that I haue bought vp and nourished, hath myne enemie destroyed.

The. iiij. Chapter.

Am the man that thorothe the roode of his wrath haue experienc of sufferinge. He haue me sooth and led me, yea into darknesse, but not into light.
Against me is he turned, he turneth his hande daily against me.
By itch and my skinne hath he made old, and my bones haue beene.
5 He hath bupled rounde about me, and closed me in with gall and travaile.
6 He hath set me in darknesse, as they that be dead for ever.
7 He hath so hedged me in, that I can not get out, and hath taje heauen lynes upon me.
8 Though I crepe and call pitously, yet heareth he not my prayer.
The lamentations.

9 He hath stopped by my wapes with four squared stones, and made my pathes crooked.
10 He lapeth wape for me lyke a heare, and as it were in a hole.
11 He hath marred my wapes, and broken me in pieces, he hath layde me waste altogether.
12 He hath bent his bowe, and made me as it were a mark to shooe at.
13 The arrows of his Quier hath he shot, even into my repes.
14 *I am laughed to shame of all my people, they make songes upon me all the day long.
15 He hath filled me with bitterness, and given me worme wood to bunk.
16 He hath finstred my teeth in pieces with stones, and rooues me in the dust.
17 He hath put my soule out of red, I forget all good things.
18 I thought in my selfe, I am vndone, there is no hope for me in the Lorde.
19 O remember yet my inlerie and my trouble, the worme wood and the gall.
20 Pea thou shalt remember them, for my soule melteth away in me.
21 Why I consider these things in my heart, I get a hope agayne.

22 (Sanctly it is of the Lordes mercies that we are not utterly confounded, for truly his pitiful compassion hath not ceased.
23 Obe mercies shall the Lorde shewe upon thee early in the day springing, (O Lorde) great is thy faithfullnesse.
24 The Lorde is my portion faith my soule therefore vppon I hope in hym.
25 O lorde good is the Lorde vnto them that put their trust in hym, and to the soule that feareth after hym.
26 The good man with hine and patience, taryeth for the health of the Lorde.
27 O lorde goodis it for a man to take the pike vpon him from his youth vp?
28 He sitteth alone, he holdeth hym vp, because he hath taken (the Lordes pike) vpon hym.
29 He lapeth his face vpon the earth, if there happen to be any hope.
30 He offereth his cheeke to the slayer; he vppon will be content with reproses:
31 For the Lorde will not solace for ever,
32 But though he punishe, yet according to the multitude of his mercies he recouneth to grace agayne.
33 For he doth not plague willingly, and afflict the children of men, 34 To creade all the prseteres of the eather under his feete, 35 To moue the judgement of man before the most highesst, 36 To condemne a man in his soule: the Lorde hath not pleasure in such thynge, 37 What is he then that faith, there should some thing be done without the Lorde's commandement?
38 Out of the mouth of the most highesst goeth not euyl and good.
39 Wherefore then murmureth the living man: let hym murmurate at his owne soule.
40 *Let vs looke well vpon our wapes, and remember our selues, and turne agayne to the Lorde.
41 Let vs lift our heartes with our handes vnto the Lorde that is in heaven.
42 We have ben dissembleres and have offended, vplston therefore not be intreated:
43 Thou hast covered vs in thy wrath, and perfected vs: thou hast layde vs without any favour.
44 *Thou hast hid thy selfe in a cloude, that our paper should not go through.
45 Thou hast made vs outcastes, and to be despised among the people.
46 All our enemies gone vp vs.
47 Fear and pit is come vpon vs, pea despire and destruction.
48 *Whole rivers of water gulle out of mine eyes for the hure of my people:
49 Mine eyes runne and cannot ceaste, f for there is no rest:
50 O Lorde, when vplston thou looke dovmne from heaven and consider:
51 Mine eyes breketh my heart, because of all the daughteres of my cite.
52 Mine enemies hunted me out sharply like a hyde, pea & that without a cause.
53 They have put dovmne my life into a pit, and they have cast stones vpon me.
54 They have poured water vpon my head: then thought I, nowe am I vndone.
55 I called vpon thy name O Lorde out of the deepe pit.
56 Thou hast heard my hope, and hast not turned away thyne eares from thyne sighing and crying.
57 Thou hast inclyned thy selee vnto me when I fell on thee, and hast saied, feare not.

58 Thou
68 Thou (O Lord) hast manifolded the cause of my soul, and hast redeemed my life.
69 O Lord, thou hast seen my wrong, take thou my cause upon thee.
70 Thou hast well considered howe they go about to do me harme, and that all their counsels are against me.
71 Thou hast heard their despitefull words O Lord, yea and all the imaginations against me:
72 The lips of mine enemies, and their drums that they take against me at the day long.
73 Thou seest also their lying downe and their rising vp, they make their songes of nothing but of me.
74 Reuarde them, O Lord, according to the nookes of their hands.
75 Give them an obstinate heart, even thy curse.
76 Perfecute them O Lord with thine indignation, and roote them out from under the heaven.

The paper of Jeremie.

1 All to reemembraunce (O Lord) what we have suffred, consider and see our confusion. Our inheritance is turned to the strangeuers, and our houses to the alienants.

2 We are become carefull and fatherlesse, and our mothers are as the daughters.

3 We are inplaine to drinke our owne watter for money, and our owne wood must the buy for money.

4 Our riches are under persecution, we are weep and have no rest.

5 [At sometime] we peeld our selves to the Egyptians, (and sawe) to the Assyrians, onlye that we might have bread enough.

6 Our fathers (which nowe are gone) have sinnen, and we must beare their wickednesse.

7 Servauntes have the rule of vs, and no man delivereth vs out of their handes.

8 We must get our living with the pe- rill of our lives, because of the bynth of the wickeude.

9 Our thyme is as it had ben made blacke in an oen, for very sere hunger.

11 The wines are rauished in Sion, and the lapdens in the cities of Juda.

12 The princes are hanged vp with the hand of the enemies, they haue not spared the olde sage men.

13 They haue taken young men to grinde, and the hopen faunte under the burthen of wood.

14 The elders sit no more under the gates, and the young men lie no more playing of musick.

15 The top of our heart is gone, our melodious is turned into mourning.

16 The garlende of our head is fallen: alas that euer we finned to fore.

17 Therefore our heart is full of heaviness, and our eyes dimmes.

18 Because of the hill of Sion that is destroyed: inso much that the foes runne vpom it.

19 But thou O Lord, that remaynest for euer, and thy seate Dostibe Without ende:

20 Wherefore Wyll thou stille forget vs, and sovoke vs so long:

21 O Lord turne thou vs into thee, and so that we be turned, renewe our dayes as in olde ymes:

22 But thou hast bayshed vs bitterly, and hast ben displeased at vs.

¶ The ende of the lamentations of Jeremie.
The time wherein Ezechiel prophesied, and in what place, His kyned. The vision of the four beasts. The fashion and voice of the wheels. The vision of the throne.

The first Chapter.

I came to passe in the thirteenth year in the fourth [moneth] in the fifth day of the moneth, that (I pray in the midst of the captiuite, by the river Chebar) the heavenes were opened, and I saw visions of God:

In the fifth day of the moneth, which was the fifth yere of king Josias captiuite,

2.

The voice of the Lord came to Ezechiel the priest, the visionary, in the land of the Chaldeans by the river Chebar, where the hand of the Lord was upon him.

3.

And I looked, and beholde a flor of dunes which came out of the north, a great cloud, and a fire folding it selfe [in the cloud] and a brightness round about it, and fastly of the ynnodes thereof as the color of amber out of the midst of the fire.

4.

And out of the ynnodes thereof, the likeness of four beasts [appeared] and this was their form, they had the likeness of a man.

5.

And every one had four ynnodes, and every one of them had four ynnodes.

6.

Their ynnodes were straight ynnodes, and the lote of their ynnodes lke the lote of calves ynnodes, and they glistered as the appearance of ynnodes burneth.

7.

From under their ynnodes upon all the fore corners they had mens handes: and they fore had their faces and their ynnodes.

8.

Their ynnodes were joined one to another: when they went they looked not backe, but the one went straighte forwarde.

9.

But [touching] the similitude of these faces, the ynnode had the face of a man and the face of a lion on the right side: and they ynnode had the face of an eoe on the left side, the ynnode also had the face of an Eagle.

10.

Thus were their faces, and these ynnodes were spread out about, so that two ynnodes of every one were joined one to another, and two ynnodes covered every one of their ynnodes.

11.

Every one went straighte forwarde: whereby the spirit led them, either their intestines returned not in their going.

12.

And the ynnodes of the beasts, their appearance was like coales of fire, burning like the appearance of coales, it ran among the beasts, and the fire gave a glister, and out of the fire there went lightning.

13.

And the beasts came, and returned like lightning.

14.

When I had considered the beasts, beholde a ywheel upon the earth next to the beasts, to every of the ynnodes before his face.

15.

The ywheel was lke the colour of a私自, and they 16.

The ywheel was lke the colour of a私自, and they they sware had one fashion, and their fashion was as though it were a wheele in the middle of a wheele.

17 when they went, they went upon their four sides, they returned not backe when they went.

18 they had rings, and height, and were fearful to behold, their rings were full of eyes round about them fower.

19 when the beastes went, the wvjctes went also by them: and when the beastes were lift up from the earth, the wjeltes were lift vp.

20 whyther fowere the spirite to go, they went, and whyther the spirite to go, and the wjeltes were lift vp before them: for the spirite of the beastes were in the wjeltes.

21 when the beastes went, they went, when they fwoode they fwoode, and when they were lifted vp from the earth, the wjeltes were lifted vp before the, for the spirite of the wjeltes was in the wjeltes.

22 and the fummetie of the fermanment upon the heades of the beastes, was like the colour of fnowfall wonderfull, spread over their heades.

23 and under the fermanment their wjinges were streched forth one towrdes another, every one had two coverings them, and every one had two covering them, even their bodies.

24 and when they went, I hearde the noyfe of their wjinges, like the noyfe of great wateres, as it had been the bope of the almainghtie, the bope of speache, as the noyfe of an hoall: when they fwoode, they let downe their wjinges.

25 and there was a noyfe from above the fermanment that was over their heades: when they fwoode, they let downe their wjinges.

26 and above the fermanment that was over their heades, there was the fashon of a thonne lyke a Saphire fone: and upon the fummetie of the thonne by appearance, as the fummetie of a man above upon it.

27 and I had as the appearance of amber (and) as the fummetie of fire round about within, from the appearance of his lynes byward: and from the appearance of his lynes downward: I faw as the lykeneffe of fire, and brightnesse round about it.

28 as the lykeneffe of a boyle that is in a cloudie in a raynie day, so was the appearance of the brightnesse round about: this was the appearance of the fummetie of the glory of God, when I faw it, I fell upon my face and hearkened unto the bope of one that fpatke.

1 And then said he unto me, Stande uppon thy fette (O thou fome of man) and I will talke with thee.

2 and the spirite entered into me when he had spoken unto me, and let me upon my fette, so that I heard him that fpatke unto me.

3 and he fayde unto me, Thou fome of man, I fende thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious people which have rebelled againste me, both they and their forefathers have wickedly behaved them felues againste me, even unto this very day.

4 for they are children of a harde face and diffe heart, I do fende thee untowrdes them, and thou shalt fay unto them, Thus faith the Loode God.

5 and whether they will heare or refufe (for they are a rebellious house) yet they may knowe that there hath bena prophece among them.

6 And thou fome of man fear them not, neither be afraid of their wordes, for they be perys and thones are with thee, and thou doest dwell among fprodious: fear not their wordes, no: be abafhed at their lookes, for they are a rebellious house.

7 and thou shalt speake my wordes untowrdes them, whether they will heare or refufe, for they are rebellions.

8 therefore thou fome of man, obey thon all things that I fay unto thee, and be not thou rebellious lyke the rebellious house: open thy mouth, and refute that I faye thee.

9 and when I looked, behold a hand was fent unto me, and lo, it was a route of a booke.

10 and he opened it before me, and it was written within and without, and there was written therein, lamentations, and mourning, and mo.
THE PROPHET BEING LED WITH THE WOODES OF GOD, AND WITH THE CONSTITUTION OF THE SPIRIT, IS SENT INTO THE PEOPLE THAT WERE IN CAPTIVITY. THE OFFICE OF TRUE PREACHERS.

1. After this said he unto me, Thou son of man, eat what thou seest, eate this roll, and go thy way, and speake unto the house of Israel. 2. So I opened my mouth, and he fed me with this roll. 3. And he said unto me, Thou son of man, thy belly shalt eat, and thy bowels shalt thou fill with this roll that I give thee: Then byd I eat, and it was in my mouth as water; and the word remained in mine mouth. 4. And he said unto me, Thou son of man, go, get thee unto the house of Israel, and declare my words unto them. 5. For not to a people of refined and hard language art thou sent, but unto the house of Israel: 6. Not to many nations which have refined lips and hard language, whole words thou understandest not; otherwise if I had sent thee unto them, they would have heartened unto thee. 7. But the house of Israel will not hearten unto thee, for they will not hearten unto me: for at the house of Israel have I set forheads, sturbarne hearts. 8. Behold therefore, I have made thy face strong against their faces, sthy forehead strong against their foreheads. 9. As an Assamant, harder then the flint stone have I made thy forehead: thou shalt not fear them, nor be abashed at their looks: so they are a rebellious house. 10. He layde no more couer unto me, Thou son of man, all my words that I shall speake unto thee, receaue in thy heireart, and hearken with thy ears. 11. And go, get thee to the captaines, to the children of thy people, and thou shalt speake unto them, and shalt lay it upon them, Thus saith the Lord God, whether they will hear, or leave. 12. With that the sprite tooke me by, and I hearde behind me a vopse of a great rushing (to wit) Blessed be the glory of Jehova his from his place. 13. [Chap. 11] Also the vopse of the wings of the beastes going one with another, and the rathing of the wheels that were before them, even a vopse of great rushing. 14. And when the sprite tooke me, and tooke me away, I went in bitterness and fury of my spirit: but the hand of the Lord upon me was strong. 15. Then I came to the captaines in Chel- Abbeth that dwelt by the river Chebar, and I sat where they sat, and I remayned there seven days, astonished among them. 16. And when the seuen dapes were expired, the Lord laid me onto me, 17. Thou son of man, I haue made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt heare the word at my mouth, and gene them warning from me. 18. When I shall speake unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely dye, and thou geuest not him warning, nor speakest to admonithe the wicked of his evil way, and lo to loue: then shalt the lame bungodly man dye in his owne bungodlynesse, but his blood by I require of thyne hand. 19. Neuerthelesse, if thou geuest warning unto the wicked, and he yet tary not from his bungodlynesse and from his wicked way: he shall dye in his owne wickednesse, but thou hast delivered thy soule. 20. Neuerthelasse, if thou exostest that righteousnesse and do the thing that is cuyp: I will lay a stumbling blocke before him: and he shall dye, because thou hast not geuen him warning, dye shall be his owne soume, so that his righteousnesse which he hath done, shall not be thought upon: but his blood will I requiere at thyne hande. 21. Neuerthelasse, if thou exostest that righteousness that he saine not, and so the righteousnes do not saine: then shall he live, because he hath receaued thy warning, and thou hast delivered thy soule. 22. And there came the hande of the Lord upon me, and he layde unto me: Stande by, and go into the fielde, that I may there talke with thee. 23. So when I had vened by, and gone foorth into the fielde: behold the a vopse of the Lord stood there, like the vopse which I haue by the river Chebar: then fell I downe vpon my face. 24. And the sprite came into me, where the

I. The siege of the city of Jerusalem is signified. 9 The long continuance of the captivity of Israel. 10 Hunger is prophesied to come in the captivity.

25 Ver. 25. Behold, I will lay trothes upon thee, and thou shalt not turn thee from one side to another, till thou hast ended the days of the besieging.

26 And I will make thy tongue a leaue to the rooke of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumb, and not be as a republisher unto them: for they are a rebellious house.

27 But when I speake unto thee, I will open my mouth, and thou shalt say, and they shall not answer thee: thus shall the Lord God of Israel be to them, for they are a rebellious house.

The, iiiij. Chapter.

1. The siege of the city of Jerusalem is signified. 9 The long continuance of the captivity of Israel. 10 Hunger is prophesied to come in the captivity.

1 You sone of man, take thee a tylte stone and lay it before thee, and put it upon the house of Israel, upon the sume of that house, upon the house with thee.

2 And lay thou the stone, which I take out of thine hand, upon the wall of Jerusalem, which is the great city of Israel, and lay it in thine hand, that I may set it up for a sign in thine hand.

3 Henceforth shall the house of Israel be no more holy unto the house of Israel, because of all their iniquities, saith the Lord God.

4 Thus saith Jehovah, the house of Israel, in the days of their iniquity, and in the days of their trespasses: when I smote their sins upon them, I will also smite my hand upon them in their Sanctuary.

5 And I will scatter the sanctuary of Israel, as they have scattered a lefyt, and will broken down the wall of the sanctuary, as they have broken down the wall of the house.

6 And I will spread the house of Israel upon the land, and will diversify them in the country, and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have scattered them among the heathen, and they are scattered among the people, and will cast them into the country."
of Ezechiel.

The, v. Chapter.

1 The signe of the herry, by which is signified the destruction of the people, the causes of the anger of God towards the people:

2 Thou shalt burne with fire the thirde part in the midst of the city when the days of the siege are fulfilled, and thou shalt take the other thirde part and smite about with a knife, and the last thirde part thou shalt scatter in the wynde, and I will daue out a wynde after them.

3 Thou shalt also take thereof a selue in number, and burne them in thy lappe.

Of them yet shalt thou take, and cast them into the midst of the fire, scatter them in the fire: thereof shall a fire come forth into all the house of Israel.

4 Moreover, thus saith the Lorde God: This lane is Hierusalem, which I set in the midst of nations, and countreis rounde about her.

5 But the hast chaunged my judgements into wickednesse more then the nations, and my statutes more then the countreis that are rounde about her: for they have refused my judgements and my statutes, and not walked in them.

6 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God: For your multiplying more then the gentiles that dwell rounde about you, and because ye haue not walked in my statues, neither haue ye kept my ordinances, nor ye haue not done according to the judgements of the nations that are rounde about you:

7 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God: Behold I will also come againe unto thee, my selfe I say: for in the midst of thee will I execute judgement in the light of the heauen.

8 And I will handle thee of such a fashion as I never did before, as I will henceforth that thyne booth, and that because of all thine abominations.

9 For in thee the fathers haue layne to care their owne fences, and the fences their owne fathers, I will execute judgement in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I scatter into all the wyndes.

11 Wherefore, as truly as I live saith the Lorde God, lyeing thou hast defiled my landworke with all maner of abominations, and with all shamefull offences:

12 For this cause will I also destroy thee, mine eye shall not spare thee, neither will I have any pity.

13 One thirde part within thee shall dye of the pestilence, and be consumed of hunger, another thirde part shall die by wounds rounde about thee with the wynde, the other thirde part that remaineth, will I scatter abroad towarde all the wyndes, and daue out a wynde after them.

14 Thus will I perfoure mine indignation, and make my dysha to settle upon them, and I will be confounded: so that when I haue fulfilled my rage agaynst them, they shall knowe that I am the Lorde, which with a fervent geould have spoken it.

15 Moreover, I will make thee waste and ruine among all the heauen that dwell about thee, in the sight of all them that go by thee.

16 So that shalbe a reprobate and shame, a chastishment and a wondrving vnto the nations that are rounde about thee, when I shall execute judgements in thee, in anger in wrath, and in sharpe rebukes, if the Lorde haue spoken it:

17 When I shooe among them the pestilence partes of hunger, which haue for their destruction, yea therefore will I shooe them because I will destroy thee, I will encreas hunger upon you, and I will bereate thy haile of beades.

18 Blaues will haue bene upon thee, and wickered beasts also to spoile thee, pestilence and blood shedding that come upon thee, and the wynde will I bring over thee: if the Lorde haue spoken it.

The
And the words of the Lord came unto me, saying:

And thou shalt restore the fortunes of thy servient, that thou mayest prophesie against them,

And say, Hear the words of the Lord God: O ye mountaynes of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, the mountaynes, yples, riner, s bates, Behold, I will bring a sword vpon you, and destroy your ype places.

Thus saith the Lorde God, I will alfo yse fuch a vday, and will deftroy your ype places.

And the head rachafe of the children of Israel, will I call before their idols, your bones will I scatter rounde about your aulters.

And all your dwellings plesse your cities halbe defolate, and the ype places lade vaste, fo that your aulters halbe made vaste and defolate, your idols halbe broken and abolifhed, and your images of the fumme halbe cut bownde, and your images quite taken alway.

Your fayne men shall fall among you: and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

Yet will I leaue a remaunt, that you may haue [come] that shall ecape the sword among the nations, when ye halfe scattered through the countreis.

And they that ecape of you hal thinke vpon me among the heathen where they halbe in captiuity, because I haue been broken with their who fhe heart which hath departed from me, with their eyes that have gone a whoring after their idols: and they halbe aduentured before their owne eyes for the caules which they have committed in all their abominations.

And they shall knowe that I am the Lorde, and that I have not layde in baye, that I would do this cuft with them.

Thus faith the Lorde God, Thiue handes together, and fame with thy frote, and fay, Wo woe unto all the abominations and vucknedenes of the house of Israel: for they feaft with the noode, with hunger, and with perfticence.

Who fo is farre of all fhor of the perfticence, he feth that is nje at hande fhall prefhe with the noode, and the other that are defeged shall fhor of hunger: Thus will I fanctifie my wrathful box pleafure vpon them.

And fhall ye knowe that I am the Lorde, when their fayne men halbe among their idols rounde about their aulters, upon euery yppe hyll, and topps of mountaynes, and vnder euery greene tree, and vnder euery thicke oke, [exer] in the places where they dyd offer fweete favour to all their idols.

I will fretche mine hande out vpon them, and will make the lande vaste, and defolate from the vulcenesines unto Debirathay through all their habitations: and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

The vii. Chapter.

The ende of all the lande of Israel shall sodainely come. The caufe of the deffenct thereof. The profefte is commancted to deffe the summe of the corps that are at hande.

He wordes of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

And thou fome of man, thus faith the Lorde God, an ende is come vnto the lande of Israel: ye fay, verely the
4. One eye shall not spare thee, neither will I have pitie, but rebarde thee according to thy wages: I declare thine abominations: then shall ye know that I am the Lord.

5. Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, one evil shall come after another:

6. The end is here, the end! It is come, it watched for thee: behold it is come already.

7. The (c) mourning is come unto thee that dwellest in the lande, the tyne is at hands, the day of trouble is harde by, and not the (c) sounding agayne of the mountaynes.

8. Behold, I will shortly poure out my sev dipleasure over thee, and fully my wrath upon thee: I will judge thee after thy wages, and recompence thee all thine abominations.

9. One eye shall not spare, neither will I have pitie, but rebarde thee after thy wages, & thine abominations shalbe in the midst of the: and ye shall know that I am the Lord that smiteth.

10. Behold the day, beholde it is come, the mourning is gone forth, the roode (c) nostrith, pride hath bulled.

11. Cruelty is Warren to a roode of Wickedness, none of them shall remayne, none of their riches, "not one of their seed, no lamentation shalbe made for them.

12. The tyne connecteth the day, dallyeth nye: who tho hythe let hym not rejoice, he that selteleth let hym not be sory: for why wrath is uppon all the multitude thereof.

13. So that the seler shall not come againe to the thing that he solde, although their life be (c) yet with the lyping: for when the profhe was preachted unto all the people, none returned, no man held: strenthen hym selfe in the iniquity of his life.

14. They have blowen the trumpet, and made all redy, but none goeth to the battale: for my wrath is upon the whole multitude.

15. The loode shalbe without, pestilence and hunger within: so that who fo to is in the loode shalbe slayne with the loode, and he that is in the citie shalbe devoured with hunger and pestilence.

16. But they that fle away from them shall escape, and shalbe in the mountaynes like the bones of the valleys, all they shall mourne, every one for his iniquity.

17. All handes shalbe let downe, and all knes shalbe weake as the water.

18. They shall glide them selves with sackleth, fear (hall cover them, shame shalbe upon all faces, and baldnesse upon their heads.

19. Their silver shall they cast foorth in the treethes, and their golde shalbe pitched: ye (a) their silver and golde shall not be able to deliver them in the day of the wrath of the Lord, they shall not satisfy their soules, neither vs their bellys therewith, because (b) it was a thunblyne blocke of their iniquity.

20. He had also set the beautie of his (b) ornament in mastrict: but they made images of their abominations and filthinesse in it, therefore have I set it sere from them.

21. Moreover, I will geve it into the handes of strange to be spoild, to the wicked of the earth to be robbed, and they shal pollute it.

22. My face will I turne from them, my secreete place shalbe deysilie: for burgers shal go into it and pollute it.

23. Make a chapine: for the lande is full of the (c) judgement of blood, and the citie is full of execracion.

24. Wherefore I will bypng the most wicker of the heathen to take their houses in possession, I will make the pompe of the michtie to ceaste, and their (b) sanctuaries shalbe despeed.

25. When destrucion is come, they shall seek peace, but they shall have none.

26. One mischiefe shall solde another, and one rumour shall come after another: then shall they seeke a vision in byane at their profhe, the labe shall persue from the pleke, and comfplate from the auncientes.

27. The byng shall mourne, the prince shalbe clothed with desolation, and the handes of the people in the lande shalbe troubled: I will do unto them after their owne wages, according to their owne judgementes will I judge them: and they shall know that I am the Lord.
And it was in the 5th year, in the 11th month, the 8th day of the month, that the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

And behold, the glory of the Lord was there upon the cherubim, and he spake unto the man that stood before him among the cherubim, and he said unto him, Go, show the man of sin that he doth all these things.

2 And he stretched out the likeness of man unto me, and took me by the hand, and the spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven, and I beheld the glory of the Lord, and I fell upon my face.

3 And I heard a voice from the cherubim, saying, Wherefore art thou fallen from heaven, O son of the morning? and the great abomination that was done hath cast thee from thy place, and cast thee from the presence of the Lord.

4 And I said unto the man that stood before me, What shall these things mean? And he said unto me, Understand, O son of man, for there is a burden laid upon thee.

5 And he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

6 And I beheld the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

7 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

8 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

9 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

10 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

11 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

12 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

13 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

14 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

15 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

16 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

17 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

18 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

19 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

20 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

21 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

22 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

23 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

24 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.

25 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

26 And I saw the man of sin, and he said unto me, Go, show the man of sin, that he doth all these things, and he shall be shortened in hisiquiries and in his goings out, and in all his doings; and he shall be shortened in all his doings.
The destruction of the city. 4 They that shall be saved are marked. 5 I complain of the prophet for the destruction of the people.

1 And he cried also with a loud voice in mine ears, saying: Do not ye build the house of the LORD with ye childers' bones. 2 And behold, then came there men out of the streete of the uppere gate toward the north, and every man a slauughter weapon in his hand: There was one amongst them that had on hyrn, hyrn, hyrn, and a writer unkekehome by his lyde: these went in, and stood before the baflen aulter.

3 And the glaze of the LORD of Israel was gone from the Cherub wherupon it was, to the dooze of the house: and he called to the man that had the hyrn, hyrn, hyrn, and the writers unkekehome by his lyde,

4 And the LORD sayde unto hym, Go through the citie, even though hierusalem, and let a marke upon the foreheads of them that mourne, and are laxe for all the abominations that be done therein. 5 And to the other he sayde, That I might see, goe after hym through the citie, and write, let your eye spare none, neither haue ye any pitie: 6 Bioll and destroy both old men and young, maidens, children, and women:

But as for all those that have the marke upon them, see that ye touche them not, and begin at my sancturie. Then they began at the ancient men which were before the house.

7 And he sayde unto them, Depele ye the temple, fell the courtes with the slayne, then go your way foueth. So they went out, and five dovnne through the citie.

8 And when they had done the slauughter, and I yet escapd, I fell dovnne upon my face, and cryed sayng: Alas Lord God, I shut then then destroy all the house of Israel, in pollyzing out thy watch upon hierusalem; 9 Therefore said he unto me, The wickedness of the house of Israel and Juda is exceedyng great: so that the lande is full of blood, and the citie full of revolping from God: for they say, The LORD hath forisaken the earth, and the LORD leeth it not.

10 As touching me also, mine eye shall not spare them, neither shall I haue pitie: but I will renccoyme their wapes upon their heads.

11 And behold, the man that had the hyrn, hyrn, hyrn, and the writers unkekehome by his lyde, reported the matter, and sayde: As thou hast commaunded me, so haue I done.

The x. Chapter.

2 Of the man that toke holte burning coales out of the middle of the wheeles of the Cherubims. 3 I rehearse of the vision of the wheeles, of the beasts, and of the Cherubims.

1 And as I lookd, behold, the seruant that was abec the head of the Cherubims, as it were a Saphir stone made lyke the similitude of a thone, was scene over them. 2 Then sayde he to hym that had the hyrn, hyrn, hyrn, and sayde: Crepe in beuene the wheeles that are under the Cherub, and take thine hand full of holte coales out from beuene the Cherubims, and scatter them over the citie. And he creep in, that I myght see.

3 (And) the Cherubims stooke upon the ryght lyde of the house when the man went in, and the cloude sytted the inner court.

4 And the glaze of the LORD removed from the Cherubims, and came upon the dooze of the house: so that the temple was full of clouds, and the court was full of the shyn of the Lodes glize.

5 Desa the houde of the Cherubims Wings was hearde into the fore court, lyke as it had ben the boype of the alnigh
The prophecies

Eze. i.

Now when he had bid them that stood round about the man that was clothed in linen, saying, Take fire from the midst of the wheels which were under the Cherubims: he went, and stood by the wheels. Then one Cherub reached forth his hand from between the Cherubims unto the fire that was between the Cherubims, and took thereof, and gat it into the hand of him that had on the linen rampment: which took it, and went out. And under the wings of the Cherubims there appeared the likeness of a mans hande.

I took also, and beheld four wheels beside the Cherubims, one wheel by one Cherub, and another by another Cherub, and the wheels were to look upon after the fashion of the precious stone Chalcedons. As touching their appearance (they were all four of one fashion) as if one wheel had been another. When they went forth, they went by on their four sides, not turning back in their going: for which was the head of the first looked, after it they went, so that they turned not back in their going.

And their whole bodies, their breasts, their hands, and wings, and the wheels also were full of eyes round about the four wheels.

And to the wheels, he cried to them in my hearing, O wheel.

Every one of them had four faces, so that the face of the first was the face of a Cherub, and the face of the second the face of a man, and of the third the face of a lion, and of the fourth the face of an eagle.

And the Cherubims were lifted up: This is the beast that I sawe at the water of Chebar.

Now when the Cherubims went, the wheels went by them: and when the Cherubims lifted up their wings to mount up from the earth, the same wheels also turned not from beside them.

Shortly when they stood, these stood also, and when they were lifted up, the wheels lifted up the Cherubims and were turned: and the Cherubims went: and the wheels were turned beside them.

Then the glorious of the Lord departed from above the door of the temple, and remained upon the Cherubims.

And the Cherubims stricken with their wings, and lifted them up from the earth, so that I sawe when they went, the wheels beside them, and they stood at the door of the east gate of the house of the Lord, and the glorious of the Lord of Israel was upon them on lyre.

This is the [beast] I sawe under the Lord of Israel by the river of Chebar, and I perceived that it was the Cherubims.

Every one had four faces, and every one four wings, and under their wings the likeness of men's hands.

Touching the similitude of their countenances, they were the same countenances which I sawe at the river Chebar, and the same appearance: every one in his going went straights forwards.

The xj. Chapter.

Who they were that stood by the people of Israel,

I saw that the fire from the holy place,

The man that stood by the people.

Saying, It is not need, let build houses: this is the temple of the Lord, and we be the people.

Therefore that thou prophesie against them.
Therefore tell them, thus saith the
God: Although I smote them, saith the God, among the nations, yet will I be unto them as a little sanctuary in the landes where they shall come.

Tell them also, thus saith the God: I will gather you againe out of the nations, and bring you from the countrie where ye be scattered, and I will geue you the landes of Israel
againe.

And they shall come thither, and they shall take away all their idoles, and all their abominations from hence.

And I will bring you out of the mid-delt therof, and deliver you into the handes of strangers, and will execute judgements among you.

Ye shall fall by the sword, in the bod-ders of Israel: will I judge you, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lo\(\text{d}.\)

This citty shall not be your citty, nether shall ye be the citty therein: but in the borders of Israel will I pun-\(\text{t}h\) you.

That ye may knowe that I am the Lo\(\text{d}.\), in whiche commandements ye haue not walked, nor kept my lawes:
but have done after the customes of the heathens that ye resound about you.

When I prophesied, Phelshiah the sonne of Hananiah spake: then fell I downe upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, saying, As Lo\(\text{d}.\) saith, ye shall then hirely destroy all the remnants in Israel:

And so the worde of the Lo\(\text{d}.\) came hitme in this maner.

Thou sonne of man, the brethren (even the brethren, the men of thy kinred, and all the house of Israel, whiche are they) into whom the inhabitantes of Jerusalem haue said: With whome ye faire from the Lo\(\text{d}.\), for the landes given vs in possession.

16 Therefore tell them, thus saith the God: Although I smote them, saith the God, among the nations, yet will I be unto them as a little sanctuary in the landes where they shall come.

Tell them also, thus saith the God: I will gather you againe out of the nations, and bring you from the countrie where ye be scattered, and I will geue you the landes of Israel
againe.

And they shall come thither, and they shall take away all their idoles, and all their abominations from hence.

"And I will geue them one heart, and I will put a newe spirit within their bodis: that Strong heart will I take out of their bodie, and geue them a flesye heart.

That they may walke in my com-mandements, and doe nothing among them, that they may be my people, and I their God.

But to the heart of their idoles and their abominations their heart goeth, there waues will I byng upon their owne heads, saith the Lo\(\text{d}.\)

After this did the Cherubims fly by their wings and the wheelees besides them, and the glory of the God of Israel was upon them on hye.

So the glory of the Lo\(\text{d}.\) went by from the middele of the citty, and stood upon the mount of the citty towarde the east.

And the spirit went up me by, I thought me agayne to Chaldea to the captiuitie, in a vision by the spirit of God: then the vision that I had seene went by from me.

So I spake unto the captiues all the worde of the Lo\(\text{d}.\) which he had showed me.

yea (even) in their sight shalt thou go from thence to another place, ye shall adventure they will consider that they be a rebellious house.

4. Thou shalt buy odd things thine instruments as suffe to set with by the day time in their sight, and thou thy face shalt go sooth also at evening before their eyes, as they go sooth to set.

5. Digge through the wall in their sight, and carry out therby.

6. In their sight that thou bare upon thy shoulders, and carry it sooth in the darke: hide thy face, that thou see not the earth, for I have made thee a thrice thebe token unto the house of Israel.

7. And I did so as I was commanded, I bought sooth my suffe by day as the time of one that goeth into captivity and into the evening I digged through the wall with my haundes, and brought it sooth in the darke, and bare it upon my haundes in their sight.

8. And in the morning came the worde of the Lord unto me, saying:

9. Thou some of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, sayd unto thee, (What doest thou?)

10. Then tell them, thus saith the Lord God, This "burden toucheth the prince at hierusalem, and all the house of Israel that dwell among them.

11. Tell them, I am thy ribbe token, lyke as I have done, so shall it be done unto them, they shall go into bondage and captitvity.

12. The prince that is among them shall loose his shoulders in the darke and get him away, they shall break downe the wall to carry thyth by it: he shall cover his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes.

13. By net will I spreade out upon him, and he shall be caught in my net, and I will bring hym to Babylon in the lande of the Chaldees, which he shall not see, and yet shall he dye there.

14. As for all his helpers all his bandes that be about hym, I will slatter them towards all the bynde, and slawe out a vowe after them.

15. So when I have slattered them among the heathen and strowed them in the landes, they shall know that I am the Lord.

16. But I will leave a little number of the from the vowe, hunger, and pestilence, to tell all their abominations among the heathen where they come, that they may knowe howe that I am the Lord.

17. Moreover, the worde of the Lord came unto me, saying:

18. Thou some of man, with a fearfull trembling that thou eate thy bread, with inquietness a vowe shall thou drinke thy water.

19. And unto the people of the lande speake thou: Thus saith the Lord God to them that dwell in hierusalem, and to the lande of Israel: they shall eate their bread with sorrow, and drinke their water with desolation: pe the lande with the fruitful thereof halbe layde waste for the wickednesse of all them that dwell therein.

20. And the cities that no vide be well inhabited, halbe layde, and the lande desolate, that ye may knowe that I am the Lord.

21. Yet came the worde of the Lord unto me againe, saying:

22. Thou some of man, what maner of pourcebe is that which ye axe in the lande of Israel, saying: (The vowe are fraste in compping, fall vioeys vioeys.)

23. Tell them therefore, thus saith the Lord God: I will make that pourcebe to cease, and they shall no more be it as a pourcebe in Israel: but lay vioeys vioeys, and the vowe are at hande, and the effect of every vision.

24. There shall no vision be any more in hayne, neither any slattering humiliation with in the house of Israel:

25. For if the Lord speake it, and what so ever I shall speake, it shall be performed, and not be slarte in compping any more, yea euie in your vowe, O rebellious house, vioeys, I will speake the thing bying it to passe, faith the Lord God.

26. And the worde of the Lord came unto me, saying:

27. Behold how some of man, the house of Israel saith (on this maner) The vision that he seeth, it shall be many a day, by it come to passe: it is farre of yet the yrne that he propheticeth of.

28. Therefore say thus vioeys vioeys, thus saith the Lord God, Al my worde shall no more be delayed, like what I speake, that same shall come to passe, faith the Lord God.
of Ezechieli.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The words of the Lord God, which teach the people, and the counsels of their own hearts.

1. Therefore thus saith the Lord God: I will raise a howling wind to break out in my wrathfull displeasure, to that in mine anger there shall come a mightie howling of raine, and howlestone in my wrath to destroy it.

2. As for the wall that ye have daubed with untempered morter, I will break it down, and make it even with the ground, so that thefoundation thereof shall be discovered, and it shall fall: ye and ye your sulles shall perish in the muddes thereof, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

3. Thus shall I performe my wrath upon this wall, and upon them that have daubed it with (b) untempered morter, and then will I say unto you, The wall is gone, and the daubers of it.

4. Wherefore O thou sonne of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophesie out of their owne hearts, and prophesie against them;

5. And say, thus saith the Lord God: 00 be unto them that howle (b) pillows under all arme holes, and put thirches upon the heades of euery nation to hunt foules. Whil ye hunt the foules of my people, and (g) enue life to the foules that goe unto you;

6. And with ye pollute mee to my people for handfuls of barley, and for peeces of bread, to kip the foules of them that dye not, and promise (h) life to them that live not, in lyng to my people that hate(y) yees.

7. Wherefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will upon your pillows when I shall hunt the foules, to make them flee, and I will thee them from your armes, and I will thee them so that they flee and scatter among all flocks, and thine enemes shall bee driven out of their land.

8. Wherefore Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will upon your pillows when I shall hunt the foules, to make them flee, and I will thee them from your armes, and I will thee them in so many flocks that they shall not be able to make them to flee.

9. Therefore thus saith the Lord God: I will raise a howling wind to break out in my wrath full displeasure, to that in mine anger there shall come a mightie howling of rain, and howlestone in my wrath to destroy it.

10. And I will, when the wall is fallen, shall it not then be said unto you, Where is now your master that ye daubed it withall?

11. Therefore the word of the Lord came unto me, saying: Thou sonne of man, prophesie against those prophets of Israel which prophesie, and lay unto them that prophesie out of their owne *hearts, hear the word of the Lord.

12. Thus saith the Lord God, Wo be unto those foolish prophets that solde their owne spirit, I have seen nothing.

13. O Israel, thy prophets are lyke the fores in desert places.

14. For ye have not stand up in the gappes, nor made a hedges for the house of Israel, to stand in the battayle in the day of the Lord.

15. They have seen vanity and lying divination, saying: the Lord saith it, and the Lord hath not sent them, and they have made me hope that they would continue the word.

16. Have ye not seen vaine visions, and spoken lies prophesies, when ye say, the Lord saith, whereas I never spake it.

17. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye have spoken vanity, and have seen lies: therefore beholde I am against you, saith the Lord God:

18. If the handes that come upon the prophets that see vanities, and deuilies: they shall not be in the counsel of my people, nor written in the booke of the house of Israel, neither that they come in the land of Israel, that ye may know that I am the Lord God.

19. And that for because they have deceived my people, and told them of peace where no peace was: one setteth up by a wall, and they daube it with untimpered slay.

20. Therefore tell them which daube with untimpered morter, that it shall fall; for there shall come a great howling of rain, I will send howlestone to cause it to fall, and a great howling of woman shall break it.

21. And in, when the wall is fallen, shall it not then be said unto you, Where is now your master that ye daubed it withall?
22 Seeing that with your eyes you discomfort the heart of the righteous, who I have not comforted: again, solontheme as I encourage the hand of the wicked, so that he may not turn from his wicked way in pronouncing hym life:
23 Therefore shall ye see no more banacite, neither shall ye renew divinations, for I will deliver my people out of your hande, that ye may knowe hoide that I am the Lode.

The xiii. Chapter.

2 The Lode benth his woode to the people for their sinnes sake. 9 The deceivers of the woode bothe the Lode sometime decaede by false prophets, 24 A comite of them that fled into Babylon.

1 Here reflozed unto me retapyn the elders of Israel, and sate downe by me. 5 Then came the lyord of the Lode unto me, saying:

2 Thou some of man, these men have set by their idoles in their heerites, and put the stumbling blokke of iniquite before their face: shoude I then anwstere them at their request?

4 Therefore speake unto them, and lay unto them, thus saith the Lode God: Every man of the house of Israel that lecheth by his idoles in his heart, 6 put-eth the stumbling blokke of his iniquite before his face, and committeth to the prophete: vnto that man wyll I the Lode my selfe gene anwser by when he commeth according to the multitude of his idoles.

5 What the house of Israel may be sharad in their idole heerites, because they be cleane gone from me all of them thorowde their idoles.

6 Wherefore tell the house of Israel, thus saith the Lode God: Returne and come to returne from your idoles, and turne your faces from all your adhominations.

7 For every man, whether he be of the house of Israel, or a stranger that sojourneth in Israel, 8 Wherefore lecheth by his idoles in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blokke of his wickedness before his face, and committeth to a prophete: so to alue counsel at me through hym: vnto that man wyll I the Lode gene anwser by mine idole selfe.

8 I wyll set my face against that man, and wyll make hym to be an example for other, and wyll roote hym out of my people, that ye may knowe hoide that I am the Lode.

9 And if that prophete be decarmed when he teleseth a thing, then I the Lode my selfe have decarmed that prophete, and wyll strecheth out my hande upon him, to destroy him out of my people of Israel: 10 And they shalbe punished for their wickednesse, according to the time of hym that askeeth, shall the time of the prophete be:

11 That the house of Israel be led no more from me through errour, and be no more defiled in all their transgressions: that they may be my people, and I their God, faith the Lode God.

12 And the woode of the Lode came into me, saying:

13 Thou some of man, when the lande sinneth against me by committing a trespaese, I wyll strecheth out my hande upon it, and breake their stafe of bread, and fende dearthe upon them, to destroy man and beast forth of it.

14 And though his, and the, and the, these three men were among them: yet shal they in their righteousnesse deliuer but their idole foules, faith the Lode God.

15 If I byng no sonne beasts into the lande, and they spoppit it, and it be to desolate that no man may passe through it for beasts,

16 If these three men were also in the land: as truely as I live faith the Lode God, they shall haue neither sonnes nor daughters, but be onlie deliuered therin soules: as for the land, it shalbe whaft.

17 Or if I byng a lywoode upon this lande, and fay, lywoode go through the lande, so that I saye downe man and beast in,

18 And if these three men were therein: as truely as I live faith the Lode God, they shall deliuer neither sonnes nor daughters, but only be saue the soules.

19 If
22 Behold, there shall be a remnant saved therein, which the Lord shall bring forth of their sons and daughters, behold, they shall come forth unto you, and ye shall see their way and their enterprize, and ye shall be comforted concerning the ewl that I have brought upon Jerusalem; even concerning all that I have brought upon it.

23 They shall comfort you when ye shall see their way and enterprize: and ye shall know the haue that it is not without a cause that I have done all against Jerusalem as I spake, saith the Lord God.

The xv. Chapter.

Is the imposssible wood of the vine tree is cast into the fire, so saith he that Jerusalem shalbe burned.

1 The worde of the Lord came unto me, saying: Thou sonne of man, what commeth of the vine tree, more then of every other tree, of the wild vine torkke among other trees of the forest?

2 Do men take wood of it to make any worke withall? or will men take a pit of it to hang any beast theron?

3 Behold, it is cast in the fire to be burnt, the fire continueth both the ends of it, the middle of it is burnt: is it meete then for any worke?

4 Seeing then that it was meete for no worke being whole, muche lesse may there any thing be made of it when the fire hath consumed and burnt it.

5 And therefore thus saith the Lord: As the vine tree, that is among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire to be consumed: so will I give the inhabitaunties of Jerusalem.

6 And I will set my face against them, they shall go out from the fire, and yet the fire shall consume them: then shall ye know that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them.

7 And when I make the lande waste, because they have so sore offended, saith the Lord God.

The xvj. Chapter.

The prophete declareth the benefites of God towarde Jerusalem. Jerusalem is repoued of unhindnesse for her comination with idols, as he wittketh the wickednesse of other people. in comparision of the stines of Jerusalem. The cause of the abominations into which the Sodonites fell. Mercy is promised to the repentant.

1 Gave the word of the Lord came unto me, saying: Thou sonne of man, heve Jerusalem their abominations, and say, Thus saith the Lord God unto Jerusalem: thy habitation and thine is of the lande of Chanaan, thy father was an Amorrie, thy mother an Amurrie.

neous pleasant beauty, thy bestes arc fashioned, thy hue is goodly gro-ven, whereas thou wast naked & bare.

Hoyle when I went by thee and looked upon thee, behold, thy tyne was come, yea (even) the time to woo thee:

then spread I my clothes over thee to cover thine dishonesty, yea I made an other unto thee, and contracted my life with thee (faith the Lord God) and so thou becamest myne owne.

Then washed I thee with water, and purged thy blood from thee, and I announced thee with oyle.

I clothed thee with braided hoyle, and thou thee with badgers skin, and I gilded thee about with fine linnen, and covered thee with thy hue.

I decked thee with costly apparel,
I put balesets upon thy hands, a chaine about thy necke.

And I put a frontlet upon thy face, and earringes upon thyne ears, and a beauntfull trebble upon thyne head.

Thus wast thou deckt with golde and silver, and thy rayment was of fine linen, and of sikle, and of brodred woake:
thou diddeste fine froure, bonye and oyle, marveous beautifull wast thou, and thou didst lucky prosper into a kingsdome.

And thy name was spread amongst the heathen for thy beautie: for it was perfite through thy beautie which I put upon thee, faith the Lord God.

But thou hast put thy confidence in thyne owne beautie, and played the harlot because of thy renowne, and hast polved out thy fomutations with every one that went by, thou thou hast.

Thou didst take thy garnements, and decidely thy place with divers colours, and played the harlot therupon, they came not, and it shall not be.

The goodly jewels which I gave thee of nine owne golde and silver, harlot hast thou taken and made thee images therof, and committeth whoredome with thee.

Thy broided garnements hast thou taken, and decked them therewith myne oyle and intents hast thou set before them.

By meate which I gave thee, as fine flource, oyle and hony to feede the withall, that hast thou set before them for a sweete favour: and thus it was faith the Lord God.

Thou hast taken thyne owne honnes and daughters whom thou hast bego-ten unto, and these hast thou offered up unto them to be (b) devoted: is this but a small whoridome of thyne:

And thou hastayne my typhoon and delucred them, to cause them to passe (through the fire) for them.

And yet in all thyne abominations and whoridomes, thou hast not remem-bred the days of thy youth, holde naked and bare thou wast at that tyne, and wast defiled in thyne owne blood.

After all these thy wickednesse,(wo woo unto thee, faith the Lord Goed.)

Thou hast buyli unto thee an hye place, and hastmade thee an hye place in every streete.

Thou hast buyli thyne hye place at every “head of the way, thou hast made thy beautie to be abhored, thou hast opened thy feete to every one that came by, and multiplied thy whor-dome.

Thou hast committed fornication with the (b) Egyptians, thy neighbours which were great in fether, and thus hast thou increased thyne Whoridome to anger me.

Behold, I did stretch out my hand over thee, and dyd ministr thy sized of foode, and delucred thee over into the byplies of them that hate thee, even the daughters of the Philistines, which are ashamed of thyne abominable ways.

Thou hast played the whoole also with the Asyrians, because thou wast inatable: yea thou hast (I say) with them played the harlot, and yet hast thou not inough.

Thou hast thou furthermore multiplied thy fornication from the land of Chanaan unto the Chaldees, and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

Holde weake is thyne heart faith the Lord Goed, feeng thou doest all these workes of a presumptions whiche woman?

Buylde thyne hye places at the head of every way, and makest thy hye places in every streete: thou hast not ben as another whoke that holdest some

But as a wife that believeth her husband, and taketh other in chaste of her husband.

Gistles are given to all other whorses: but thou givest rewardes unto all thy louses, rewardes them to come unto thee on every side for thy fornication.

It is come to passe with thee in thy whose doones contrary to the diet of other women, pea there hath no suche fornication ben committed after thee: seeing that thou givest gistles unto other, and no reward is given thee, therefore thou art contrary.

Therefore hear the word of the Lord, O thou harlot.

Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast "poulter" on thy brest, and discovered thy fieses and stolen thy fornications with thy louses, and with all the vols of thy abominations, and in the blood of thy children whom thou hast given them.

Behold therefore, I will gather together all thy (a) louses with whom thou hast taken pleasure, pea and all them whom thou hast loved, and every one that thou hast; I will [I ap] gather them together rounde about against thee, and will discover thy Name before them, that they may see all thy fiesenes.

Moreover, (b) I will smite thee as a breaker of webroche, and a muttherer, and recompence thee thyne owne blood in whith and geleton.

I will gene thee over into their hands, and they shall destroy thyse the place, and breake downe thy syke places, they shall stripe thee also out of thy clothes: thy flesse rebelles shall they take from thee, and so leave thee naked and bare.

Pea they shall Buying a company upon thee, which shall sloe thee with stones, and shalt thee through with their bowdes.

They shall "burne vp thy houses with fire, and puttie thee in the sight of many women: thus will I make thee ceaste from playing the harlot, to that thou shalt give out no more rewardes.

So will I make my wrath towarde thee to rest, and my refulse shall depart from thee, and I will ceaste, and be angry no more.

Seing thou remembrest not the payes of thy youth, but hast feeted me in all these things: behold therefore, I will bring thyne owne payes vpun thy head saith the Lord God, so that thou shalt not commit any more untruthes upon all thyne abominations.

44 Behold, all they that be common provoeres, shall die this provoer also against thee, saying: Such a "mother, such a daughter.

45 Thou art even thy mothers owne daughter, that hath cast of her husband and her children: pea thou art the sire of thy (b) sisters, which forsoke their husbands: their children: pirs mother is an hitte, thys pines father an anointe.

46 Thyne eldest sister is Samaria, he and her (b) daughters that dwell upon thy left hande: but thy younger sister that dwelleth on thy right hande is Sodoma and her daughters.

47 Pe hath not walked after their payes, nor done after their abominations, as a little and a little: but in all thy payes thou hast ben more corrupt then they.

48 As truly as I live, sayth the Lord God, Sodoma thy sister with her daughters, have not done as thou hast done and thy daughters.

49 Behold, the names of thy sister Sodoma were these: (a) Pride, fulness of meate, and abundance of idleness, these things had she and her daughters: besides that, they strengthened not the hande of the poore and heedle.

50 But they were hauto, and committed abomination before me, therefore I took them away as I bowed good.

51 Neither hath (b) Samaria done halfe of thy payes, pea thou hast exceeded them in thyne abominations, and hath (b) justified thy sisters in all thyne abominations whiche thou hast done.

52 Therefore thou which didst condemn thy sister, beare thyne owne blame: for thyne owne offences that thou hast committed more abominable then they dyd, which in deede are more righteous then thou art, be thou (I ap) ashamed, and bare the shamefull rebuke, seeing that thou hast justified the sisters.

53 Therefore I will bring agayn to their captuities, the captuities of Sodoma and her daughters, the captuities of Samaria and her daughters, and the captuities of thy captuities among (b) them, even the children of whosoever they be.

54 That...
The prophecie

54. That thou mayest take thyne obvne confusion upon thee, and be ashamed of all that thou hast done, in that thou hast (2) comforted them.

55. And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall returne to their former state, Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former state, when thou and thy daughters shall return to thy former state.

56. For thy sister Sodom was not (1) heard by thy report in the day of thy pride.

57. Before thy wickednesse was (3) discovered, according to the tyne of the reproch of the daughters of Aram, and all the daughters of the Philistines round about her, which she despised on all sides.

58. Thou shalt have thy wickednesse and thyne abomination, saith the Lord.

59. For thus faith the Lord God, I might by right deale with thee as thou hast done, which hast despoiled the (4) other in breaking the covenante.

60. Nevertheless, I will remember my covenante with thee in the days of thy youth, and I will establish thee into the everlasting covenante.

61. Then shalt thou remember thy ways, and be ashamed when thou hast receaue thy (5) sister, both thy eldier and thy younger: and I will gene them into thee for daughters, but not by the covenant.

62. And I will establish my covenante with thee, that thou mayest know that I am the Lord.

63. That thou mayest chynke upon it, and be (6) ashamed, and never open thy mouth any more for shame of thy fierce, when I am pastiue toward thee for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord God.

The xviij. Chapte.

The parable of the two Eagles.

1. The vowe of the Lord came into me, saying: Thou sonne of man, put foorth a parable, and speake a proverbe into the house of Israel.

2. And say, Thus saith the Lord God: There came a great (8) Eagle, with great wings, sea with a mighty long body, and full of feathers of divers colours, upon the mount of Libanus, and roke the hyest boughes of a Cedartree.

3. And blake of the top of his thigges, and carped it into the lande of (6) marchantes, and set it in a citie of marchantes.

4. He tolke also of the (6) seede of the land, and planted it in a fruitful grounde, he brought it into great waters, and let it in an open trench.

5. Then did it growe, and was (7) spreading vine, but (6) lowe of nature, Whose branches turned towards it, and the rootes thereof, and it brought forth branches, and rootes of goodly boughes.

6. But there was another (7) Eagle, a great one, which had great wynges and many fetheres: and beholde, the rootes of this vine turned towards it, and spread out her boughes towards it, that she might water it by the trenches of her plantation.

7. It was planted upon a good soyle be (6) side great waters, so that it should have brought out boughes, great fruit, and bome ben a goodly vine.

8. Speak thou therefore, thus saith the Lord God: Shall this vine prosper shall he not pull by the rootes thereof, and destroy the fruite thereof, and caule them to drye: all the leaves of her bud shall wither without great power, of many people, to plucke it by the rootes thereof.

9. Beholde, it was planted: Shall it prosper therefore: Shall it not be dryed up and withered: When the (6) east winde shall touche it, it shall wither in the trenches where it greene.

10. Moreover, the voice of the Lord came into me, saying:

11. Speak now to the rebellious house, Know ye not what these things do signify? Tell them, behold, the king of Babylon is come to teerulent, and hath taken the (6) king thereof, and the princes thereof, and hath led them with him to Babylon.

12. He take of the wynges seede, and made a course.
14. That the lyngdom might be holden in subjection, and not lift by it selfe, but keep the covenant, and stand to it.

15. But he rebelled against hym, and lent his embassadors into Egypt, that he might have holpse and nurses people: Should he proffer: shall he escape that both suche things: or shall he breake the covenant and escape free?

16. As truly as I liue faith the Lord God, he shall dye at Babylon in the place where the lyng dwelleth that made hym kyng, whole other he hath defiled, and whose covenant he hath broken.

17. Neither shall Pharao with his great hoast and multitude of people, maintayne hym in the Warre, when they have calf by monstes, and burne a fork to despayr many persons.

18. For seeing he hath defiled the other and broken the covenant, (whereas he yet gave his hand thereupon) and done all these things, he shall not escape.

19. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As truly as I liue I will bring nine other that he hath defiled, and my covenant that he hath broken, upon his owne head.

20. I will spreade my net upon hym, and he shall be caught in my net: and I will bring hym to Babylon, and enter into judgement with him there, for the trespaše whiche he hath committed against me.

21. As for those that sée from hym, with all his hoast, they shalbe slayne with the lynde, and the residue shalbe scattered towards all the Wides: and ye shall knoue that the Lord have spoken it.

22. Thus saith the Lord God, I will also take of the top of this lyne Cedare, and will set it, and cut of the top of the tender plant thereof, and will plant it upon an hie byll and a great.

23. ... upon the hie byll of Israel Will I plant it, that it may byng fourth bowes, and the fruit thereupon, and be an excellent Cedare: and under it shall remaine all bydes, and every foole shall remaine under the shadowe of the beantyes thereof.

24. And all the trees of the field shall knowe that I the Lord have brought downe the lyne tree, and eftablished the lowe tree, that I have dyed by the greene tree, and made the dyke tree to floshke, [even] I the Lord that spake it, have also brought it to passe.

The xvii. Chapter.

4 He sheweth that every man shall heare his owne name. 22 To him that amendeth, is satisfaction promised. 4 Death is prophesied to the righteous which turneth backe from the right way.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13

The word of the Lord came unto me, saying:

1. What meane ye by this common phrase, which ye use in the lande of Israel, sauing: The fathers haue eaten holw grapes, and the childebrs teeth are set on edge:

2. As truly as I liue faith the Lord God, ye shall be this hyweare no more in Israel.

3. Behold, all soules are mine, lyke as the soule of the father is mine, so is the soule of the sonne mine also: the soule that sinneth shall dye it selfe.

5. But if a man be lust, and doeth which is lawfull and right:

6. He hath not eaten upon the hilles, he hath not lift his eyes to the doles of the house of Israel, neither hath dened his neighbours lyke, neither hath come neare a woman removed:

7. Neither hath oppressed any man, but hath restored to the better his pledge:

8. And hath not given foorth upon blure, neither taken any encrease, he hath withdraue his hande from iniquitie, and hath executed true judgement betwenee man and man:

9. And hath walked in my statutes, and kept my commandements to deal truely: this is a righteous man, he shall surely liue, saith the Lord God.
The prophecie

10 If he nowe get a sonne that is a robber, a thefder of blood, and do any one of these things:

11 Though he do not all these things, but either hath eaten upon the hilles, or defiled his neighbours wyfe:

12 Or hath opprest the poore and needy, or spoyled by violence, or hath not refused the pledge, or hath lift up his eyes into the idols, or hath committed abomination:

13 Or hath gien fourth upon blure, or taken encreas: Shall this man live: he shall not live: Seeing he hath done all these abominations he shall die the death, his blood shall bope upon him.

14: Howe if this man get a sonne also, that seeth all his fathers sinnes which he hath done, and seareth, neither doth budge live:

15 [So much] he hath not eaten upon the hilles, he hath not lift up his eyes to the idols of the houfe of Israel, nor defiled his neighbours wyfe:

16 Neither hath opprest any, nor hath withheld the pledge, neither hath spoiled by violence: but hath gien his head to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment:

17 Neither hath withdrawn his hande from the afflicted, nor receaued blure nor encreas, [but] hath executed my judgments, and walked in my statutes: this man shall not dye in his fathers time, but shall live without fayle.

18 As for his father, because he hath cruelly opprest and spoyled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, he be deeth in his owne time.

19 And yet fay ye, wherefore then should not this sonne bear his fathers sinne: Because the sonne hath done judgment and righteousnesse, he hath keap all my statutes and done them: therefore shall he live in deed.

20 The same soule that finneth shall dye, the sonne shall not bear the fathers sinne: Because the sonne hath done judgment and righteousnesse, he hath kept al my statutes and done them: therefore shall he live in deed.

21 But if the vegodly wyll turne away from all his sinnes that he hath done, and kepe all my statutes, and do the thing that is judgemen and right, doubtlesse he shall live and not dye.

22 As for all his sinnes that he dyed before they shall not be mentioned but hym: but in his righteousness he that hath done, he shall live.

23 For where I any pleasure in the death of a sinne fath the Lord God shall he not dye if he returne from his wypes:

24 Agayne, if the righteous turne from his righteousnesse, and do iniquite, and shall do according to all the abomination that the wicked man deth: shall he live: All the righteousnesse that he hath done shall not be remembered, but in his transgression that he hath committed, in his time that he hath sinned, in them he shall dye.

25 And ye shall say, the way of the Lord is not indifferent. Heare therefore ye house of Israel, is not my way equall: or are not your wypes rather unequall:

26 When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousnesse, and committed iniquite, and dieth in the same: in his iniquite which he hath committed shall he dye.

27 Agayne, when the wicked turneth away from his wickednesse that he hath done, and doth judgement and right, he shall save his soule alue.

28 Because he seeth, and turneth away from all his iniquite that he hath committed, he shall surely live, and not dye.

29 And yet faith the house of Israel, the way of the Lord is not equall. Are my wypes unequall? O ye house of Israel: are not your wypes rather unequall:

30 Therefore I wyll judge you, every man according to his wypes: O ye house of Israel faith the Lord: returne and bying your sinnes agayne from all your wickednesse, so iniquite shall not be your destruction.

31 Cast away from you all your trangressions whereby ye have trangressed, and make you a newe heart and a newe spicte: for why wyll ye dye O ye house of Israel?

32 Seeing I have no pleasure in the death of hym that dyeth, faith the Lord God bying agayne your sinnes then, and ye shall lyve.

The xix. Chapter.

1. The captivity of Jehohas and Jehohakim is signified by the lions' whelps, and by the lion. So he stretch out the prospect of the site of Jerusalem that is past, and the miseries thereof that is present.

2. You also take by a lamentation for the princes of Israel. And say: Wherefore lay thy mother that lonneth among the lions: the nostrils her young ones among the lions whelps.

3. One of her whelps she bought up, and it became a lion, it learned to catch the prey and devour men, and to beast the题目.

4. The heathen heard of him, and caught him in their snares, and brought him into the land of Egypt. And when the fable that she had waited and her hope was lost, the toke another of her whelps and made a lion of him.

5. Which went among the lions, and became a fierce lion, learned to catch the prey, and devour men.

6. He destroyed their palaces and made their cities waste, insomuch that the whole land and every thing therein were utterly desolate through the boye of his roaring.

7. Then let the heathen together on every side of the country against him, lay their nets for him, and take him in their pit.

8. So they put him in prison in chains, and brought him to the king of Babylon: they put him in holds, that his voice should be no more be heard upon the mountaynes of Israel.

9. As for thy mother, she is like a vine in thy blood, planted by the waters: she brought forth fruit and branches by the abundant waters.

10. And she had strong rodde for the scepters of them that bare rule, and her nature was rooted on yre among the branches, as she appeared in her height with the multitude of her branches.

11. But she was plucked by Warth, cast out upon the ground, the east whereby dyed by her fruite her branches were broken of Withered, as for the rodde of her strength, the fire consumed them.

12. And now she is planted in the wilder, in a dry and thistle ground.

13. And there is a fire gone out of the rodde of her branches, it hath devoured her fruite, so that she hath no strong rodde for a scepter to rule: This is a lamentation, and halfe for a lamentation.

The xx. Chapter.

2. Then came the word of the Lord unto me, saying: Thou sonne of man, speake unto the elders of Israel, and laye to them, thus saith the Lord God: Are ye come to enquire of me? As truly as I live I will not be sought of you, saith the Lord God.

3. Wilt thou not judge them some of man, wILT thou not judge them? causeth them to understand the abominations of their fathers.

4. And tell them, thus saith the Lord God: In the day when I chose Israel, and lifted up mine hande upon the seale of the house of Jacob, and was known unto them in the lande of Egypt, yea when I lifted up mine hande over them, and spake, I am the Lord your God:

5. Even in the day that I lifted up mine hande unto them, bying them out of the lande of Egypt into a lande that I had providst for them, which floweth with milk and honey, and is pleasaunt among all other landes:

(1) Deutereon. 28. 58. An and 35. 29. [In the day whin which I chose Israel, and lifted up mine hande unto them, bying them out of the lande of Egypt into a lande that I had providst for them, which floweth with milk and honey, and is pleasaunt among all other landes.]
7 The Lord said unto them, Cast away every man the abominations of his eyes, and be not ye servants unto the idols of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, and would not hearken unto me, they did not cast away the abominations of the heathen that were before them, neither did they abstain from my judgments; then I caused my judgments to fall upon them, and accomplishe my wrath upon them, even in the midst of the land of Egypt.

9 And I sought for my names sake that it should not be polluted before the heathen among whom they were, to whom I was manifestly known, breaching them forth of the land of Egypt.

10 And when I had caused them to go out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderness;

11 I gave them my statutes, and shewed them my judgements: Which whoso doeth, shall live in them.

12 I spake also unto my Sabbaths, to be a token between me and them, and thereby to shew that I am the Lord, which hallowed them.

13 And yet the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness; they would not walk in my statutes, but cast aside my judgments and broken my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers' idols.

14 And I sought for my names sake, lest it should be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them out.

15 Yet neverthelesse I lifted up my hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would not bring them into the land which I gave them, that flowed with milk and honey, and is a pleasure of all lands:

16 And that because they cast away my judgments and walked not in my statutes: but have defiled my Sabbaths; for their heart was gone after their idols.

17 Neverthelesse mine eye spared them, that I would not destroy them, no; consume them in the wilderness.

18 Moreover, I spake unto their sons in the wilderness, walk not in the statutes of your fathers, hepe not their judgements, and desile not your felves with their idols.

19 I am the Lord your God, walk in my statutes, hepe my judgements.

20 Hallofe my Sabbaths, for they are a token between me and you: that ye may know howe that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithstanding, their sons rebelled against me also, they walked not in my statutes, they kept not my judgments to fulfillli them, which he that doth shall live in them, they prophaned my Sabbath bapes:

22 And I spake also unto my Sabbaths, to be a token between me and them, and thereby to shew that I am the Lord, which hallowed them.

23 I lift up my hand to them also in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the heathen, and strafe them among the nations:

24 Because they had not kept my judgments, but cast aside my statutes and broken my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after their fathers' idols.

25 Wherefore I spake also statutes that were not good, and judgements wherein they shouold not lye.

26 And I defiled them in their own giiftes, in that they caused all that popieth the sowbe to pastre, that I might destroy them, that they might knowe howe that I am the Lord.

27 Therefore spoke unto the house of Israel thou sonne of man, and say that ye let them come in to them, Thus saith the Lord God: yet in this also your fathers have blasphemed me, and grevously transgressed against me:

28 For after I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted up my hand to give it unto them, when they sowed every seed, and all the trees, they offered there their facrifices, there they offered their offering of anger, there also they made their sweete sacrifices, and poured out there wine offerings.

29 And I spake unto them, what is that hye place whereunto ye redee and the name of it is called, Baanah unto this day.
Therefore speake unto the house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God, Are ye not defiled in the blood of your fathers, and commit ye not whoredom after their abominations?
For when ye offer your gifts, ye make your sons to pass through the fire, you are polluted with all your idols unto this day: shall I be pleased with you when I am afflicted, O house of Israel? As I hate the house of Israel, I will not be pleased of you.
And [that which] commeth into your mouth shall not be at all, which ye say, we will be as the Gentiles, as the kine- redes of countries, to serve wood and stone.
As truly as I hate the house of Israel, I will utterly destroy you with a mighty hand, with a stretched out arm, and with indignation poured out upon you.
And I will bring you from the people, and gather you out of the countries wherein ye are scattered, with a mighty hand, with a stretched out arm, and with indignation poured out.
And I will bring you into the wilderness of Egypt: to hate I please with you also, saith the Lord God.
I will cause you to pass under the rod, and I will hate you into the bond of the covenant.
And I will purge out of you the rebels, and them that transgress against me, and bring them out of the land of their habitation: for, as the land of Israel they shall not come in it, that ye may know that I am the Lord.
As for you O house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God, Go you and serve every man his idols, being that ye obey not me: and pollute no more my holy name with your gifts and your idols.
For upon my holy land, even upon the land of Israel shall the Lord God, that all the house of Israel, and all that is in the land worship me: and in the same place will I accept them, and there will I require your heave offerings, and the firstlings of your oblations, with all your holy things.
If I will accept your sweet savour, when I bring you from the nations, and gather you together out of the lands wherein ye have been scattered, that I may be hallowed in you before the heathen.
And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I bring you into the land of Israel, into the land for which I lifted up my hand to give it unto your fathers.
There shall ye call to remembrance all your abominations, and all your ways wherein ye have been defiled, and ye shall be cut off in your own sight for all your wickedness that ye have done.
And ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I deal with you for my names sake, and not after your wicked ways, nor according to your corrupt ways, O ye house of Israel, saith the Lord God.
Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying:
Thou son of man, set thy face toward the way of Themanah, and drop thy way toward the south, and prophesy toward the forest of the south field.
And lay to the forest of the south, hear the word of the Lord, thus saith the Lord God; Behold I will kindle a fire in the midst thereof, that shall consume the greene trees, and all the dry wood therein, and every fume from the south to the north shall burn therein.
And all the fume thereof shall be, that I the Lord have kindled it, and it shall not be quenched.
Then say I, Ah Lord God, they lay of me, Dost not he speak parables?
The prophecies of the Lord, that is to say, destruction to the city of Jerusalem. 23 He foretold the fall of king Zedekiah. 24 He is commanded to prophesy the destruction of the children of Ammon. 25 After the slaughter of other, at the last the Lord threatened death into the hatchdandofisonly them.

1. The Word of the Lord came unto me, saying:

Thou son of man, set thy face toward Jerusalem, and (b) prophesy toward the holy places, and prophesy against the land of Israel.

2. Say to the land of Israel, thus saith the Lord: Behold I am against thee, and will draw my sword out of the sheath, and cut off from thee both the righteous and the wicked.

3. Seeing then that I will cut off from thee both the righteous and the wicked: therefore shall my sword go out of his sheath against all flesh from the south to the north.

4. That all flesh may know that I the Lord have drawn my sword out of the sheath, and it shall not be put in agane.

5. Wherefore O thou son of man, (c) break up thy loynes, mourn bitterly in their presence.

6. And if they lay upon thee, wherefore mournest thou? Then tell them, for the things that concerneth all hearts shall melt, all hands shall be letten down, all loynes shall be loosed, all tongues shall be loosed, and all knees shall go as water: behold it concerneth, and shall be brought to passe, saith the Lord God.

7. Againe, the Word of the Lord came unto me, saying:

Thou son of man, prophesie and speake, thus saith the Lord God, Speake, the Word that is sharpened and well furished.

8. Sharpened is it to make a great slaughter, and furished that it may glister: Shall we then make mirth? It concerneth the Rodde of my hand(s) and all other trees.

9. He hath given it to be furished, to holde it in the hande: this Word is sharpened, and furished, to geue into the hands of the nation.

10. Crye and holde some of man, for it committeth upon my people (d) committeth upon all the princes of Israel: the terror of the Word shall fall upon my people. I unite therefore thou upon thy thygh.

11. Because it is a trial: and what if it continue the sword: It shall no more fall against the Lord.

12. Prophesy thou some of man, I smite thy handes together, set the Word be double thinke, (euen) the Word of the great slaughter, entryng into their paitie chaunbers.

13. To make them faynt at the heartes, and to multiply their sailes, in all their gates, have I given the terror of the Word: Al it is made bright, and fled for the slaughter.

14. Get thee (m) one way or other, either upon the right saile or upon the lef, Wherether thou the sword turneth.

15. I will smite my handes together alfo, and make my wrathfull indignation to rest: euen I the Lord have spake it.

16. The Word of the Lord came yet once more unto me, saying:

Thou son of man, apoynt thee two wayes, that the Word of the king of Babylon may come: Both these wayes shall go out of one lande, and choose thee a place, at the head of the two wayes choose it.

17. Appoynt a way that the Word may come towarde Babadath of the Ammonites, and towarde the land of Israel.

18. For the king of Babylon shewed at the parting of the wayes, at the head of the two wayes, consouling by dissimulation, he made his arrondes bright, confuted with images, and took in the utter.

19. Deceit of the king of Babylon shewed at the parting of the wayes, at the head of the two wayes, consouling by dissimulation, he made his arrondes bright, confuted with images, and took in the utter.

20. And it shall holde them by a false dissimulation in their sight, for the others made it upon them: but (f) he will call to remembrance their iniquitie, to the intent of Ezechiel.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye have made your iniquity to be remembered in iniquities, and so that in all your works your sires' names should appear, because ye are come to remembrance, ye shall be taken by the hand.

O thou shamefull wicked prince of Israel, whose day is come, even when wickedness shall have an end.

Thus saith the Lord God, I will take away all the Diadem, and put of the erodivin: this shall no more the same, I will eract the humble, and abase him that is high.

O ye eredovens, you eredovens, you eredoven will I put it, and it shall not be, but ye come to whom the judgement belongeth, and to whom I have given it.

And thou Prome of man, prome and speake, Thus saith the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blashome, speake thou: The word, the word is baken forth to slaugther, and fulfilled to consume because of the glitttering:

While ye see with the eye, and denie a lie unto thee, to put thee With the neckes of the wicked that be slayne, whose day is come when their iniquity shall have an end.

Shoulde I cause it to returne into his heart: In the place where thou wast created, in the lande of thine habitation will I Judge thee:

And I will polvere nine indignation upon thee, and will blowe upon thee in the fire of my wrath, and deliver thee into the handes of desperate people, into which are skilfull to destroy.

Thou shalt see the fire, and thou blood halfe shed in the lande: thou shalt be put out of remembrance, for I the Lord have spokent it.

The xxii. Chapter.

The word of the Lord against Hierusalem for manslaughter, and denying due honour to their fathers and mothers, and other wickednesse. 2 Of the wicked doctrine of the false prophets and priests, and of their unprofitable covetousnesse. 3 The strian of rulers. 4 The wickednesse of the people.

Therefore the word of the Lord came unto me, and saide,

Thou sonne of man, will thou not judge this bloody city, will thou not shed her all her abomination?

And tell them, thus saith the Lord God, The citie shedeth blood in the midst of it, that her blood may come, and make all the idols of it agarris her felles, to delite her felles.

Thou hast made thy selfe gaitte in the blood that thou hast shed, and despiled the idols which thou hast made: thou hast caused thy days to daudle yce, and made the pyne of thy yeres to come: therefore will I make thee a reproche among the heathen, and to be a mocking in all landes.

Whether be yce or farce from thee, they shall laugh thee to scorn, thou that hast gotten thee to soule a name, and art full of trouble.

Beholde the rulers of Israel, every one in thee was redy to his power to shed blood.

In thee haue they despised father and mother, in thee haue they opprest the stranger, in thee haue they herded the widow and the fatherlesse.

Thou hast despised my holy thinges, and desisted my Sabbathes.

Take tellers are there in thee to shed blood, in thee are such as eate upon the hyles, and in thee they commit abomination.

In thee they discovered their fathers shane, in thee they haue humbled her that was set apart for pollution.

Every man hath dealt shamefully with his neighbours lyfe, and abominably defiled his daughter in lawe, in the bath every man forord his owne sister, even his fathers daughter.

Bea giftes have been receaied in thee to shed blood, thou hast taken blure and encreafe, thou hast opprest thy neighbours by extortion, and forgotten me, saith the Lord God.

Beholde I have writen my handes upon thy countenans that thou hast blased, and upon the blood which hath ben shed in thee.

(2) Though the Israelites would not be true that thou, to wit, the wicked Judah: come upon them, and let them that the prophets of the north, the sacharites, that brought them first come as stretched, that they might see though they were already upon their neckes.
The prophecy

14. As thy heart be able to endure, or may thy hands be strengthened in the days that I have to do with thee: Even I the Lord that speak it, will bring it to pass.

15. I will scatter them among the heathen, I will divide them among the nations, and they will know that I am the Lord.

16. For thou shalt be thine own inheritance in the sight of the heathen, and thou shalt cause thine iniquity to cease out of thee.

17. And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying:

18. Thou son of man, the house of Israel is unto me as dross: all they are base, time, and lead, in the midst of the furnace, even dross of silver are they.

19. Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, Fossilim as ye all are turned into dross, therefore behold I will by you together into Hiersusalem.

20. Lyke as they gather silver, base, iron, time, and lead, into the midst of the furnace, and the fire is bloudy there under to melt them: even so I will gather you in mine anger in my wrath, and let you remain there (there) and cause you to melt.

21. I will by you together, and blot the fire of my wrath upon you, and ye shall be molten in the midst thereof.

22. Lyke as the silver is molten in the furnace, so shall ye also be molten therein, that ye may know this house that I the Lord have spoken thereof.

23. And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying:

24. Thou son of man, tell them, Thou art an uncleane land, which is not (b) rapped upon in the day of wrath.

25. There is a (c) conspiracie of her prophets in the midst thereof: as a young woman raunching her paps, they decryd her, there she is taken the rich and precious thinges, they have made her many widows in the midst thereof.

26. Her priests have broken my law, and defiled my holy thinges, they put no difference between the holy and unholy, neither discern they betwixt the clean and unclean: they turne their eyes from my Sabbatthes, and I am abased among them.

27. Thy rulers in there are lyke booleses raunching the pyre, to their blood, and deforyd soules, for their owne cautious lucere.

28. As for her (c) prophete, they daubed with untempered mortar, they set vaneities, and dionne eyes by them saying, The Lord saith that the Lord hath not spoken.

29. The people in the landes bed wicked extention and robbery, they bere the poore and needy, and oppresse the stranger against right.

30. And I sought among them, for a man that would make by the hedge, and set hym selfe in the gap before me in the landes behalfe, that I should not destroy it: but I could not finde none.

31. Therefore have I poind out my cruel displeasure upon them, and confounded them in the fire of my wrath: their owne wayes wyll I recompence upon their heads, faith the Lord God.

The xxiii. Chapter.

4. Of the lonicication that is to say, of the idolatrie of Samaria and Hierusalem, under the name of Aholah and Aholibah. 11. In comparision of Samaria, he beweth that the lonicication of Hierusalem is the slittcher. 32. The destruction of Hierusalem is prophesied. 35. The adulterers of both the whores is founde out. 47. Their destruction.

The worde of the Lord came unto me, saying:

1. Thou son of man, there were two women the daughters of one mother.

2. And they committted lonicication in (b) Egypt, they played the harlottes in their youth: there were their headlesse pressed, and there they busiled the teates of their virginitie.

3. The names of them (were) Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister, and they were mine, and they bare some and daughters: thus were their names, Samaria is Aholah, and Hierusalem Aholibah.

5. Aholah played 5 harlot when she was mine, and she was set on fire with her lovers the Assyrians their neighbours:

6. Which were clothed with blye sicke [both] captaynes and princes, they were all pleasant young men, and hospitable rypping upon hospes.

7. Thus she committted her wholeone with them [being] all chosen men of Ashtur, of Ezechiel.

3. They also spake against the gods of Egypt, saying, When they were new, and had not done that which was hateful in mine sight, nor provoked me unto evil, I fed them in peace: but when they found no restraint, they opened their mouths wide against me.

9. I delivered her into the hands of her lovers; even to the hands of the Assyrians upon whom she was delivered: they bewailed her thus: 'Thou hast executed judgment upon me, that great judgment; and thou hast condemned me.'

14. But the encreased my indignation upon Pharaoh: for when the false men paid tribute upon the ball, the images of the Chaldees paid tribute vermicion,

15. And guided with girdles upon their loins, and with dyed attire upon their heads, looking all like princes, after the manner of the Babylonians in Chaldea, the land where they were born.

16. As one as the false them, the burnt image upon them, sent messengers unto them into the land of the Chaldees.

17. Noe when the Babylonians came unto her in the bed of love, they defiled her with their whoredoms: and so was the polluted with them, and her last was abated from them.

18. And she discovered her whoredoms, and dislodged her shame: then my heart forsoke her, like as my heart was gone from her sister also.

19. Nevertheless, she encreased her whoredoms more, and remembered the days of her youth wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20. She burnt in lust upon her companions, whose shame was like the shame of asses, and their issue like the issue of horses.

21. Thus thou hast called to remembrance the faithlessness of thy youth, when thy

22. Therefore Ahohlah, thus saith the Lord God, I will raise up thy lovers against thee from whom thy heart is departed, and gather them together against thee on every side.

23. (Namely) the Babylonians and all the Chaldees, rulers, mighty and mighty men, both all the Assyrians, all pleasant young men, captives and princes, all valiant and renowned, rising upon horses.

24. These shall come upon thee with cigarettes, wagons, and wheels, and great multitude of people, with buckler, and helmet, and they shall beat thee on every side: I will give judgment before them, yea they them seats shall judge thee according to their own judgement.

25. I will lay mine indignation upon thee, so that they shall deal cruelly with thee; they shall cut off thy nose and thine ears, and thy remnant shall fall by the sword; they shall carry away thy sons and daughters, and the residue shall be devoured by the fire.

26. They shall strip thee of thy clothes, and take away thy faire rebels.

27. Thus will I make thy wickednesse to escape from thee, and thy sorceries out of the lande of Egypt: so that thou shalt turne thine eyes no more after them, and cast thy mindes no more upon Egypt.

28. For thus saith the Lord God, Behold I will deliver thee into the hands of them whom thou hast least, yea even into the hands of them from whom thine heart is departed.

29. And they shall deal hately with thee, and take away all thy labour, and leave thee naked and bare, and the name of thy sorceries shall be discovered, both thy wickednesse and thy whoredoms.

30. I will do these things unto thee, because thou hast gone a whoring after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idols.

31. Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister, therefore will I give her cuppe in thine hande.

32. Thus saith the Lord God, Thou shalt despise of thy sisters cuppe, despise it large, thou shalt be laughed to scorn, and have in derision, because it containeth much.
The prophesie

A I

The xxxviii. Chapter.

P (e) prooueth the firing of Jerusalem by a parable of a seething pot. The parable of Ezekiel's wife being dead, which he after expounded.

In the ninth yeere, in the tenth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

O thou sonne of man, write the name of this day, yea even of this present day: for the king of Babylon letteth his feltes against Hierusalem this felte same day.

Shave the rebellious house a parable, and speake unto them, thus saith the Lord God: Prepare (a) pot, set it on, and poule water into it.

41 Thou lastest upon a flately bed, and a (b) table spread before it, whereupon thou hast let none inence and none yple.

42 And a noyse of a mery company at it, and with the men, beside the multitude of the people, were brought men of Saba out of the desert, which gave them bacelettes upon their handes, and beautiful crownes upon their heades.

43 And I laid into her that was borne in her adulteries, Noe shall her confinations come to an ende, and the also.

44 And they went in to her as they goe into a common harlot: even so went they [I ap] to Aholah and Aholiba, those wicked women.

45 And the righteous men, they shall judge the after the manner of harlots, and after the manner of murderers: for they are harlots, and blood is in their handes.

46 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I will bring a great multitude of people upon them, and gave them to becastred and spoold:

47 And the multitude shall stone them with stones, and cut them downe with their handes, they shall lay their sonsne and daughters, and burne by their houses with fire.

48 Thus will I caufe wickednesse to reasse out of the lande, that all (e) women may be taught, not to do after your wickednesse.

49 And so they shall lay your wickednesse upon your owne feltes, and the times of your idols shall ye beare: and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord God.
8 That it might cause wrath to arise, and take vengeance: I have set her blood upon a high rock, that it should not be covered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: O woe be unto the bloodthirstie city, for whom even I myself will make a great fire.

10 And let much wood, and (a) huddle the fire, and cast the flesh, &c. Here we have a glimpse of such rites as are common among idolaters.

11 Moreover, I will set the pot emptied upon the coales, that the base thereof may be hot and burnt, and the fitchynesse of it may be molten in it, and the fum of it shalbe consumed.

12 She bath inverted her selle with labour; yet her great sum is not gone of her, in the fire her sum must be consumed.

13 In the fitchyneffe was wickedneffe: because I would have purged thee, and thou wast not purged, from thy fitchynesse thou shalt not be purged any more, till I have caused myne indignation to resit in thee.

14 Even if the Lord have spoken it; yet it is some thereto all redy that I will do it: I will not go backe, I will not spaire, I will nor repent: but according to thy worthines, and imaginations shall they judge thee, sayth the Lord God.

15 And the voice of the Lord came unto me, saying:

14 Thou sonne of man, behold I will take away from thee the pleasure of thine eyes with a plague, yea that thou neither mourn nor weep, neither that thy tears run doublke.

17. Owen in isles, make no mourning of the dead, ynde the type of thy head upon thee, and put on thy shoes upon the fire, cover not thy lippes, and (c) eate no mans bread.

18 So I spake unto the people departing in the morning: I will even my wife, and then upon the next morowe I dyed as I was commanded.

19 And the people fayed unto me: wilt thou not tell us what this signifieth toward vs, that thou dost so?

20 I answered them, The voice of the Lord came unto me, saying:

21 Tell the house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God: Beholde, I will (c) pollute my sanctuary, even the glory of thy power, the pleasure of thy eyes, and thy heartes delighte: most thine fouses and daughters whom ye have left, shall fall through the bowde.

22 Like as I have done, so shall ye do also: ye shall not cover your lippes, ye shall eate no mans bread.

23 And your fholde upon your heades, and your shoes upon your feete: ye shall neither mourn nor weep, but ye shall pyne away in your iniquitie, you mourn one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is your shelteken, according to all that he hath done, ye shall do: when it commeth, then ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Also thou sonne of man, say, it shall not be in the day when I take from thee their power, the joy of their honour, the pleasure of their eyes, and the lifting up of their foutes, their fones & their daughteres, (f) which is a reproach amongst the idolaters.

26 In that day shall come one that is escaped, unto thee, (g) and bring it to the hearing of thy ears.

27 In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, that thou mayest speake: ye shall be no more amiss, thou shalt be their shelteken, they that maye knowe how that I am the Lord, because they went into captiuitie:

4 Beholde therefore, I will deliberate thee to the people of the east, that they may have thee in possession: these shall settle their palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee, they shall eate thy fruite, and drinke by thy mylke.

5 As for (h) Rabba, I will make of it a stable for camels, and of the Ammonites, a sheepfold, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord.

6 And thus saith the Lord God: J betw.

(a) That is, to the body, concerning the whole.

(b) That is, to the head concerning the head.

(c) That is, to the holy, concerning the holy.

(d) That is, to the holy concerning the holy.

(e) That is, to the holy concerning the holy.

(f) That is, to the holy concerning the holy.

(g) That is, to the holy concerning the holy.

(h) That is, to the holy concerning the holy.
much as thou hast clapped with thy hands, and stamped with thy feet, yea and rejoiced over the land of Israel with all thy despite in heart:
7 Behold therefore I will stretch out my hand upon thee, and deliver thee to be spoiled of the heathen, to be brought out among the people, and cause thee to perish out of the land: yea I will make thee to be destroyed, that thou mayest know that I am the Lord.
8 Thus saith the Lord God: Forasmuch as Ahab and Jezebel hath done great offence and avenged sin upon them:
9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold I will stretch out my hand upon Jokanah, and destroy man and beast out of it, and I will make it desolate from the man, that Debah shall fall by the sword.
10 And I will execute my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Israel, that shall do in Edom according to my wrath and indignation, so that they shall know that I am the Lord.
11 Thus saith the Lord God: For that the Philistines in vengeance, namely in avenging vengeance, with a dispitful heart to destroy it for the old enmity:
12 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold I will stretch out my hand over the Philistines, and destroy the Philistines, and cause all the remnant of the sea coast to perish:
13 A great vengeance will I take upon them, with punishments of my wrath, that they may know that I am the Lord, when I shall lay my vengeance upon them.

The xxvi. Chapter.
1 For it came to pass in the eleventh year, the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying:
2 Thou son of man, because that Tyre hath spoken of Jerusalem, haja, the gates of the people is broken, it is turned unto me, so now that the is destroyed, I hate fallen.
3 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold Jevre, I will upon thee, I will raise up many nations against thee, like as the sea ariseth with his waves.
4 They that break the walls of Tyre, & cast down her towers, I will scrape her dust her, & make her a prey to the nations.
5 She shall be for a spreading of nettes in the sea, for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God, and the shall be for an abomination to the nations.
6 Her daughters that are in the midst shall be accursed with the sword, that they may know that I am the Lord, and be made a name of reproach among the heathen.
7 For thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will bring upon Tyre, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon from the north, a king of kings, & with horses, chariots, hostmen, with a multitude, & much people.
8 Thy daughters that are in the field that he lay with the sword: but against thee, he shall make buliwakes, &ثال a mount against thee, and lift by his spear against thee.
9 He shall let loose engines of warre before hym against thy walles, & with his weapons break downe thy towres.
10 The dust of his horses shall cover thee, they shall be many: thy walles shall shake at the noise of the hostmen, wheeles, & chariots, when he shall enter into thy gates, as into the entry of a cite broken downe.
11 With the horsefes of his horses shall he trample downe at the streets, he shall slay the people with the sword, & cast the pillars of thy strength shall fall downe to the grounde.

They shall rob thy riches, and spoil thy merchandises, thy vessels shall they brake downe, and destroy thy bowles of pleasure, thy stones, thy tinnen, and but shall they cast into the muds of the water.

Thus shall I cause the sounde of thy tongues to cease, and the noyse of thy harpes shall no more be heard.

I will bring thee into a hole rocke, thou shalt be for a spreading of nettes, thou shalt never be built againe: for even I the Lord have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

Thus saith the Lord God: These are the cities nubs of the change, the terror maue.

The cities of Sin, and others: as other cities be that no man dwell in, and when I bring by the deepe and the sea, that great waters may cover thee:

They shall mourn for thee, and say: The xxvii. Chapter.

1. The prophet is moved to bewaile the desolation of Tyre. He setteth out thy part of Tyre for the haunting of marchauntes there.

2. Tyre, that were in thee, were thy chymnauers.

3. The ancient and wyle men of Gebal were in thee, thy stoppers of chisines, all chypes of the sea butt their chymner were in thee, to occupy thy marchauntise.

4. The Peres, Lydians, and Phutens were in thy armies, thy men of warre, these haged by their shields and helmets in thee, these set soothly thy honour.

5. They of Arpad were with thynne h Longitude about thy valles, and the Pergamians were thy watchmen upon thy toyes: these hanged by their queres about thy valles, they made thy beautie persitve.

6. They of Tarsus were thy marchauntes for the multitude of all riches, in siluer, iron, tin, and lead, which they brought to thy faires.

7. Lyd, Flis, and Petic were thy marchauntes concerning the euene of men, and they brought vessels of wasshe for thy marchauntise.

8. They of the house of Togarina brought unto thee at the time of thy marte, boyes, couers, and untes.
The prophecies.

15 They of Dedan were thy marhaunts, and many fes the marhaundife of thy handes, I bought thee thy hones, teeth, and thy hebens, for preffentes.
16 They of Aram [were] thy marhaunts for the multitude of thy workes, and occups in thy fayes with emeraudes, purple, broied workes, fine linen, corall, and pearle.
17 Juda and the land of Israel occupied with thee, I bought into thy markets wheat of Phurnit & Pannag, hony, yde, and triacle.
18 Damascus also bled marhaundife with thee, in the wine of Hebdon, and whyte woffl-became thynne occupying was to great, and thy wares to many.
19 Dan, Jafan, & Neyzial have brought into thy markets wrough iron, Casia, and Calamus were among thy marhaundife.
20 They of Dedan were thy marhaunts in precious clothes for chariots.
21 Arabia and all the princes of Cebar have occupied with thee, in weatheres, rammes, and goates: in these were they thy marhaunts.
22 The marhaunts of Seba and Rama have occupied also with thee, in all chiefes spices, in all precious stones and golde, whiche brought into thy markets.
23 Haran, Chenne, and Eden, the marhaunts of Seba, Assyria, and Chelmad were doers with thee:
24 These were thy marhaunts in all sortes of things, in rayment of bleeke silke, and of broied workes, and in coffers for the riche apparel, whiche were trauffed with coarbes, and Cebad doode among thy marhaundife.
25 The ships of Tharsis were the chiefe of rynne occupying: thus thou walfl repleminated and in great worship, even in the mufs of the sea.
26 Thy rovers have brought thee into great waters, the east wind hath broke there in the mufs of the sea.
27 Thy riches, and thy fayes, thy marhaundife, thy mariners, thy shippmakers, thy calkers, and the occupiers of thy marhaundife, and all thy men of waare that are in thee, and all thy multitude that is in the mufs of thee, shall fall in the mufs of the sea, in the day of thy fall.
28 The habudtes shall shake at the louden eerie of thy shippmen.
29 All that handle the oz, mariners, and all shippmakers of the sea, shall come downe from their ships, and stand upon the lande.
30 And they shall cause their voice to be heard against thee, and shall eye bitterly, and shall cast dust upon their heads, and wallowe in the ashes.
31 They shall make them selues bafal for thee, and gibe them with sackcloth, & they shall wepe for thee, with sorefull heart, and bitter mourning.
32 And they shall take by a lamentation for thee in their mourning, and lament over thee, [what cire is like Tybus] so destroyed in the mufs of the sea?
33 When thy wares went forth of the seas, thou killedst many people: the kings of the earth haff thou made riche, sozolve the multitude of thy riches and marhaundife.
34 When thou shalt be hroken by the seas in the deapthes of the waaters, thy marhaundife & all thy multitude that was in the mufs of thee, shall fall.
35 All the inhabitauntes of the isle halfe abodont at thee, and all their kings halfe forayde, and troubled in their countenance.
36 The marhaunts of the nations shall hisse at thee: thou shalt be a terour, and shalt never be any more.

The.xxviii. Chapter.

1 The word of God against the king of Cyrus for his pride. 2 Excefed the prophecye is moved to bewaole the king of Cyrus. 10 The word of the Lord against Slood. 25 The Lorde promiseth that he will gather together the children of Israel.

1 Where as thou art but a man, and not God, (b) though thou set thyne heart as the heart of God.
3 Beholde, thou thinkest thy selfe wyver then Daniel, that there is no secretes hyde from thee.
4 With thy understanding thou hast gotten the great wethines, & gathered treasure of fitter & gold.
5 With
of Ezechiell. clv.

5 with thy great wpstomne and occupying hast thou increased thy power, and beauty of thy great riches thy heart is poudre.
6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Fortomuch as thou hast set thynne heart as the heart of God:
7 Behold, I will bring strangers upon thee, even the terrible nations, these shaltaille out their bowdes upon the beautie of thy wpstomne, and shall destyl thee glorie.
8 They shall cast thee downe to the pit, so that thou shalt dye the death of them that be slayne in the mids of the sea.
9 But thou sayest before them that lay thee, I am a God: where as thou art but a man, and not God, in the handes of them that lay thee.
10 Die that thou the death of the bntcrinized in the handes of the strangers: for I have spokent it, saith the Lord God.
11 Moreover, the worde of the Lord came unto me, saying:
12 Thou sonne of man, take by a lamentation upon the hight of Elyse, set thy hir, thus saith the Lord God: Thou shalt lete by the lamme, full of wpstomne, with perfecte beautie.
13 Thou hast ben in the pleasant garden of God, thou art deckt with all maner of precious stones, with ruby, topas, diamond, chursis, ony, tafher, laphir, caratit, and golde: the worke\-manship of thy timbeles and of thy pipes that be in thee, was prepared in the day that thou wast created.
14 Thou art an anointed Cherub, that couereth, and I have set thee [in this dignite, thou wast upon the holy mount of God, thou walt walked in the mids of the stones of office.
15 From the time of thy creation thou hast ben perfecte in the wpstmes, till wickednesse was founde in thee.
16 By the multitude of thy marchaundise they have filled the mids of thee with turcitie, and thou hast lyned: I will cast thee as prophane out of the mount of God, I will destroy thee for covering Cherub, from the mids of the stones of fire.
17 Thy heart was poudre in thy beautie, and thynowe thy brightnesse: thou hast destroyed thy wpstomne: I will cast thee downe to the grounde, I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee.
18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctification with the great wickednesse of thy wpstomne, and so when thou hast cast downe thy wpstomne, and been cast out of the lande, they defiled thee.
19 All they that have ben acquainted with thee among the heathen shalbe abashed at thee: thou hast ben a terrour, and never shalt thou be any more.
20 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying:
21 Thou sonne of man, set thy face against D Sidon, and prophesie upon it,
22 And speake, thus saith the Lord God: Beholde D Sidon, I will upon thee, and I will glorifie in thee: that it may be knowne howe that I am the Lord when I that have executd judgementes in her, shalbe sanctified in her.
23 For I will sende pestilence and bloody\-ness into her streets, and the flame shall fall in the mids of her, by the sword comming upon her on every side: and they shall knowe that I am the Lord.
24 They shalbe no more a prickine thome into the honte of Israel, nor a greecious thone of al that are round about them and despised them: and they shall knowe that I am the Lord God.
25 Thus saith the Lord God: When I gather the pour knowd of Israel together againe from the nations among hybbont they be scattered, then shal be sanctified in them in the light of the gentiles, and they shall dwell in the lande that I gave to my fervant Jacob.
26 They shall dwell with confedence: in, bulpe house and plant vineyards: yea with confedence shal they dwell therein, when I have executd judgementes upon all those that despise them rounde about: and then that they know that I am the Lord their God.
The prophetic signs against Egypt, and of the desolation of Egypt, with the destruction of the Egyptians, 11 The Lord promised that he would destroy Egypt again after four years. 12 Egypt is the reward of king Nebuchadnezzar for the labour which he took against Egypt.

At the tenth year, upon the twelfth day of the tenth month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying:

Thou son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, prophetic against him, and against the whole land of Egypt.

Speak and tell him, thus saith the Lord God: Behold O Pharaoh thou king of Egypt, I will pour over thee great dragon that perish in the mists of his rivers, thou that sayst, The river is mine, I have made it for myself.

I will put hooks in thy rivers, and hang the fish in thy rivers upon thy sides; after that I will drive thee out of thy rivers, yea and all the fish of thy rivers shall hang upon thy sides.

I will leave thee in the wilderness, both thee and all the fish of thy rivers; thou shalt fall upon the open field, thou shalt not be bought together, not gathered: I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field, to the fowls of the air.

That all they which dwell in Egypt may know that I am the Lord, because they have been a fertile of reed to the house of Israel.

When they took hold of thee with their hand, thou wakist and cast all their clouds. When they leant upon thee, thou wakist and madest all their loynes to stand upright.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will bring a flood upon thee, I will destroy thee out of both man and beast. I will make the land of Egypt desolate and waste, and they shall know that I am the Lord, because I sayd, The river is mine, I have made it.

Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will bring the land of Egypt upon Nabuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, that he may take away her multitude, and spoil her spoiles, take her pay to pay his host their wages with all.

For the works which he wrought about it, I have given him the land of Egypt, because they wrought for me, saith the Lord God.

In that day I will cause the house of the house of Israel to bud forth, and I will give thee the opening of thy mouth in the mists of them: they shall know that I am the Lord.
The destruction of Egypt, and of his cities is betwisted.

He told of the Lord came unto me, saying:

14. As for Pathros, I will make it desolate, and kindle a fire in it, in Zoan, and I will execute judgments in it.

15. And I will pour my wrathful indignation upon Sin the strength of Egypt, and I will destroy the multitude of it.

16. And I will kindle a fire in Egypt, Sin shall be great heaviness, No shall root out, and Noph shall have daily loath.

17. The young men of Auen, and of Rechab, shall fall by the sword, and these cities shall go into captivity.

18. At Tehaphneues the day shall be dark, when I break there the baraces of Egypt, and when the pomp of her power shall cease in her: a cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall go into captivity.

19. Thus will I execute my judgments in Egypt, and they shall know I am the Lord.

20. And in the eleventh year, upon the seventh day of the first month, the sword of the Lord came unto me, saying:

21. Thou son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt: and lo, it shall not be bound up to be healed, to put a roller to bind it, to make it strong to hold the sword.

22. Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will upon Pharaoh king of Egypt, and break his arm that was strong, but is broken: and I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand.

23. As for the Egyptians, I will scatter them among the nations, and straue them in the lands about.

24. Again, I will strengthen the arm of the king of Babylon, and give him my sword in his hand: but I will break Pharaohs armies, and he shall groan the griefs of a deadly wounded man before him.

25. For I will strengthen the king of Babylonians arm, and the armies of Pharaoh shall fall down: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall give my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon, that he may stretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

26. And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and trode them in the lands about: and they shall know that I am the Lord.

U (xiv) The Deuour, in the eleventh year, the first day of the third moneth, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying, Thou sonne of man, speake unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to all his people: whom art thou like in thy greatnesse? Behold, Assur is a Cedar in Lebanon, with faire baunches, and with thyke shadowing bovves, of a hygh nature, his top was among the thicke bovves.

4 The waters made him great, and the depe fet him vp on hys, with her rivers running rounde about his plantes, and sent out her little rivers upon all the trees of the fielde.

5 Therefore was he higher then all the trees of the fielde, and his bovves were multiplied, his baunches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the depe sent out.

6 All soules of the are made their nestes in his baunches, under his bovves did all the beastes of the fielde bring forth their poung, and under his shadow dwelt all myghtie nations.

7 Beautiful was he in his greatnesse, and in the length of his baunches: for his roote boode beforde great waters.

8 No Cedar tree might habbe hym in the garden of God,there was no hyre trees like his baunches, the chestnut trees were not like the bovves of hym: all the trees in the garden of God, might not be compared into hym in his beautye.

9 I made hym faire with the multitude of his baunches: insomuch that all the trees in the pleasant garden of God had enme at hym.

10 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: forsoomuch as he hath lyft him selle so hys, and hath shot by his top among the thyke bovves, and his heartis lyft by his heighe:

11 I have therefore delivere hym into the horseheads of the myghtiest among the heathen:he shall handle hym, (for) in his wickednesse have I cast hym away.

12 And strangers have destroyed hym, even the terrible nations, and have left hym upon the mountaynes and upon the valleyes, have his bovves fallen, and his bovves are broken by all the riuers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadowe, I haue forsaken hym.

13 Upon his ruime shall all the soules of the appee renayne, and all the beastes of the fielde shallbe upon his baunches.

14 So that none of all the trees by the waters had grown in their heighe, nor shot by their toppes among the thyke bovves, neither did their trees stand in their heighe, as many of them as didde water: for they are all delued into death in the neacer partes of the earth, in the hyds of the childern of men among them that goe downe to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God: In the day when he went downe to the graine, I caused a lamentation to be made, I extoued the depe for hym, I restrayned the studdes thereof, and the great waters were stayed, I caused Libanus to mourne for hym, and all the trees of the fielde fainted.

16 I made the heathen shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast hym downe to hell with them that defend into the pit: all the excellent trees of Eden, the best of Libanus, all that are great waters, had comforted in the neacer partes of the earth.

17 They also went downe to hell with hym, to be hapke with the nado, which were his ame, and dwelt under his shadowe in the middest of the nations.

18 To whom art thou thus like in glorye and in greatnesse among the trees of Eden: yet thou shalt be cast downe with the trees of Eden into the neacer partes of the earth: in the middest of the myghtiest shall thou feep with them that are hapke with the nado: This is Pharao and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.
of Ezechiel.

The xxxij. Chapter.

The prophet is commanded to beseech Pharaoh the king of Egypt, 11: be prepared that destruction shall come unto Egypt through the king of Babylon.

And the twelfth, the first day of the first month, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

Thus saith the Lord God,  I will cause the multitude of people that be upon the mountains to come together to the valley, and I will cut off the multitude of the people: but I will leave a remnant in Ezechiel.

For I will cause the multitude of people, and the mountain to come together into the valley; and I will cut off the multitude of the people, but I will leave a remnant in Ezechiel.

And I will cause the multitude of people, and the valley to come together into the valley; and I will cut off the multitude of the people, but I will leave a remnant in Ezechiel.

And I will cause the multitude of people, and the valley to come together into the valley; and I will cut off the multitude of the people, but I will leave a remnant in Ezechiel.

And I will cause the multitude of people, and the valley to come together into the valley; and I will cut off the multitude of the people, but I will leave a remnant in Ezechiel.

And I will cause the multitude of people, and the valley to come together into the valley; and I will cut off the multitude of the people, but I will leave a remnant in Ezechiel.
The prophecie

24. There is (5) Elam also, with all his people round about his grave: which all being slain and fallen with the sword, are gone down unincircumcised under the earth, which nevertheless sometime brought fear into the land of the (c) Lyuing: they bear their own shame, with the other that be gone down to the grave.

25. They have made his bed in the midst of the flame, with all his multitude, their graves are round about him: all these unincircumcised, slaine by the sword, although they caus'd their fear in the land of the lyuing, yet have they borne their shame with them that go down to the pit, they are lap'd in the midst of them that are slain.

26. There is (6) Mesach also and Tubal, and their people: their graves round about him: these all unincircumcised, slaine by the sword, because after time they made the lande of the lyuing afraid.

27. They shall not lie with the (6) half-ame [which are] fallen of the unincircumcised, which are gone down to the grave with their weapons of warre, and have lap'd their sinbodes under their heads: but their iniquite shalbe upon their bones, because the terrour of their righte (was) in the lande of the lyuing.

28. Pea, among the unincircumcised shall thou be destroyed, and sleepe with them that perished through the sword.

29. There is Edom with her kings and princes also, which with their strength are layde by them that were slaine with the sword: Pea among the unincircumcised that they sleepe, with them which are gone down into the pit.

30. Moreover, there be at the princes of the (b) north with at the Sidonians, which are gone down with the slaine: with their fear and strength they are come to confusion, and lie there unincircumcised among those that be slaine with the sword, and bear their own shame with them that be gone down to the pit.

31. Pharaoh shal see them, and be (6) converted over all his multitude: Pharaoh and all his army, slaine with the sword, faith the Lord God.

32. For I have given my fear in the lande of the lyuing: but Pharaoh and all his people slabe layde among the unincircumcised, and among them that be slaine with the sword, faith the Lord God.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

He setteth out the office of the governours and ministers, 14. He strengtheneth them that despaire, and holdeneth them with the promise of mercie. 30. The wordes of the Lord against the remnant of the people, against the masters of the dooth of the prophete.

Gaue, the wordes of the Lord came unto me, saying:

Thou some of man, speake to the children of thy people, and tell them: when I send a sworde upon a lande, if the people of the lande take a man of their coasts, and set him to be their (7) watchman:

If when he seeth the sworde come by on the lande, he shall blow the trumpet and warn the people:

Then he that heareth the noyse of the trumpet and wyl not be warned, and the sworde come and take him alway, his blood shalbe upon his owne heade.

For he heard the sounde of the trumpet: and would not be warned, therefore his blood be upon him: but he that receaueth warning, he shall save his life.

6. Againe, if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, so that the people is not warned, if the sworde come then, and take any man from among them: the same slabe (8) taken shall laye in his owne name, but his blood wyl I require at the watchmanes hand.

7. And thou Dostone at man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt see here the wordes at (my) mouth, and thou shalt warn them from me.

8. If I say unto the wicked, thou wikked, thou shalt surely die: thou spakest not to annoint the wicked of his way: that wicked man shall die in his owne name, but his blood wyl I require at 9 Nevertheless, if thou warne the wicked of his way to turne from it, and he yet dyeth not be turned from his way: then shall he die in his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul.

10 Therefore saith the Lord: The house of Israel, yea say thus: If our offencers and sines laye upon us, and we be consumed in them, how should we then live?

11 Tell them, as truly as I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but much rather that the wicked turne from his way: and ye turne you from your wicked wayes, for why but pe dye the house of Israel?

12 Therefore saith the Lord God, tell the children of the people, the righteouses of the rightoues shall not lafe him in the day of his iniquity: againe, the wickednes of the wicked shall not over-throw him for it in the day that he returneth from his wickednes: neither shall the righteouses lyve for (c) in the day that he fumeth.

13 If I laye upon the righteouses, he shall surely lyve, and so he trust to his owne rightouines, and do sinne: then shall his rightouines be no more thought upon, but in his wickednes that he hath done, and he shall dye.

14 Againe, if I laye upon the wicked, thou shalt surely dye: and so he turne from his sines, and do the thing that is lawfull and right,

15 Inasmuch that the same wicked man gueveth the pledge againe, resoleteth that he hath take away by robbery, walketh in the commandements of lyke, and doth none iniquity: then shall he surely lyve and not dye.

16 None of the sines that he hath commetted shall be imputed unto him: for insomuch as he doth now the thing that is lawfull and right, he shall lyve.

17 And yet the children of the people say, the way of the Lord is not equal: but their owne way is rather unequall.

18 When the righteouses turneth from his rightouines, and both the thing that is wicked, he shall dye therein.

19 But if the wicked turne from his Wickednes, doing the thing that is lawfull and right, he shall lyve therefore.

20 Yet pe say, the way of the Lord is not equal: dye house of Israel, I will judge every one of you after his wayes.

21 In the twelfth yere, the fifth day of the tenth moneth of our captivity, one which was escaped out of Jerusalem, came unto me, and said, The citie is taken.

22 Prove the (b) hande of the Lord hath ben upon the evening afore this moneth which was escaped came unto me, and had (d) opened my mouth: and the morning that he came to me: yea, my mouth was opened, so that I was no more dumb.

23 Then came the worde of the Lord unto me, and saide:

24 Thou sonne of man, these that dwell in the wasted lande of Israel taketh and saith: (e) Abraham was but one man, and he had the lande in possession: nowe are we many, and the lande is gien us to possess it also.

25 And therefore tell them, thus saith the Lord God: (f) In the blood have ye eaten, your eyes have ye looke up to idols, and haue the blood: shall ye then haue the lande in possession?

26 Pe (g) leaue upon your abominations, ye worke abominations, every one destineth his neighbours lyve: and shall pe then possesse the lande?

27 Say thou thus unto them, thus saith the Lord God: As truly as I live, they that are in the desolate places shall fall by the sword, and him that is upon the hielde: and they shall possesse the lande, and be to be hated of them, though they were no more by me hee, but be to them.

28 For I will make the lande to desolate and waste, that the * pompe of her strength shall ceasle: the mountains of Israel shalbe to waste, that no man shall trauaille thereby.

29 Then shall they knowe that I am the Lord, when I make the lande desolate and waste, because of all their abominations that they have thought.

30 And thou sonne of man, the children of thy people that talke of thee by the waters and in the doores of their houses, and speake one to another, every one to his brother, saying, Come I pray you, let us heare what woode is gone forth from the Lord:

31 They come unto thee as the people of Beth to come, and my people lyfe before thee, there, and hear thy voicles, but they do not the other; for in their mouths they make a (m) left of them, and their heart goeth after their courtesies.

32. And lo, thou art unto them as a (n) singing long of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can sing well: so they hear thy voicles, but do them not.

33. When this commeth to passe (so it cometh): then shall they know that there hath ben a prophecy among them.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

2 Against shepherds that despise the flocke of Christ, and seek theirown gain.

3 The Lord saith that he will bite his dispersed flocke, and gather them together.

4 He repouseth the matter of certaine of the flocke. 5 He promitteth the true shepheard Christ, and with him peace.

Do the woode of the Lord came unto me, saying:

3 Thou some of mine, prophete against the shepherds of Israel, prophete and speake unto them: thus saith the Lord God among the shepherds. 4 We be unto thee the shepherds of Israel that feede them feules: shoul not the shepherds feele the sfocke?

3 We care by the (n) fat, ye clothe you with the wood, the best fed do ye play: but the sfocke do ye not feele.

4 The (n) weake haue ye not strengthened, the sfoke haue ye not healed, the broken haue ye not bounde together, the bypren alywa ye have not bought againe, the lost haue ye not sought: but with sorce and crueltie have ye ruthen them.

5 They are without a shepheard, yea all the beastes of the fielde (o) devour them, and they goe astrap.

6 Ye shepe go wandering uppon the mountaines, and uppon every hilly, yea my shepe is scattered through all the face of the earth, and there is no man that feedeth, or searcheth after them.

7 Therefore Dy shepheardes, hear the woode of the Lord.

8 As truly as I mive saith the Lord God, so lonnuch as my shepe are robb, devoured of all the lykke beastes of the fielde, having no shepheard, and seeing that my shepheardes seke not my shepe, but the shepherds seke them feules, and feele not my shepe:

9 Therefore heare the woode of the Lord Dy shepheardes.

10 Thus saith the Lord God: behold, I will upon the shepherds, and require my shepe from their'

handes, and make them realle from feeding of the sheepe, yea the shepherds shall seew them feules no more: so I (p) will deliver my sheepe out of these mouthes, so that they shall not devoure them after this.

11 For thus saith the Lord God: behold,

13 I will bring them out from the people, and gather them together out of the lands, I will bring them into their owne lande, and seede them upon the mountaines of Israel, by the waters and in all the places of the country.

14 I will seede them in right good pastures, and upon the hie mountaines of Israel shall there foldes be: there shall they be in a good solde, and in a fat pasture shall they seed, even upon the mountaines of Israel.

15 I will seede my sheepe and bring them to their rest, saith the Lord God.

16 Such as be lost, by I llice: such as are druen alywa, by I shall goe against, such as be broken, by I lbye by: such as be weake, by I make strong: such as be fast and strong, those by I roote out, and seree them with (r) judgement.

17 And as for you Dy sheepe, saith the Lord God, I will judge betwixt counterfeit counterfeit, betwixt the rammes and the goates.

18 Seemeth it a small thing to you to have eaten by the good (s) pasture, and to traede downe the residue of your pasture with yoursheepe also: to drink the deep deeper waters, and to trouble the rest also with your feet:

19 Thus my sheepe must be saie to eate the thing that ye have trodden downe with your feete, and to bume it that ye with your feete have defiled.
20 Therefore thus saith the Loade God unto them: Beholde [I even] I will judge betwene the fat cattale, and the lean cattale.
21 Forasmuch as with line and shoulder ye have haued, and with your hones have pulhed all the weake, till ye have scattered them abode.
22 I will saie my sheepe, so that they shall no more be spoyle, pe I will judge betwene cattale and cattale.
23 I will set by ouer them a shepheard, and he shall sheede them, even my seruant [1] Danau, he shall sheede them, and hehaue the shepheard.
24 And I the Loade wyll be their God, and my seruant Dauid shall bee their prince: even I the Loade haue spoken it.
25 Moreover I wyll make a concuentaue of peace with them, [2] saue cut beasts to roaste out of the lande: so that they may dwell (3) safely in the wildernesse, and sleepe in the woods.
26 And I wyll set them a blessing even rounde about my hill, and I wyll cause raine to come downe in due season, and there shall be raine of blessing.
27 And the tree of the field shall pricde her fruite, and the earth shall greue her increase: they shall labe safe in their lande, and shall knowe that I am the Loade, when I haue broke the bonds of their yoke, and delivered them out of the handes of those that servd them selves of them.
28 They shall no more be spoyle of the heathen, nor deuoured with the beasts of the lande: but safely shall they dwell, and no man shall fray them.
29 And I wyll caue by for them a (4) plant of renoun, and they shall haue no more "eungd with hunger in the lande, neither beare the represse of the heathen any more.
30 Thus shall they understand that I the Loade their God am with them, and that they, even the house of Israel, are my people, faith the Loade God:
31 And ye my sheepe, the sheepe of my pasture, are men: and I am your God, faith the Loade God.

The xxxv. Chapter.

The destruction that shall come on the mount Seir, that is, on the Idumeans, because they troubled the people of the Loade.

1 Moreover the words of the Loade came into me, saying:

Thou some of man, set thy face towad the mount Seir, phester against it.

2 And lay_into it, thus saith the Loade God: Beholde O thou mount Seir, I will upon thee, I will reache out my hande over thee, yea waste and desolate wyll I make thee,

4 Thy cities wyll I laye waste, [4] thou shalt ye boype, that thou mayst knowe howe that I am the Loade.

5 Forasmuch as thou bearest an olde enmite, and hast put the children of Israel to flight by the force of the sword, in the time of their calamity, when their infinitue had an ende.

6 Therefore as truely as I spue, faith the Loade God, I will prepare thee unto blood, pe blood shall folowe by on thee, except thou (5) hate blood, ever blood shall perserue thee.

7 Thus wyll I make the mount Seir desolate and waste, and cut out from it him that passeth out, and him that returneth:

8 His mountaines wyll I fill with his flame men, thy hils, baileys, and all thy rivers, the flame with the sworde shall fall in them.

9 I wyll make thee a perpetuall wilderness, so that thy cities haue (6) no returne: that ye may knowe that I am the Loade.

10 And because thou hast saue, (7) both these nations, and both these landes must be myne, and we wyll haue them in possession, whereas the Loade was there:

11 Therefore as truely as I spue faith the Loade God, I will even do according
The prophecie

The xxxv. Chapter.

26 And ye as thou wilt glad because the heritage of the house of Israel was destroyed, even so will I do unto thee: thou shalt be destroyed O mount Seir, and all Joeniaa wholly, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

27 Thou some of mine prophetes into the mountaunes of Israel, and speake, hear the word of the Lord. But ye mountaunes of Israel, Thus faith the Lord God: Because your" enemie hath lade upon you aha, the *Ye places of the woodbe are now become ours in possession:

3 Propheche therefore and speake, thus the Lord God: For because that they have made you desolate, and shatobled you on every side, that ye might be a possession unto the rest of the gentiles, and ye are taken by in the *tupes and tongues of men, and to the reproch of the people:

4 Therefore hear the word of the Lord God, O ye mountaunes of Israel, thus faith the Lord God to the mountaunes and hills, to the rivers and vallers, to the woodbe and desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken, which are spoyled and had in derision on every side, among the rest of the heathen:

5 Therefore thus faith the Lord God: Surely in the fire of my goloseie have I spoken against the rest of the gentiles, and against all Edom, which have I appointed my lande for their possession, which also rejoyned from their whole heart with a dispitefull domaine, to cast it out for a prey.

6 Propheche therefore upon the lande of Israel, and speake into the mountaunes and hills, to the riveres and vallers, Thus faith the Lord God: Behold, this have I spoken in my goloseie and terrible wrath, because ye have done the *chame of the heathen:

7 Therefore thus faith the Lord God: I have left by my hande, surely the heathen that are about you, shall hear their shame.

8 But you, O mountaines of Israel, ye shall (a) shote out your baunches, and bring forth your fruite to my people of Israel: for they are at hande to come.

9 Beholde I come unto you, and with you I shall turne my face, that ye may be tilled and sowed.

10 I shall multiple men upon you, (even) at the house of Israel wholly, the cities that be inhabited, and the desayed places that be repaired againe.

11 And I shall multiple upon youman and beast, which shall increace and haue fruite: and I shall cause you to dwell after your olde estate, & be better (b) unto you then at the beginning: and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

12 Ye shall cause men to walke upon (1) you, (even) my people Israel, they shall possess (b) thee, and thou shalt be their inheritance, and thou shalt no more henceforth depreize them of (men)

13 Thus faith the Lord God, Foronuche as they lay upon you, thou art an (c) eater by of men, and a devourer of thy peple:

14 Therefore thou shalt eate no more men, neither destroy the people any more, faith the Lord God:
Neither will I cause men to hear in the name of the heathen any more: neither shall thou hear the reproach of the people any more, nor cause thy folk to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying:

Dost thou pollute my holy name, when the house of Israel dwelleth upon their own ground, they defiled themselves with their own vices and imaginations: so that in my sight, their way was like the vices of a removed woman.

Wherefore I powdered my wrathful displeasure upon them, because of the blood that they had shed in the land, and because of their idols wherewith they had defiled it.

I scattered them also among the heathen, so that they were straitened about in the landes: according to their vices, and after their own intentions, so did I judge them.

And when they entered into the heathen whither they went, they polluted my holy name, when they defiled of them. These are the people of God, as gone out of his lande.

Then spake I my holy name, which the house of Israel had dishonoured among the gentiles where they came.

Therefore set the house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God: I will not this for your vices, O house of Israel, but for my holy name sake which ye dishonoured among the heathen where ye came.

Therefore I will hallobe my great name againe, which among the gentiles is polluted, for ye your seues have dishonoured it among them: and the gentiles shall know that I am the Lord saith the Lord God, when I shall sanctify you before your eyes.

As for you, I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you together out of all countreys, and bring you againe into your owne lande.

Then will I pruckle clean (?) water upon you, and ye shall be clean: yea from all your vices and from all your idols shall I cleanse you.

A newe heart also will I give you, and a newe spirit will I put into you; as for that stony heart I will take it out of your flesh, and give you a fleshly heart.

I will give my spirit among you, and cause you to valde in my commandements, and ye shall keep my judgments and do them.

And so ye shall dwell in the lande that I gave to your fathers: ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.

I will deliver you from all your vices, I will call for the sword, and will encrease it, and lay no famine upon you.

I will multiply the fruities of the trees and the encrease of the field: so that ye shall receive no more reproche of hunger among the heathen.

Then shall ye remember your own wicked vices, and your imaginations which were not good: so that ye saide (2) in your owne eyes for your sinnes and abominations.

But I will not do this for your sake, saith the Lord God, be ye sure of it: therefore O ye house of Israel, be ashamed and confounded of your owne vices.

Moreover, thus saith the Lord God, What tune as I will cleanse you from all your iniquities, then will I make the cities to be inhabited againe, and the places that be decayed shall be repaired.

The desolate lande shall be filled againe, which asoone time lay waste in the sight of all them that went by.

And they shall lay, this waste lande was like the garden of Eden: and these waste and desolate and ruinous cities were strong and inhabited.

Then the residue of the heathen that be round about you, shall know that I the Lord (7) repair that was broken down, and plant againe that was made waste: even I the Lord have spoken it, and will do it in beere.

Thus saith the Lord God: I will yet for this be fought of the house of Israel, so do it for them, I will multiply them as a flocke of men.

Like as the holy flocke, and the flocke of Hierusalem are in the heicopne steakes, so shall also the waleted cities be filled with flockes of men: and they shall know that I am the Lord.
The prophesie

The xxij. Chapter.

He prophesieoth the bringing againe of the people being in captiuitie. 16 Be the union of the ten tribes with the two.

The hande of the Lord was upon me, and car-ried me out in the spirit of the Lord, and set me downe in the midst of a plaine fielde that was full of bones.

And he led me rounde about by them; and behold, there were very many in the open fielde, and to [they were] very drye.

Then saide he unto me: Thou sone of man, prophesie thou toward the vinde, prophesie & speake to the vinde, thus saith the Lord God: Come, O thou ayr from the force (winds, and blowe upon these flaine, that they may lyue.

So I prophesied as he had commanded me: then came the breath into them, and they receaue breath, and brewe drye upon their feete, a maruellous great armie.

Thus saith the Lord God into these bones: Beholde, I wyll cause breath to enter into you, that ye may lyue.

I wyll geue you snowes, and make stiffe grewe upon you, and couer you once with shame, & so geue you breath, that ye may lyue, and knowe that I am the Lord.

So I prophesied as I was commanded: and as I was prophesying, there was a noysle, and to a great motion, to that the bones came neare together, bone to his bone.

Now when I had looke, behold they had snowes, flesh grewe upon them, and above they were covered with Ium: but there was no breath in them.

Then saide he unto me: Thou sone of man, prophesie thou toward the vinde, prophesie & speake to the vinde, thus saith the Lord God: Come, O thou ayr from the force (winds, and blowe upon these flaine, that they may lyue.

So I prophesied as he had commanded me: then came the breath into them, and they receaue breath, and brewe drye upon their feete, a marvellous great armie.

Doeower he said unto me: Thou sone of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: Beholde, they say, Our bones are dryed up, our hope is gone, and we are cleane cut off.

Therefore prophesie thou, and speake unto them, thus saith the Lord God: Beholde, I wyll open your graves O my people, and cause you to come out of your

13. So shall ye know that I am the Lord, when I open your graves of your people, and will set you again in your own land: and ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I bring you into the land of Israel again.

14. My holy one also will I put in you, and ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I open your graves of your people, and will set you again in your own land: and ye shall know that I am the Lord, when I bring you into the land of Israel again.

15. The void of the Lord came unto me, saying:

16. Thus saith the Lord, Unto Judah and to the children of Israel his companions, Thus saith the Lord, Unto Joseph the stock of Ephraim, to all the house of Israel his companions.

17. And thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord, Unto Joseph the stock of Ephraim, to all the house of Israel his companions.

18. And thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord, Unto Joseph the stock of Ephraim, to all the house of Israel his companions.

19. Then will I make thee an enquirer after the most high, and will take the stock of Joseph, whom I spake unto the house of Israel, whither is in the land of Ephraim, and of the tribes of Israel his fellows, and will put them with him, and will make them one stock, and they shall be one in my hand.

20. And thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord, Unto Joseph the stock of Ephraim, to all the house of Israel his companions.

49. Thus saith the Lord, Unto Joseph the stock of Ephraim, to all the house of Israel his companions.

50. Thus saith the Lord, Unto Joseph the stock of Ephraim, to all the house of Israel his companions.
6 6 Comer and all his hosts, the house of Logarna out of the north quarters and all his hosts, ye and much people
with thee.

7 Therefore prepare thee, set thy false in a way with all thy people that are come into thee by heapes, 2 be thou their de-defence.

8 After many dapes thou shalt be lifted, and in the latter yeeres thou shalt come into the lande that hath ben turned and toth with the Swoode, and gathered gether againe out of many people upon the mountaynes of Israel, which have ben always subject to Waile: but it is bought out of the people, and they dwell all safe.

9 Thou shalt ascend and come by like a storme, as a cloude to cover the lande that thou, with all thy hosts, & a great multitude of people with thee.

Moxoner, thus saith the Lorde God:
At the same time all things come into thy minde, so that thou shalt think \(^{(v)}\) enue thoughts.

And saith, I will up to the lande of un-walled vallages, I will go to them that be at rest, Whiche dwell safely, all dwelling without Walles, they have neiter barres nor gates:

To spoyle the pay, and to take a bootee, to turne thy haunte upon the desolate places that are \(^{(v)}\) now inhabited, & upon that people that is gathered together from among the heathen, Whiche have gotten cattell and goodes, and dwell in the midst of the lande.

10 Then saith Saba and Dedan, and the marcheaunts of Tharses with all their lions, say unto thee: \(^{(v)}\) Art thou come to spoyle a pay? hath thou gathered thy people together to take a bootee, to take away slue and gold, to carrie away cat-tel and good, and to have a great pay?

11 Therefore, O thou some of man, thou shall prophesie and say unto Go, thus saith the Lorde Go: In that day when my people Israel \(^{(v)}\) Welleth safe, shalt thou not knowe it:

15 And thou shalt come from thy place out of the north partes, thou and much people with thee, which ride al upon horses, \((v)\) a great multitude and a mightie armie.

16 Ye shall then come upon my people of Israel, as a cloude to cover the lande:
This shall come to passe in the \((v)\) latter yeres, and I will bring thee by into my land, that the heathen may knowe me when I haabe \(^{(v)}\) sanctified in the O
Sow, before their eyes.

17 Thus saith the Lorde Go: Art no thou he of whom I have spoken in old tyme \((v)\) by the handes of my seruantes the prophetes of Israel, which prophesie in those dapes and yeeres, that I should bring thee upon them:

18 At the same tyme when Go commeth up by into the lande of Israel, saith the Lorde Go, shall my neigne indignation in my wrath:

19 For in my indignation and fire of my wrath have I spakken, sure at that tyme ther shalbe a great shaking in the lande of Israel.

20 The very fitts in the sea, the foules in the ayre, the beasts of the field, and all that move and crepe upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the earth, shall tremble at my presence:
the
hills also shalbe turned upside downe, the \((v)\) states shal fall, and all Walles shall fall downe to the grounde.

21 I will call for a Swoode upon \((v)\) hym in all my mountaynes, saith the Lorde Go: so that every mawe sfoode shall be upon another.

22 With pestilence and blood will I pleade against him: noznie rayne and haile stones, fire and bombstone will I cause to rayne upon hym and all his haotes, ye and upon all that great people that is with hym.

23 Thus will I be \(^{(v)}\) magnificed, sanctified, and knowen in the eyes of many naions: and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

The prophecie
1 Then will I shift thee, and cause thee to fall out of thy hand, and cause thy right hand to fall out of thy hand.

2 And I will turn thee about, and cause thee to come up from the north parts, and bring thee up to the mountains of Israel.

3 As thy towel, I will slay thee out of thy right hand, and cause thy right hand to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou with all thy host, and all the people that is with thee, shall fall upon the mountains of Israel: then will I slay thee into the flock of birds,andsheep, to all fethered foules and beasts of the field, to be beheaded.

5 Thou shalt fall upon the open field: for I have spoken, saith the Lord God, into Magog, and among those that are chief in the midst of the fire, will I slay thee, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

6 I will make also the name of my holiness to be known among my people Israel, and will not let them pollute my holy name any more: but the very heathen shall know that I am the Lord, the holy one of Israel.

7 Behold it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God; this is the day whereof I have spoken.

8 They that dwell in the cities of Israel, shall fall forth, and let fire upon the weapons, and burn them, shields and speares, bowes and arrows, hand staves, and woodes, and they shall burn them with fire seven years.

9 So that they shall eat of the fruit of the field, neither shall hewing down any of the wood: for with weapons that they make their fire, they shall rob thse that robbeth them, and spoile thse that spooleth them, saith the Lord God.

10 And the same time will I cause thee to be buried in Sog, even the valley wherein thou goest toward.

11 Then the grave of Sog and Magog, saith the Lord: Behold O Sog, thou chief prince at Meshech and Tubal, I will slay thee.

12 Seven monethes long shall the house of Israel be burying of them, that they may cleanse the land.

13 And all the people of the land shall bury them, and they shall have a name when I slaye glorified, saith the Lord God.

14 They shall make their graves with the head towards the east, and their face towards the land, where they fell, and they fell, and all his multitude shall be buried there, saith the Lord.

15 And they shall make their graves and put their head towards the land, and they fell, and all his multitude shall be buried there, saith the Lord.

16 And the name of the city shall be called Hanonal: thus shall they make the land clean.

17 And thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God: Speak unto the birds and all fethered foules, yea and to all the beasts of the field, Assemble you together, and come, gather you round about to my sacrifice that I sacrifice for you, even a great sacrifice upon the mountains of Israel, that ye may eat flesh, and drink blood.

18 Ye shall eat the flesh of the valiant men, and drink the blood of the princes of the land, of the rams, the heather of the goates, and of the bullockes, that be all fed at Baalath.

19 Ye shall eat the fat your belly full, and drink blood till ye be drunken of my sacrifice, which I have sacrificed for you.

20 Ye shall fell my holy men, with the valiant men and men of warre, saith the Lord God.

21 I will set my glorie also among the generall, that all the heathen may see my judgement that I have executed, and know that I the Lord.

22 And the house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God, from that day, and so forth.
The prophesie

23 And the heathen shall know, that whereas the house of Israel was led into captivity, it was for their wickedness, because they offended me: for the which cause I hid my face from them, and delivered them into the hands of their enemies, that they might all be made a name with the Lord.

24 According to their unthankfulness, according to their transgressions have I done unto them, I hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord God: How will I bring again the captivities of Jacob, and have mercy upon the whole house of Israel, and be jealous for my holy name sake.

26 After that they have borne their shame, and all their transgression, whereby they have transgressed against me when they obeyed not my people by their own strength, neither yet by the strength of men, but that I hid myself my people famished.

The xxl. Chapter.

1 And the wise and twelve pence of our captivity, in the beginning of the year, the tenth day of the month, that is the fourteenth year after the city was taken, the sixth same day came the hand of the Lord upon me, and spake unto me thus:

2 Even into the land of Israel brought he me in the visions of God, and set me down upon a marvellous high mountaine, whereupon there was as it had been the building of a citie towards the south.

3 The visionary which he carried me, and beheld there was a man, whose semblance was like bale, which had a twisted line of star in his hand, and a cane to measure with ; and he stood in the doore.

4 And that man said unto me: Thou sonne of man, mark well with thine eyes, and hearken with thine ears, and fasten it in thine heart, whatsoever I shall show thee: for to the intent that they might be moved thereunto to make them return, and to return again to the Lord, and to hearken unto his word.

5 Behold, there was a wall on the side of the house, round about : about the cane to measure with that he had in his hand, was five cubits long by the cube a hande breadth: So he measured the breadth of the building with one cane, and the heighth with one cane.

6 Then came he to the gate which looked toward the east, and went by the staites thereof, and measured the post of the gate one cubit broad, and the other post of the gate one cubit broad.

7 And every chamber was one cubit long, and one cubit broad, and betwixt the chambers were five cubits : and the post of the gate by the porch of the gate within, was one cubite.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within one cubite.

9 Then measured he the porch of the gate eight cubites : the posts there of two cubits, and the porch of the gate was inlarded.

10 And the chambers of the gate eastward, were there on this side, and there on that side : they three were of one measure, and the posts had one measure on this side, and one measure on that side.

11 After this, he measured the breadth of the entrance of the gate ten cubits, and the heighth of the gate thirteen cubits.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubite on this side, and the space one cubite on that side: the chambers five cubites on this side, and five cubites on that side.

13 He measured the gate from the rooke of a chamber to his owne rooke the breadth of sue and twentie cubites: doone against doone.

14 He made "fronites alio of three cubicubites, even into the front of the court rounde about the gate.

15 And from the forefront of the entrance of the gate, to the forefront of the gate within were fiftie cubites.
And there were narrow windows in the chambers, and in the frontes within the gate round about, as in the arches: and the windows [were] round about within, and upon the frontes were pauline trees.

17 Then brought he me into the outward court, where as were chambers, and a pavement made for the court round about: their chambers were upon the pavement.

18 And the pavement [was] by the side of the gates, outer against the length of the gates: and the pavement [was] beneath.

19 Then he measured the breadth fro the forefront of the lower gate without, unto the forefront of the court within, a hundred cubites eastward and northward.

20 And the gate in the outward court that looked toward the north, measured he after the length and breadth thereof.

21 And the chambers thereof [were] three on this side, and three on that side: and the frontes thereof, and the arches thereof [were] after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

22 And their windows and their arches with their pauline trees [were] after the measure of the gate that looked toward the east: and the going by unto it [had] seven steps, and the arches thereof [were] before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court [waas] outer against the gate toward the north and toward the east, and he measured from gate to gate a hundred cubits.

24 After that he brought me toward the south, where there stood a gate toward the south, and he measured the frontes thereof and the arches thereof according to those measures.

25 And there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about like these windows: the length [was] fifty cubits, the breadth five and twenty cubits.

26 And there were seven steps at the going up to it, and the arches thereof before them: it had pauline trees, one on this side, and another on that side, upon the front thereof.

27 And there was a gate in the inner court toward the south, and he measured from gate to gate toward the south, a hundred cubits.

28 So he brought me into the inner court toward the south gate, and he measured the south gate according to those measures.

29 And the chambers thereof, the frontes thereof, and the arches thereof, according to these measures, and windows in it: and in the arches thereof round about, fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

30 And the arches round about were five and twenty cubits long, and five cubits broad.

31 And the arches thereof [were] toward the biter court, and pauline trees upon the frontes thereof, the going by to it [had] eight steps.

32 And he brought me also into the inner court toward the east, and he measured the gate according to those measures.

33 And the chambers thereof, and frontes thereof, and the arches thereof [were] according to these measures: there were windows therein, and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the arches thereof [were] toward the biter court, and pauline trees upon the frontes thereof on this side, and on that side, the going by to it had eight steps.

35 And he brought me to the north gate, and measured it according to those measures.

36 The chambers thereof, the frontes thereof, and the arches thereof, [were] windows therein round about: and the length [was] fifty cubits, the breadth five and twenty cubits.

37 And the frontes thereof [were] toward the inner court, and pauline trees [were] upon the frontes thereof on this side, and on that side, and the going by to it had eight steps.

38 And a chamber and the entire thereof [were] under the frontes of the gates: there they burned the burnt offerings.

39 And in the porch of the gate stood two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, upon which they set the burnt offering, and the sin offering, and the trespass offering.

40 And at the side without the steps at the entrance of the north gate [were] two tables, and on the other side which was at the porch of the gate [were] two tables.
41 Four tables were on this side, and four on that side by the side of the gate, (then) eight tables, whereupon they laid their sacrifices.
42 And the four tables were of seven stone for the burnt offering; of a cubit and a half long, and a cubit and a half broad, and one cubit high, whereupon were the instruments wherewith they laid the burnt offering, and the sacrificial.
43 And within there were hooks one hand breadth (long) fastened round about, and upon the tables was the offering selle.
44 And without the inner gate (were) the chambers of the singers in the tabernacle, which was at the side of the north gate, and their prospect was to ward the south: and one was at the side of the east gate, having the prospect ward the north.
45 And he said unto me: This chamber, whose prospect is toward the south. (42) for the priests that have charge to keep the house.
46 And the chamber whose prospect is toward the north (43) for the priests that have charge to keep the altar;
there is the format of Sabaoth, which the format of Levi come near to the Lode, to minister unto him.
47 So he measured the court, which had length a hundred cubits, and a hundred in breadth, (even) foursquare: and the altar stood before the house.
48 And he brought me to the porch of the(44) house, and measured the porch five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side.
49 The(45) length of the porch was twen tie cubits; the breadth eleven cubits, and by steps went men up to it: by the frontes also were pillars, one on this side, and another on that side.

The xi. Chapter.

1 The disposition and device of building against the temple, and of the other things thereunto belonging.

The breadth of the tabernacle.
2 The breadth of the doone was ten cubits, and the fides of the doone(46) were five cubits on the one side, and five cubits on the other side, and he measured the length thereof of fourtie cubites, and the breadth twenty cubites.
3 Then went he in (and) measured the front of the doone twu cubites: but the doone it self was five cubites, and the breadth on the other side of the doone was seven cubites.
4 He measured the length thereof of twenty cubites, and the breadth twenty cubites before the temple. And he said unto me,
 This is the most holy (place.)
5 He measured also the wall of the house five cubites, and the breadth of a chamber four cubites round about the house on every side.
6 And the chambers were chamber upon chamber, three and thirty in order: and they entered the wall which was of the house for the chambers round about, that they might be fastened, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.
7 There was an enlarging, and a winding 25 about, mounting still upward to the chambers: for the staire of the house was mounting still upward round about the house, therefore the house was larger by ward: so they went up from the lowest chamber to the highest by the staire.
8 And I found the house hys round about:
the foundation of the chambers were a full stone of five cubites by to the arme holes.
9 The thickeannes of the wall which was for the chamber without (was) five cubites, and that which remained was the place of the chambers that were within.
10 And betwenee the chambers was the widnesse of twenty cubites round ab out the house on every side.
11 And the doones of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one doone toward the north, and another to ward the south: the breadth of the place that remained was five cubites round about.
That is, the great pillars, pillars of the sanctuary, were like the horns of the sanctuary, were of brass. All the doors of the temple were square, and the fashion of the sanctuary was appearance like appearance.

22. The altar of wood was three cubites long, and two cubites broad, and of two cubits high, the one side, and the other side, and the altar thereof was of wood. And he said unto me, This is the table that stand before the Lord.

23. The temple and the holiest of all had either of them two doors.

24. And the doors had two doors [a piece, even] two folding doors, two for the one door, and two doors for the other.

25. And upon the doors of the temple, there were made Cherubims and palm trees, so that a palm tree was between a Cherub and a Cherub, and every Cherub had two faces,

The xlii. Chapter.

\[\text{Of the chambers of the temple for the priests, and the holy things.}\]

1. Then led he me into the outer court by the way toward the north, and he brought me into the chamber that was outer against the separate place, which was before the building toward the north.

2. Before the length of a hundred cubites [was the north door: and the breadth] was five cubites.

3. Over against the twenty cubits, which were for the inner court, and over against the pavement, which was for the outer court, [was] chamber against chamber, three orders.

4. And before the chambers, ther was a walking place of ten cubits wide in ward, the way of one cubite: and their doors toward the north.

5. Thus the upper chambers were all way narrower for those chambers seemed to care by these, to wit, the lobser and the chamberer of the building.

6. For they were in three orders, but had no pillars as the pillars of the courts: therefore were they smaller than the next the moff and the muddlemost, to reeke from the ground.

7. And the wall that was without outer against the chambers, toward the outer court, on the forepart of the chambers, the length thereof was five cubits.

8. For the length of the chambers that were in the outer court was five cubits: and, before the temple was a hundred cubits.

9. And under these chambers, was the entrance from the east, as one goeth from them, from the outer court.

10. In
The prophecie

10. In the thickness of the wall of the court towards the east, before the separate place, and before the building of the chambers.

11. And the way before them after the appearance of the chambers which were towards the north, as their length, so was their breadth: and all their entries were according to their fashion, and according to their doores.

12. And according to the doores of the chambers that were towards the south, [was] a doore in the head of the way, [even] the way directly before the wall towards the east, as one entrench.

13. Then lovd he unto me: The chambers towards the north, and the chambers towards the south, Whiche are before the separate place, those be holy chambers, Wherein the pietes that [are] approst by unto the Lord, must eate the most holy things, there must they lay the most holy things, and the meate offering, and sinne offering, and trespass offering; for it is a holy place.

14. When the pietes come therein, they shall not go out of the holy place into the better court, but there they shall lay by their garments wherein they minister, for they are holy; and shall put on (b) other garments, and so shall approst to those which are for the people.

15. And when he had finished the measuring of the house within, he led me forth toward the gate whose prospect is towards the east, and he measured it rounde about.

16. He measured the east side With the measuring cane five hundred canes, [even] with the measuring cane round about.

17. And he measured the north side five hundred canes, [even] with the measuring cane round about.

18. The south side also measured he five hundred canes, by the measuring cane.

19. He turned about (a) to the west side, and measured five hundred canes, by the measuring cane.

20. So he measured it by the four sides: it had a wall round about five hundred canes long, and five hundred broade, to make a separation betwene the holy sancturie, and the prophane place.

The xliii. Chapter.

1. He setteth the glory of God going into the temple, from whence it had before departed.

7. He mentioneth the holieariie of the children of Israel, for the whiche they were consumed and brought to naught.

10. He is commanded to call them againe to repensuum.

1. So he made me to the gate, [even] the gate that turneth towards the east:

7. And he said unto me: O thou some of man, this stome is my state, the place of my footestepes, whereas I dwell among the children of Israel for evermore; lo that the house of Israel that no more deie my holy name, neither they nor their kinges provoke their abominations, and provoke the dead bodies of their kinges, in their holy places.

8. About they have set their thresholds by my thresholds, and their postrs by my postrs, and a wall betwixt me and them, yet have they defiled my holy name With their abominations that they have committed: wherefore I have consumed them in my wrath.

9. But now let them put away their abominations, and the dead bodies of their kings out of my sight, and I will dwell among them for evermore.

10. That soe O thou some of man, hebe thou the house of Israel this house, that they may be ashamed of their wickednesse, and measure themselves an example thereat.

11 And
And if they be ashamed of all their vain works, then they bring the fourth of the house and pattern thereof, the going out, the coming in, all the maner thereof, yeal all the ordinances thereof, the figures, and all the lawes thereof, and write it in their sight, that they may hee the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and do them.

This is the lawe of the house: Upon the top of the mount, shall all the limites thereof be, rounde about the most holie place; this is the lawe of the house.

And these are the measures of the altar in cubites: the cubite is a cubite and a hande breadth, the bottom (halbe) a cubite, and the breadth a cubite, and the borde thereof by the edge thereof rounde about was one span, and this (halbe) the height of the altar.

And from the bottome upon the ground unto the lower piece (halbe) two cubites, and the breadth one cubite: and from the little piece to the great piece (halbe) four cubites, the breadth) one cubite.

The altar was four cubites he, and from the altar bypwarde floode four yomes.

And the altar was twelve cubites long, and twelve cubites broad, square in the four comers thereof.

The frame of the altar (halbe) fourten cubites long, and fourten cubites broad in the square comers thereof, and the borde about it halfe a cubite, and the bottome thereof (halbe) a cubite, and the steps thereof (halbe) turned toward the east.

And he saide unto me, Thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God: These are the ordinances of the altar, in the day when it is made, to offer burnt offringes thereupon, & to sprinkle blood thereupon.

And thou shalt bring to the priests, to the Levites, that be of the seed of Sa- dor, and appoite unto me the Loard God to minister unto me, a young bullocke for a sinne offering.

And thou shalt take of the blood thereof, & put it on the four corners of it, and on the four corners of the frame, and upon the border rounde about: thus shalt thou cleanse it, and purge it.

Thou shalt take the bullocke all of the sinne offering, and burne him in the ap- pointed place without the sanctuary.

The second day, take a goatte bucke without blemish for a sinne offering, to cleanse the altar withal, like as it was cleansed with the bullocke.

Hold when thou hast made an end of cleansing it, then offer a young bullocke without blemish, and a rammie out of the flocke without blemish also.

Offer them before the Lord, and let the priests cast salt theraupon, and speake Offerings upon the altar: so I will accept you, faith the Loard God.

The xliii. Chapter.

1. He sheweth what doore of the temple is that. He is commanded to upbraid the people with their offence, who are to be admitted to the service of the temple, and who are refused. 1. He sheweth what priests he would have admitted into the holy place, and also their order.

For this, he brought me againe to the out- ward gate of the sanctuary on the east side, and that was shut. Then saide the Lord unto me: This gate halfe shut, and not opened, neither shall any man go through it: for the Loard God of Israel hath entered by it, and it halfe shut.

3. It is for the prince, the prince shall sit in it to eate bread before the Lord: he shall enter by the way of the poche of that gate, and shall goe out by the way of the same.

4. Then brought he me toward the north gate before the house: and as I looked beholde behind the glory of the Lord filled the house of the Lord, and I fell upon my face.

5 So the Lord spake unto me: O thou son of man, set thine heart, and behold with thine eyes, and hearken with thine ears, and set thine ears to the words that I shall speak unto thee concerning all the ordinances of the house of the Lord, and all the lavers thereof, and mark well the entering in of the house, with every going forth of the sanctuary.

6 And thou shalt say to the rebellious even to the house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God: O house of Israel, ye have enough of all your abominations.

7 Seeing ye have brought into my sanctuary strangers having uncircumcised hearts and uncircumcised flesh, to be in my sanctuary to pollute my house, when ye offer my bread, fat, and blood, and they have broken my covenant because of all your abominations:

8 And ye have not kept the ordinances of my holy things, and ye have set keepers to keep my sanctuary for you. Therefore thus saith the Lord God: Of all the strangers that dwell among the children of Israel, no stranger uncircumcised in heart, nor uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuary.

But the Levites that went back from me when Israel went astray, which escaped from me after their idols, shall bear their iniquity:

11 And they shall be ministers in my sanctuary, and keep the gates of the house, and minister in the house: they shall lay the burnt offerings, and the sacrifice for the people, and they shall stand before them to serve them.

12 Because they ministered before their idols, and caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquity: therefore have I lifted up my hands against them, saith the Lord God, and they shall bear their iniquity.

13 And they shall not come near unto me to do the office of a priest unto me, neither shall they come near unto any of my holy things in the most holy place: but they shall bear their own name and abominations which they have done.

14 And I will make them keepers of the watch of the house for all the service thereof, so far as that shall be done therein.

15 But the priests, the Levites, the sons of Sadoke that kept the charge of my sanctuary when the children of Israel straied from me, that came to me to do me service, to stand before me, and to offer me the fat and the blood, saith the Lord God:

16 They shall go into my sanctuary, and appoche unto my table to do me service, and they shall keep my charge.

17 Now when they go into the gates of the inner court, they shall put on linen clothes, that no woollen come upon them while they do service under the gates of the inner court, and with in.

18 They shall have linen bonnets upon their heads, and linen breeches upon their loines: they shall not gird them selves in the "ivestate.

19 And when they go forth unto the outer court, they shall put off the clothes wherein they have ministered, and lay them in the chamber of the sanctuary, and put on other apparel, and they shall not sanctifie the people with their clothes.

20 They shall not sin to have their heads, nor suffer their hands to growl long, but their heads alone.

21 All the priests that go into the inner court shall make no wine.

22 They shall marry no widow, neither one that is put from her husband; but a maid of the seed of the house of Israel, or a widow that hath had a priest before.

23 They shall hebre the people the difference between the holy and unholy, and cause them to discern between the clean and unclean.

24 And in controversy they shall stand to judge, and give sentence after my judgments: and my laves and my statutes shall they keep in all my holy feast, and halow all my Sabbaties.

25 They shall come at no dead person to defile them selves: but with father or mother, son or daughter, brother or sister, that hath had yet no husband, they may be defiled.

26 And when he is cleansed, there shall be reckoned unto him seven days.

27 And when he goeth into the sanctuary into the inner court to minister in the sanctuary, he shall bring his burnt offerings: (b) They shall be broken among the people.

159. Chapter.

1 Out of all the lands of promise are there separated four portions, of which the first is given to the priests and to the temple, the second to the Levites, the third to the cote, the fourth to the prince. 2 An exhortation to the heads of Israel. 3 Of the weights and measures. 4 Of the firstfruits.

1 Wherefore deuide the land by the lot for inheritance, ye shall offer an oblation to the Lord, a holy [portion of the lande, twenty and five thousand canes long, and ten thousand broad: this shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

2 Of this part thereof shall belong unto the sactuary, five hundred cubits [in length] with five hundred in breadth, square round about, and five cubits round about for the suburbs.

3 And of this measure shalt thou measure, [namely] of the length of twenty and five thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand: and in it shall be the sactuary and the most holy place.

4 That holy portion of the land shall partake unto the priests which do serve in the sactuary, which come nere to serve the Lord: and it shall be their place for their houses, and a holy place for the sactuary.

5 And in the twentie and five thousand length, and ten thousand breadth, shall the Levites that minister in the house have their posession for twentie chambers.

6 Ye shall give also unto the cote a possession of five thousand canes broad, and twenty and five thousand long, over against the oblation of the holy portion, that shall be for the whole house of Israel.

7 And [a portion shall] be for the prince on this side and on that side of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the posession of the cote, [even] before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the posession of the cote, from the west corner wellward, & from the east corner eastward: and the length halfe by one of the portions, from the west border unto the east border.

8 In this lande shall he his possession in Israel: and his princes shall not oppose the people, and the rest of the lande shall they give to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

9 Thus saith the Lord God, (b) Let it suffice you of princes of Israel: leave off the tribute and oppression, and execute judgment and injustice: take away your exactions from your people, saith the Lord God.

10 Ye shall have a true Ballaunce, a true (c) Epha, and a true Bath.

11 The Epha and the Bath halfe an ounce: one Bath containeth the tenth part of an Honer, and an Epha the tenth part of an Honer: the equalitie thereof shall be after the honer.

12 The Shilte maketh twentie Gerales, and twentie Silses, and (d) twentie five, and fifteene Silses make a Mance.

13 This is the oblation that ye shall offer: the first part of an Epha out of the honer of wheate, and the first part of an Epha out of an Honer of barley.

14 Concerning the obnauncest of the oyle, [even] of the Bath of oyle, ye shall offer the tenth part of a Bath out of the Coz; ten Batches (halfe) a honer, because ten Batches full a honer.

15 And our lambes from two hundred sheepe out of the fat pastures of Israel, for a meate offering, burnt offering, and peace offering, to reconcile them, saith the Lord God.

16 All the people of the lande shall give this oblation for the prince in Israel.

17 Again.
17 Againe, it shalbe the princes part to offer burne offringes, meate offringes, and wine offringes, in the holy dayes, newe monnes, Sabbathes, & in all the hie feastes of the house of Israel: he shal prepare the same offring, meate offring, burnt offring, and peace offering, to reconcile the house of Israel.

18 Thus saith the Lord God: The first day of the first moneth, thou shalt take a young bullocke without blemishe, and cleane the sancturie.

19 So the pricke shall take of the blood of the same offering, and put it upon the poles of the houe, & upon the foure corners of the frame of the aultre, & upon the poles of the gate of the inner court, and thus shalt thou do also the feuenthe day of the moneth; such as hauie kinde of ignoraunce, or being decreaued, to reconcile the houe of Israel.

20 Upon the fourteentehe day of the first moneth, ye shall haue the passour, a feast of seven dayes, and ye shall eate unleauened bread.

21 Upon the same day that the prince prepare for him selfe and all the people of the lande a bullocke for a lone offering.

22 And in the sevene dayes of the feast, he shall make a burnt offering to the Lord, sevene bullockes & seven rammes without blemishe dayly, for seuen dayes, and a hee goat dayly for a lone offering.

23 And he shall prepare a meate offering of an Ephah for a bullocke, & an Ephah for a rammee, & a D hin of oyle for an Ephah.

24 And he shall prepare a lone offering of an Ephah for a bullocke, 24 dan Ephah for a rammee, & a D. hin of oyle for an Ephah.

25 In the sevene moneth in the seuenthe day of the moneth on the feast, he shall do according into these for seuen dayes; according to the same offering, according to the burnt offering, and according to the meate offering, and according to the oyle.
freely unto the Lord: one then that open him the gate that turneth toward the east, and he shall make his burnt offerings, and his peace offerings, as he did on the Sabbath day: after he shall go forth, and when he is gone forth, one shall shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt daily make a burnt offering unto the Lord of a lamb of one year without blemish, then shall it do every morning.

14 Thou shalt prepare a meat offering for it every morning, the first part of an Ephah, and the third part of a hin of oil to mingle with the fine flour: this meat offering shalt he continually by a perpetual ordinance unto the Lord.

15 Thus shall they prepare the lamb, the meat offering, and spice, every morning, for a continual burnt offering.

16 Wherefore, thus saith the Lord God: If the prince give a gift unto any of his sons, the inheritance thereof shall be his sons' their possession (halfe by inheritance).

17 But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his servants, then shall it be (the one) of his inheritance.

18 The prince also shall take none of the people's inheritance, nor put them from their possession: but to his sons shall he give his own inheritance, that my people be not scattered abroad every man from his possession.

19 And he brought me through the entrance at the side of the gate, to the holy chambers of the priests which (stood) toward the north, and beheld, there was a place upon the west side of them.

20 Then said he unto me: This is the place where the priests shall sacrifice the trespass and fine offerings, and cause the meat offerings that they need not bear them into the outward court, and to (f) endue the people.

21 So he brought me into the outer court, (g) and caused me to go by the four corners of the court: and beheld, in every corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the four corners of the court there were courts of pavement, of four cubits long, and thirty cubits broad: these four corners were of one measure.

23 And there went a wall round about them, even about those four: and under the wall there were "hutches" made round about.

24 Then said he unto me: These are the houses, where the ministers of the house shall boyle the sacrifice of the people.

The xlvj. Chapter.

1 The vision of the waters that came out of the temple. 2 The coales of the land of promise and the revelation thereof by tribes.

A Afterward he brought me again into the door of the house, and behold there was a gush out (h) of waters from under the threshold of the house eastward: for the forefront of the house stood toward the east: and the waters ran down from under the right side of the house, which went into the altar southward.

2 Then he led me out to the north gate, and led me about by the way without the inner gate, by the way that turneth eastward: and behold, there issued forth waters from the right side.

3 Now when the man that had the line in his hand went forth eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and then he brought me through the waters, the waters were to the ankles.

4 So he measured yet a thousand, and brought me through the waters, the waters were to the knees: yet measured he a thousand, and brought me through, the waters were to the loins.

5 After this he measured a thousand again, then was it such a (i) river that I could not go through it, the waters was Iisen, (j) the water did flow as a river that might not be crossed.

6 And he led me up: and, lo, thou sawest this: the waters went down into the midst of the people.

7 Now when I returned, behold at the banke of the river there were very many trees (k) on the one side and on the other.

8 Then said he unto me: These waters flow out toward the east country, and runne
The prophesie runne doth into the plaine, and come into the land, waters shalbe holsome.

9 Ye all that live and move, whereunto this river commeth, shall live: and there shalbe a very great multitude of fishes, because these waters shall come thither, for they shalbe holsome: and every thing shall live whether the river cometh.

10 By this river shall the fishes stand, from En-gaddi unto Eneglaim, and the breed of their nets: for the fishes shalbe according to their kinds as the fishes of the (\textit{3}) maine sea, exceeding marny.

11 But the (\textit{1}) marishes thereof, and the pits thereof, shall not be made holsome, they shalbe made salt pits.

12 By this river upon the banke thereof on this side and on that side shall grow all trees for meat, whose leaves shall not fade, neither shall the fruit thereof fall, but shall hang foorth and therefore according to his monethes, for the waters thereof run out of the sanctuary: and the fruit thereof shalbe for meat, and the leaves thereof for (\textit{4}) medicine.

13 Thus saith the Lord God: Let this be the border whereby ye shall inherit the land according to the twelve tribes of Israel: Joseph shall have two portions.

14 And ye shall inherit it one aswell as another, concerning the which I lift by my hand to geue it unto your fathers: and this lande shall fall unto you for inheritance.

15 This is the border of the (\textit{5}) lande by on the north side, from the maine sea toward Bethlon, as men go to Edoda.

16 [Namely] Hamah, Beroca, Sabarun, which are betweene the borders of Damascus, and betweene the borders of Hamah, Bazar Hathiton, that is by the coastes of Hauran.

17 Thus the borders from the sea sooth shalbe Hazer Enan, the border of Damascus, and the north northward, and the borders of Hamah: this is the north part.

18 The east side shall ye measure from Hauran and Damascus, from Gilead and the land of Israel by Jordan, and from the border unto the east sea: this is the east part.

19 The south side shalbe toward Zeman, from Thamar to the waters of strike in Cades, and the river to the maine sea: and that is the south part toward Zeman.

20 The west part also shalbe the great D sea, from the borders till man come over against Hamah: this is the west part.

21 This lande shalbe part among you according to the tribes of Israel, and bestride it by lot to be an heritage for you, to the strangers that dwell among you, and beger children among you: so ye shall take them among the children of Israel, like as though they were of your owne creature, and they shalbe (\textit{6}) inheritance with you among the children of Israel.

22 And in what tribe the stranger dwelleth, in the same tribe shal ye give him his inheritance, saith the Lord God.

The xlviii. Chapter.

1 The lots of the seven tribes. 2 The parts of the possession of the priests and of the temple, of the Levites of the city, and of the prince, are rehearsed. 3 The lots of the other tribes. 4 The gates of the city.

These are names of the tribes: from the north side to the coast toward Bethlon, till thou comest unto Hamah and Bazar, Enan, the borders of Damascus northward, the coast of Hamah, Dan shall have his portion from the east quarter unto the west.

2 Upon the borders of Dan, from the east side unto the west, shall Aser have his portion.

3 Upon the borders of Aser, from the east part unto the west, shall Naphtali have his portion.

4 Upon the borders of Nephthali, from the east quarter unto the west, shall Manasses have his portion.

5 Upon the borders of Manasses from east the east side unto the west, shall Ephraim have his portion.

6 Upon the borders of Ephraim, from the east part unto the west, shall Ruben have his portion.

7 Upon the borders of Ruben, from the east quarter unto the west, shall Juda have his portion.

8 Upon the borders of Juda, from the east part unto the west part, shall be the (3) offering which they shall offer of fine and twentie thousand (ounces) bozde, and of length, as one of the parts, from the east side unto the west side: and the sanctuarie (shalbe) in the midst of it.

9 The oblation that ye shall offer unto the Lord, shall be five and twentie thousand long, and ten thousand bozde.

10 And for these (even) for the priests shalbe this holy oblation: toward the north five and twentie thousand long: toward the west ten thousand bozde, toward the east ten thousand bozde also, and toward the south five and twentie thousand long, and the sanctuarie of the Lord shall be in the midst thereof.

11 This sanctified portion shall be the priests that are of the children of Saba, which have kept my charge, which went not astray in the error of the children of Israel like as the Leuites went astray.

12 Therefore this oblation of the lande that is offered, shalbe theirs as a thing most holy, hard upon the borders of the Leuites.

13 And over against the border of the priests, shall the Leuites have five and twentie thousand long, and ten thousand bozde: all the length that shalbe five and twentie thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 Of this portion they shall sell nothing, nor make any permutation thereof, nor alienate the first frutes of the lande: for it is holy unto the Lord.

15 And the five thousand that are left in the breadth over against the five and twentie thousand, shall be a paphane place for the citie, for housing, & for suburbs: and the citie shalbe in the midst thereof.

16 And thee shalbe the measures thereof: the north part five hundred and four thousand, and the south part five hundred and four thousand, and the east part five hundred and four thousand, and the west part five hundred & four thousand.

17 The suburbs of the citie shall have toward the north two hundred and fiftie, toward the south two hundred and fiftie, toward the west two hundred and fiftie, toward the east two hundred and fiftie.

18 And the residue in length over against the oblation of the holy portion, shall be ten thousand toward the east, and ten thousand toward the west: and it shall be over against the oblation of the holy portion: and the encreas thereof shalbe for their meate that serve the citie.

19 And they that serve the citie, they shall serve it out of all the tribes of Israel.

20 All the oblation that shalbe five and twentie thousand (with) five and twentie thousand: ye shall offer this oblation four square, for the sanctuarie, and for the possession of the citie.

21 And the residue shalbe for the prince, on the one side and on the other of the holy oblation, and of the possession of the citie over against the five and twentie thousand of the oblation toward the east border: and westward over against the five and twentie thousand toward the west border, over against shalbe the portion for the prince: this shalbe the holy oblation, and the house of the sanctuarie shalbe in the midst thereof.

22 Moreover, from the possession of the Leuites, and the cities possession, that which is in the midst shalbe the princes, between the border of (3) Juda and the border of Beniamin shalbe the princes.

23 Also of the other tribes: from the east part unto the west, shall Beniamin have his portion.

24 Upon the borders of Beniamin, from the east side unto the west, shall Simeon have his portion.

25 Upon the borders of Simeon, from the east side unto the west, shall Judah have his portion.

26 Upon the borders of Judah, from the east side unto the west, shall Zabulon have his portion.

27 Upon the borders of Zabulon, from the east part unto the west, shall Gad have his portion.

28 Upon the borders of Gad at the south side toward Lemania, the border shall be from Thanar unto the waters of Sirze to Cades, and to the river; that runneth...
The prophesie

29 This is the lande which ye shall divide by lot for an inheritance into the tribes of Israel, and these be their portions faith the Lord God.
30 These be the bonds of the citie, upon the north part five hundred and four thousand measures.
31 The gates of the citie that have the names of the tribes of Israel, three gates of the north side: one gate of Ruben, another of Juda, the third of Leuit.
32 Upon the east side five hundred and four thousand measures, with three gates: the one of Joseph, another of Benjamin, the third of Dan.
33 Upon the south side five hundred and four thousand measures, with the three gates: the one of Simeon, another of Zebulon, the third of Naphtali.
34 And upon the west side, five hundred and four thousand measures, with their three gates also: the one of Gad, another of Asher, the third of Nephtali.
35 Thus shall it have eighteen thousand measures rounde about: and the name of the citie from that time forth, shall be, The Lord is there.

The booke of the prophete Daniel.

The first Chapter.
1 The prophete telleth the captituite of Jehoachim king of Juda, 4 Of the children that were in captituite, the king commandeth to choose which of them should be taught the learning and language of the Chaldeans. 7 They are allowed the kinges feeding. 8 Daniel abdainteth from the meate of the king of Babylon, of Daniel.

princes.

Springsides without any blemische, but well favoured, studious in al wisdom, skillfull for knowledge, able to better knowledge, such as have lined their fe in the that they may stand in the kings palace: yea whom they might recee the learning the song of the Chaldeans.

Unto these the king appointed a daily provision every day, of a portion of the kings meate, and of the vine which he drank, to do thec them thre peres, that afterwarde they might stand be fore the king.

Among these noble were certayne of the children of Judah: namely, Daniel,

Ananias, Misael, and Azarias.

Unto these the chiefe chamberlayne gave other names, and called Daniel,

Balthasar: Ananias, Sedaach: Misael, and Azarias, Abednego.

But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not desite hym selfe with the portion of the kings meate, nor with the wine which he dranke: therefore he required the chiefe chamberlayne that he might not desite him selfe.

And God brought Daniel into favour and tender love with the chiefe cham-berlayne.

And the chiefe chamberlayne sayd un to Daniel, I am a stranger of my lord the king which hath appointed you your meate and your dranke; wherefore shoul d ye for your faces dresse hym when then

Then Daniel sayde unto Balthasar, who the chiefe chamberlayne had let over Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azar-rias:

Do pone but ten daies with thy sernauetes, and let vs have pulse to eate, and water to drinke.

Then let our counenauetes be looked upon before thee, and the counenauetes of the children that eate of the portion of the kings meate: and as thou seekest, deal with thy serenauetes.

So he consented to them in this matter, and proved them ten daies.

And at the end of ten daies, their counenauetes appeared fatter and fatter in flesh than all the children which did eate the portion of the kings meate.

Thus Balthasar toke away the portion of their meate, and the wine that they should drinke, and gave them pulse.

As for these foure children, God gave them knowledge and understanding in all learning & vsborne: also he gave

Daniel understanding of all vsions and dreames.

Nowe when the time was espac, that the king had appointed to bring them in, the chiefe chamberlayne brought them before Nabuchodonosor.

And the king communed with them:

but among them all were founde none such as Daniel, Ananias, Misael, and Azarias: therefore stode they before the king.

The second vore of the reigne of Babhchodonosor, 2 he called unto him toothsayers, and required of them both the vsie and the interpretation of them: to they said, they can not doe it.

The king commanded all the wise men of Babylon to be layne. 16 Daniel required time to sole the question: 9 the Lord opened the miserie unto Daniel. 24 Daniel is brought to the king, and was with his dreame and the interpretation therof. 44 Of the everla ing kingdom of Christ.

Of the second vore of the reigne of Babhchodonosor, had Nabuchodonosor a dreame, wherebyour his

tate was troubled & his foole baken from him.

Then the king commanded to call the wise men, and toothsayers, & seerers, and the Chaldees, for to heue the his dreame: So they came, & stode be fore the king.

And the king sayde unto them: I have dreamed a dreame, and my spirit was troubled to knowe the dreame.

Upon this the Chaldees answered the king, God saue thy life for ever: Stay thy serenauetes the dreame, and we shall thee the interpretation.

V (1) s The
5 The king aumflwered and lapde to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me; If ye will not make me understand the dream with the interpretation thereof, ye shall be slain with your princes, and your houses made a stable.

6 But if ye tell me the dream and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts, rewards, and great honour, therefore shew me the dream and the interpretation thereof.

7 They answered again, and said: The king must shew his servants the dream, and so that we declare the interpretation thereof.

8 Then the king aumflwered, saying: I perceive of a truth that ye would declare the time, so much as ye see the thing is gone from me.

Therefore if ye will not tell me the dream, this is your only purpose, ye have prepared lying and corrupt words to speak before me, till the time be changed; therefore tell me the dream, that I may know that ye can declare me the interpretation thereof.

10 Upon this the Chaldeans gave answer before the king, and said: There is no man upon earth that can tell the thing which the king speaketh of, ye neither king, prince, nor wise man, that ever asked such things at a wise man, toft layer, or Chaldean.

11 For it is a rare matter that the king requireth, neither is there any that can certifie the king thereof, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For the which cause the king was wrath with great indignation, and commanded to destroy all the wise men at Babylon.

13 So the decree went forth, and the wise men were layed: they sought also to slay Daniel, with his companions.

14 Then Daniel prayed the counsell and decree with Arioch the captain of the king's guard, who was gone sooth to put to death the wise men of Babylon.

15 He aumflwered and lapde into Arioch the king's captain, why is the sentence to hastbe from the king? Then Arioch told Daniel the matter.

16 Upon this went Daniel, and declared the king that he would give him leisure, and that he would shew the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his house, and shewed the thing to Ananias, Hadad, and Azarias, his companions.

18 That they should besee the God of heaven for grace in this secre, that Daniel and his fellows, with other such as were Wise men in Babylon, perished not.

19 Then was the secre revealed unto Daniel in a vision by night: then Daniel prayed the God of heaven.

20 Daniel also aumflwered, and said: *The name of God be praised for ever and ever: for he is worthy and strong, and his praise everlasting. He he taketh away kings, he setteth up kings: he giveth worldome unto the world, and understandeth to those that understand.

22 He revealeth the deep and secret things, he knoweth the thing that lieth in darkness; for the light shineth upon him.

23 I thank thee and say thee O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast given me worldome and strength; and hast shewed me now the thing that we desired: for thou hast declared the kings matter unto us.

24 Upon this went Daniel into Arioch, whom the king had ordained to destroy the wise men at Babylon: he went and spake thus unto him, Delight not the wise men of Babylon, but bring before the king, and I shall shew the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought Daniel before the king in all the haste, and spake thus unto him: I have found a man among the children of Judah that were brought captive, that will declare unto the king the interpretation.

26 Then answered the king and spake unto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar: Arriethable to shewe me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and spake: As for this dream, for the king'sch ease inquisition, there can neither the men of understanding, nor wise men, nor readers of signs, declare it unto the king:

28 But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and sheweth the king Nebuchadnezzar; what is set to come in the latter days. Thy dream and that which thou hast seen in thy head upon thy bed is this.

29 O king, when thou walst in thy bed, thoughts came unto thy mind, what should come hereafter: so that thou art the owner of mysteries, tellsh thee what is to come.

30 As for me this secret is not shewed me for any worldome that I have more than any other thing: but only that I might shew the king the interpretation, and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thy own heart.

31 Thou king livest, and beholdest, there was a great image: this great image whose brightness was excellent, and made before thee, and the fourinethereofwas terrible.

32 This image had feet of iron, his breast and his belly were part of iron and part of clay.

33 This legs were of iron, his feet were part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thou beholdest it till a stone was cut without hands, which smoote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the iron and gold broken al together, and became like the chaff of summer fiores, and the wind caried them away; that no place was found for them: the stone that image became a great mountain, and killed the whole earth.

36 This is the dream: and now will I shew the king what it meaneth.

37 O king, thou art a king of kings: for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, strength, and glory.

38 And all places whithersoever the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field, and the foules of the air hath he given into thy hand, and hath made thee ruler in them all: thou art this head of gold.

39 After thee shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee, another (third) kingdom of iron, which shall break every rule over all the earth.

40 The (fourth) kingdom shall be strong as iron: for as iron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things, and as iron breaketh all these things. (To) shall it break in pieces and bruise (all),

41 Whereas thou hast left the feast from, part of potters clay and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided, but there shall be none of the strength of the iron, so much as thou hast left the iron midst with the clay and earth.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron and part of clay, so shall the kingdom be part strong and part broken.

43 And whereas thou hast left iron midst with clay and earth, they shall mingle them feines with the (feeb) feet of men, and yet not so one with another, as iron will not be mated with clay.

44 And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed, and this kingdom shall not be given over to
The prophecy.

47 The king answered Daniel's $ay$.

48 So the king made Daniel a great man, and gave him many great gifts; he made him ruler of all the countries of Babylon, and the chief of the rulers above all the wise men of Babylon.

49 Then Daniel $made request to the king, and he set Sidach, Belach, and Abdenego over the charge of the province of Babylon: but Daniel sat in the king's gate.

The third Chapter.

1 The king sent for a golden image, which he commanded to be worshipped. Sidach, Belach, and Abdenego are accused, because they despised the king's commandment.

2 They are brought unto the king, commanded to worship the image; if they refuse to do it, and are put into a burning oven. By believing in God they are delivered from the fire.

3 Abuchodonosor confesseth the power of God, after the sight of the miracle.
net, trumpet, harp, cymbal, psaltery, dulcimer, and all manner of instruments of music, ye fall bow down and worship that golden image that Nabuchodonosor the king hath set up.

6. Whoso then falleth not down and worshippeth, shall even in that same house be cast into the midst of a hot fiery furnace.

7. Therefore when all the kings' wise men heard the noise of the comet, trumpet, harp, cymbal, psalteries, and all instruments of music, then all the people, nations, and languages fell down and worshipped the golden image that Nabuchodonosor the king had set up.

8. And they were there certain men of the Chaldees, that went even then, and tried out an accusation of the Jews.

9. They spake, and said, unto the king Nabuchodonosor: O king, live for ever.

10. Thou art a king that canst understand the language of man: and therefore thou hast been able to receive this image, which thou hast set up.

11. And who so then shall not bow down and worship that should be cast into the midst of this hot fiery furnace.

12. Now are there certain Jews, whom thou hast set over the charge of the province of Babylon: [namely] Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego: these men, O king, regarded not thy commandement: yea they will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image that thou hast set up.

13. Then Nabuchodonosor in his anger and wrath commanded that Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego should be brought before him: lo these men were brought before the king.

14. Then Nabuchodonosor spake unto them, and said: Is it true, O Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego, that ye will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image that I have set up?

15. Noble therefore be redy when ye hear the sound of the comet, trumpet, harp, cymbal, psalteries, dulcimer, and all instruments of music, to fall bow down and worship the image whereof I have made thee: ifye worship it not, ye shall be cast immediately into the midst of a hot fiery furnace: so who is that God that can deliver you out of my hands?

16. Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego answered the king, saying: O Nabuchodonosor, we are not careful to answer thee in this matter:

17. Behold, our God whom we serve, is able to deliver us from this fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thy hand, O king.

18. And though he will not, yet shall thou know O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

19. Then was Nabuchodonosor full of indignation, so that the countenance of his face changed upon Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego: therefore he charged and commanded that they should be cast into the fiery furnace, one seven times more than it was wont to be hot.

20. And he charged the most valiant men of warre that were in his armies, to bind Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the hot fiery furnace.

21. So these men were bound in their coats, hosen, head attire, with their other garments, and cast into the midst of the hot fiery furnace.

22. Therefore, because the king's commandement was strait, the fire was exceeding hot, the men that were in the fiery furnace, to bind Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego, the flame of the fire destroyed them.

23. And these three men, Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego, fell bow in the midst of the fiery furnace: bound.

24. Then Nabuchodonosor the king was astonied, and rose up in all haste: he spake unto his counsellors, and said: Did ye not we cast thre men bound into the midst of the fire? They are answered and spayed bound to the king: it is true, O king.

25. He answered and spayed: Lo, I see four men, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt: and the form of the fourth is like the Sonne of God.

26. Upon this went Nabuchodonosor vs to the mouth of the hot fiery furnace, he spake also, and spayed: O Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego, ye servants of the holy God, go forth, and come hither. And so Sidach, Gilach, and Abednego came forth of the midst of the fire.

27. Then the dukes, lords, and nobles: and the kings counsell, came together to see these men, upon whom the fire had no manner of power in their bodies; in so much that the very heare of their head was not burnt, and their clothes
The prophesie

29 Therefore I make a decree, that every people, nation, and language, which shall speak any blasphemous words against the God of Sidon, Philistia, and Abednego, shall be drawn in pieces, and their bones shall be made a tale; because there is no God that can deliver after this sort.

30 So the king promoted Sidon, Phil-istia, and Abednego, in the province of Babylon.

The iii. Chapter.

4 Abuchodonozor dreameth againe. 3 Daniel interpreteth. 29 Abuchodonozor ist put out of his realm, and eateth with beasts. 34 He confesseth the power of God, and is restored unto his kingdom.

Abuchodonozor, king, unto all people, nations, and languages that dwell upon the whole earth, peace be multiplied among you.

I thought it good to shew the figures and mysteries of that holy God hath wrought upon me.

O how great are his figures, and how mighty are his wonders: his kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, his dominion is set generations to generation.

4 I Abuchodonozor, being at rest in my house, and watching in my palace, saw a dream, which made me afraid, and the thoughts upon my bed.

6 Therefore I made a decree, that they should bring all the wise men of Babylon before me, that they might declare unto me the interpretation of the dream.

7 So came the wise men, the soothsayers, the Chaldeans, and the astrologers, to whom I tolde the dream, but they could not declare to me the interpretation thereof.

8 Till at the last Daniel came before me (whose name was Baltasar, according to the name of my God) which hath the spirit of the holy gods in him, before him I tolde the dream, saying:

9 O Baltasar, thou prince of the wise men, how much as I know that thou hast the spirit of the holy gods, no secret troublest thee: tell me therefore the visions of my dream that I have seen, and the interpretation thereof.

10 Thus were the visions of my head upon my bed: And behold, I saw a tree in the midst of the earth, and the height thereof was great,

11 A great tree and strong, and the height thereof reached into the heaven,
19 Then Daniel, whose name was Balthasar, held his peace by the space of one hour, and his thoughts troubled him. So the king spake, and said, O Balthasar, let neither the dream nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Balthasar answereth, saying: O my Lord, this dream be to them that hate thee, the interpretation thereof to thine adversaries.

20 As for the tree that thou sawest, which was great and mighty, whose height reached unto the heavens, and the light thereof through all the world,

21 whose leaves were silver, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was made for all: under the which the beasts of the field had their habitation, and upon whose boughs hang the souls of the aged: it is:

22 Thus thou, O king, which art great and mighty, for thy greatness increaseth, with might to the heaven, so that thy dominion extends to the ends of the earth.

23 But whereas the king saw a watchter, and a holy one that came down from heaven, and said, He is also the tree, a bront, yet leave the stump of the roots thereof to the earth, and with a band of iron and a Jesse bind it among the branches of the field, set it to be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till seven times pass over him:

24 This O king is the interpretation, pae it is very beare of hym that is highest of all, and it toucheth my lord the king:

25 Thou shalt be cast out from men, and thy dwelling shalbe with the beasts of the field: with graffe shalt thou be fed like oxen, thou must be wet with the dewe of heaven, pae sev'ntime pass over thee, till thou knowe that the highest hath power over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whom it pleaseth hym.

26 Whereby, whereas as it was said, that the stump of the rutes of the tree shou'd be left still: it betokeneth, that thy kingdom shall remaine whole unto thee, after thou hast learned to knowe that the power commeth from heaven.

27 Wherefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable unto thee, and break of thy times by righteousnesse, and thyne injustices by mercie toward the people, let there be a healing of thyne errors.

28 All these things touche the king Na-bucchodonosor.

29 So after twelve monethes, the king walked in the palace of the kingdom of Babylon.

30 And the king spake, and said: Is not this great Babylon that I have builded for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majestie?

31 While these words were yet in the kinges mouth, there fell a voice from heaven, saying: O king Nabuchodonosor, to thee it be spoken. Thy kingdom is departed from thee, 32 And thou shalt be cast out of mens company, thy dwelling shalbe with the beasts of the field: so that thou eate grass like oxen, and seuen times that passe over thee, until thou knowest that the highest hath power upon the kingdom of men, and giveth it unto whom it pleaseth hym.

33 The very same houre was this matter fulfilled upon Nabuchodonosor, so that he was cast out of mens company, he eate grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dewe of heaven, till his heroes were groaned as Egles, and his nappes like hydes claves.

34 When this time was past, I Nabuchodonosor lift by myne eyes unto heaven, and mine understanding was restored unto me: then gave I thankes unto the highest, I magnified and prayed hym (that lifteth) for evermore, whose power is an enervating power, and his kingdom is from one generation to another.

35 And all that dwell upon the earth, are to be reputed as nothing, and according to his will he worketh in the aruite of heaven, among the inhabitors of the earth: and there is none that may resist his hand, or say unto him, What doest thou?

36 At the same time was myne understanding gotten againe, and I was reprosed to the honour of my kingdom, my glorie and my beautie was restored unto me, my counsellors and princes sought unto me, and I was established in my kingdom, my glorie was augmented toward me.

37 Now therefore I (o) Nabuchodonosor, praise, and extoll, I magnifie the king of heaven, whose worke are all true, that thy wand judgment, and those that walke in pyple he is able to abate.

V (iii)
The prophecy.

The v. Chapter.

Balthasar, king of Babylon, abutted the bells of the temple, even an hande writing in the wall. 2 The Soothsayers called of the king, can not expounde the writing. 3 Daniel is called, which readeth it, and interpreteth also. 4 Balthasar being daine, Darius succeeded in his room.

Therefore Balthasar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and drank wine before the thousand.

2 And Balthasar when he had called the wine, commanded to bring him the golden and silver vessels, which his father Nabuchodonosor had brought from the temple in Jerusalem, that the king and his princes, and his lyues, and his counsels, might drinke therein.

3 So were brought the golden vessels that they had taken out of the temple of the Lordes house at Jerusalem: and the king, and his princes, and his lyues, and his counsels drinke in them.

4 They drinke wine, and praised the gods of gold, silver, brass, iron, wood, and stone.

5 In the very same house there appeared fingers of a mans hande writing right over against the candlesticle upon the platter of the wall of the kings palace, and the king falle the knuckles of the hande that wrote.

6 Then changed the king his countenance, for his thoughts troubled him, so that the joyntes of his lyues were loosed, and his knees smote one against the other.

7 Wherefore the king eyed mightily, that they should bring the soothsayers. Chaldees,

8 So Babelsen: the king spake alfo to the wise men of Babylon, and so, who can read this writing, and shewe me the interpretation thereof, Thall be clothed with purple, and have a cheyne of gold about his neck, and Thall be the third ruler in the kingdom.

9 Upon this came at the kings wise men, but they could neither read the writing, nor shewed the king the interpretation.

10 Then was king Balthasar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonied.

11 Now the queen by reason of the taking of the king his princes, came into the banquete house: and the queen spake, and

12 There is a man in the kingdome that hath the spirit of the holy God within him: 3 in the days of the father, light, and understanding, 4 Babelsen, like the Babelson of the gods, was found in him, whom the king Nabuchodonosor thy father, the king [i.e. the father] made chiefe of the (b) Babel men, soothsayers, Chaldeans, and Babels.

13 Because that such an abundance spirit, knowledge, and understanding, to expound dreams, to open secrets, to declare haarde doutes, was found in him, even in Daniel, whom the king named Balthasar: let Daniel be called, and he shall declare the interpretation.

14 Then was Daniel brought before the king: to the king spake unto Daniel, and sayde, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captuicie of Juda, whom my father the king brought out of Jucre?

15 Now have there been brought before me Babel men and soothsayers to read this writing, and to shewe me the interpretation thereof: but they could not declare the interpretation of the thing.

16 Then shewed I of thee that thou couldest shewe the interpretation, and dissofw doutes: note it thou cannot read this writing, and shewe me the meaning thereof, that shalt he clothed with purple, and have a cheyne of gold about the neck, and be the third ruler in the kingdom.

17 Then Daniel answered, and sayde before the king, As for the rewardes, kepe them to thy selfe, and gene thy gifts to another: yet I will read the writing by to the king, and shewe him the interpretation.

18 O thou king, the most high goode gave to (b) Nabuchodonosor thy father a kingdome, and majestie, and honour, a glory.

19 And for the majeftie that he gave him, all people, naciones, and languages remembre and Daniel, the bp, vi.

20 But because his heart was loth to appease the king, and his mind strengthened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him.

21 He was taken out from the sons of men, his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild beasts; they fed him with grass like men, and his body was wet with the dew of the heaven, till he knew that the most high God bare rule over the kingdom of men, and that he appoin teth over it whom so ever he pleaseth.

22 And thou his son, O Belshazzar, hast not submitted thine heart, though thou knewest all these things:

23 But hast lift up thy self against the Lord of heaven, so that the beast of his house were brought before thee, that thou and thy princes, with thy virgins and concubines, might drink wine thereof: and thou hast praised the gods of silver and gold, of brass and iron, of wood and stone, which neither

24. (1) Then was the knell of the hand sent from him, and hath written this writing.

25 And this writing that he hath writ ted, MENE, MENE, TEHUM, PHARSA.

26 Now the interpretation of the thing is this: MENE, God hath numbered the kingdom and brought it to an end.

27 TEHUM thou art weighed in the balance, and are found wanting.

28 PHERES, thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Perses.

29 Then commanded Belshazzar, and they clothed Daniel with purple, and a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 The very same night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldees slain.

31 And (1) Darius of the Medes took the kingdom, being three score and two years of age.

(1) Thus the name of Darius shows the grace of god to him, that he should rule over the Medes and Perses, and that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

The vi. Chapter.

1 I pleased Darius to set over his kingdom a hundred and twenty governours, which should be over the whole kingdom. Above these he set three princes, of whom Daniel was one, that the governours might give accounts unto them, and the king should have no damage.

2 And this Daniel was preferred above the princes and governours, for the spirit of God was plenteous in him: so that the king was minded to set him over the whole realm.

3 Wherefore the rulers and governours

4 (2) fought an occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdom, but they could find none occasion no fault: for he was so faithfull, that there was no blame nor fault found in him.

5 Then said these men, We shall finde none occasion against this Daniel, except we finde it against him concerning the laws of his God.

6 Upon this went the princes and lords together into the king, and said this unto him: King Darius, live for ever.

7 All the rulers of the kingdom, the officers and governours, the counsellors and dukes, have conferred together to make a decree for the king, to establish a statute, That who so ileth any petition either of any god or man within these seventy days, except of the king, king, he thall be cast into the lions’ denne,

3 Now Olkng confirmé the drece, and scalable the writting, that it be not changed according to the lawe of the Phedes and Perhians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius sealed the writting and drece.

10 Now when Daniel understood that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and the windowes of his chambre toward Hierusalem stood open, there knelt he downe upon his knees thrice three times a day, he made his petition, and payled his God, as he byd afore time.

11 Then these men assembled and found Daniel making his petition, and praying unto his God,

12 So they came to the king, and spake before him concerning his commandement, saying: Olkng, hast thou not sealed the decre, that within thrice dayes whoso requyreth his petition of any God or man, but only of thy selfe O king, he shalle cast into the denne of lions: The king answered and laid, Pea it is true, according to the lawe of the Phedes and Perhias that altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and layde into the king: This Daniel which is of the children of the captuute of Juda, O king, regardeth neither thee, nor thy decre that thou hast sealed: but maketh his petition thre times a day.

14 When the king heard these wordes, he was sore displeased with him selfe, and let his heart on Daniel to deliuer him, and he labourred till the lome went downe, to deliuer him.

15 Then these men assembled into the king, and said vnto him: Knowe this O king, that the lawe of the Phedes & Perhes is, that the commandement & statute which the king maketh, may not be altered.

16 Then the king commaunded, and they brought Daniel, and they cast him into the lions denne. Nowe the king spake vnto Daniel, and saide: Thy God whom thou alway serues, even he will deliuer thee.

17 And there was brought a stone, and laide vpon mouth of the denne, this the king sealed with his owne ring and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose concerning Daniel should not be altered.

18 So the king went into his palace, and remayned fasting, neither was there any instrumentes of musicke brought in before hym, & his sleepe went from him.

19 But betimes in the morning at the breake of the day, the king arose, & went in all haste into the denne of the lions.

20 Now as he came nye vnto the denne, he cried with a pitious boyster vnto Daniel, pease the king, and saide vnto Daniel: O Daniel, thou servaunt of the living God, is not thy God whom thou serues alway, able to deliuer thee from lions?

21 Then
21 Then Daniel said unto the king: O king, live for ever.
22 He God hath sent his angel, which hath shut the lions mouths, so that they might not hurt me, for mine innocence is found out before thee: and as for thee, O king, I suffer not.
23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded him to be set forth of the den: so Daniel was brought out of the den, and none of the lions hurt him:
24 And as for those men which had accuse Daniel, the king commanded that they should be cast forth into the den. Daniel was found in good health.

The vii. Chapter.

A vision of four beasts is shewed unto Daniel. The vision is interpreted of four kingdoms of the world. 27 Of the everlasting kingdom of Christ.

1 The first was of brass, and after brass was of iron, and after iron was of bronze, and after bronze was of wood.
2 The iron was broken down, and became small as chaff, and the wood arose up against the brass, which brake it to pieces, and succeeded the brass.
3 And the brass fell to the earth, and was as though it were not: and the earth gave place to the wood.
4 And the wood was broken down, and fell to the earth; and the earth received it not: then arose up another, which was of stone, and brake the wood, and the iron, and the brass, and the iron with the wood: that was of the like, as iron is for strength.
5 Then the stone brake the iron with the wood, and brake it to pieces as earthen vessels, and the iron was as though it were not.
6 Then was the heaven opened, and I beheld, and behold, a world was shewed me, and another world, and another world, and another world, and another world.

The seventh angel ascends to heaven, and sheweth the seven seals.

The first angel sheweth the patient suffering of the saints.

The second angel sheweth the destruction of the enemies of the saints.

The third angel sheweth the calamities of the earth.

The fourth angel sheweth the destruction of the fourth part of the sun, moon, and stars.

The fifth angel sheweth the destruction of the fifth part of the swine, and the third part of the flocks and herds, and the third part of the horses.

The sixth angel sheweth the destruction of the third part of the seas, and the third part of the waters of the sea, and the third part of the fountains of waters.

The seventh angel sheweth the destruction of the third part of the sea, the third part of the river, and the third part of the fountains of waters.

The eighth angel sheweth the destruction of the earth by fire.

The ninth angel sheweth the destruction of the third part of the sun, the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars.

The tenth angel sheweth the destruction of the third part of the inhabitants of the earth.

The eleventh angel sheweth the destruction of the third part of the inhabitants of the earth, and the third part of the sea, and the third part of the fountains of waters.

The twelfth angel sheweth the destruction of the third part of the sea, and the third part of the rivers, and the third part of the springs of waters.
Then I looked, and beheld, there was an other fire like a consuming fire, and there was an other like to a pure gold: and behold, this beast had four heads, and four wings; this beast had four heads, and there was power given unto him.

After this I saw in a vision by night, and behold, the fourth beast was violent, and horrible, and strong: and had great iron teeth: it devoured and consumed, and stamped the residue under his feet, and it was unlike all other beasts that were before it. It had ten horns.

As I considered the horns, behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up: and behold, this horn had eyes like the eyes of a man, and a mouth speaking presumptuous things.

I beheld till the thrones were set, and the ancients that sit upon them: and the book was opened.

And there stood one of the ancients, and said unto me, "Where are the just ones? and where are they that were sanctified and holy? And have they not all perished from the earth?"

Then I beheld, and I heard the voice of one of the ancients saying, "Write, saying, 'Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth. Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.'"

And when I had seen it, I lifted up my eyes, and looked, and, lo, a flying exalted one was coming over the earth and over the sea, and had in his hand a sharp sickle; And he had power over the four winds of the earth, to hold the sun and the moon and the stars, and over the great deep, and over those seats of the stars.

And he gaue me dominion and honour, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages should serve him: his dominion is an eternal dominion, which shall never be taken away, and his kingdom shall never be destroyed.

And I Daniel was troubled in my spirit in the midst of my body, and the visions of my head made mebeburbly.

I went into the presence of one that stood by me, and asked him the truth concerning all these things: so he tolde me, and made me understand the interpretation of these things.

These great beasts which are four, are four kings which shall arise out of the earth:

But the high saintes shall receaue a kingdom, and possethe a kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever.

After this, I required to know the truth concerning the fourth beast, which was so bonyke the other beasts, and was horrible, whose teeth were iron, and his naipes of brass, which were broken, and stamped the residue under his feete:

I beheld, and the same horse made war against the saintes, pease prevailede against them.

Until the amunt of dayes came that the judgement was given to the hight saintes, and till the time came that the saintes had the kingdom in possession.

He gaue me this answer: That fourth beast, (that is to say the fourth kingdome upon earth, it shall belyke to all the kingdomes: it shall devour, tread downe, and destroy all other landes.

The hundred and forty four kingdome are ten kingdes, that shall arise out of that kingdome: after whom there shall be another, which shall be unlike to the first, and shall subdue three kingdes.

And he shall speake wordes against the highest of all, he shall destroy the high saintes, and thinke that he may change times and lawes: they shall enter into his hande until atime, and times, and the dividing of a time.

But the judgement shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and destroy it unto the ende.

And the kingdome and dominion, the greatness of the kingdome under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saintes, whose kingdome is an everlasting kingdome, and all powers shall serve and obey it.

Pitherto the ende of the wordes: I Daniel had many cogitations [which troubled me, my conteniment changed in me: but the wordes] I kept still in my hart.
of Daniel.

The viii. Chapter.

1 A vision of a strife between a ramme and a bee goate. 20 The understanding of the vision is, of the battle between the king of Persia, and the king of the Grecians.

2 The third per of the rainge of king Salathasar, there appeared a bision into me [even] unto me Daniel, (b) after that which I had seen in the beginning.

3 I saw in a bision (and when I saw it, I was in the palace of Susis, which is in the province of (c) Elam, and in the vision me thought I was by the river of Elam.

4 Then I looked by and saw, & beholde therefoode before the rimer a (d) ramme which had two homes: and these two homes were hye, but (e) one was hyer then the other, & the hyept came by last.

5 I saw that this ramme puched with his homes against the west, against the north, and against the south: to that no (f) beastes might stand before him, nor defend them from his power, but he did as he pleased, and became grete.

6 And as I considered, beholde there came a he (g) goate from the west, over the whole earth, and touched not the grounde: and this goate had a (h) home appeared becrom his eyes.

7 And he came into the ramme that had the two homes (whom I had seen standing by the rimer) and ramme secretly upon him with his might.

8 And I behaw him daide nye into the ramme, being very fierce upon him; yea he (i) snote the ramme and bakh his two homes, neither had the ramme so much strength as to stande before him: but he cakh him downe to the grounde, trode him under his seere, & there was none able to deliver the ramme out of his power.

9 Therefore the goate vared exceeding great, & when he was at the stongest, his great (j) home was broken: Then gredd there other (k) foure notable ones in the steade of it, towarde the foure windes of the heaven.

10 And out of one of them came forth a little (l) home, which vared very great toward the (m) south, toward the (n) easte, and toward the (o) pleasant lande.

11 And greed by into the hoale of heauen, whereof it did cakh some downe to the grounde, and of the bares also, and trode them under foote.

12 And power was ghenue into it over the dayly (p) sacrie (cans), and it shal (q) cast downe the truth to the grounde: and then shall it do, and prosper.

13 Upon this, I heard one of the cantrie speaking, and one of the (r) cantrie baken into (s) Palmon, saying: how long shall the bision of the dayly (p) sacrie, and of the iniquitie of desolation (tendure) to gene both the sanctuare and the powere to be troden under foote?

14 And he answered me: Unto the (u) evening and the morninge, two thousand and three hundred: then shall the sanctuarie be cleaned.

15 Now when I Daniel had seen this bision, and thought for the understanding of it: beholde, there stood before me (w) one, like the similitude of a man.

16 And I heard a mans boce (x) betweene tali, which eyed, and saide: O Gabriel (y) make this man understand the bision.

17 So he came and stood by me: but I was afeare at his coming, and fell downe bpe my face: Then said he unto me, Understand O thou sonne of man, for at the (z) time of the ende this bision

18 Now as he was speaking unto me, I fell in a sumber upon my face to the grounde: but he touched me, and let me up in my place.

19 And he said, Beholde, I will shewe thee what bale in the last warth: for in the time appoynte thou bale fulfilled.

20 The ramme which thou sawest having two homes, is the king of the Princes and Perces.

21 And the goate, is the king of Grecia; and the great home that is betwixt his eyen, that is the first king.

22 But where as it bake, & foure other roles by in the steade: (t) fo allis goate out of this people that stande by foure kingdoms,but not so mightie as it.
And in the end of these kingdoms, when the wicked are come to the fall, a king of a fierce countenance, and understanding hard sentences, shall stand by.

24. His power shall be mighty, but not in (b) his strength; he shall destroy wonderfully, he shall prosper and pacifie, and destroy the (c) mighty and the holy people.

25. And through his policy also he shall cause craft to prosper in his bands, he shall extoll him self in his heart, and in prosperity he shall destroy many, and they be farre or npe throughout all the lands whether thou hast dethem them, because of their offences that they have done against thee.

26. And the vision of the (b) evening and the morning, which is declared, is true;
therefore seals thou by the vision, for it shall haue many dayes.

27. Upon this was I Daniel feede, so that I lay seece certaine dayes: but when I arose, I went about the kings buildinges, and was astonied at the vision, neuerthelesse, no man understood it.

The ix. Chapter.

Daniel desirous hum that precommd of God, which he hath promised concerning the returne of the people from their banishment in Babylon.

2. Daniel was in the yere that Preśmie, which is the sixt yere since they became a free people, the preemtions of the Jews were all taken away, and the yere of the haueing of the authority.

3. Even in the first yere of his reign, I Daniel understood of (c) books the number of the yeres, whereof the Lorde spake unto Jeremie the prophete, that he would accomphie the seuen yeres in the desolation of Hierusalem.

4. And I turned my face unto the Lord
God, and sought by prayer and supplication, with falling, sackBetter, and ashes,
I prayed unto the Lorde my God, I made my confession, saying: O Lorde God, great and fearfull, which keepest conuants and mercie with them that love him and kepe his commandementes:

5. We have sinned and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, yea we have rebelled, and we have departed from thy precepts, and from thy judgements.

6. We would not obey thy seruantes the prophete, that spake in thy name to our kings and princes, to our forefa ters, and to all the people of the land.

7. O Lorde, righteousnes belongeth unto thee, but vs open shame, as is come to passe this day every man of Juda, and to them that dwell at Hierusalem, yea unto all Israel, whether for the Lord our God is righteous in all his ways which he doth: for we would not hearken unto his voice.

15 And now O Lord our God, thou that with a mighty hand hast brought the people out of the land of Egypt, to get thee a name, which thou mayest say this day, we have sinned; we have done wickedly.

16 O Lord, according to all thy righteous troubles, I beseech thee let thy thyne anger and thy wrath be turned away from the city of Jerusalem, thy holy house: for because of our sins, and for the wickedness of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people are become as an reproach to all them that are about us.

17 Now therefore O Lord, our God, hearken unto the prayer of thy servant, and to the intercession: O let thy face shine upon thy sanctuary that is holy, waste, for (the) Lord's sake.

18 O my God, enliven thyne ears & hearken, open thyne eyes, behold how we be rebuked, and the city also which is called after thy name: for we do not present our prayers before thee in our own righteousnesses, but in thy great mercies.

19 O Lord, hearken, O forgive Lord, O consider and do it, defer not, for thyne own sake O my Lord: because thy name is called upon thy city, & upon thy people.

20 As I was yet speaking at my prayers, knowledge myne owne sinnes & the sinnes of my people Israel: presenting so myne intercession before the Lord my God for the holy hill of my God:

21 Pea, while I was yet speaking in my prayer, the man Gabriel (unto whom I had been afore in the vision) came, &

The x. Chapter.

1 There appeared unto Daniel a man clothed in linnen, in which he wrote him wherefo he was sent, and where he came none within my mouth: no, I did not once appoint myself till the whole three weeks of days were fulfilled.

2 Upon the fourteenth day of the first month, I was by the side of that great river (Euphrates),

3 And by mine eyes, and looke: and he bore a man clothed in linnen, whose loynes were girded with fine vellum of Ophaz.

4 His body was like the time as stone;
his face to looke upon was lyke lightening, his eyes as lampes of fire, his armies and forces were lyke in colour to polished brass, and the boye of his words was lyke the boye of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone saw this vision; for the men that were with me saw not the vision: but a great seacowes fell upon them, so that they fled away and his souls

8 Therefore was I left alone, and saw this great vision, and there remained no strength in me: for my colour was turned in me into corruption, and I returned no strength.

9 But I heard the boye of his voopes: and when I heard the boye of his words, I fell astouned upon my face and my face toward the earth.

10 And beholde a hande touched me, Which set me up by mye handes, and upon the poulneyes of my handes.

11 And he saide unto me, O Daniel, thou welbowed man, take good heed to the voopes that I saye unto thee, and stand in the place, for unto thee am I sent. And when he had said these words vnto me, I stood up trembling;

12 And saide he vnto me, Fear not Daniel: for since the first day that thou didst sett thyne heart to understand, and to chasen thy selues before thy God, thy wordes were hearde, and I am come for thy wordes.

13 But the (b) prince of the kingdom of Persia with speede me one and twentie daies: but lo, Michael one of the chiefe princes came to helpe me, (e) I remaine there by the kings of Persia.

14 And I am come to shew thee what shall come vnto thy people in the latter daies: for it shall be long yet of the vision to be fulfilled.

15 Now why he had spoken these wordes vnto me, I cast downe my head to the grounde, and held my tongue.

16 And beholde, there touched me one very lyke vnto a man: then opened I my mouth and spake, and said vnto him that stood before me, 0 my Lord, by the vision of thy wordes are turned out of their place, and I have receyued no strength.

17 For holde the seruant of this my Lord, saith the Lord, (b) for I, saith the Lord, (c) shall make thee strong, and shalt be able to entend all these things, which I shall shew thee. But thou art minded to know the seuerall knowledge and wisdom.

18 And I said, 0 Lord, how long shall there be sent sentence to many of thy people? And the wordes of the Lord vnto me were, The seuerall knowledge and wisdom shall be given vnto the wise man, and wisedom the strong man; but I am thy seruant, weak and foolish: and why hast thou founde mee? (e) I am the least of all thy seruantes. (f) And it came to passe after this, that Daniel hadselues visions in the night time.

19 And saide he, Daniel thou man greatly beloved, fear not, peace be vnto thee, be strong and of good courage. So when he had spoken vnto me, I was strengthened, and saide, Speak on my Lord: for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Thus saide he: Knowest thou wherefore I was vnto thee now? Why I returne to fight with the prince of the Perses: as soon as I go forth, lo, the prince of Perses shall thinke.

21 Nevertheless, I will shew thee that which is written in the scripture of truth, and there is none that helpeth me in these thinges, but (b) Michael your prince.

The xi. Chapter.

1 Thus saith the Lord, I prophete of the kings of Persia. 2 Of the kingdom of Grecia. 3 Of the kingdom of Egypt, and of the bondage thereof. 4 Of the battle with the kingdom of Spain.

2 In the first yere of Darius of Media (e) I sawd to comfort him and to strengthen him.

3 And moves ye shall vshere the truth: behold, there shall stand by yet (b) three kings in Persia, but the fourth shall carre riche then they all: and by his strength by his riche he shall stircr by (c) all against the realm of Grecie lande.

4 And when he shall stand vp, his kingdom shall (b) spoken, 2 shall devote toward the soure windes of the heauen, and not toward his possittitie, no according to his dominion which he ruled for his kingdom shall plank vp, even for others besides these.

5 And the (b) king of the south shall mighty, and (c) one of his princes, and he shall prevale against him, and heare rule: his dominion shall a great dominion.

6 And
And in the end of peres, they shall come together, and the kings of the south shall come to the king of the north to make an agreement, but the shall not retayne the power of the north, neither shall he continue his times; but the shall be delivered (to death) and they that brought her, and he that begat her, he that comforst her in these times.

But out of the bud of her roots, shall one stand up in his seed, which shall come with an armie, and shall enter into the fortunes of the king of the north, and do with them as he list and shall prevail.

And shall also carry captives into Egypt their gods, with their most images, with their precious vessels of silver and of gold, and he shall continuue more peres then the king of the north.

So the king of the south shall come into his kingdom, and shall return into his own land.

Wherefore his sonnes shall be stirred up, and shall gather together a mighty great host of people, and one that come and overflode and passe through: then shall return agayne and be (stirred up) by his forces.

Then is king of the south shalbe angry, and shall come forth to fight with him (even) with the king of the north, for he shall set forth a great multitude, and a multitude shalbe givcen into his hand.

Then the multitude shall proceed, and their hearts shall lifted up, for he shall call downe thousandes; but he shall not still prevail.

For the king of the north shall returne, and shall set forth a greater multitude then afore, and shall come forth (after certayne peres) with a mighty armie and great riches.

And at the same time there shall a mighty stande by against the king of the south, so that the lewstones children of the people also shall craite them selues to establishe the bulion, but they shall fail.

So the king of the north that he called up, a great armie against the king of the south, he moved into battayle with a great and a multitude also: nevertheless he (shall not stand), for they shall fesse captaines against him.

And his power a heart shall he stirre up with a great armie against the king of the south: he moveth into battayle with a great and a multitude also: neverthelesse he (shall not stand), for they shall fesse captaines against him.

And when he commeth, he shall handle him as he list, and no man shal stand against him: he shall stand in the lande, which by his hande shall be consumed.

Agayne, he shall let his face to enter with the power of his whole land, and his confederates with him, thus shall he doe; and he shall have hyn upon the daughter of women to destroy, but the shall not stande on his side neither before hyn.

But after this shall he turne his face into the (west) and shall take many; but a prince shall cause his name to light upon hyn, before that, he shall cause his owne name to turne himselfe.

For he shall turne his face toward the forces of his owne land: but he shall overthrow and fall, and be no more founde.

Then shall (one) stande up in his place a rapiers of rays in the glory of the kingdom, after a fowle dayes he shall be stroyed, neither in wrath nor in battel.

In his seere there shall stande up a great people, to whom they shall not have the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in peaceably and obtaine the kingdom with slatteries.

And the (arms) shalbe overflode with a flud before hyn, and shalbe broken, also the prince of the covenante.

And after the (leage made) with him, he shall booke distinctly: for he shall come by, and overcomne with a (small) people.

As he shall enter into the quiet and plentiful pouance, and he shall do that which (his fathers have done not; his fathers fathers: he shall dende among them the pay, and the pouple, and (the subduance, peace and he shall forcast his deuices against the strong holdes even) for a pyne.

And his power a heart shall he stirre up with a great armie against the king of the south, he moveth into battayle with a great and a multitude also: neverthelesse he (shall not stand), for they shall fesse captaines against him.

And (his) heart that feede of the portion of his meate, that destroy his, and his armie shall overflode, and many shall fall and be slaine.

These two kings harts shalbe to do as muche, they shal take it of deceit at one table, but that shall not prosper, for yet the end shalbe at (one) time appointed.
28 Then shall he go home againe into his lande with great substance, and let his heart against the holy covenante, so shall he do, and returne to his owne lande.

29 At the ymage appoynted he shall come againe, and goe towarde the south: but the last shall not be as the first.

30 For the ships of Cuthim shall come against him, therefore shall he haue foory, and returne, and fret against the holy covenante: so shall he do, he shall returne, and have intelligence with them (b) that forke the holy covenante.

31 And (b) armies shall stand on his part, and shall pollute the sanctuary of (b) strength, and shall take away the daily (facultie) and they shall set by the abominable desolation.

32 And such as wickedly breake the covenante, shall he cause to sinne by facultie: but the people that knowe their God, shall prouide and prosper.

33 Those also that haue (b) understanding among the people, shall enforme the multitude, and for a long season the hall fall with tribwe, with fire, with captuinitie, and with the taking away of their goodes.

34 And when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a (b) helpe, but many shall cleane into then payned.

35 Peasome of those that have understanding shall fall, that they may be tryed, purifid, and made white, till the yme be out: for there is a ympe appointed.

36 And a (c) knap shall do what hym list, he shall call and magnifie hym selfe against that is God, pea he shall speake marnioles things against his God, and he shall prosper (b) till the wrath be fulfilled: for the determina

27 He shall not regarde the God of his (a) fathers, nor the desire of women: pea he shall not care for any God: for he shall magnifie hym selfe above all.

28 But in his place shall he honour the God of Manzin, and the God whom his fathers knewe not, shall he honour with (a) golde and siluer, with precious stones and pleasant things.

39 Thus shall he do in the holdes of Manzin with a strange God whom he shall acknowledge, he shall encrea his glory, (a) that raise them to rule over many, (b) shall deme the lande for ymage.

40 And at the ende of ymage shall the king of the (a) south passe at hym, the king of the north shall come against hym like a whirlewind, with charites, horsemen, and with many horses: he shall enter into the countrees, and shall overflod and passe through.

41 He shall enter also into the pleasant lande, and many countrees shall be overthrown: but thefe shall escape out of his hande (ever) Edom and Boab, and the chiefe of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall streche forth his yand also upon the countrees, and the lande of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall have power over the treausures of golde and of siluer, (a) over all the precious things of Egypt, and of the Libians and Ethiopians in his yalling (by them.)

44 Nevertheless, the tidinges out of the east (b) and the north shall trouble him, therefore he shall (c) go forth with great wrath to destroy and roote out many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace betweene the seas, in the glorious and holy mountaines: yet he shall come to his ende, (a) none that helpeth him.

The wordes of the Lord came unto Osea the sonne of Beeri, in the bays of Osea, Joatham, Ahaz, and Hezekias, kynges of Juda, and in the tyme of Jeroboam the sonne of Joas kyng of Israel.

4. Regis xxvi. and xxvii. 1. Ezech. xii. (a) That is, one of the false prophets made unto play the harlot, not in the propheticke but in the church, but he knew this in a vision of the house committed by God, to see how much their people was guiltie of forgery, the profaneness of the Jezraelites.

When the Lord spake first unto Osea, he spake unto hym: "Go, take unto thee a wife of fornication, and children of fornications: for the land hath committed great fornication departing from the Lord.

So he went and took Somer the daughter of Deblaine: wherefore conceaued and bare him a sonne.

And the Lord spake unto him, Call his name Israehel: for I will shewe the blood of Israel upon the houete of Jehu, and will bygynge the kyngdome of the house of Israel to an ende.

5. And in that day will I also brake the bowe of Israel, in the valley of Jezrael. 6. And she conceaued agayne, and bare a daughter: and the Lord spake unto him, Call her name Loquhamah (that is, not obtaining mercy) * for I will no more have pitie upon the house of Israel, but I will utterly take them alway.

7. Yet I will have mercy upon the house of Juda, and will save them, even though the Lord their God: and will not take them by bowe, sword, battell, horses, or horsemen.

8. Moreover when he had wayned Loquhamah, she conceaued againe, and bare a sonne.

9. Then spake he, Call his name Loammi (that is, not my people): for ye are not my people, therefore I will not be your God.

10. Yet the number of the children of Israel Ezra, vi.

The people is called to repentance. He throweth their idolatry, and threatneth them, except they repent.

1. Tell your brethren that they are my people, and your sister, that they have obtained mercy.

2. As for your mother, ye shall chide with her and reproach her; for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: let her therefore put away her whoredome from her face, and her adulterie from her breasts:

3. Let I strip her naked, and let her even as she came into the world, and make her as a bypderneke, and as a bypelande, and slay her for thy pest.

4. And I will have no pite upon your children: for they be the children of fornication.

5. Their mother hath played the harlot, and she that bare them is come to confusion: for the sayde, I will go after thy lovers, that gave me my head, and my water, my wooll and lace, my oyle, and my drink.

6. Therefore behold, I will stop thy way with thomes, and make a hedge, that she shall not finde her paths.

7. And though the rume after her lovers, yet shall she not overtake them: the shall seke them, but not finde them.

8. Then shall the sayde, I will go and returne to my first husbande: for at that sygne it was better with me then noide.

9. And the dyd not knowe that I gave her coine, and wine, and oyle, and multiplied her silver and golde, which they besolded on Baal.

10. Therefore I will returne and take away my coine in the syme thersof, and my wine in the season thersof, and set agayne my wooll and my lace [which I gave her] to cover her shame.

11. Then shall the children of Juda and the children of Israel be gathered together, and appoynt them selues one head, and they shall come by out of the lande: so great halfe the day of Jezrahel.

12. And nowe wyl I discover her shame even in the sight of her lovers, and no man shall belieue her out of my handes.

13. Wherefore I will take away all her myth, her holy days, her newe moones, her Sabbateth, and all her solemnne feastes.

14. Wherefore behold, I will allure her and bring her into the wilberneke, and speake friendly into her.

15. From thence wyl I give her her vineyards and figtrees, whereof the sayde: Those are my rewarde that my lovers have gotten me, I will make them as a wood, and wyde beatles shall eate them by.

16. I will blise upon her the dapes of Baal wherein she burned incense to hym, and decked her selfe with earcinges and jewel, the followed her lovers, and fogate me faith the Lord.

17. Wherefore behold, I will cut off her names of Baal from her mouth, yea the hall never remember her names any more.

18. Then wyl I make a covenant with them, with the beasts of the field, with the fowles of the ayre, and with every thing that creepeth upon the earth: As for boile, dwode, and battale, I will destroy out of the lande,
The Prophecies

Exclusi. 19 And I will marry thee unto thy own seli forever: even to thy seli will I marry thee in righteousness, in judgment, in loving kindness and mercy.

In faithfulness also will I marry thee unto thy selfe, and thou shalt know the Lord.

At the same time will I shewe thy selfe gracious unto the heavens faith.

The iii. Chapter.

When laid the Lord to me: "Go set and love a woman beloved of her husband, and yet an adulteress, according to the love of the Lord towards the children of Israel: and yet they have respect to strange gods, and love the wine pottes.

So I gather for tenne silverlinges, and for an homer and an halfe of barley.

And loye unto her: Thou shalt bide with me a long season, thou shalt not play the harlot, thou shalt be to no other man, and I will be to unto thee.

For the children of Israel shall be a great whyle without king, without prince, without sacrifice, without image, without Ephod, and without Theraphim.

But afterwaerd the children of Israel shall move concorted and seeke the Lord their God, and David their king, and in the latter dayes they shall worship the Lord, and his loving kindness.

The iiiij. Chapter.

I complaint against the people, and the priests of Israel.

Care the worde of the Lord on ye children of Israel for the Lord hath a contriverie with the habitants of the lande: for there is no truth, there is no mercy, there is no knowledge of God in the lande.

But slauing, lyng, manslaughter, theft, and aduiterie, hath gotten the other hande, and one bloodgiltne sulpace another.

Therefore shall the lande mourn, and all they that dwell therein shalbe rosted out, the beasts of the field, the fowles of the aire, and the fishes in the sea, shalbe consumed.

Yet let no man reprove or reproue another, for thy people are as they that are at contriverie with the priest.

Therefore shall thou fall in the day the Lord, and the heavens shall help

The iii. Chapter.

Afterwaerd they shall return to the Lord.

The prophecies
They that eat and not have enough, they have bribed the honest, but shall not prosper, they have forsaken the Lord, and not regarded him.

Wicked, wise, and never wise, take the heart away.

My people after counsel at their stores, and their staff teacheth them: for the spirit of a soothsayer hath caused them to go astray, and they have committed fornication against their God.

They make sacrifices upon the tops of the mountains, and burn their meat upon the hills, yea under the oaks, poplars, and elms; for there are good shadows: therefore your daughters become harlots, and your spouses have broken their wedlock.

I will not punish your daughters for being defiled, and your spouses that became whores: * seeing the fathers themselves have needled with harlots, and sacrificed with whores: but the people that will not understand, must be punished.

Though thou Israel play the harlot, O yet let not Judah come not ye unto Gilgal, * neither go ye to Bethaven, neither dwell ye there, The Lord delighteth.

For Israel is rebellious like an unwise heifer: nothe the Lord will feed them as a lamb in a large place.

Ephraim (is become) partner of idols, let him alone.

Their dumbness stinketh, they have committed whoredom: their rulers buy (to pay) with shame, Syring ye.

The hind hath bound them up in her wings, and they shall be ashamed of their sacrifices.

The v. Chapter.

1 Against the priests and rulers of Israel. 2 The help of man is in vain.

Pe priests hear this, take heed O thou householder of Israel, grieve O thou house of the king, for judgment (is) against you, because you are become as a snare on Ephphath, and a bread net upon the mount of Thabor.

2 They byll sacrifices by heads, and were farre from the Lord, and I have been a rebuke of them all.

3 * I wot not Ephraim well enough, and Israel is not hid fro me: * for wot not O Ephraim thou art become an harlot, and Israelis defiled.

4 They byll not give their myndes to turne into their God: * for the spirit of fornication (is) in the midst of them, and they have not known the Lord.

5 * And the pride of Israel both testifie to his face: therefore both Israel and Ephraim shall fall for their wickednesse, and Judah with them also.

6 They shall come both with their shepe and bullockes to seeke the Lord, but they shall not finde him: for he is gone from them.

7 They have trespassed against the Lord, and bought by baarde children: a moneth therefore shall denoue them, with their portions.

8 Blowe with the trumpet in Gibea, and with the trumpet in Ramah, cry out at Bethaven, after thee O Benjamin.

9 In the tyne of the plague shall Ephraim be laid by waste: in the tribes of Israel have I shewed the tenth.

10 The princes of Juda haue ben lyke them * that remove the lande markes: therefore byll I powre out my wrath upon them lyke water.

11 Ephraim is oppressed and broken in judgement, because he bylyngly followed the commandement.

12 Therefore byll I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Juda as a caterpillar.

13 When Ephraim saue his finenesse, and Juda his birth, * Ephraim went unto Abar, and sent unto being Zareb, yet could he not hele you, no zake you of your papere.

14 I will be unto Ephraim as a lion, and as a lion whiche to the house of Juda: I ewen I will spoyle, and go my alway: I will take alway, and no man shall refue.

15 I will go and returne to my place, till they know that they have linned and seke me. In their aduerstie they shall (e) early seke me.
The prophecy of God concerning the destruction of Israel.

1. One, let us turn again to the Lord: for he hath smitten us; and he shall heal us: he hath wounded us, and he shall bind us up again.

2. After two days shall he quicken us: in the third day he shall raise us up, and we shall live in his sight.

3. Then shall we know, and come to understand, and reckon together this our heart together, and the iniquity of our fathers together.

4. Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? my heart is turned toward thee: how can I give thee according to thy ways and according to thy doings? return. in the morning, and be saved.

5. Therefore have I cut down the prophets, and made their sheaf to none; I have destroyed the instruction of the priests, and said to their counsel, they are only men.

6. When I undertook to make Israel whole, then the ungraciousness of Ephraim, and the wickedness of Samaria came to light, for they go about with their pies, therefore the Sheol robbeth them, and the Hypocrite destroyeth them.

7. They consider not in their heart, that I remember all their wickedness: their own iniquity and their doings have overtaken them, which I see well enough.

8. They make the king glad with their lies, and the princes with their pies.

9. All these burn in adultery, as it were an oven that the baker heareth when he hath left kneading, till the bowie be leavened.

10. This is the day of our king, the princes have made him sick with poison, of wine, he hath stretched out his hand to his overseers.

11. For whoso they lie in Mine, they have made rope their heart lyke an oven, their baker sleepeth all night, in the morning it burneth as a flame of fire.

12. They are altogether as hot as an oven, and have devoured their own judges, all their kings are fallen, yet is there none of them that calleth upon me.

13. Ephraim hath mixed himself among (heathen) people, Ephraim is become like a cake that no man toucheth.

14. Strangers have devoured his strength, and he regardeth it not: he waxeth full of grapes heeris, yet will he not know it.

15. And the pride of Israel telleth on to his face, yet will they not return to the Lord, their God, nor seek him for all this.

16. Ephraim is like a bough that is broken, and hath no heart: no wise call they upon the Egyptians, now go they to the Assyrians.

17. But while they be going here and there I shall spread my net over them, and draw them bowel as the foules of the ape: and according as they have been warned, so will I punish them.
of Osea.

The viii. Chapter.

The destruction of Juda and Israel, because of their idolatrie.

1. At the trumpet to the mouth, [as a] Eagle [shall the enemy come] against the house of the Lord; for they have broken my *consequence, and transgressed.

2. Israel should have saied unto me: Thou art my God, we know thee.

3. But he hath refused the coinage that is good, therefore shall the enemy pursue him.

4. They have ovedun kings, but not through me, they have made princes, and I knew it not: of their father and gilded have they made them idols, therefore shall they be destroyed.

5. Thy Calle D Samaria hath cast thee off; my wrathfull indignation is gone forth against them: hence long will they be without innocence.

6. [For the calles] came from Israel, the woodman made it, therefore can it be no God: but even in pieces shall the calles of Samaria be broken.

7. They have sown wine, therefore shall they reap a whirldwine: it hath no Taste, the bud shall byng sooth no meale: and if happe it do, strangers shall devour it.

8. Israel is devoured, no vide shall they be among the gentiles as a behed of no reputation.

9. For they have gone up to Assyria [and are as] a wilde asse solitary by him selfe: Ephraim hath hired louers.

10. And though they have hired them: among the heathen, yet no vide will I gather them, and they shall begin to be lercry with the burden of the king and the prince.

11. Ephraim hath made many alters to do witchcraft, his alters [I say] he had to his time.

12. I have written to them the great things of my laue, but they are counted as a strange thing.

13. They sacrifice nether for the sacrifice of nune offerings, &c. sete it, [but] the Lord hath no pleasure in it: no vide will he remember their iniquity, and disfrue their sines, they shall returne into Egypt.

14. For Israel hath forgotten him that made him, that hath builded faire palaces, and Juda hath encreased strong cities: but I will send a fire into their cities, and it shall consume their palaces.

The.ix. Chapter.

Of the hunger and captinity of Israel.

1. Do not thou triumph O Israel, make no boasting over thy soules things as do the heathen: for thou hast committed adultery against thy God, who the rewards hast thou lusted more then all the mine flooses.

2. The mine flooses and the wine press shall not seabe them: and the mine wine shall saie them.

3. They shall not dwell in the Lordes lande, but Ephraim shall serve against into Egypt, and eate vurtue thignes among the Assyrians.

4. They pouze out no wine for a divine offering into the Lord, neither shall their mine offerings be pleasante: but so pun, they shall be unto them as the head
The Prophecy

1 Against Israel and his people. 14 His destruction for the same.

Israel [is] an empty vine, [see] hath it brought forth fruit to itself, according to the multitude of the fruit thereof he hath increased all ways; according to the goodness of his land he hath made them faire images.

2 Their heart is deceived, therefore shall they not be destroyed, [the Lord] shall break down their images, he shall destroy their altars.

3 For though they shall say, we have no king, because we have not feared the Lord: and what should then a king do to vs?

4 They have spoken words, wearying fally ye in making a covenant: thus judgment groveth as woemwood in the furrows of the field.

5 They that dwell in Samaria shall fear because of the Caste of Bethaven, for the people thereof shall mourn over it, yea and the priests also rejoiced on it; for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shall be brought to the Assyrian for a present to the king Jareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shame confounded for his own imaginations.

7 Samaria with his king shall vanishe away, as the smoke among the water.

8 The hye places of Huen where Israel doth sinne shall be destroyed, thistles and thomes shall growe upon their altars: then shall they lay to the mountaynes, Couer vs, to the hyssles, Fall vs.

9 O Israel, thou hast sinned from the days of Gabaan: there they sode, the battale in Gabaan against the children of unquiete did not touche them.

10 It is my desire that I should chastise them: and the people that haile gathered against them, when they shall come themselues together in their two furrows.
of Osea.

And Ephraim [is as] an heypfcr blcod to delpe (c) in treaying out the comc: but I will passe by her fate (b) neece, I will make Ephraim to (b) ride: Judah shall plowe, and Jacob shall break his coddess.

12 Solve to your seathe in righteousnesse, and rceap the frutes of well doing, plowe vp your frehle lande: for it is time to rceap the Lordc yll he come and rceap righteousnesse upon you.

13 For you haue ploved yngodinesse, ye haue rceaped iniquitie, you haue eaten the frute of ypes, because thou puttest thy confidence in thine owne waues, and leaneft to the multitude of thy strong men.

14 There shal growe a lection among thy people, all thy strong cities shalbe lapped, euen as Salma destroyed Beth Arbel in the day of battaule, where the mother woul the children were dashed in pieces.

15 Even so shall Bethel do unto you because of your malitious witsnesse: in a morning shall the king of Israel be destroyed.

The xv. Chapter:

The beneties of the Lordc towarde Israel. Their ingratitude against him.

The xii. Chapter.

He admonisheth by Jacobs example to truist in God, and not in man.

Phraim is fed with the wynde, & solouveth after the east wunde, he dayly encreaseth ypes & destruction, they be confederate with the Assyrians, their oyle is carped into Egypt. The Lordc hath a controversie with Juda, and will visite Jacob according to his waues, according to their owne inuentiones will he reconemee them. He toke his brother by the heele when he was yet in his mothers wombe, and in his strength he wrestled with God: He spake with the aenge and gat the victorie, he wert and prayed to him: he founde him at Bethel, and there he spake...
spake with us.
5 Ye the Lord God of hosts, even the Lord himself remembered him.
6 Therefore turne to thy God, kepe mercy and judgement, and hope ye'll in thy God.
7 He is Chanaan, the balanees of deceit are in his handes, he loueth to oppress.
8 And Ephraim hath payde, *Lucre I am riche, I have good enough: in all my Wories shall not one unquiet be founde wherein I have offended.
9 Yet am I the Lord thy God from the lande of Egypt, I will yet make thee dwell in the tabernacles as in the hye Seas basses.
10 I have spoken through the prophetes, and have multiplied visions, & thebed similitudes by the ministrs of the prophetes.
11 In Galaad is inquiett, they are fallen to baunite: at Sigel they have sacrificed ore, & their aulters are as heapes in the furrowes of the field.
12 *Jacob fled into the lande of Syria, and Israel suceeded for a duke, & for a wife he kept (there.)
13 By a prophet the Lord brought them out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preferred.
14 But Ephraim hath provoked him to displeasure through his abominations, therefore shall his blood be pouered upon him selfe, and the Lord his God shall rewarde him his blasphemies.

The xiii. Chapter.

The abomination of Israel, 9 and cause of their destruction.

When Ephraim spake, there was trembling, he was ealltled among the Abjects: but he hath stinned in Baal, and is dead.

And noide they shone more and more, and of their silver they have made them mottten images after the imaginations of their owne bryanes, that is very vols, and yeet all is nothing but the worke of the crafemaker: they say one to another, Whiles they sacrifice a man let them kille (b) the calves.

Therefore they halfe as the monyng cloude, and as the deawe that early paffeth away, and like as dust that the Whelkewnde taketh away from the floore, and as smoke that goeth out of the chimney.

*Yet I am the Lord thy God which brought thee out of the lande of Egypt, thou shalt knowe no God but me only, neither is there any favoure besides me.
5 I did knowe thee in the wildernesse, in the lande of brouge.
6 But when they were well fed, and had enough, they were saffire, and forgot me.
7 Therefore wyll I bee unto them as a lion, and as a leparde in the wapes to the Assyrians.
8 I wyll mearce them as the bearbe that is robbt of her weldes, and I wyll brate that subburne heart of theirs, there wyll I devoure them like a lion,

9 *O Israel (this inquiett) hath de\ntrayed thee: but in me only is thy helpe.
10 I am: where is thy kinge noide that shoulde helpe thee in all thy citis: Pea and thy lludges of whom thou saydest, *Gree me a king and princes.
11 I gave thee a king in my wrath, and in my displeasure I toke him from thee againye.
12 The Wickedness of Ephraim is bound together, and his time lyeth by.
13 Therefore shall folows come upon hym as upon a woman that travaileth: an unbircerte fomme is he, els woule he not stande still at the yringe (c) of birt of chil\nden.
14 I wyll redeeme them from the poore of the greane, and deliuer them from death: *O Death, I wyll bee thy deat; O Welt, I wyll bee thy lyng: yet can I see no comfort.
15 Though he grieue among his brethren, the east wynde (even) the wynde of the Lord shall come by from the wilderne, and bye by his bene, and his fountaynes shallbe dyed by: he shall soyle the treaured of all pleasant vettsels.
16 Samaria shallbe made waffe, for she is disobedient unto her God: they shall persuide with the wynde, their children shalbe bathed in peece, and their wo\men great with childe shalbe ript by.

The
The. xiii. Chapter.

The destruction of Samaria. He exhorted the Israelites to turn to God, who requireth piety and thankfulness.

Israel, returne into the Lord thy God, for thou hast fallen through thine own wickedness.

Take these words with you, which are turne to the Lord, and say unto him, O forgone be all our sins, receive ds gracefully, and then wilt we offer the Calues of our lippes unto thee.

Allure that be no more our helper, neither will we ride upon horses any more, neither wilt we say any more to the booke of our handes, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherlyke findeth mercy.

I will heale their rebellion, I will love them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

I will be unto Israel as the beaue, and he shall growe as the like, and his roote shall brake out as the (trees) of Libanus.

His branches shall spreade out abode, and be as faire as the olue tree, & smell as Libanus.

They that dwell under his shadowe, shall returne & growe vp as the cone, and flower as the vine: he shall have as good a name as the vine of Libanus.

Ephraim (shall say) What have I to do with idoles any more? I have hearde him, and looked upon him, I am like a greene firre tree, upon me is thy fruite founde.

Who is wise, shall understand these things, and he that is right instruct will regard them: for the vapors of the Lord are righteous, such as be godly will walke in them: as for the wicked, they shall stumble therein.

The ende of the prophecie of Osea.

The booke of prophete Joel.

The first Chapter.

A prophecy against the Jewes. He exhorted the people to prayer and fasting, for the miserie that was at hande.

The words of the Lord that came to Joel the sonne of Pethuel.

Hear ye this you eldes, & hearken with your cares all you that dwell in this land: for there ever such a thing in your dayes, or in the days of your fathers:

If this thing tell your children, and let your children [devere] to their children and their children to their posteritie afterwarde.

That which the carpenters hath left the grasshopper hath eaten, and what the grasshopper left hath the tankere wome eaten, and what the tankere wome left the locust hath devoured.

Awake ye drunkardes, & wepe, holde all ye wine dippers for lacke of vynne wine: for it is cleane taken away from your mouth.

For a nation is come vp by upon my lande, mightie and without number: his teeth are as the teeth of a lion, and he hath the fayles of a great lion.

He hath destroyed my vine, & barked my figge tree, he hath pulled it and falt it from him, and hath left bables therof whyte.

Lament as a virgin girded with sackcloth, for the husband of her youth.

The meate offering and drinke offering is cut of from the house of the Lord, the priestes: I mean the Lords ministers moune.
The Prophesie

The vine is wasted, the lande mourneath: for come is destroyed, the newe wine is dyed vp, the oyle is utterly taken away.

Be ye ashamed, O ye husbandmen, howe ye wine yefferes for your wheat, and for the barley: for the harvest of the fielde is perished.

The vine is dyed vp, and the sycge tree is decayed, the pomegranate tree, and the pauline, and the apple tree: all the trees of the fielde are withered up: for joy is withered alway from the fonnas of men.

Give your selves and lament, ye pieties, yoble ye out ye ministers of the altor, come and ye all night in sackcloth ye lauauates of my God: for the meat and dyneke offerynge are taken away from the house of your God.

Proclayme a fast, call a congregation, gather the elders together, with all the inhabitautes of the lande into the house of the Lord your God, and crye unto the Lord.

Alas for this day, for the day of the Lord is at hande, even as a destruction from the almighty shall it come.

Is not the meate cut of before our eyes, nighly and joy from the house of our God?

The fielde is rotten under their cloddes, the garneres are destroyed, the barnes are ouerthouden: for the come is wethered.

D holde cattell curre: the heades of beastes are in wosfull case for lacke of pasture, and the flockes of sheepe are destroyp.

Unto thee, O Lord, wyll I crye,for fearful hath destroyp the fruitfull places of the desert, and the flame hath burnt by all the trees of the fielde.

The beastes also of the fielde crye out unto thee: for the rivers of waters are dyed vp, and fire hath devoued by the fruitfull places of the desert.

The ii. Chapter.

The prophesieoth of the comming and crueltie of their enemies. 1: An exhortation to move them to convert. 18 The love of God towarde his people.

Loide by a trumpet in Sion, and holde in my holy hll, let all the inhabitautes of the earth tremble: for the day of the Lord is come, for it is npe at hande.

A daunce and glodie day, a cloude and blacke day: as the morning is spread over the mountaynes, so is this popular a strong people, like it there was none from the beginning, nor shalbe herafter for evermore.

3 Before
Let the trumpet be sounded like a morning sound. Gather not thyself together, O Nations; prepare thyself, O Nations, to the war.

The Lord will go before thee, O Jacob, and Israel his chosen.

Before him is a devouring fire, and a Checked flame doth burn: the land is as an ivory palace before him: and the valley is as the desert. And he shall overthrow it before them as a man overthrown in a strong day.

Like as the nubile of charrettes upon the tops of the mountains, they shall stop, like as the nubile of a flaming fire devouring the stubble, is as a strong people prepared to battle.

Before his face, shall the people tremble, and the countenance of all solitaires shall wither away as a pot.

They shall runne like strong men, and they shall runne like hales as men: every one that marcheth in his way, and they that are not in their paths.

No man shall be praughtered, nor every one that waketh in his path: and if they fall on the stonde, they shall not be wounded.

They shall runne to and fro in the street, they shall runne by a bottom upon the wall, they shall climb into the houses, they shall enter in at the windowes like a Checked tree.

The earth shall quake before him, and the heavens shall tremble, the sunne and the moonne shall haue their shynynge.

And the Lord shall geue his voyce before his hoast, for his campe is exceeding great, for he is mighty that executeth his commandement: for the day of the Lord is great and terrible, and who can abide it?

Buttowr faith to the Lord, turne you unto me with all your heartes, with fasting, with weeping, and with mourning.

And rent your heartes and not your garments, turne you unto the Lord your God: for he is gracious and mercifull, slove to anger, and of great goodnesse, and he will repent him of the evil.

Who knoweth whether the Lord will returne and take compassion, and will leaue behind him a blessing, teu? mean everlasting and unforrner everlasting unto the Lord your God.

Blowe by a trumpet in Sion, proclaim a fast, call an assembly, Sanctifie the congregation.

Gather the people, gather the elders, assemble the children, assembling the sucking babes:

of Joel. clxxxIII.

3 Let the trumpet be sounded like a morning sound. Gather not thyself together, O Nations; prepare thyself, O Nations, to the war.

17 And the Lord will go before thee, O Jacob, and Israel his chosen.

18 And thou shalt be silent over his land, and will spare his people.

19 And the Lord will have mercy, and not to his people. Behold I will tende you, and artue, and oyle, and will sustaine you with all, and will not give you over any more to be a reproche among the heathen.

20 And I will remove sarce of from you the northeen [armie] and I will lende you a land barren and desolate, with his face towards the east sea, and his hinder partes towards the intermost sea, and his sinkh shall arife, and his corruption shall ascende, because he hath erasit him selue to do this.

21 Fear not, O thou lande, be glad and rejoice: for the Lord will do great things.

22 Be not theyde ye beasts of the field, for the fruitful places of the desert are green: for the tree beares her fruit, the figge tree and the vine yieldeth their strength.

23 Be glad then ye children of Sion, and rejoice in the Lord your God: for he hath geuen you moderate rayne, he will lende you a bottom for you the rayne, [even] the first rayne and the latter rayne, in the first moneth.

24 And the barnes halbe filled with corn, and the pestles shall overhode with blade and oyle.

25 And I will rehouse to you the yeers which the grasshopper; the carner Worne, the locust, and the caterpillar have devoured, my great armie which I lea amongst you.

26 And you shall eate in plente and be satisfied, and shall prasse the name of the Lord your God which hath dealt Wonderously with you, and may people shall not be ashamed any more.

27 And you shall knowe that I am in the middle of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and none but I and my people shall never be ashamed.
28 And it shall come to pass after this: I will raise up my spittle upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy; your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions.

29 Also in those days upon the heathen and upon the handmaiden shall prophesy.

30 And I will cause wonders in heaven and in earth; blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke.

31 The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and terrible day of the Lord come.

32 But whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved: for there shall be deliverance in mount Sion and in Jerusalem, as the Lord hath promised, and (also) in the remnant whom the Lord shall call.

The 111th Chapter.

Of the judgment of God against the enemies of his people.

1 O2 behold, in those days and in that time when I shall bring again the captivity of Judah a Sion, I will also gather all the gentiles, and cause them to come into the valley of Jehoshaphat, and I will plead with them there for my people and heritage Israel, which they have scattered amongst the nations, and have parted my land.

3 And they shall cast lots for my people, and change the boy for an harlot, and solde the yoke for wine, that they might drynke.

4 And what have you to do with me? Tyre and Sidon, and all the coasts of Palestine: by ye shall render me recompence and if you recompense me, I shall dividly and speedily returne your recompence upon your owne heads.

5 For ye have taken my silver and my gold, my pleasant s precious things, and have carved them into your temples.

6 You have solde also the children of Juda and the children of Jerusalem to the Grecians, that you might send them farre from their owne countrey.

7 Behold, I will rapel them out of that place whither you have solde them, and will returne your recompence upon your owne heads.

8 And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hands of the children of Juda, and they shall sell them into the Sabeans, to a nation that dwelleth farre of: for the Lord hath spoken it.

9 Publish the thyng among the gentiles, proclaim warre, Wake up the mighty men, let all the men of warre of smoke.

10 Breake your plove shares into shoddes, and your fishes into speares, let the breake say, I am strong.

11 Assemble your selues and come all you heathen, and gather your selues together round about, there shall the Lord cast downe thy mightie men.

12 Let the heathen arise and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat, for there will I sit to judge all nations round about.

13 Put in your fishes, for they are ripe: come ye and descend, for the wine presses is full, see the presses overflode: for their wickednesse is multiplied.

14 O people, people (come) into the valley of the thirteenth Chapter: for the day of the Lord is at hand in the valley of final judgement.

15 The sunne and the moone shall be darken, and the starnes shall with drawe their light.

16 The Lord also shall rote out of Sion, and out of Jerusalem he shall geue his voyce, the heauens and the earth shall shake: but the Lord will be the hope of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel.

17 So shall you knowe that I am the Lord your God dweling in Sion my holy mountayne: then shall Jerusalem be holy, and there shall no strangers passe through here any more.

18 And in that day shall the mountayne drop downe sweete wine, and the bytes shall solde with mapple, & all the rivers of Juda shall runne with water, and aountayne shall come out of the house of the Lord, and shall warre the battle of Sittim.

19 Egypt shall warre, and Edom shall be a desolate wilderness: for the murrines (done) of Amos.

The book of the prophet Amos.

The first Chapter.

1. The condition and state of Amos, and the time of his prophecy. 2. The words of the Lord against Damascus, the Philistines, Tyre, Phœnicia, and Ammon.

The words of Amos, who was among the shepherds at Beth-cazna, where he saw the host of Israel in the days of Obed king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the earthquake.

And he said, The Lord shall roar out of Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the dwellings of the shepherds shall mourn, the top of Carmel shall wither.

Thus saith the Lord, For three wickednesses of Damascus, and for four will I not spare her, because they increased the slaughter with iron stakes.

4. But I will send a fire into the house of Hazael, and it shall devour the palaces of Benhadad.

5. I will break also the barres of Damascus, and root out the inhabitants from the palace of Aven, and him that holdeth the scepter out of the house of Eden, and the people of Syria shall go into captivity into the land of Kir, saith the Lord.

6. Thus saith the Lord, For three wickednesses of Aza, and for four I will not spare her, because they carrie away prisoners into captivity to shut them up in Edom.

7. Therefore will I send a fire upon the walls of Aza, which shall devour her palaces.

8. And I will cut off the inhabiters from Alod, and him that holdeth the scepter from Acalon, and turn my hand to Edon, and the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord God.

As 1 9 Thus
Thus saith the Lord, For three wickednesses of Tyre, and for four I will not spare her: because they hurt the whole captivity of Edom, and have not remembered the brotherly covenant. Therefore will I send a fire upon the wall of Tyre, and it shall consume the palaces thereof.

Thus saith the Lord, For three wickednesses of Edom, and for four I will not spare him: because he pursued his brother with the fibboze, and did cast of al pitie, and in his anger spied him continually, and his indignation he kept alvayes.

Therefore will I send a fire into Moab, Which shall consume the palaces of Caroth, and Moab shall die with tumult, With showing, and with the sounde of the trumpet.

And I will cut of the judge out of the mubs thereof, and will slay all the princes thereof with him, saith the Lord.

Thus saith the Lord, For three wickednesses of Judea, and for four I will not spare him: because they have cast away the tade of the Lord, and have not kept his ordinances, and their lies causd them to erre, after the which their fathers walked.

Wherefore will I send a fire into Judea, Which shall consume the palaces of Hierusalem.

And they lye upon clothes lade to pledge by every aultier: and in the house of their god, they drink the wne of the condemned.

Pet destroyed I the Amorite before them. Where height was like the height of the Cedar trees, and he was strong as the oxes: notwithstanding I destroyed his trute from aboue, and his roote from beneath.

Also I bought you by from the lande of Egypt, I led you fourtie yeres through the wilderness, to possesse the lande of the Amorites.

And I rapled up of your soules for prophets, and of your young men for Nahum.

And I spake to the Nazarites: Is it not even thus, Ye children of Israel, saith the Lord.

But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink, and commanded the prophets, saying, Prophete not.

Behold, I am pressed under you, as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaues.

Therefore the flight shall persue the swift, and the strong shall not strengthen then his force, neither shall the mighty man:

No: he that handeleth the bove shall stand, no: he that is swift of foote shall escape, neither shall he that rueth the hoile, faue his life.

And he that is of mightie courage among the strong men, shall see away nacked in that day, saith the Lord.
Care this word that the Lord pronounces against you of children of Israel, even against the whole family Whence I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying:

2 You only have I known of all the families of the earth, therefore I will visit you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walk together, except they be agreed?

4 Will a lion roar in the forest when he hath no prey? or will a lion's whelps cry out of his den? if he have taken nothing?

5 Can a bird fall in a snare upon the earth where no snares are? or will he take by the snare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

6 Will a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people be not afraid? or shall there be a cry in a city, and the Lord have not done it?

7 Surely the Lord God will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

8 The lion hath roared, who will not fear? the Lord God hath spoken, who can but prophesie?

9 Proclaim in the palaces at Asdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say: Assemble your scribes upon the mountain of Samaria, and behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the oppressed in the midst thereof:

10 For they know not to do right, saith the Lord, they frye by violence and robbery in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, An adversary shall come even round about the country, and shall bring down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoiled.

12 Thus saith the Lord, As the shepherd taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear: so shall the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria, in the corner of a bed, and in Damascus, as in a cottage.

13 Hear ye and testify in the house of Jacob, the Lord God, the God of hosts.

14 That in the day that I shall visi the transgressions of Israel upon Nin, I will also visi the altars of Bethel, and the houses of the aulters halbe broken of, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will smite the winter house with the summer house, and the houses of joy shall perish, and the great houses shall be furnished, saith the Lord.

The iii. Chapter.

1 Under the name of saty ryme of Bashan, he smote against the governors of Samaria, and for their iniquity their punishment. He laughed to shame their idolatry.

2 He would that not withstanding they had been plagued with hunger, drought, blasting, caterpillers, pestilence, and warre, yet were they not turned unto God.

3 And ye shall go out at the breaches, every [ how ] forward: and ye that cast your slydes out of the palace, saith the Lord.

4 Come to Bethel, and transgress: to Gilgal, and multiple transgression: and bring your sacrifices in the morning, and your tythes after three years.

5 And
And offer a thanksgiving upning of 'leaven, publish & proclaine the free offerings: for this likeneth ye to children of Israel, saith the Lord God. 6 Therefore saith ye gerue thou cleanleness of teeth in all your cities, & scarrenewes of bread in all your places: yet haue ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord God. 7 And also saith haue I withheld the rayne from you when there were yet three monethes to the haruest, and I caused it to rayne upon one citie, and haue not caused it to rayne upon an other citie: one piece was raigne upon, & the pece whereupon it rayned not, withereth. 8 So two or three cities wandred upon one citie to drinke water, but they were not satisfied: yet haue ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord God. 9 I haue smitten you with blasting and mildew, your great gardens, and your vineyards, and your figge trees, and your olue trees, by the palmer womme devooure: yet haue ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord God. 10 P宁ence haue I sent among you after the maner of Egypte: your young men haue I slaine with the sword, & haue taken away your houses, and I haue made the shinkle of your tentes to come even by into your nostrels: yet haue ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord God. 11 I haue overthowe you, as God overthowe Sodoma and Gomorra: and ye were as a fire bande pluckt out of the burning: yet haue ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord God. 12 Therefore thus saith the Lord to Israel, (and because I will do this unto thee,) prepare to meete thy God Israel. 13 For lo, he that fourmuth the mountains, and createth the windes, and declareth man what hee thinketh, which maketh the morning darknesse, and walketh upon the hie places of the earth, the Lord God ofhoastes is his name. 14 The virgin Israel is fallen, she shall no more rise: she is left upon her land, and there is none to rappe her vp. 15 For thus saith the Lord God, the citie which went out by a thousand, shall leaue an hundrith; & that which went forth by an hundrith, shall leaue ten, to the hichness of Israel. 16 For thus saith the Lord, into the house of Israel, Seke ye mee, and ye shall live. 17 But seke not Bethel, nor enter into Gilgal, and go not to Beerefeba: for Gilgal shall go into captuittie, and Bethel shall come to naught. 18 Seke the Lord, and ye shall live: lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph, and devour it, and there be none to quenche it in Bethel. 19 They turne judgement to domestick, and fo take righteousnesse in the earth. 20 He maketh the even starres and Morn, and he turneth the shadowe of death into the morning, and he maketh the day darke as night: he calleth the wanders of the sea, and poureth them out upon the open earth, the Lord is his name. 21 He strengtheneth the destroyer against the mighty, & the destroyer shall come against the fortress. 22 They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they abhorre him that speaketh byrightly. 23 Forasmuch then as your reading is upon the poore, and ye take from them burdens of wheate: ye have brakevo twe it in Bethel, and beeved in the stones of heaven alone, but ye shall not bee well in them: ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drinke wine of them.
of Amos.

12. For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mighty times: they afflict the vine, they take the branches, and they oppress the poor in the gate.

13. Therefore the wise shall keep silence in that time: for it is an evil time.

14. Seek good and not evil, that ye may live: so the Lord God of hosts shall be your confident, and I will be your habitation.

15. Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: it may be, the Lord God of the hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

16. Therefore the Lord God of hosts shall be for a sanctuary for the house of David, and for the house of Jerusalem, the Speech, all the fenced cities, and he shall make them a habitation, and they shall know that I the Lord of the hosts have done it.

17. And in all the places where this drink-offering shall be offered, there I will give peace in all your borders, saith the Lord: and I will gather you, and bring you again from all the nations, where I have sent you to be scattered.

18. I will bring you again, and I will gather you, O virgin, daughter of Jerusalem, and I will gather you, and I will bring you again, from the people of the north, and from all countries, saith the Lord, who is the Holy One of Israel.

19. And ye shall be as in the flocks of the valleys, and as herbage of the field, and ye shall be gathered from the nations.

20. Shall not the day of the Lord be darkness, and not light? even darkness and not light in his anger?

21. I hate, I abhor your feasts, and I will not accept the sweet meats and the burnt offerings, which ye offer:

22. Though ye offer me burnt offerings and meat offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace offerings of your fat beasts,

23. Take thou away from me the多tudes of thy tongues, for I will not hear the melody of thy viols.

24. And I will set judgements in her gates, and she shall be no more a spoil to all nations: neither shall the hand of the oppressor come any more upon her.

25. But, and I will make thee an High place, like the top of the mountains: and I will give thy king an everlasting kingdom, and thy city shall be called a撮ebake of Israel.

26. But, and I have brought the sanctuary, and the holy place: and the noble place, and I have made Jerusalem a high throne,

27. Therefore will I cause to go into captivity beyond Damascus, and I will not spare them, saith the Lord, that have given rest to his enemies; I will cause them to be overthrown with their felices.

The vii. Chapter.

The prophet said against the princes of Israel living in pleasures, 8 The Lord spoke that he would bring to pass the things that are purposed against Israel.

1. O to them that are at ease in Zion, and trust in the Mount of Samaria, which are famous at the beginning of the nations, the house of Israel came to them.

2. Go down into Gath, and see: and from thence go you to Hemath the great, and go down to Gath of the Philistines: be ye better than they that be fenced cities, the border of their land greater than your border.

3. Ye that put farce alway the evil day, and apprize to the feast of iniquity.

4. They lay upon beds of yew, and streighten the felices upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flocke, and the calves out of the stall.

5. They sing to the sounde of the viile, they invent to them felices instruments of musique, like David.

6. They brinke wine in bowls, and anoint them felices with chyke ointments: but no man is soxe for the afflication of Joseph.

7. Therefore shall I cause to goe captive by, with the first that goe captive, and the bowlfe of them that stretched them selices at hand.

8. The Lord God hath done by his, felice, saith the Lord God of hosts: I abhorre the excellencie of Jacob, and hate his palaces, therefore will I deliver up the cite, with all that is therein.

9. And if there remayne ten men in one house, they shall dye.
And his vine shall take him vp, and burne him, to carry out the bones out of the house, shall lay upon him that is by the sides of the house. Is there yet any with thee? And he shall lay, none. Then shall he lay, hold thy tongue: for we may not remember the name of the Lord. For behold the Lord commandeth, and he will smite the great house with breaches, & the little houses with cleftes.

Shall horses run by the rocke? will one plowe there with oxen? for he have turned judgment into gall, & the fruite of righteousness into wormwood.

De receiue in a thing of naught. Ye say: Have we not gotten by houses by our owne strength?

But behold, I will raise vp by against you a nation O house of Israel, sayth the Lord God of hostes, and they shall affliet you from the entrance of Demeth, into the river of the wildernesse.

The vii. Chapter.

Thus hath the Lord spake unto me, & beholde, he fownded grasshoppers in the beginning of the shooting vp of & latter growth, and lo it was in the latter growth, after the (a) kings mowing,

And when they hath made an end of eating the grasse of the lande, then I sayde, O Lord God, spare I beseeche thee: Who shall raple by Jacob: for he is small.

So the Lord spake for this: it shall not be, saith the Lord.

Thus also hath the Lord spake unto me, and beholde, the Lord God calleth to judgement, by fire, & it devoureth the great deep, and did eate by a part,

Then sayde I, O Lord God, spare I beseeche thee: Who shall raple by Jacob: for he is small.

So the Lord spake for this: this also shall not be, saith the Lord God.

Thus also the Lord spake unto me, & beholde the Lord spake upon a wall made by line, with a line in his hande.

And the Lord spake unto me, Amos what keelest thou? And I sayde, A line. Then spake the Lord. Beholde, I will set fire in the midst of my people Israel, and it shall passe by them no more.

And the be places of Iaaca shall be folace, and the temples of Israel shalbe destroyed, and I will rise against the house of Jeroboam with the Ivonde.

Then Amaziah the priest of Bethel sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying: Amos hath conpired against thee in the mids of the house of Israel: the lande is not able to bear all his words.

For thus Amos sayeth: Jeroboam shall die by the Ivonde, and Israel shall be taken captive out of their owne lande.

Also Amaziah spake to Amos, O thou the seer, Go, flee thou away into the lande of Juda, and there eat thy bread, and prophesie there.

But prophesie no more at Bethel: for it is the kings chappell, & it is the kings court.

Then amundred Amos, and spake to C Amazia, I was no prophete, neither was I a prophete among men: but I was an hearde man, and a gatherer of wild figges.

And the Lord take me as I followed the flocke, and the Lord spake unto me, Go prophesie unto my people Israel.

Now therefore hear thou the word of the Lord: Thou seest, prophesie not against Israel, and speake nothing against the house of Israell.

Thenceforth thus sayth the Lord, Thy wyse shalt be an harlot in the rite, and thy sonnes and thy daughters shall fall by the Ivonde, and thy lande be deuided by line, and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and Israel shall sure go into captituation foorth of his lande.
of Amos.

The. viii. Chapter.

1 By a vision of a basket of summer fruit, wherein of the kingdom of Israel is the word;
2 He spake against the oppressors of the poor; And described the bittleness of the plague of Israel. 11 And propriety of the famine of the word of God.

A 1
Hus hath the Lorde
God the word into me: and behold, a basket of summer fruit.

And he sayde: Amos, what seest thou? And I sayde: A basket of (a) summer fruit. Then sayd the Lorde unto me, The end is come upon my people of Israel. I will passe by them no more.

2 And the tongues of the people shall holdeings in that day sayth the Lorde God; many dead bodies shall be in every place, they shall call them soother with silence.

3 Hear ye therefore, O ye that chew the poore, that ye may make the needy of the land to sayle,

5 Saying, when will the new moneth be gone, that we may make the fest of the Sabbath, that we may set forth wheate, and make the (b) Epha small, (c) the hire great, (d) the wages of the workmen by decrees?

6 That we may be the poore for sluer, and the needy for shoes, yea and tell the refuse of the wheate:

7 The Lorde hath abomine by the excellency of Jacob, surely I will never forget any of their workes.

8 Shall not the lande tremble for this,
and evrie one mourne that believeth then?: And it shall rise by wholly as a flood, and it haile shall fall, and (e) drown as, by the flood of Egypt.

9 And in that day saith the Lord God, I will even cause the (f) time to go downe at noone, and I will tarken the earth in the clearest day.

10 And I will turne your feastes into mournings, and all your prayers into lamentation: and I will bring sackcloth upon all lones, and baldnesse upon every head. (g) I will make it as the mourning of an only sonne, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 Behold the days come saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor thirst for water, but of hearing the word of the Lorde.

12 And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even unto the east that they run to and fro to take the word of the Lord, and shall not finde it.

13 In that day shall the fayre virgins, and the young men perish for thirst.

14 They that beere by the (h) time of Sal maria, that say, Thy God D Daul neth, (i) the (j) manner of Berafeba lineth, even they shall fall, and never rise by againe.

The ix. Chapter.

1 Writings against the temple. 5 The subversion of the people. 7 That they be not able to escape gods judgments. 10 He reposed the unkindenesse of Israel. 11 The restoring of the church is promised.

A 1
Saw the Lorde stant
ing upon the (k) altar, and he sayd: Smite the lintel of the doore, that the postes may drake,
and tear them in peeces,
even the (l) heads of them all, and I will slay the last of them with the sword: the death of them, shall not see away, and he that escapeth of them, shall not be delivered.

2 Though they dig into (m) hell, thence shall my hande take them, though they clime up to heaven, thence will I bring them downe.

3 And though they hyde them lokes in the top of Carmel, I will seer, and take them out thence; and though they be hyd from my sight in the bottome of the sea, thence will I commund the serpent, and he shall bite them.

4 And though they goe into captivitie be tofore their enemies, thence will I con mande the sword: it shall slay them:
and I will set mine eyes upon them for cull, and not for good.

5 And
And the Lord God of hostes shall touch the land, and it shall melt away; and all that dwell therein shall mourn, and it shall rise up whole like a flood, and shall be drowned as by the flood of Egypt.

6 He buildest his spheres in the heaven, hath laid the foundation of his globe of elements on the earth: he calleth the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the open earth, the Lord is his name.

7 Are ye not as the Ethiopians unto me? O children of Israel, saith the Lord; have not I brought by Israel out of the land of Egypt? & the Philistines from Cappadocia, & the Syrians from Cypre: Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it cleece out of the earth: nevertheless, I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob, saith the Lord.

8 For I will command, and I will set the house of Israel among all nations, like as one is sitten in a tree: yet shall not the least stone fall upon the earth.

9 But all the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, which say, The cup shall not come, nor matters for us.

11 In that day will I raise up the rabe-nacle of David that is fallen down, and close up the breaches thereof, & I will raise up his remnant, & I will build it, as in the days of old:

12 That they may possess the remnant of Edom, & of all the heathen, because my name is called upon them, saith the Lord that doeth this.

13 Behold the days come, saith the Lord, that the plowman shall 6 touch the mower, and the reader of grapes hym that together seedeth, and the mountains shall drop sweete wine, & all the hilles shall melt.

14 And I will bring againe the captu rite of my people of Israel, and they shall buy the wadies, and inhabite them; and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof, they shall also make gardens, and eate the frutes of them.

15 And I will plant them upon their land, and they that no more be pulled by againe out of their lande which I have given them, saith the Lord thy God.

The booke of the prophete Abdias.

Against Edom, and the trull that they had in ricche.

He vision of Abyr,
thus saith the Lord God against Edom : We have hearde a rumour from the Lord, at an ambassador is sent among the heathen: arise, and let vs arise by against her to battaiple.

Behold, I have made thee final among the heathen: thou art utterly defiled.

The pride of thyne heart hath decrea tee, thou that dwellest in the cleftes of the rockes, whose habitation is he, that faith in his heart, who shall bring me downe to the grounde:

4 Pea though thou eatt thy folfe as the egle, and make they nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee downe, faith the Lord.

5 Came those to thee, or robbers by night? howe vart thou bought to silent?
Woulde they not have fallen till they had mough: If the grape gatherers came to thee, woulde they not leave some grapes:

6 Hove are the things of Canaught up,
The booke of the prophet Ionaas.

The first Chapter.

Ionaas fled when he was sent to preach. 4. He tempeft ariseth, and he be cast into the sea for his disobedience.

The word of the Lorde came into Ionaas the sonne of Annetai, saying: Arise, go to Tharshis, that great city, and cry against it: for their wickednesse is come vp before me.

And Ionaas rose vp to see into Tharshis from the presence of the Lorde, and went downe to Joppa, and found a ship going to Tharshis: to payd his hire, and went downe into it, that he might go with them into Tharshis from the presence of the Lorde.

But the Lorde sent out a great winde into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest tempest in the sea, so that the shippe was in danger of splitting in sunder, then the maryners were astart, and cryed every man unto his God, and cast the wares that were in the shippe into the sea, to lighten it of them: but Jonas was gone downe into the fides of the shippe, & he laxe downe sleeping.
And the shippe master came to him,
and saide: what meanest thou sleepe:
Up, and call upon thy God, if to be that God thy Father vnto vs, that we perilhe
not.
And they saide every one to his fellow,
Come, let vs cast (6) lottes: that the may know for whose cause this evil is on vs.
And they cast lottes: and the lotte set on Jonas.
Then saide they unto him: Tell vs for whose cause is this evil come upon vs?
what is thine occupation? Whence came meth thou? What countrey man art thou, and of what nation?
And he answered them: I am an Hebre, and I feare the Lord God of heaven, which hath made the sea, and the dry lande.
Then were the men exceedingly as fraid, and saide unto him: Why hast thou done this? (for the men kneve that he fell from the presence of the Lord, be cause he had tolde them.)
And they saide unto him: what shall we do vnto thee, that the sea may be calme unto vs: For the sea was troublous and was troublous.
And he saide unto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea, and the sea shall be calm vnto you: for I know that for my take this great tempest is vpon you.
Nevertheless, the men assayed with rowing to bring the shippe to lande, but they could not, because the sea was troublous against them.
Wherefor they cryed unto the Lord, and saide: We beseeche thee O Lord, we beseeche thee, let not vs perish for this manes lyfe, and lay not to our charge in cent blood: for thou O Lord hast done as it pleased thee.
So they took by Jonas, and cast him into the sea, and the sea left raging.
And the men feared the Lord exceed ingly, and offered a sacrifice vnto the Lord, and made (2) doyles.
And the Lord prepared a great fiche to swallowe by Jonas: & Jonas was in the belly of the fiche three dayes and three nightes.
1. Jonas is in the fish's belly; his prayer. He is delivered.

   A

   And Jonas prayed unto the Lord his God out of the fish's belly.

   And said: In affliction I cried unto the Lord, and he heard me: out of the belly of hell cried I, and thou hast delivered my voice.

   Thou hadst cast me down into the deeps, into the midst of the sea, and the floods compassed me about: all the bowels of the earth were compassed about me.

   And I said: I am cast away out of thy sight, yet wilt thou take again to me the greatness of thy temple.

   The waters compassed me even unto the soul, the depth closed me on every side, and the weeds were wrapped about my head.

   I went down to the bottom of the mountains, the earth with her bars was about me for ever: yet hast thou brought by thy life from corruption, O Lord my God.

   When my soul fainteth within me, I will remember the Lord, and my prayer came in unto thee into thy holy temple.

   They that holde upon the lick, be forsaik his mercie.

   But I will sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving, and will pay that I have vowed: for salvation is of the Lord.

   And the Lord spake unto the fish, and it cast out Jonas upon the dry land.

   The iii. Chapter.

2. Jonas is sent again to Ninive; the repentance of the king of Ninive.

   A

   And the word of the Lord came unto Jonas the second time, saying:

   Arise, and go to Ninive that great city, and preach against it the preaching which I speak unto thee.

   So Jonas arose, and went to Ninive according to the word of the Lord (Ninive was a great city and very excellent, of three days journey.)

   And Jonas began to enter into the city a day's journey, and he cried and said: Yet forty days, and Ninive shall be destroyed.

   And the men of Ninive believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth from the greatest of them to the least of them.

   And word came unto the king of Ninive, which arose from his throne, and put of his robe, and covered him self with sackcloth, and fast down in ashes.

   And he called a cry to cry, and laid through the city by the councell of the king his nobles, Let neither man nor beast, but only the king and his palace taste ought at all, neither be ye, nor bath water.

   And let both man and beast put on sackcloth, and cry mightily unto the Lord: and let every man turne from his cruel way, and from the wickednesse that is in his handes.

   Who can tell whether God will turne and be moved with repentance, and turne from his fierce wrath, that the peril not?

   And God saw their works, that they turned from their cruel way, and he repented of the cruel, that he said he would do unto them, and did it not.

   Chapter.
The booke of the prophet Michaels.

The first Chapter.

p. 1

The prophecy of Michaell, which he spake concerning Samaria, and Jerusalem.

And he spake, saying, The earth and all that therein is, shall be devoured by the fire; but bles"
Isaiah: but what is the wickedness of Jacob? is not Samaria which are the two places of Judah: is not Jerusalem?

Therefore I will make Samaria an heap of ruins, and the cities thereof a desolation: and I will make the towers thereof into a desolation.

Therefore shall the LORD make them like an heap of chaff, like corn of the spring; and they shall be consumed at the beginning of the spring, saith the Lord, that day shall be a day of confusion and mourning, and the teeth of the enemies shall devour through the mountain of the temple as it is with them.

Therefore shall the Lord cause his的伟大 to come to his temple, and the Lord shall make the sun of righteousness to rise upon and his people. And he shall rise with mercy and judgment; and with righteousness before the sun.

And they shall be like the beauty of the children of Jerusalem, and like their prosperity. The children of Judah shall be quiet within the land, and shall be children of many nations, and shall dwell in the midst of the land. Now shall the root of Jacob be a branch, and he shall spring up out of a dry ground, and he shall become a branch of Lebanon. And the glory of Jacob shall be in the midst of the land of Egypt, and the glory of the Lord shall be in the midst thereof.

The ii. Chapter.

Threatenings against the unfruitful people. They would teach the prophets to prophesy.

Do unto them that imagine iniquity, and work wickedness upon their beds: when the morning is light, they practise it, because their hand is strong.

And they court fields, and take them by violence, and houses, and take them away; they oppress a man and his house, even a man and his inheritance.

Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts: Behold, against this weakness of Cushath shall I send a multitude of strangers, and a fierce anger, and fierce vengeance, and fiery tempest, and a tempest of fierce whirling wind.

In that day that this parable is fulfilled, and the mourning of the daughter of the king of Tyrus shall be as the mourning of Pharaoh's daughter.

Therefore shall there be no man that can break a bow, neither shall he take any more into his hand: neither shall he pluck of his garment, neither shall he light a torch.

Thou that dwellest at Saphir get thee hence naked with shame: the that dwelleth at acZaanan, shall not come thereof in the mourning of Bethel: the enemy shall doe thee a recompence, according as thou hast despised the recompence of the Lord.

For the inhabitants of Maroth wait for good, but the plague shall come from the Lord, even unto the gates of Hierusalem.

Therefore shall the Lord have an another name, and shall be known unto the Gentiles upon whom he shall be glorified.

Therefore shall he bring them to pass, that they shall go down all the inhabitants of the mountain of Desolation, and the hill dwellers: and he shall make the waters of the sea dry, and the uttermost depths of the sea shall dry up: and the height of mountains shall decrease, and the hills shall be blown up as the tempest.

And they that sought after honour and Respect of people will be shamed with respect of people, and a man that is accursed with respect of man.

And I will bring upon her the day of evil: I will lay an end to her honour in the sight of all nations, and will cause her to be delivered up to the sword: her young men and her young men shall fall by the sword; and her widows shall be brought unto the sword.

But he that was yesterday, and is not yesterday, and is perpetually perishing, and is not able to keep himself, and is not able to raise himself, is an enemy; and the Lord shall say: The Lord is the God of hosts: he shall be glorified in Jerusalem, and be glorious in the midst thereof.

But the Lord shall be with them that are of a perfect heart; and shall deliver them from destruction forever.

If a man walk in the spirit, and would be falsely saying, I wyl prophetcie;
The prophesie

Against the tirannie of princes and tale prophethes.

No I daie, heare I pray you heads of Jacob, ye princes of the house of Israel, shoulde not ye know judgEMENT: [1] for they hate the good, and loue the euill, they plague of their skines from them, and there flesh from their bones.

And they eate also the flesh of my people, [2] say of their skine from them: and they breake their bones, and chop them in peces as for the pot, and as flesh within the cauldron.

Then shall they crye unto the Lord, but he will not heare them: he will etract his face from them at that time, because they have done wickedly in their beggars.

Thus saith the Lord concerning the prophethes that beeke my people [3] and but them with their teeth, and crye peace: but if a man put not into their mouthes, they prepare warre against him.

Therefore [4] shall haue amongst you a diuination: and the smee shall go downe over the prophethes, and the day shall haue darke over them.

Then shall the smee be ashamed, and the soothsayers confounded: peacethey shall al cover their lippes, for they haue none aumtofe of God.

Yet notwithstanding, I am full of power by the spiritte of the Lord, and of judgEMENT, and of strength, to declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his smee.

Heare this I pray you heades of the house of Jacob, and praines of the house of Israel: they adore judgement, and pervert all equitie.

They builde by Sion with blood, and Hierusalem with iniquitie.

The heads thereof judge for rewarde, and the pieeces thereof teache for hype, and the prophethes thereof prophetic for money: yet will they leave upon the Lord, and say, Is not the Lord among vs: no euill can come upon vs.

Therefore shall Sion for your sake be plovved as a fielde, and Hierusalem shalbe an heape, and the mountaine of the house as the hit places of the forset.

The ... of the Gentiles and conversion of the Jews.

Ut in the latter dayes it will come to passe that the hill of the Lodes house shalbe prepared in the tope of the mountaines, and shalbe set by hygher then any mountaynes or hilles, and people shall preache unto it.

2 Pea, the multitude of the Gentiles shall haue them aither, saying: Come, let vs go by the to hill of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob, and he shall teache vs his owne wayes, and we will walke in his pathes: for the lawe shall come out of Sion, and the word of God from Hierusalem.

And he shall judge many people, and rebuke mightie nations of faire countres: to that of their woorde they shall make... make ploughshares, and lathes of their speares: one people shall not lift up a sword against another, yea they shall no more leaue to fight.

But every man shall sit under his vine arche, and under his figtree, and no man shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hostes hath spoken it.

Therefore all people will walk in the name of their God: and we will walk in the name of our lord God for ever and ever.

At the same time shall the Lord of hosts come down to judge the house of David, and the house of Josias, and to confute all manner of beasts that fight against Jerusalem.

And ye shall be as men that have no heart: for they shall molest you on every side, and you shall be broken in all your pleasant houses, as I have spoken.

Why then doest thou lye and trauaille? of the destruction of Jerusalem.

And thou shalt be robbed thy selue.

O thou robbers daughter: they shall take peace against vs, and the judge of Israel with a roade.

And thou Beth-lehem Ephrata act little among the thousandes of Juda, out of thee shall he come forth to me which shall be governor in Israel, whose out going hath bene from the beginning, and from everlasting.

Therefore will I geue them vp for a farce, untill the time that she which shall bare doe have borne: then shall the remnant of his brethren be converted unto the children of Israel.

He shall stand faire, and geue foode in the strength of the Lord, and in the majestie of the name of the Lord his God: and when they be converted, he is there no king in these are thy counsellers perswised, that thou art to payned as a woman in her trauaille.

And now O thou daughter Sion, solowe and lament as a woman in her trauaille: for nowe must thou get thee out of the citie, so the word upon the plain field: yea unto Babylon shall thou go, [but] there shalt thou be delivered, and there the Lord shall redeem thee from the handes of thy enemies.

How also are there many people gathered together against thee, lying: Sion shall be condemned, and our eye shall loke upon Sion.

But they know not the thoughtes of the Lord, they understand not his counsel: for he shall gather them together as the sheames in the barne.

Therefore get thee vp O thou daughter Sion, and setteth out the cone: for I will make thy homuncle, and thy house balle, that thou mayest break in pieces many people: their goodes shalt thou conccrate into the Lorde, and their substaunce into the ruluer of the Whole world.

Of the v. Chapter.
The prophecy.

In exhortation to hear the judgement against Israel being divided, what manner of sacrifices do please God.

1. Hearken ye not what the Lord saith: Arise thou, and contend with the mountains, and let the bulles hear thy voice.
2. Hearken ye mountains, and let the bulles hear thy voice.
3. Hearken ye mountains, and let the bulles hear thy voice.
4. For I brought thee out of the land of Egypt, and delivered thee out of the house of bondage, and I made Moyses, Aaron, and Miriam to lead thee.
5. Remember Moyses my people, what Balaam the king of Moab had devised against thee, and what amiss was that Balaam the sonne of Beor gave him, from Seir into Galgal, that ye may know the righteounesse of the Lord.
6. Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and boile my selfe to the hye God: Shall I come before him with burnt offeringes, and with calves of a yere olde?
7. Hath the Lord a pleasure in many thousands of Ramnes, or innumerable streames of yole? Shall I give my first borne for myne offences, and the fruit of my body for the sinne of my soule?
8. He hath cleaved the Lord man what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee; namely, to do sultyly, to love mercie, and to humble thy selfe to walke with thy God.
9. The Lordes booke eth into the title, and the man that shall be named considereth thy name: hearken what is your rodde, & heare him that varneth you.
10. Are not yet the treasures of wickednesse in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure which is abominable?
11. Should I intifle the false balances, and the bagge of deceitfull waightes?
12. For the riche men thereof are full of crueltie, and the inhabitan tes thereof have spoken lies, and have deceitfull tongues in their mouthes.
13. Therefore I will take in hande to punishe thee, and to make thee desolate, because of thy times.
14. Thou shalt rate, and not haue mough: yea, thou shalt bring thy selfe downe in the nieddes of thee, thou shalt see, but not scape, and shooe that thou wouldest save, will I deliever to the foorde.
15. Thou shalt bowe, but not reape, thou shalt plisse out Oites, but oile shalt thou not haue to annoynt thy selfe withall: thou shalt tread out sweete must, but shalt stinke no wine.
16. Pe kepe the ordinances of Amri, and all the customs of the house of Abad, pe walke in their counsels: therefore wyll I make thee waste, and cause thy inhabitan tes to be hisset at, and ye shall brear the reproche of my people.
A. CXCIIj.

The vii. Chapter.

I complain of the little number of the righteous. Against the truth ought we not to hold with our greatest friends. 1. The prospect of the church.

1. Wisne, I am become as one that goeth a gleaning in the barnes; there are no grapes to eat, yet would I stain withal my heart have of the best fruit.

2. *There is not a godly upon earth: there is not one righteous among men: they all have turned their faces to the east, and every man hath turned his brother to death.

3. Yet they say they do well, when they do evil: the prince (a) asketh, and the judge (b) seeketh for a reward, therefore the great man speaketh out of the corruption of his soul, and so they wrappe it up.

4. The best of them is as byre, and the most righteous of them is [b] harper then a home hedge: the day of thy watchmen, (c) and of thy outstation commit: then shall be their confusion.

5. Yet no man believeth his friend, nor put his confidence in his brother: kepe the doose of thy mouth from her that lyeth in thy bosome.

6. For the sonne dishonoureth his father, the daughter rebelleth against her mother, the daughter in law against her mother in lawe: and a mans foes are euene they of his owne houshoulde.

7. Nevertheless, I will looke up into the Lord, I will patiently abyde God my savour: my God shall heare me.

8. O thou enemy of myne rejoynce not at my fall, for I shall rise againe: though I sit in darkenesse, yet the Lord is my light.

9. I will bear the wrath of the Lord, for I have offended hym till he sit in judgemen upon my cause, and see that I have right: then will he bring me forth to the light, and I shall see his righteousnesse.

10. She that is myne enemie, shall loke upon it and be confounded, which nothe sayeth, Where is the Lord thy God? myne eyes shall behold her when the shaft be turned downe as the myne in the streets.

11. *This is the day that thy walles shall be buylte, this day shall hyre faire as way the (d) decree.

12. And at that time shall they come into thee from Alar, from the strong cittyes, and from the strong holdes, even into the euer: from the one sea to the other, and from mountayne to mountayne.

13. Notwithstanding, the land must be wasted, because of them that dwell therein, and for the frutes of their owne imaginations.

14. Therefore seere thy people with thy C. rod, the flocke of thyne heritage which doe dewlote in the wood, that they may be led upon the (e) mount of Carmel, Balaan, and Gildeah, as at sometime.

15. Maruellous things wil I shewe thee, like as when thou camest out of the lande of Egypt.

16. This shall the heathen see, and be ashamed for all their power: so that they shall lay their handes upon their mouth, and stoppe their couses.

17. They shall liche the dust like a serpentine, and as the womenes of the earth that tremble in their holes: they shall be a straye of the Lord our God, and they shall see thee.

18. Who is such a God as thou, that pardonnest wickednesses, and forgivest the offences of the remnant of thyne heritage: he keepeth not his wrath for ever: for his delite is to have compassion.

19. He shall turne againe, and be merciful to vs, he shall put downe our wickednesses, and cast all our sines into the bottome of the sea.

20. Thou wilt performe to Jacob thy trust, and thy mercie to Abraham,like as thou hast done unto our fathers in olde time.

The first Chapter.

Of the destruction of the Assyrians, and of the deliuerance of Israel.

The burden of Nimue. The booke of the vision of Nahum the Elkothite.

God is elous, the Lorde avengeth, the Lorde avengeth, and hath wrath in store: the Lorde avengeth upon them that trouble hym, and he remembreth his enemies.

The Lorde is aboe to anger, and of great power, and in no case will not acquite the wicked, the Lordes dealing is with blustering tempest and white Winde, and the cloudes are the dust of his ftrete.

he rebuketh the sea and dryeth it up, all the rivers also he maketh bype: Baalan and Carmel are destroyed, the spring also of Lebanon is destroyed.

The mountaynes quake at his power, and the hilles are resounded: the earth also burneth at his countenaunc, the woide, and all that dwelleth therin.

Who can stande before his wrath? or who can rise up before the anger of his countenaunc, his fierenesse is powered out like fire, yea the rockes cleane in pearces at his night.

The Lorde is gracious, a strong holde in the day of trouble: and knoweth them that trust in hym.

But with an overrunning flood he wil destroy her place, and will pursue his enemies with darkenesse.

What imagine pe against the Lorde: he makes an bitter destruction: he shall not be troubled nyppse.

For Whyles the thomes cleane together, and Whyles they banquet out their feastes, they are burneth up as verye dry stubble.

There came out of thee fuel as thought euill against the Lorde, such as gaue wicked counsell.

Thus sayth the Lorde: Though pe be in concorde, and allo many, yet to thall pe be cut downe, and passe: though I have afflicted thee [O Jerusalem] yet will I trouble thee no more.

13 And nowe I will breake of his poke from upon thee, and I will breake thy bondes in sunder.
14 The Lord also hath given a commandment touching thee that, there shalbe no more offspring of thy name; from the house of thy God, I will cut of carved and molten image, I will make thee grave, for thou art bie.
15 Behold upon the mountaines the seat of him that bringeth good tidings, that preacheth peace: kepe thy festial bapes of Juda, paye thy bowles: for the wicked sembl that hereafter passe no more through thee, he is utterly cut of.

The . ii. Chapter.

He describeth the victorys of the Chaldeans against the Egyptians.

1 The destroyer is come up before thy face, kepe thy face, see to the way, strengthen thou loynes, increafe thy strength mightily.
2 For the Lord restores againe the glorious estate of Jacob, as [also] the glorious estate of Israel: for hoysters hath spoyled them, and hath wasted their banances.
3 The shield of his valiant souldiers is died red, his captaynes of warre are clad with scarlet: the charret is compassed with flaminyg torches in the day of his expedition, and the fire staues are drenched in popson.
4 The charretts that rage in the streets, they shall make a terrible noye in the hoode bapes, to loke to like flaminyg cresses, shooting as lightning.
5 He shall remember his notable souldiers, they shall stumble in going, they shall haften to the wall, the couering fene is prepared.
6 The ruder gates are opened, and the palace dissolved.
7 Buysas brought forth capture, made to attend [into the charretts] her handmaidens also leading [one another] as in the boyster of bowes, knockyng upon their bowes.
8 Pea many a day Pinye was as a pond ful of water, yet [now] they see, Stand ye, stand ye, and no man loyseth backe.
9 Take your hoople of siluer, take your hoople of golde, for there is no end of riches: treasure, pashing all treasure.
10 Sackyng, restakynge, eating, a dissolved heart and collition of knes, liowd in all loynes also, and the faces of them all as blacke as a pot.
11 Where is the abiding place of lions, and the feeding plot of lions whelpes? where the young and oide lion had their rest? there diewt the lion, & there was no man to put him in fear.
12 The lion made his paye abundantly for his whelpes, and strangly for his shet lions, and hath filled his dennes with pay, and his abyding places with hoople.
13 Behold me against thee saith the Lord of hoastes, I will burne in smoke her charretts, and the Abodes shall devour thy lions, I will roote out also from the earth thy spoiling, and the boyster of thy messengers shalbe hede no more.

The . ii. Chapter.

1 Of the fall of Ninive. 8 No power can escape the hande of God.

1 Bloody citie, lifted throughout with falshood, with extreme dealing, no wise brought from spoiling.
2 The nope of the whippe, the nope of raeting of wheales, the pannung of bowes, and the lumping of charretts: ring blade of the sword also the shining speare, many wounded, many coples, and no end of carcasses, they shall stamible at dead bowes.
3 Because of the manyfolded fomnation of the beautifull harior, ful of charmes, that fettes nations by the means of her whodone, and the people through her charnings.
The booke of the prophete
Habacuc.

The first Chapter.

1 I complain against the wicked that persecute the just. 6 Be ye wise that the Chaldeans are raised up of the Lord for the chastisement of the Jews, and describeth their armie. 1 He commenceth the first psalm, declaring that God will also destroy the Babylonians, because they shall abuse their victorious and become pride and insolent, attributing the people thereof to their dothes.

4 Therefore the law is dissolved, judgment doth never go forth; for the wicked doth compass about the righteous, therefore bring judgment proceedeth.

5 Behold among the heathen, and regard, and wonder, and marueyli: for I will work a woe in your vayes, ye will not believe it though it be tolde you.

6 For I raise up the Chaldeans, that bitter and furious nation, which shall go upon the breadth of the land, to possesse the dwelling places that are not theirs.
They are terrible and fearful: their judgement and their dignity shall proceed of them selves.

Their horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more fierce than the wolves in the evening, and their horsesmen shall come from farre: they shall see as the Eglie hasting to meate.

They come all to spoile: before their faces shake an eastwunde, and they shall gather the capturice as the sande.

And they shall mocke the kings, and the princes shake a stone unto them: they shall bende every strong hold, for they shall gather dust, and take it.

Then shall they take a courage, and transgress, and do wickedly, imputing this their power unto their god.

Art not thou of olde, O Lord my God, my holy one: we shall not dye, O Lord thou hast odymed them for judgement, and O God thou hast established them for correction.

13 Thou art of pure eyes, and canst not see evil, thou canst not behold wickednesse:

Wherefore (then) dost thou loke vp the transgressours, and holdest thy tongue, when the wicked denouereth the man that is more righteous then he?

14. And maketh men as the fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things that have no ruler over them.

15 They take by all with the angle, they catche in their net, and gather it in their parme: Whereof they receyue and are glad.

16 Therefore they sacrifice unto their net, and burnemeane unto their parme: because by them their portion is fat, and their meate plenteous.

17 Shall they therefore streche out their net, and not spare continually to flay the nations:

Threatninges against Judah and Hierusalem, because of their idolatrie.

1. The Word of the Lord which came to Sophon the sonne of Gedalih, the sonne of Ammarah, the sonne of Hozekiah in the time of Josiah, the sonne of Amon king of Juda.

2. I will utterly destroy all things in the land, saith the Lord.

3. I will destroy man and beast, I will destroy the foules in the ayre, and the fish in the sea, and great ruine shall fall on the wicked, and I will utterly destroy the men out of the land, saith the Lord.

4. I will stretch out my hand upon Judah and upon all such as dwell at Hierusalem: thus will I root out the remainder of Hail from this place, and the names of the 'Kenurims and priests:

5. Be ye such as upon their house tops worship and bowle them felues into the hoast of heaven, Whiche swear by the Lord, and by their 'Wallunians also;

6. Which start backe from the Lord and neither seeke after the Lord nor regard hym.

10 At the same time sayth the Lord, [there shall be heard] a great roar from the thine post, and an howling from the second post, and a great destruction from the hylles.

11 Hoible ye that dwell in the lowe places, for at the marchaunt people are destroyed, and all they that were laden with siluer, are rooted out.

12 At the same time will I searche hierusalem with lanternes, and blitze them that continue in their bagges, and say in their hearts, "Lo, the Lord will do neither good nor evil.

13 Therefore their goddes shall be spoyled, their houses layed waste: they shall burne houses, and not dwell in them, they shall plante vineyards, but not drinke the wine thereof.

14 For the great day of the Lord is at hande, it is hard by, and commeth on apace, even the bitter boyre of the Lordes day, then shall the strong man eare out.

15 That day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and heauenwreke, a day of bitter destruction and miscerie, a darkie & glooming day, a cloudy and stormie day.

16 A day of the trumpet and alarm against the strong cities, and his towers.

17 I will bring the people into such vocation, that they shall go about like blinde men, because they have sinned against the Lord, their blood shall be poured out as duld, and their bodies aginst the myre.

18 Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliter them in that worthy day of the Lord, but thee that lande shall be consumed thousand the fire of his teloufe: for he shall boone make cleane redunance of all them that dwell in the lande.

The ii. Chapter.

4 Seke the Lord all ye meche hearted upon euer, ye that wooke after his judgement, seke righteousnesse, seke lowliness, that ye may be defended in the worthy full day of the Lord:

5 For Gaza shall be destroyed, and Acalon shall be layd waste, they shall cast out Albod at the noone day, and Acrnon shall be rooted up.

6 And as for the sea coast, it shall heare mens cotage, and shepsefolds.

7 Be it shalbe a portion for such as reit mane of the house of Juda, to seabe thereupon, in the houses of Acalon that they rest towardes night: for the Lord their God shall deliter them, and turne a day their captivity.

8 *I have heard the despite of Moab, and the blathemies of the children of Ammon, how they have shamefully treated my people, I magnified them selues within the borders of their lande.

9 Therefore as I live, sayth the Lord of holasses the God of Israel, Moab shalbe as Soboma, Ammon as Gamora, euie the breeding of nettles, and salt pittes, a perpetuall wilderness:
The residue of my selue that shalbe them, the remnante of my people shall havel them in possession.

10 *This shall happen unto them for their pyde, because they have dealt to shamefully with the Lord of holasses people, and magnified them selues above them.

11 The Lord shalbe terrible buto them, and destroy all the gods in the lande: and all the Isles of the heathen shall worship hym, every man in his place.

The book of the prophet Zacharias.

The first Chapter.

He moueth the people to return to the Lord, and escheweth the wickedness of their fathers; 2 He prefigureth Christ and his Apostles.

1 In the eight month of the second yere of King Darius, came the word of the Lord unto * Zacharias, the sonne of Barachias, the sonne of Abdo the prophet, saying: 2 The Lord hath ben soe displeased with your forefathers, 3 And say thou unto them, thus saith the Lord of holocausts: *Turne ye unto me, saith the Lord of holocausts, & I will turne you upvnto saith the Lord of holocausts, 4 Ye are not like your forefathers, unto whom propheteys cried, saying, thus saith the Lord of holocausts. *Turne you from your evil wayes, and from your wicked imaginatons: *But they would not heare no; regard me, saith the Lord. 5 What is noble become of your forefathers: * Do the propheteys liue for ever? 6 But did not my words and statutes which I commaunded by my seruantes the propheteys take hold of your forefathers: and they returned, saide: We are like as the Lord of holocausts determined to do vnto vs according to our olde wayes and imaginations, even so hath he dealt with vs.

7 Upon the twentie and fourth day of the eleuenthe moneth, (which is the moneth Sebah) in the second yere of Darius, came the word of the Lord, unto Zacharias, the sonne of Barachias, the sonne of Abdo the prophet, saying: 8 I sawe by night, and behold, there came one vpon abred hoope, and hoope full among the myrre trees that were in a bottome: and behold hym were there red, speckled, and white hoope. 9 Then saide I,D.O my Lord, what are these? And the angel that spake with me, saide vnto me: I wole the thee what these be. 10 And the man that seode among the myrre trees answered, and saide: These are they whom the Lord hath sent to go thopovbe the world. 11 And they answered the angel of the Lord that seode among the myrre trees, and saide: We have gone thopovbe the word, and beholde all the world lyth, and is carelesse. 12 Then the hoope of the Lord seode among them, and saide: O hoope of holocausts, hov long wylt thou be dumbereful to Hierusalem, and to the cities of Juda, with whom thou haue ben displeased now the three yere.
So the Lord gave a longing and a com-

The iii. Chapter

The vision of the golden candlestick, and the expounding thereof.

And the angel that talked with me, came againe, and waked me, as a man that is rapt out of his sleepe, And saide unto me:

And saide unto me: What seest thou? And I said: I see two olive trees, one upon the right side of the boule, & the other upon the left side.

So I answered, and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying, O my Lord, what are these?

The angel that talked with me answered and saide unto me: Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord.

He answered and saide unto me: This is the boule of the Lord into Zorobabel: saying, Neither though an host of men, nor (though strength): but through my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts.

What art thou great mountaine before place among these that stand here.

Zorobabel thou must be made even, and he shall bring forth the head stone thereof, with showinges, crying, Grace grace unto it.

Bomours, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying:

The handes of Zorobabel have laid the foundation of this house, his handes that also smite it: and then shalt knowe that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto you.

For who hath despised the day of small things: they shall rejoice, and shall see the stone of tyne in the hande of Zorobabel: these seuen are the eyes of the Lord, which go through the whole world.

Then answered I, saide unto him: What are these seuen olue trees upon the right & left side of the candlestick?

I spake moreover, and saide unto him: What be these seuen olue branches which through the two golden pyxes emptie them felues into the golde?

He answered me saide: Knowest thou not what these be? I said, no my lord.

Then said he: These are the two olue branches, that stand with the ruler of the whole earth.

The v. Chapter.

The vision of the fleeing bookes, signifying the curse of the heeues, and such as abuse the name of God. By the vision of the measure, is signified the bringing of Juda to Babylon.

I turned me, fleeing by myne eyes, & looke, and behold, a fleeing booke.

And he saide unto me: What seest thou? I answered: I see a fleeing booke of twelve cubic vites long, and ten cubic breade.

Then saide he unto me, This is the curse that goeth forth over the whole earth: for at the heeues shalbe judged after this booke, & al parriued persons shall be judged according to the name.

And I wil bring it soorth, saith the Lord of hosts, so that it shall enter into the house of the heeue, and into the house of him that falsly heareth by my name: and
and that remaine in his house, and consume it. With the timber & stones thereof.

5 Then the angel that talked with me, went southward, and said unto me: Lift up thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth southward.

6 And I said, What is it? He answered me: This is a measure going out. It saith moreover: Thus are they that dwell upon the whole earth to look upon.

7 And behold, there was lifted up by a talent of lead, and lo, a woman ready in the midst of the measure.

8 And he said, This is ingodliness: So he cast her into the midst of the measure.

9 Then spake I to the angel that talked with me; Wilt thou reveal the measure?

10 Then spake he to the angel that talked with me; Wilt thou reveal the measure between the earth and the heavens?

11 And he said unto me; Into the land of *Sinarar to build it an house, & it shall be established; & set there upon her own place.

4 Then spake I, and saide unto the angel that talked with me: O Lord, what are these?

5 The angel answered me, and saide unto me: These are the foure spirits of the heaven, which are come to stand before the ruler of all the earth.

6 That with the blacke horse went southward into the lande of the north, & the white folded them, and the speckled horses went southward toward the south.

7 And the strong horse went out, & required to go and take their journey over the whole earth. And he said, Go ye hence, go through the world: So they went throughout the world.

2 Dearly, I turned me, lifting up myne eyes, and looke, and behold there came foure charretts out of the midst of two cylindres, which cylindres were of brass.

3 In the first charret was red horses, in the second charrett were blacque horses, in the third charrett were white horses, in the fourth charrett were horses of divers colours, and strong.

4 Then spake I, and said unto the angel that talked with me: O Lord, what are these?

5 And the angel answered me: These are the foure spirits of the heaven, which be come southe to stand before the ruler of all the earth.

6 That with the blacque horse went southe into the lande of the north, and the white followed them, and the speckled horses went southe toward the south:

7 And the strong horses went out, required to go and take their journey over the whole earth: And he saide, Get ye hence, go through the world: So they went throughout the world.

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying: Beholde, these that go toward the north, shall fill my wrath in the north countrey.

D the word of the lord of hoastes came unto me, saying,

Thus saith the lord of hoastes: I was in great solitude for Sidon, yea I have ben ve-ery tilous for her both great death.

Thus saith the Lord: I wyl returne unto Zion, and wyl dwell in the midst of Hierusalem: to that hierusalem shal-be called, A faithfull and true cite, the hit of the Lord of hoastes, an holy hill.

Thus saith the lord of hoastes: There shalt yet obde men & obde women dwell acgnine in the streete of hierusalem: yea, that such as go with saues in their handes for very age.

The streete of the cite also shalbe full of young boyes and dammels playing in the streete thereof.

Thus saith the Lord of hoastes: If the residue of this people thinke it to be impossible in their eyes in these days; should it therefore be impossible in my light, saith the Lord of hoastes:

Thus saith the Lord of hoastes: Behold, I wyl deliver my people from the countryes of the east and west.

And wyl bring them againe, that they may dwell in the middie of hierusalem:

Thus saith the Lord of hoastes: Let your hands be strong ye that now heare these yodbes by the mouth of the prophetes which are in these days, that the foundation of the house of the Lord of hoastes is layde, that the temple may be builde.

Thus before these days neither men nor cattale could imagine any thing, neither might any man come in and out in refet for trouble: but I let every man go against his neighbour.

Neverthelesse, I wyl now increate the residue of this people no more as afore time, saith the Lord of hoastes.

For the fede that prosper, the bine hal gue her fruite, the grounds that hale ger her encreafe, and the heavens that gene their beade, and I shal cause the remanu of this people to have all these in possession.

And it shall come to passe, that like as ye were a curse among the heathen, ye house of Juda and ye house of Israel, then to wyl I deliuer you, that ye shal be a blessing: scare not, but let your handes be strong:
14. For thus faith the Lord of gods: Like as I thought to punish you, what time as your fathers provoked me into wrath, faith the Lord of hosts, and spared not.

15. Even so am I determined now in these days for to do well unto the house of Juda, & Hierusalem: (therefore) fear ye not.

16. Now the things that ye shall do, are these: * Speak every man the truth unto his neighbour, execute judgment truly & peaceably within your ports:

17. And let none of you imagine evil in his heart against his neighbour, and love no false othes: for all these are * things that I hate, faith the Lord.

be valued at of them. And I take the thirtie siluer pence, and cast them to the potter in the house of the Lorde.

14. Then hooke I my other staffe also [namely] Bandes, that I might loose the brotherhood between Juda and Israel.

15. And the Lorde lade unto me: Take thee also the staffe of a foolshe she-

16. For, if I will cast vp a shepheard in the lande, which shall not seeke after the things that be lost, nor seek the tender lambes, he shall not heale the wounded, he shall not nourish the things that are whole: but he shall eate the flesh of such as be fat, and teare their claibes in peces.

1. Do now O ye priests, be honest in your duties.
2. If ye will not hear it, nor regard it, to give the glory to my name, saith the Lord of hosts, I will send a curse upon you, and will curse your blessings, yea I have cursed them already, because ye do not consider it in your heart.
3. Behold, I will corrupt your scribes, and teach false doctrine upon your faces; yea the bong of your solemn feast, yea the bong of your solemn feast, ye shall have none of it.
4. And you shall know that I have sent this covenant unto you, that my covenant which I have made with Levi might stand, saith the Lord of hosts.
5. By covenant was I with him, of peace and peace, and I gane them therein for the peace, in peace, and in peace, I set him free, and he turned many from their iniquity.
6. The law of truth was in his mouth, and there was no iniquity found in his lips; he walked with me in peace, and in peace, and in equitie, and he turned many from their iniquity.
7. For the priests lips shall keep knowledge and they shall seek the law at his mouth: because he is the messenger of the Lord of hosts.
8. But ye have gone out of the way, ye have caused many to fall by the law: ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, saith the Lord of hosts.
9. Therefore have I also made you despised and by ye before all people, because ye kept not my wages, but have ben partial in the law.

The thirde booke of Esdras.

2. Of the destruction of Berosus.

3. No less Esdras held the feast of Easter in Jerusalem unto his Lord, and offered the passover the fourteenth day of the first month. He set the priests also in order according to their daily courses, being arrayed in long garments, in the temple of the Lord.

4. And he spake unto the Levites the holy numbers of Israel, that they should alone them selves unto the Lord, to set the holy arke of the Lord in the house that king Solomon the sonne of David had builded.

5. And said: Ye shall no more bear the arke upon your shoulders: and yowe leave the Lord your God, and take the charge of his people Israel, and prepare you after your villages and tribes, according as David the king of Israel hath left in writing, and according as Solomon his sonne hath honourably prepared: And standing eche of you in that degree of authoritie which in the distribution was appointed unto your fathers the Levites in the presence of your brethren the children of Israel;

6. Offer the passover in order, and make reade the sacrifices for your brethren, and keep the passover, according to the commandament of the Lord where which was given unto the People.

7. And unto the people that was found there, Esdras gave thirtie thousand lambs and kids, and three thousand values. These things were given of the kings owne possessions, according as he promised, to the people, to the Priests, and to the Levites.

8. And Helkias, and Zacharias, and Spy, the governours of the temple, gave to the priests for the passover two thousand and five hundred sheep, and three hundred values.

9. Moreover Zacharias, and Samailas, and Nathanael his brother, and Sabas, and Ocheil, and Inam, captaines over thousandes, gave to the Levites for the passover, five thousand sheepe, and ten thousand values.

10. And when these things were bought to passe, the Priests and Levites fode goodly in their order, and had the unleasened bread throughout the tribes.

11. And after the degrees of presentation appointed to their fathers, to offer to the Lord in the sight of the people, according as it is written in the booke of Moses: and thus dyd they in the morning.

12. And they rost the Easter lambe with fire, as according was: As for the offerings, they dight them in kettles and pottes with good favour,

13. And set them before all them of the people, and afterbarde they prepared for them soles and the priests their brethren the sonses of Aaron.

14. For the priests offered the fat, untill the tyne was expired, and the Levites prepared for them soleues, and for the priests their brethren the chyldeon of Aaron.

15. The holy fingers also the chyldeon of Alaph, fode in their orders, according as David decreed, to wit, Alaph, Zacharias, and Joachin, which was appointed by the king.

16. Moreover, the (pottser and) doose kepers fode by the dooses (and that differently) so that none went out of his standing and services, for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

17. Thus were all things performede that belonged to the offering of the Lord in that day, that they might holde the passover.

18. And offer sacrifices upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandament of king Esdras.

19. So the chyldeon of Israel which were then present, helde a(honourable) passover, and the feast of unleasened bread, seven daies long:

20. And theie a passover was not kept in Israel.
Israel, from the tyne of the prophete Samuel.

21. And all the kings of Israel beheld not such an Ennet as this which king Josias held, and the priests, the Levites, and the people, of all the people of Israel, all them that were at Jerusalem.

22. In the eighteenth yeere of the raigne of Josias, was this passover kept.

23. And with an heart full of godlynes dyd king Josias rightly order all his works before the Lord.

24. And the thinges that came to passe in his time, they were wrytten of olde before those dayes, concerning those that sinned and were ungodly against the Lord above all people and landes, and holde they greene hym in serving slewfull thinges, so that the words of the Lord vsed by against Israel.

25. Holde after all these actes of Josias, it came to passe that Pharaoh the king of Egypt came to Carchemis upon Euphaties to move Warrre: and Josias went out against hym.

26. But the king of Egypt sent to hym, saying: what base I to do with thee, O king of Judah?

27. I am not sent of the Lord God against thee, saith my warre is upon Euphaties, and holde the Lord is with me, yea the Lord maketh diligent speede with me: depart from me, and be not against the Lord.

28. Wherefore Josias would not turne backe his chariot from hym, but under-tooke to fight with hym, and heartened not to the words of the prophete Jerome spoken by the mouth of the Lord: but pitted a battayle against hym in the field of Megiddo: And the princes prastled to king Josias.

29. Then sayd the king unto his seruantes: Carry me away out of the battayle, for I am very weake. And immediately his seruantes toke hym away out of the shunt of the battayle.

30. Then gate he uppon the second char- ret, came to Hierusalem, dyed, and was buried in his fathers sepulcher.

31. And in all Jutie they mourned for Josias, yea Jerome the prophete lamented for Josias, and the rulers also with their luykes made lamentation for hym uppon this day, and it became a custome to be done continually in all the kynred of Israel.

32. These thinges are wrytten in the booke of the stories of the kings of Juda, and all the actes of Josias, his glory, and understanding in the lawe of the Lord, and the thinges which he had done before, and that was wrytten [recept] are wrytten in the booke of the kings of Israel and Juda.

33. And the people toke Jeconias the sonne of Josias, and made hym king in stead of Josias his father, when he was twelve and three yeres olde.

34. And he reigned in Juda and in Hierusalem three monethes, and then the king of Egypt put hym bondage from raigning in Hierusalem.

35. And rayled by a taste of the people, namely an hundred talents of syluer, and one talent of golde.

36. The king of Egypt also made Joachtin his brother king of Juda and Hierusalem.

37. Wherefore against hym Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylion came by, and bosome hym with bandes of iron, and carred hym into Babylon.

38. And [was] the bounde Joachin and his governours: but Zaraen his brother he apprehended & led away with hym into Egypt.

39. Nine and twentie yeres olde was Joachin when he was made king in the lande of Juda and Hierusalem, and he dyed euill before the Lord.

40. Wherefore against hym Nabuchodonosor, the king of Babylion came by, and bosome hym with bandes of iron, and carred hym into Babylon.

41. Nabuchodonosor also toke of the holy vessels of the lord, carred them away & set the in his owne temple at Babylon.

42. But all his actes, and his prophani- on and reprofe, are wrytten in the chronicles of the kings.

43. And Joachin his sonne raigned in his stead: he was made king by his sonne's actes.

44. And raigned but three monethes and ten dayes in Hierusalem, and dyed euill before the Lord.

45. So after a sene Nabuchodonosor lent and caused hym to be brought into Babylion with the holy vessels of the Lord.

46. And made Zedecias king of Juda and Hierusalem when he was twentie and one yeres old, and he raigned a leven yeres.

47. And he dyd euill also in the sight of the Lord, and cared not for the words that were spoken unto hym by the prophete Jerome from the mouth of the Lord.
And where he had made an oath unto king Nabuchodonosor, he forsooke him, by the name of the Lord, and hardened his necke and heart, and transferr'd the ladies of the Lord the God of Israel.

The governours also of the people & people, dyd many thinges against the ladies, and passe'd all the pollutions of all nations, and defiled the temple of the Lord which was sanctified in Jerusalem.

Wherefore the God of their fathers sent his messenger to call them back, because he spared them and his tabernacle also.

But they had his messengers in derision: and loke when the Lord spake unto them, they made sport of his prophets.

This drwebe so long till the Lord was wroth with his people for their great bungoblymes, so that he causd the kings of the Chaldees to come vp against them.

Which fleue their young men with the women, peue even in "the compasse of their holy temple, and spared no body, neither young man nor mayden, old man nor child among them:

But they were all delivered into their handes, and all the holy vesseles of the Lord both great and small, with the vesseles of the arke of God; and they took and carped abaye the kings treasure into Babylon.

As for the house of the Lord, they went vp into it; and burnt it, brake downe the walles of Hierusalem, let fire vpon her towres.

Destroyed all her "noble buildinges, and brought them to naught, and the people that were not slayne with the sword, he carped into Babylon:

Which became famintues to him and his children, till the Persians reigned, to fulfill the vwoode of the Lord [spoilen] by the mouth of Jeremiah:

Till the lande hadde fully "taken her ease from them, Whiche voke that sake all the time she lacked her inhabitantes, to the end & term of seuerall yeres.

The 11. Chapter.

Dive when king Cyrus raigned over the Persians in his first yere, when the Lord would persourne the vwoode that he had promised by the mouth of the prophet Jeremiah:

The Lord rayed vp the spirit of Cyrus the king of Persians, so that he causd his vntyching to be proclaimed throughout his whole realme.

Saying, thus saith Cyrus king of the Persians: The Lord of Israel, that hye Lord, hath made me king of the whole vwoode:

And commanded me to builde hym anhouse at Hierusalem in Urue.

If there be any noble of you that are of his people, let the Lord enue his Lord be both hym, an let him go vp to Hierusalem that is in Judæa, and builde the house of the Lord of Israel, that is, the Lorde that dwelleth in Hierusalem.

48 And all they that dwelle about that place shall alhele him, all that dwelle in his place luy, whether it be with golde, with fluer,

7 With gyres, with horses and necessarie cattell, and all other thinges that are brought with a free vpp to the house of the Lord at Hierusalem.

8 Then the princall men out of the tribes and villages of Judæ & Benjamin rode vp; so did the Princes asand the Lutites, all they whole number the Lord had moved to go vp, to builde the house of the Lord at Hierusalem.

And they that dwelle about them helped them in all thinges, with flour and golde, horses & cattell, and with many free gifts of many men whose mindes were stirr'd by theeo.

10 King Cyrus also brought soothe the vesseles and ornamentes that were hallowd into the Lorde, which Nabuchodonosor had caried away from Hierusalem, and conferret them to his tool [and image.]
The thirde booke

11 And having bought them forth, he delivered them to Hithydates his treasurer.
12 And by hym they were delivered to Abasart the deputie in Jude.
13 And this was the number of them: a thousande golden cuppes, and a thousande of siluer, bafts of siluer tinct in and nine for the sacrifices, bals of gold thirtie, and of siluer two thousande four hundred and ten, and a thousande other vesseis.

E 14. So all the vesseis of golde and siluer which they caried away, were five thousande, four hundred and nine.
15 These were brought by Salamanare, with them of the captitutie from Babylon to Hierusalem.

16 But in the time of Artaxerxes king of the Persians, Belemus, and Hithydates, and Labelius, and Rathymus, and Sedellius, and Semellius the secratarie, with other that were ioned to them dwellin in Samaria & other places, wrote two hym against them that dwell in Judea and Hierusalem, these letters folowing:

To the king Artaxerxes our lorde.

17 Thy seruautes, Rathymus the storie wypet, and Semellius the secretaire, and the rest of their counsell, and the judges that are in Coelosyria & Phenice:

18 Be it knownen to our lode the king, that the Jewes which are come by you into by into the rebellions & wicked cite, begin to buyde by the market places, and to set by the valles about it, and to set by the temple a nebbe.

19 Both this cites and the wallis therof be set by agayne, they shall not only refuse to gave tributes, and carre, but also to rebel bitter against kinges.

20 And forsoomuch as they take this in hand now about temple, we thought it reason to think no soune of it:

21 But to shewe it unto the lode the king, to the intent that it please the king, he may cause it to be sough in the books of olde.

22 And thou shalt finde in records here of us, and that understandeth that this cite hath alway ben rebellious and disobedient, that it hath troubled kinges and citie:

23 And that the Jewes were rebellious, and rapsled alldayes warres therin: for the which cause this cite is wasted,

24 Wherefore we certifie our Lord the king, that if this cite be buyde [and occupied] agayne, and the wallis thereof let by a newe, they cannot have no passage into Coelosyria and Phenice.

25 Then wrote the king to Rathymus the storie wypet, to Keleethmus, to Semellius the scrive, and to the other officers and dwellers in Samaria, and Syria, and Phenice, after this names.

26 I have read the epistle which ye sent unto me: therefore I commanded to make diligent searche, and have founde that this cite hath ever resisted kinges, 27 That the same people are disobedent and have caused much warre, and that mightie kinges have raigned in Hierusalem, which also have rapsled by tares of Coelosyria and Phenice.

28 Wherefore I have commanded to forbyd those men that they shall not buyde by the cite, and seende to be taken that there be no more done in it.

29 And that they procede no further in those wicked workes, forsoomuch as it might be occasion of truble into prynce.

30 Nowe when Rathymus and Semellius the scrive had read the wypet of king Artaxerxes, they got them together, and came in all the haste to Hierusalem, with an hoast of horsemen, and with such people as foote, 31 And forbad them to buyde: And so they left of from buydeing of the temple, into the seconde yere of king Darius, king of the Persians.

Then the three young men that kept the kinges person, and watched his bo-ry, [communed among them these, and] spake one to another.

Let every one of us speake a sentence, and looke that shall overcomne, whose sentence may serve wyse, then the othres, unto hym that king Darius gave great gifts, and great thinges, in token of victorie:

As to weare purple, to drinke in gold, and to slepe in gold, and a chariot with hopies of golde, and an head type of five lumen, and a chapne about his necke:

Pea he should sit next to Darius because of his wyppone, and haue called Darius soyn.

So very one wrothe his meaning, taile it, and lapy it under king Darius soyn.

And sayde, when the king apseth they would gue hym the wyprynge, and looke whole wodde the kinge the three pynes of Persia shall judge to be the most wylye spoken, the same shall have the victorie as it was appoynted.

One wrothe: Wine is a strong thing,

The seconde wrothe: the kinge is strong,

The thirde wrothe: women haue very muche strength, but above all thinges

the treweth beareth away the victorie.

Honde when the king was ryden by,

they take their wyprynge and delivered them unto him, so he read them.

Then sent he forth to call al his chiefe lopes of persia, and of Hedia, and the rulers, and the captaynes, and liefe-nauntes and consiles:

And when he had set hym downe in counsel, the wyprynge were read before them.

And he commanded to call for the young men, that they myght declare their meaninges the selues by mouth.

So they were sent for, and came in.

And then he lapyde into them: thede vs and make us to understonde what the thinges are that ye have witten.

Then began the first which he hauete spoken of the strength of wine,

And sad thus: Dye men, how strong is wine, that decaetly all men which drinke it:

It maketh the kinges mind and the fathers to be both one, the bondmen and the free, the poor nians and the riche.

It turneth also every thought into joy and gladnes, so that a man remem-berth neither heames nor debt.

And it maketh every heart (thynke it telle) riche, so that a man remember other king nor governour, and it ma-keth to speake all thinges by talentes.

Moreover when men haue dronke,

they forget all frendship and brothely faithfulnes, and a little after they draw out (woode:

And afterw shortages when they are from the wine, they remember nothing what was done.

Dye men, is not wine the strongest, that thus enarcher (men) to do: And when he had spoken this, he haue his peace.

The iiiij. Chapter.

1 Of the strength of a kyng. 11 Of the strength of women. 14 Of the strength of trueth, which sentence is appoynted. 47 And his petition gaunted.

Then the seconde that had spoken of the strength of the king, began to say:

Dye men, are not men the strongest of all, that conquer both

by lande and sea, and all the thinges that are in them;

Honde is the king stronger, as lope of all these thinges, and that hath the do-nion over them: and loke what he commandeth them, it is all done.

If he byd them the one against the other to make barme, they do it: if he send them out against the enemies, they go and breake downe mountaynes, valles, and trohes.

They lay and are slayne, and over-paste not the kinges commandement:
if they get the victorie, they byng all to the king, to well the spole as other thinges.

A (iiiij) 6 Likewise
The third booke

6 Likewise the other that medle not with harres and fighting, but till the grounde: when they have hewed and reaped, they bring to the king, and compell one another to pay his tribute into the king.

7 And if the king, though he be but one man, command to kill, they kill, if he command to " forgive, they forgive:
8 If he command to smite, they smite, if he byd drive away, drive away, the command to bypline, they bypline:
9 If he command to break bowle, they brake bowle, if he command to plant, they plant.

10 So the common people and the rulers are obedient unto hym, and the king in the mean season fitteth hym bowle, carreth and banisheth, and taketh his rest.

11 And these keep him rounde about, and not one of them dare get hym out of the way to do his owne busines, but must be obedient unto the king at a bowde.

12 Judge ye now: ye men, how should not the king go farre aboue, when in such sort he is obeyed: and when he had spoken this, he heide his tongue.

13 The israile (whose name was Zoroabel) whereby the king spake of the common people, and of truth, began to say, after this manner.

14 Ye men, it is not the great king, it is not the multitude of men, neither is it done that excelleth, who is it then that ruleth them, or hath the lodship over them: is it not women?

15 Women have borne the king, and all the people, which beare rule by sea and by lande.

16 And men of them were they house, and they brought those vp that planted the vine, whereof the vine commeth.

17 They make garments for men, they get honour into men, and without womencan not men continue.

18 Yea, if they have gathered together gold and silver, or any other precious thing, they do not love a woman for her comely shape and beautie.

19 And letting all those things go, do they not gaze even with open mouth, are their eyes fast on her: and have not all men desire birtne her, then into silver and gold, or any manner of precious thing.

20 A man leaueth his owne father that brought hym vp, leaueth his owne natural country, and cleaneth unto his wyfe.

21 Ye he itoperbach his lyfe with his wyfe, and remembereth neither father, nor mother, nor country.

22 And this also ye must needs knowe, that women have dominion over you: Do ye not labour and trangle, and gue and byng all to the woman?

23 A man taketh his bowde, and goeth his way to stale. (to bypl.) to morter, to style upon the sea, and vponewers.

24 And feeth a lion, goeth in the darkenes: when he hath stollen, decreed, and robbed, he bringeth it unto his love.

25 Wherefore, a man toucheth his wife better then father and mother.

26 Ye many there be that come out of their brothels, and become bon Denn for their wytes takes.

27 Damp one also have perished, have erred, and sinned also for women.

28 And nowhere do ye not believe me: is not the king great in his power: do not all regions fear to touche hym?

29 Yet byd I see hym, and Apane the daughter of the great king Bartanus the kings concubine, late beyde the king upon the right hande,

30 And take of his cromwe from his head, and set it upon her owne head, and stroke the king with her left hand.

31 And there whyte speedly the king locked upon her with open mouth: if she laughed upon him, he laughed also: but if she take any displeasure with hym, the king was fayne to slatter her: and to geuer her good wordes still he had gotten her favour agayne.

32 Dye men, are not women then stronger that do these things?

33 Then the king and the princes loked one upon another: So he began to speak of the truthe:

34 Dye men, are not women stronger? Great is the earth, lyfe is the heaven, must is the course of the lyne, he compasseth the heaven rounde about, and taketh his course agayne to his owne place in one day.

35 Is he not excellent that maketh these things? Therefore great is the truth, and stronger then all things.

36 All the earth calleth upon truthe, the heaven pasheth it, all Wytes make and tremble at it, and with it is no unrighteous thing.
37 Wine is wicked, the lyng is wicked, women are wicked, all the children of men are wicked, sea's such are all their wycked wyrks, and ther is no true wyck in them, in their wyrghtewoufnesse also that they be wycked by and perisse.

38 As the true wyng it endureth and is always strong, it lyveth and conquerrpy forevermore without ende.

39 With her there is no exception or difference of persons, but the death that isst is, and refrayenth from all wyng and wycked wyngs, and all men do well like of her wyrks.

40 In the judgement of it there is no wyrghtewouf wyng, the is the strenght, wyngdome, polter, and maister of all ages. Bleseld be the God of trueh.

41 And with that he held his peace, and all the people cried, and then sayde:
Great is trueh, and above all.

42 Then sayde the kyng unto hym, Aste what thou wilt more then is appointed in the wyng, and I wyll gate it thee, for thou art fombe Wylyer [then y the companions, thou shalt se next me, and shalt be called my kymman.

43 Then sayde he unto the kyng: Remember thy promise and boide, which I have boide, and promised in the day when thou camest to the kyngdome, to wyde by Hierusalem:

44 And to sende agaynle all the bessels and Judges that were taken away out of Hierusalem, with that Cupyr set apart when he boide to destroy Babylon, and to sende them agayn fyerlyer.

45 And my wynde was also to wyde by the temple, which the Edonites burnt when Judea was burnt by the Chabees.

46 And note this onely of kyng is the thign that I require and desire of thee, is this the pynyly liberallte that I also of thee, I desire therfore that thou perpernow the boide which thou with your owne mouth hast made unto the kyng of heavnen.

47 Then Darius the kyng boide by hyked hym. Wrote hym letters unto all the deputys and liettenaunts, to all the loaces and nobles, that they shoude come hym gooth, and all them that went by with hyrn, to build Hierusalem.

48 He wrote letters also unto all the liettenants that were in Coeleophyia and Phenices, and unto them in Libanus.

that they shoude wyng Cedar trees from Libanus unto Hierusalem, and wyde the eye with hym.

49 Moreover, he wrote to all the Jews that were gone out of his realm into Judie concerning their freehomen, that no officer, no ruluer, no liettenaunt, no Edonwyre, should enter into their doozen.

50 And that all their liande which they kept, shoude be free and not tributarie, and that the Edonites shoude gate over the [cities and] villagges of the Jews, which they had taken in:

51 Pea and that there shoude be percy seventwenty taletes to the wydbyng of the temple, untyll the tyne that it were finished:

52 And to mayntenpe the burnt offerynges upon the altar every day, (as they had a commandement to offer seventenee) other ten taletes every perc.

53 And that all they which come from Babylon to wyde the cite, should have free libertie, they and their childe, and all the priests that went away.

54 He wrote also concerning the charges, and the priests garment Wherein they mynister,

55 And likewise for the charges of the Leitures to be geuen them, untyll the day that the house were finished, and Hierusalem wyd by.

56 And he commanded that all they that watched the cite, should have their pretions and waghes.

57 He sent away also all the bessels that Cupyr had separated from Babylon: and all that Cupyr had geuen in commandement, the fame charged he also that it shoude be done, and sent unto Hierusalem.

58 boide when this young man was gone forth, he lyfted by his face to hea-nen towards Hierusalem, and payed the lyng of heavnen.

59 And sayde: Of the commeth victorie, of the commeth wydbyne, and thine is the glore, and I am thy seruante.

60 Blessed art thou which hast geuen me wydbyne, for to thee I acknowledge it D Lorde [thou God] of our fathers.

61 And so he toke the letters, and went out, and came unto Babylon, and tode it all his brethren.

62 And they payed the God of their father,
fathers, that he had gaven them free

doute and libertie.

63 To go vp, and to builde Hierusalem and the temple, "Wherina the name of the Lord is called vpou: and they re joyced with instrumentes of musicke and gladnessse seven dayes long.

The v. Chapter.

The number of them that returne from the captivitie, 42 their wolves and sacrifices.

54 The temple is begun to be built. 6 Their enemies would craftilyystone with them.

After this, were the 33 The sons of the seruantes of Solomon, the sons of Jaspophere, the sons of Pharud, the sons of Seleb, the sons of Lason, the sons of Jisael, the sons of Saphelia.

34 The sons of Aga, the sons of Aga, the sons of Pharracheth, the sons of Sabu, the sons of Spartia, the sons of Pardsis, the sons of Hasias, the sons of Gar, the sons of Addo, the sons of Subah, the sons of Apher, the sons of Warodos, the sons of Sabath, the sons of Alon.

35 All the numbers of the temple, the numbers of the seruantes of Solomon, were three hundred sixty and two.

36 These came up from the land of Elam, from the land of Shinar, from the land of Ecbatana, from the land of Bibbim, from the land of Zanoah, from the land of Bani.

37 And was named after him: The nyme of the same kircve was bought in the register of their generation, but it was not found, and therefore were they forbidden to execute the office of the priesthood.

38 The priests that executed the office of the priesthood, and were not found, the sons of Bohia, the sons of Hodos, the sons of Dodos, the sons of Addis, which married Angia, one of the daughters of Barzelaus.

39 For into them sayde Helias and Aias, that they should have no position in the sanctuarie, till there rose up an he priest that were well instructed in the playne cleannesse and truth.

40 So of Irael from them of tenez yeares old, and children, they were all in number fourtie and two thousand three hundred and three score, besides men seruantes and women seruantes.

41 Their seruantes and handmaiden were seven thousand three hundred fourtie and seven. The singing men and singing women, two hundred fourtie and five.

42 Four hundred thirty and sixe camels, seven thousand thirty and sixe horses, two hundred fourtie and five mules, five thousand five hundred and twelve and five beasts bred to the yoke.

43 And of their rulers also after their families, when they came to the temple of God that is in Huremalem, there were that vowed to set up the house agayne in his owne place, according to their ability.

44 And to goe into the holy treasure of the works, a thousand pounds of gold, goûde, five thousand of silver, and an hundred precious garnements.

46 And so much the priests and the Le- nites and the people in Hierusalem, and in the country (there above) the fingers also and the posters, and all Israel in their villages.

47 *But when the seventh month came, and when the children of Israel were every man in his cub, they came altogether with one content into the open place of the gate which is towards the east.

48 And there Jesus the sonne of Joseph, and his brethren the priests, and Zo- robabel the sonne of Salachiel, and his brethren, rising up, made ready the anther of the God of Israel.

49 To offer burnt errities upon it, so as it is written in the lawe of Moses the man of God.

50 And thither were gathered against them, divers of other nations of the lande: but they blessed the anther in his owne place, although all the nations in the lande were enemies to them and vered them: and they offered errities to the Lord both morning and evening.

51 And also they heide the feast of taber- nacles as it is commanded in the lawe, and errities daily as it was appertaining.

52 And after that also the continual ob- lations, and the offeringes of the Sab- bathes, and of the newe monethes, and of all holy feastes.

53 And all they which had made any holde to God, began to offer errities to God from the first day of the seventh moneth, although the temple of the Lord was not yet build up.

54 And they gave unto the masons and carpenters, money, meate and drinke, with chearfulness.

55 Unto them of Sion also and Tyre the gau showe, that they shulde bring Cedar trees from Libanus, which shoulde be bought by note to the hauen of Joppa, according as it was commended them by Cyrus king of the Persians.

56 And in the seconde yere and seconde moneth came into the temple of God at Hierusalem, *Zorobabel the sonne of Salachiel, and Jesus the sonne of Joseph and their brethren, and the priests and Levites, and all they that were come unto Hierusalem out of the cap-

57 And they lade the foundation of the house of God in the seven meone of the seconde moneth, in the seconde yere that they were come to Hierusalem.

58 And they appointed the Levites that were about twentye peres olde over the workes of the Lord. So Jesus and his sonne, & brethren, and Daniel also his brother, and the sonnes of Badalon, with the sonnes of Iuda, the sonne of Gladon, and his sonnes brethren, even all the Levites with one ac- cord, soweit in God to advance the workes in the house of God: so the worke men build up by the temple of the Lord.

59 And the priests stooode and had their garnements with musical instruyments and trumpettes, and the Levites the sonnes of Ashaph had Cymbales.

60 *Every man thankes and prayes unto the Lord, according as David the king of Israel had odevine.

61 And they song with loude voyces songs to the praise of the Lord, because his mercie and glone is for ever in Israel.

62 And all the people blewe out with trumpettes, and cyled with loude voyce, praying the Lord to gather the reavyng vp of the house of the Lord.

63 *There came also from among the priests and Levites, and of the chiefest according to the tribes and kynedes, to buit, the elders which had seen the former house,

64 To the building of this, with great crye and great mourning, many also with trumpettes and [great] lip cyled with loude voyce:

65 *And although that the trumpettes myght not well be hearde for the weeping and mourning of the people: yet there was a great multitude that blew trumpettes maruely joyful, so that it was hearde farre of.

66 *Wherefore when the enemies of the tribes of Juda and Benjamin hearde it, they came to knowe what that noys of trumpettes should be mean.

67 And they perceaved that they which were come againe out of captynite, buit the temple vp a newe unto the Lord God of Israel.

68 So they went to Zorobabel & Jesus, and and to the rulers of the villages, and layd vnto them: Shall we build this with you also?
69 For we will build as yeu do obey your Lorde, and do sacrifice vnto hym from the bays of Albadareth the kynge of Assiyon, which brought hy there.
70 Then Zebobabel and Jesu and the rules of the villeges of Israel layde vnto them: It doth not agree that ye shoulde builde the temple of our God with vs.
71 We our selues alone wyll builde vnto

Of Aggeus and Zacharias, 2 The building of the temple; Sisimes woulde lea ten. 7 His letters to Darius. 2 The kynges auntie were to the contrarie.

3 The copie of the letters that he wrote and sent vnto Darius, Sisimes governour of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes with their compani ons, which are head rullers in Syria and Phenice, send their saluta tion vnto Darius the kyng.

3 We eras we our Lord the kyng, that we came into the lande of Jure, and went to Hierusalem, where we founde the auntie of the Jueues that were of the captiuitie in the citie of Hierusalem, 9 Building an house vnto the Lorde, great and newe, of heuen and costly stones, and the tumber already layde up on the walles:
10 Pea they make great hatte with the Worke, and it goeth forth prosperously in their handes, and with great oug gence and Worshyp is it made.
11 Then asked we the eldres saying: By thysses commandement builde you by this house, and lay the foundations of these workes:
12 Which we demanded of them, to the intent that we might gue knowledge unto the, & write vnto thee of those that governed it: and we required of them their names in writing that were their chiefe leaders to it.
13 So they gane by this aunwser: We are the seruan tes of the Lorde which made heauen and earth:
14 And as for this house, it was builded many yeres agone by a kyng of Israel great and strong, and was finished.
15 But when our fathers pronounced God unto Wast, and lined against the Lorde of Israel which is in heauen, he gane them ouer into the power of Ha buchodonosor kyng of Babylon, of the Chaldees:
16 Which brake downe the house and burnt it, and carped away the people prisoners into Babylon.
17 * Neuertheless, in the first perie that king Cyprus raigne over the countreyes of Babylon, Cyprus the kyng wrot,

and

the Lorde of Israel as is meete, and like as Cyprus the kyng of the Perians had commanded vs.
72 But the heathen in the lande made them staketh the that were in Jure, and funded them, & letter their buildinges, 73 And by their embusbemntes, fitions, and conspiracies stopped, that the build ynge could be not smythed at the tyme that kyng Cyprus dyed: so that they put of the building for the space of two yeres, untill the raigne of king Darius,

D 18 And the holy vessels of gold, and of later that Nabuchodonosor had cared away out of the house at Hieru-salem, and had dedicated them in his owne temple: those brought Cypus fourth agayne out of the temple at Ba-ylon, and delivered them to Zosoba-bel and to Sanabassarus the ruler.
19 Commanding hym that he should carry away those same vessels, and put them in the temple at Hierusalem, and that the temple of the Loie should be built in his owne place.
20 Then the same Sanabassarus beyn come hyther, layde the foundations of the house of the Loie at Hierusalem, and from that to this, beynge a builddyg, it is not yet fully ended.
21 Hyme therefore O king, if thou thinkst it good, let it be sought in the libraries and rolles of king Cypus:
22 And if it be found then that the builddyg of the house of the Loie at Hierusalem hath ben done with the countein and content of king Cypus, and if our Loie the kyng be to mynded, let hym grant workstation unto vs thereof.
23 Then commanded kyng Darius to seek in the kynges libraries at Ba-ylon: and so at Edbatane a towre in the region of Obeda, there was founde a place where these thinges was layde up for memorie.
24 In the first yer of the raigne of Cypus, the same kyng Cypus commanded that the house of Hierusalem shoude be builded agayne, where they be sacrificie with the continually fire.
25 Whereby all the kyngs cubites and the aethrid cubites, with three rodes of hevyn stones, and one rode of wood, newe, and of that country, and the expenses thereof to be gived out of the house of kyng Cypus.
26 And the holy vessels of the house of the Loie, both of gold and of later, that Nabuchodonosor took out of the house at Hierusalem and brought to Babylon, shoude be restored to the house at Hierusalem, and be set in the place where it was before.
27 And also he commanded that Simnes the governour of Syria and Phoe-ice, and Satebabusanes, with their companions, and others constituted rulers in Syria and Phoenice, shoude take heed not to meddle with that place, but to suffer Zosobael the servant of the Loie and governour of Iudea, and the elders of the Iewes, to build that house of the Loie in that place.
28 I have commanded also to have it built by whole agayne, and that they be ditigent to helpe those that be of the captivitie of the Iewes, till the house of the Loie be finisht:
29 And out of the tribute of Colosia and Phoenice, a portion diligently to be given those men unto the offerings of the Loie, to the same to be delivered unto Zosobael the officer, that he therwithall may obeyne oren, rammes, lambes.
30 And also come, salt, wine, and oyle, and that continually every yere, after the expenses which the person that be at Hierusalem shall custe to be made dally (this halfe gemen unto them) without delay.
31 That they may offer sacrifices dally to the high God for the kyng and for his children, and to pray for their lives.
32 And he commanded also that whossoever shoude break any part of the foredoyne and foreordere thynges, or make it doyle, of his owne goodes shoude a tree be taken, and he theron can be hanged, and all his goodes sekeoned unto the kyng.
33 The Loie therefore whose name is there calle upon, roote out and destroy every kyngs nation that strecheth out his hande to hinder, or [hurt and enduimage that house of the Loie in Hieru-salem.
34 I Darius the kyng have obeyed, that according to these thynges it be done with diligence.
Then Sisines the governour in Cœlophynia Phœnix, and Sathyrebuses with their companions obeyed
the thynge that kyng
Darius had ordeyned;
And were diligent assistinges in the holy worke, worshipping with the ancients and governours of the sanctuarie:
And to the holy worke went southe and prospered when Agueus and Zatharis the propheteis prophesied.
And they performed all thynge through the commanment of the Lorde God of Israel, and with consent of Cyru, Darius, and Artaxerxes kynes of Persia.
And thus was the holy house finished in thetwentie and three day of the month Abar, in the first yere of Darius kyng of the Persian.
And the children of Israel, the prieedes and the Leuites, and other that were of the captiuitie, that had any charge, byd according to the thynge written in the booke of Moses.
And to the dedication of the temple of the Lorde, they offered an hundred (oen,two hundred rammes, four hundred lambe,
And twelve gotees, for the sines of all the people of Israel, after the number of the chiefe of the tribes of Israel.
9 The prieedes also and the Leuites wande arrayyd in their long robes after their hieredes in all the bookes of the Lorde God of Israel, according to the booke of Moses, and the potters at every doore.
10 And the children of Israel, with those that were come out of captiuitie, helde the passouer the fourteenth day of the first moneth, after that ʼ prieedes and the Lenites were sanctifie.
11 They that were of the captiuitie were not all sanctifie together: but the Le-uites were all sanctifie together.
12 And so they offerd the passouer for all them of the captiuitie, and for their brethren the prieedes, 9 for them selues.
13 And the children of Israel that came out of captiuitie dyd eate, all they that had separat them selues from the ab-dominations of the people of the lande, and bought the Lorde,
14 And they kept the feast of the unleaned bread seven dayes long, making merry before the Lorde, 15 That the Lorde had turned the countyle of the kyng of Alsynia towadres them, to strengthen their hands into the worke of the Lorde God of Israel.

The viij. Chapter.

And after these, when Artaxerxes the kyng of the Persian raigned, there went unto hyr Eosias the sone of Sarias, the sone of Ezeras, the sone of Hethiach, the sone of Salum.
2 The sone of Sadofh, the sone of Athibod, the sone of Amarias, the sone of Eliaas, the sone of Bemereth the sone of Sarias, the sone of Saarias, the sone of Bocceas, the sone of Abilim, the sone of Phinees, the sone of Eleazar, the sone of Aaron the first pryest:
3 This Eosias went vp by Babyloun being a stribde of good understonding in the inue of Bymes that was gene by the Lorde God of Israel.
4 And the kyng savoured hyr, and dyd hyr great worship and honour " after all his desires.
5 There went vp with hyr also cer-tayne of the children of Israel, of the prieedes, of the Lenites, of the fingers, potters and ministrs of the temple,
into Hierusalem.
6 In the seventh yere of the raigne of kyng Aretareres in the fifth moneth, which was the seuenth yere (for they went from Babylon in the first day of the first moneth),

7 And came to Hierusalem, according as God gave the speede in their tourne.

8 For Ebyas had gotten great knowledge to omit nothing of that was in the laude and the commandements of the Loade, and to teache all Israel all the ordinances and judgements.

9 The copie of the commissioun whiche Aretareres the kyng wroate, and that was gaven to Ebyas the priest and reader of the laude of the Loade, this is it that foloweth.

20 And I king Aretareres have also commanded the keepers of the creatures in Syria and Phenicte, that whatsoeuer Ebyas the priest and reader of the laude of the highest God shall sende for, they shoulde gue it hym with speed.

21 Even to the summe of an hundred talents of siluer: of some also an hundred measures, and all an hundred vessels of wine, and other things abundantly.

24 As for thee O Ebyas, let thou judges and arbiters to judge in the whole lande of Syria and Phenicte after the willsome of God, all that fall in the laude of God, to teach as are ignoraunt.

25 And let all them which shall offend against the laude of God and the kyng, be diligently punished, whether he be by death or other payne, by punishment in money, or els by banishment.

26 Then sayd Ebyas the scrib: Blessed be the only Loade God of my fathers that hath given to good a mynde a will into the heart of the kyng, to magnifie his house that is at Hierusalem, 27 And hauing made me to be accepted in the sight of the kyng, of his counsale, of his friends, and of his nobles.

28 And so I was freed in my mynde according as the Loade my God helped me, and I gathered by men of Israel to go vp with me.

29 And these are the guides after their families and orders of dignities, that went vp with me from Babylon, in the raigne of kyng Aretareres.

The thirde booke

delivered vs from every enemie: to that we came into Jerusalem.

63 And when the thirde day was past there, the voyed golde and siluer was delivered into the house of the Loode on the foureth day into Marinoth the priest and some of the.

64 And with him was Eleazar the sonne of Phineus, and with them were Johabus the sonne of Jeth, and Noeth the sonne of Sadmans, Leuites: all was delivered then by number and waughter.

65 And all the waughter of them was written by the same hour.

66 After that they that were come out of captituation, offered sacrifice unto the Lord God of Israel, even twelve men for all Israel, fourescore & sixtie rammes,

67 Therefor and twelve therep, twelve goates for tithation, all in sacrifice to the Lord.

68 And the kinges commission deliuered them unto the kinges of Judges, and to the governors of Coelofypia and Phoenie, who honoureth the people and the temple of God.

69 Now when these things were done,
the rulers came unto me, and sayde:

70 The nation of Israel, the princes, the prickes, and leuites, have not put away from them the strangers people of the lande, not the vnequenes of the Ger-tiles, to wit, of the Chanaanites, hemites, pherchites, Hebuites, and the Moabites, Egyptians, and Edonites.

71 For both they and they vnomes have ungled them selues with the daughters of them, and the holy seed is unite with the strangers people of the lande:
and since the beginning of the affaires, the rulers and head men have ben partakers of this wickednesse.

72 And asfoone as I had hearde these things, immediately I rent my clothes, and the holy garment, and pulled out the heare of my head, and my beard, and made bynblife full and heauie.

73 So all they that were moner thoug
the Lord God of Israel, came unto me Whyles I wept for the iniquitie: but I fere full of heau-neeNe vntill the euening sacrifice.

74 Then stode I vp from fasting, hauing rent clothes & the holy garment, and kneelded bynfe upon my knees, & held oure my handes unto the Loode,

75 And sayde, O Lord, I am condun-ded and ashamed before thy face.

76 For our sinnes are become many, even I about our heades, and our ignozauntes are lifted by euere unto heaven.

77 For since the tyne of our fathers, we are in great tyme vnto this day.

78 And for the sinnes of vs and our fathers, we with our brethren, and with our kinges, and with our priests, have ben geuen by vnto the kynges of the earth, unto the Lord, and into capti-tiuie, and became a people with confusion and shame vnto this day.

79 And noble O Lord God, howe great is the mercy that we have gotten of thee: in that thou hast lefte vs a roote and a name in the place of thy sanctuarie.

80 And that thou hast discovered to vs a light in the house of the Lord our God, and hast geuen vs meat in the tyme of our seruitude.

81 And when we were in captituation, we were not forlaken of the Lord our god:
but he made the kynges of Persia grations and fauourable vnto vs, so that they gave vs victuals [and meat.]

82 Pea, and honoured the temple of our Lord, and repayed the walled places of Sion, and gave vs assurance in Ju-rie and Jerusalem.

83 And noble O Lord, what shall we S say having all these things [imposition:] F
For we have broken thy commandeme-tes, which thou gauest vnto vs by the handes of thy seruanctes the prophetes, saying:

84 Because the lande whiche ye go to possesse as an heritate, is a lande de-iled with the vnequenes [and leuites] of the strangers of the lande, and with their abomination they have pollute
it altogether:

85 Therefore now shall ye not take their daughters unto your sones, neither marry your daughters to their sones.

86 Moreover, ye shall never seeke to make peace with them, that ye may increase and eate the best in the lande, and that ye may leave the inueritate of the lande vnto your children to eternoure.

87 As for the thinges that are come to passe, they come all for our wicked bochtes and great sinnes: for thou O
Lord hast made our innes light.

88 And
And even vs suche a roote: but we have turned backe agayne, so that we have broken the lawe, and mingled our selves with the uncleanesse of the outlandishe heathen.

Rightset not thou be angry with vs, to destroy vs: so that thou shouldest leave vs neither roote, see, vs name: O Lord God of Israel, thou art true: for our roote endureth yet unto this present day.

And beholdt,nowe are we before thee your sinnes, neither can we stande before thee for them.

And when Ezra with this prayer had knolwledge the time, weeping and lying flat upon the grounde before the temple, there gathered unto hym from Hierusalem a great multitude of men and women, of young men and maidens: for there was a very great weeping and mourning among the multitude.

3 Then Jeconias the sonne of Jehoiakim, one of the chyldef of Israel, epyed out and saide: O Ezra, we have sinned against the Lord God, (because) we have maried strange women of the nations of the lande.

4 And nowe at Israel hangeth in doubt: we wyll weare an othe therefore unto the Lord, that we shall put away all our loures which we have taken of the heathen, with their chyldef:

5 Like as it may seeme good to thee, and to all those that obay the lawe of the Lord.

6 Stande by and put it in execution: for to thee doth this matter appertayne, and we are with thee to adde thee strength.

7 So Ezra arose, and toke an othe of the chylde of the Priestes and Levites of all Israel, to do after these thinges; and they sware.

The ix. Chapter.

After Ezra had read the lawe for the strange loures, as they promised to put them away.

5 So the day, and shewe my people these deceitfull deceits, and their chyldren their wickednesse which they haue done against me, that they may tell their chyldren chyldren the same:

6 For the sinnes of their fathers are increased in them: And why they have forgotten me, and have offered unto strange gods.

7 Am not I even he that brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage: But you have provoked me unto wrath, seduced my counsale.

8 Pul them out than the heere of thy head, and cast all cuyll upon them, for they have not ben obedient unto my lade: Yet it is a people without learning and nurture.

9 Howe long shall I sofoare them, but to whom haue I done so much good?

10 Many kynges haue I destroyed for their sake: Pharo with his seruants and all his power haue I smitten downe [and slayne.]

11 All the nations haue I destroyed, and rosted out] before them, and in the east haue I bought two landes and people to maught, even Tyre and Sidon, and haue slayne all there enemies.

Exod. xiii. 5
12 Speake thou therefore unto them, saying, Thus faith the Lord:
13 *I lieb you to observe the sea, and have given you harte streetes since the beginning:
14 *I gave you *hopes to be your captain, and Aaron to be the priest:
15 Thus faith the almightie Lord: The *quayles were as a token for you. I gave you tentes for your succour, nevertheless in them ye murmured:
16 And *asbered not the victory of your enemies into my name, but euer to this day ye put murmure.
17 Where are the benefites that I have done for you: when ye were hungry in the wyldberness, *dyd ye not repye unto me, 18 Saying: why halfe thou broung vs into this wyldberness to kill vs? It had ben better for vs to have seard the Egyptians, then to bee in this wyldberness.
19 Then had I pitte upon your mouunges, and gave you Maanua to eate: *to pe dyd eate angels foodee.
20 *When ye were thirsty, dyd not I clearke the rocke, & waters flowed out to saitifie you vsall? For the heate, I courred you with the leaves of the trees.
21 A good pleauant fat lande gaue I you: I cal out the Chanaanites, the Phercyrites and Philistines before you:
22 *Thus faith the almighty Lord: *When ye were in the wyldberness, in the water of the Amorites, byng a thirst, and blasphemyng my name, 23 I gave you not fire for your blasphemites, but cast a tree into the water, and made the river devote.
24 *What that I do unto thee O Jacob: Thou Judah wouldest not obey me: I will turne me to other nations, and unto those I wyll I gene my name, that they may kepe my statutes.
25 Saying ye haue forsaken me, I wyll spolake you also, when ye delicer me to be gracios unto you, I shall haue no mercie upon you.
26 *When ye call upon me, I wyll not hear ye: for ye haue defiled your handes with blood, and your feette are

Exod. xiv. 27
27 He haue not as it were forsaken me, but your owne selues, faith the Lord.
28 Thus faith the almighty Lord: I have not prayed you, as a father his sonnes, as a mother her daughteres, and as a nurse her young babes,
29 That ye woulde be my people, and I shoulde be your God, that ye woulde be my children, I shoulde be your father:
30 *If gathered you together, as a hen gathering her chickens under her winches: But nove what shall I do into you: I wyll cast you out from my face,
31 When ye offer unto me, I wyll turne my face from you: for your stolente feast dayes, your newe moones, & your cirumcisions have I forsaken, 32 I lent unto you my sernauntes the prophets, whom ye haue taken and slayne, and tooke their buldes in peeces, whose blood I wyll " require of your handes,faith the Lord.
33 Thus faith the almighty Lord, Your house shalbe dedicata, I wyll call you out as the wunde doth flabule:
34 Your children shall not be "fruitfull, for they haue despiled my commandement, and done the thing that is cruell before me, 35 Your houses I wyll I gene to a people that shall come, Whiche not hauing hearde of me, yet shal beleue me: to whom I haue shewed no signes, yet they shall do that I have commandement.
36 They haue seene no prophets, yet shall they call their times to remembre, braine and knowledge them.
37 I wyll declare the grace that I wyll do for the people that is to come, whose children reioyce in gladnes: and though they have not seene me with bodyly eyes, yet in spiritte they beleue the thing that I say, 38 And nowthrether, before what great Worship: and see the people that cometh from the eath.
40 *Paul, and *Abarue, *Sophonias, *Aggus, Zacharie, and Malaamie, which is called alio an ayngell (or message) of the Lord.
Thus faith the Lord: I brought this people out of bondage, I gave them my commandments by my scribes, the prophets, whom they would not hear, but despised my commandments.

2 The mother that bore them, faith unto them: Go your way ye children, for I am a byeboke and forsaken.

3 I thought you by with gladness, but with sorrow and heaviness have I lost you: for ye have sinned before the Lord your God, and done that thing that is evil before him.

5 As for me, O father, I call upon thee for a wittness over the mother of these children, which would not kepe my covenant:

6 That thou bring them to confusion, and their mother to a spoile, that she beare no more.

7 Let their names be scattered abroad among the heathen, let them be put out of the earth: for they have thought some of my covenant.

8 Who be unto thee Asur, thou that heapest the unrighteous in thee: thou wicked people, remember what I did unto Sodome and Gomorre.

9 Wherefore thou hast not scattered their habitation, that the heare men, they that make the almighty Lord.

10 Thus faith the Lord unto Eldas: Tell my people that I will geue them the landes of kureatam, which I woulde hau euen unto Israel.

11 Their glory also will I keepe unto me, and geue them theuerlastinge tabernacles which I had prepared for them.

12 They shall haue the tree of life at byl, as in the furree manour of syntem, they that neither labour nor be verrue.

13 So ye your way, and ye shall receave it: pray that there may be but fewe daies, and the longe time may be shorteved for thee: The kingeome is alreadie prepared for you, therefore watche.

14 Take heauen and earth to witness, for I haue broken the cuppe in peeces, and created the good: for I haue wiped, faith the Lord.

15 Mother embrace thy children, and bying them by with gladness, make ther seete as fast as a pulle: for I haue chosen thee, faith the Lord.

16 And those that be dead, whyl I rase up agayne from their places, and bying them out of the graves: for I haue known my name in Israel.

17 Feare not thou mother of the children: for I haue chosen thee, faith the Lord.

18 And for thy helpe I shall sende thee my servauntes Elia and Jeremee, after whole countenaunce I have sanctified and prepareth thee twelve trees, laden with sheeres frutes.

19 And as many fountaines flowing with mytte and hop, and euene mighty mounteines, wherein there grow roses and lyphes, whereby I will fill thee children with top.

20 Execute justice for the byeboke, judge for the father and foon, geue to the poore, defende the father and foon, clothe the naked.

21 Beate the Wounded and sick, laugh not a lare man to thone, defende the creple, and let the bigonde come into the light of my cleanees.

22 Kepe the olde and young that are withith thy walles:

23 Wheresoeuer thou findest the dead, take them and bury them, and I shall geue thee the fyrst place in my resurection.

24 Ashby still O my people, and take thy rest, for thy quietnes shall come.

25 Feede thy children O thou good nurse, husband their seete.

26 As for the servauntes whom I haue geuen thee, there shall not one of them perish: for I will seke them from among thy number.

27 Be not weere: for when the day of trouble and heavinesse commeth, other shall wepe and be sorrowfull, but thou shalt be mery and plentiful.

28 The heathen shalbe icious: but they shalbe able to do nothing against thee, faith the Lord.
By handes shall cover thee, so that thy chypes that not see the fire everlasting.

Be topfull O thou mother with thy children, for I will deliver thee, saith the Lord.

Remember thy children that sleepe, for I shall byng them out of the Pyes of the earth, & I will mercy into them: for I am mercyfull, saith the Lord Almighty.

Embrace thy children twells I come, and ye shall mercy into them: for my Belles runne over, and my grace shall not sayle.

I Edas receaue a charge of the Lord upon the mount Debb, that I should goe into Israel: But when I came into them, they set me at naught, and deliuered the commandementes of the Lord.

And therefore I say unto you O ye heathen that heare and understand, Look to your thephaerde, he shall gue you everlasting rest: for he is mye at hande that shall come in the ende of the worlde.

We rede to the rewarde of the kingdom, for the everlasting light that shone upon you for evermore.

Her the shadowe of this worlde, receaue the splendes of your glory: I testifie mye saueour openly.

O receaue the gofe that is gaven you, and be glad, gowing thankes unto hym that hath called you to the heavenly kingdom.

Apple bye and sende fast: behold the number of these that be seate in the saef of the Lorde.

Which are departed from the shadowe of the worlde, and have receaue glorious garments of the Lorde.

Take thy number O Zion, and shut vp thy purifiche, which have fulfilled the lade of the Lorde.

The number of thy children whom thou longest for, is fulfilled: be the power of the Lorde, that thy people which have ben called from the beginning, may be halowed.

Edas laide upon the mount Se on great people, whom I could not number: and they all prayed the Lord with songs (of thanksgiving.)

And in the midst of them there was a young man of an yeare stature, more excellent than they, and upon every one of their heads he set crownes, and was euer higher and higher, which I marueled at greatly.

So I asked the angel, and said: Sir, what are these?

He anuncheered & sayd unto me: These be they that have put of the mortall clothing, and put on the immortal, and have testified and knowledged the name of God: Not are they exalted, and receaue the rewarde.

Then sayde I vnto the angel: what young person is it that exalthead them, and gieneth them the palnees in their handes?

So he anuncheered and sayd vnto me: It is the name of God, whom they have knowledged in the world: Then began I greatly to commend them, that stoode so stedfastly for the name of the Lorde.

Then the angel sayde vnto me: Go thy way and tell my people what manner of thinges I have great wonders of the Lorde thy God thou hast seene.

The. iij. Chapter.

The thirtieth yer after the fall of the citty, I was at Babylon, and lay troubled upon my bed, and my thoughts came by over my heart.

For I have the desolation of Zion, and the plenteous wealth of them that dwelt at Babylon.

And my spirite was lye moved, so that I began to speake fearfull wordes to the most high, and sayde:

O Lorde Lorde, thou spakest at the beginning, when thou plantest the earth (and that thy selfe alone) and gauest commandement unto the people.

And a body into Adam without soule, which was a creature of thy handes, and was breathed in hym the breath of life, and so he lived before thee:

And thou leddest hym into Paradise, which which thy right hande had planted, or over the earth brought fructes.
15 For the first Adam behaung a wicked heart, transgressed and was overcome:
and to be all they that are borne of him, 22 *Thus remained weakness full, and the light in the hearts of the people, with the Wickedness of the roote: so that the good departed away, and the culp above spyl.
23 So the times passed away, and the peers were brought to an ende: *Then byddeth thou rape thy thee vp a servaunt called David,
24 Whom thou commandedst to build a citie unto thy name, and to offer vp inence and sacrifice unto thee therein.
25 When this was done nove many peers, then the inhabitants of the citie
forsoke them,
26 And in all thynges, dyd even as Adam and all his generations had done: for they also had a wicked heart.
27 And so thou gauest the citte over into the handes of thine enemies.
28 But do sape of Babyloun then any thing better, that they shoude therefore have the dominion in Sion?
29 For when I came thither, and saue there to great Wickednesse that it coude not be numbers: then my soule save many enyng doers in this thicke pere, so that my heart sayled me:
30 For I said holwe thou suffredst them in such vugodulnesse, and sparedst the wicked doers: but thinke owne people hat thou rooted out, and preferred thine enemies, and this hast thou not theved me.
31 I can not perceave howe this "happe peneth. Do they of Babyloun then better than they of Sion:
32 Of is there any other people that knobeth thee, sauing the people of Israell; or What generation hath so belued thy couenauntaes,as Jacob.
33 And yet their rewaarde appeareth not, and their labour hathe no fruite: For I have gone here and there through the heathen, and I see that they be "rieche and wealthy, and thynke not upon thy commanadementes.
34 Wayggh thou therefore our Wickednesse note in the ballance, and these saith dibell in the worde: and so shall ythe name be no where founde but in Israell.
35 Or when was it that they which dibell upon earth, have not finned in thy light?
Chapter 3

The angel that was sent unto me, whose name was Uriel, gave me an answer, and said: Thy heart hath taken to much upon it in this word, and thou thinkest to comprehend the way of the highest.

Then sayde I: Peace, Lord. And he answered me, and sayde: I am sent to shewe thee these words, and to set forth these sentences before thee.

Wherof ye cannot declare me one, I will shewe thee also the word that thou desiredst to see: and I shal shewe thee from whence the wicked heart commeth.

And I sayde: Tell on my Lord. Then sayde he unto me: So the way, way go me the waygoth of the fire, or measure me the blis of the wunde, or call me againe the day that is past.

Then answered I, and sayde: What needeth thee to do that, that thou shouldest alle such thynges of me?

And he sayde unto me: If thou shouldest alle the holy dore dyvelles which are in the midst of the sea, or hode great water spinges are in the begynning of the dore, or hode great water spinges are upon the strecthing out of the heavens, or which are the "outgoings of Paradise?"

Peradventure thou wouldest say but to me: I never went dowlne yet into the depe nor yet, neither did I ever clime by into heauen.

But therefore, hote haste I asked thee but only of fire, and wunde, and of the day, wherethough thou halen trampled, and from the which thou canst not beeparated; and yet canst thou gene no answer of them.

He sayde moreover unto me: Thyne dore thynges, and suchas are alreden up bith eche, canst thou not knowe.

Hode thoube thy best of then able to comprehend the way of the highest, and nowe outwardly in the corrupt wunde to understande the corruption that is evident in my sight:

Then sayde I: Into hym: If were better that we were not at all, then that we shoulde lyne in Wickednesse, and to suffer, and not to knowe Wherfore.

He answered me, and sayde: I came to a forest in a playne, and * the trees take such a deuice,

And sayde: Come, let vs go, and shght against the sea, that it may depart away before vs, and that we may make yet more woods.

The stoudes of the sea also in lyke maner take countable, and saynd: Come, let vs go vp, and shght against the trees of the wood, that there we may make vs another countrey.

The thought (and deceive) of the wood was but byne (and nothing worth) for the fire camne and consumed it.

The thought of the stoudes of the sea came lykelylike to naught also: for the stoude stoope vp and stopped them.

If thou were judge betwixt these two, whom wouldest thou miscde, or whom Wouldest thou condemn:

I answered and sayde: Verly it is a foolish thought that they both have deceived: For the grounde is gonne into the wood, and the sea also hath his place to beare his stoudes.

Then answered he me, and sayde, Thou hast gonne a right judgement: but why judgest thou not thy self also:

For lyke as the grounde is gonne into the wood, and the sea to his stoudes: even so they that dwellel upon earth, may understande nothing but that which is upon earth: and he that dwelleth above the heauen, may only understande the thynges that are above the heauen.

Then answered I, and sayde: Beseeche the O Lorde, let me have understanding

For it was not my mynde "to be curious of thy lyke thynges, but of such as we we daily meddle withal, namely, as wherefore Israel is given up as a repoase to the heathen, and for what came the people whom thou hast loved given over unto buggody nations, and why the latter of our forefathers is bought to naught, and the written tournantines come to none effect:

P 24. And the passeth away out of the world as the grasshoppers, and our life is a very fear, and we are not worthy to obtaine mercie.

25 What will he do then unto his name which is called upon vs: Of these things have I asked you.

26 Then answered he me, and sayde:
The more thou searchest, the more thou shall maranfl: for the world halsheth fast to passe away,

27 And can not comprehende the things that are pointed to the righteous in time to come: for this world is full of burgehtoundenesse and wearesnesse.

28 But as concerning the things whereof thou art asked me, I will tell thee: The cypilli is tender, but the destruction ther-of is not yet come.

29 If the cypilli that is tender be not turned by fhye downe, and yet the place where the cypilli is tender passe not away: then can not the thing come that is tender with good.

30 For the cypilli fedde hath ben tender in the heart of Adam from the begynning: and solwe much buggody-nesse hath he brought vp by this tyme and solwe much shall he yet bring forth, but vp he into the cypilli.

31 Ponder nolwe by thy selfe ground fruit of wickednesse the come of cypilli feede byyngeth forth: by 32 And when the slackes halfe cut downe, which are without number, halfe great a barne shall it fell ?

33 Then he answered and sayde: solwe and when shall these thynge come to passe: wherefore are our yeres fide and cypilli

34 And he answered me, sayinge: haste not thou to much aboue the most highest: for thy hardness to be aboue symne but barne, though thou do all that thou taunft for it.

35 Do not the sonies also of the ryghte-ous alfter question of these thynge in their chambers, sayinge: solwe long shall I hope on this fashion: when commonly the fruite of my barne, and our rewarde:

36 And upon this Jeremiel tharchangel gave them annuiffe, and sayde: Even when the number of the feedes is spelt in you, for he hath dyesed the cypilli in the ballance,

37 In measure and number hath he measured the tymes, and moneth not;
not: makest it, but all the lapde measure be fullyfled.

38 Then answered I, sayde: Lord,
Lord, nowe are we all full of sinne:

39 And so our fake peraduenture it is that the barne of the ryghteous are not fullyfled, because of the finnes of them that dwel bypon the earth.

40 So he answered me, and sayde: So the way to a womaun with childe, and alke of her when the hath fullyfled her nine monethes, if her wombe may kepe the birth any longer worth her:

41 Then sayd I: No Lord, that can be not, and he sayd into me: In the grate the secreete places of sonies are like the Wombe of a Womam.

42 Fo like as a woman that trauaplyth, makest haste to escape the necessite of the trauaple: even to do these places haste to depur those thynge that are committed into them.

43 Look what thou defirest to see, it hal-be shewed thee from the begynning.

44 Then he answered, and sayde: If I have founde favour in thy lyght, and if it be possible, and if I be merite herefore,

45 Shew me then whether there be tmore to come then is past, or more past then is for to come.

46 What is past. I knowe: but what is for to come, I knowe not.

47 And he sayde into me: Stande by upon the right lyde, and I shall expounde the limmitinde unto thee.

48 So I looke, and behold an hotte burnynge oven passed by before me: and it happened that when the flambe was gone by, I looke, and behold the smoke had the upper hande.

49 After this thare passed by before me a waterly cloud, and sent douine much rayne with a stom, and when the stormie rayne was past, the droppes remayned styll.

50 Then sayd he unto me, Consider with thy selfe: liske as the rayne is more then the droppes, and as the fire exceedeth the smoke: even so the measure of the thynge that are past, hath the upper hande,

hande, and the droppes and smoke
wolke much in quantite.

51 Then I prayd, and sayde: May I lyue thynkest thou untill that tyne: or what shal happen in those tydes?

52 He annswered me, and sayde: As for the tokens whereof thou askest me, I may tell thee of them in part: but as touchyng the lyke, I am not sent to tewe thee: for I do not knowe it.

The v. Chapter.

1 In the latter tymes trueth shalbe hyb, * Enriqueitheness * and all wickednesse shall raigne in the worlde. 2 Israel is rejected, and God delivereth them. 3 God doth all thing in season.

1 Evrithelsea, as concyning the tokens [mark this:] 2 Behold the tydes shall come that they which dwell upon earth shall take in a great number, and the way of the trueth shalbe hyb, and the lande shalbe barren from faith:

2 But unquitye shalbe increased aboue that which nowe thou seest, or that thou hast seene long ago.

3 And the lande that thou seest nowe to have rule, shal thou shortly see waffe.

4 But ye God grant thee to lyue, thou shalt se after the thirde trumpete, that the same shalbe sodainly lyne agayne in the nyght, and the inode three tymes in the day:

5 And blood shal droppe out of wood, and the stone shal geene, his boype, and the people shalbe unquiet:

6 And euen he shal rule, whom they hope not that dwell upon earth, and the soules shall sitte:

7 And the Sodomitische sea shal cast e out the lyse, and make a noype in the nyght, which manie haue not knownen:
but they that all heare the boype thereof.

8 Ther shall be a confusion also in many places, and the fire shalbe oft sent out agayne: and the Wyld beastes shall chaunge their places, and menchous women shall bear monsters,

9 And salt waures shalbe founde in the Sweete, and all friends shall fight one against another: then shall all lyne and understanding be lyne and put abyde in to their secrete places:

10 And shalbe sought of many, and yet not be founde: then shall unrighteous-nesse and voluptuousnesse have the upper hande upon earth.

11 One lande also shal aftre another, and say: * Enriqueitheness * that maketh a mankind gone through thee; and it shal say, no.

12 At the same trueth shall men hope, but nothing obeyne: they shall labour, but their waipes shall not prosper.

13 So shalbe thee such tokens I have leaued: and if thou bylst saye agayne, and wepe as noode, and fast seuen tydes, thou shalbe hear ye yet greater thynge.

14 Then I awaked, and a seachithesse went through all my body, my yeade was seble: to that I almost suffred
withall:

15 So the angel that was come to take with me, helde me, comforted me, and set me by upon my seete.

16 And in the seconde nyght it came to passe, that Satalshiel the captayne of the people came unto me, sayinge: Where haue thou ben: and why shal thy countenance so beare?

17 Knowest thou not that Israel is committed unto thee in the lande of their captynite?

18 Up then and eate, and vsake vs not, as the shepheard that leaueth his stocke in the handes of wicked volutes.

19 Then sayde I unto hym: Go thy wayes so me, and come not nere me.
And he hearde it, and as I sayde, to wente his way from me.

20 And so I fasted seuen tydes more nyng and weyping, lyke as I sayde the angell commandede me.

21 And after seuen tydes so it was, that the thoughtes of my heart were very grenewse vs me againe:

22 And my soule receaved the spirite of understanding, and I began to talke with the most hyghlest agayne.

23 And sayde: O Lord God, of ever woode of the earth, and of all the trees thereof thou hast chosen thee one only wineyarde:

24 And of all landes of the whole world thou hast chosen one ppt, and of all houres of the grounde thou hast chosen thee one fife:

25 And of all the deepes of the see thou
thou hast spilt thee one river: and of all builded cities, thou hast halowed Sion unto the selfe:

And of all the foules that are created, thou hast named thee one dowe: and of all the carret that are made, thou hast pounded thee one theepe:

And among all the multitudes of peodles, thou hast gotten thee one people:

And of this people whom thou lovedst, you gavest a laide that is praised of all.

And wolve O Lorde, why hast thou given this one people over unto many:
and upon the one roote thou hast "prepared others, and why hast thou suffered thy one only people among which treade them downe, yea which have ever withstand thy promises and never belied thy courantunes.

If thou didst so much hate thy people, yet shouldst thou punish them with thane owne handes.

Noe when I had spoken these woydes, the angel that came to me the night afore, was sent unto me,

And layde unto me, heare me, and I will instruct thee: hearken to the thing that I lay, and I shall tell thee more.

And I sayde: Speake on my Lorde.
Then layde he unto me: Thou art sore troubled in mynde for Israel's sake: Looke thou that people better then he
that made them:

And I sayde, No Lorde, but of very greefe (and compaignon) have I spoken:
for my counes payable me every house, because I would have experience of the way of the most hyest, and sate out part of his judgment.

And he layde unto me: That thou mayest not. And I sayde: wherefore Lorde: whereunto was I borne then:
or why was not my mother's womeb then my grave, that I might not have torne the misterie (and trouble) of Jacob, and the hwearyng out of the sorte of Israel?

And he layde unto me: Number me
the thynges that are not yet come, gather me together the byppes that are limuted aboade, make me the stoures greene agayne that are withered.

Open me the places that are closed, and bring me forth the byppes that in then are shut vp, shewe me the image of a bypp: and then I wille declare to thee the thyng that thou labourest to knovve.

38 And I sayde: O Lorde, Lorde, who may knowe these thynges, but he that hath not his dwelling with men?:

39 As for me, I am dull: howe may I then speake of these thynges whereof thou askest me?

40 Then layde he unto me, lyke as thou canst do none of these thynges that I have spoken of: even so canst thou not synde out my judgement, or in the ende the love that I have promised unto my people.

41 And I sayde: Behold O Lorde, yet art thou mye unto them that be referred till the ende: and what shall they do that have bene before me, or be that be nowe, or they that shall come after

42 And he layde unto me, I wille lyken my judgement unto a ryng: Lyke as there is no slackness of the last, even to there is no swiftnesse of the first.

43 So I amnished and layde: Coudest thou not make those that have ben made, and be noble, and that are yet to come, at one, that thou mightest shewe thy judgement the sooner:

44 Then amnished he me, and sayde:
The creature may not halle aboute the maker, neither may the world hold them at once that halbe created therein.

45 And he sayde: As thou hast layde unto thy servant, thou shall make all thynge, which thou quickenest all thynge, halfe geren lyse at once to the creature (or world) that thou hast created, and the creature bare it: even to myghte it not he also beare them that nowe be present at once.

46 And he layde unto me: Aske the wbbe of a woman, and lay unto her, If thou bringest forth children, why doest thou it not together, but one after another:
lay her therefore to bring forth ten children at once.

47 And I sayde: She can not: but must do it by distance of tyne.

48 Then sayde he unto me: Even so have I hended by distance of tyne the childbed of the earth for those that be sowen upon her:

49 For lyke as a young thilde may not byng forth the thynges that belong to the aged: even so have I deposed the world which I created.

50 And I asked and sayde: Saysh thou had no more gotten me the way, I will proceed to speak before thee: for our mother whom thou hast told me that she is young, draweth the noyle oute into age:

51 He amended me, and sayde: Ask a woman that beareth children, and she shal tell thee.
52 Say unto her: Wherefore are not they whom thou hast noyle brought forth, like those that were before thee, but lesse of stature:
53 And the haile amended thee: They that be borne in the yOUTH of STRANGE, are of one fashion: and they that are borne in the time of age (when the woman saith) are other wise.
54 Confesse noyle thy selfe, howbe that ye are lesse of stature then those that were before you:
55 And do are they that come after you lesse then ye, as the creatures which noyle began to be olde, and have passed over the strength of youth.
56 Then sayde I: Lo, thee, I have founde favour in thy sight, shew me thy seruat by whom thou hastest thy" creature:

The vi. Chapter.
1 God hath foresee all thynges in his secrete counsyle, and is au thor therof, and hath created them for his children. 25 The felicite of the age to come.

10 The hande of man beuer the heele and the hande: Other question Elwas alfe thou not.
11 I amned me, and sayde: O Lord, I have founde favour in thy sight, 12 I beleue thee shewe thy seruant the end of the tokens, whereof thou showedst me part the last night.
13 So he amended, and sayde unto me: Stande by upon the seere, and heare a perfect boype and founde.
14 There shall come a great motion: but the place where thou standest shall not be moved.
15 And therefore when thou hearest the voide to be not ascended for the euele shall the voide be, and of the foundation of the earth shall it be understanded.
16 And why: the voide there of trembleth and quaketh: for it knoweth that it must be changed on the euele.
17 And it happened, that when I had hearde it, I stoode upon my feete and hearkened: and behold there was a boype that spake, and the sounde of it was like the sounde of many bates.
18 And it sayde: Beholde the vapes come that I shall begin to haule vp, and to shewe them that dwell vp on the earth:
19 And I shall begin to make inquisition of them, what they be that have hurt, might with their unrighteousnesse, and when the loove estate of Zion shall be fulfilled.
20 And when the voide that shall be filled the away haile overlode, then will I do
I do these tokens: the bookes shalbe opened before the "*armament," and they shalbe altogether:
21 And the children of a pere olde sall speak with their voyces, the women with childe sall bring forth by one childe of thre or foure monethes olde, and they shall lye, and be rased vp.
22 And sodainly shal the bound places appeare as the buds, the sall close housez sodainly be founde eruptive.
23 And the trumpet shal give a sounde, which when every man heareth, they shalbe hastily asaire.
24 At that time shal friends sight one against another lyke enemies, and the earth shall stand in seare with them: The spinges of the welles shall stande dry, and in three hours they shall not runne.
25 Whosoever remayneth from all these thinges that I have toide thee, shall elcape, and be my salvation, and the ende of your worde.
26 And the men that are receaued shal see it, that they have not tasted death from their birth; and the heart of the indwellers halbe changed and turned into another meaneing.
27 For evill halbe put out, and decrep halbe quenched.
28 As for faith it shall flourish, corruption halbe overcome, and the trueth which hath ben so long without fruite, halbe declared.
29 And when he talked with me, beholde I looked a little and a little upon hym before whom I stooode.
30 And these wordes sayde he unto me: I am come to shewe thee the tyne of the myght to come.
31 If thou wilt pay yet more, and fast seven daies againe, I shall tell thee more thinges and greater than before, which I have hearde by the day.
32 For thy voyce is hearde before the hye: for why: the myghte hath scene thy righteous dealing, he hath scene also thy charite Which thou hast had ever since thy youth:
33 And therefore hath he sent me to shewe thee all these thinges, and to laye unto thee, be of good comfort, and seare not:
34 And haue not with the tyne that are past to thynke byno more thinges, that thou mayest not haftten from the latter tyne.
35 And it came to passe after this, that I wept agaynie, and fasted seven daies in lyke maner, that I myghte fullfyl the three bookes which he tolde me.
36 And in the eights night was my heart bweed within me agaynie, and I began to speake before the hye.
37 For my spirit was greatly set on fire, and my lonic was in distress.
38 And I sayde: D LORD thou shalke sete thy creaturie from the begynnynge, even the first day, and saydest: *Let heauen's earth be made: And thy woode was a perfect woode.
39 And then was there the spirit, and the darknesse were set on every hyde, and silence: there was no mans voyce as yet from thee.
40 Then commaunderst thou a slyte myght to come forth out of thy treasures, that thy woode myght appear and be seene.
41 Upon the seconde day thou madest * the spiritie of the armament, and commaundered it to part asunder and to make a deuision betwixt the waters, that the one part myghte remayne abowe, and the other beneath.
42 Upon the thirde day thou boughtest to passe that the waters were gathered in the sixteenth part of the earth: Six partes hast thou dyed vp, kept them, to the intent that men myghte soode and occupy hullandby them.
43 Asone as thy woode went southe, the woode was made.
44 For immediately there was great and innumerable fruite, and many divers pleasures for theTable, and froutes of unchangeable colour, and odours of wonderfull smell: and this was done the third day.
45 Upon the fourth day thou commaunderdest that the sunne shoulde give his thynke, and the moone shynge, the naires dyed thy set in order:
46 And gavest them a charge to do severall eueryuone of man that was to be made.
47 Upon the fift day thou boughtest into the fourteenth part, where the *waters were gathered, that it shoulde bynyng fouthe, *divers beasts, foules, and fishes: and to it came to passe.
48 For the dumbe water and without soule, bought fouthe bynyng thinges at the commaundement of God, that all

49 Then wyll thou ordyne two soules: the one thou calldest Enoch, and the other Lemanathan.

50 And wyll separate the one from the other: for the seuenth part (namely, where the water was gathered together) wyll not holde them both.

51 Unto Enoch thou gauest one part which was dipes by the third day, that he should—if in the same part, wherein are a thousand hyles.

52 But unto Lemanathan thou gauest the seuenth part, namely, the noys, & hast kept hym to denoue what thou wylt, and when.

53 Upon the seft day thou gauest commandement into the earth that before thee it shoulde bring forth beastes, cattell, and all that crepe:

54 And besides this Adam also, whom thou madest lorde of all thy creatures:

of hym come we all, and the people also whom thou hast chosen (speacially into thy sette.)

55 All this haueth I sayde nowe and spoken before thee (that I might shewe howe that the worlde is made for our fakes).

56 As for the other people which also come of Adam, thou hast layde that they are nothing, but be lyke unto hyttle, & hast lighten the aboundaunce of them into a dropppe that falleth from a vessell.

57 And nowe O Lordde, beholde, the heauen which have euere been reputed as nothing, haue begunne to be lodes over vs, and to denoure vs.

58 But wee thy people (whom thou hast called thy first borne, thy only begotten, and thy seuenth louer) are gven into their handes and power.

59 If the worlde nowe be made for our fakes, why haue we not the inherituance of the worlde in possession? Howe long shall this endure:

The vi. Chapter.

1 Without tribulation none can come to felicitie. 12 God aduersith all in tym. 28 The comming and death of Christ. 31 The resurrection g last judgmen. After the which all corruption shall cease. 48 All fell in Adam. 19 The true lyfe. 55 The mercies and goodnesse of God.

A & When I had made an ende of speaking these Wordes, there was sent into me an angel, whiche had ben sent into me also the noyshes afofe, and heare the Wordes that I come to tell thee.

2 And he sayde into me: Up Elbas, and heare the Wordes that I come to tell thee.

3 And he sayde: Speake on [Lorde] my God. Then sayde he unto me: The Sea is set in a wyde place, that it myght be depe and great.

4 But put eke the entrance is narowe and small lyke a ryuer.

5 Who then could go into the sea, to take upon it, and to rule it? If he went not through the narowe, howe myght he come into the broade?

6 Item another. A stile is built up and set upon a broade stede, and is full of all good thynge:

7 The entrance therto is narowe, and is set in a dangerous place to fall, lyke as if there were a fire at the right hande, and a depe water at the left.

8 And as it were only one straie path betwixt them both, euen betwixt the fire and the water, so small that there could be but one man go there at one.

9 If this cite noyse were gven to a man for an inherituance, and he never went through the perrons yway before, howe woulde he receave his inherituance?

10 And he sayde: It is so Lordde. Then sayde he: Even to alfo is Israelis portion.

11 And why: for their sakes haue I made the Worlde: and when Adam transgressed my statuts, then was the thing so appoynted as noyse is done.

12 Then were the entrances of the Worlde made narowe, full of fire and trauaile: they are but felle and cruel, full of perils, and labour.

13 For the entrances of the fire Worlde were wyde and fure, and brought unto mortall fruite.

14 If then they which are lyuing, enter not diligently through these straipes and bitter thyngez, they can not receave the thyngez so layde by in ferrete.

15 Why disquietest thou thy selfe then, sayng flying thou art but a corruptible man; and why art thou moved, whereas thy art not mortal.
16 And why hast thou not received in your heart the things that are to come, rather than they are present:
17 Then say I: D Lorde, Lord, "thou hast said in thy law, that the rightceous should inherit these things, but that theungodly should perish:
18 Nevertheless, the righteous shall suffer trouble things; I hope for thy day; for they that have lived ungodly shall suffer trouble things, shall not see the yeue.
19 And he spake unto me: There is no judge about God, and none that hath understanding about the highst.
20 For there be many that perish in this life, because they despise the law of God that is set before them:
21 For God hath given prayse commandment to such as came, so oft as they came, what they should do to have life, and what they should keep to a noyde punishment.
22 Nevertheless, they were not obedient unto him, but spake against him, and unagen dayne things:
23 And becaused them feues by wicked beedes, and denied the power of the most high, & regarded not his ways, 24 But his lawe have they despised, and demd his ponune, in his statues and ordinances have they not ben faithful and sedtalk, and have not performt his worcles.
25 And therefore Efdras, for the empite are the empite things, and for the full are the fullthings.
26 Beholde, the tyne shall come that these tokens whiche I have tolde thee.
shall come to passe, and the hyde shall appear, and the tunning ofthee shall be seen that noide is inder the earth:
27 And whofoever is deliuered from the forele zyues, shall see my wonderes.
28 For my sone Iesu shall openly declared with those that be with him: and they that remayne, shalt meeke within foure hundred yeeres.
29 After these came yeeres shall my sone
Chalbe die, and all men that have life:
30 And the world shall turne into the olde salience senen daues, like as in the foretengementes, so that no man shall remayne.
31 And after seven daues, the world that yet abadectly not, shalt bee rapte, and that shall bee that is corrupae.
32 And the earth shall refuse those that have slept in her, and so shall the dust that dwell therein in silence, and the secret places shall deliver those the solel that were committed unto them.
33 And the most highe shall openly declared upon the state of judgment, & all unferie shall vanishe away, and long suffering. shalt be gathered together, 34 But the judgement shall continue, the truth shall remayne, and office shall ware strong.
35 The booke shall folowe, and the re-warde shalbe shelved, the righteous nesse shall watch, and the righteous nesse shall bear no rule.
36 Then sayd I: Abramaham prayed first for the Sodomites, and Rhoyes for the fatherst that finned in the Wydereness.
37 And they that came after him for, Israel, in the time of Achnas and Samuel, 38 And Danub for the destruction, and Solomon for them that came into the landmarke,
39 *And Helas for those that receaunt rynne, for the dead, that he might live, 40 *And Ezechias for the people in the time of Semmerich, and Jueres other in like maner which haue payed for many.
41 Even so now,seing the corrupt is gro-den vp, and wickednese increas, and the righteous haue payed for. & ungodly whereby shall it not be noide also:
42 He aumswered me, and sayde: This present life is not the ende, oft, times honour is retaupned in it: therefore haue they payed for the weake.
43 But the day of doomie shall the ende of this tyne, and the beginning of the immortaltitie to come, wherein all corruption shall bee vanishe:
44 Intemperanie shall bee looked, indesite be cut of, ighteoushede grove, and the bertie spring vp.
45 Then shall no man be able to have hyne that is destroyed, not to oppresse hyne that hath gotten the victone.
46 I aumswered then, and sayde: This is my first and last seyng, that it had ben better to have genuen the earth unto Adam or els when it was genuen hyne, to haue kepe hyne that he shoult not have fume,
47 For what profite is it for men noide in this present time to live in heaunces, and after death to "looke for punishment?
48 O thou
The fourth booke

48 O thou Adam what hast thou done? For though it was thou that sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but we all that come of thee.

49 For what profit is it unto vs, if there be promised vs an immortal life, where as we do the worke of dying death:

50 And that there is promised vs an everlasting hope, where as our selves are empty and vain.

51 And that there are layde by for vs dwellings of health and safetie, where as we have liued wickedly:

52 And that the glory of the highest is kept to defend them which have led a patient life, where as we have walked in the most wicked ways of all:

53 And that there halfe heeded a paradise, whole fruit enowther for euer, where is "free lime and medicine, whereas we shall not go in:

54 For we have walked in unpleasante places.

55 And that the faces of them which have abdourned, shall shine above the stars: whereas our faces halfe blacker then blackness:

56 For while we liued and dyd unrighteously, we considered not that we should suffer therefore after death:

57 Then answered he me, and sayde: This is the manner of the battayle which man hath done upon the earth shall light.

58 That if ye be overcome, he shall suffer as thou hast sayd: But if ye get the victorie, he shall receive a thing that I say.

59 For this is the life whereof doyles make unto the people whyle he liued saying: *Choose thee life, that thou mayest live.

60 Nevertheless, they beloued hym not, neither the prophets after hym, no noe me which he haue sayde unto them, That heauennesse should not be un to their destruction, like as tope is for to come over thofe, *that hath suffred the selues to be ensoured in saluation.

61 Then answered then and sayd: I know Lord, that the highest is called mercy full, in that he hath mercy upon them which are not yet come unto that worde, 62 And upon those also that walke in his lawe.

63 And that *he is patient: for he long suffreth those that have sinned, as his creatures.

64 And that he is liberall to gene where as it required.

65 And that he is of great mercie: for he paffeth in mercy much, both those that are present, and that are passe, and also them which are for to come.

66 For if he multiplied not his mercies, the worde could not continue his being with those that have inheritance therein.

67 He *geueth also: for if he gave not of his goodnesse, that they which have done evil might be ealeed from their wickednesse, the ten thousandst part of men should not remayne living.

68 And if he being judge, forgave not those that be healed with his worde, and toke not away the multitude of contentions, 70 There should be very fewe left perd ured in an innumerable multitude.

our understanding, that there may come fruit of it, whereby each man may see that is corrupt, then who shall step forth in the place of man:

7 For thou art alone, and we all one wholeness of the handes, like as thou hast sayde.

8 For when the body is fashioned

9 But the things that keepe, and that is kept, shall both be preserved: and when the time commeth, the wornde preferred, delivereth by the things that greeve in it.

10 For thou hast commanded the partes of the body, even the beasts, to gen nike unto the fruit of the beasts:

11 That the thing which is created and fashioned, may be nourished for a time, till thou disposest and ordnest it with thy mercy.

12 And then thou bestit it up with thy righteousness, nurturset it in thy lade, and returnest it with thy understand

13 "Dost thou it as thy creature, and maketh it living as thy worke.

14 Strengthen that thou destroyest him which with so great labours is cre ated and fashioneth who soe command ment, thou couldest lightly oz dayne also that the thing which is made might be preserved.

15 Now therefore Lord I will speake (for concerning all men in general thou that rather produc) but touching thy people, for whole I am lory.

16 And thine inheritance, for whose cause I inquire, and Israel, for whom I am wolesale, and Jacob, for whose lack I am grieved:

17 Therefore begin I to pray before thee for my life and for them: for I see the fals of that dwell in the lande.

18 But I have heard the "Nustnesse of the wudge which is to come.

19 Therefore heare my boype, and un derstand my worde, and I shall speake before thee. This is the beginning of the wodes of Esdras, before he was taken by.

20 O Lord, thou that dwellest in everla kingnesse, which beholdest from above things in the heaven and in the aye:

21 Whose throne is inestimable, whose glory and majesty may not be compre hended, before whom the hoastes of angels stande with trembling.

22 Whose being is turned in indre and fire, Whose worde is true, whose say nings are steadfast, whose command ment is strong, whose ordinance is secure.

23 Whose looke dyeth by the aethpsehs, whose death maketh the mountaines to melt away, and whose truthe bea reth witness:

24 O hear the prayer of thy servant, and make with thy care cares the peti tion of thy creature.

25 For while I live I will speake, and so long as I have understanding I will amsbire.

26 O look not upon the sinnes of thy people, rather then on them which serve thee in truth.

27 Have no respect into the wicked su stes of the heathen: but to the desire of those that kepe thy testimonies with afflictions.

28 Think not upon those that have wal ked faynedly before thee: but remember them which according to thy will have known thy fear.

29 Let it not be thy will to destroy them which have had brastly manners: but to looke upon them that have clearly taught thy lade.

30 Take thou no indignation at their which are worse then beasts: but love them that alway put their trust in thy rightousness and glory.

31 For we and our fathers have all the same stiones (and disease) but because of vs sinners thorn that be called mercifull.

32 For if thou hast mercy upon vs, thou shall be called mercifull to vs that have no workes of rightousness.

33 For the rightous which have layde by many good workes together, shal out of thei redes receive reward.

34 But what is man that thou shouldest take displeasure at hym? O what is this corruptible and most generation that thou shouldest be so rough to ward hym?

35 For of a truth there is no man among them that be born but he hath dealt luketely, among the "sapyfulls ther is none which hath not done amisse.

The fourth booke

36 For in this O Lord thy righteousnesse and thy goodness (haile praise) [and declared] if thou be mercifull unto them which are not riche in good works.

37 Then answered he me, and sayde, Some things hast thou spoken aright: according unto thy words it haile.

38 For I will not verily consider the workes of them which have sinned before death, before judgement, before destruction:

39 But * I will remember the works and thought of the righteous, I will remember also the pilgrimage, the salvation, and the rewarde that they shall have.

40 Like as I have spoken nowe, so shall it come to passe.

41 For as the husbandman soweth much seede upon the ground, and planteth many trees, and yet alway the thing that is sowe or planted is not all kept safe, neither both it all take root: Even so is it of them that are sowe in the worke, they shall not all be saved.

42 I answered then and sayde: If I have founde grace, then let me speake.

43 Like as the husbandmans seede perisheth, yet come not up, and receaue not thy raine in due season, or if there come to much raine upon it and corrupt it:

44 Even so perisheth man also Which is created with thy handes, and is like unto thine owne image and to thy selfe, for whose sake thou hast made all thinges, and likened hym unto the husbandmans seede.

45 Be not wroth with vs [O Lord] but spare thy people, and have mercy upon thine owne inheritance: for thou woulde be mercifull unto thy creature.

46 Then answered he me, and sayde: Things present are for the present, and things to come, for (luc) as be to come.

47 For thou knowest yet much, being thou cannot love my creature above me: but I have oft tymes drawn nere unto thee, and unto it, but never to the unrighteous.

48 In this also thou art mercifull before the highest,

49 In that thou hast humbled thy selfe as it bcommeth thee, and hast not added thy selfe worthy to be much glorified among the righteous.

50 For many and great miseries remaine to them that in the latter tymes shall dwell in the world, because they have walked in great pride.

51 But understande thou for thy selfe, and feake out the glory for suche as be like thee.

52 For unto you is paradise opened, the tree of life is planted, the tymes to come is prepared, plenty ofnes is made ever, the cire is bised [for you] and rest is prepared, a perfect goodnes and bys-done.

53 The roote of euyl is marked from you, the Weakenesse and mort is heed from you, and into hell sheeth corruption on in forgetfulness.

54 Soowdes are banished away, and in the ende is theved the treasure of immortality.

55 And therefore ask thou no more questions concerning the multitude of them that perish.

56 For when they had taken libertie, they despised the highest, thought some of his lade, and forsake his vaypes.

57 Moreover, they have troden downe his righteous,

58 And * sayde in there heart that there is no God, yea and that Wittingly, for they dye.

59 For like as the thing that I have spoken of, is made reby for you, even so is thist and payne prepared for them: For it was not " his wyl that man should come to naught.

60 But they which be created, have declared the name of hym that made them, and are unthankfull unto him which prepared lyce for them.

61 And therefore is my judgement nowe at hande.

62 These thinges haue I not theved unto all men, but unto feve, namely unto thee, and to suche as be like thee.

Then answered I and sayde:

63 Beholde O Lord, nowe haue thou shewed me the multitude of the wonder Whose thou wylt begin to do in the last tymes: but at what tym [and when] thou haft not shewed me.
The ix. Chapter.

1. Then aumfbered I, and sayde: Heare thou the time diligent-ly in it self, and when thou feest that one part of the tokens come to passe whiche

I haue tolde thee before,

2. Then shalt thou understande that it is the very same tyne wherein the hight-est shall begin to visite the world which he made.

3. Therefore when there shall be scene an earthquake and bypaze of the people in the world,

4. Then shalt thou well understande that the moste highest spake of those things from the dapes that were before thee, even from the beginning.

5. For fyre as all that is made in the world, hath a beginning and ende, and the ende is manifest:

6. Even so the tymes also of the highest have playne beginnings in wonders and ignies, and ende in working and in tokens.

7. And every one that shall be saved, and shall be able to escape by his works and by faith wherein ye have beheld,

8. Shalbe prefervd from the fyde perils, and shall fee my favour in my lande, and within my borders: for I have halowed me from the woilde.

9. Then shall they put them selmes, where be noble have abused my dapes: and they that have cast them out despised, shall dwell in paynes.

10. For suche as in their life have receaved benefites, and haue not knowen me;

11. And they that haue abhorrned my lorde while they haue yet feared, and when they had yet open leasure of amendment and conuertion, under-stood not, but despised it:

12. The fame must knowe it after debt in payne.

13. And therefore be thou no more carefully bothe the voydly shall be punished: but inquire howe the righteous shall be saved, and whoe the woilde is, and when (it is.)

14. Then aumfbered I, and sayde:

15. * I haue layde before, and nothere I C speake, and wyl speake it also hereafter: that there be many no of them whiche perisse, then of them whiche halbe saved:

16. Like as the fynd is greater then a drop.

17. And he aumfbered me, saying: Like as the field is, so is also the seed: as the flowres be, so are the colours also: suche as the workeman is, suche is also the woike: and as the husbandman is hym selfe, so is his husbandrap also: for it was the tyne of the woilde.

18. And when I prepared for them that are noble, yetter the woilde was made wherein they shoude dwelle: then was there no man that spake against me.

19. For then every one [obayed?] but nothere the maner of them which are created in this woilde that is made, are corrupted by a perpetual seede, and by a lawe whereabout they can not do them selues.

20. So I aumfbered the woilde, and beholde there was peril because of the thoughts that were come into it.

21. And I saw, and spare them greatly, and haue kept me a vineberie of grapes, and a plant of a great people.

22. Let the multitude perisse then which are groten by in payne, and let my grape [and vineberie] be kept and my plant: so with great labour have I made it by.

23. Neuertheless, if thou wylt ceasce yet seven dapes no, but thou shalt not fast in them:

24. So thy waye the into a field of flowres, where no houte is umbered, so eate only of the flowres of the field, taste no melted, drink no wine, but eate flowres only.

25. And pray unto the highest continually, so wyl I come and take with the.

26. So I went my waye, and came into the field whiche is called Harath, like as he commanded me, and there I saw among the flowres, and did eate of the hertbe of the field, and the meate of the same satisfied me.

27. After seven dapes, I sawe uppon the graffe, and my hart was bled within me like as before.

C (ii) 28 And
28 And I opened my mouth, and began to talk with the most highest, and said: 29 O Lord, thou that liest on the left hand, and art appointed on the right hand: I will cry aloud to the God of Jacob; Yea, I will praise thy name for ever and ever. 30 And thou spakest saying, Hear me O Israel, and marke my words thou seed of Jacob. 31 For behold I loose up the laue in you, and it shall bring fruit in you, and ye shall be honoure in it for ever. 32 But our fathers which receaue the laue, kept it not, and observed not thy ordinances and statutes, and the fruit of thy laue yea not appeare, neither coulde it: for why? it was thyne. 33 For they that receaue it, perished, because they kept not the thing that was sown in them. 34 And lo, it is a custome when the ground receaue a seed, or the sea a ship, or a beest, or a drinke: that when it perisheth or is broken whereon a thing is sown, or wherein any thing is put, 35 The thinges also perish and are broke, which are sown or put therin and receaue, and the thinges that are receaue renamye not then with vs: but in vs it hath not happened so. 36 For he that have receaue the laue, perisheth in time, and our heart which also receaue the laue. 37 Notwithstanding the law perisheth not, but renamye in his force.

38 And when I spake these thinges in my heart [after this manner] I looked about me with mine eyes, and upon the right side: *I saw a woman which mourned sore, made great lamentation, and wept with loud voice, and was grieved in heart, and rent her clothes, and the head ashes upon her head. 39 Then let my thoughts go that I was in, and turned me unto her, 40 And said: Wherefore doest thou weep so sore? why art thou so sore in mind. 41 And she spake unto me: Sir, let me alone, that I may be vayled mine eye, and take yet more sorrow: for I am sore bereed in mine mind, and brought very low. 42 And I spake unto her: What ayleth thee? [Or who hath done any thing to thee] tell me. 43 She spake unto me: I thy fervant have ben vunfruitfull and barren, and haue had no child though I haue had an husbande thirtie yeres. 44 And the thirtie yeres I do nothing els day and night, and all houres, but make my prayer to the highest. 45 Afer thirtie yeres God hearde me thy handmaid, looked upon my infirie, considered my trouble, and gave me a sonne: and I was glad of hym, so was my husband also, and all my neighbours, and we gaue great honoure unto the almightie. 46 And I nourisshed him with great trauayle. 47 So when he grewe vp, and came to the tyne that the shoule dye a wyse, I made a feast.

The x. Chapter.

Gods and the woman that appeareth but unto hym, commumne together.

Now it came to passe, that when my sonne went into his chamber, he fell downe and dyed: 2 Then weere the weber all the lightes, and all my neighbours rose vp to comfort me, then toke I my rest unto the second day at night. 3 And when they had all left of to comfort me, that I shoule be quiet: then I rose vp by night and sted, and am come hither into this field as thou feist: 4 And am purposed not to returne into the citie, but to renamye here, and neither to eate nor drinke, but continually to mourne, and to fast, untill I dye. 5 Then let I my meditation and thoughts fat that I was in, and spake to her in displeasure, saying: 6 Thou foolish woman aboue all other, seest of Eldras.

lest thou not our heauines and mourning, and what happeneth unto vs:

Then said Elia our mother is all wofull for, and holde the is cleane brought downe and mourneth extremely?

Saying we be all nowe in heauines, to make our mone, for we all be做法ll: art thou to haue one soune?

Denaue the earth, and the shall tell thee that it is the Whiche ought [by reason] to mourne: for the fall of so many that grove upon her.

Fro the beginning all men are done of her, and other shall come: and behold, they walke almost all into destruction, and the multitude of them haue rooted out.

Who should then [by reason] make more mourning, then that that hath lost so great a multitude, and not thou Whiche art for, but for one:

But if thou wouldest lay into me, By mourning is not like the mourning of the earth, for I haue lost the fruite of my body, Whiche I brought forth with heauines, and bare with foayodes:

But the earth is according to the manner of the earth, and the present multitude goeth agayne into her "as it is come to pass:" then say I unto thee, Like as thou hast done with trayable and foayode, even to the earth also from the beginning gueut her fruite unto man, even to him that laboured her.

And therefore Woulde thou foayode and heauines by thy self, 3 looke what happeneth unto thee, bear it strongly.

For if thou judgest the marke and ende of God to be righteous and good, and receauest his counsell in time, thou shalt be commended them.

So thy way then into the citty to thy husbande.

And the lapde into me, That whyl I not do: Whyl I not go into the citty, but here whyl I dye.

So I communed more with her, and lapde:

Do not so, but be counsellled, and solov me: for holde many faults hath Sion: Be of good comfort because of the foayde of Hierusalem.

For thou feele that our sancuarie is lapde vaste, our aultuer broken, our temple destroyed,

Our playing of instrumentes is lapde downe, and tongues are put to silence, our mythe is banished away, the light of our candelsticke is quenched, the arke of our covenant is taken from vs, all our holy things are defiled, and the name that is called upon our vs is almost dishonoured: our children are put to shame, our priests are bent, our Leuites are carried away into captivity, our virgins are defiled, and our dyues raiseth, our righteous men sported, and our children destroyed, our young men are brought in bondage, and our strong worthy are become weak:

And Sion our scale, Which is the greatest of al, is loosed by from her worship: for she is delivered into the handes of them that hate vs.

And therefore make of thy great heauines, and put away the multitude of foayodes, that the mightie may be mercifull unto thee, and that the highest may genthe rest and sake from thy labour and travaile.

And when I was talking with her, her face and beautie shined sodainly, and her countenaunce glistered, so that I was afraid of her, and mused what it might be.

And immediately the citty out a great voyce, very scarsefull, so that the earth thoke at the noyle of the woman.

And I looked, and behold the woman appeared vnto me no more: but there was a citie bydled, a place was stiled from the groundes foundation: Then was I affaide, and cryed with a loude voyce, and layde:

Where is Uriel the angell, Whiche came to me at the first? For he hath causd me to come in many considerations and thy thoughtes, and myne ende is turned to corruption, and my prayer to rebuke.

And as I was speaking these voyces, he came vnto me, and looked vpon me:

And so, I lay as one that had ben dead, and myne understanding was altered: and he took me by the right hande and comforted me, and set me vpon my feete, and layde vnto me.

What ayleth thee: and why is thyne understanding vered, and the understanding of thy heart; and whereby art thou for?

And I layde: Forcaus thou hast for taken me, and I have done, according into unto thy words, I went into the field, and there hate I seen thinges, and see that I am not able to express.

33. And he sayde unto me: Stande up and be manly; I shall give thee revelation.

34. Then sayde I: Speake on to me my Lord, so sake me not, lest I dye tho-roe my rashnesse.

35. For I have seene that I knewe not,
and heare that I do not knowe.

36. O Dis my understanding deceaued, or both my loue dreame?

37. Nowe therefore I beleue thee, that though went the thy servaunt of this Worlde.

38. He answered me then and sayde:
heare me, and I shall ensoure thee and tell thee wherefose thou art affende:
so he had opened many secre
thinges unto thee.

39. He hath seene that thy way is right, so that thou takest forsoe continually so thy people, and makes great lamentation for Zion.

40. And therefore understande the vision which thou labvest a little whyle ago, af-after this maner.

41. Thou labvest a woman mourning, and thou begannest to comfort her.

42. Neuerthelesse, noble seest thou the likenes of the woman no more, but there appeared unto thee a ciate buiplde.

43. And where the toide thee of the fall of her sonne, so this is the solution of it.

44. This woman whose thou labvest, is Sion, and where as the toide thee, even the whom thou seest noide as a ciate buiplicd.

45. And as touching that the lape unto that, the have ben thirtie yeres un-fruitful and baren, those are the thirt ies yeres wherein there was no offering made in her.

46. But after thirtie yeres Solomon builded the ciate, and offered offeringes: and then bare the baren a sonne.

47. And where as the toide thee that the nourished hym with labour, that was dwelling in Hierusalem.

48. But where as the toide thee that her sone dyde, as his chamer was, when she came into her chambour, that is the sail that is come to Hierusalem.

49. And beholde, when thou sawest her lake on that mourning for her sonne, and beginnest to comfort her of these thinges which have chaunched, these are to be opened unto thee.

50. For of the most highest seest that theoart soy in thy minde, and suffest from thy whole heart for her, and to hath he throbbed thee her clearenesse, and the faireness of her beaute.

51. And therefore I had thee remayne in the field, where no house was builde.

52. For I knewe that the highest would throbbed this unto thee.

53. Therefor I commaundd thee to go into the field, where no foundation of building is.

54. For in the place where the highest begineth to throbbed his cite, there can no mans buyplicd be able to stande.

55. And therefore seare not, and let not youre heart be afraide: but go thy way in, and see the beaute and greatness of the building, as much as thyn eye be able to see:

56. And then shalt thou heare as much as thyne ears may comprehende.

57. For thou art blesse above many other, and art calleth wiss the highest, as the field.

58. But to movile at night thou shalt remayne here:

59. And to shal the highest throbbed thee visions of the hye thinges, which he wyl do unto them that dwelle upon earth in the last dayes. So I slept my name night another, like as he commaundd me.

The xi. Chapter.
The vision of an Eagle coming southe of the sea, and of her fethers. 37 Of a Lion comming out of the towre.

1. Then saw I a dreame, and beholde, there came up from the sea an Eagle, which had
ri. fethered wings and three heads:

And I sawe, and be-holde the spread her wynges over all the earth, and at the wynges of the arie blew on her, and gathered them together.

3. And I beholde, and out of her fethers there crewe other contrary fethers, and they became fette fethers and small.

4. But her heades remayne still, the head in the modest was greater then the other, yet restt it with the reboue.

5. Moreover I saw that the Eagle steep with her wynges, and raigned upon earth, earth, and over all them that dwell upon the earth.
6. And I saw that all things under heaven were subject unto her, and no man spake against her, no not one creature upon earth.
7. And I saw also that the Eagle stood up upon her clawes, and "gave a sounde" with her fetheres; and a voice saying after this manner.
8. Watche not altogether, sleepe every man in his owne place, and watche by course.
9. But let the heads be preserved for the last.
10. Nevertheless, I sawe that the voice went not out of her heads, but from the myndes of her body.
11. And I numbered her contrary fetheres, and beholde there were right of them.
12. And I looked, and beholde the right lyde there arose one fether, and raigned over all the earth.
13. And so it was, that when it raigned, the ende of it came, and the place thereof appeared no more: So the next following stood up and raigne, and had a great lyne.

14. And it happened that when it raigned, the ende of it came also lyke as the first, so that it appeared no more.
15. Then came there a voype unto it, and sayde:
16. Hear thou that hast kept the earth so long, this I laye before thee before thou becommest to appeare no more.
17. There shall none after thee attayne unto thy lyne, neither unto the half thereof.
18. Then arose the third, and raigne as the other afoxe: and appeared no more also.
19. So went it with all the residue one after another, so that every one raigne, and then appeared no more.
20. Then I looked, and beholde in process of lyne the fetheres that stood lyde upon the right lyde, that they might rule also, and some of them ruled: but within a while they appeared no more.
21. For some of them were set up, but ruled not.
22. After this I looked, and beholde the twelue fetheres appeared no more, nor the two lygnes.
23. And there was no more upon the Egle's body, but two heads that raigne.

and fire lynge,
24. Then I sawe also that two lynge descended themselves from the fire, and remayne under the head that was upon the right side: for the four continued in their place.
25. So I looked, and beholde the fetheres that were under the lynge, thought to set them selves and to have the rule.
26. Then was there one set up, but shortly it appeared no more.
27. And the second was sooner away then the first.
28. And I beholde, and to the two that remayne, thought also in them selves to raigne:
29. And when they so thought, beholde there awaked one of the heads that were at rest, namely that was in the mynde: for that was greater then the two other heads.
30. And then I sawe that the two heads were joinned with lynge:
31. And the head was turned with them that were with lynge, and by earie by the two under lynge that would have raigned.
32. But this head put the whole earth in fear, and bare rule in it: one all those that dwell upon the earth with much labour: and he had the government of the world over all the lynge that had ben.
33. After this I looked, and beholde the head that was in the mynde disobedingly appeared no more, lyke as the lynge.
34. But there remayne the two heads which ruled upon earth, and over those that dwelt therein.
35. And I beholde, and to the head upon the right lyde devoured it that was upon the left lyde.
36. Then I heard a voice which sayde unto me: loke before thee, and consider the thing that thou feest.
37. Then I sawe, and beholde as it were a lion that roareth running haly out of the wood: and I sawe that he sent out a mans lynge into the Egle, and sayde:
38. Heare thou, I will talke with thee, and the lykell shall saye unto thee:
39. As it not thou that hast the vertue of the fource beastes whom I made to raigne upon earth and in my world, that the ende of their lynges might come through them.

40. And
The fourth booke

Chapter.

The declaration of the former visions.

1 And it happened when the Lion spake these words into the Egel: I saw:

2 And behold, the head that arose had the upper hande, appeared no more: neither did the four wynges appear any more that came to hym and were set up to rainge, and their kingdom was small and full of broue.

3 And I saw, and behold the appeared no more, and the whole body of the Egel was burnt, so that the earth was in great fear: Then abashed I out of the trouble and trame of my mynde, and from great fear, and sayde unto my spirite:

4 Lo, this hath thou givien me, in that thou searchest out the wyves of the lyest.

5 Lo, yet am I weep in my mynde, and bery weake in my spirite: and little strength is there in me, for the great fear that I receiued this nyght.

6 Therefore wyll I nowe beseche the lyest, that he wyll comforte me unto the ende.

7 And I sayde: Lorde, Lorde, if I have found grace before the lyght, and of I am infusid with the before many other, and of my prayer in deed be come by before thy face:

8 Comfort me then, and helpe me thy servant the interpretation and playne difference of this horible lyght, that thou mayest perfectly comfort my soule:

9 For thou haft judged me worthy to helpe me the last of tymes.

10 And he sayde unto me, This is the interpretation of this lyght:

11 The Egel whos thou sawest come by from the se, is the kyngdome which was seene in the vision of thy brother Daniel:

12 But it was not expounded unto hym, therefore nowe I declare it unto thee.

13 And behold the daues lypt com, that there shall lyse by a kyngdome upon earth, and it shall be feared above all the kyngdomes that were before it.

14 In the same kyngdome shall thirteene lynges rainge, one after another.

15 Whereof the leorde shall begynne to rainge, and shall haue more tyne then the other thirteene.

16 And this do the thirteene lynges signifie which thou sawest.

17 As for the boyece that thou hearest speake, and that thou sawest not to go out of the heades, but from the middes of the body therof, it betokeneth

18 That after the kyngdome of that kyngdome, there shall arse great strininges, and it shall lende in perill of fallyng; nevertheless it shall not then fall, but that be restored againe into his begynning.

19 And the eght seers under the lynges which thou sawest hang into her lynges, betoken

20 That in hym there shall arse eght lynges, Whose tyne shall be but small, and their peers lube, and two of them shall perithe.
21 But when the middest tyne commeth, there shall fourke kept for a tyne, whyles "his tyne begynneth to come that it may be ended: but two shalbe kept unto the ende.

22 And whereas thou sawdest three heads resting, this is the interpretation:

23 In his last dapes shall the most tygh race be three kyngdomes, and cail many thinges agayne into them, as they shall haue the dominion of the earth,

24 And of those that dwell therein, with much labour above all those that were before them: Therefore are they called the heads of the Egle.

25 For it is they that shall "byng forth his wickednesse agayne, and that shall perfourme and sinne his last,

26 And whereas thou sawkest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth, that one of them shall dye upon his bed, and yet with payable.

27 For the two that remaine, shalbe slayne with the sword.

28 For the sword of the one shall devour the other: but at the last shall fall through the sword hym selfe.

29 And whereas thou sawdest two fetters under the wynges passynge toward the head that is on the right lyde, 30 It signifieth, that it is they whom the hred hath kept unto their ende: this is the small kyngdome, and full of trouble as thou sawest.

31 And the Lion whom thou sawest ryshing out of the wood, and roaring, and speakeynge unto the Egle, and rebukeynge her for her unrighteousnesse, with all the wordes which thou hast hearde, 32 Is the wynde which the hred hath kepe for them, and for their wickednesse unto the ende: he shall propounse them, cast before them their owne poyllings.

33 For he shall set them alayne in judgement, and that rebuke them, and correct them.

34 For the residue of my people shall be deliver by trouble those that be presented upon my borders, and he shall make them joyfull untille the comming of the day of judgement, whereof I have spoken unto thee from the beginning.

35 This is the dreame that thou sawest, and these are the interpretations.

36 Thou only hast ben inrecte to knowe this secrete of the hyst.

37 Therefore write all these thinges that thou hast seen in a booke, and send them,

38 And teache them to the wise of the people, whose hearts thou knowest may comprehend & kepe these secretes.

39 But whyte thou here thy selfe yet feuen dapes, mo that it may be shewed thee whatsoever it pleased the hyst to declare vnto thee. And with that he went his way.

40 And when all the people perceaued that the seuen dapes were past, and I not come agayne into the cite, they gathered them altogether from the hase unto the most, and came vnto me, and sayde:

41 What have we offended thee? What enpil have we done agaynst thee, that thou forsatkest vs and sittest here in this place?

42 For of all the people thou onely art left by, as a grape of the bun, & as an adde in a darke place, and as a hauen of thy prefured from the tempest.

43 Have we not els aduerstanke enough?

44 If thou shalt forake vs, were it not better for vs that we had ben burnt with Sion:

45 For we are not better then they that dyed there. And they went with loude voyse. Then answered I them, & sayd:

46 Be of good comfort O Israel, and be not heavy thou house of Jacob.

47 For the hyst haue you in remempraunce, and the mightie hath not forgotten you in temptation.

48 As for me I have not forsaken you, neither am I departed from you: but am come into this place to pay because of the inuercie of Israel, that I might seke mercie for the loue estate of your sanctuarie.

49 And none go your way home every man, and after these dapes shall I come vnto you.

50 So the people went ther way into the cite, lyke as I commanded them:

51 But I remainede stille in the hede seuen dapes, as the "angell bad me, and dide ene only of the haures of the hede, and had my meate of the heares in those dapes.
And after the seven days I dreamed a dream by night:

And behold there arose a wynde from the sea, that it moved all the waues thereof.

And I looked, and behold there was a strong man with the thousandes of heauen: and when he turned his countenance to loke, all the wyndes trembled that were seen under hym:

And when the wynde went out of his mouth, all they burnt that hearde his wynde, lyke as the earth spaleth when it feeleth the fire.

After these I waide, and behold there was gathered together a multitude of men out of number from the wyndes of the heauen, to fight against the man that came out of the sea.

And I looked, and behold he seene hym selfe a great mountayne, and slewed up upon it.

But I would have seen the region or place whereon the wynde was grauen, and I could not.

I laide after these, that all they which came to fight against hym, were loxe afrainde; and yet dwelt they fight.

Nevertheless, when he sawe the fierenesse and violence of the people that came, he neither kepe by his hande, nor helde the word: nor any weapon.

But only as I saide, he sent out of his mouth as it had been a blast of fire, and out of his lips the wynde of the flame, and out of his tongue he call out parties and sones.

And they were all met together: the blast of fire, the wynde of the flames, and the great flame: and fell with a curse upon the people which was prepared to fight, and burnt them by every one, so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothing seen but only dust and smell of smoke: when I sawe this, I was afrainde.

Afterwaide saide I the same man came downe from the mountayne, and callynge unto hym another peaceable people.

And there came much people unto hym, some were glad, some were sorpe, some of them were bounde, and other some brought of them that were offerd: Then was I shoke through great fearce, and I alaked, and laide:

Thou hast shewed thy feruance these wonders from the begynnynge, and hast counted me worthy that thou mightest receave my prayer.

Shewe me noide yet the interpretation of this drecme.

For thus I consider in my understanding: do unto them that halve left in those dayes, and much more do unto them that are not left behinde.

For they that were not left, were in heaueness.

Noide understande I the thynges that are laide by in the latter dayes, which shall happen unto them, and to those that are lefte behinde.

Wherefore are they come into great perillcs and many necessities, like as these drecmes declare.

Yet is it eadier that he which is in daunger, fall into the, and noide to fee that which shal chance hereafter, then to passe out of this wynde as a cloud. Then answeuered he me, and laide:

The interpretation of the fhyt shall I shewe thee, and I wyll open unto thee the thyng that thou hast required.

Whereas thou hast spoken of them that are lefte behinde, this is the interpretation.

Yet he bareth the perill that tyne, that kept hym selfe: They that be fallen into daunger, are such as have woes and fyrce into the most myghte.

Knowe this therefo: that they which be lefte behinde, are more blessed then they that be dead.

This is the meaning of the vision: Whereas thou sawest a man commynge up from the deepe of the sea.

The same is he whom God the lyest hath kept a great sease, which by his owne selfe shall deliuer his creature, and he shall ordre them that are lefte behinde.

And whereas thou sawest that out of his mouth there came as a blast of wynde, of Eldras. xxij.

wynde, fire, and stone:
28 And holde that he list vp neither flouwd not weapon, but that the "rushing in of hym destroyed the whole multitude that came to fight against hym: it signifi-eth,

29 That the dayes come, when the most hoomd shall begin to deliuer them that are upon eartb,

And in a trance of wynde shall he come upon them that dwell in the eartb,

And one shall undertake to slayt a against another; one citie against another, one place against another, one perch people against another, one realme against another.

When this commeth to passe, then hull the tokens come that I shewed me, and then shall my fomne be declared whom thou fawest sypnde by as a man.

And when all the people hear his voice, every man shall in their owne launde leaue the battell that they have oneagaynst another:

An innumerable multitude shall be gathered together, as they be wyp-hing to come, and to overcon hym by fighting.

But he shall stande upon the topp of the mount Sion.

And Sion shall come, & chalbe shelled toall men, being prepared and builded, like as thou saweit the hyll gaten forth without any handes.

And thus my fomne shall rebuke thosc nations which are fallen into the tempel, for there wickednesse and cypil imaginations,

And into tormentes lyke to flande, whereby thay sallve punished: and without any labour shall he destroy them, even by the laube, which is compared into the fire.

And whereas thou saweit that he gathered another peaceable people unto hym:

Those are the ten tribes which were tareed awaie prisoners out of their owne launde; in the tyne of Deasu the king, whom Salamanarke the king of Bithia toke prisoner: and caried them over the water, and so came they into another launde.

But they toke this counsale among them feyes, that they would leaue the multitude of the heathen, and to go forth into a farther country, where never mankynde dwelt:
42 That they myght there kepe their statues, which they never kept in their owne lande.

And so they entered in at the narowe passages of the wyre of Euphans.

For the most hoomd then shewed tokens for them, and heide stytt the vuede lyll they were passed over.

For through the country there was a great way, namely of a yere & halfe journey: and the fame region is called Ararath.

Then dwell they there untill the latter tyue: and when they come forth agayne,

The hoomd shall holde still the spunges of the streame agayne, that they may go through: therefore savyest thou the multitude with peace.

But they that be left beynde of thy people, are those that are founde within my borers.

Houde when he destroyped the multitude of the nations that are gathered together, he shall defende his people that remaine:

And then shall he shewe them great wonders.

Then saide I: O Lord, Lord, shewe me this, wherefore haue I seen the man conmyng by from the "depe of the sea.

And he sayde unto me: Lyke as thou sawest neither feake out nor knove these shynge that are in the depe of the sea:
euen so can no man upon eartb see my some, or those that be dwit hym, but in the tyne of the day.

This is the interpretation of the dreame which thou saweit, whereby thou onely art here legistued:

For thou hast fortheen thine owne launde, and applied thy diligence unto this, and found it.

*Thy lyke hast thou ordered in this done, and hast called understand.
y thy mother:

66 And theryfore haue I shewed the thee treasures of the lyll. After other these dayes I will shewe thee more, & talke with thee more at large, yeau heavy and wonderous shynge. wil I declare unto thee.

Then went I forth into the feilde, geuyng papple & thankes greatly unto God,
And because he governeth the same, and such things as fall in their seasons, and there I late these days.

The xiii. Chapter.

1 And I saide, Here am I Lord: and stoode by upon my seete.
2 Then saide he unto me, In the bush did I appear unto Moses, and spake with him when my people were in Egypt, and I sent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him up to the mount Sinai, where I heide hym by me a long season:
3 And tolde hym many wondorous voikes, and shewed hym the secretes of the tymes and the evile, and commanded hym, saying:
4 These wothes shalt thou declare, and these shalt thou hyde.
5 And now I spake unto thee,
6 That thou lay vp in thine heart the signes that I have shewed, and the dreams that thou hast seen, and the interpretations which thou hast heard,
7 For thou shalt be taken away from among all, and henceforth thou shalt remaine with my countrey and with such as be like thee, but till the tymes be ended.
8 For the woide hath loft his youth, and the tymes beigne to warre oide.
9 For the woide is bende into twelve partes, and tene partes of it are gone already, and false of a truth part.
10 And there remaineth there that which is after the halfe of the tenth part.
11 Therefore set thine house in order, and resoure thy people, comfort such of them as be in trouble, and noe renoune corruption.
12 Let go from thee mortall thoughtes, cast away the burther of men, put of the weake nature.
13 And let aside the thoughtes that are most heape unto thee, and hate thee to see from these tymes:
14 For as for such cump[ and wickednesse as thou hast novte scene happen, they shall do yet much woike.
15 For the weaker that the woide is by reason of age, the more shall emns increas upon them that dwell therin.
16 For the truth is sleed farre awaie, and fleeing is sereade at haunde: For novte hasteth the bition to come that thou hast scene.
17 Then amswered I before thee, and spake:
18 Behold Lord, I wyll go as thou hast commandee me, and resouerne the people which are present: but they that shalbe borne afterwarde, who will adonouthe them: Thus the woide is let in darknesse, and that they dwell therin are without light.
19 For the lybe is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the thynge that are done of thee, or the wothes that shalbe done.
20 But if I haue founde grace before thee, sende the holy ghost into me, and I shall write all that hath ben done in the woide since the beginning, which was written in the lybe, that men may finde the path, and that they which will lyue in the latter days, may lyue.
21 And be amswered me, sayen: So thy way, gather the people together, and say unto them that they seke thee not for fourtie days.
22 But loke thou gather thy ee many boare trees, and take with thee Sarca, Dabia, Selena, Eamus, and Asel, these fyue, which are redye to write lyvitly.
23 And come lyther, and I shall lyght a candel of understanding in thine heart, which shall not be put out till thynge be peroune which thou shalt begun to write.
24 And then shalt thou declare some thynge openly unto the perfect, and some thynge shalt thou secrete unto the lyde: To mosolve this houre that

Behold my people is led as a flocke of sheepe to be slaine. I will not suffer them noide to dideill in the lande of Egypt:

But I will brynge them out with a mightie hande and a stretched out arme, and smite it with plagues as afoxe, and I will destroy all the lande of it.

Egypt shall mourne, and the foundations of it shall be tittern, with the plague and punishment that God shall brynge upon it.

They that till the grounde shall mourne, for their seedes shall be destroyed through the blasing and hapyte, and by an horrible slarre.

Wo eft the wyolde, and them that dideill them:

For the wyolde and their destruction draveth yxe, and one people that stande up to lyght agaynst another, and puttes their handes in their handes.

For men shall be vexed aslacke, and some shall do violence unto other, they shall not regard their lyghinge, and the paines shall measure the day of their doomin by their poorer.

A man shall desire to go into a citie, and shall not bee able.

For because of their pride the cityes shall be troubled, the houses shall tremble, and men shall awake.

A man shall have no piste upon his nereboure, but shall destroy their house with the wood, and spoyle their goods because of the hunger of bread, and because of the great trouble.

Behold saith God, I call together all the hynges of the earth to reuerence me, which are from the uppere, from the south, from the east, and Libanus, to turne vpon them, and restore the hynges that they have done vpon them:

Like as they do yet this day vpon my chosen, so will I do also, and reconuence them in their bolesone: Thus saith the Lord God.

By right hande shall not spare the sinners, and my wyolde shall not ceasie ouer them that shed the innocent blood vpon earth.

The fire is gone out from his wyath, and hath consumed the foundations of the earth, and the sinners lyke the straue that is hynbeld.

Wo eft thesinne, and kepe not my commaundemernes, lyth the Lord.

I will not save them: So your way ye children from the power, daie not my sanctuarie.

For the Lord knoweth all them that smite against hym, & therefore deliuereth he them into death and destruction.

For noise are the plagues come vpon the wyolde, and ye shall remayne in them: For God shall not deliuer you, because ye have binne agaynst hym.

Behold an horrible vision commeth from the east.

Where generations of dragons of Arabia shall come out with manie charitics, & the multitude of them shall be soared as the wineyde vpon earth, that all they which heare them may feare & tremble.

Even the Carmanes raging in wrath shall go forth as the wyolde booses of the forest, and with great power shall they come and standyght vpon them, and shall waste a portion of the lande of the Assyrians.

And then shall the dragons haue the upper hande, and remembering their nature, shall turne about, conspiring together in great power to persecute the.

Then these shall be troubled and kepe silence in their power, and shall see:

And from the lande of the Assyrians shall the enemie besiege them, and consume some of them, and in their haasts shall beare and dead, and strike among their hynges.

Behold cloudes from the east, and from the north into the south, and they are very horrible to loke vpon, full of wrath and hoyme:

They shall smite one vpon another, and they shall smite bounte a great multitude of stares vpon the earth, even their owne stære: and the blood shall from the wyolde into the belly,

And the dounge of man into the Camels hiter.

And there shall be great fearfulness and trembling vpon earth: and they that see the wrath shall be afrayde, and a trembling shall come vpon them:

And then shall there come great raynes from the south, and from the north, and part from the west:

And strong wyndes shall arise from the east and shall open it, and the cloud which he rapped by in wrath, and the stære of Esdras. xxv.

40 The great clouds shall be lifted up, and the mighty clouds full of wrath, and the scarre, that they may make all the earth a frape and them that dwell therein, and that they may pour out upon every high place an horrible scarre, fire, and hayle, and slyng doves, and many waters; that all fields may be full, and all rivers with the abundant daunce of great waters.

41 And they shall breake doone the cities, and halles, mountaynes, and hilles, trees of the wood, and the grasse of the medowes, and all their come.

42 And they shall goe stedfast into Babylone, and make her a frape.

43 They shall come to her, and besiege her, the scarre and all wrath shall they pour out upon her, and smite goe by into the heaven, and all such that be about her shall be able her:

44 And they shall remayne under her, shall do seruice unto them that have put her in scarre.

45 And thou Asia that comfortest thy selfe alio upon the hope of Babylone, and art the glorie of her person:

46 Wo be unto thee, thou wretch, because thou hast made thy selfe like unto her, and hast becke thy daughters in whom done, that they might remaine and please thy louers which have alwayes desired to commit whordome with thee.

47 Thou hast folowed the abominable citie in all her works and inventions: therefore sayst thou God, 48 I will sende plagues upon thee, whordomme, pouertie, hunger, waters, pestilence, to waste thy houses with destruction and death.

49 And the glorie of thy power shall be hurled up as a flower, when the heate rulth that is sent ouer thee:

50 Thou shalt be like as a poore wife that is plagued and beaten of women: so that the mightie and louers shall not be able to receaue thee.

51 Would I so hate thee, sayst the Lord, if thou haddest not alwayes slayned my chosen, exalting the stroke of thy handes, and sayde ouer their death when thou wast drunken.

52 Set forth the beautie of thy countenaunce:

53 The reward of thy whordome shall be recompenced thee in thy bosome, therefore shalt thou receaue reward.

54 Like as thou hast donee by thy chosen, sayst the Lord: even so shall God do unto thee, and shalt deliver thee into the plague.

55 Thy children shall dye of hunger, and thou shalt fall through the swordes: Thy cities shall be broken downe, and all thyne that perishe with the sword in the field.

56 They that be in the mountaynes shall dye of hunger, and eate their owne flesh, and drinke their owne blood for very hunger of bread and thirst of water.

57 Thou as unhappie shalt come through the sea, and receaue plagues againe.

58 In the passages they shall cast doone the flayne citie, and shall roote out one part of thy lande, and confinue the portion of thy glorie, and shall returne to her that was destroyed.

59 They shall treade thee doone like stubble, and thou shalt be thy fire, 60 And shall confinue thee, thy cities, and thy lande, and thy mountaynes, all thy woodes, and thy fruitfull trees shall they burne up with the fire.

61 Thy children shall they carry away captue, and loke what thou hast, they shall spoil it, and marre the beautie of thy face.

62 And thou shalt confyns thee, thy cities, and thy lande, and thy mountaynes, all thy woodes, and thy fruitfull trees shall they burne up with the fire.

63 Thy children shall they carry away captue, and loke what thou hast, they shall spoil it, and marre the beautie of thy face.
Against Babylon, Asia, Egypt, and Syria.

18. The beginning of sorrows and great mourning, the beginning of death and great death, the beginning of wars, and the powers shall stand in fear, the beginning of evil, and they shall tremble every one.

19. What shall I do in these things, when the plagues come?

20. Behold, hunger and plagues, trouble and anguish, are sent as scourges for amendment:

21. But all these things they shall not turn from their wickedness, nor be always mindful of the scourges.

22. Behold, bitpapers shall be good cheaper upon earth, that they shall think them scourges to be in good case: and even then shall mischief grove upon earth, wars, and great distresses.

23. For many of them that dwell upon earth shall perish of hunger, and the other that escape the hunger, shall the sword destroy:

24. And the dead shall be cast out as dung, and there shall be no man to comfort them: For the earth shall be wasted, and the cities shall cast bovine,

25. There shall be no man left to till the earth, and to fold it.

26. The trees shall give fruit, and who shall pluck them of and gather them?

27. The grapes shall be ripe, and who shall tread them: For all places shall be desolate of men:

28. So that one man shall desire to see another, or to hear his bope.

29. For of one whole city there shall be ten left, and two of the field where shall hide themselves in the thyme bushes, and in the ditches of stones.

30. Like as when there remayne three or four olives in the place there were olives grove; or among other trees,

31. Or as when a vineyard is gathered there are left some grapes of them that diligently sought through the vineyard:

32. Even so in those days there shall be three of four left by them that eateth their houses with the sword.

33. And the earth shall be wasted, and the fields thereof shall scarce, and her vines and all her paths shall grove full of thorns, because no man shall reap.
and there through.

34 The virgin shall mourn having no husband, and the wife of the Phillistines shall be destroyed; their husbands shall perish by hunger.

35 In the wars they shall destroy their husbands, their children shall be destroyed, and their children's children shall be taken away from them.

36 But ye sectaries of the Lord, hear these things, and mark them.

37 Behold the word of the Lord, O conceive it: believe not the gods of whom the Lord spake.

38 Behold the plagues that be upon them, and are not like in tarrying.

39 Like as a travailing woman which hath in the yonth moneth bresteth foorth a sone, when the hour of the bresteth is come, an houre two or three afore that, the paynes come upon her body. So when the childe commeth to the bresteth they tary not the wounding of an angel.

40 Even to shall not the plagues be slacke to come upon the world, and the plagues shall mone, and soowes shall come upon it on every side.

41 O my people, hear my word, make you ready to the battayl, and in al euil be even as pigstines upon earth.

42 He that selleth, let him be as he that fleeth his day: and he that dieth, as one that will lefe.

43 Who so occupieth marchaudise, as he that burneth not: and he that buydeth, as he that shall not diuell therin;

44 He that soweth, as one that shall not reape, he that cutteth the vineyard, as he that shall not gather the grapes:

45 They that mary, as they that shall get no children: and they that mary not, as the widowes.

46 And therefore they that labour, labour in dayne.

47 For strangers shall reape their fruite, and people their goodes, overthrow their houses, and take their children captive: for in captivitie and hunger shall they get children.

48 And they that occupieth their marchaudise with robberie, the more they becke their cities, their houses, their possitrons, and their owne persons.

49 The more will I punishe them for their sines, saith the Lord.

50 Like as an whore enuieth an honest and berneous woman:

51 So that righteousnesse hate impietie when she becket her selfe, and shall accuse her to her face: when he commeth that shall abide the auctour of all sines upon earth.

52 And therefore be not ye like thereunto, nor to the worke thereof:

53 For a time it be long impietie shall be taken away out of the world; and righteousnesse shall reigne among you.

54 Let not the sinner lay, that he hath not sinned: for coles of fire shall burne upon his head, which saith, Before the Lord God and his glorie I have not sinned.

55 Behold, the Lord knoweth all the worke of men, their imaginations, their thoughts, and their hearts.

56 For he spake but the word, Let the earth be made, and it was made, Let the heaven be made, and it was created.

57 In his word were the stars made, and he knoweth the number of them.

58 He searcheth the grounde of the bese, and the treasures thereof, he hath measured the sea, and what it containeth.

59 He hath shut the sea in the middes of the waters, and with his word hath he hanged the earth upon the water.

60 He breusteth out the heaven like a bait, upon the wateres hath he founded it:

61 In the desert and bye wilderneffeth hath he made springs of water, and pooles upon the top of the mountanpes, that the floods might pourre downe from the stomy rocks, to water the earth.

62 He made man, and put his heart in the middes of the body, gave him breath, life, and understanding.

63 Pea and the spirit of the almighty God which made all things, and hath searched the ground of all the secrets of the earth.

64 He knoweth your imaginations and intentions, and what ye think when ye sinne and woulde hyde your sines.

65 Therefore hath the Lord searched and sought out all your worke, and he shall be wary you all:

66 And when your sines are brought forth, ye shall be ashamed before men, and your owne sines shall be your accusers in that day.

67 What will ye do? How will ye hyde your sines before God and his angels;

68 Behold, God him selfe is judge, saere him leave off from your sines, and forgertime knowrighteousnesse, and indwell no more with them: so shall God leade you forth, and deliuer you from all trouble.

69 For behold, the heart of a great multitude is kindled over you, and they shall take away certain of you, and shall lay for meate to the idoles:

70 And they that consent unto them, shall be hab in derision, laughed to leerne, and troden under foote.

71 For there shall be in every place, and in the next cities, a great insurrection upon those that feare the Lord.

72 They shall be like mad men, they shall spare no man, they shall spoile and wall such as yet feare the Lord:

73 For their goods shall they take from them, and shut them out of their houses.

74 Then shall it be knowen who are my chosen, and they shall be tryed as the golde in the fire.

75 Hear ye my beloved, saith the Lord: behold, the days of trouble are at hand, but I will deliuer you from the same.

76 Be not ye afraid, dispaire not: for God is your captayne.

77 Who so kepeth my commaundementes and preceptes, saith the Lord, let not your sinnes waygh you downe, and let not your burrenhouse be lifted up.

78 Be not into them that are bound with their sinnes, and covered with their wickednesse, lke as a feld is hedged in with bushes, and the path thereof covered with thrones that no man may tranayle through: it is shut vp, and is cast into the fire for ever to be consumed therewith.

The first Chapter.

1 Tobias was of the tribe & citie of Nepthali, which lyeth in theigne countryes of Ga-lite above Haasson, beside a way that leadeth to the West, having the city of Sephet upon the left side.

2 Though he was taken prisoner in the days of Salamanarke king of the Assyrians, nevertheless being in captivity, he spake not the way of truth:

3 So much that whatsoever he might get, he parted it daily with his fellow prisoners and brethren that were of his kinded.

4 And though he were younger then all in the tribe of Nepthali, yet did not he behave him selfe childishly in his worke,

5 And when all the other went to the golden values which Jeroboam the king of Israel had made he alone fled at their companyes,

6 And gat him to Hierusalem unto the temple of the Lord, and there worshipt

the Lord God of Israel, faithfully offering of all his first fruits and tithes.

7 So that in the thirde yere, he nummered all the tithes into the strangers and toumites.

8 These and such like things he observed according to the law of God when he was yet but young.

9 But when he was a man, he take out of his owne tribe a wyfe called Anne:

and other he begat a sonne, whom he called after his owne name,

10 And taught him from his yonth up to scare God, and to refrayne from all sinne,

11 Now when he were his wyfe, his sonne, and with all his kinred, was come in captivity into the city of Nineue,

12 what time as they all dyd eate of the meates of the heathen he kept his sonne, and was never delited in their meates.

13 And so so much as he was mindfull of the Lord in all his heart, God gaine him favour in the sight of Salamanarke

the king,

14 Which gaine him power to go where he would, and to had he liberne to do whatsoever he woulde.

15 So went Tobias unto all them that were in captivity [and compassed them] and gaue them Wholesome exhortations.

16 And when he came to Rages a tite of the Medes, having tentalents of siluer (of the thinges wherewith the king had honoured him)

17 And faide among a great company of people of his kinred, one Sabelus which was of his owne tribe, being in necesite, begane him the sappe wagoth of siluer under an hande waving.

18 After a long season, when Salamanarke

the kyng was dead, and Semacheryb his sonne raigne in his stead, which hated the children of Israel:

19 Tobias went daily throughout all his kinred, and compassed them, and gaine of his goods to every one of them as much as he might.

20 He fed the hungry, clothed the naked, and buried the dead and layne, and that diligently.

21 And when Semacheryb the king came gayne and fled out of Jurie (what time as god punished him for his dialphisme)

in his wath the many of the children of Israel: Tobias buyed their bodies.

22 But when it was told the king, he commanded to slay him, and take away all his goods.

23 Nevertheless, Tobias with his sonne and with his wyfe, fled his way naked, and was lyd: for there were many that loved hym.

24 But after fourtie and seue days the king was layne of his owne sonnes;

25 Then came Tobias againe to his hous, and all his goodes were restorled unto him.

Chapter.

1 Tobias calleth the fasts full to his table. 2 He leaveth the fasts to bures the dead. 3 Howe he became blind. 4 His wife laboureth for his living. 5 She reprooth hym bitterly.

After those things, upon a solemn day of the Lord, Tobias made good feast in his house, And sayde into his home: Go thy way, bringst thou some of the house, such as fear God, that they may make incry with us. And when he was gone, he came againe, and told his father that one of the children of Israel lay strake upon the street. And immediatly he leapt from his table, lef the feast, cameasting to the dead coarte, toke him and bare him plainly into his house, that when the fasts was done, he might safely bury him. And when he had byd the coarte, he did eate his meate with mourning and fear.

Remember the words that the Lord sayd by the prophet Amos: Fourby feastes shall be turned to sorrow and heaviness.

But when the fasts was done, he went his way, and buryed him. Then al his neighbours reproowed him, saying: It is not long since it was commanded to lay thee because of this matter, and hast scarce escaped the danger of death: and buryest thou the dead againe?

Nevertelss, Tobias fearing God more then the king, toke the bodies of the fasts, and byd them in his house, and buryed them at midnights.

It happened upon a day that he had buried the dead and was weery, came home and laid him downe by the wall, and slept.

And while he was asleep, there fell downe upon his eyes warme doong out of the swalloes nest, so that he was blinde.

This temptation byd God suffer to happen unto him, that they which came after, might have an example of his patience, like as of holy Job.

Form in too much as he ever feared God from his youth by, and kept his commandments; he grudged not against God that the plague of blindness came unto hym.

But remained steadfast in the fear of God, and thanked God all the dayes of his lyfe.

And when thy husband bare thee a son, therefore be not afraid to bring it up with thee in a good house, and bring it not to the house of thy father, lest he take displeasure at thee because of thy son.

20 And loke what thou didst get with the labour of thy hands, she brought it. And it happened that she took a bōb, and brought it home:

21 And when her husband bare thee it, he spake: Looke that it be not stolen: restore it againe to the owner, for it is not lawful for vs to eate or to touch any thing of theirs.

22 Then was his yssue angry, and sayde: Nothe is thy hope become vayne openly, and thy almes beordes are manifest.

The iii. Chapter.

Precepts and orations of Tobias to his sonne.

1. 20 When Tobias thought his paper to be heard, that he might be, he called unto him his borne Tobias, and laid unto him: By some hear the words of thy mouth, and lay them in thine heart as a foundation.

2. When God taketh away my soul, bury thou my body; and hold thy mother in honour all the days of her life.

3. For thou oughtest to remember what and holde great perile the suffered for thee in her wondre.

4. And when she also hath fulfilled the time of her life, bury her beside me.

5. Have God in thy thoughts all the days of thy life, and beware lest at any time thou consent unto sinne, and lest thou let slip the commandements of the Lord our God.

6. Give almes of thy goods, and turne never thy face from the poore: and so shal it come to passe, that the face of the Lord shall not be turned away from thee.

7. Be merciful after thy power.

8. If thou hast much, give plentifully; if thou hast little, do thy diligence gladly to one of that kind.

9. For to gathereth thou thy selfe a good rewarde in the day of necessitie.

10. For mercie delivereth from al lime and from death, and suffreth not the soule to come into darkness.

11. A great comfort is mercie before the life God, unto all them that shew it.

12. By some, hope thee well soon at whose decease: and before thy selfe, suffer not thy selfe to knowe of sinne.

13. Let evere have rule in thy mind and not in thy word: for in pyde began all destruction.

14. Whosoever worketh anything for thee, immediately give him his hire, and so that thy hired seruanctes wages remayne not at all with thee.

15. Looke that thou never do unto another man, that thing that thou wouldest not another man shoude do unto thee.

16. Eate thy bread with the hungry and poore, and coure the naked with thy clothes.

17. Set thy bread and wine upon the buriall of the righteous, and do not thou care and ministe therof with the sinners.

18. Aske evere counsell at the wyfe.

19. Be alwaye praying of God, so be she that shal order thy vaypes, and that whatsoever thou devisest or takest in hand, it may remayne in him.

20. If I certifie thee also my sonne, that when thou hast yet but a babe, I shewed thee ten talents of siluer unto Gabelus at Rages citye of the Medes, and his hande writing have I by me.

21. And therefore seke some means he holde thou mayest come by him, and because of him the frond waught of siluer, so give him his hande writing againe.

22. By some, be not affrayde: truly it is we leade here a poore life, but great good shall we have if we beare God, and depart from all sinne, and do well.
Then answered Tobias his father, and said: Father, all that thou hast commanded me by! I do, and that diligently.

But how shall I require this money? I can not tell, neither doth he know me, nor I him: what token shall I give him? And as for the way thyther, I never knew it.

Then his father answered him, and said, I have his hand writing by me: which when thou receivest, immediately he shall pay thee.

Brought thy way home and get thee some faithful man to go with thee for an hire, that thou mayst receive the money while I am yet living.

Then went Tobias out, and upon the streee he found a faire young man standing, girded up, and as it were one rede to take his journey.

And he knew not that it was an angel of God, but saluted him, and sayde: From whence art thou, thou good young man?

He answered: Of the children of Israel. And Tobias said unto him: Knowest thou the way that leadeth into the country of the Medes?

He answered: I know it well, and all these streeets have I gone on times, and have lodged with our brother Gabalus that dwelleth in Rages a city of the Medes, which lie on the most Cretanis.

Tobias said unto him: I pray thee tary for me, till I have tolde my father these things.

Then went Tobias in, and tolde his father all: at which his father marvelled, and prayed that he would come in unto him.

Now when he came in, he saluted him, and said: Joy be with thee for evermore.

And olsde Tobias said: What joy can I have that sit here in darkness, and fee not the light of heaven?

The young man said unto him: Be of good cheare, God shall helpe thee shortly.

And Tobias said unto him: Canst thou bring my home to Gabalus, unto the city of Rages in Pedia: and when thou commest againe, I shall pay thee thy hire.

And the angel said unto him: I shall leave thy home, and bring him to thee againe.

Then Tobias answered him: Tell me I pray thee, of what house of what tribe art thou?

The angel Raphael said unto him: Seekest thou after the hireling, or an hired man? him tell for thy home to go with him.

The angel said unto him: Thy home shall I leave safely, and bring him whole sounde to thee againe.

Then answered Tobias, and said: Well, go on your way, and God be in your journey, and his angel bear you company.

So when they had prepared all things that they would take with them in their journey, Tobias bade his father and his mother farewel: and they went on their way both together.

Now when they were gone, his mother began to weep, and said: The staffe of our age hast thou taken away, and sent him from us.

The vi. Chapter.

2 Tobias delivered from the thie. 8 Raphael wove then certain medicines.
3 He conducted him toward Sara.

1 O Tobias went on his way, and a doge folowed him: and the first night they abode by the water of Ligiers.

Then went he out to bathe his feete, and behold there came forth an horrible fishe to devour him.

3 Of whom Tobias was afraid, and cried with a loud voice, saying: Lord, he commeth upon me.

4 And the angel said unto him: Take him by the yle, and slay him to thee. And he did so, and took him upon the lade: and the fishe began to leave at his feete.

5 Then said the angel unto him: Take out the bowels of this fishe: so as for the heart, the gall, and the yper, kepe them by thee: for these things are necessary and good for medicines.

6 Tobias did so, and rosted the flesh, and they took it with them in their jour- ny: the rest they salted, as much as was sufficient for them, till they came to Rages a cite of the Hebrews.

7 Then Tobias asked the angel, and said unto him: I pray thee brother Azaria, tell me where are these things good of the fishe that thou hast bidden me keepe.

8 The angel answered him, and said: If thou layest a piece of the heart upon the coales, the smoke thereofvyeth a-way all manner of evil spirits, whiche it be from man or from woman, so that from thenceforth the same shall come no more unto them.

9 The gall is good to annoy and to strike the eyes withal, where it is there is any blemish in them, so that they halfe whole.

10 And Tobias said unto him: where wilt thou that we remaine? The angel answered.

11 And said: Here is a pe hussaman of thine and of thy tribe, one Raguel by name, which hath a daughter called Sara, & that neither some nor daughter but her.

12 All his good belongeth unto thee, and thou must marry her.

13 And therefore befire her of her father, and he shall give her thee to wyfe.

14 Then answered Tobias and said: As I understand the hath ben married unto seven husbands, and they all are dead: and I have heard say, that the devil slae them.

15 I am afraid therefore lest such things happen unto me also: which if it came to passe, seeing I am the only one of my father and my mother, I shoule bury them in their age with sorrow to their graves.

16 Then said the angel Raphael unto him: Hear me, & I wyll tell thee what be, of whom the devil hath power.

17 Namely, they that receaue marriage after such a fashion that they that God out from them and from their heart, and gave them selues to their owne lust, even as it were an horse & Mule which have no understanding: upon such hath the devil power.

18 But when thou takest her, and art come in to the chamber, withhold thy selfe from her three dapes, and seeke thy diligence unto nothing but unto prayer with her.

19 And in the first night, roste the yper of the fishe, and the devil shalbe driven away.

20 The second night shalt thou receaue into the company of the holy patriarchs.

21 The third night shalt thou obtaine the blessing of God, so that whole children shall be borne of you.

22 After the third night take the maiden in the seare of God, and more for the desire of children, then for any other lust, that in the seare of Abraham thou mayest obtaine the blessing in children.

Then went they into Baguel, which receaued them joyfully.

And when Baguel spake upon Tobias, he said unto him: My maiden: Hold myke is this young man unto my sisters. And when he had spoken this, he said: Whence be ye ye young men and our brethren? They said: Of the tribe of Reuban, out of the captivity of Ninier.

Then said Baguel unto them: Know ye my brother Tobias? They said: Yea he know him well.

And when he had spoken thus, the angel spake unto Baguel: Tobias of whom thou speakest, is this young mans father.

Then Baguel bowed him selfe downe and went, and took him about the necke and kissed him.

And spake: Gods blessing have thou my fowme, for thou art the sonne of a good vertuous man.

And Anna his wyfe, and Sara his daughter wept also.

Now when they had talked together, Baguel bade kill a wether, to make a feast: And when he had espoused them to sit downe to dinnere,

Tobias said: I will neither eate nor drink here this day, except thou first grant me my petition, and promise me to give me the daughter Sara.

When Baguel heard this, he was astonied, for he knewe what had happened unto the other seven men that went in unto her: and he began to speake that it shoude chance unto him also in lyke maner. And while he spode so in doubt, and gane the young man no answeare.

12. The angel spake unto him: Fear not to geue him thy daughter, for this man that searcth God, belongeth thy daughter to wyse: therefore might none other have her.

Then said Baguel: I doubt not but God hath accepted my prayers and tears in his sight.

And I believe he caused you to come unto me for the same intent, that this daughter of myne might be married in her owne kindes according to the law of Moses: And now doubt thou not but I will geue her unto thee.

So he took the right hande of his daughter, and gane her into the right hande of Tobias, and spake: The God of Abrahame, the God of Melech, the God of Jacob be with you, yoye you together, and fullis his blessing in you.

And they took a letter, and made a writing of the marriage.

And then made they mery, and parted God.

And Baguel called Anna his wyfe unto him, and bade her prepare another chamere.

And therfore he brought Sara his daughter, and the wyfe.

Then said he unto her, We of good cleare my daughter: the Elyde of heaven gene the joy for the beantinesse that thou hast suffered.

The viii. Chapter.

Tobias bathed away the cull spiritke. He prayeth to God with his wyfe. Baguel preparith a graue for his fowme in lawe. Baguel blesteth the Elyde.
and when the third holy night is past, we shall space together in the due of marriage.

5 For we are the children of holy men, and we may not come together as the heathen that know not God.

6 Then Tobias they by both together, and besought God earnestly that he would prefer them.

7 And Tobias said: O Lord, God of our fathers, prayed be thou of heaven and earth, and of the sea, of all creatures that be therein.

8 Thou madest Adam of the dust of the earth, and gavest him Ewa for an helper.

9 And now Lord thou knowest that it is not because of voluptuousness that I take this sister of mine to wife, but only for the love of children, in whom thy name may be blessed for ever.

10 And Sara said: Have mercy upon us, O Lord, have mercy upon us, and let vs both come where and founde together to a good age.

11 And about the cocke crowing, it came to pass, that Raguel called his familiest.

12 And they went with him to make a grave.

13 For he said: It is chauenced nowe unto him peraduenture as it did unto the other seven men that went in into her.

14 Now when they had made the grave, Raguel came againe to his wife, and said unto her: Send one of the masons to looke if he be dead, that I may bury him afore it be light day.

15 So the fent a mason to see: Which when he came into the chamber, found them whole and founde, keeping together.

16 And so he came againe, and brought good tidings: Then Raguel and Anna his wife prayed the Lord.

17 And said: Prayde be thou O Lord, God of Israel, that it is not happened unto us as we thought.

18 For thou hast dealt mercifully with us, and put away from us the enemie that persecuted us.

19 And haft healed mercy unto poorer two the only borne children of their parents: O Lord, cause them to magnifie thee more perfectly, and to offer the sacrifice of thy praise of their health: that all people may know that thou onely art God in all the earth.

20 And immediately Raguel commanied his familiest to fill the grave that they had made, with earth, afore it was light,

21 And bade his wife prepare a feast:

22 He caused two fat kine also, and foure Weatheres to be seeme, and meetes to be prepared for all his neighbours and friends.

23 And Raguel charged Tobias to remayne with him two Wekes.

24 As for all the good that he had, he gave Tobias the halfe of it, and made this writing, that the halfe which remayned, should fall unto Tobias after their death.

-- The ix. Chapter.

The angel goeth to Gableus, as the desire of Tobias which deliuereth the letter, and receaue the money.

Then Tobias called upon to him the angel, who is thought to have ben a man, and said unto him: Brother Azarias, I pray thee hearken unto my doxies.

2 If I shoule gree my lefe to be thy familiest, I shall not desyre thy prouidence.

3 Neverthelesse, I beseech thee that thou wilt take the beasts and the familiest, & goe into Gableus in Rages the riete of the Medes, and deliuer him his hand writing, and receaue the moner of him, and pray him to come to my marriage.

4 For thou knowest thy lefe that my father both number the dyes, and if I tary one day to long, he will be loy in his unne.

5 Now feele thou how earnestly Raguel hath required me, so that I cannot say him nay.

6 Then toke Raphael soure of Raguel's familiest and two Cames, and went into Rages the riete of the Medes: And when he had founde Gabriel.

Chapter.

1 They sone were going homeward againe, upon the eleventh day they came to Charran, which iseth in the haufe way toward Palestine.

2 And the angels said: Brother Tobias, thou knowest how thou hast left thy father:

3 Therfore is it please thee, we two will go before, and let the houyhode with thy wife & the catallage come safe and sofaft after vs.

4 And when Tobias was content that they should go before, Raphael said unto him: Take of the gal of the fish with thee, for it shall be necessary. So Tobias took of the gall, and they went their way.

5 But Anna the mother of Tobias sate daily by the way side upon the topp of an hill, from whence the might see farre about her.

6 And whilst she was waiting there for his comming, he loked a farre off, and anon she perceavd her sonne comming, and ranne and tolde her husband, saying: behold thy sonne commeth.

7 And Raphael saide unto Tobias: As soon as thou comest inti the house, immediately worship the Lord thy God, and giue thanke vnto him: then go to thy father, and kiss him.

8 And straight wayes strike his eyes ouer with the gall of the fishe that thou hast bought with thee: for be sure that his eyes shall straight way be opened, and his father shall see the light of heauen, and that reioyce at the light of thee.

9 Then the dogge that had ben with them in their journey, ranne before, and came as a messenger, and wagged his tale for gladnesse.

10 So the blinde father arose, and began to runne, and stumblied with his feate: and gaine a ferment his hand, & ranne to meete his sonne,

11 Recieved him, and kissed him, he and his wyfe, and they both began to wepe for joy.

12 How when they had worshipped and thanked God, they sat downe.

13 Then tooke Tobias of the fishes gal, and annointed his fathers eyes:

14 And tarried halfe an houre, and then began the blemiste to go out of his eyes, lyke as it had ben the white shame of an egge:

15 which Tobias tooke, and drewe from his eyes, and immediately he receaved his sight.

16 Then they praysed God, he and his wyfe, and all they that knew him.

17 And Tobias saide: O Lord God of Israel I giue thee praise & thanks, for thou hast charmed me, and made me whole: And lo, noe do I see my sonne Tobias.

18 After seuen dayes, came Sara his sonnes wyfe also whyle and bound, with all the houyhode and catallage, with ames, & much money of his wypes, and with the money that he had receaved of Gabelus.

19 And he tolde his father and his mother all the benefites which God had done for him by the man that led him.

20 And so it came to passe that Tobias had his sight restored, and ranne with his father, and layde: Father, what relawne shal we giue him? or what thing can he giue his benefites:

21 He haue ben my guide, and brought me safe againe: he receaved the money from Gabelus, he caused me to get my wyfe, he doute the euill spire from her, he he hath been an occasion of gladness to her father and mother, he delivered me that I was not deceived of the lie, he hath made thee to see the light of heaven: yea, we all have received great good of him.

4. And because thou didst not desire these things unto him: But I pray the my father that thou wilt desire him; if happily he will bosome to take with him the half of all that we have brought.

5. So the father of the sonne called him, take him aside, and began to pray him that he would be content to take in good worth the half part of all that they had brought.

6. Then said he secretly unto them:
pryse ye the God of heaven, and gene thanked unto him before all men lying:
so he hath shewed his mercy unto you.

7. It is good to hide the kings secret:
but to shewe and to praise the works of God it is an honorable thing.

8. Prayer is good With faking, and mer-cet is better then to hoarde vp treasures

10. But they that do sinne and burightfulness, are the enemies of their owne sole.

11. Wherefore I tell you the truth, and wilt hide no secret laying from you.

12. When thou prayest with teares, and buriedst the dead, and lestest thy dymer and lyddest the dead in thyne house upon the day time that thou mightest bury them in the night, I offered thy prayer before the Lord.

13. And because thou walk accept and be loved of God, it was necessary that temptation should trye thee.

14. And now the Lord sent me to heale thee, and to shew thee thy sonnes lyfte from the evil spirit.

15. For I am Raphael an auge, one of the seuen that stande before the Lord.

16. When they heard this, they were sore afrode, and trembled, and fell downe upon their faces unto the grounde.

17. Then said the angell: Peace be with you, feare not.

18. For where as I have ben with you, it is the will of God: gene praise & thanks unto him.

19. You thought that I did cause & dranke with you, but I doe mean that is invis-ble, and dranke that cannot be seen of men.

20. Now therefore is the time that I must turne againe unto him that sent me: but be ye thankful unto God, and tell out all his wondorous workes.

21. And when he had spoke these workes, he was taken away out of their sight,
so that they could see him no more.

22. Then fell they downe flat upon their faces by the space of three hours, and prayed God: and when they rose vp, they tolde all his wondorous workes.

The first Chapter.

1. The building of Ecbatania. 5 Nabuchodonosor made warre against Apfarad and overcame him. 12. He tretyneth them that would not help him.

2. Apfarad the king of the Medes subdued many people unto his dominion, and builded a noble strong citie, which he called Ecbatana.

3. The walle of it made he of thee stone four square, sequentie cubites he, and thirtie cubites broade: he made colyres thereupon an hundred cubites hyc.

4. But along the four square corner every side was twenti foote broade: he made in the height, like as the colyres.

5. [This king] trusted in his mightie hoom, and in his glorious charites.

6. So in the twelth yer of his reigne, it happened that Nabuchodonosor the king of the Alsyrians which reigned in the great citie of Ninive, fought against Apfarad:

7. And overcame him in the great field called Ragau beside Euphates, and Tigris, and Jamalon in the field of Erisch the king of the Elakes.

8. And nine and nine years being ended in the feare of God, they buried him with ioye.

10. Unto all these dyd Nabuchodonosor the king of the Alsyrians send messengers.

11. But they all with one consent would not agree unto him, and sent the messengers againe empytie, and put them alway without honour.

12. Then Nabuchodonosor the king toke indignation at all those landes, & square by his trone and by his kingdome that he would be avenged of all those countreys.

The ii. Chapter.

1. Nabuchodonoso commanded presumptuously that all people should be brought in subjection, and to destroy those that disobeyed him. 7. The preparation of holophernes armoire. 12. The conquest of his enemies.

A 1. If the thirteenth yere of king Nabuchodonoso, upon the twentie & two day of the first moneth, it was deniud in the court of Nabuchodonoso; the king of the Assyrians that he woude revenge him selfe.

2. So he called unto him all the elders, all his captaynes and men of warre, and themed them his secret counsell.

3. And told them that his purpose was to bring the whole earth under his dominion.

4. How when they were all content with this laying, Nabuchodonoso; the king called holophernes the chiefe captayne of his warres,

5. And layde unto him: So thy way south against all the kingdomes of the west, and especialy against those that have despised my commandement.

6. Thou shalt spare no realtue, all strong cities that thouing in subjection woot me.

7. Then holophernes called together all the captaynes & rulers of all the power in Assyria, and mustred thesoldiers into the hoast like as the king commanded him [namely] an hundred and twentie thoulande fighting men upon hoofe, and twelve thoulande archers upon hoofebacke.

8. All his ordnance sent he before with an unnumberable multitude of cattel, so that the hoast was well provided for with oxen and small cattell, & that without number.

9. He appeyted to prepare come out of all Syria in his passage.

10. Much gold an siluer also toke he out of the kings house.

11. So he took his journey and all his hoast, with charets, horsemen, and archers: of whom there were so many that they covered the ground of the land like the grasshoppers.

12. And when he was gone past the bounders of the Assyrians, he came towards the great mountaynes of Ange, which lye upon the left side of Cilicia; and so he went by into all their castells, and wonne every strong holde.

13. As for the west the cite of Melochus, he brake it downe, and spoyle all the children of Tharsis and the Istanites, which lye towards the Wildernesse and upon the south side of the lande of Chelton.

14. He went once Euphates also, and came into Mesopotamia, and brake downe all the hie citie that were there, from the booke of Hamby till a man come to the sea:

15. And he toke the borders in from Cilicia into the coastes of Japhet towards the south.

16. He carried away all the Habianites, and spoyle all their goods, and whosoever withfoode him he slue them with the sword.

17. After this, he went downe into the fieldes of Damascus in the time of sauct, and burnt by all the corn, and all the trees and vines he caused to be cut downe:

18. And the fear of him fell upon all them that dwelt on the earth.

The iii. Chapter.

1. The people subject to holophernes. 2. He destroyed their gods that Nabuchodonosor, might only be worshipped.

A 1. Of the kings princes of all the cities, & lands, sent their embassadours, namely they of Syria and Mesopotamia, Syria Sobal, and Libya, and Cilicia, which came to holophernes, and layde:

2. Let thy wrath cease toward vs: It is better for us to serve the great king Nabuchodonosor with our lives, and to be subject unto thee, then that we should dye, and with our slaughter suffer the cupps of our bondage.

3. All our cities and possesstions, all mountaynes and hills, all fieldes, great and small cattell, sheepe, goates, horse, and daimels, all our goods and youldsholdes be in thy power.

4. Under
1. When the children of Israel that dwelt in Jerech, heard this, they were sore afraid of him.

2. There came such trembling also and such a fear upon them, lest he should take the cities of Jerusalen and the temple of the Lord, as he had done to other cities and their temples.

3. So they sent unto all Samaria ronde about unto Jerecho, (took in) and occupied all the toppes of the mountaines:

4. And made fast the townes with wallers, and prepared come for them against the battaye.

5. Eliasim also the priest wrote unto all them that dwelt towards Edreton, which liest over against the great fielde by Dothan, (wrote) unto all those by whom men might have passage by them.

6. That they shoude takke in the wayes of the mountaines, whereby there might be any waye and passage to Jerusalen, and that they shoude holde a diligent watch whereby any straenge was betwixt the mountaines.

7. And the children of Israel dyed as Eliasim the priest of the Lord had commanded them.

8. And all the people cryed unto the Lord earnestly, and humbled their foules with fasting and praying, they shewed their vnites:

9. The priestes put on heere clothes, and laid the young babes before the temple of the Lord, and covered the altar of the Lord with an heere cloth:

10. And with one accord they cryed unto the Lord God of Israel, that their children should not be gotten into a prison, and their vnites into a LyOPLE, that their cities should not be laid waste, and that their Sanctuary should not be burnt down, and so they to be a shame and rebuke unto the heathen.

11. Then Eliasim the hie priest of the Lord, went ronde about all Israel, and spake unto them,

12. Saying: Be ye sure that the Lord will hear your petitions, if ye continue steadfast in fastings and praying in the sight of the Lord.

13. Remember howes the servaunt of the Lord, which overthrew the Amalechites that trusted in their might and power, in their hoasts, in their shields, in their chariots and horsemen, not with weapons, but with holy prayers.

14. Even to shall all the enemies of Israel be, if ye continue in this waye that ye have begun.
And Balaam came to Holopernas, a prince of the children of the Ammonians; that the children of Israel prepared them for war, and made them return by the way they came. And he sent messengers unto Balaam, saying, I am come of the children of Israel; a word from the Lord hath come to me, saying, If thou go with the young men of Moab, and wilt come with me unto Balaam, I will reward thee according unto the reward of the young men of Moab. And Balaam said unto the messengers of Balak, If Balak would give me his thousand pieces of silver, and his thousand pieces of gold, I cannot go with thee, nor can I curse the people of the Lord, though Balak should give me his presents as the sea is large.

15 So upon this exhortation they continued in prayer before the Lord. In long wait that they which offered burnt sacrifices went to the Lord, and offered the offerings upon his altar, being arrayed in hairy clothes, and had ashes upon their heads.

16 And they all besought the Lord from the whole heart, that he would be with his people of Israel.

The v. Chapter.

1 ACh. the Ammonite doth declare to Holopernas of the maner of the Israelites.

2 Then was he exceeding wroth, and called all the princes of Moab, and the captains of Ammon, and laid unto them: Tell me what people is this that is come and not feared to come unto us, that we may make resistance, and how they had stopped the voyages between the mountaine.

3 And why do they boldly pass so near me, and come not forth to meet us, that we might receive us with peace?

4 Then ACh. the captain of all the Ammonites answered, and said: Sir, if it please thee to hear, I will tell the truth before thee concerning this people that dwelt in the mountaine, and there shall no truth go out of my mouth.

5 This people is of the generation of the Chaldees: They dwelt first in Mesopotamia; for they would not follow the gods of their fathers that were in the land of the Chaldees.

6 And so they took the custome of their forefathers which had many gods, and worshipped one God that made heaven and earth: and which also commanded them that they should go from thence and dwell at Charan.

7 And when there came a death into the whole land, they went down to Egypt, and there they dwelt four hundred years, in the which they multiplied greatly, that their host might not be numbered.

8 And when the king of Egypt oppressed them, and vexed them in digging of his cities with making of slay and byre, they cried unto the Lord their God which punished the whole land of Egypt with divers plagues.

9 And when the Egyptians had cast them out, the plague ceased from them, and they following after them to take them to bring them again into their bondage:

10 Wherefore they were slying away the God of heaven opened the sea, so that the waters stood fast upon both the sides as a wall, and these went through the bottom of the sea dry shod.

11 In the which place when an innumerable people of the Egyptians followed upon them, they were so overcome with the waters, that there remained not one to tell them that came after how it happened.

12 So when this people was passed through the red sea, they came into the wilderness of mount Sinai, where never man might dwell afore, and where the substance of man had never rested.

13 There were the bitter waters made sweet for them that might drink, and fourie peres had they for water from heaven.

14 Wherefore they went without bow and arrow, without buckler or sword, their God fought for them, and caused them to have the victory.

15 But no man was able to hurt this people, except it were when they departed unfaithfully from the worshipping of the Lord, their God.

16 But as oft as they worshipped another before their God, he gave them over to be spoiled, to be slaine, and to be put to confusion.

17 Nevertheless, as oft as they were to go for their departing from the worshipping
Diligent defence of their God: the same God of heaven gave them power to withstand their enemies.

Moreover, they are the king of the Chanaanites, Jebusites, Pherezites, Heites, Hevites, and Amorites, and all the nighting in Hebron, and took their lands and cities in possession:

And so long as they were not in the sight of their God, it went well with them: For their God hates unrighteousness.

For in times past when they went out of the way which God had given them, that they should walk in it, they were destroyed in divers battles of many nations, and many of them were carried away prisoners into a strange country.

But now lately they have turned their scales agayne unto the Lord their God, and are come together agayne out of the countries wherewith they were scattered abroad: and thus have they conquered their mountaines, and disbel theirin: and as for Jerusalem where their sanctuaries is, they have it againe in possession.

And therefore my Lord, make diligent inquisition, if this people have done wickedness in the sight of their God, then let vs go up against them: for doubtlesse their God shall deliver them into thy handes, and subdue them into thy power.

But if these people have not displeased their God, we shall not be able to withstand them: for their God shall defend them, and so shall we be a shame to all the world.

Aboye when Achior had spoken out these words, all the great men of holophernes were wont, and thought to slay him, and sayde one to another:

What is he this which dares say that the children of Israel are able to withstand Nebuchodonosor, the king and his hostes: whereas they are an unweaponed people, without strength or understanding of the states of warre.

That Achior therefore may know that he hath deceived vs, we will go vp into the mountaynes: and when the mightie men of them are taken, he with them shall be sticke with the ibwoode.

That all the people may knowe that Nebuchodonosor is the God of the earth, and that there is none other beside him.

The vi. Chapter.

1 Holophernes blasphemed God, whom Achior confessed. 14 Achior is delivered into the handes of them of Bethulia. 18 The Bethulians crepe into the Loade.

When they had left of speaking, holophernes took forse indignation, and sayde unto Achior:

For so much as thou hast prophesied unto vs, saying, That the people of Israel might be defended of their God: I will shew thee that there is no God but Nebuchodonosor.

Now, when we slay them as one man, thou also shalt preside with them though the blood of the Assyrians, and all Israel shall be destroyed with thee.

And then shalt thou see that Nebuchodonosor is the lord of the whole earth; then shall the blood of my kinnehood go through the sides, and thou shalt fall downe stricken among the wounded of Israel, and shalt not come to thy fell agayne, but be utterly destroyed with them.

Furthermore, if thou thinkest thy prophecy to be true, why dost thou change thy colour? Why art thou afraid? Thinkest thou that my words are not able to be performed?

But that thou mayest knowe that thou shalt see these things with them, behold from this house forth will I send thee unto ponder people, that when the punishment of my ibwoode (where they have worshipply beferred) falleth upon them, thou mayest be punished with them.

So holophernes commanded his seruantes to take Achior, and to carry him unto Bethulia, and to deliver him into the handes of the children of Israel.

When holophernes seruantes took

The vii. Chapter.

1 Holopneros doth belewe Bethulia. The counsell of the Pomeans, and other against the Israelites. 2 The Bethullians murmur against the government for lacke of water.

1 And when Athito had shewed out at these things, all the people fell downe upon their faces, praying the Lord, and poured out their prayers together into the Lorde, with a general complayne and weeping.

2 And sayde: O Lord God of heaven and of earth, behold their proude, and take upon our lodiemete, and consider howe it standeth, let thy sayntes, and make it to be knowne that thou dostknot those which holde them fast by thee, and holde that thou best things low that presume of them selues, and make their boast in their owne strength.

3 So when the weeping and prayer of the people (which they had made the whole day long) was ended, they comforted Athito.

4 Saying: The God of our fathers, whole power and strength thou hast prayed, shall so rewarde thee, that thou shalt rather see their destruction.

5 When the Lord our God then shal gene his feruantes this liberie, God be also with thee among vs: so that as it shall please thee, so thou with all thyne mayest dwell with vs.

6 Now when Dnias had ended the counsel, he tooke him into his house, and made a great supper,

7 Called the elders to it: and so they re-cieth the selues after the eating.

8 And afterward was all the people called together, which made their prayers all the night long "in the congregation, and besought the God of Israel" for help.

The next day Holopneres commanded his host to go by against Bethulia. There were an hundred and twentie thousand fighting men on foot, and two and twentie thousand horsemen, besides the preparing of them that were durne, and came to them on every side out of the countreys and citie which he had taken.

3 All these prepared their selues unto the battayle against the Israelites, and came only by the hils, and into the top that lotheth our against Dothain, from the place which is called Belima, into Chemon that lieth toward Chzelon.

4 Nowe when the children of Israel sailed to great multitude of the Assyrians, they fell downe flat upon the grounde, straited alyes upon their heads, and played with one anothere that the God of Israel would thebe his mercy upon his people.

5 And so they toke their Weapons, and sat behinde the mountaynes in the narrow place, and kept the day day and night.

6 But whyole Holopneres was going rounde rounde about, he founde the water spring, which from the south side was conveyed into the cite as a conduit, and he commanded their conduit to be cut in sunder.

7 There were welles also not farre from the welles, which they used secrettly, more for pleasure then for necessitie.

8 Then sent the Ammonites and the Moabites into Holophernes, and sayde: The children of Israel trust neither in speare nor arrow, but have taken in and kepe the mountayne, and steeped hilles defende them.

9 That thou mayest overcome them therefore without the strikynge of any battayle, let men to kepe the welles that they daie no water out of them, so that thou destroy them without stryke, or at the least they shall be so feeble that they must be facie to geue over the cite, which they thinke not to be wumme for so much as it lyeth in the mountaynes. These welles pleased Holophernes well and all his men of warre, and he set an hundred at every well round about.

11 And when this watch had endured twelue daies, the cielernes and all that had water sayled them that dwelit in the cite of Bethulia, so that in the whole cite they had not drinke enough for one day, for the people had water gaven them dayly in measure.

12 Then came the men and women, young persons and children, all unto Olias, and sayde al with one voyce: God be judge verteth vs and thee, for thou hast dealt cruelly with vs: thou wouldest not speake peaceably with the king of the Assyrians, therefore hast God solde vs into their handes.

14 And there is no man to helpe vs, whereas we are brought downe before their eyes in theft and great destruction.

15 Therefore gather noth together all the people that be in the cite, that we may all preide our selves lyustingly into the people of Holophernes.

16 For better it is that we be captiue and praye the Lord with our lines, then to be fayne & persiue, and to be laughed to scorne and shamed of every man when we see our wives and children die before our eyes.

17 We take heaven and earth this day to recorde, the God of our fathers, which punished vs according to the desert of our sinnes, and gave vs warning, that ye geue by the cite notwe into the power of Holophernes host, that our end may be short with the swood, which els shall endure long for want of water and for thirst.

18 When they had spoken out these wordes, there was a great weeping and holding in the whole congregation (and that of every man,) and they cryed a whole hour long into God with one voyce.

19 Saying: We have sinned with our fathers, we have done a nisse, we have dealt wickedly.

20 Thou that art gracious have mercy upon us, or punche our burreightones with thine owne sourse, and geue not those over that knowledge thine, into a people which knowe thee not:

21 That they may not say among the heathen, where is their God:

22 And when they were so weery with this crying and weeping that they held their peace,

23 Olias goodde by with bawry eyes, and sayde: O take good heartes into you deare brethren and be of good cheer, and let vs bawre yet these five daies for mercy of the Lord: Peradventure he that put alway his indignation, & geue glose into his name.

24 But if he helpe vs not when the five daies are pase, we shall do as ye have sayde.
What are ye, that ye tempt the Lord?

2. This beleece obtayneth no mercie of God: but provoketh hym into wrath and displeasure.

3. Wil ye set the mercie of the Lord a time, and appoint him a day after your will?

4. Nevertheless, so much as the Lord is patient, let vs rather repent in this, pouring out our teares, and beholding hym of grace.

5. For God threatneth not as a man, neither will he be provoked unto wrath as the children of men.

6. And therefore let vs heartily say downe before hym, and sere hym with a meke spirite.

7. And with weeping eyes say unto the Lord, that he beale with vs according to his owne wil speedly in mercie: that like as our heart is nowe vered and brought lowd through the pude of them, it may to be comforted through his grace.

8. In so much as we folowe not the lannes of our fathers, which fouled their God and worshipped other gods:

9. For the which styme they perswished with the blood, were spoiled, and brought to shame of al their enemies: As fors, we knowe none other God but only hym.

10. For whose comfort let vs tary with meekenesse, and he shall require a make inquisition for our blood from the decei-ations of our enemies: he shall bring downe all the heathen that rise by a-gainst vs, and put them to wilhonour, even the Lord our God.

11. Therefore heare brethren, sayng ye are the [honorable and] elders in the people of God, and there life hangerst all upon you, lift by their hearts with your ex- hostation, that they may call to remem- baunce hove our fathers also in times past were tempted, that they might be proved if they warshiped their God a right.

12. They ought to remember, holde our father Abraham being tempted, fryed through many tribulations, was found a louver and friende of God.
So was Jaelah, so was Jacob, so was Hoylez: and all they that pleased God, passed themselves in faith through manifold troubles.

Again, they that receiv'd not their temptations with the fear of God, but put them in the sight with impatience and murmuring against God.

Perished of the destroyer, and were slain of serpents.

And therefore should not we undertake to be avenged for the things that are done unto us:

But to consider that all these punishments are facet lest then our names and numbers, and believing that this correction committeth unto us as to the seruantes of God, for amendment, and not for our destruction.

Then judge Olias and the elders unto Judith: All that thou speakest is true, and no man can reproze thy words.

Pray thou for us now therefore (unto God,) for thou art an holy woman, and fearest God.

And Judith saide unto them: Being ye kno. that my wordes are of God,

Then judge my counsell and devise if it be of God: and believe God that he will bring my counsell to good ende.

Thus have I devised: We shall make this night before the poste, and I will go forth with Abanay meden: and pray ye therefore unto God, that he will graciously remember his people of Israel within five days, as ye have said.

As for the thing that I go in hand withal, ask ye no questions of it: and till I bring you good againe of it, do ye nothing els but pray unto the Lord our God for me.

Then Olias the prince of the people of Juda, saide unto her: So thy way in peace, the Lord be with thee, that we may be avenged of our enemies. And so they went from her againe.

Judith humblieth her selfe before the Lord, and maketh her prayers for the deliverance of her people. 7 Against the pride of the Egyptians, 11 God is the helpe of the humble.

Now when they were gone their way, Judith went into her closet, and on a heere knoch, strained ashes upon her head, fell downe before the Lord, and cried unto him, saying:

O Lord God of my father Simeon, which gauest him a sword for a defense against the enemies that did violence in their vanity, and that ranne under the virgin, and put her to shame and confusion.

Thou gauest them their lyues into a play, and their daughters into captiue, and all their parts for a poole unto thy seruantes which bare a scale unto thee: helpe me vpbowle, O Lord mine God I beseeche thee.

For thou hast made the first things: and after that, looke what thou hast taken in hand and designed, it came euere to passe.

For all thy wayes are prepared, and thy judgments are put in thy everlasting knowledge;

O looke now upon the armies of the Egyptians, lyke as it was thy pleasure sometime to looke upon the hoafe of the Egyptians, when they being weaponed percutet thy seruantes, and put their trust in their charites, horsemen, and in the multitude of their men of Warre.

But thou lookedst upon their hoaf, casting a thicke darkenesse before them.

And when they came into the deep, the waters overwhelm'd them.

Even to the Lord, let it go with these that trust in the power and multitude of their men of Warre, in their charites, arrows, and speares.

And know not that thou only art our God which destroyst warres from the beginning, and that thou art the Lord.

Dlyft up thyne armes, now lyke as ever from the beginning, and lyke as ever thyne power to naught: cause their might to fall in thy Warre, which make their boat that they wyl be hallowe and defile thy sanctuarie, and to waile the tabernacle of thyname, and to cast downe the home of thyne aultor with their blood.

Bryng to passe O Lord, that the pride of the enemy may be cut downe with his his owne sword.

13 That he may be taken with the snare of his eyes in me, and that thou mayest shewe him with the lypes of my tongue.

14 O gree me a leddash impute, that I may beseech him and his strength, and that I may destroy him.

15 This shall bring thy name an everlastinge remembrance, if the hande of a woman ouerthioe he shew him.

16 For thy powre O Lord standeth not in the multitude of men, neither hast thou any pleasure in the strength of horses, neither was there from the beginning any proude persons that pleased thee:

but in the prayer of the humble manne hath thy pleasure ben euermore.

17 O thou God of the heauen, thou make of the wateres, and Lord of all creatures, heare me pouze woman calling upon thee and putting my trust in thy mercye.

18 Remember thy covenant O Lord, and minister woydes in my mouth, and stabifie this device in my heart, that thy house may continue still in holyenes:

19 And that all the heathen may knowe O that thou art God, that there is none other but thou.

The x. Chapter.

Judith dealeth her selfe and goeth forth to the citie. 11 She is taken of the watch of the Assyrians and brought to Holophernes.

And when she had left of crying unto the Lord, the rose vp from the place where she had been flat before the Lord, and called her maide Abza, went vnto her house, laped the heere cloth from her, put of the garnements of her womanhood, and washed her body, annointed her selfe with precious thinges of sweete savour, boyled and platted her heere, set a coppe vpon her head, and put on such apparell as belongeth to gladnesse, trimmers vpon her feete, bracelets, brangles, ear-nges, finger-nges, and decked her selfe with all her best array.

The Lord gave her also a speciall beautie and fairenesse: for all this decking of her selfe was not done for any voluptuounesse, but of a right discretion and vertue, therefore did the Lord encrease her beautie, so that she was exceeding amiable and well favoured in all mens eyes.

She gave her maide Abza also a bottle of wine, a pot with oyle, pottage, cake bread and cheese: she went her way.

Nowe when they came to the poste of the citie, they founde Moab and the elders of the citie vappeing there.

Which when they sawe her, they were astonied, and marveyled greatly at her beautie.

Nevertheless, they asked no question at her, but let her go, saying: The God of our fathers vne the grace, and with his powre perforned all the device of thy heart, that Jerusalemy may recovere her, and that thy name may be in the number of the holyes righteous.

And all they that were there, lade with one voyce, So be it, so be it.

Judith made her prayer into the Lord, and went out at the poste, she and her maide Abza.

And as she was going downe the mountayne, it happened that about the spaying of the day the eyes of the Assyrians met with her, and tooke her, saying: Whence commest thou? or whysryt goest thou?

She answered: I am a daughter of the Hebrews, and am sent from them: for I knowe that they shalbe gven unto you to be spoyled, because they thought some to yeeld them selves unto that they myght finde mercy in your sight.

Therefore have I devised by my selfe after this maner: I will goe before the prince Holophernes and tell him all their secretes, and will shewe him how he may come by them, and winne them: so that not one man of his hoaste shall perish.

And when these men had heard her wordes, and considered her faire face, they were astonied (for they wondered at her excellent beautie).

And sade vnto her: Thou hast saved thy life by finding out this device, that thou of Judith. xxxvii.

Then said Holophernes unto her, Be of good cheer, and fear not in thyself: for I never hurt man that would serve Nabuchodonosor the king.

As for thy people, if they had not despised me, I should not have lyed by my peace against them.

But tell me now what is the cause that thou art departed from them, and wherefore art thou come unto me?

And Judith said unto him, Sir, understand the words of thy handmaid: for if thou wilt do after the words of thy handmaid, the Lord shall bring thy matter to a prosperous effect.

As Nabuchodonosor the king of the earth hurteth, and as his power lineth which is in thee to the punishment of all men, that go wrong, all men that not only be subdued unto him through thee, but all the beasts also of the field.

For all people speak of thy prudent act and, and it hath ever been reported how thou only art good and mightie in all his kingdome, and thy discretion is commended in all lands.

The thing is manifest also that Achior spake, it is well known what thou commandedst doth unto him.

For this is playne and of a suretie, that our God is so vouch with us by the reason of our sines, that he hath shewed by his prophetes unto the people, howe that for their sines he will deliver them over unto the enemy.

And for so much as the children of Israel knowe that they haue so displeased their God, they are loze as a prey of thee.

They suffer great hunger also, and for want of water they are dead nowe maner.

Wherefore, they are appointed to play all their vnto thee, that they may smake the blood of them.

And are purposed to spend the holy things of their God which he hath lyd on them to touch, as of come, wine, and bole, if they will confine those things which they ought not to touch with their handes: Seeing nowe that they do these things, it is a plaine tale that they must needs be destroyed.

Whiche when I thy handmaid perceived, I fled from them: and the Lord hath sent me to reheve thee these things.

For I thy handmaid worship God even here beside thee, and thy handmaid shall goe soorth, and I will make my prayer unto God:

And he shall tell me when he will reward them their time, then shall I come and reheve thee, and bring thee through the middest of Hierusalem, to that towne that have at the people of Israel as shepere without a shepheard, there shall not so much as one dogge barke against thee.

For these things are shewed me by the prouidence of God.

And so much as God is displeased with them, he hath sent me to tell thee the same.

These words pleased Holophernes, and all his seruantes: which maraunted at the vyledome of her, and said one to another:

There is not such a woman by good earth, in favour, in beautie, and discretion of wordes.

And
And Holophrines said unto her: God hath done well that he hath sent thee hence before thy people, that thou mayest give them into our hands.

And so much as thy promise is good, if thy God performe it unto me, he shall be my God also, and thou shalt be excellent and great in the court of Nabuchodonosor, and thy name shall be spoken of in all the lande.

Then commanded he her to go in where his treasure lay, and charged that she should have her dwelling there, and appointed what should be given her from his table.

Judith answered him, and said: As for the meate that thou hast commanded to give me, I may not eate of it as now, lest I displease my God: but I will eate of such as I have bought with me.

Then said Holophrines unto her: If these things that thou hast bought with thee faire, what shall we do unto thee?

And Judith said: As thy soul lyeth in thy Lord, thy handmaid shall not spend all this, but God hath brought to passe in my hand the things that I have desired. So his keraunites brought her into the tent whereas he had appointed.

And as she was going, she desired that she might have leave to go forth by night and before day to her prayer, and to make intercession unto the Lord.

Then commanded Holophrines his chamberlaines, that she should go out and at her pleasure, to pray unto God those three days.

And so in the night season she went forth into the valley of Bethulia, and washed her selfe in the well water.

And coming by, she besought the Lord God of Israel that he would prosper her way for the deliverance of his people.

And so she went in, remained cleane in her tent, till the tyme her meate in the evening.

Upon the fourth day it came to passe that Holophrines made a supper unto his keraunites, and sent unto Wagao his chamberlayne: Go thy way, and tell this Hebrew, that she may be willing to consent to kepe company with me:

For it were a shame unto all the Assyrians, that a woman should to laugh a man to scorne, that she were come from him blemished withall.

Then sent Wagao unto Judith, and said: Let not the good daughter be afraid to come into my lorde, that she may be honoured before him, that she may eate and drinke wine and be merry with him.

Unto whom Judith answered: who am I, that I should say my lorde nay?

Whatsoever is good and best before his eyes, I shall do it: and looke what is his pleasure, that shall I think well done as long as I live.

So the goode vp, and deckt her selfe with her apparell, and went in a goode before him.

And Holophrines heart was whole moved: for he went in desire toward her.

And Holophrines said unto her: Drink nothe and sit downe & be merry, for thou hast founde favour before me.

Then said Judith: Syp, I will drinke, for my innde is meryer to day then ever it was in all my lyfe.

And she tooke, and did eate, and dranke before him, the things that her majesty had prepared for her.

And Holophrines was merry with her, and drankke more wine then ever he did afore in his lyfe.

The xii. Chapter.

Judith would not pollute her selfe with the meate of the Gentiles. She made her request that she might go out by night to pray. Holophrines causeth her to come to the banquet.
Judith's prayer for strength.

10 She smote of Holofernes head.
12 She returneth to Bethulia, and reloquest her people.

Ob, when it was late in the night, his seruantes made haste every man to his lodging: And Wagao shut the chamber doores, and went his way:

For they were at overladen with wine.
So was Judith alone in the chamber.
As for Holofernes he lay upon the bed [all drunken] and of very drunkenness fell asleep.
Then commanded Judith her maid to stande without before the dooie and to wayte.
And Judith stode before the bed, making her paryer with tears, and moreover her lips secretly.
And saide: Strengthen me O Lord God of Israel, and have respect unto the workes of myne handes in this house, that thou mayest set by the cote of Hierusalem lyke as thou hast promised, and grant that I may performe the thing, which in hope that it may be done by thee, I have devised.
And when the had spoketh this, she went to the pillar that was at Holofernes beddes head, and looke his右手 that hanged upon it, and drewe it out:

And when she had taken it out of the scabder, she tooke holde of the heere locks of his head, and saydes: Strengthen me O Lord God in this house.

And with that she gave him two strokes upon the necke, and smote of his head: Then tooke the the canape away from the pilers, and rouled the dead body aside.

Immedeiatly she gat her strength, and delivered the head of Holofernes unto her madien, and bad her put it in her valllet.
And so these two went foozeth together after their entome, as though they would pray: and so passed by the haunt, and came about through the valley unto to the poiste of the cite.

And Judith creped a signal of unto the watchmen upon the walles: Open the gates [said she] for God is with us which hath shewed his power in Israel.

And when they heard her voyage, they called the elters of the cite: [together]
And they came all to meete her, little & great, young & olde: for they thought not that she should have come to done.
So they lighted candels, and gathered about her every one; but she went by to a high place, and caused silence to be pastapined.
17 And when every man now held his peace, Judith said: O prye the Lord our God, for he hath not despised nor forsaken them that put their trust in him:
18 And in me his handmaid, he hath performed his mercy, which he promised unto the house of Israel: Yea, in my hand this same night hath he blane the enemy of his people.
19 And with that the tboke forth the head of holophernes out of the waller, and threw it thern, saying: Behold the head of holophernes, the captyane of the armies of the Assyrians, and this is his canape wherein he lay in his day-tennes, where the Lord our God hath blane him by the hande of a woman.
20 But as the Lord lived, his angel hath kept me going thither, remaining there, and coming thither againe from thence: And the Lord hath not suffered me his handymen to be destit, but without any deeling of nime hath he brought me againe unto you: and that with great victorie, so that I am escaped, and ye delivered.
21 O gene thankes unto him every one, for he is gracious, and his mercy endureth for ever.
22 So they payed the Lord altogether [ and gave thankes unto him ], and to her they said: The Lord hath blane thee in his power, for through thee he hath brought our enemies to naught.
23 And Dares the chiefe rulcr of the people of Israel saide unto her: Blessed art thou of the Lord the high God, above all women upon earth.

24 Blessed be the Lord the maker of heaven and earth, which hath guided thee aright to wondme and to slaye of the head of the captyane of our enemies.
25 For this day he hath made thy name so honorable, that the people shall never come out of the mouth of men which shall alway remember the power of the Lord, seeing thou hast not spared thine own selfe [ but put thee in jeopardy] consideringe the angusthe and trouble of thy people: and so hast helped their fall before God our Lord.
26 And all the people said, Amen, Amen.
27 Achior also was called, and he came: And then said Judith into him, The God of Israel, unto whom thou gavest witnesse that he would be avenged of his enemies, even he hath this night through my hande smitten of the head of all the unfaithful.
28 And that thou mayst see that it so is, behold this is the head of holophernes, which in his preumpentuous pride deliuered the God of the people of Israel, and threatened thee with destruction, saying, when the people of Israel is taken, I shall cause thee also to be sticke with the sword.
29 When Achior saw holophernes head, he fell downe upon his face to the grounde for very anguish and feare, so that he fownd wittfall.
30 But after that he was come againe to him selfe, he fell downe before her, and payed her, saying:
31 Blessed art thou of the Lord in all the tabernacles of Jacob: for all the people that hear of thy name, shall praise the God of Israel, because of thee.
Then Achior sung the power of God which he had shewed unto the people of Israel, fell off from his heart in the sight of all his company and order, and discomfited as many as they might get. Thus did the Assyrians come into the tents of the Israelites, and brought all the cities and countries of Israel.

And so all the regions and every city sent out their best men after them in harness, and smote them with the sword, till they came to the utmost part of their borders.

And the other that were in Bethulia came into the tents of the Assyrians, and took all that they which were fled had left behind them, so they found great good.

And they that came againe to Bethulia from the battle, took with them such things as had ben theirs; there was no number of the battaile and of all costly jewels, so that from the lowest bin to the hieck, they were all made rich of the spoiles of them.

And Joachin the high priest came from Jerusalem to Bethulia with all the elders, to see the Assyrians, and to see God for her.

they began all to praise her with one voice, saying: Thou worshipst the cuple of her father, thou art of Israel, thou honour of our people.

11 Because thou hast done many good things, and the heart of man is comforted; for that thou hast loved them in spirit and soul, and hast knovv'n no man but thine own husband: therefore hast thou done the hand of the Lord comforted thee, and blessed shalt thou be for ever.

12 And all the people said: So be it, so be it.

The xvi. Chapter.

1 Judith piasteth God with a song. 2 She offereth to the Lord all the treasures, jewels, her beauty, and all the honours of the people. 3 All Israel lamenteth her.

2 In the day that Judith this song into the Lord, saying: Begin unto the Lord upon the tabernacles, sing unto the Lord upon the cymbals.

3 It is the Lord that destroyeth warres, even the Lord is his name.

4 Which hath pitched his tents in the midst of his people, that he might deliver us from the hand of all our enemies.

5 Assur came out of the mountains of the north in the multitude of his strength: his people stopped the water brookes, and their horses covered the valleys.

6 He purposed to have bestow upon my land, and to slay my young men with the sword.

7 He woulde have carried away my children and virgins into captivity, but the Almighty Lord hinde red him, and delivered him into the handes of a woman, which brought him to confusion.

8 For their might was not destroyed of the young men, it was not the sorrow of Tiran that the he, neither have the great giantes let them felles against him: but Judith the daughter of Oferari with her faire beautie hath discomfited him, and brought him to naught.

9 For she layed away her bydowes garment, and put on the apparel of gladnece to the rejoicing of the children of Israel.

10 She annointeth her face with ointment and bound upon her head, and took a newe stole to beguile him.

11 Her slippers raised his eyes, her beaute captivated his minde, with the Word foundeth the of his necke.

12 The Persians were astonned at her blessednesse, and the Peothes at her boldnesse.

13 Then howeld the armies of the Assyrians, when my concupiscences appeared, dye of thirst.

14 The sonses of the daughters have peared them through, and clave them asvgine children: they persified in the battale, for the very fear of the Lord my God.

15 Let vs sing a song of thanksgiving into the Lord, a newe song of praise, vs shall sing into our God.

16 Lord, Lord thou art a great God, mightie in power, whom no man may overcome.

17 All thy creatures must serve thee: for thou hatest but the word, and they were made, thou sentest thy spirit, and they were created, and no man can withstand thy power.

18 The mountains shall move from the foundations with the waters, the shone rockes shall melt before the like water.

19 But they that fear thee, shall be great with thee in all things.

20 Wo unto the people that rise up against my generation: for the Almighty Lord will avenge him selfe of them, and in the day of judgement will he license the.
of Judith.

21 For he shall give fire and danyes in their stede, that they may burne and see it for evermore.

22 After this it happened, that after the victorious all the people came to Jerushe- len, to give praise and thanks unto the Lorde: And when they were purified, they offered all their burnt sacrifices and their vows, and their promised offerings.

23 And Judith offered all holophernes weapons [and all the jewels] that the people had gotten her, and the canape that he took of his bed, and hanged them up "unto the Lorde.

24 The people were to say as the vie is: and this joy with Judith, by reason of the victorious, endured three monethes.

25 So after these days every man went home againe, and Judith was in great reputation at Bethulia, and right honorably taken in at the land of Israel.

26 Unto her vertue also was chastitie joined, so that after her husbandze Manasses dyed, she never knewe man all the days of her life.

27 Upon the hie solemnse days she went out with great worship.

28 She dwelt in her husbands house an hundred and five yeares, and left her handmayden Abia free.

29 And dyed, and was buried beside her husbande in Bethulia: And all the people mourned for her seven days.

30 So long as she lived, there was none that troubled Israel, and many yeares also after her death.

31 The day wherein this victorious was gotten, was solemnly holde, and recollected of the Jewes in the number of the holy days, and it is yet greatly holde of the Jewes ever since, unto this day.

The dreame of Mordeceus.

1 Mordeceus the sonne of Jair, the sonne of Seue, the sonne of Is of the tribe of Benjamin.

2 A Jewe, which had his dweling in the citie of Sis, a man of great reputation, and excellent among all them that were in the kynge court.

3 Nevertheless, he was one of the prisoners whom Hadruchodonos, the kynge of Babylon had carried away from Jerusalem unto Babylon, with Jeroham the kynge of Juda.

4 In the second yeere of the rage of great Araberres, in the first day of the moneth Asan, had this Mordeceus this dreame.

5 He thought he heard a great tempest, horrible thunderclaps, earthquakes, and great lyse in the lande,

6 And that he sawe two great dragons rede to fight one against another.

7 There eye was great: At the which 35 roaring 35 eye, all the heauen were up to fight against the righteous people.

8 And the same day was full of darke- nesse and very unsolemne, full of trouble and anguish, yea a great fear and unpleasance was there in the lande.

9 The righteous were amazed for they feared the plauge and enmy that was bred out of them, and were at a pount with them to dance to dye: So they cried unto God.

10 And while they were crying, the little well increide into a great river, and into many waters.

11 And with that it was day, and the same rose up againe: And the lowly were exalted, and devoured the glorious and proude.

12 Mordeceus when Mordeceus had seene this dreame, he awoke, knowinge fastly in his heart what God would do, and so he desired to knowe all the matter, and his mind was therewithall night.

The xij. Chapter.

Mardoceus bettereth the treason devised against the kyng, and is therefore rewarded of hym.

1 But when the kyng Mardoceus with Bagatha and Chara in the kynges court, the kynges chamberlaines and porters of the palace,

2 But when he heed of their device and had diligently considered their imaginations, he perceived that they went about to lay their [cruell] hands upon the kyng Artazarres, and so he certified the kyng thereof.

3 Then caused the kyng to examine the two geded with tormentes: And when they had graunted it, they were put to death.

4 This the kyng caused to be put in the Chronicles for an everlastinge remembrance, and Mardoceus wrote by the same matter.

5 So the king commanded that Mardoceus should be remayne in the court, and for this faithfulness of his he gane hym a reward.

6 But Aman the same of Ananada the Agagite, which was holden in great honour and reputacion in the kynges court, undertooke to hurt Mardoceus and his people, because of the two chamberlaines that were put to death.

The xijj. Chapter.

1 The copie of the letters of Artazarres against the Jewes. 9 The prayer of Mardoceus.

1 The great kyng Artazarres, which raigneth from India unto Ethiopia over an hundred and twentie and seven lands, sended his frendly salutation unto all the princes and deputies of the countrey, whiche be subject unto his dominion.

2 When I was made lord over many people, and had subdued the whole earth into my dominion, my minde was not with cruelitie and wrong to extalt my selfe by the reason of my power: but purposely with equity alwaye and gentilenes to govern those that be under my jurisdiction, and wholly to set them in a peaceable life, and thereby to bring my kyngdome unto tranquillitie, that men might safely go throbode on every side, and to reuine peace agayne, which be all men desirous.

3 Nowe when I asked my counsellors howse these thinges might be brought to a good estate, there was one by vs excellent in wisdome, where good wyll, truth, and faithfullnesse hath of ten theved and proved (whiche was also the prince pall and next unto the kyng) Aman by name.

4 Whiche certified vs, holwe that wall lands there was scattered abode a rebellious folk, that made statutes and lawes against all other people, and have alway despised the proclaimed commandementes of kynges, and holde that for this cause it were not to be suffered, that suche rule should continue by you, and not to be put downe.

5 Seing nowe we percewe the same, that this people alone are contrary in euery man, bring strange and other manner of lawes, and withstande our statutes and bynges, and go about to stabylise the same matters, that our kyngdome shoule never come to good estate (and the fact of it.)

6 Therefore have we commandad, that all they that are appointed in kyng and thewed you by Aman, whiche is od obese and set over all our landes, and the most principall next unto the kyng, and in manner as a father: all with their wives and childe ren be destroyed rooted out with the sould of their enemies and abusers, and that there shalbe no more thewed, and no man spared: And this shalbe done the fourteenth day of the moneth called Adad of this yere.

7 That they whiche of olde and noble also also, have ever ben rebellious, may in our day with violence be thrust downe into the hell, so the intent that after this manner our empire may have peace and tranquility.

But [omission] thought upon all the wrothes: noble acts of the Lord, and made his paper unto the Lord.

Saying: O Lord, O Lord, thou holy, and almighty king, for all things are in thy power: and if thou wilt helpe and deliver Israel, there is no man that can withstande not let thee.

For thou hast made heaven and earth, and what wonderful thing looer is under the heaven.

Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can resist thy majestie, O Lord.

Thou knowest all things, thou wouldest Lord, that it was neither of make nor presumption, not for any desire of glory, that I would not bow bowdowe my selfe nor worship powder ponde provide presumption.

For I would have been content, and that with good will, if it might have done Israel any good, to have kis even his footsteps.

But that I did it because I wold be not to the honour of a man in the fleede of the glory of God, for because I would worship none but only thee my Lord: and this have I done in no pryde nor presumption.

And therefore O Lord, thou God and king, have mercy upon thy people, for they imagine Lord they may bring vs to naught, yet their minde and desire is to destroy and to overthrowe thy people that hath ever ben thyne inheritance of old.

O despite not thy portion which thou hast delivered: brought out of Egypt for thyne owne sake.

Hear my prayer, and be mercifull unto thy people whom thou hast chosen for an heritage unto thy selfe: Turne our complaint and sorrow into joy, that we may live O Lord and peace thy name: O Lord suffer not the mouthes of them that praise thee, to be destroyed.

All the people of Israel in like manner cryed as earnestly as they could unto the Lord, for their death and destruction stoode before their eyes.

The prayer of Hester for the deliverance of her and her people.

[The text continues, describing Hester's prayer and the events that follow.]
And to open the mouths of the heathen, that they may praise the power and virtue of the gods, and to magnify the sithly song for ever.

O Lord, give not thy sceptre unto them that be nothing, lest they laugh us to scorn in our wicker and fall: but turn their device upon them selves, and punche hym that hath begun the same our vs, and set hym to an example.

Thynke upon vs O Lord, and shew thyselfe unto vs in the tyne of our distress, and of our trouble: strength me O thou kyng of Gods, thou Loade of all power.

Give me an eloquent and pleasant speache in my mouth before the lion: Lucre his heart into the hate of our enemies, to destroy him, and all such as content unto him.

But deliver us with thy hande, and helpe me thy handmaide, Which have no defence nor helper but onlye the Loade.

Thou knowest all things, thou knowest that I loute not the glory and wozhip of the unrighteous, and that I hate and abhorre the bed of the unrectified, and of all heathen.

Thou knowest my necessitie, that I hate the token of my preeminence and worship, which I daurce upon my head, what tyme as I must shewe my selfe and be fente, and that I abhorre it as an uncleane cloth, and that I daurce it not when I am quiet and alone by my selfe.

Thou knowest also that my handmaiden have not eaten at Anians table, and that I have had no pleasure nor delight in the kings feast, that I have not punke the wine of the danke offeringes.

And that thy handmaiden have no joy since the day that I was brought hyther unto this day, but only in the Loade, O thou God of Abraham, O thou mightie God above all, heare the voys of them that have no other hope, and deliuers us out of the hande of the wicked, and deliuers me out of my feare.

The xv. Chapter.

Mardocheus mouthed Hester to go in unto the kyng, and make intercession for her people. And he perforned his request.

Mardocheus also bade Hester go in unto the kyng, and pay for her people, and for her country. Remember (saith he) the dayes of thy love estate, how thou wast nourished under my hande: For Anian whiche is next unto the kyng, hath gaven sentence of death against vs.

Call thou therefore upon the Loade, and speake for us into the king, and deliuers us from death.

And upon the third day it happened that Hester layde alway the mourning garmenets, and put on her glorious apparell.

And becke her selfe goodly (after that she had called upon God, which is the beholder and favour of all things) and took two mayne of vs with her.

Upon the one she leaned her selfe, as one that was tender.

The other followed her, and bare the 3 trayne of her besiture.

The shine of her beautie made her face rose coloured, the similitude of her face was chareful and amiable: but her heart was shaduful for great feare.

She went in thosode all the doores, and knoode before the kyng: The kyng sat upon the trone of his kyngdome, and was clothed in his goodly array, all shining with golde, and set with precious stones, and he was very terrible.

He lift up his face that shone in the clearunesse, and looked grimely upon her: Then set the Queene downe, was pale and faynte, leamed her selfe upon the head of the mayde that went with her.

Nevertheless, God turned the kinges minde that he was gentle, that he leaped out of his scate for feare, and gat her in his armes, and helde her by thill she came to her selfe againe, he gat her loving hydes also, and laid unto her.

1 The great king Artaxerxes, which raigneth from Indis to Ethiopia over an hundred and twentie and seven landes, sitteth upon the princes and rulers of the same landes, suche as love him, his frendly salutation.

2 There be many that for the sundrie frendshipes and benefits whiche are durely done unto them for their woorshipp, beuer the more profonde and ye embodied:

3 And undertake not only to hurt our subjietes, for plenteous benefits may they not suffer, and begin to imagine someting against those that do them good.

4 And take not only all unhank (huines away from men) but in pride and presumptioun, as they that be burniefull and unhankfull for the good deeds, they go about to escape the judgement of God, that seeth all thinges, whiche judgement haterly and punishing all wickednesse.

5 It happeneth ofte also, that they which be in office by the higher power, and unto whom the buckle and cause of the subjietes are committed to be handled, ware yowthe, and beside them Virtues with the dedung of innocent blood, which bringeth them to unterrible hurt.

6 Whiche also with false and deceifull words and with lying tales, deeace and betray the innocent goodnesse of princes.

7 Nowe is it profitable and good that we take heed, make searche thereafter, and consider not only what hath happened unto vs of olde, but the manie fulle, vhomme, and the somple thinges, that the deputyes haue noide taken in hande before our eyes:

8 And thereby to delivere in tyme to vs come, that we make the kyngdome quiet and peaceable for all men, and that we might sometime brinwe it to a chagne.

9 And as for the thing that noide is present before our eyes, to withstande it, and to put it downe after the most frendly maner.

10 What tyne noide as Anan the some of Amabad in the Macedonian, a straunger veryly of the Persians blood, and farre from our goodnes, was come in among vs as an akaint.

11 And had obtained the frendship that we beare towarde all people, so that he was called our father, and had in yve Honour of every man, as the next and pynfull unto the kyng:

12 He could not forbear him selfe from his prede, hath undertakenn not only to rob vs of the kyngdome, but of our life:

13 With manie folde deceipt also hath he desired to defery Pardochenous our helper and preserver, whiche hath done vs good in all thinges, and innocent hester the like partaker of our kyngdome, with all her people.

14 For his munde was when he had taken them out of the way, and robbed vs of them, by his meanes to translate the kyngdome of the Persians unto them of Macedonie.

15 But we finde that the Jewes (which were cauled of the Wicked that they might be destroyed) are no culpil doers, but we reasonable and right lawes.
16 And that they be the children of the most high living God, to whom the kingdom of vs and of our progenitors hath ben well ordered by theire.
17 Wherefore, as for the letters and commandementes that were put forth by Amau the sonne of Anabadhu, ye shall do well if ye holde them of none effect:
18 For ye that set them up and intendent them, hangeth at Succ before the post, with all his horned: and God whiche hath all thinges in his power, hath rewarded hym after his delitering.
19 And upon this ye shall publishe and set by the cope of this letter in all places, that the Jewes may freely and without hinderaunce holde them letters after their olde statutes:
20 And that they may be helped, and that upon the thirteenth day of the twelthe moneth Adar, they may bee avenged of them which in the tyme of their uitue and trouble would have oppressed them.
21 For the goerner of all thinges, hath turned to ioy the day where in the chosyn people shoule have perished.
22 Moreover, among the holy solenme dayes that ye haue, ye shall holde this day also with all gladnesse:
23 That nowe and in tyme to come this day may be a remembraunce of good for all such as love the prosperite of the Persians: but a remembraunce of destrution to those that be seditions into vs.
24 All cities and landes that do not this, shall horribly perish and be destroyed with the fire and flame, and shall not only be no more inhabited of men, but be adhored also of the hynde beasts and foules.

The ende of the rest of the booke of Hester.
Due righteousness ye that be judges of earth, consider deeply of the Lord in goodness, and seek hym in singenesse of heart: For he will be sounde of them that tempt hym not, and appeareth unto such as put no distrust in hym.

3 For wicked thoughts separate from God, and his power when it is tried, repenteth the wife.

4 For why? Wylde done shall not enter in to a wicked soule, nor dwell in the body that is subject unto sinne.

5 For the holy spirit of discipline fleeth from deceit, and with alazeth hym selfe from thoughts that are without understanding, and is declared when wickednesse commeth.

6 For the spirit of wylde done is loving, and will not abolish hym that blaspheme with his lips, for God is wittynesse of his raynes, and a true beholder of his heart, and an hearer of his tongue.

7 For the spirit of the Lord suffeth the rounde compass of the world, and the same that yphobeth all things hath knowledge also of the ypocye.

8 Therefore he that speaketh unrighteous things can not be hid, neither shall the judgement of repose let him escape.

9 And why? Inquisition thatbe made for the thoughts of the vngodlie, and the sounde of his words shall come unto God, so that his wickednesse shalbe punished.

10 For the care of etonuse heareth all things, and the noyle of the grudginesse shall not be hid.

11 Therefore beware of murmuring which is nothing worth, and refrain your tongue from slandering: For there is no word so secret that it shall goe for naught, and the mouth that speaketh lyes slayeth the soule.

12 Seek not your owne death in the error of your lyfe, destroying not your selves thowards the works of your owne handes:

13 For God hath not made death, neither hath he pleasure in the destruction of the living:

14 For he created all things that they might have their being, and the generations of the world were healthfull, and there is no portion of destruction in them, nor the kyngdome of hell upon the earth.

15 For righteousness is everlastinge and immortality but unrighteousnesse bringeth death.

16 Nevertheless, the vngodly call it vnto them both with words and vwoodes, and whyte they thinke to have it their friends, they come to naught, and they have made an agreement with it, for they are worthy to be of her part.

The ii. Chapter.

The imaginactions and desires of the wicked, and theye countable against the faithfull.

1. Or the bungodly say reasoning with them selves but not a right, Our life is short and tedious, and in the deeth of aman there is no remedie, neither is there any man knowen to have returned from the grave.

2. For we are borne at all adventure, and we shalbe here by more fortune after, as though we had never ben; for our breath is as a fownde in our nozserlues, and voidges as a parte rayled out of our hearts:

3. Whiche being extinguished, our body shalbe turned into ashes, and our spirte shal vanshe as the soft apye.

4. Our life shall passe away as the trace of a cloude, and come to naught as the mufe that is druen away with the beams of the sunne, and put doune with the heat thereof: Our name also shalbe forgotten by life and life, and no nian shall have our voidges in remembrance.

5. For our tyme is a very shadowe that passeth away, and after our ende there is no returning: for it is fast seale, so that no man commeth agayne.

6. Come on therefore, let vs enjoy the pleasures that are present, and let vs chearefully be the creatures, like as in youth:

7. Let vs fill our selues with good wine and oynment, and let there no fownde of the tyme escape vs:

8. Let vs creowe our selues with rose budden, afore theye be withered:

9. Let there be no taye mede, but our luff go therowe it. Let evrie one of vs be partakers of our volupteounes, let vs leave some token of our pleasure in euery place: for that is our portion, and this (as) our lot.

10. Let vs oppresse the poore righteous, let vs not spare the wydde but olde man, let vs not regard the heades that are gray for age.

11. Let the laue of unrighteousnesse be our strength; for the thing that is weake is nothing worth.

12. Therefore let vs destrate the righteous, and why: he is not for our profite, yea he is cleane contrary to our doings, he cheketh vs for offending against the laue, and slumbereth the faultes of our maner of living.

13. He maketh his boast to have the knowledge of God, yea he calleth hym selfe Gods sonne.

14. He is made into vs for reproffe of our thoughtes.

15. If greeneth vs also to looke upon him, for his life is not like other mens, his wavyes are of another fashion.

16. He counteth vs but daie persons, he withdraweth hym selfe from our wavyes as from filthynes, he commeth greatly the latter ende of the luff, and maketh his boast that God is his father.

17. Let vs see then if his wordes be true, let vs poyne what shall happen in the ende of hym.

18. For of the luff man be the sonne of god, he wil receaue hym, and deliver hym from the handes of his enemies.

19. Let vs examine him with despitefull rebuke and tormenting, that we may know his mekennesse, and prove his patience.

20. Let vs condempne him with the most shamefull death: for as hym selfe faile, he shall bewarded [of God.]

21. Suche thinges do they imaginge, and go astray, for their owne wickednesse hath blinded them.

22. As to the mysteries of God, they understande them not, they neither hope for the rewarde of righteousness, nor regarde the worship that holy soules shall haue.

23. For God created man to be undestroyed, yea after the image of his owne lykennes made he hym.

24. Nevertheless, thosowe came of the deveill came death into the world, and theye that helde of his side do finde it.

The.iii. Chapter.

1 The consideration and assurance of the righteous. 7 The reward of the faithfull. 11 Who are miserable.

2 But the souls of the righteous are in the hande of God, and there that notonment touche them.

3 In the sight of the bounds they appeared to die, their ende is taken for misterie, and their departing from vs to be utter destruction: but they are in rest.

4 For though they suffer payne before men, yet is their hope full of immortality.

5 They are punished but in few things, nevertheless in many things that they be well rewarded: for God proueth the, and vindict them meete for hym selfe.

6 As goode in the furnace both be trye them, and receauiest them as a burnt offering: and when the tyme commeth they shalbe loked upon.

7 They shalbe tryned and runne through as the sparks among the stubble.

8 They shal judge the nations and have dominion over the people: and their Lorde shalaigne for ever.

9 They that put their trust in him shall understand the truth, and such as be faithfull shall perfeuite with hym in loue: for his saints have grace and misterie, and he hath care for his elected.

10 But the bugdyly shalbe punished according to their owne imaginations, for they have dispised the righteous, and so taken the Lorde.

11 For who so dispiseth wisdome and nurture he is unhappie, and as for the hope of such it is but payne, their labours unfruitfull, and their workes unprofitable.

12 Their deues are indiscern, and their children most ungodlie.

13 Their offspring (or progenie) is cursed: Wherefore blessed is the baren that is unedefiled, which hath not knowne the unfruitfull bed, she shal have fruite in the vitiation of soules.

14 And the gened which with his handes hath wrought no unrighteoussesse, nor imagined wicked thinges against God: for unto hym (halle geuen the speciall gift of faith), and the most acceptable poition in the temple of God.

15 For glorious is the fruite of good labour, and the roote of wisdome shall never fade away.

16 As for the children of adulterers they shall not come to a perfect ende, and the seede of an unrighteous bedde shalbe rooted out.

17 And though they live long, yet shall they be nothynge regarded, and their last age shalbe without honour.

18 If they dye quickly they have no hope, neither comfort in the day of inquiere.

19 For horribile is the ende of the unrighteous generation.

The.iii. Chapter.

1 Of vertue and the commodite thereof. 10 The death of the righteous, and the condemnation of the unfaithfull.

1 Howe soeuer is a chafle generation with vertue: the memoriall thereof is immortall: for it is knound with God and with men.

2 When it is present, men take example at it, if it go away, yet they desire it: it is crowned and ever triumpheth, when it hath vunme the reward of the unndefiled battalle.

3 But the multitude of the bugdyly abounding in chidren, shall profite nothyng, noz gene deepre roote by the seede of adulterie, noz lay any fast foundatio.

4 For though they budde forth in the branches for a tree, yet shal they be shakne with the wynde, so: they stande not fast: and though the vhementerie of the wynde they shalbe rooted out.

5 The imperfect branches shalbe broken, their fruite shalbe unprofitable, so lowe to eate, pea meete for nothynge.

6 And why: all the children that are borne of the wicked bed, must beare recorde of the wickednesse against their fathers.

21 And to the desire of wisdome leadeth to the kyngdome (everlasting.)

22 If your delight be then in ryall states and scepters (ye kynges of the people) let you "lust upon wisdome," that ye may raigne for evermore.

23 Dowe the light of wisdome all ye that be rulers of the people.

24 As for wisdome, what is he, thou the came by. I will tell you, and will not hyde the mysteries of [God] from you: but will seke her out from the beggynning of her natirue, and byng the knowledge of her into light, and will not kepe backe the truth.

25 Neither will I have to do with consumyng enuye: for such a man shall not be partaker of wisdome.

26 But the multitude of the wise, is the welsare of the world: and a wise kyng is the hyphdyng of the people.

27 Dreeeue naturue then through my woydes, and it shall do you good.

The vij. Chapter.

Wisdome ought to be preferred above all thynges.

My selfe also am a mortall man, lyke as all other, & am one of the earthy generation of them that was first made.

And in my mothers wombe was salusone to be sette in the ymage of some monethes, byng brought together in blood, through the seed of man, and the pleasure that came with sleepe.

And when I was borne I receaved lyke aye as other men, and fell upon the earth which is of like nature, crying and weeping at the first as all other do.

I was wrapped in swaddling clothes, and brought by with care.

For there is no kyng that hath any other begynning of lyfe.

All men then have one entranuce unto lyfe, and one going out in lyke maner.

Wherefore I desired, and understanding was given me: I callecd, and the spirits of wisdome came into me.

I set more by her then by kyngdomes and royall states, and counted riches nothing in comparison of her.

As for precious stone, I compared it not unto her: for all gold is but a little gravell unto her, and silver shalbe counted but clay before her lyght.

I loved her above welfare [beautie, and] purposd to take her for my lyght: for her lyght can not be quenched.

All good thynges together came to me with her, and innumerable riches through her handes.

And I was glad in all thynges, because wisedome went before them: and I knew not that she was the mother of them.

And I my selfe learned unsusawyly, and made other men partakers of her without enuy, and hyde her riches from no man.

For she is an infinite treausure unto men: which who so be, become partakers of the love (and friendly) of God, and are accepted unto him for the gifts of wisdome.

God hath granted me to speake what my mynde conceneth, and to thinke as is meete for the thynges that are given me: For it is he that leadeith unto wisedome, and teacheth to be wisedome a ryght.

For in his hande are both we and our woydes, wisdom, ye all our Wisdome and knowledge of his works.

For he hath given me the true science of the things that are, so that I know where the world was made, and the powers of the elementes:

The begynning, ending, and middye of the tymes, howe the tymes alter, howe one goeth after another, and howe they are fulfilled,

The course of the yere, the ordinaunces of the starrs,

The natures of young tymes, the subtiltyes of starrs, the power of the tymes, the imaginations of men, the services of young plants, the vertues of roots.

And all such thinges as are either secret or manifest, them bane I learned.

For wisdome which is the worker of all thinges hath taught me: for in her is the science of understanding, which is holy, one only, manifolde, subtile, quicke movyng, cleare, undiscoverable, clas, sweete, plaine, louyng the thing that is good, sharpe, which can not be letted, boyng good,

He dyde to man, steadfast, sure, free from care, hauyng all vertues, circumspect in all thinges, and passyng through all understanding, clene, subtile spirites,

For wisdome is nimble then all nimble tymes, the goeth through and attrayeth to all thinges, because of her cleanness.

For he is the breade of the power of God, and a pure influence flowing from the glorie of the almighty power forevermore, wherefore can no defiled thing come unto her,

For he is the brightness of the everlasting light, the undiddled mirror of the majestie of God, and the image of his goodness.

And byong [but] one, she can do all thinges: and remainyng in her selfe she remayneth all, and in all ages of tymes entyng into holy soules, she maketh Gods friends, and prophets:

For God loueth none, if he dwelle not with wisdome.

For she is more beautifull then the sunne, and greaer light then the starrs, and the day is not to be compered into her.

For vpon the day commeth night: but wickednesse can not overcome wisdome.

The viij. Chapter.

The effectes of wisdome.

Wisdome reacheth from one ende to another mightly, and longely both the other all thinges.

I have loved her, and laboured for her, even from my youth vp: I dyd my diligence to mary my selfe with her, suche love had I vnto her beautie.

That the hath the companie of God, he commendereth her nobilitie: yea the Lord of all thinges himselfe loveth her.

For she is the solemnealtesse of the nurture of God, and the chosuer out of his works.

If a man would desire riches in this lyfe, wha ther richer then wisdome that worketh all thinges:

For yt prudente wrokes: what is it among all thinges that worketh better:

And yt a man loue ryghtouesesse, her labours are but vertues: for why? the teacheth soberenesse and prudence, righteousesse and strengthe, which are luche thinges as men can have nothing more profitable in their lyfe.

If a man desire much knowledge, he can tel the thinges that are past, and differere thynges for to come: the knoweth the subtilties of wrokes, and can expounde dark sentences: she forseth signes and wonders or eye they come to passe, and the endesk of all tymes and ages.

Therefore I purposd after this maner: I vylle take her into my companie, that she may line with me, knowyng for certaintie she shall give me good counsaill, and speake confortably vnto me in my carefullesse and grieffe.

For her sake (halle I be well honest, taken among the commons, and with honour among the eldiers though I be young.

I had bene found to be of sharpe judgement, so that I had bene murtherous in the

The x. Chapter.

The deliverance of the righteous, and destruction of the enemies commeth through wisdom.

1 He preferred the first surnamed father of the world that was created alone, and bought hym out of his fall: *And gave him power to rule all things.

2 But when the unrighteous went away in his wrath from her, he perished by the furious desire to murder his brother.

3 For whom when the water destroyed the whole world, Wisdom again preferred her, she governing the man by no costly wrought of wood.

4 Moreover, when the nations were confounded [or joined together] in their malicious concurrence, she found out the righteous, and preferred hym faultless into God, and kept hym strong against the lone of his forme.

5 She preferred the righteous when he fled from the ungodly that perished, what tyme as the fire fell downe upon the fine cities.

6 Like as yet this day the unfruitful waste [and] hopeless lande geneth testimone of their wickednesse: yea the unripe and unripe fruits that grovnde upon the trees, and for a token of a reminiscence of the unfruitful sole, there standing a pyler of salt.

7 For all such as regarded not Wisdom, not onely this hurt, that they knewe not the thynges which were good: but also left behinde them unto men a monument of their foolishnesse, so that in the thynges wherein they sinned, they could not be pyed.

8 But as for such as toke heed unto Wisdom, she hath delivered them from solitude.

9 When the righteous fled because of his brother wrath, Wisdom led hym the right way, shewed hym the holy dome of God, gave hym knowledge of holy thynges, made hym rich in his labours, brought to passe the thynges that he went about.

10 In the deceitfulness of such as deceived hym, the FOodde by hym and made hym rich.

11 She saved hym from the enemies, and defended him from the persecuters: In a strong battle she gave hym the victorie, that he might knowe howe that the fear of God is stronger then all thynges.

12 When the righteous was solde, she solde hym not, but delivered hym from sine: She went downe with hym into the dungeon.

13 And said hym not in the bandes, *till she had bought hym the keepter of the realme, and power against those that oppressed hym: As for them that had accused hym, she declared them to be liers, and bought hym to perpetuall woollipp.

14 *She delivered the righteous people and faultless seede, from the nations that oppressed them.

15 *She entered into the soule of the servaunt of the Lorde, and stooide by hym in Wonders and tokens against the dreadful thynges.

16 *She gave the righteous the reward of their labours, and led them forth a maruious day: on the day tyme she was a shadowe unto them, and a light of starses in the night season.

17 *She bought them through the red sea, and carpied them through the great water.

18 But she brought their enemies in the sea, but brought them out of the bottom of the deep.

19 So the righteous toke the spoyles of the
The miracles done for Israel. 1. The vengeance of sinners. 2. The great power and mercy of God.

1. He ordered their works in the handes of the holy prophet: *so that they went through the wilderness that was not inhabited, and pitched their tentes in the waste desert.

2. They stood against their enemies, and were avenge of their adversaries, when they were thirsty they called upon thee, and water was given them out of the (most) holy rocke, their thirst was quenched out of the harde stone.

3. For by the thynge (wherethrough) their enemies were punished, were the children of Israel helped in their neede.

4. In scoord of a fountaine of the perpetuall running and all troubled with gone blood, in repast of the commandement published to nurthe the infants, thou gavest unto them abundance of water, and that not looked for neither:

5. Declaring by that thrench thou hast punished thine adversaries. *for when they were tried, and nurtured with fatherly mercy, they knewe howe the vngodly were judged and punished in the wrath [of God].

6. For these halfe thou exchost as a father, and poued them: but unto the other thou hast ben a boyfounes lyng, layed harde to their charge, and condemned them.

7. Whether they were absente or present, their punishment was a lyke.

8. For their grief was double, and mourning for the remembrance of thynges past.

9. When they perceived that their punishment dyd them good, they thought upon the Lorde.

10. For whom in his crying out before, as an abit they had dened with de***ision, him in the ende when they laboured what happened, they wondered at: for they were of another thrench then was the iust.

11. But for the foolish denises of their unchastisely, wherewith being deceaued they were shipped serpentes that had not the lie of creation, and vile beasts, thou sentest a multitude of unreasonable beasts upon them for vengeance:

12. That they might knowe, that toke wherewith a man ingreth, by the same also shall he be punished.

13. For unto thy Almighty hande that made the world of naught, it was not impossible to fende among them an heape of beares, or wood lions.

14. Of cruel beasts of a strange lyke such as are knownen, or stout fire, or cast out a smokyng breath, or shooe horrible sparks out of their eyes:

15. Which might not only destroy them with hurtynge, but also kill them with their horrible lykht.

16. For without these beasts might they have ben slayne with one lyke, being perfected by the reuengeance, and scattered abroad through the breadth of thy power: Neverthelesse, thou hast ordered all thynges in measure, number, and weight.

17. For thou hast euer had great strength and myght, and who may withstande the power of thynne armes?

18. For whys? lyke as the small thyng that the balauence wapeth, so is the world before thee: pea as a drop of the moonyng deale that falleth downe upon the earth.

19. But thou hast mercie upon all, for thou hast power of all thynges, and makest thee as though thou laboyst not the sums of men, because they shouldst amend.

20. For thou loudest all the thynges that are, and hatest none of them whom thou hast made: for thou wouldest not have made any thyng if thou hadst hated it.

21. Pea bothe might any thyng endure pitt were notthy wyll; or bothe coulde any thyng be preferred, except it were called of thee.

22. But thou sparest all: for they are chine (d Lorde) thou lour of soules.
O: thy uncorruptible spirit, O Lord, is in all things.

Therefore chastenest thou them mercifully that go wrong, and warnest them by putting them in remembrance in what things they have offended, that leaving their wickedness, they may believe on thee, O Lord.

*As for those old inhabitants of thy holy lande, thou mightest not away with them.

For they committed abominable works [against thee] as Witchcraft, for sake, and Witch sacrifices.

They slue their owne childdren without mercy, they byd eate by the bowels of menes feth, and drowned the blood abominable bankers, and had their mad fanatall priestes.

And the fathers were the chiefe murderers of the soules deffitate of helpe, [these doers] thou wouldst destroy by the hands of our fathers:

That the lande whiche thou louest above all other, might be a meete dwelling for the chyldren of God.

Nevertheless, thou sparedst them also as men, and sevedst the forreners of thyne hoast, even forrestes, to destroy them out by little and little.

Not that thou wilt enable to subdue the bugody vnto the righteous in bat tayle, or with cruelle beastes, or with one rough vade to destroy them together: But thy mynde was in punishing them by little and little, to gie them place for amendment, knowing well that it was an unrighteous nation, and wick ed of nature, and that their thought might never be altered.

For it was a cursed seede from the beginning: yet hast thou not pardoned their innes wherein they offended, for that thou fearest any man.

For who will stand against thy judgement: or who will blame thee for the nations that perish, whom thou hast made: or who will come before thy face to be revenged for the unrighteous men:

For there is none other God but thou, *that carest for all things: that thou mayest declare houle that thy judgement is not unright.

There were neither king nor traunt in thy sight, requirest accomplices of them whom thou hast destroyed.

Foxsmouth the then as thou art righteous thy selke, thou onke all things righteously, *thinking it unseemly for thy power to condenyne hym that hath not deserve to be punished.

For the power is the beginning of righteousness, and because thou art Lord of all things, it maketh thee to be gracious unto all.

For when men thinke thee not to be of a full strength, thou declarest thy power, and reprouest the boldness of the wyke.

But thou *mastring thy power doest judge with equite, and ozactly with great favour: for thou mayest be pow er when thou wilt.

By surfe Wykes nowe haft thou taught thy people, that the last man shouulde be loving, and haft made thy chylde to be of a good hope, because thou gavest room to repentance for sines.

Insonusche as thou hast punished and with such deliberation and obfervation, the enemies of thy seruantes, which were worthy to dy, where through thou gauest them tyne and place of amendement, that they might turne from their wickednesse:

With holde great circumcision then punishedst thou thyne owne chylde, vnto whose fathers thou haft sworne, made covenantes of good promises:

So where as thou dost chalfe vs, thou *punishedst our enemies a thousand times more: to the intent that when we punishe, we should diligently think of thy goodnesse, and when we our selues are punished, we shou'd hope for mercy.

Therefore, where as men have liued

27 For look in what things they disdained when they suffered for their sakes whom they counted gods, lyes, for their lives punished in the same, they perceived that he was in these the true God, whom before they had denied to knowe, and therefore came extreme damnation upon them.

The xiiij. Chapter.

All things be happy except the knowledge of God. 10 Idolaters and idols are mocked.

1 Truly happy are all men by nature, which were ignorant of God, and could not out of the good things that are seen knowe hym, that of hym false is [everlasting] neither take so muche regard of the workes that are made, as thereby to knowe who was the craftsman of them:
2 But some take the fire, some the winde or twist appare, some the course of the starrs, some the running water, some the dune and moone, or the lightnes of heaven, for gods that rule the worlde.
3 But though they had such pleasure in their beautie, that they thought to have been gods, yet should they have knowne howe muche more fayrer he is that made them: For the maker of beautie hath dydnamned at these things.
4 Or if they maruelyd at the power and worke of them, they should have perceived thereby, how much he which made these things is mightie then they.
5 For by the greatnesse of the beautie and of the creatures, the maker thereof compared with them, may plainly be knowned.
6 Notwithstanding, they are the lesse to be blamed that seeke God, and woulde finde hym, yet peradventure muche.
7 For they being occupied in his worke, do seeke hym diligently, and are persuaded by the sight, because the things are beautifull that are seen.

8 Holbeit, yet neither are they to be executed.
9 For if their understanding [and knowledge] be so great, that they can discern the world, and the creatures, why do they not rather finde out the God of all?
10 But miserable are they, and among the dead is their hope, that call them gods which are but the workes of mens handes, golde, siluer, and the thing that is founde out by cunning, the similitude of beastes, or any bayne done that hath ben made by hande of old.
11 Or as wise a Carpenter cuteth downe a tree meete for the purpose, and pargeth of all the barks cunningly, and so by arte comely makest a vessel profitable to the use of life:
12 And with that which is cutt off from his worke, doth make his meat to fill his belly.
13 And as for the other part that is left, which is profitable for nothing (for it is a crooked piece of wood, and full of knoddes) he carrieth it diligently by lesture, and according to the knowledge of his cunning, he giveth it some proportion, fashioned it after the similitude of a man, 14 Or makest it lyke some good beast, straketh it over with red, and paynethe it, and looke what foul spot is in it, he calleth some colour upon it.
15 Then makest he a convenient tabernacle for it, seteth it in the wall, and makest it fast with iron:

The xiii. Chapter.
1 The detection and abomination of images. 8 A curse of them and of hym that make them. 14 Whereof idolatrie proceeded; 15 What curts come of idolatrie.

1 Therefore shal there a plague come upon the idols of the heathen: for out of the creature of God they are become an abomination, a "temptation unto the soules of men, and a share for the feete of the unlyke.
12 For why, the "seeking out of idols, is the beginning of BAhbodime, and the "vinging up of them, is the "destruction of lyfe.
13 For they were not from the beginning, neither shall they continue for euer.
14 The bapnegloze of men hath founde them out upon earth, therefore that they come shortely to an ende.
15 For when a father mournde heavily for his soule "solaine taken away from hym, he made hym an image, and hym which was then he was but a dead man, he now began to Worship as a god, and which to his "servauntes ceremonies and sacrifices.
16 Thus by procelte of time this "integratious cultoure being Waren strong was kept as a labe, and images were Wor-dered by commandement of srauntes.
17 As for those that were so farre of that men might not Worship them present, their vilage beyng bavelne out from farre of, was made as the "clear image of an honourable kng, that they might with "affection flatter aswell
the absent as the present.
18 Agayne, the singuler ambition of the crasfes man gave the ignoaunt also a great occasion to increase the superstition.
19 For he willing to please one peradventure that "bare rule, laboured with all his cunning to make the image of the best fashio.
And so though the beautie of the booke, the common people being thereto allureth, take hym nowe for a god, which a little before was but honored as a man.

And this was to the decreaing of mans life, when men either with calamitie or trauenie oppressed, ascribed unto stones and storie that name of God which ought not to be geuen unto any thing.

Hence, this was not enough for them, that they erred in the knowledge of God: but where as they lusted in the great warre of ignorance, those so great and great plagues called they peace.

For either they flue their owne chylde in and offered them in sacrifice, or bled secret ceremonies, or followed madde drunken dissoluteyes of rites in sacrifice:

So that they kepe neither life nor marriage cleane: but either one flue ano other repaytously, or greedie hym by adulterie.

So that there reigned in all men without exception, blood, manslaughter, theft, dissimulation, corruption, unfaithfullness, sedition, perjury.

For why, the honouring of abominable images, is the beginning, the caufe and ende of all evill.

For they that worship Idolers, either they are madde when they be merry, or prophetic lies, or lie ungodly, or els lightely soodeare they images.

For though the images in the Gods which have no soule, though they devour falsely, yet they think it shall not hurt them.

Therefore commenceth a great plague upon them, and that mostfully for both causes: for they have an euil opinion of God that gene heede unto Idolers, and they devour brutilly in deceit, despis- ing holynes.

For it is not the power of them by whom they devour: but it is the uniuersal vengeance of sinners that puniseth alwayes the offence of the ungodly doers.

The xv. Chapter.

The booke of the faithfull praying the mercy of God, by whose grace they sinne not idolers.

Yet are we thynke, for we knowe thy strength: but we will not sinne, because we knowe we are counted thynke.

To knocke theis perfect righteousyness: yea to knowe thy power, is the rote of immortallitie.

As for the thing that men have found out through their euill science it hath not becaused be, nor the paynters unprofitable labour [to wee] an image sported with dyes coloures,

True image with dyes coloures.

So by his wicked labour he made a vayne god of the same clay, this both even when he which a little before was made of earth hym selfe, and within a little while after returneth to the same out of which he was taken, when the soul of his life halfe demanded from him agayne.
of wydrome.

Notwithstanding, he careth not the more for this that he must labour, nor that his life is short; but strenuously to excel goldsmithes and silversmithes, and enbeautify to do like the copper-smithe, and taketh it for an honour to make 'decentable things.

10 His heart is but almes, his hope is more vaine then earth, and his lyfe of less Honour then clay.

11 Forsoomuch as he knoweth not his owne maker that gave him his soule of power to worke, and breathed in hym the breath of life.

12 But they counted our lyfe but a pastime, and 'our conversation to be but a market for gape, and that men should every way be getting, yea though it were by unli means.

13 Nowe he that of earth maketh seale vessels and images, knoweth hym selfe to offende above all other.

14 At the enemies of thy people that hold them in subjection, are most vnwise, & are more nuisable then very fooles.

15 For they judge all the idols of the heathen to be gods, which neither have eyelight to see, nor nose to smell, nor ears to heare, nor fingers or hands to grope, and as for their feete, they are to follow to go.

16 For man made them, and he that boreth his owne spirit fashioned them: but no man can make a god lyke unto hym selfe.

17 For trying he is but mostall, it is but mostall that he maketh with brightenesse handes: he him selfe is better then they whom he Worshippeth, for he issu'd as they dyd neuer.

18 Pea they worshippeth (such) beasts also as are most hatefull: for if they were compar'd for madnesse, they are worse then others.

19 Neither have they any beautie why to be desir'd in respect of other beasts: but are all voppe of the praye of God, and his blessing.

The xvj. Chapter.

1 The punishment of idolaters. 20 The benefite done unto the earthfull.

Before by such thinges are they worthily punished, they seue the multitude of beastes are they rooted out.

In feede of the lyke punishments thou shalt graciously ordain thine owne people, preparing for the desire of their appetite a strange tale, even quayles to be their meat.

To the intent that by the thinges which were shewed they were not to be greedie of them, that they were to greedie of meat, might begin to lothe even their necessarie appetite, and they which had suffered perturbe for a short space, might be partakers of the newe tale.

So it was requisite that without any excuse puerie should come upon those which did tyrannie, and to thebe only unto the other hoyle their enemies were destroyed.

For when the cruell woodnesse of the beastes came upon them, they prifed shooe the thinges of the cruell serpentes, notwithstanding. thy wayth endured not perpetually.

But they were put in feare for a little season, that they might be resouerd, having a "token of submission to remember the comandement of thy laude.

For he that looked backe [to it] was not healed by the thing that he laide, but by thee D lauoure of all.

So in this thou showest our enemys, that it is thou which deliverest from all evill.

For then" when they were bitten with grasshoppers and flies, they dyed, neither was there any remedie founde for their life, for they were worthy to be punished by siche.

But not the very teeth of venemous dragons dyd overcome the children: for thy mercy was ever by them, and heal all them.

For they were pricked because they should remember thy worde, but presently they were healed againe, lest they should fall into so deep forgetfulness, that they might not be called backe by thy beneite.

For it was neither hearbe nor plaster that restored them to health: but thy word D Lord, which healtheth all things.

It is thou D Lord that hath the powuer of life and death, thou leaveth not beastes doode, and bringest by againe.

A man in deed shooe his wicket.
nelse may say [another] but when his spirit is gone forth, it returneth not againe, neither may he call againe the soul that is taken away.

15 But it is not possible to escape thy hand.

16 For the bugody that would not know thee, Were punished by the strength of thyme arm; lest strange ravens, hapes, and howdes were they persecuted that they could not any more, and thowe fire were they confirmed. It was a wondrous thing that fire might do more than water which quencheth all things: but the wood is the avenger of the righteous.

17 For sometimes was the fire to tame, that the beatles which were sent to punish the bugody, went not, and that because they should see and knowe that they were persecuted with the punishment of God.

18 And sometime went the fire in the muddest of the water, that it might destroy the frutes of the uniaust lande.

Exod.xviii. 20 [R] In neede whereof thou hast led thine oluine people with angels foode, and sent them bread raph from heaven without their labour, being very pleasant and of good taste.

21 For this thy substanse into thy child ren declared thy sweetness, and feruing to his appetitie that took it, tempered it selue according to his desire.

Exod.xix. 22 But the knovde and ye abode the vis-

Dience of the fire and melted not, that they might know that the fire burning in the heafe, 8 hardening in the pyne, destroyed the frutes of the enemies.

23 The fire also forgat his owne strength agayne, that the righteous might be nourished.

24 For the creature that serveth thee which art the maker, is fierce in punishing the unrighteous, but is calle [and gentle] to do good, unto such as put their trust in thee.

25 Therefore dyd it alter at the same time into all fashions, and was obedient unto thy grace, which is the nurse of all things, according to the desire of them that had need thereof.

26 That thy children O Lord whome thou lovest, might knowe that it is not the growing of frutes that feedeth men, but that it is thy wood which preserueth them that put their trust in thee.

27 For looke what "might not be destroyed at all with the fire, assone as it was warmed with a little sunne flame, it melted:

28 That all men might knowe, that thankes ought to be given unto thee before the sunne rayle, and that thou oughtest to be worshipped before the day spring.

29 For the hope of the world shall melt away as the winter ye and howe away as unprofitable water.

The, xvj. Chapter.

The judgements of God against the wicked.

Rom.xii. 1 [D] great are thy judgments [O Lord] and can not be expressed: therefore men do err that will not be returned by thy wyse

Exod.xii. 2 [O] For when the unrighteous thought to have thy holy people in subjection, they were bound with the bandes of darkness and long night, shut up under rooves, and lay there to escape the eernall prudence.

3 And when they thought to hye in the darkness of their times, they were scattered abode in the very muddest of the darke couring of forgetfulness, put to horrible scare, and wonderfull ype detered.

4 For the corner where they lay hye, might not kepe them from scare, because the fountes came rounde about them and cored them, so many terribile and strange bision appeared to them.

5 No power of the fire might gue them light, neither might the clear frandes of the scarles lighte the horrible night:

6 But there appeared unto them a Go
dayne fire only, very dreadful: At the which light, when in they sawe nothing thoughly, they were so afraid, that they thought the thing which they sawe to be the more fearefull.

7 As for the illusions of the magickal art, they came to naught: and it was a most shamefull reproch of the pyrde that they had of their owne wyseborne.

8 For
For they that promised to burn away the feares and troubles from the sike sole, were sike them selves with feare thereby to be laughe at.

For though no terrible thing did scare them, yet were they afraide at the beastes which passt by them, and at the hissing of the serpentes.

Inomuch as with trembling they solved, and faide they sawe not the aye, which no man yet may escape.

For malice is a dreadful thing, that is condemnede by his owne Winiesses: and beyng pressed with confidence, it carre "suspectee" cruel things.

For feare is nothing els but a "betraying of the succours which reason offereth."

And looke howe muche the lease his hope is within, the greater both he recouert his ignoraunce of that cause that hymgeth the torment.

But they [that do endure] the night that in beede was intolerable, and that came from the dungeons of intolerable hell, steeping the same steep.

were sometimes chaide with monstrous apparitions, and sometimes they solved, as their owne soules had betrayed them: for a hasty feare, that was not looked for, came upon them.

And thus, whoseoeuer was there fallen, he was in pyson, but without chains:

For whether a man had occupied his bandoone, or had ben an hearde man: labourer in the woodes, if he were taken, he suffered "intollerable necessitie."

For they were all bounde with one chaine of darknesse: whether it were a blasing Divinde, or a sweete songe of the byrdes among the thickes branches of the trees, or the belamente of hasty running water.

Of great noyle of the falling downe of stones, or the running of playing beastes which they sawe not, or the mightie noyle of roaring lime beastes, or the founde that amistered agraine in the holonesse of mountaines: these terrible thinges made them solwe [for very feare.]

For all the "earth shined with cleare light, and no man was hindered in his laboure.

Onelye upon them there fell a heauie night, an unage of darknesse that was to come upon them: Pea they were bound to them times more heauie then darknesse.

3 The sixe pillar that the Israelites had in Egypt. 8 The deliverance of the eayth fall. 10 The Lord smote the Egyptians. 20 The time of the people in the wolds-name. 21 Aaron stode betweene the lyning and the dead with his centurie.

Everethlesse, thy saintes had a very great light, whose boype they hearing, and not seeing their figure, for they sufferd not the same thinges, they thought them blessed.

And for that they dyd not hurt them noise of whom they had been wronged before, they thanked them, y besought them pardon of that they had ben enemies.

Therefore thou gauest them a burning pillar to leade them in the unknown way, and the same not to hurt them in their honourable journey.

But reason it was that they should leste the light and be put in the pyson of darknesse, which had kept the chyldren "thut up, by whom the incorrupt light of the lybe was to be gotten into the world.

After when they thought to lay the babes of the saintes, one chyld being call out, and preferred to repaye them, thou tolkest awaye the whole multitude of their chyldren, and destroyed them altogether in a mightie water.

Of that night were our fathers certified afore, that they knowing into what other they had genen censure, might be of good cheere.

Thus thy people receaue the health of the righteous, but the ungodly were destroyed.

G (iii) 8 For
For like as thou hast "reuened our enemies, so haft thou promisst us thy promisst called.

For the righteous children of the good men of a terrible, and made a godly lawe with one content, that the launts should in like maner recea together both good and evil, and that the fathers wold should first sing praises.

But there was hende a figure appearing of the enemies, and there was a miserable lamentation for children that were bewrayed.

The matter and the servauntes were punished after one maner: and lyke as the king, so suffred the common people:

So they had innumerable that byed with one kinde of death altogether: neither were the living sufficient to bury the dead, for in the tumbaling of an eye the noblest offspring of them was destroyed.

For whereas they would inrecte all things by reason of the unhappenteus, in the destruction of the first bone they acknowledged that this people was the children of God.

For all things were sly in silence, and when the night was in the midst of her course, the Almighty with in haste before the earth and reached unto the heaven.

Then the sightes of the cruel dreames veder them sodainly, and fearsuiniteness came upon them vnawares.

Then lay there one here, another there halfe dead [halfe quicke] and heled the cause of his death.

For the visons that veder them, heled them thele things afores, that they might not be ignoant wherefore they perished.

For the temptation of death touched the righteous also, and "among the multitude in the wilderness there was "inresurrection: but thy Wrath endued not long.

For the blamelesse man went in all the haste, and toke the battayle upon hym, brought forth the weapon of his ministration, even prayer and the reconciliation of inncence, let hym selfe against the Wrath, and so brought the inferne to an ende, declaring (thereby) that he was thy servaunte.

For he overcome the "multitude with bodly power of force of weapons: but with the word he subdued him that "vether, alleging the eth and concíliaunta made unto the fathers.

For when the dead were fallen downe by heapes one upon another, he strode in the middes, "parished the Wrath, and "parted the way that it might not come to the living.

And why? in his long garment was all the beautie, and in the four rooves of the house was the glory of the fathers drawn, and thy maitesse was written in the "crown of his head.

Unto thefe the defroerer gave place, and was astraide of them: for it was enough that they onlie talled of the Wrath.

For whyes they were yet mourning and making lamentation by the granes of the dead, they demised another fouldiuesse, so that they persevered them in their spaying, whom they had to fall out afores with prayere.

For the "veneriithee which they had defeated brought them into this ende, and made them forget the thinges that had already happened, that they might by tormentes fulfill their punishment which remaippes.

The booke of Iesu the sonne of Sirach which is called in latine Ecclesiasticus.

The prologue of Iesu the sonne of Sirach vnto his booke.

I u Lyons and great men have declared wisdom into by out of the lawe, one of the propheti, and one of other that followed them: in the which thinges Israel ought to be conformed by the reason of doctrine and wisdom: therefore they that have it, and read it, and only them selues be wise therewith, but some other also with reading and writing. After that my grand-father Jesus had great diligent labour to reade the lawe, the propheti, and other bookes that were left us of our fathers, and had well exercised them selues therein: he purposped also to write some thing of wisdom and good maners, to the intent that they which were willing to learne, and to be wise, myght have the same understanding, and be the more apt to leade a good conversation. Wherefore I eschew you to receive it loyally, to reade it with diligence, and to take it in good worth, though our worde be not so eloquent as the famous orators: for the thing that is written in the Hebrew tongue soundeth not so well when it is translated into another speache: Not only this book of mine, but also the lawe, the propheti, and other bookes sound farre otherwise then they do when they are spoken in their owne language.

Love in the thirtie and eight yeere when I came into Egypt in the time of Ptolomie Caxes, and continued there a long season. I founde bookes there left full of great and profounde learning, wherefore I thought it good and necessarie to befowre my diligence and trauale to interprete this booke: And considering that I had true, I laboured and dryd my bell to performe this booke, and to bying it into light, that the draungers also which are disposed to learne, myght apply them selues into good maners, and true according to the lawe of the Lord.

Ecclesiasticus.

14.  The love of God is honorable wisdom: loke unto whom it appeareth, they loue it, for they see what wonderful things it doth.

15. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and was made with the faithfulness in the mothers womb, it shall go with the chosen women, and shall be known of the righteous and faithfulness.

16. The fear of the Lord is the right of God's service.

17. That prefereth & justifieth the heart, and giveth health and gladness.

18. Who doareth the Lord shall be happy, and when he hath need of comfort he shall be blessed.

19. She hath bought her everlasting foundations with men, and is gotten to bee with her seed.

20. To fear God is the wisdom that maketh riches, and continueth all good with her.

21. She filleth the whole house with her goods, she garners with her treasure.

22. The fear of the Lord is the crown of wisdom, and giveth plenteous peace and health: he hath seen her and numbered her: Both these are the gifts of God.

23. Knowledge and understanding of wisdom hath he powerd out as rayne, and them that holde her fast hath he bought unto honour.

24. The fear of the Lord is the root of wisdom, her braunches are long lyfe.

25. In the treasures of wisdom is understanding's devotion of knowledge, but wisdom is abhorred of sinners.

26. The fear of the Lord driveth out sinne, and whoso is present, the desire away anger.

27. For he that is without fear can not be made righteous, and his wyfffull boldness is his owne destruction.

28. A patient man wyl suffere unto the lyne, and then shall he have the reward of joy.

29. A good understanding wylde his words for a lyne, and many mens lippes shall speake of his wisdom.

30. In the treasures of wisdom is the declaration of doctrine: but the sinner abhorreth the worship of God.

31. By some of thou desirw wisdom, kepe the commandement, and God shall gene her unto thee:

32. For the fear of the Lord is wisdom and nurturer: he hath pleasure in faith and longyng mekenesse, and he shall fill the treasures thereof.

33. Be not obstinate and unfaithful to the fear of the Lord, and come not unto hym with a double heart.

34. Be not an hypocrite in the sight of men, and take good heed what thou speakest.

35. Sait not thy selfe, lett thou happen to fall and dying thy soule to dishonour, and so diluter thy secretes, and cast thy doome in the myndes of the congregation: because thou wouldest not receaue the fear of God, because thy heart is full of saynednesse and deceipt.

The iij. Chapter.

1. He exhorteth the servauntes of God to righteousness, love, understanding, and patience. 2. Go trust in the Lord. 3. I curse upon them that are faynt hearted and impatient.

5. Forsake as golde and silver are tryed in the fire, even so are acceptable men in the furnace of adversity.

6. Believe in God and he shall helpe thee: order thy way a right, and put thy trust in hym: holde fast his fear and growe therein.

7. Ode that fear the Lord, take sure holde of his mercie, hyphnyke not away from from hym, that ye fall not.

8  Dye that fear the Lorde, believe him, and your reward shall not be empty.

9  Dye that fear the Lorde, trust in good things, and mercy shall come into you for pleasure.

10 Dye that fear the Lorde, let your love upon him, and your hearts shall be lightened.

11 Consider the old generations of men (ye children) and mark them well: *There was ever any one confounded that put his trust in the Lorde, who ever continued in his fear, and was forsaken; O! bow him, ye hee displeased that called faithfully upon hym?

12 For God is gracious and merciful, he forgoeth times in the time of trouble, and is a defender for at them that feke hym in the truth.

13 Wo be unto them that have a *fearfull heart, lusty lippes, and eunip occupied handes, and to the inner that goeth two manner of vaypes.

14 Wo be unto them that are saint harted, which put not their trust in God, and therefore shall they not be defended of hym.

15 Wo be unto you that haue lost patience, forsaken the right vaypes, and are turned backe into chaose vaypes: what will you do when the Lorde shall begin to blithe you?

16 They that fear the Lorde, wil not disobey his worde: and they that *love him, wil keep his commandementes.

17 They that fear the Lorde wil feke out the thynge that is pleasant unto hym: *and they that love him, be fulfilled with his lade.

18 They that fear the Lorde wil prepare their heartes, and humble their soules in his lyght.

19 They that fear the Lorde kepe his commandementes, and wil be patient tyll they fee hym selve.

20 Saying: *If we do not repent, we shall fall into the handes of the Lorde, and not into the handes of men.

21 For his mercy is as great as him selve.

The.iii. Chapter.

1 To our father and mother ought we to give double honour, to O! the blessing and curse of the father and mother. 2 No man ought over curiously to seare out the secretes of God.

The children of Israell are a congregation of the righteous, and their offspring is obedience and love.

Hee that feareth the Lorde, honoureth his father and mother, and both them servise as it were unto lodes.

Honour thy father and mother, in deed, in word, and in all patience, that thou mayest haue Gods blessing: and his blessing shall abide with thee at the last.

The blessing of the father establisheth the house of the children: but the mothers curse rooteth out the foundations.

Reioce not when the father is reioiced: for it is not honour unto thee, but a shame.

For the worshipp of a mans father, is his owne worship: & the reproche of the mother, is the dishoneste of the sonne.

My sonne, make much of thy father in his age, and greene hym not as long as he lyveth.

And of his understanding enlye, have patience with hym, and dispise hym not in thy strength.

For the good deede that thou livest unto thy father, shall not be forgotten: and and when thou thy false wants; it shall be rewarded thee: and for thy mothers offence thou shalt be compensated with good, yea it shall be founded for thee in righteousness.

And in the day of trouble thou shalt be remembered: thy sins also shall not away, yke as the plie in the fayre warme weather.

He that foraketh his father, that come to shame: and he that deseth his mother, is cursed of God.

By lorné, performe thy works with loving meekenesse, so that thou be loved above other men.

The greater thou art, the more humble thy selfe in all thynges, and thou shalt have faveour in the light of God.

Many are excellent and of renowne: but the secretes are revealed unto the meke.

For great power belongeth only unto God, and he is honoured of the loundy.

Seek not out the thynges that are about thy capacitie, and secrete not the grounde of such thynges as are to mightie for thee;

But loke what God hath commanded thee, thyneke upon that allway, be not curious in many of his works: for it is not needesful to thee to see with thyne eyes the thynges that are secrete.

Make not to much searcbe in superfuous thynges, and be not curious in many of his works: for many thynges are therewed unto thee already which be above the capacitie of men.

The medlyng with such, hath beguiled many a man, and tangled their wites in baunite.

Thou canst not see without eyes, therefore profess not the thyng that thou hast not.

An haarde heart shall scarce cupill at the last: and he that loueth baungers, shall perish them.

An heart that goeth two wayes shall not prosper: and he that is flowed of heart, lytell be worse and worse.

An obstinate heart shall be laden with sorowes, and the ungodly fumer will heape one time upon another.

The coumple of the proude hath no health, his footstepes shall be pluckt up: for the plant of some hath taken roote in hym.

The heart of hym that hath understandyng, shall perceve hys thynges: and a good care will gladly hearken unto widomme.

An heart that is wise and hath understandyng, will abaye from fumes, and increase in the works of ryghe-oulesse.

Water quencheth burning fire, and mercie reconcileth fumes.

God hath respect unto hym that is thankful: he thinketh upon him against the tyne to come, so that where he faileth he shall lynde a strong holde.

The III. Chapter.

1 Times must be done with gentlenesse. 2: The studie of widomme and her frute.

An exhortation to echewe cupill, and to do good.

1. When the sonne, because not the poore of his himes, and turne not away thyme eyes from hym that hath neede. Displese not an hungry soule, and dische not the poore in his necessite.

2. Greene not the heart of hym that is helpless, and wavishabe not the gyst from the neede.

4. Refuse not the payer of one that is in trouble, turne not away thyne face from the needy.

5. Cast not thyme eyes aside from the poore for any cupill, whyll that thou gue him not occasion to speake cupill of thee.

11. wisdom exalteth her children, receiveth them that seek her, a voyl go before them in the way of righteousness.

12. He that longeth her, longeth life: and they that seek her diligently, shall have great joy.

13. They that kepe her, shall inherit glory: for where the enterth in, there is the blessing of God.

14. They that honour her, shall be the surnautes of the holy one: and they that love her, are beloved of God.

15. Who do guech care unto her, shall judge the heathen: and he that hath respect unto her, shall dwell safely.

16. He that believeth her, shall have her in possession, and his generation shall endure.

18. Then shall he stablshe hym, byng the ryght way unto hym, make hym a glad man, shelve hym her secretes, and heape upon hym the treasures of knowledge, understanding of righteousness.

19. But if he go wrong, the shall forsake hym, gue hym over into the handes of destruction and ruine.

20. *By some, make much of the ympe, efcheive the thyng that is evill: 21 And so thy ypte shalke not to say the truth: (b) For there is a shame that byngeth sinne, and there is a shame that byngeth worshyp and fauour. 22. Accept no percon after thyne owne wyll, that thou be not confounded to thyne owne decay: be not ashamed of the nyghbour in his aduerite. 23 And kepe not backe thy countayle when it may do good, neither hyde thy wisdome in her beautie.

24. For in the tongue is wisdome knowde, so is understanding, knowledge, and learning in the talking of the wise, and stedfastnesse in the works of righteousness.

25. In no wise speake against the wynde of trueth: but be ashamed of the eyes of thyne owne ignorance.

26. Shame not to confess thyne erreur, and read not the course of the ricer.

27. And submit not thy selfe unto a foolish man, neither accept the person of the mightie.

28. And trueth thou not against the streeke: But for ryghteousnesse take paynes with all thy soule, and for the trueth trueth thou unto death, and God shall fight for thee against thyne enemies.

29. Be not hasty in thy tongue, neither flake and negligent in thy workes.

30. Be not as a lion in thyne owne house, destroyng thy housholde folkes, and oppressing them that are under thee.

31. *Let not thyne hande be stretcht out to receave, and shut Whenn thou wouldest gene.

The v. Chapter.

1. In riches may we not put any confidence. 7. The vengeanfce of God ought to be feared, and repentaunce may not be deferred.

2. Foluowde not the lust of thyne owne heart in thy strength.

3. And say not, thou have I had service: or who byng byng me under because of my works: For doubtlesse God shall avenge it.

4. And say not, I have sinned, and what evil hath happened me? For the almighty is a patern rewarder.

5. *Because thy sinne is forgott thee, be not therefore without fear, neither heape one sinne upon another.

6. *And say not, thiue, the metric of the Lord is great, he shall forgive me my sinnes he be never so many: For byke as he is mercifull, so goeth watch from hym also, and his indignation commeth downe upon sinners.

15 God hath destroyed the states of proude princes, and set by the necke in their stead.

16 God hath wicked the roots of the proude heathen, and planted the lowlye for them.

17 God hath overthrowen the landes of the heathen, & destroyed them unto the grounde: he hath caueseth them to wither away, he hath brought them to naught, & made the memorials of them to reade from out of the earth.

18 God hath destroyed the name of the proud, and left the name of the humble of pryde.

19 Pryde was not made for man, neither worthsulnesse for mens children.

20 The seede of them that seare God shall be brought to honour: but the seede whiche transgresseth the commandements of the Lord shall be shamed.

21 He that is the ruler among brethren, is holden in honour among them: and he that regardeth such as seareth the Lord, is acceptable in his sight.

22 The fear of the Lord causeth that the kingdome faileth not: but the kingdome is lost by cruelty and pryde.

23 Say not, what helpeth it me: and what good thing shall I haue hereafter?
24 Again, say not, I haue enough, how can I want?
25 When thou art in welfare, forget not adversity: and when it goeth not well with thee, haue a good hope that it shall be better:
26 For it is but a small thing unto God in the day of death to rewarde every man according to his wayes.
27 The adversity of an house maketh one to forget at pleasure: & when a man both his withkes are discovred, 28 Judge no man blessed before his death: for a man that be known in his children,
29 Bring not every man into thyne house: for the bilkesfull layeth waye doubtly, 30 Like as a partrych in a mause, so is the heart of the proud: and like as a spic that lovethe upon the fall of his neckloune.
31 For he turneth good unto evil, and slaundereth the chosen.
32 Of one sparkle is made a great fire, and of one bilkesfull man is blood increased: and an bilgeshely man layeth waye for blood.
33 Beware of the bilkesfull, for he imagineth wicked things, to bring thee into a perpetual shame.
34 If thou takest an alquitte into thee, he shall destroy thee in buquetness, and dyue thee from thyne obne wayes.

The xii. Chapter.

Unto whom we oughte to do good. 16 Enemies ought not to be trusted.

When thou wilt do good, knowe to whom thou doest it, and so that thou be greatly thanked for thy benefites.
*Do good unto the righteous, and thou shalt finde great reward, though not of him, yet [no doubt] the Lord him selue shall rewarde thee.
3 He standeth not in a good case that is alway occupied in evil, & greeveth no almesse: for the hyghest hateh the sinners, and hath mercie vpon them that shewe the bestes of repenance.
4 Geue thou binto such as feare God, and receue not a sinner.
5 As for the bilgeshely and sinners, he shall receounsee vengeance unto them, and kepe them to the day of wrath.
6 Geue thou bunto the good, and receue not the sinner, do bunto hym that is lowby, but geue not to the bilgeshely: for not the bread be geuen him, that he be not mightier then thy selue therin: for so that thou receauest rybyle as much euill, in all that good that thou doest unto him.
7 And why the highest hateh sinners, and shall rewarde vengeance to the bilgeshely.
8 In prosperity a friende shalbe knowen, in adversitye an enemy that not be hid.
The booke of Jesus

he may so deo opportunitie, he will not be satisfied with blood.
18 If a desirous come upon thee, thou shalt find him there first, and though he pretend to do thee solace, yet shal he vndermine thee.
19 He shall make his head, and clap his handes over thee for very gladnesse, and why he maketh many Orioles, he shall disquise his countenance.

The companies of the proude and of the rich are to be clechewed. 15 The love of God. 17 Like to companie with their like.

The xiii. Chapter.

If thou be called of a mighty man, absent thy selfe, so shall he call thee to shun the more oft.
11 Prasse not thou unto him that thou be not shut out: but go not thou face of, lest he forget thee.
12 With all not thy selfe from his speech, but believe not his many wordes: for with much communciation shall he tempt thee, and with a guile mocke that he question with thee of thy secrets.
13 The utterfull mynde of his shall make thy wordes, he shall not spare to do thee hurt, and to put thee in pailn.
14 Beware and take good heed to thy selfe, for thou walkest in peril of thy overthrowing: Now thou heardest his wordes, make thee as though thou wast in a beaire, and make vp.
15 Love God all thy lyfe long, and call upon him in thy neede.
16 Every beast loueth his like: even so let every man love his neighbour.
17 All selfe will rest to this like, and every man will companie with such as he is himself.
18 But as the dooles agree with the lande: so doth the beastly with the righteous.
19 What peace is there betweene bynga and a dogge: howe can the riche and the poore agree together?
20 The Wilde ass is the lions pray in the Widenesse: even to are poore men the meat of the riche.
21 Like as the proude may not aby with toodasses: even so doth the riche aby, the poore.
22 If a riche man faile, his frendes let him by againe: but when the poore faileth his acquaintance forfaite him.
23 If a riche man fall into an errour, he hath many helpers, he speaketh proude wordes, and yet men utter him: but if a poore man go wrong, he is punished yea though he speake wytely, yet can he have no place.

When
24. When the riche man speaketh, every heart holdeth his tongue, and loke what he speaketh, they prope it into the clothe: But if the poor man speaketh, they lay what followeth in this; and if he do amisse, they shall destroy hym.

25. Riches are good unto hym that hath no fume in his conscience: and pouer is a wicked thing in the mouth of the vngodly.

26. The heart of man changeth his contenenance, whether it be in good or euyll.

27. A chearfull contenenance is a token of a good heart: for it is an harde thing to knoe the thought.

The xiii. Chapter.

The offence of the tongue. 17 Man is but a bene thing; 21 Happy is he that continueth in vsdome.

1. Blessed is the man that hath not fallen with the wayde of his mouth, he is not picked with the conscience of fume.

2. Happy is he that hath not heaustes in his minde, and is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

3. He beconameth not a crouetous man and anygarde to be riche, and what should anenious man do with money?

4. He that putth all his carefullnesse heape together, brightnously, gathereth foule folkes, and another man shall make good care with his goodes.

5. He that is wicked unto him selfe, how he should be good unto other men, how caufeth one have any pleasure of his goodes.

6. There is nothing worse then when one disanourreth him selfe: and this is a re-ward of his wickednesse.

7. Ife do any good, he both it not knowling thereof and against his will, and at the last he declareth his ingratiouyne.

8. Anygarde hath a wicked eye, he turneth away his face, and despiseth men.

9. A crouetous mans eye hath never enough in the portion of wickedness, until the time that he lyther away, and have lost his owne soule.

10. A wicked eye enuieth bead, and there is unrectenesse upon his fable.

11. By fome, do good to thy felle of that thou haft, and geue the Lord his due offeringes.

12. Remember that death tarieh not, and bow that the grave is not shewed unto thee: for the contenauce of this world shall dye the death.

13. Do good unto thy friendes before thou dye, and according to thy ablilite reach out thy hande and geue unto the poore.

14. Be not disappointed of the good day, and let not the portion of the good desire overpaue thee.

15. Shalt thou not leue thy travailes and labours unto other men: in the debuding of the heritage given and take, and sanctifie thy foute.

16. Work thou righteousnes before thy death; for in the hell there is no meate to finde.

17. *All felle shall fade away lyke a garment, and lyke a withering leafe in a greene tree.

18. Some grove, some are cast dowlne, even so is the generation of felle and bloody one commety unto an ende, another is done, and this is the condition of all times, thou shalt dye the death.

19. All transtoric things that fayle at the last, the Worker thereof that go Withal.

20. Every chosen worke hable withked, and he that needed Withall shall have honour therein.

21. Blessed is the man that keepeth hym in vsdome, and exerciseth him felle in understanding, and with discretion shall thinke upon the zoeknowledge of God.

22. While he considereth the wayes of vsdome in his heart, hath understanding in his secretes.

23. Goeth after her as one that seeketh her out, and continueth in her wayes.

24. He lootheth in at her sunedowes, he hearteneth at her dooeres.

25. He taketh his rest beside her houte, and fasteneth his fate in her walles: he shall pitch his tent npe into her hand, and in his tent shall good things rest forevermore.

26. He shall set his children under her couering, he shall dwell under her banches.

27. Under her couering shall he be defended from her heate, and in the gloire that he rest.
The booke of Iesus

Chapter.

1. That searcheth God, will do good: Who so repeateth the false, shall obtaine wipe done.

2. As an honorabill mother shall the meece hym, and he as his wife maried of a virgin that receaueth him.

3. With the bread of lyfe and understanding that she receueth him, gueue him the water of wholsome wildeome to drink.

4. If he be constant in her, she shall not be moued; and if he holde him fast by her, she shall not come to communyon.

5. She shall bring him to honour among his neypbournes, and in the midst of the congregation shall open his mouth, with the spirite of wipe done and understanding that she shall lift him, and clothe him with the garment of glory.

6. She shall heape the treasure of mytth and ioye upon him, and gueue him an everlasting name to heritance.

7. Fools the men will not take holde upon her, but such as have understanding, shall meere her: Fools the men shall not see her, for she is farre from pyde and diecte.

8. Men that go about with eyes, will not remember her: but men of truth she be founde in her, and shall prosper even into the beholding of God.

9. Praise is not seemly in the mouth of the wngodly, for he is not sent of the Lord.

10. But if praise come of wipe done and be plentiful in a saythfull mouth, then the Lord will prosper it.

11. Say not thou, it is the Lordes fault that I am gone by: for thou ballest not do the thing that God hath.

12. Say not thou, he hath caused me to do wrong: for he hath no neede of the wngodly.

13. God hateth al abomination of error, and they that feare God will love none such.

14. God made man from the beginning, and left him in the hande of his counsell: He gane his commandementes and preceptes.

15. If thou wilt obserue the commandementes and keepe acceptable saythfull这对 euere, they shall preferre thee.

16. He hath set water and lyfe before thee, reaue out thine hande unto which thou wilt.

17. Before man is lyfe and death, good and evill: take what him lyketh, shall be gnen him.

18. For the wipe done of God is great and mightie in power, and beholdeth all things continually:

19. The eyes of the Lord are upon them that feare him, and he knoweth all the warkes of man.

20. He hath commanded no man to do wngodly, neither hath he given any man licence to sinne: for he blesseth not a multitude of insidels and unprofitable children.

The xvi. Chapter.

1. Of unhappie and wicked children. 19. No man can hyde him selfe from God.

2. An exhortation to the receaung of instruction.

3. Elite not thou in the multitude of wngodly children, and have no pleasure in them if they feare not God.

4. For one that hath understanding, may a whole cite be wip haben : but though the wngodly be many, yet shall be wafted through them.

5. Many such things hath mine eye seene, and greater things then these have I heard with myne ears.

6. *In the congregation of the wngodly shall a fire burne, and among undayshal people shall the wrath be kindled.

7. *The olde gauntesse optayned no grace for their times, which were destroyed trusting to their owne strength:

8. Mth.
In the sonne of Sirach.

8 Neither spared he them among whom Lot had a Stranger: but linore them, and abhorred them because of the pride of their words.
9 He had no pitie upon them: but destroyed all the people that were so scound in time.

10 And as Solomon as he overlaide the one hundred thousand that gathered them together in the hardnesse of their heart, in afflicting them, in pitting them, in limiting them, and healing them with mercy and chastisement: it were maruell if one being hardnecked should be free:

11 For mercy & wrath is with him, he is both nightie to forgive, and to poynte out displeasure.
12 Like as his mercy is great, even so is his punishment also: he judgeth a man according to his words.

13 The bugody shall not escape his yowle, & the long patience of him that showeth mercy, shall not byde behind.
14 He will make a place for every merci-sufficient beeble, and every man shall finde according to his works.
15 The Lord hardened Pharaoh that he should not know him, and that his workes might be known upon the earth under the heauen.
16 His mercy is known to all creatures, he hath seperated his light from the darkenesse with an adamannt.
17 Say not thou, I will hide my selfe from God: for who will thinke upon me from above? I shall not be knodun in to great an heape of people: for what is my soule among so many creatures:

18 Beholde, the heauen, yea the heauen of heauens of God, the deep, the earth, and all that therein is, shall be moved at his presence.
19 The mountaynes, the hilles, and the foundations of the earth shall shake for feare, when God visite them.
20 These thinges doth no heart understand: but he understandeth every heart.
21 And who understandeth his workes? No man seeth his names, and the most part of his workes are secret.
22 Who will declare the workes of his righteousness? or who shall able to abide them? For the covenant is farre from some, and trying out of men is in the ende.
23 He that is humble of heart, thinketh upon such thinges: but an unlytle and erroneous man casteth his minde into foolish things.
24 By sonne, hearken thou unto me, and learne understanding, and marke my workes with thy heart: I will gree thee a sure doctrine, and plainly shall I instruct thee.
25 Marke my workes then in thy heart: for in righteousness of the spirite do I speake of the wonders that God hath wrought among his workes from the beginning, & in the truth do I shew the knowledge of him.
26 God hath let his workes in good order from the beginning, a part of them hath he hidde from the other.
27 He hath garnished his workes from everlasting, and their beginnings according to their generations: they are not hungrye no weered in their labours, nor easse from their offices.
28 None of them hundred another, neither was any of them disobedient unto his workes.
29 After this God looked upon the earth, and killed it with his goodnesse.
30 With all maner of living beasts hath he covered the ground, and they all shalbe turned into earth againe.

The xvii. Chapter.

1 The creation of man, and the goodnesse that God hath done unto him.
2 Of Ames, 26 and repentance.
3 Of the shapen man of the earth, made him after his owne image, and turned him into earth againe, and cleasned him with his owne strength.
4 He gave him the number of dapes and cernayme, yea and gave him power of the thinges that are upon earth.

Gen.ii.4
The booke of Iesus

Endeavour:
5 He gave them a spirit and a speache to declare his worthes, & killed them with instruction and understanding.
6 He created for them also the knowledge of the spirit, filled their hearts with understanding, and shewed them good and evil.
25 He set his eye upon their hearts, declaring unto them his great and noble woor'es:
8 That they should payre his holy name together, rejoynce of his wonders, and be telling of his noble actes.
9 * Beside this, he gave them instruction, and the lawe of life for an heritage, that they might now know that they were mortall.
10 He make an everlasting covenant with them, and shewed them his righteounesse and judgemenites.
11 They sawe the majestie of his glory with their eyes, and their ears heard the majestie of his voice, and he saide unto them: be ware of all unrighteous things.
12 He gave every man also a comande ment concerning his neighbour.
13 Their wares are euery before him, and are not hid from his eyes.
14. Every man from his youth is euened to euill, and their sinne hearts can not become(b) sleshe.
15 * He hath set a ruler upon every people, * but Israel is the Lordes portion:
16 Whom he nourished with discipline as his first bone, and geneth him most loving light, and doth not forsake him.
17 All their woor'es are as the same, in the light of God, & his eyes are allway looking upon their wares.
18 All their unrighteousnesse are manifest vado him, and all their Wickednesse are open in his light.
19 And as he is mercifull and knoweth his woor'e, he doth not leaue them nor forsake them, but careth them.
20 * The mericke that a man sheweth is (c) as a scale with him, and the grace that is gonne to man preferueth him as the apple of an eye, and gencly repentance to their sones and daughters.

21 At the last shall he awake, and reward every man upon his head, & shall turne them together into the weathermost partes of the earth.
22 * But unto them that Wyll repent he hath given the way of righteounesse: As for such as be wake, he comforteth them, suffereth them, and lendeth them the portion of the vtorite.
23 O turne then unto the Lord, forsake thy synnes, make thy prayer before the Lord, do the lesse offence.
24. Turne againe unto the Lord, for he Wyll hang thee from darkness unto hollome light, forsake thyne unrighteounesse, be an bitter enemie to abhominacion.
25 Learne to know the righteounesse & judgemenites of God, and in the portion that is set forth for thee, and in the prayer of the most hye God.
26 Go in the portion of the holy woor'e with such as be lying, & gene thankes unto God.
27 * Who wille payre the Lord in the hel abide not thou in error of the vngodlie, but gene hye thankes before death.
28 As to the dead, thankfulness premiss from him as nothing: Sue thou thankes in thy hye, yea whyle thou art lying and whole shalt thou gene thankes, and payre God, and receiv in his mercie.
29 O howe great is the tonyng kindnesse of the Lord, and his mercifull goodnes unto such as turne unto him?
30 For all things may not be in man, and why? the sone of man is not immortall, and he bath pleasure in the vtorite of Wickednesse.
31 What is more clear then the sone: yet shall it faile.
32 O? what is more wicked then the thyng that sleshe and blood bath imagined: and that same shalle reproued.
33 The Lord beareth the power of the hye heaven, and al are but earth and ashes.
The marvellous works of God. 6 The mistic and wretchednes of man. 9 Against God ought we not to complain. 21 The performing of vows.

1. That lyke, for evermore, made all things together: God only is righteous, and there is none other but he, and remaineth a victorious king for ever.

2. He ordereth the world with the power of his hand, and all things obey his will: for he governeth all things by his power, and bendedeth the holy things from the profane.

3. Who shall be able to expresse the works of him? Who shall sceake out the grounde of his noble acts.

4. Who shall declare the power of his greatnesse, or who shall take upon him to tell out his meriues?

5. As for the wondorous works of the Lord, there may nothing be taken from them, nothing may be put into them, neither may the grounde of them be found out.

6. But when a man hath done his best, he must beares againe: and when he thoughteth to come to an ende, he must goe against to his labour.

7. What is man? Wherefore is he worthy? What good or can he do?

8. If the number of a mans dages be a hundred thouandyeres, it is much; and no man hath certaine knowledge of his death.

9.Lyke as the drops of raine are unto the sea, and as a granell stone is in comparison of the sande: so are these fewe yeres to the days of everlasting.

10. Therefore is the Lord patient with them, and pouereth his meric upon them.

11. He lade and perceaued the thoughts and imaginations of their heart: that they were evil, therefore heaped he by his mercifull goodness upon them, and helde them the way of righteounesse.

12. The meric that a man hath reacheth to his neighbour, but the meric of god is upon all followers: He chasteneth, he teacheth and nurtureth: yea even as a shephearde turneth against his flocke, so doth he all them that receaue chaffenung,nurture, and doctrine.

13. Mercifull is he unto them that diligently seek after his judgments.

14. My sonne, when thou doest good, make no starving at it: and whatsoever thou giest, speake no discomfortable words.

15. Shall not the dead be coole the heart: even so is a word more better than a stone.

16. Is not a friendly word a good honest gift: but a gratious man geyeth them both.

17. A foole shall cast a stone in the teeth and that roughly: and a gift of the garde putteth out the eyes.

18. Get thee righteounes before thou come to judgement, learne before thou speake, and go to pynke or ever thou be sikke.

19. Examine and judge thy selfe before the judgement come, and so shalt thou finde grace in the sight of God.

20. Humble thy selfe afore thou be sikke: and whilst thou mayest, wynt thy conversation.

21. Be not let to pay thy vowe in good time, and tary not to be justified with thy death: for the reward of God endureth for ever.

22. Before thou playest, prepare thy sould, and be not as one that emptie God.

23. Think not the wretchfull indignation that lieth at the ende, and the hour of benedict when he shall turne away his face.

24. When thou hast mough, remember the time of hunger: and when thou art rich, thinke upon the time of poorene and heartenesse.

25. From the morning until the evening the time is changed, and all such things are done done in the sight of God.

26. A wyple man searcheth God in all things, and in the days of transgression he keepeth his selfe from time: but the wise both not observe the time.

27. A discreete man hath pleasure in righteous done, and he that findeth her, maketh much of her.

28. They that have had understanding have dealt wyple in words, have understood the truth and righteounesse, and have fought out wyple sentences and and judgementes.

29. The chiefe authoritie of speaking, is of the Lorde alone: for a moste man hath but a dead heart.

30. * Folowe not thy lustes, but turne thee from thyne owne wyse.

31. For if thou gentest thy soule her desires, it shall make thyne enemies to laugh thee to scorne.

32. Take not thy pleasure in great bluptynesse, and meddle not to much withall.

33. Make not to great sheare of the thing that thou hast wonne by advauntage, let thou fall into pouertie and have nothing in thy purs, els thou shouldest slaunberously lye in wayte for thyne owne wyse.

The xix. Chapter.

1. * Laboure thy man that is genned unto dumkenes, shall not be right: and he that mak not, not much of small things, shall fall by lit tle and little.

2. * Wine and women make wyse men runagate, and put men of bnderstan ding to reproofe:

3. And he that companyeth abuterses, shall become an impudent man: mothers and women shal have him to heritage, yea he shall set by to a great example, and his soule shall be rooted out of the number.

4. * He that is hasty to geue credence, is light minded, and doth against him selfe.

5. Who so reprobeth in vicknedness, shall be punished: or he that refcheth plea itures, condueth his owne soule: he that refrancheth his tongue, may lyue with a troublesome man: he that hateh to be reformed, his lyv may be shortened:
he that abhorreth babling of wyordes, quenched vickndes.

6. He that offendeth against his owne soule, shall repent it: and he that reop reth in vrickeses, shall be punished.

7. Rejoyce not a wicked and curious wyse wryse, and then thou shalt not be hindered.

8. Sheeue thy ceretes neither to friende nor foe: and if thou hast offended, tell it not out.

9. For if thou hearken but to chee, and maketh thee: and when he findeth oport unitye, he shall hate thee, and so shall he alway saye about thee.

10. If thou hast hewd a wyse against thy neighbour, lett be dead within thee: and be sure thou shalt haue no harne thereby.

11. A fool swallples with a wyse, lyke as a Woman that is payned with bea ring of a childe.

12. Lyke as an arroive hotte in a thigh of flesh, so is a wyse in a fooles heart.

13. * Tell thy friende his faute, let he be igneous, and say, I haue not done it:
9: if he haue spoken, that he doth no more.

14. Reproue thy neighbour, that he keep his tongue: and if he haue spoken, that he say it no more.

15. Tell thy neighbour his faute, for oft times an offence is made: and geue not credence to every wyse.

16. A man falleth sometime with his tongue, but not with his wit: for what is he that hath not offended in his tongue?

17. Geue thy neighbour warning before then thou threaten hym: and geue place unto the lade of the Lorde.

18. The faire of the Lorde is the first de gree to be receaue of hym: lie bysome obtaineth his lorde.

19. The knowledg of the commaundau mentes of the Lorde, is the doctrine of lyse: and they that obey him, shall re cerne the fruite of immortalite.

20. The faire of God is all bysome: and he that is a righteous man keepe the lade.

21. If a seruante saye unto his master, I wyl not do as it pleaseth thee: though afterwarde he do it, he shall displea him that nouriseth hym.

22. As for the doctrine of vicknednes, it is no bysome, the prudence of sinners is no good understanding: it is but vickn nes, and abomination, and a blasphe ming of bysome.

23. A
Chapter

The 60th Chapter.

Of correction and repentance. 6 Of the gift of the wise man, and of the fool.

Of lying.

One man reproacheth his neighbour oftentimes, but not in due season: Again, some man holdeth his tongue, and he is wise and discreet.

It is much better to give warning and to reproach, than to beare evil wyll: for that knowledge him selve openly, halfe preferred from hurt and destruction.

Lyke as when a gilded man through desire and lust desilte a mayde: even fo is it with him that blzth violence and vmbrediousness in the lyke.

O how good a thing it is, a man that is reproved to shew openly his repentance: for so shal he escape wyllfull time.

Some man keepeth silence and is founde wyll: but he that is not ashamed what he saith, is hateful.

Some man holdeth his tongue, because he hath not understanding of the language: and some man keepeth silence, waiting a convenient time.

A wyll fulldold his tongue till he see opportunitie; but a wanton and undiscreeed boyd shall regard no time.

He that bath many wrothes, shall hurt his owne soule: and he that taketh authority upon him unrighteously, smale hurt.

Some man bath oftentimes prosperitie in wicked things: Again, some man getheth much, and hath shame to ake.

There is some gift that is nothing worth: Again, there is some gift whyle because he shoulde not be knodwen, he prevented thee.

And though he be so speke that he can do thee no harme, yet when he may finde opportunity, he shal do some euill.

A man may be knodwen by his face, and one that hath understanding may be perceaved by the looke of his countenance.

A mans garment, laughter, and going, declare what he is.

A blynde is double.

There is an humilitie for glories sake, and some committeth to worship from lowe estate.

Some man prythe much for a little price, and multi pay for it mean folde.

A wyll man with his wordes maketh him selfe to be beloved: but the wyllfull tales of foole shalbe publishd out.

The gift of the wrothes shall do thee no good, no yet of the curious, for his opportunitie is seuen folde: for he lotheth to receave many thinges for one.

He shalh graue little, lay he gave much: he openeth his mouth and cryeth out, as it were one that cryeth out boide.

To day he leendeth, to morrow he greteth: and such a man is to be hatred of God and man.

The foole saith, I have no freend, I have no thankes for all my good deedes: yea even they that eate my bread speake no good of me: O how oft and of how many shall he be laughed to somne:

He taketh a more pesilus fall by litle wrothes, then if he sulp upon the ground: even so that the fall of wicked men come hastily.

In the mouth of him that is untaught, are many unconvenient and buntte wrothes.

A wyll sentence shall not be allowed at the mouth of the foote: for he priceth it not in due season.

Some man lucrith not, because he hath not wherewithall, and in this rest he shalbe stunged.

Some man is that destroyeth his owne soule with shame, and so an wyll
The booke of Iesus

And vsyde bodyes take destroypth he it, and wth accepting of persons that shall avowe him selfe.

23 Some man prompeth his friend a gift for vsyde shame; and getteth an enemi of him for nought.

24 A lyse is a wicked shame in a man: yet shall it be euere in the mouth of the vsyde.

25 A thief is better then a man that is accustomed to lyse: but they both shall have destruction to heritage.

26 The conditions of lyser are unhonest: and their shame is ever with them.

27 A vsyde man shall bring him selfe to honour with his wordes: *and he that hath understanding shall be set by among great men.

28 He that lyseth his hande shall cause his heape of come: he that worketh righteounesse shall excalde, and he that pleaseth great men, shall escape much euill.

29 Beuwardes and giftes blinde the eye of the vsyde, and make him dumbe that he can not tell men their faute.

30 *Wyldome that is hid, and treasure that is hoarded, by what profite is in them both?

31 Better is he that keepeth his ignoble secretly, then a man that hiddeth his wyldome.

32 The necessarie patience of him that foloweth the Lorde is better then he that governeth his lyse without the Lorde.

The xxj. Chapter.

1 Not to continue in sinne. 5 The prayer of the afflicted. 6 To hate to be reproved.
17 The mouth of the vsyde man. 26 The thought of the foolse.

I

15 When a man of understanding heareth a wyle wyse, he shall commend it and make much of it: but if a boulputious man heare it, he shall have no pleasure therein, but call it beseide his backe.

16 The talking of a foolse is lyke an heavy burthen by the wewe: but to heare a wile man speake, it is pleasure.

17 Where a doubt is in the congregation, its asked at the mouth of the lyse, and they shall ponder his wordes in their heartes.

18 Lyse as it is a house that is destroyed, even so is Wyldome into a foolse: as for the knowledge of the vsyde, it is but barke wordes.

19 Doctrine is unto him that hath no understanding,
The sonne of Sirach.

20 A fool seeth vp his boye with laughter: but a wyse man shalasse laugh secretely.

21 Learning is by a wyse man a jewel of gold, and lyke an armlet upon his right arm.

22 A fool is more then his neighbours house: but one that hath experience shalbe ashamed at the person of the niggte.

23 A fool bylly peape in at the windowe into the house: but he that is bel nurtured bylly stande without.

24 A fool is standeth heartening at the doore: but he that is wyse wyll be ashamed.

25 The liopes of the unwyse wyll be telling soule the things: but the andes of such as have understanding shalbe valued in the balaunce.

26 The heart of tooles is in their mouth: but the mouth of the wyse is in their heart.

27 When the ungodly curseth the (b) blamer, he curseth his owne soule.

28 A prime accuser of other men shal be his owne soule, and be hated of every man: but he that keepeth his tongue and is discreet, that come to honour.

The xxii. Chapter.

1 Of the sluggard. 2 Not to speake much to a fool. 3 A good conscience feared not.

(1) Though he be head up, yet may it be done, but the infente feste may not be done, as Iheb. 19. 9. 10. 11. 12. Stamp in the stone, and weigheth it in the bout: but the face of a stone both passe them both.

A Sloothfull bodie is enclosed of a stone of delaye, and every man wyll speake to his dispayle.

A Sloothfull bodie is made of the doyng of men, and every one that toucheth him must walke his handes agayne.

A unurtrued soule, is the dishonoure of the father: a foolish daughters halbe little regarded.

A wyse daughter is an heritage unto her husband: but the that cometh to dishonesty, burngeth her father in heausesse.

A daughter that is past shame, dishonestly, both her father and her husband: the ungodly shall regarder her, but they both shall despise her.

A tale out of time, is as musick in mourning: but wydome knoweth the seasons of correction and doctrine.

If children lyne honestly and have wherewithal, they shall put away the shame of their parents:

But if children be pride with hautes and foolishnes, they blot out the nobilitie of their kinred.

Who so teacheth a fool, is even as one that greeveth a pestilarde together, as one that telleth a tale to him that heareth him not, and as one that capeth a man out of an heap sleep.

Who so telleth a fool of wydome, is even as a man which speaketh to one that is a sleepe: when he hath tode his tale, he faileth, what is the matter?

11 When one dyeth, lamentation is made for him, because the light fayleth him: even so, let men moune over a fool, for he wanteth understanding. Make but little weeping because of the dead, for he is come to rest: but the lyfe of the fool is wyll then the death.

12 Seven dayes do men moune for him that is dead: but the lamentation over the wynde and ungodly should enure all the dayes of their lyfe.

13 Take not much with a fool, and go not with him that hath no understanding: beware of him, lest it turne thee to trauaille, and thou shalt not be defied with his name. Depart from him, and thou shalt finde rest, and shalt not be dravene backe into his foolishnes.

14 What is heauner then leade: and what shoulde a fool be called els but leade?

15 Sande, fatte, and a lump of iron is easier to beare, then an unwyse foolish, and ungodly man.

16 Wyke as the bande of wood bounde together in the foundation of the house, can not be loosd: even so is it with the heart that is established in the thought of counsel. The thought of the wyse shall never beare, nor be offended at any time.

not abide the wunde and scorne: even so is a foules heart as a wunde in his imagination, he searcheth at every thing, and cannot endure.

3 A whoring heart in the imagination of a foule will not ever stand in a field: but he that abideth in the commandements of God, will alwayes fear.

He that uppeth a mans eye, bringeth forth tears: and he that picheth the heart, bringeth forth the meaning and thought.

20 He that casteth a stone at the birds, feareth them away: and he that blasphemeth his frend, beaketh friendship.

21 Though thou dreddest a wound at thy frend, yet be pacient not: for thou mayst come againe to thy frend.

22 If the speake sorely, fear not: for ye may be agere together againe, except it be that thou blasphemeth him, bidayne him, open his secretes, and wounde him

23 Be faithfull unto thy neighbour in his poudre, that thou mayst rejoice with him also in his prosperity: abide sedatelye in the time of his trouble, that thou maist be hope with him in his heritage: for poudre is not alwayes to be contemned, nor the rich that is foolish to be had in estimation.

24 Lyke as the vapour and smoke goeth out at the oven before the fire: even so evill wordes rebukes, and threatenes goe before bloodshedding.

25 Be not ashamed to defend thy frend; as for me I will not hide my face from him though he should do me harme: Whosoever hearteth it, shall beare of him.

26 Who shal set a watch before my mouth: and a sicke sate upon my lippes, that I fall not with them, and that my tongue destroy me not:

The xxiii. Chapter.

1 Prayer against pride, lecherie, and glutony. 2 Of otheres, blasphemy, and on yse communication. 3 Of the three kindes of times. 4 Many times proceed of adulterie. 5 Of the feare of God.

1 Lord, father and gouernour of my lyfe, leave me not in their imagination and counsell. Do let me not fall in such reprobate.

2 Who will keepe my thought with the foure, and the doctrine of the wondome in myne heart: that he spare not myne ignorance, that I fall not with them.

3 Let myne ignorance increase, that myne offences be not many in number, and that my times exceede not: lest I fall before myne enemies, and to my adversarie rejoice, whole hope is farrer fow the more.

4 O Lord, thou father and God of my lyfe, leave me not in their imagination: Do let me not have a proude looke, but turne alwayes all holuplutionneste fro me.

5 Take from me the lustes of the body, let not the desires of uncleanesse take holode upon me,

6 And gree me not over into an unthankfull and obstinate wunde.

7 Heare me O ye children, I will gree you a doctrine how ye shall order your mouth: who kepeth it shall not perish through his lippes, nor be hurt through wicked workes.

8 As for the inner, he shalbe taken in his owne bannesse: he that is proude and cursed, shall fall therein.

9 Let not thy mouth be accustomed with swearing, for in there are many fals: let not the nameing of God be continually in thy mouth, and meddles not with the names of saints, for thou shalt not be cleared of them.

10 For lyke as a seruant which is often punished, can not be without some sort: even do whatsoever he be that sweareth and nameth God, shall not be cleansed purged from sinne.

11 A man that bath much swearing shall be filled with wickednesse, and the plague shall nevere go from his house: if he beget his brother, his fault shall be upon him, if he knoweledge not his name, he maketh a double offence, if the sweare in baine, he shall not be founde righteous: for his house shall be full of plagues.

12 * The byodes of the sweare bringeth death, God grant that it be not founde in the house of Jacob: but they that fear fear God eschew all such, and ye not wetering in sinne.

3. The net thy mouth to unhonest and filthy talking, for it is the word of sinne.

E 14. Remember thy father and thy mother, when thou art set among great men: lest God forget thee in their sight, and let them giving in thy custome, suffer rebuke, and wishe not to have ben borne, and to curse the day of thy nativitie.

* The man that is accursoned with the wordes of blasphemie, will never be reformed all the daies of his lyfe.

16. In time this is to much, but the third hunrth wearth and destruction: "An hot flamme can not be quenched (even like a burning fire) till it have swallowed by some thing: even so an unchaste man hath no rest in his slepe, till he have knitted a fire.

All bread is sweeter to an whoremonger, he will not leave of till he yee.

18. An un that breaketh wedlocke, and regardeth not his soule, but earth, & the whoe setteth me? I am compassed about with darkenesse, the valles cover me, nobody feeth me, whom neede I to feare? the hyghest will not remember my names.

He understandeth not that his eyes se all thinges, for all such feare of men desp. away the feare of God from hym: for he feareth only the eyes of men, and considereth not that the eyes of the Lord are clearer then the same, beholding all the wapes of men, the ground of the deepe, and looking even to mens heartes in secrete places.

20. The Lord God knowes all thinges: ever they were made, and after they be brought to passe also he looketh upon them all.

21. The same man that be openly punished in the secretes of the cite, & that abode lyke a young horse sole: and when he thinketh least upon it, he shall be taken.

22. Thus shall he be put to shame of every man, because he wouldon not understand the feare of the Lord: And thus that it go alio with every lyke that leauch her husbande, and geteth inheritance by a strange marriage.

23. First, she hath ben unfaithfull unto the lyfe of the hyghest: secondly, she hath forsaken her owne husbande: thirdly, the haly played the whole in adulterie, & gotten her children by an other man.

24. She shalbe brought out of the congregations, and her children shalke looke upon.

25. Her children shall not take roote: and as for: fruite her branches shal be burnt none.

26. A shamefull report shall be leave behind her, and her dishonour shall not be put out.

27. And they that remayn, shall knowe that there is nothing better then the feare of God, and that there is nothing sweeter then to take heed unto the commandements of the Lord.

28. A great worship is to follow the Lord: for long lyke shalbe receaved of hym.

The xxiii. Chapter.

1 A praise of wisse of proceeding southe of the mouth of God. 6 Of her works and place where the reftie.
8 I my selfe alone have gone round about the compass of heaven, and pearc led the grounde of the deepe.
9 I have walked in the floodes of the sea, and have stande in all landes, my dono tions in every people, and in every na tion, and with my power have I tro-den downe the heartes of all, both lyre and lode.
10 In all these things also I brought red,
and a dwelling in some inheritance.
11 Sothe createurs of all things gave me a commandement, and he that made me, appointed me a tabernacle, and far unto me: Let thy dwelling be in Jacob, and thine inheritance in Israel, a royal lyse amonge my chosen.
12 "I was created from the beginning and before the world, and shall not leave of unto the world to come: In the holy habitation have I reigned before hym, and so was I established in Zion.
13 "In the holy eire rested I unlike maner, and in Jerusalem was my power.
14 I took roote in an honorable people, even in the portion of the Loye and in his heritage, and kept me in the fullnesse of the saunes.
15 I am set by an hye like a Cedar upon Libanus, and as a Cipers tree upon the mount Hermon.
16 I am exalted byke a palmce tree in Cades, and as a sole plant in Jericho, as a fayre Wine tree in the fielde, and am exalted like as a plantaine tree by the water side.
17 I have gevenc a smell in the streetes as the Eunamon and Balame that hath to good a fawour,pea a sweete odour haue
I givenc as it were ime of the best: I haue made my dwelling to smell as it were of Rofin,Salbanum,of Cloxes, Incense, and as Libanus when it is not heaten downe, and myne odoure is as the pure balame.
18 As the Terebit am I stretched out my branches, and my branches are the branches of honour and loung fawour.
19 As the drye haue I brought forth fruite of a fayre saufe, and my fruicres are the fruite of honour and riches.
20 I am the mother of beautie,of loue, of scare,of knowledge, and of holy hope: I gave eternall things to all my children to whom God hath commanaded.
21 In me is all hope of lyse and trueth,
Of three things which please God, and of three which he hateth. 7 Of nine things that be not to be suspect, and of the tenth, is Chiefly of the malice of a woman.

1 These things there are that my heart foureth, which be also allowed before God and men: the bruith of brethren, the love of neighbours, a man and wife that agree well together.

2 These things there be which my soul hateth, and I bitterly abhorre the life of them: a poor man that is pounde, a rich man that is a lyar, and an old body that doteth and is wanstrate.

3 If thou hast gathered nothing in thy youth, what wilt thou find then in thine age?

4 O howe pleasant a thing is it when gray head men are discrete, and when the elders can give good counsell.

5 O howe conetically a thing is Wondrous unto aged men: for understanding is counsel to men of honour is a glorious thing.

6 The doting of olde men, is to have much experience: there where God is their worship.

7 There be nine things which I have judged in my heart to be happy, and the tenth will I tell soothly men with my tongue: A man that while he lieth hath joy of his children, and feeth the fall of his enemies.

3 Well is hym that dwelleth with an houblife of understanding, and that had not fallen with his tongue, and that hath not ben faune to serue such as are bumeete for him.

9 Well is hym that findeth a faithfull friend, and well is him which talketh of wyssome to an ear that heareth hym.

10 O howe great is he that findeth wyssome and knowledge: ver is he not a boun hym that searcheth the Lord.

11 The feare of God hath set it sete above all things.

12 Blessed is the man into whom it is granted to have the seare of God: unto whom shall he be listened that kepeth it fast.

13 The seare of God is the beginning of his loue: and the beginning of faith, is to cleane fast unto it.

14 The heaviness of the heart is all the punishment, and the wickednesse of a woman goeth above all.

15 All punishment and plague is nothing in comparison of the plague of the heart: even fo, al wickednesse is nothing to the wickednesse of a woman.

16 What so ever happeneth unto a man, is nothing in comparison of it that his evil willers do unto him: and al vengeance is nothing to the vengeance of the enemie.

17 There is not a more wicked head then the head of the serpent: and there is no wrath above the wrath of a woman.

18 If I will rather dvel with a lion and dragon, then to kepe house with a wicked wyse.

19 The wickednesse of a woman shameth her face, she that molest her countenaunce as it were a beare, and as a shepe that the bowt among the neighbours.

20 Her husbande is brought to shame among his neighbours because of her: and when he hereith it, it maketh him to sigh.

21 All wickednesse is but little to the wickednesse of a woman: the portion of the sordily shall fall upon her.

22 Lyke as the thynge by a sandy way is to the fere of the age: even so is a wise full of woes to a still quiete man.

23 "Lyke not to narrowlie upon the beaute of a woman, lest thou be prouked in desire towarde her."
24 The wrath of a woman is dishonour and great confusion: If a woman get the maire, then is the contract to her husband.
25 A wicked wyse maketh a sop heart, an heavy countenaunce, and a dead wound: Weake bandes & seble knees is a woman that her husband is not the better for.

26 Of the woman came the beginning of sinne, & through her we all are dead.
27 Give thy wyter no passage, no not a title, neither give a wicked woman her will.
28 If she walketh not after her hande, the hall consounde her in the sight of thine enemies: Cut her of then from thy sedge, that she do not alway abuse thee.

1 The pryspe of a good woman; Of the feare of three things, and of the fourth. Of the losouple and drunkennesse of a woman. Of two things that causse toowe, of the thryde whiche mouthy wrath.
Because of poverty, have many one offended: and he that seeketh to be rich, turneth his eyes aside. Lyke as a naple in the wa'tt fleeketh fast between two stones: even so doth some snake betwixt the bier and the seller.

If he holde him not diligently in the fear of the Lord, his house shall soon be overthrown.

Lyke as when one seeketh, the stibynness remayneth in the lyre: so remayneth there some violent thing in the thought of man.

The oven poureth the posterter back: so both temptation of trouble cye righteous men.

The tree of the fielde is known by his fruit: so is the thought of man's heart known by his doyes.

Pappe no man except thou have heard him: for a man is known by his doyes.

If thou soloweest righteounesse, thou shalt get her, and put her upon thee as a fayre garment: and thou shalt dwell with her, and the hall defende thee for ever, and in the day of knowledge thou shalt finde stedfastnes.

The bydes restore unto their lyre: so both the trueth turne unto them that be occupied withall.

The lion waytet the pray: so both sune upon them that worke unrighteounesse.

The talking of him that feareth God, is nothing but wisdom: as for a foole he chargeth as the moone.

If thou be among the undisclosed, kepe thy wordes to a convenient time: but among such as be wise, speake on hardily.

The talking of fooles is abomination; and their spott is volumptuousnesse and nuncupature.

But swearing maketh the heere to shande by: and to strive with such, stoppeth the cares.

The spyke of the proude is bloodsheding, and their blaspheme is heavy to heare.

Who do discovereth seretes, leecheth his credence, and lyseth no friend after his will.

Love thy friend, and bind thy selfe in faithfulness with him: but if thou betrayest his seretes, thou shalt not get him againe.

For like as the man is that deserveth his enemy: so is he also that beareth falsly in the friendship of his neighbour.

Like as one lettereth a blinde go out of his hande, can not take her againe: Even so thou, if thou receave thy friend, thou canst not get him againe.

Pye thou canst not come by him, for he is to farre of: he is unto thee as a Roe escaped out of the snare, for his tisse is wounded.

As for wounds, they may be bounde vp againe, and an woly worde may be reckoned: but who so betrayeth the seretes of a friend, there is no more hope to be had unto him.

He that waketh with the eues, imagineth some envy, and he that knoweth him, will let him alone.

When thou art present, he shall hyghlie commend and payple thy wordes: but at the last he shall turne his tapy, and slander the saying.

Many things have I heard, but nothing to cry with: for the Lord him selfe also abhorreth such a one.

Who so casseth a stone an hye, it shall fall upon his owne head: and he that spyseth with guile, woundeth him selfe.

Who so diggeth a pit shall fall therein, and he that layeteth a stone in his neighbours way, shall tumble thence, and he that layeth a snare for another, shall be taken in it him selfe.

Who so goeth a witched noisome course, fell, it shall come upon him selfe, and he shall not knowe from whence.

The proude blasphemere and are some-what, but vengeance lucketh for them as a lion.
And both these come out of the mouth:

13 The slanderer and double tongued is cursed: for many one that be friends, seteth he at variance.

14 The thirde tongue hath disquieted many one, andPygmen them from one land to another: Strong cities of the riche hath it broken downe, and overthrown the houses of great men: The strength of the people hath it brought downe, and ben the decay of mightie nations.

15 The thirde tongue hath cast out many an honest woman, and robbed them of their labours.

16 Who do hearkeneth unto such, shall never finde rest, and never dwell safely.

17 The stroke of the rod maketh pints in the synne: but the stroke of the tongue synaptic the bones in tender.

18 There be many that have perished with the sword: but many men thouest the tongue.

19 Well is him that is kept from an evil tongue, and committeth not in the anger thereof, which draweth not the poke of such, and is not bounde in the bandes of it.

20 For the poke thereof is of yon, and the bande of it of bloke.

21 The death thereof is a very evil death: hell were better for one, then such a tonge.

22 But the fire of it may not oppresse them that feare God, and the flame thereof may not burne them.

23 Such as forsake the Loade, shall fall therin, and it shall burne them, and no man shall able to quench it: It shall fall upon them as a lion, and devour them as a leoparde.

24 Thou hedgest thy goodes with thomes: why boest thou not rather make dooes and barres for thy mouth:

25 Thou
The so will the be mercie, *let him lende into his neigbour: and he that is able, let him help the commandements.

Lend into thy neighbour in time of his need, and paye thou thy neighbour againe in due season.

Kepe thy word, and drante faithfully with him: and thou shall alway finde the thing that is necessarie for thee.

There haue ben many, when a thing was lent them, reckened it to be founde, and made them travaile and labour that had helped them.

Whyte they receaue any thing, they kisse the hands of such as give them, and for their neighbours good they humble their boype: but when they should paye againe, they kepe it backe, and gene enuy and wrothes, and make many troubles by reason of the time.

And though he be able, yet geneth he scarce the halfe againe, and reckeneth the other to be founde: And if he withholde not his money, yet hath he an enemy of him, and that unbereved: he payeth him with cursing and rebuke, and geneth him envy and wrothes for his good deede.

There be many one which are not glad to lende, not because of envy: but they feare to lose the thing that they lende.

Yet haue thou patience with the simple, and withholde not mercie from him.

Help the poore for the commandements sake, and let hym not go emptie from thee, because of his necessitie.

Looke thy money for thy brother and neigbour's sake, and buite it not under a stone where it rusteth and corrupteth.

Gather thy treasure after the commandement of the high est, and so shalt thou joye more profite then golde.

Weare that thou slide not thy tongue, and so fall before thy enemies that lay wapte for thee, and thy fall be incurable, even unto death.

1. Lay by thyne almes in the hande of the poore, and it shall kepe thee from all evil.

2. A mans almes is as a purse with him, to kepe a mans favour as the apple of an eye and afterwarde shall it arise and paye every man his rewarde upon his head.

3. It shall lighte for thee against thy enemies, better then the thicke of a gounter of the nighte.

4. A good honest man is a suretie for his neigbour, but a wicked person: lest him come to blame.

5. Forget not the friendship of thy suretie: for he hath gruen his soule for thee.

6. The ungodly despiete the good deede of his suretie.

20. Suertishyppe hath destroyed many a riche man, and remoued them as the waves in the sea: highne people hath it 3ixen away, and causeth them to wander in strange countries.

21. An ungodly man transgressing the commandement of the Loade, shall fall into an evill suertiship: and though he forse him selfe to get out, yet shall he fall into judgement.

22. Help thy neigbour out after thy power, and be bare that thou thy selfe fall not in such debrte.

23. *The chiefe thing that kepest in thy life, is water, bread, clothing, and lodg-

25. Seit little; much that thou hast, hold thy content withall: and thou shalt not be blamed as a vagabonde.
For a miserable lyfe is it to go from  house to house, and where a man is a  stranger, he dare not open his mouth.

Though one be lodged, thane mente  and dinkke, yet shall he be taken as  worthy, and hear many better rough  boddes, [namely thus:]

So do thy way thou stranger, and pre-  pare a table for thy felle, and feede me also of that thou haft.

Goe place thou stranger to an honora-  ble man, my brother commeth into my  house, and so calleth him the necelone  of his house.

These things are heavy to a man that  hath understanding; namely the soppob-  ding of the house, and that the tender  ealletly him in the teeth.

The xxx. Chapter.

1 Of the correction of children. 14 Of the commoditie of health. 17 Death is better then  a toowe-sull lyfe. 18 Of hyd wsoleme. 22 Of the top and soscope of the heart.

For a miserable lyfe is it to go from  house to house, and where a man is a  stranger, he dare not open his mouth.

Though one be lodged, thane mente  and dinkke, yet shall he be taken as  worthy, and hear many better rough  boddes, [namely thus:]

So do thy way thou stranger, and pre-  pare a table for thy felle, and feede me also of that thou haft.

Goe place thou stranger to an honora-  ble man, my brother commeth into my  house, and so calleth him the necelone  of his house.

These things are heavy to a man that  hath understanding; namely the soppob-  ding of the house, and that the tender  ealletly him in the teeth.
we ought to live diligent heed to honestie. 8 Of them that take pains to gather riches. 7 The people of the rich man without a fault. 8 we ought to see drunkenesse and follow soberly.

2. Kanalle and carefulness for riches taken away the sleep, and maketh the flesh to consume.

when one sleepeth and taketh care, he waketh ever by, lyke as a great scientist breaketh the sleep.

The rich hath great labour in gathering his riches together, and then with the pleasure of his riches, he taketh his rest and is refreshed.

But who so laboureth and prospereth not, he is poose; and though he leave of, yet is he a begger.

He that longeth riches, shall not be satisfied: and who so solvideth corruption, shall have enough thereof.

Many one are come in great misfortune by the reason of gold, and have found their destruction before them.

It is a tree of falling unto them that offer it by, and all such as be foolish eat thereof.

Blessed is the rich which is found without blenimike, hath not gone after gold, not hoped in money & treasures.

wherein there such a one, and we shall commend him and call him blessed: for wonderfull things both he among his people.

Who so is tried and founde perfect in such things, shall be commended and praised: who might offend, and hath not offended; who should do evil, and hath not done it:

Therefore shall his good be stablished, and the whole congregation shall declare his names.

If thou sit at a great man's table, open not thy mouth wide upon it, and say not there is much meat on it.

Remember that an evil eye is a shedde: what thing created is worse then a wicked eye: therefore keepeth it before every mans face.

Laye not thine hande upon every thing, that thy eye seeth: and store not lust in the duthe.

* Ponder by thy selfe what thy neighbour would have, and be discreet in every point.

16 Eat the thing that is set before thee manerelle as it becometh a man, and wake not to much, lest thou be abhorred.

17 Leave thou of first of all, because of nurture, lest thou be he whom no man may trust, which may turne to thy decay.

18 When thou liestest among many men, reacheth not thine hande out first of all, neither call thou first to drink.

19 * O how well content is a wise man with a little wine: so that in sleepeth thou shalt not be sicken thereof, nor seele any payne.

20 A sweete holsome sleep shall such a one have, and seele no inwarde greene, he sleepeth by himself in the morning, and is well at eate in the night: but an unstable eater sleepeth unquietely, and hath ache and payne of the body.

21 If thou feest that thou hast eaten to much, arise, go thy way, take of thy substance, and take thy rest: and it shall eate thee, so that thou shalt bring no sickness unto thy body.

22 My sonne heare me, and despise me not, and at the last thou shalt finde as I have tolde thee: * In all thy works be diligent and quickke, so that there no sickness happen unto thee.

23 Who so is liberall in dealing out his mone, many men shall bless him, and praise him with their tongues: and the same is a sure token of his love and faithfulness.

24 But he that is unfaithfull in meate, the whole city shall complain of him: and that is a sure experience of his indelite and wickednesse.

25 Shewe not thy banaumes in wine, for wine hath destroyed many man.

26 The fire produceth the hard iron: even so doth Wine prooue the hearts of the proud, when they be drunken.

27 * Wine soberly drunken, quickeneth the lyfe of man: If thou drunkest it measurably, thou shalt be temperate: what is the lyfe of him that is overcom with Wine: What taketh away the lyfe: even death.

28 Wine
28 Wine was made from the beginning to make men glad, and not for drunkenness: wine measurably drunken is a restoring of the soul and body: A measurable drunken is health to soul and body.

29 But if it be drunken with excelse, it maketh bitterness and sooth into the mind.

30 Drunkenesse filleth the multitude of the foolish with shame & ruine, mishethyst the strength, and maketh wounds.

31 Rebuish not thy neighbour at the wine, and despise him not in his mirth: Give him no disputful words, and praise not upon him with contrary sayings.

The xxxii. Chapter.

If thou be made a ruler, pride not thy self therein, but be thou as one of the people, take diligent care for them, and love well thereof. And when thou hast done all thy duty, sit thine downe, that thou mayest be merry with them, and receive a crown of honour.

Speak thou that art the elder, for it becommeth thee, but with sure knowledge; hinder not musicke.

Speak not where there is no audience: and pour not forth vsborne out of time at an impropriety.

Lyke as the carbuncle stone shineth that is set in golde: so doth a long garniture the vigne feasle.

And as the Snauchdige that is set in golde; so is the sweetenes of musique by the mouth of wine.

Gue care and be still, and so thy good behauiour thou shalt be loued.

Thou young man speake that becommeth thee, and that is profitable, and yet scharfe when thou art dispose affh.

Comprehende much with seyve wordes, in many things be as one that is ignoraunt: gue care and holde thy tongue well.

If thou be among men of high authoritie, before not to compare thy selfe unto the; and, when an elder speakest, make not thou many wordes therein.

Before the thunder, goeth lightning: and before nurture and shamefastnesse, goeth love and favour.

Stand by betimes, and be not the last; but get thee home soone,

And there take thy pastime, and do what thou wilt: so that thou do no enm, and desir no man.

But for all things gene thankes but to him that hath made thee, and replenished thee with his goddes.

Who so seareth the Lord, wyl receive his doctrine: and they that get them to him betimes, shall finde grace.

He that seeketh the law, shall be filled withal: as for him that is but sapped, he wyl be offended therat.

They that fear the Lord shall finde the judgement, and their righteouseth shall be kindled as a light.

An vngodly man wyl not be refourued, but can helpe him selfe with the example of other in his purpose.

A man of understanding keepeth no good counsale: but a wyde and poude body hath no feare, and even when he hath dealt rashly with another man: but his owne doinges halde his rebuke.

By borne, do nothing without aduancement: so shall it not repent thee after the deed.

So not in the way where thou mayst fall, nor where thou mayst stumble against the stone: againe, neither trust thou to the way that is playne.

And beware of thyne owne children, and take heed of them that be of thyne owne householde.

In all thy wordes put thy trust in God from thy whole heart: for that is the keeping of the commandements.

Who so believeth gods word, taketh heed to the commandements: and he that puteth his trust in the Lord, shall want nothing.
Here shall no evil happen unto him that feareth God: but when he is in temptation, the Lord shall deliver him, and keep him from evil.

A wise man hateth not the lawful: but an hypocrite is as a ship in raging water.

A man of understanding geteth credence unto the law of God, and the law is faithfull unto him.

We sure of the matter, then tellke thereof: be first well instruct, then mayst thou gene awnswere.

The heart of the foolishe is lyke a cart wheel, and his thoughts ruine about lyke the asceter.

Lyke as a wybld haste that neveth under every one that listeth upon him, so it is with a somefull frendle.

Why doth one day excell an other, seeing all the days of the yere come of the yune?

The yusborne of the Lord hath parted them a sunder, and so hath he opened the times and solemnpe feastes.

Some of them hast he chosenc and hadboved before other days.

And all men are made of the ground, and out of the earth of Adam: In the multitude of science hast the Lord landed them, and made their weapes of douers fashions.

Some of them hast he blessed, made much of them, hadboved them, and clayed them to him selve: but some of them hast he cursed, brought them lowe, and put them out of their estate.

Lyke as the claye is in the potters hande, and all the ordering thereof at his pleasure: so are men also in the hande of him that made them, so that he may use them as lyketh him best.

Against evil is good, and against death is lyke: so is the ungodlie against such as fear God.

Beloved, these are the works of the yfel, and there are even two against two, and one set against another.

I am alwaikes by last of all, as one that gathereth after in harvest: in the gifts of God and in his blessing I am increased, and have filled my vine press, lyke a grape gatherer.

Behold how I have not laboured only for my selfe, but for all such as have nurtured and yusborne.

Hear me, O ye great men of the people, and hearken with your ears ye rulers of the congregation.

Gave not thy yonne, and ywse, thy brother, and friend, power over thee: why thou wast: and gave not away thy subnaunce so good to another, lest it repent thee, and thou be faine to alie of them againe.

As long as thou livest and hast breath let no man changen thee.

For better it is thy children to pray thee, then that thou shouldst be faine to loke in their handes.

In all thy works be excellent, that thy honour be never stayed.

At the time When thou shalt end thy days and finishe thy yse, distribute thyne inheritance.

The fodder, the whipple, and the butt, they belongeth unto the ass: meate, correction, and yuske unto the seruant.

If thou let thy seruant to labour, thou that findest rest: but if thou let him go idle, he shall seeke libertie.

The yseke and the whipple bowe downe the hard necke: but same thou the evil seruant with bondes and correction.

Sende him to labour, that he go not idle: for idillie hanges much evil.

Set him to worke, for that belongeth unto him, and becomest him wel.

If he be not obedient, binde his feete: but do not to muche unto him in any ywse, and without discretion do nothing.

If thou have a faithful seruant, let him be unto thee as thy owne soule: entreate him as a brother, for in blood hast thou gotten him: if thou have a seruant holde him as thy ysel, for thou

Ecc. xiv.
The booke of Iesus

And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people; and to bring them out of all the places where they have been dispersed, and to bring them into his house, and to be his people for ever.

Chapter xxxiiii.

1. Of dreams, dreams, and enchantments, men ought to have dreams, dreams, and enchantments, and to have dreams, dreams, and enchantments, dreams, dreams, and enchantments, dreams.

2. And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.

And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.

8. And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.

9. And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.

10. And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.

11. And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.

12. And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.

13. And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.

14. And so great love hath he shewed unto them, that he hath sent his servant the Lord, to save his people out of the hand of all their enemies, and out of the hand of all that hate them; for he saith, I will shew mercy upon him, and will make him to be the friend of many nations, and to shew mercy upon them, and to cause them to be his servants, and to be his people for ever.
The xxxv. Chapter.

1. It is well done to pray and to do sacrifice. 12. The prayer of the fatherless, and of the widow, and of him that humbleth himself.

2. He accepteth not the person of the poor: but he heareth the prayer of the oppressed.

3. He despiseth not the face of the fatherless, nor the widow when he poureth out her prayer before him.

4. Both not God see the tears that runne downe the cheeks of the wyboide: or heareth he not the complaint of such as make her to wepe? For from her cheeks do the tears go up into heaven, and the Lord which heareth them both accept them.

5. He accepteth not the empty: the Lord accepteth: and his prayer reacheth unto the clouds.

6. The prayer of him that humbleth himself, goeth through the clouds: till the comine he shall not be comforted, no go her way till the highest God have respect unto her, give true sentence, and perforce the judgement.

7. And the Lord will not be slacke in comming, nor tary long, till he have smitten in under the baches of the wondrous, and avenged him felse of the heathen, till he have taken away the multitude of the cruel, and broken the scepter of the woorhte. For he hath every man after his worke, and rewardeth them after their doymes, till he have delivered his people, maintained their cause, and rejoyned them in his merite.

8. How faire a thing is mercie in the time of angitise and trouble: it is like a cloude of rapie that committeth in the time of youth.

The xxxvi. Chapter.

1. A prayer to God in the person of all faithfull men. 2. The prayer of a good woman.

2. And sende thy fear among the heathen and strangers which seke not after thee, that they may knowe that there is no God but thou, and that they may shew thy woorhte workes.

3. Lift up thine hande over the outlandish heathen, that they may learne to knowe thy might and power.

4. Lyke as thou hast Hawowed in vs before them: so bring to passe that thou mayest be magnified also in them before
5. That they may know thee, ylike as we kno-

thee; for there is none other God but only thou, Lorp.
6. Refuge the tokens, and change the wondrous works: thev thyne hand and thy right arm glorious.
7. Raise by thyne indignation, and pour thy wrath: take away the aduersarie, and smite the enemy.
8. Make the time thynge, remember thy coenuant, that thy wondrous works may be praised.
9. Let the wrath of the lyge consume them that bine to careless; and let them perish that do the people hurt.
10. Sprynge in under the head of the princes that be our enemies, and say, there is none other but we.
11. Gather all the tribes of Jacob together againe, that they may knowe how that there is none other God but only thon, that they may thew thy wondrous works: and be thou thy peoples heritage, lyke as from the beginning.

12.  Lorpde have mercie upon the people that hath thy name, and upon Israel whom thou hast lykened to a first borne foure.
13.  O be meersfull unto hierusalem the ctie of thy sanctuarie, * the ctie of thy rest.
14.  Fill Sion with thyne unspakeable ber-tes, and thy people with thy glozie.
15.  Gene vinete unto thy creature who thou madest from the beginning, and ravde by the prophesyes that have ben shewed in thy name.
16.  Rewarde them that wapte for thee, that thy prophese may be founde faithful.
17.  O Lorpde heare the prayer of thy senautes according to the blessing of Aaron ouer thy people, and guide thoun in the way of righteousnes; that al they which dwell upon the earth may know that thou art the Lorpde the eternal God, which is from everlastyng.
18.  The belly devoureth all meates: yet is one meate better then another.
19.  Lyke as the tongue calleth benson:
so doth an heart of understanding make false woordes.
20.  A quickened heart geuthl heaunes: but a man of experience lyseth him up againce.
21.  The woman receueth every man: yet is one daughter better then another.
22.  A faire wyfe rejoyneth her husband:
and a man loueth nothing better.
23.  If there be in her tongue gentlenes, meckenes, and holsome talkie: thenis not her husband lyke other men.
24.  He that hath gotten a beneuous woman, hath a goodlie posstession: she is unto him a helpe, and piller wherupon he resteth.
25.  Where no hedge is, there the goodes are spoied: and where no bulwyrke is, there the frendes mourne.
26.  Lyke as there is no credence geuent to a robber that goeth from one ctit to another: so is not the man beleued that bath no neft, and must tyme in where he may abide in the night.

The xxxvii. Chapter.

A very frende saith, I wyll be friendly unto him also: but there is some friend, which is only a frende in name. Remayne not there heannes vnto death, when a companion and friend is turned to an enemie.
3. O most wicked presumption: from where art thou sprung up to cover the earth with falsehood and dishonesty?
4. There is some companion which in prosperitie reioyneth with his friend:
but in the time of trouble, he taketh part against him.
5. * There is some companion that mourneth with his friend for the bellies like; but when trouble commeth, he taketh holde of the childe.
6. Forget not thy friend in thy minde, thinke upon him in thy riches.
7. Seeke no counsellat thy kindnes;& hide thy counsell from such as beare thee no good wyll.
8. * Every counsellor playseth his counsell: nevertheless, there is some that counselleth but for his owne profite.
9. Beware
9 Bevare of the counseller, and be adu-ised afoe where to thou wullest him: for he wulle counsell for him selfe, lest he cast the lot wpon the.
10 And lay vnto thee. Thy way and purpose is good: and afterward he stande against thee, and loke what that become of thee.
11 Alhe no counseall at him that presteth thee for an enemy; s hide thy counsall from such as hate thee: alhe no counseall for religion of him that is without religion, nor for justice: alhe no counseall at a woman, touching her of whom she is elonus, nor at a fairefull and saint partid body in matters of warre: nor at a marchaunt howe he wyle cheape thy warres toward his ou, at a byr, of selling: ou, at an emous man, of thankles gening: ou at the vomerfull, of young unblest: ou at an unblest man, of honest: ou at the stothfull, of working: ou at an huyling which hath no house, of profite or Wealth: ou at an idle body of much labour: take no such folkes to counsell.
12 But be diligent to seek counseall at a veruous man that searcheth God, such a one as thou knowest to be a keper of the commandementes, which hath a hunede after lynee olde minde, and is loye for thee when thou standest.
13 And hole the counseall fast in thy heart, for there is no man more faitfull kepe it, then thou thy selfe.
14 For a mans minde is sometime disposed to tell out more, then seven watch men that sit aboue in his place laughing about them.
15 And above all this, pray the highest that he wyle leade thy way in faithfulnes and trust.
16 Before all thy bookees alse counseall first: and ocz ever thou doest any thing, be well aduised.
17 There be foure thinges that declare a changed heart, whereof there spunge toth eeuil and good, death and lyse, and a matterfull tongue that babity much.
18 Some man is apte and well informed in many thinges, and yet very impossible
19 Some man there is that can gener dyle and prudent counseall, and yet is he hated and continued a begger.
20 For that grace is not gven him of God to be accepted.
21 Another is robbed of al wyse: yet is he wyse vnto his selfe, and the truie of understanding is countable in his mouth.
22 A wyse man maketh his people wyse, the fruties of his wyseome faptle not.
23 A wyse man shalbe plenteously blest of God: and all they that see him, shall spoken good of him.
24 The lyse. of man standeth in the number of the bapes: but the bapes of Isra el are innumerable.
25 A wyse man shalbe oblique faithfullnes and credence among his people, and his name shalbe perpetuall.
26 By some, prood the liute in thy selle, and if thou see any eeuil thing, genet it not unto her:
27 For all thinges are not poostable for all men, neither hath every liute pleasure in every thing.
28 Be not greedy in every eating, and be not to hastie upon all meates.
29 For excess of meates bringeth like nesse, and gluttonie commeth at the last to an imeasurabile heate.
30 Though furer have many perplexed:
but he that direceth him selfe temperatelle, prolongeth his lyse.

The, xxxvii. Chapter.
1. The phision is commendable. 2. To burie the dead. 3. The wyseome of him learn to knowe the vertue thereof.

6 The Lord hath gaven men wydome and understanding, that he might be honoured in his wondrour bothes.

23 With such both he heale men, and take leat away their pannes:

8 Of such both the pothearcie make a conercion, yet can no man persourme all his bothes: for of the Lord becometh prosperous wealth over all the earth.

9 My come, deliue not this in thy letes-nes: but pray into the Lord, and he shall make thee whole.

10 Leave of from time, and order thy handes a right, clewe thynge heart from all Wickednesse.

11 Gue a sweete savoured offering, and the fine flour for a token of remembrance: make the offering fay, as one that gueith the first-frutes,

12 And gue room to the phisition, for the Lord hath createth him: let him not go from thee, for thou hast neede of him.

13 The houre may come, that the siche may be helped through them,

14 When they prye into the Lord, that he may recover and get health to lyue longer.

15 He that sinneth before his maker, shall fall into the handes of the phisition.

16 My lyfe, hang forth thy tears over the dead, and begunne to mourne as if thou baddest suffered great harme thy selfe: and then cover his body after a conuenent manner, and despise not his burial.

17 Enforce thy selfe to weeppe, profouse thy selfe to mourne, and make lamentation expediency, and be earnest in mou-ning, and be lamentation as he is worye, and that a day or two, lest thou be called spoken of: and then comfort thy selfe, because of the heaunies.

18 For of heaunies commeth death, the heaunies of the heart breaketh streight.

19 Heaunies and ponerie, greeneth the heart in temptation and offence.

20 Take no heaunies to heart,inue it away, and remember the last things.

21 Forget it not, for there is no turning againe, thou shalt do him no good, but hurt thy selfe.

22 Remember his judgmeunte, thyme also hathlyke wyple: buo me yefterday, unto thee to day.

23 Let the remembrance of the dead reae in his rest, comfort the againe our him, seeing his spirite is departed from him.

24 The wydome of the scribe is at convenient time of rest: and he that casteth from exercises and laboure, that be wyple.

25 How can he get wydome that holdeth the plough, and he that hath pleasure in the goade and in having the oen, and is occupied in their labours, and his talke is but of the beesting of bullocks?

26 He setteith his heart to make foode, and is diligent to gene the kinde foode.

27 So is every carpenter also and work-master, that laboureth still night and day: he earnest, graueth, cutteith out, and his befire is industriously cunning things, his heart imagineth how he may cunningly cast an image, his diligence also

The xxxix. Chapter.

1 There be 16. The works of God. 24 Unto the good, things do prosp: but unto the evil, even good things are evil.

1 And gene ye a sweete smell as incense, 2 fume the as the rose garden, sing a song of praise. 3 Gene thanks unto God over all his works.

2 Gene magnificence unto his name, and set hym footeth in his path with pure lippes, with muskete and harmonie; 4 sing even with the song of your lippes, with harpes and playing, and in genuine thankses unto him, saie after this manner:

3 All the workes of the Lord are exceeding good, all his commandements are meete and convenient in due season.

4 A man neede not to say, what is that? 5 What is that, so at a time convenient they shall all be sought: At his commandement the water was as a Wall, and at the word of his mouth the waterfloode still.

5 In his commandement is every thing acceptable and reconciled, and his health can not be unmethed.

6 The workes of all flesh are before him, and there is nothing hid from his eyes.

7 He seeketh from everlastinge to everlastinge, and there is nothing to wonderful of hym.

8 A man neede not to say then, what is this, or that: 9 For he hath made all things to do good unto man.

9 He blesseth shall run over as the streame, and overthrow the earth like a floodde of water.

10 Like as he makeath the drought: so shall his Yazye fall upon the heathen.

11 His ways are playte and right unto the nght: but the vngodly stumble at them.

12 For the good, are good things created from the beginning, 13 Fuppl things for the vngodly.

14 All things necessarie for the yse of man are created from the beginning: water, fire, iron, salt, meat, leade, song, hong, milke, and wine, ople and cloth thing.

15 All these things are created for the best to the faithful: but to the vngodly shall all these things be turned to hurt and harime.
The booke of Iesu

28 There be spirits that are created for vengeancé, and in their rigourousnesse have they fastened their tormentes: In the time of the ende they shall pour out their strength, and pacifie the wrath of him that made them.

29 Fire, haple, hunger, and death: at these things are created for vengeancé.

30 The teeth of wilde noysonic beastes, the scorpion, serpentes, and the vowe, are created also for vengeancé, to the destrucion of the vugodly.

31 They shalbe glad to bothe his commandemcntes, and when neede is, they halbe ready upon earth: and when their house is come, they shall not overpass the commanmentes of the Lorde.

32 Therefore haue I taken a good courage unto me from the beginning, and haue thought to put these things in writing, and to leave them behinde me:

33 *All the workes of the Lorde are good, and he gevent every one in due season, and when neede is.

34 So that no manneede not to say: This is worse then that: for in due season they are all pleaunted and good.

35 And therefore praye the Lorde with whole heart and mouth, and geue thankes into his name.

The .x.l .Chapter.

1 M any misries light in mans life. 11 All things passe away, but a firme and stable faith ramayneth. 14 Of the blessing of the righteous, and preogatieve of the scare of God.

Great travaile is created for all men, and an heavy yole upon all the soules of Adam, from the day that they go out of their mothers wombe, till they be buried in [the earth] the mother of all things.

2 [Namely] their thoughts and imaginations, scare of the heart, counfel, meditations, longing & desire, the day of death:

3 From the byggest that fitteth upon the glorious seat, unto the lowest and most simple upon the earth:

4 From him that is gloriously apparende and weareth a crown, unto him that is but homely and simple clothed.

5 There is nothing but wrath, zeale, fearfulness, quietness, and scare of death, riguorusnes, anger, & scirpe: And in the night when one should rest and sleepe upon his bed, the sleepe chaungeth his understanding and knovledge.

6 A little or nothing is his rest in the sleepe, aswell as in the day of labour: be fearfulness is disquieted in the vision of his heart, as one that runneth out of a battayll.

7 And in the time of health he awaketh, and manaplest that the scare was nothing.

8 Such things happen unto all the, both man and beast: but seuen foldes to the vugodly.

9 *Moreover, death, bloodshedding, frite, and libode, oppression, hunger, destrucion, and punishment:

10 These things are all created against the vugodly, *and for their sakes came the fludde also.

11 *All that is of the earth, shall turne to earth againe, and all Waters ebbe againe into the sea.

12 All babes and unrighteousesse shalbe put away: but faithfulness and truth shall endure for ever.

13 The substance and goodes of the vugodly shall be dyed up, and lose away as a water fludde, & they shal make a sound like a great thunder in the rayne.

14 Like as the righteous reciproeth when he openeth his hande: so shall the transgressours be saynt. When their goodes vanish and continue away.

15 *The children of the vugodly shall not obtayne many baunches:

16 And the unekeane rootes upon the hpe rookes, shalbe rooted out before the grave by the water side, & upon the river bankes.

17 Freundnesse and liberalitie in the increas & blessing of God, is like a paradice and garden of pleasure: such mercie also and kindnesse endureth for ever.

18 To labour and to be content with that a man hath, is a sweete pleasaunt life: and that is, to finde a creatre of all creatures.

19 To
19 To beget children and to repaye the price, maketh a perpetuall name: but an honest woman is more worth then they both.

20 Wine and mirthre recioyseth the heart: but the love of Wysdome is above them both.

21 Piping and harping, make a sweete noise: but a friendly tongue goeth beyond them both.

22 Thine eye desircth savour and beatu: but a greene leede time, rather then they both.

23 A friend and companion tyme together at opportunitie: but aboue them both is a wise that agreeth with her husband.

24 Interest and helps are profitable in tyme of trouble: but almes that deliver more then they both.

25 Solde and suiter taken the secte: but a good counsell is more pleasant then they both.

26 Temporal sustenance and strength lift by the Judges: but the care of the Lord, more then they both: The care of the Lord availeth nothing, and needeth no helpe.

27 The care of the Lord is a pleasant garden of blessing, and nothing so beautiful as itis.

28 Wysome leade not beggers lyfe: for better it were to die then to begge.

29 The life of lyne that l SITE upon an other mans table, is not to be counted for a life: for he beeth his soule in other mens meate: but a wise and well nurtured man will behove thereof.

30 Begging is sweete in the mouth of the unthaine fast: but in his belly there breneth a fire.

The xli. Chapter.

1 Of the remembrance of death: 2 Death is not to be feared, 3 I curse upon them that fostrate the lawe of God. 4 Good name and fame. 5 Intercession to gene seede into wylsdome. 6 Of what things a man ought to be ashamed.

1 Death hold bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that fetheth rest and comfort in his subsance & riches, but to the man that hath nothing to bere him, & that hath prosperitie in all things, yet to him that yet is able to receive meate.

2 Death, howe acceptabe and good is thy judgement unto the needful; and unto him whose strength faileth, and that is nowe in his last age, and that in all thinges is full of care and fearefullenesse, unto him also that is in distayne, and hath no hope nor patience.

3 Be not thou afraid of death, remember them that hauing ben before thee, and that came after thee: this is the judgemen of the Lord over all secthe.

4 And why wouldst thou be against this pleasure of the highest: whether it be ten, an hundred, or a thousand yeares, death asketh not holowe long one hath lyed.

5 The children of the bugody are abhominable children, and so are they that kepe company with the bugody.

6 The inheritance of bugody children shall come to naught, & their posteritie that have perpetuall shame confusio. 7 The children compaine of an bugody father, and why? for his sake they are rebuked and dispiséd.

8 Wo be unto you, Dye bugody, which haue taken the lawe of the highest God: for though ye do increasce, yet that ye perish.

9 If ye do true, ye shalbe accursee: if ye die, the curse shall be your portion.

10 All that is of the earth, shall returne to earth again: so go the bugody also out of the curse into destruction.

11 Though men moune for their body: yet the name of the bugody shall be put out, for it is nothing worth.

12 Labour to get thee a good name: for that shall continue furer by thee, than a thousand great treasures of gold.

13 A good life hath a number of bapes: but a good name endureth ever.

14 By children, kepe Wilsdome in peace: for Wilsdome that is hid and a treasure that is not seen, what profite is in them both.

x (ii) 15 Aman
The booke of Iesus

15 A man that hyseth his foolishnes, is better than a man that hyseth his lyfes done.

16 Therefore be ye returned at my wordes: for it is not good in all thinges and alwayes to be ashamed: [3] True faith must poute and measure it.

17 Be ashamed of whodoinse before father and mother, he ashamed to leasid before the prince and men of actuolite.

18 Of stature, before the judge and ruler: of offence, before the congregation of people: of unrighteousnes, before a companion and friend.

19 Of theft, before thy neighbours: As for the truth of God and his countenaunt, be not ashamed thereof: [be ashamed to lyse with thynne elbowes upon the bread, 02 to be reproued for geuing or taking.

20 And of silence unto them that faulte thee: be ashamed to looke on charitostes:

21 Be ashamed to turne away thine face from thy kinman, be ashamed "to take and not to geue.

22 Be ashamed also to looke upon an other mans lyse, and to make many lying wordes with her mouth, 02 to stand by her bed side.

23 Be ashamed to unbaythe thy friende: When thou guesst any thing, cast hym not in the teeth withall, 24 Or to report the matter that thou haest heard, 02 to disclose the secrece wordes: to shalte thou well be nameske, and that shall finde favour with all men.

The xlii. Chapter.

1 The lawe of God must be taught, 9 I daughter, 14 I woman. 18 God knoweth all things, se aven the secretes of the heart.

2 If these thinges be not ashamed, and accept no person to offend, [Namely these thinges be not ashamed;]

3 Of the lawe of God, of the countenaunt, of judgement to bring the ungodly from his ungodliness into rightousnesse, to make him a good man,

4 To beale faithfully with the neighbour and companion, to distribute the heritage unto the friends;

5 To be diligent to kepe true measure & weught: to be content whether thou gettest much or little:

6 To beale truly with temporall goodes in bying and selling, to bring by children with diligence, to correct an evill servant:

7 To hope that thynne is from an evill lyse, to set a Locke where many handes are.

8 What thou deliverest and guesst out to be kept, to tell it, and to beke it to write by all the outheing and recauing:

9 And of silence unto them that faulte thee: be ashamed to looke on charitostes:

10 Be ashamed of whodoinse before father and mother, he ashamed to leasid before the prince and men of actuolite.

11 Of stature, before the judge and ruler: of offence, before the congregation of people: of unrighteousnes, before a companion and friend.

his time; "and all his works are full of the clearness thereof.

17. Hath not the Lord brought to passe, that his saints should tell out all his wondrous works which the almighty Lord hath established: all things endure in his glory.

18. He fetheth out the ground of the deep, and the heart of men, and he knoweth all their imaginations and wisdom: for the Lord knoweth all science, and he looketh into the token of the time.

19. He declareth the things that are past and for to come, and didiseth things that are secret.

20. No thought may escape hym, neither may any word be hid from him.

21. He hath garnished the lye excellent works of his bydnome, and he is from everlastings to everlastings: Unto him may nothing be adde, neither can he be diminished, he hath no neede also of any mans counsel.

22. Whosez amiable are all his works, and as a sparke to take upon:

23. They live all, and endure for ever: and when so ever needeth, they are all obedient unto him.

24. They are all double, one against another: he hath made nothing that hath fault or blemische.

25. He hath established the goodness of every one: (a) and who may be satisfied with his glorious when he fetheth it?

The xlili. Chapter.

The summary of the creation of the works of God.

1. The glory of the height is the face and clear appearance, the beauty of the heaven is his glorious clearness.

2. The same when it appeareth, declareth the day in the going out of it, a marvelous work of the highest:

3. All moone it burneth the earth, and who may appere for the heart thereof?

4. Who so kepyth an oven when it is hot, three times more both the same burneth upon the mountapnes: When it beareth out the fire beames & shineth, with the brightnesse of it it blindeth the eyes.

5. Great is the Lord that made it, and in his commandement he cautheth it to rumble hastily.

6. The moone also in all things according to her season is a declaration of the time, and a signe for the world.

7. *The token of the sol)eume feast is taken of the moone, a light that unnished, and increaseth againe.

8. The moone is called after the moone, it groweth wonderfully in her changing.

9. The armie of heaven also is in height: in the firmament of heaven he gathereth a cleare and a glorious lyme: This is the clearness of the starses, the beautifull apparel of heaven, the apparel that the lode twinketh in the height.

10. In his holy works they continue in their order, and not one of them caneth in his ward.

11. *Loke upon the raynedow, and pynke lyme that made it: very beautiful is it in his shine.

12. He compasseth the heaven about with a glorious circle, the handes of the hightest have bended it.

13. Though his commandement he maketh the snow to fall, and the thunder of his judgement to shynke hastily.

14. Thosoldhe his commandement the treasures are opened, and the cloudes flee as the fowles.

15. In his power hath he strengthened the cloudes, and broken the hayle bones.

16. The mountapnes' leave at the light of hym, the winde bloweth according to his will.

17. The sounde of his thunder beateth the earth, so doth the flame of the north: the whole wind also lighteth dovmbe as a fethered soule, calleth out & spreadeth the knowe abode, and as the grasshoppers that destroy all, so calleth it dovmbe.

18. The eye maruayl eth at the beautie of the bythnteness thereof, and the heart is afraid at the rayne of it.

19. He pouleteth out the scot upon earth like falt, and when it is stolen, it is as sharpe as the quide of a thistle.

20. When the colde north winde bloweth, harbours chynfall commeth of the water: he lighteth dovmbe upon all the gatherings together of water, and putth on the water as a healeplate.
Afterward, there were some whose remembrance is gone, *they came to naught & perished as though they had never been, and because as though they had never been, yea and their children also with them.

10 Nevertheless these are young men, whose right eyes were not worn out, but continue by their posterity.

11 Their children are an holy good heritage: their seed endured fast in the covenant.

12 For their sake shall their children and seed continue for ever, and their praise that never be put downe.

13 Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name liueth for evermore.

14 The people can speake of their wise done, and the congregation can talke of their praise.

15 *Enoch walked right and acceptably before the Lord, therefore was he translated for an example of amendment to the generations.

16 *Noe was a sedfast and righteous man, and in the time of Wrath he became a reconciling: therefore was he left a remnant unto the earth when the flood came.
The xlv. Chapter.

1 The praise of Jospeh, the firstborn of Israel, and Phinees.

2 Jospeh, beloved of God among men, whose remembrance is in his praise: for the Lord made him like in the glory of the sanctuary, a magnificent man, so that the enemies fled in awe of him.

3 Though his works he did great wonders: he made hym glorious in the sight of kings, gave him commandment before his people, and showed him glorious power.

4 The Lord established him with faithfulnesse and meeknesse, and chose him out of all men.

5 For he heard his hopes, and he led hym in the darke cloude, and ther he gave him the commandmentes, and the law of life and worship: that he might teach Jacob the covenant and Israel his lawes.

6 He chose Aaron his brother also out of the tribe of Leui, exalted him, and made hym such like.

7 An everlasting covenant was made he with him, and gave him the priesthood in the people: he made him glorious in beautifull array, and clothed him with the garment of honour.

8 He put perfect joy upon him, and girded hym with strength, he decked hym with fine clothes and a turme, with an overbody coat also, and a girdle.

9 Round about made he hym belles of gold, and that many: that when he went in, he sounded might be heard, that they might make a noise in the sanctuary, and give the people warning.

10 The holy garment was wrought and bounded with gold, yellow silk, and purple: and in the breastplate there was a goodly vioke, wherein was fastened tight, and perfectnesse.

11 Upon the same also there was a vioke fastened and set with costly precious stones all bound with gold, and thus he brought in his manifation: The stones were fastened for a remembrance, after the number of the twelve tribes of Israel.

12 Upon his mitre there was a plate of pure gold, a graven image of holmesse, a famous and noble vioke, garnished, and pleafant to look upon.

13 Before hym there were scene no such faire ornamentes; these it behoved him alway to bie: There might none other put them on, but only his children, and his childrens children perpetually.

14 Daily performed he his burnt offering times two times.

15 *Jospeh filled his handes, and annoyned him with holy ode: This was now confirmed with him a everlasting covenant, and to his seere as the bapes of heaven: namely, that his children should alwayes minister before him, he performed the office of the priesthood, and by the people good in his name.
Before all men living chose he him, that he should offer incense before the Lord, and make oodours for a sweet savour and remembrance, that he should reconcile the people of the Lord with him again.

17 The gave him autotite also in his commandementes and in the covenaut, that he should teach Jacob the statutes and testimonies, and to enforme Israel in the lawe.

18 Therefore there stoode by vertue a

19 This the Lord sent, and it displeased him, and in his wrathfull indignation were they confumned: A great wonder did he upon them, and confounded them with the fire.

20 Besides this he made Aaron yet more honorable and glorious, he gave him an heritage, parted the field frutes unto him: Unto him specially he appointed the breach of sustenance.

21 For the priests dy'd cate of the offeringes of the Lord; this he unto hine and his seed.

22 Else had he no heritage no portion in the land, with the people: for the Lord had made him the portion of inheritance.

23 The three noble and excellent man, as Jethro the sonne of Elaizer, which pleased the God of Israel, because he had the zeale and care of the Lord: For when the people were turned backe, he put him selfe for the righteouse, and that with a good Will, to pacifie the wrath of the Lord towards Israel.

24 Therefore was there a covenant of peace made with him, that he should be the principal among the righteous in the people, that he and his posterite should have the office of the priesthood for ever.

25 Like as there was made a covenant with David of the tribe of Juda, that from among his sons, only there should be a king: And that Aaron also and his seed should be an heritage, to gene vs by his house in our heart, to inbue his people in righteousness, that his goodness should not come into forgetfulness, and that their honour might endure for ever.

The. xlvi. Chapter.

1 The psalme of Jotus.

2 They sware: the heathen people mightily, and in falling downe they sue all the adversaries: so that the heathen knew his hoaste, and all his defence; that the Lord him selfe fought against them: for he followed upon the mightie men of them.

3 In the time of Joposes also, he and Caleb the sonne of Jephune dyd a good woorke, which stooed against the enemies, with held the people from famine, and still the wicked murmering.

4 And of the hundreth thousand of people of foote, they two were preferred to bring them into the heritate, namely, a lande that floweth with mylke and honey.

5 For the Lord gave strength also unto Caleb, which remained with him unto his age: so that he went by into the places of the land, and his seed conquered the same for an heritate.

6 And that at the children of Israel might see howe good a thing it is to be obedient unto the Lord.
And the judges or rulers every one after his name, whose heart went not a whispering nor departed from the Lord, and that so be not the Lord unfaithfully, whose remembrance hath a good report.

12. Neither bones fosible out of their place, and their names shall never be changed: but honour remaineth still with the children of those holy men:

13. Samuel the prophet, beloved of the Lord his God, ordained a king, and anointed the princes over the people.

14. In the laate of the Lord ruled he, and judged the congregation, and the Lord had respect unto Jacob.

15. The prophet was founde diligent in his faithfulnes: yea he is knoowen faithful in his boishes, because he laide the God of light.

The xlvi. Chapter.

1. The psalme of Nathan, 2. David, 12. and Solomon.

1. Afterward in the time of king David, there rose up a prophet called Nathan.

2. For lyke as the fat is taken away from the offering, so was David chosen out of the children of Israel.

3. He played with the lions as with ktones, and with bears lyke as with lambs of thepee.

4. Slay he not a giant when he was yet but young, & take away the rebuke from his people, bright time as he take the stone in his hande, and smote doone yonde Goliah with the sling.

5. For he called upon the highest Lord, which gave him strength in his right hande, so that he overthrew the mightie giant in the battaile, that he might let up the home of his people again.

6. So he glorified him in ten thousand, and made him to have a good report in the psalme of the Lord, that he should weare a crown of glory.

7. For he destroyed the enemies on every side, rooted out the Philistines his adversaries, and slaine their home in sunder, lyke as it is broken yet this day.

8. In all his boishes he psalmed the yfte and holie, and altrered the honour unto him: With his whole heart did he psalme the Lord, and loued God that made him.

9. He set singers also before the altar, & in their tune he made sweete songs, that they might geue psalmes every day to God with songes.

10. He ordained to kepe the holy dayes worshipfully, & that the solemn feastes through the whole yere should be honourably holden, with psallinge the name of the Lord, and with singing betimes in the morning in the sanctuare.

11. The Lord toke away his names, and ratified his home for ever: he gave him the covenant of the kingdome, and the throne of worship in Israel.

12. After him there rose up the yfte sonne [called Solomon.] Who by him dwelt in a large possestion, and to the lande he drove the enemies away for of.

13. This Solomon raged with peace in his yme, and he obtained glory: For God gave him rest from his enemies on every side, that he might build him an house in his name, and prepare the sanctuare for ever.

14. How yfte was to shoue in yfte youth, and filled with wisdom and understanding, as it were with a water flood.

15. Thou coueredst and filledst the whole lande with similitudes, yfte prudent sentences.
16 Thy name went abode in the lles, be-cauce of thy peace thou wast beloved.

17 All landes marituled at thy songes, pourdes, simulitudes, and at thy interpreations.

18 And in the name of the Lord God, which is called the God of Israel, thou gatheredst goldce as time, thou hadst as much silver as leadce.

19 Thou waft moved inordinate love toward women, and wast overcome in affeciton.

20 Thou laynest thy honour * worship, peac thy posterity defiledst thou also, in bringing the wrath of the Lord upon thy children, and hast felt solobe for thy solly.

21 * So that thy kingdom was divided, and Ephraim became an unfaithfull and rebellious kingdom.

22 Neuerthelesse, God forsooke not his merce, neither was he utterly destroyed because of his workes, that he should teach him no posterity: as for the leade that came upon him, which he loved, he brought it not bletterly to naught, but gave yet a remaunta unto Jacob, and a roote unto Dauid out of him.

23 Thus rested Solomon with his fathers, and out of his leade he left be-hinde him a verie foolishnes of the people, and such one as had no understanding: * even Roboam, which turned away the people through his counsell, and roboam the sonne of Robat, *
which caused Israel to suyne, and thede-ed Ephraim the way of bngodubies:

24 Insomuch that their times and misdeeedes had the upper hande to foze, that at the last they were driven out of the lande for the same:

25 Pea, he sought out and bought by all Wickednes, till the bengeanece came upon them.

The people of Elias, Elieuse, Ezechias, and Eiaias.

1. Then soode by * Elias
The prophette as a lyse, and his worde brnte
like a cresset.

2. He brought an hunger upon them, and in his scale he made the fewe in number: for they might not a-day with the commandements of the Loide.

3. Through the worde of the Loide he shutt the heache, * three times brought he the fire downe.

4. O Elias, boode honorable art thou in the wunderous decees: who may make his hande to be lyke thee;

5. One that was dead thou raysest up from death, and in the worde of the hy-est thou broughtest him out of the grave
againe.

6. Thou hast cast doctie kings and destroyed them, and from theirscale.

7. Upon the mount Sina thou headdest the judgemen, & upon horeb the judg-emen of the bengeanece.

8. Which biddest anonyme kings to re-conence, * and ordaindest propheteres after thee.

* In his time came Sennacherib by, and tent Rabshakeh, lyft by his hande against Sion, & defied them with great pride.

D 19 Then trembled their heartes and handes, so that they sowede lyke a woman stranaying with childe.

20 So they called upon the Lord which is mercifull, and lyft by their handes before him, immediately the Lord heard them out of heaven.

21 He thought no more upon their smites, nor gane them over to their enemies: but deliuered them by the hande of Ezechias.

22 He smote the host of the Assyrians, and his angel destroyed them.

23 For Ezechias had done the thing that pleased the Lord, and remayned stedfastly in the way of David his father, as Elias the great, & faithful prophet, in the sight of God had commanded him.

24 In his time the same went backward, and he lengthened the yinges lyke.

25 With a right sprite propropheted he what would come to passe at the last: and to feele as were soowfull in Sion, he gaue consolation, Whereby they might comfort them selves for erre-more.

26 He shewed things that were to come and secrete, oruer they came to passe.

q The. xlix. Chapter.

Of Josiah, Ezechias, David, Jeremias, Ezechiel, Zerobabel, Jesus, Nehemias, Enoch, and Joseph.
imon * the sonne of Dinias the high priest, which in his lyfe set up the house agayne, and in his dapes made fast
the temple.

The height of the temple also was founded of him, the doubles building, and the yee walles of the temple.

In his dapes the welles of water sloped out, and were exceeding full as the sea.

He toke care for his people, and delivered them from destruction: he kept his temple made it strong, that it shoude not be desecred.

How honourable was his conversation among the people, and when he came out of the house covered with the baie; he gave sight as the mornynge starre in the middell of the clouds, and as the moon when it is full:

He shined as the sunne in the temple of God, he is as bright as the rayebobbe in the faire cloudes,
And shasbyth as the stoures and roses in the spynge of the yere, and as lylies by the rivers of water, like as the branches upon the mount Libanus in the time of summer;

As a fire and incense that is kindled, lyke as an whole ornament of pure gold set with all maner of precious stones,
And as an Olive tree that is fruiteful, and as a Cyprys tree which groweth by an ype.

When he put on the garment of honour, and was clothed with al beaute.
When he went to the holy aultier, he made the garment of holynes honorable.

When he toke the portions out of the priestes hande, he him selfe stooede by the heart of the aultier, and his children stooed about in order:as the branches of Cedar tree byt the mount Libanus, stoode they stooed about him:
And as the branches of the Oliv-tree, so stooed all the sonnes of Aaron in their glory, and the oblations of the Lorde in their handes before at the congregation of Israel.

And that he might sufficiently per-foure his service upon the aultier, and garnish the offering of the highest God, he stretched out his handes, and toke of the drinking offering, and poured in of the wine: so he poured upon the bottome of the aultier a good smell unto the highest prince.

Then began the sonnes of Aaron to sing, and to blow with trumpettes, and to make a great noyse, for a remembrance and prayre unto the Lorde.

Then all the people together were hased, and fell downe to the earth upon their faces to worship the Lorde their God, y to gene thankes to the almighty
God.

They song goodly also with their bo-rases, so that there was a pleasaunt noyse in the great house of the Lorde.

And the people in their prayer beholde the Lorde the highest that he should be.
mercessfull, till the honour of the Lorde were performed, and they had ended their unification and service.

Then went he downe and stretched out his handes over the whole multitude of the people of Israel, that they should gene prayre and thankes out of their lippes unto the Lorde, and to re-joyce in his name.

He began yet once alfo to pray, that he might openly shewe the thanksgiving before the highest.

[Same as thus] O gene prayre and thankes all ye unto the Lorde our God, which hath ever done noble and good things, which hath increased our dapes from our mothers wombe, and dealt with vs according to his mercie,

That he vsll gene vs the soytfulnes of heart, and peace for our time in Israel:
Which faithfully kepert his mercy for vs evermore, and alway delireth vs in due season.

There be the maner of people that I abhorre from my heart, as for the third whom I hate, it is no people:
They that sit upon the mountaines of

The sonne of Sirach.

Ixxvii.

27 I Jesus, the sonne of Sirach Eleazar, of Hierusalem, have tokened in these informations and documentes of wisdome and understanding in this booke, and poup'd the wydome of my heart.

28 Blessed is he that exerciseth himselfe therein: Who so taketh such to heart, shall be wise for ever.

29 If he do these thinges, he shalbe strong in all: for the lyght of the Lorde leadeeth him, which giveth wydome to the goodie: The Lorde be prayed for evermore, to be it, so be it.

The I. Chapter.

The prayer of Jesus the sonne of Sirach.

I will shanke thee O Lorde and king, and prayle thee O God my saulour: I will receiue prayle unto thy name, for thou art my defender and helper, and hast preferred my body from destruction, from the hares of trayterous tongues, and from the lipes that are occupied with lyes.

2 Thou hast ben my helper from such as stoode by against me, and hauel beene me after the multitude of thy mercie, and for the holy names sake, from the roring of them that prepared them temes to bewray me, out of the handes of such as sought after my lyfe, from the multitude of them that troubled me.

3 And from them that went about to set + lyfe upon me on every side, for that I am not went in the midstest of the lyfe:

4 From the depe of hell, from an unclean tongue, from lying woordes, from false accustation to the king, and from an unrighteous tongue.

5 My soule shall prayle the Lorde unto death: for my lyfe driue me unto hell downward.

6 They compassed me round about on every lyde, and there was no man to help me: I looked about me if there were any man that would succour me: but there was none.

7 Then thought I upon thy mercie O Lorde, and upon thy actes that thou hast done euer of olde: [namely] that thou deluered such as put their trust in thee, and ridded them out of the handes of the heathen.

8 Thus lyfe I by my paper from the earth, and prayed for deliverance from death.

9 I calld upon the Lorde the father of my Lorde, that he would not leaue me without helpe in the day of my trouble, and in the time of the ywoode.

10 I will prayle thy name continually, yeelding honour and thankes vnto it: and so my paper was heard.

11 Thou delivered me from destruction, and deluerepest me from the unrighteous time: therefore will I acknowledge and prayle thee, and magnifie the name of the Lorde.

12 When I was yet but young, or euer I went astray, I desired (s) wydome openly in my paper.

13 I came therefore before the temple and sought her vnto the laft: then sheeke the vnto me, as a grape that is soone cype.

14 By heart exouled in her, then bent my foute the right way: yea from my youth by sought I after her.

15 I bowed downe myne eare and receaued her: I founde me much wydome, and prospered greatly in her.

16 Therefore wyll I abside the glory until to him that eneweth me wydome.

17 For I am aduulted to doe therafter, I wyll be geulous to cleaue the thing that is good, so that I not be confounded.

18 By soule hath wrestled with her, and I haue ben diligent to be occupied in her: I lift by myne handes on lyfe, then was my soule lightened through wydome that I knewed my soule.

19 I orderd my soule after her, she and I were one heart from the beginning, and I found her in cleannesse, and therefore shall I not be forsoaken.

20 I wyll heart tonged after her, and I gaue a good treaure.

21 Through her the Lorde hath gien me a new soule, wherewith I wyll prayle him.
The booke of Iesus

23 *O come before ye unlearned, and dwell in the house of Wjplondheim; 24. Withdraw not your syllones from her, but take & commune of these thinges; for your soules are very thrste. 25. I opened my mouth, and spake: O come and bye Wjplondheim without mon- ney. 26. Bowe downe your necke under her pole, and your soule shall receive Wj- plondheim: the is harde at hande, and is con- tent to be founde.

27. Beholde with your eyes, *howe that 1 have had but little labour, yet have founde much rest. 28. O receave Wjplondheim, and ye thall have plentifulunes of silver and golde in possession. 29. Let your minde receave in his mercie, and be not ashamed of his payre. 30. Woshe his booke betimes, and he shall gene you your rewarde in due leason.

The ende of the booke of Iesus the sonne of Sirach, which is called in Latine Ecclesiasticus.

The booke of the Prophete Baruch.

The first Chapter.

1 Baruch wrote a booke during the captiuitie of Babylon, which he read before Ieromias and all the people. 2 The Leters ent the booke with money unto Hierusalem to their other brethren, to the entent that they should pay for them.

2D there are the woordes of the booke, which were 3. Writte by Bar- ruch the sonne of Nerias the sonne of Ma- ahas, * sonne of Iebedias, the sonne of Ie- nephias, at Babylon.

3 In the fift pere, and in the seuenth day of the moneth, what time as the Chaldees toke Hierusalem, and bent it up with fyer.

4 And Baruch did rede the woordes of this booke, that Ieromias the sonne of Iochaim king of Juda might hear, and in the presence of all the people that were come to hear the booke.

5 And before all the nobles, the kings sonnes, and before the elders, and before the whole people, from the lowest unto the highest: before all them that dwelt at Babylon, by the water of *Sody, which when they heard it, wept, fasted, and prayed before the Lord.

6 They made a collection also of money, according to every mans power:

7 And sent it to Hierusalem unto Ioa- chin the sonne of Helchias, the sonne of Saloni preest, With the other priests, and to all the people which were with him at Hierusalem.

8 What time as they had gotten the *be- cks of the temple of the Lord that were taken away out of the temple, that they might bring them againe into the lande of Juda the tenth day of the moneth.

9 After that Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon had taken Ieromias, with all his princes, lords, and all the people, and led them captaine from Hierusalem into Babylon:

10 And they lade, Beholde we have sent you money. * to bye you burnt offerings and incense withall, prepare a meat of- ferme, and offer for lime upon the altar of the Lord our God:

11 * And pray for the prosperitie of Na- buchodonosor.
of Baruch.

12 That God also may give vs strength, and lighten our eyes, that we may live under the defence of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and under the protection of Balthasar his sonne, that we may long do them service, and finde favour in their sight.

13 Pray for vs also unto the Lord our God; for we have sinned against the Lord our God, and unto this day is not his wrath turned away from vs.

And see that ye reade this booke, which we have sent unto you to be rehearsed in the temple of the Lord upon the hire days, and at time convenient.

15 Thus shall ye say: *The Lord our God is righteous, but we are worthy of confusion and shame, lyke as it is come to passe this day unto all Juda, and to every one that dwelleth at Jerusalem, 16 To our kinges, princes, pricests, prophets, and to our fathers.

17 We have sinned before the Lord our God, we have not put our trust in him, raisen him credence, 18 We have not obeyed him, we have not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord our God, to walke in the commandements that he gave us openly.

19 Since the day that he brought our fore-fathers out of the land of Egypt, unto this present day, we have ben ever a misbelieving and an unfaithfull people unto the Lord our God, destroying our fellows bitterly, and thinking backe, that we shold not heare his voice.

20 Wherefore there are come upon vs great plagues and divers kurles, lyke as the Lord deuided by Popes his servant, *which brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, to geue vs a Lande that floweth with milke & honey, lyke as it is to see this day.

21 Neverthelesse, we have not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord our God, according to all the wordes of the prophete, whom he sente unto vs [and to our rulers;]

22 But every man followed his owne munde and wicked imaginacions, to offer unto strange goddes, and to do evil in the sight of the Lord our God.

The .ii. Chapter.

1 The Jews confesse that they truly suffer for their sinnes. 2 The true conformacion of the churche. 3 The Jews desire to have the wrath of God turned from them. 4 The Lord will that we obeye unto princes, although they be euill. 5 He promiseth that he will call againe the people from captivitie, and geue them a newe and an everlasting testament.

2 And such plagues hath the Lord brought uppon vs, as never came to passe under the heauen, lyke as it is fulfilled in Hierusalem, *according as it is written in the lawe of Popes, 3 That a man shoulde eate the flesh of his owne sonne, & the flesh of his owne daughter.

4 Moreover, he hath deliuered them into the handes of all the kinges that are rounde about vs, to be confounded and desolate, and scattered them abroad in all landes and nations.

5 Thus are we brought beneath, and not above, because we have sinned against the Lord our God, and haue not bven obedient into his boyle.

6 Therefore the Lord our God is righteous, and we with our fathers (as reason is) are brought to open shame, as it is to see this day.

7 And as for these plagues that are come uppon vs already, the Lord had devisd them for vs:

8 Yet would we not pray unto the Lord our God, that we might every man turne from his ungodlie doopes.

9 So the Lord hath causd such plagues to come upon vs: for he is righteous in all his Doopes which he hath commaunded vs:

10 Which we also have not done, nor hearkened unto his boyle for to walke in the commandements of the Lord, that he
He hath shewed unto vs.

11 *And nowe O Lord God of Israel, thou that hast brought thy people out of the lande of Egypt with a mightie hande, with tokens and wonders, with thy great polder & outstretched arm, and hast gotten the seife a name, as it is come to passe this day:

12 O Lord our God, we have sinned, we have done wickedly, we have behaved our selues bungilly in all thy righteousnesses.

13 Turne thy wrath from vs [thee:] for we are but a sowe left among the heathie where thou hast scattered vs.

14 *Heare our prayers O Lord, and our petitions, being vs out of captuatie for thyne owne sake, get vs favour in the sight of them which have led vs away:

15 That all landes may know that thou art the Lord our God, and that Israel and his generation calleth upon thy name.

16 *O Lorde loke downe from thy holy house upon vs, encline thyne ear and hear vs.

17 Open thynke eyes, and beholde: for the dead that be gone downe to their granes, & whose soules are out of their bodies, ascribe unto the Lord neuer playles nor rightoulines:

18 But the soule that is vnder for the multitude of her times, which goeth on heavily and weakely, whose eyes begin to faile, yea such a soule ascribest papple and rightoulines unto the Lord.

19 For we pourre out our prayers before thee, and require mercie in thy sight O Lord our God, not for any godlynes of our fathers:

20 But because thou hast sent out thy wrath and indignation upon vs, according as thou diddest threaten vs by thy seruantes the prophets, saying:

21 *Thus saith the Lord,遂ode downe your shoulders and neckes, and seue the king of Babylon: so shall ye remaine still in the lande that I gaue vnto your fathers.

22 But if ye wyll not heare the voyce of the Lorde your God, to seue the king of Babylon, 23 I wyll destroy you in the citie of Juda, within Jerusalem and without: I wyll also take from you the voyce of mirth and the voyce of joy, the voyce of the budgeone and the voyce of the byde, and there shall no man dwell more in the lande.

24 But they would not hearken unto thy voyce, to do the king of Babylon service: and therefore hast thou performed the wordes that thou spakest by the seruantes the prophets; namely, that the bones of our kinges and the bones of our fathers should be translated out of their places:

25 And lo, nowe are they layde out in the hearte of the lande, and in the cote of the night, and dead in great miserie, with hunger, with blood, with pestilence and are cleane cast forth.

26 As for the temple wherein thy name was called byd, thou hast layd it waste, as it is to see this day, and that for the wickednesse of the house of Israel and the house of Juda.

27 O Lorde our God, thou hast intreated vs after all thy goodnes, and according to all that great loyng mercie of thyne,

28 As thou spakest by thy seruants Prophes, in the day when thou diddest commande him to write thy laue before the children of Israel, saying:

29 *If ye wyll not heare me, fo it is an hard nerked people: but in the lande of their captuatie they shall remember them selues,

30 And learne to know that I am the Lorde your God, When I gave them an heart to understand, and ears to heare.

31 Then saie they playse me in the lande of their captuatie, and chynke vpon my name.

32 Then shall they turne them from their hardebarkes, and from their bugoldines: then shall they remember the things that happened vnto their fathers which smitted against me.

33 So wyll I bring them againe into the lande which I promised with an oath vnto their fathers Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and they shalbe loydes of it, yea I wyll encrease them, and not minueth them.

34 *And I wyll make an other conteu vante with them, such one as shall endure.

The booke of Baruch.

The iii. Chapter.

1. The people continueth in their prayer begun for their deliverance. 2. He prayeth upon the people, showing that to great adversities came upon them for the despiling thereof. 3. Only God was the finder of upbome. 37. Of the incarnation of Christ.

I here begin, O Lord Almighty, thou God of Israel: our soul that is in trouble, and our spirit that is vexed within thee: hear us, 0 Lord, and have pite upon us, for thou art a merciful God: be gracious unto us, for we have sinned before thee.

2. Thou endurest for ever: shoulde we then utterly perishes?

4. 0 Lord Almighty, thou God of Israel, hear now the prayer of the dead Israelites and of their children, which have sinned before thee, and not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord their God, for the which cause these plagues hang nowe upon us.

5. 0 Lord, remember not the wickedness of our forefathers, but shunke upon thy power and name nowe at this tune: for thou art the Lord our God, and the 0 Lord will be payable.

7. For thou hast put thy heart in our hearts, to the intent that we should call upon thy name and poyse thee in our captivity, & that we might turne from the wickedness of our forefathers that sinned before thee.

9. Behold, we are yet this day in our captivity, where, as thou hast scattered vs to be an abomination, curse, and subject to executions; like as it hath happened unto our fathers also, because of all their wickedness and departing from thee.

10. O Israel hear the commandmente of the Lord, ponder them well with thy heart, that thou maist learne wisdom.

11. But howe happereth it Israel that thou art in thy enemies lande: thou art warren side in a strange country, and besieged with the dead.

12. Why art thou become like theye that go downe to their graves?

13. Even because thou hast forsaken the well of upbome.

14. Least thou shouldst have remained still safe in thyne owne lande.

15. Who ever founde out her place: or who came ever into her treasures:

16. Where are the princes of the heathen become, and such as ruled the beastes upon the earth,

17. They that had their pasture with the fowles of the aire, they that hooeded by silver & gold wherin men trust too much, and made no end of their gathering.

18. What is become of them that yoyed silver, and were so careful, and coule not bring their works to passe?

19. They be rooted out and gone downe to hell, and other men are come up in their steades.

20. Young men have scene light, and dwelt upon earth: but the way of reformation have they not known.

21. Nor understande the paths thereof: neither have they children receiveth it, 0 say right farre is it from them.

22. If it hath not ben heard of in the land of Chanaan, neither hath it ben seen at Themam.

23. The Agarines sought after upbome, but that which is earthly, like as the marchoamtes of the lande do: they of Themam are cunning also, they labour for upbome & understanding: but the way of true upbome they knowe not, neither do they thinke upon the paths thereof.

24. O Israel howe great is the house of God: and howe large is the place of his possession:

25. Great is he: and hath none ende: yea, big and unmeasurable.

26. What is become of those famous geneautes, that here to great of bodies, and so worthy men of warre.
The booke of Baruch.

1 The reward of them that hepe the lawe, and the punishment of them that despise it.
2 I consolost of the people being in captiuncle, 19 I complaunt of Hierusalem, and under the tigure thereof, of the church. 35 I consolation and consolost of the same.

1 And why? I see the captiuncle of my people, of my sonnes and daughteres, which the everlasting God will bring upon them.
2 With joy by d I not the them but nolde must I leave them with weeping and sorrow.
3 Let no man rejoyce over me lylydowe and sloaken which for the times of my children am desolate of every man: For why: they departed from the lade of God.
4 They would not know his righteousness, no; wakke in the way of his commandementes: and as for the pathes of truth and godinesse, they had no lust to go in them.
5 O ye dwellers about Sion, come and let us call to remembrance the captiuncle that the everlasting God hath brought upon my sonnes & my daughteres.
6 He hath brought a people vpon them from farre, an buntinge people, and of a strange language: wherefore neither regard the old, nor pity the young.
7 These have carried away the deare beloved of my lylydowe, leaving me alone both desolate and childlesse.
8 But alas, what can I helpe you?
The booke of Baruch. lxxxix.

18 Have ye that brought these plagues upon you, deliver you also from the handes of your enemies.
19 So your way O my children, go your way, for I am desolate and forsaken.
20 I have put of the clothing of peace, put upon me the sackcloth of prayer, and for my time I will call upon the most high by bet.
21 Be of good cheer O my children, cry unto the Lord, and he shall deliver you from the power of the princes your enemies.
22 For verily I have euer a good hope of your prosperous health, yea a very gladnesse is come upon me from the holy one, because of the mercie that ye shall have of our everlasting sauiour.
23 With mourning and weeping by thid I let you go so me: but with joy and perpetuall gladness shall the Lord bring you againe unto me.
24 Like as the neighbours of Sion saw your captiue from God: even so shall they also see shortly your health in God, which shall come on you with great honour and everlasting worship.
25 O my children, suffer patiently the wrath that shall come upon you: for the enemies hath perfected thee, but shortly thou shalt see his destruction, and shall trade upon his necke.
26 By beatinges have gone rough hard ways, for they are led away as a flocke that is scattered abroad with the enemies.
27 But be of good comfort O my children, and cry unto the Lord: for he that led you alway hath ye pet in remembrance.
28 And like as ye have been mynded to svaue from your God: so shall ye now endeavour your selves ten times more to turne againe, and to seke him.
29 For he that hath brought these plagues upon you, shall hang you everlasting joy against with your health.
30 Take a good heart unto thee O Hierusalem: for he Whiche gave thee that name, exhorteth thee so to do.
31 *The wicked doeth that not put thee to trouble, shall perish: so such as have rejoiced at thy fall, shall be punished.
32 The cities whom thy children fere, and that have carried away thy sonnes, shall be corrected.
33 For like as they be not so glad of thy decay, and rejoice at thy fall: so that they mourn in their owne destruction.
34 The top of their multitude shall be taken away, and their cheare shall be turned to sorrow.
35 For a fire shall fall upon them from the everlasting God long to endure, and shall be inhabited of devouris for a great season.
36 O Hierusalem, looke about thee toward the east, and behold the joy that cometh unto thee from God.
37 For lo, thy sonnes whom thou hast forsaken, and that were scattered abroad, come gathered together from the east and west, rejoicing in the word of the holy one, unto the honour of God.

The v. Chapter.

1 Hierusalem is moved into gladnesse for the returne of her people, and under the figure thereof the church.

1 UT of thy mourning clothes O Hierusalem, and thy sorrow, I declare thee with the worship and honour that commeth unto thee from God with everlasting glory.
2 God that put the garment of righteousness upon thee, set a crown of everlasting worship upon thyne head:
3 For upon thee will God declare his brightness, that is under the heaven.
4 Yea an everlasting name shall be given thee of God, with peace of righteousness, and the honour of gods fear.
5 Arise O Hierusalem, stande up on hye, loke about thee toward the east, and behold thy children gathered from the east into the west, which receiue in the holy word, having God in remembrance.
6 They departed from thee on fooe, and were led away of their enemies: but now shall the Lord bring them forth with honour, as children of the king.

10 For hyther that God bring Israel with topfull mirth, and in the light of his maestie, With his mercy and righteousnesse that commeth of him selfe.

The vii. Chapter.

A copie of the epistle that Jeremiah sent unto the Jewes, which were led away prisoners by the king of Babylon: where in he certified them of the thing that was commanded him of God.

1 For the names that ye have done againt God, ye shall be led away captiue unto Babylon, even of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon.
2 So when ye be come into Babylon, ye shall remayn there many yeares, and for a long season, namely seven generations: and after that will I bring you away peaceably from thence.
3 Nowe that ye see in Babylon gods of gold, of siluer, of wood, and of stone, borne by menne shoulders, to call out a fearfulnesse before the heauen.
4 But looke that ye do not as the other: be not ye afraid, let not the feare of them overcome you.
5 Therefore when ye see the multitude of people worshipping them before and before, slape in your heartes: O Lord, it is thou that oughtest only to be worshipped.
6 Byne angell also shalbe with you, and my selfe will care for your soules.

11 Yet can not these gods deliver them selves from rust and mothes.
12 When they have covered them with clothing of purple, they lupp their faces for the dust of the temple, Whereof there is much among them.
13 One hath a keeper in his hande as though he were judge of the country, yet can he not say thus as offende hym.
14 Another hath a sword, or ane in his hand: for all that, he is neither able to defende hym selfe from battale, nor from murderere.
15 By this ye may understand, that they be no gods: therefore see that ye neither worship them, nor feare them.
16 For like as a besell that a man beeth, is nothing worth when it is broken, even so is it with their gods: when they be set by in the temple, their eyes be fulf of dust, and they vide the feet of those that come in.
17 And like as the bowes are shew in round about upon hym that hath offended the king, so as it were a dead body kept beside the grave: Even so, the priests kepe the bowes with barres & lockes, lest their gods be spoyled with robbers.
18 They set by candels before them, peyn berly and that man, whereof they cannot see one: but cene as blockes, to stande they in the temple.
19 It is sayd, that the serpentes & worms which come of the earth gnaw out their herties, eating them & their clothes also, and yet they seelie it not.
20 Their faces are blache, thowyle the smoke that is in the temple.
21 The owles, owldowes, and bydes see upon them, peya and the rattes run upon their heads.

The vi. Chapter.
The booke of Baruch.  lxxxiiij.

22. By this ye may be sure that they are not gods, therefore fear them not.

23. The godle that they have is to make them beautiful: for all that except some boydght of their rust they will give some shine, and when they were cast into a fornace, they felt it not.

24. They are bought for money, and have no breath of life within them.

25. They must be borne upon mens shoulders as those that have no feel, whereby declare unto men that they be nothing worth: confounded be they then that worship them.

26. Forsake ye the ground, they can not rise by againe of them selves: Pea though one helpeth them up and set them right, yet are not able to stand alone, but must have props set under them like dead men.

27. As for the thing that is offered unto them, their priests sett it, abuse it, Pea the priests ynees take thereof: but unto thelickes poopoe they see nothing of it.

28. The women with childe and the menious lay haunches of their offerings: Be this ye may be sure that they are no gods, therefore be not ye atappe of them.

29. From whence commenceith it then that they be called gods? The women set before the gods of sluer, gole, and wood.

30. And the priests sit in their temples, having open clothes, whole beades and bracers are shauen, and have nothing upon their beades.

31. Boaring and crying upon their gods, as men do at the feast when one is dead.

32. The priests also take awaye the garnements of the images, and decke their ynees and children withall.

33. Whether it be good or evill that any man do unto them, they are not able to recompence it: they can neither set by a king, nor put him dooone.

34. In like manner, they may neither give riches, nor reward evill: though a man make a bollt unto them and keep it not, they will not require it.

35. They can no man from death, neither deliver the weake from the migh-

36. They can not restore a blind man to his sight, nor helpe any man at his need.

37. They can not be no mercie to the body, not do good to the fatherlesse.

38. Their gods of wood, stone, gole, and sluer, are but even as other stones that be heuen of the mountayne: they that worship them, halfe conconfound.

39. Howe should they then be taken for gods? Yea howe dare men call them gods?

40. And though the Chaldees worshiped them not, neither they were bombe and could not speake:

41. Yet they them selues offer unto Bel, and wouldt faue hym to speake: as who say they couldt seeke, that may not more.

42. But when these men come to understand, they shall forsake them, for their gods have no feeling.

43. A great sort of women gire with sroavors, in the streets, burne oluer beries: How if one of them be contemped away, and bye with such as come by the, casteth her neighbours in the teeth, because she was not worthyly reputed, nor her coade broken.

44. What so ever is done for them, is but in byyne and lost: Howe may it then be thought of anyde, that they are gods?

45. Carpenters and gooldenlices make them: neither be they any other thing, but even what the workmen will make of them.

46. Pea the gooldenlices them selues that make them are of no long continuance: Howe shoude then the things that are made of them, be gods?

47. TAYNE therefore are the things, yet very shame is it that they leave behinde them for their posterity.

48. For asone as there commeneth any warre or plague upon them, then the piescles imagin where they may hyde them selfes with them.

49. Howe can men thynke then that they be gods, whiche neither may defende them selues from warre, nor deliver them from misfortune?

50. For leying they be but of wood, of stone, or sluer, and of gole, all people and kinges shall knowe hereafter that they be but byyne things: yea it halfe openly declared that they be no gods, but even the very wokyes of mens haubes, and that God hath nothing to do with them.

51. It is manifest then that they are no gods, but the wokyes of mens haubes, S and no booke of God in them.
52 They can set no king in the lande, nor gene rayne unto men.
53 They can gene no sentence of a matter, neither defende the lande from wrong: for they are not able to do so much as a crowe that steele betwixt heaven and earth.
54 When there happeneth a fire into the house of those gods of wood, and sluer, and of golde, the priestes must escape and save themselves, but the gods burne as the balke therin.
55 They can not withstande any thing or batell: howe may it then be thought or granted that they be gods?
56 Moreover, these gods of wood, of stone, of golde and sluer, may neither defend them selves from theues nor robbers:
57 Ye the very wicked are stronger then they: these stepp them out of their apparel that they be clothed withall, these take their golde and sluer from them, & so get them alway, yet can they not helpe them selves.
58 Therefore it is much better for a man to be a king, and to do thew his power, or els a powdable vesseell in a house, wherein he that oweth it might have pleasure, yea or to be a doze in a house, to hope such thynge safe as be therin: then to be such a rayne god.
59 The lune, the moone, all the harre, semg they gene their shine and light, are obedient, and do men good.
60 When the lightning glithreth, all is cleare.
61 The wude bloweth in every countrey: when God commandeth the cloudes to go rounde about the whole world, they do as they are bidden.
62 When the fire is sent downe from above and commandeth, it burneth by hilles and woodes: but as for those gods, they are not like one of these things, neither in beautie, neither in strength.
63 Wherefore, men (wone not thinke nor say that they be gods, seeing they can neither gene sentence in judgement, nor do men good.
64 For of much, as ye are sure that they be no gods, then feare them not.
65 For they can neither speake expil nor good of kinges.
66 They can shew no tokens or meanes to the heathen: neither may as the lune, nor gene light as the moone.
67 Ye the unreasonable beasts are better then they: for they can get them under the roode, and do them selves good.
68 So can ye be certified by no manner of meanes, that they be gods, therefore feare them not.
69 For like as a scarowle in a garden of heordes keepeth nothing: even so are their gods of wood, of sluer, and golde.
70 And like as a wyte thorne in an orcharde that every byd listeth upon, peyke as a dead body, that is cast in the darke: even so is it with those gods of wood, sluer, and golde.
71 By the purple & scarlet whiche they have upon them and soone saydeth alway, ye may understande that they be no gods: yea, they them selves shall be contented at the last, which shalbe a great confusion of the lande.
72 Blessed is the godly man that hath no images and worshippeth none: for he shalbe farre from reprooche.

The ende of the prophete Baruch, whiche is not in the Canon of the Hebrue.
The song of the three children, which were put into the hot burning ozen. The common translation readeth this song in the iii. Chapter of Daniel.

25 The prayer of Azarias. 46 The crucifix of the king. 48 The lamb devoured the Chaldeans. 49 The angel of the Lord was in the furnace. 51 The three children prayed the Lord, and provoked all creatures to the same.

And they walked in the midst of the flame, praying God and praying the Lord.

Then Azarias stood up, and prayed on this manner: even in the midst of the fire op-ned his mouth, and said:

Blessed art thou O Lord God of our fathers, right worship to be prayed and honoured is that name of thine for ever.

For thou art righteous in all the things that thou hast done to us, Psa. 103. 5. All thy works, thy vapors are right, and all thy judgements true.

In all things that thou hast brought upon us, and upon the holy city of our fathers, even Hierusalem, thou hast executed true judgement: Psa. 25. 10. Right and equitable hast thou brought all these thongs upon us, because of our sins.

For why? we have offended and done wickedly, departing from thee.

In all things have we trespassed, not obeyed thy commandments, nor kept them, neither done as thou hast hidden us, that we may prosper.

Whereof all that thou hast brought upon us, and every thing that thou hast done to us, thou hast done them in true judgement.

As in deliberating us into the hands of our enemies, among ungodly and wicked abominations, and to an unrighteous king, Psa. 23. 11. The most farvade upon earth.

And now we may not open our mouths, we are become a shame and shame and reproach into thy servants, to them that worship thee.

Pet for thy names sake [we beseech thee] give us not up for ever, break not thy prounent,

And take not away thy mercie from vs for thy beloved Abrahams sake, for thy servant Isaac sake, and for thy holy Israel's sake:

To whom thou hast spoken and pronounced, that thou wouldst multiply their seed as the stars of heaven, as the same that spake upon the sea shore.

For we O Lord, are become less then any people, and be kept under this day in all the world, because of our names.

So that now we have neither prince,
duke, prophet, burnt offering, sacrifice, oblation, intent, nor sanctuarie before thee.

Nevertheless, in a contrite heart and an humble spirit let us be received, that we may obtain thy mercy.

Like as in the burnt offering of rammes and bullocks, and like as in thousands of fat lambs: so let our offering be in thy sight this vapo, that it may please thee: for there is no confusion into the that put there trust in thee.

And now we solove thee with all our heart, we fear thee, and serve thy face.

Put vs not to shame: but deal with us after thy louing kindness, and according to the multitude of thy merces.

Deliver vs by thy miracles O Lord, and get thy name an honour: that all they which do thy servants supr, may be confounded:

Let them be ashamed through the al-mightie power, and let their strength be broken:

That they may know, how that thou only art the Lord God, and honour worthy throughout all the world.

And the kings servants that put them in, ceased not to make the oven hot with [c]With fire, drie straw, pitch, tolue, and fagottes:

So that the flame went out of the oven upon a soriute and none unites:

Heartake away and rent vp thosc Chaldees that it gat hold of upon before the ovan.

L (iii) 49 BItt
The song of the three children.

49 But the angel of the Lord came down into the oven to Abania and his fellows, and smote the flanke of the fire out of the oven.
50 And made the muddes of the oven as it had ben a coile winde blowing: so the fire neither touched them, nor did them hurt.
51 Then there were as one mouth, pappled, honooured, and blessed God in the foune, saying:
52 "Wissed be thou O Lord God of our fathers: for thou art poplant and honour worthy, ye to be magnified for evermore.
53 "Wissed be the holy name of thy glorie, for it is worthy to be pappled & magnified in all worldes.
54 Wissed be thou in the holy temple of thy glorie: for above all things thou art to be pappled, ye and more then worthy, to be magnified for ever.
55 Wissed be thou in the throne of thy kingdom: for above all thou art worthy to be well spoken of, and to be more then magnified for ever.
56 Wissed be thou that lokest toward the decep, and settst upon the Cherubims: for thou art worthy to be pappled, and above all, to be magnified for ever.
57 Wissed be thou in the sirmament of heauen: for thou art pappled and honour worthy for ever.
58 O all ye workes of the Lord, speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
59 O ye angels of the Lord speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
60 O ye heauen speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and let hym by for ever.
61 O all ye waters that be aboute the sirmament speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and let hym by for ever.
62 O all ye powers of the Lord speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
63 O ye sunne and moone speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
64 O ye starres of heauen, speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
65 O ye shadowes and dead speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
66 O all ye windes of God, speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.

67 O ye fire and heate speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
68 O ye winter and sommer speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
69 O ye deawes and frostes speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
70 O ye frost and color speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
71 O ye ye and snowe speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
72 O ye nights and dayes speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
73 O ye light and barrenesse speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
74 O ye lightnings and cloudes speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
75 O let the earth speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
76 O ye mountaynes and hilles speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
77 O all ye greene things upon the earth speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
78 O ye belles speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
79 O ye seas and saddles speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
80 O ye whales and all that moue in the watters speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
81 O all ye fowles of the ayre speake good of the Lord: papple hym, and set hym by for ever.
82 O all ye bestes and cattel speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
83 O ye children of men speake good of the Lord: papple him, and set hym by for ever.
84 O let Israel speake good of the Lord: papple him, and let him by for ever.
85 O ye priests of the Lord speake good of the Lord: papple them, and let them by for ever.
The story of Susanna, which is the thirteenth Chapter of Daniel after the Latine.

1 Now when the people departed away at noone, Susanna went into her husbands orchard to walk.

2 The two elders seeing this, that she went in daily and walked, they besought their wives to come with them, and to bring them unto their house. for they would see if she were a woman of such a good name as she had a reputation in the people. for the same time there were made two judges, such as the Lord spake of, the wickedness of Babylon conneth from the elders that is from the judges which seeme to rule the people.

3 These came oft to Joachims house: and all such as had anything to do in the laver, came thither unto them.

4 Now Joachim [her husband] was a great rich man, and had a faire orchard belonging unto his house: and to him resorted the Jewscommonly, because he was a man of reputation among them. The same were there made two judges, such as the Lord spake of, the wickedness of Babylon conneth from the elders that is from the judges which seeme to rule the people.

5 These were there made two judges, such as the Lord spake of. 7 And for shame they durst not tell her theirordinate lust, that they would have done to her.

6 When they returned again, they came together, enquiring out the matter being told them secretly, ye them to do the other of his wicked lust: Then apponied them a time when they might take Susanna alone.
The story of Susanna.

15 It happened also that they sowed out a convenient time when the went forth to walk, as her manner was, and no body with her but two maidens, and thought to wash her self in the garden; for it was an hot season.
16 And there was not one person there, except the two elders that had hid them selves to behold her.
17 So she said to her maidens: Go let me ople and sope, and shut the orchard door, that I may wash me.
18 And they did as she had them, and shut the orchard door, and went out there into the baske doore to fetch the thing that she had commanded: 'but Susanna knew not that the elders lay there within.
19 Now when the maides were gone soorth, the two elders got them up, and came upon her, saying:
20 How the orchard doores are shut that no man can see vs, we have a lust into thee, therefore content unto vs, and be with vs:
21 If thou wilt not, we shall bring a testimonial against thee, that there was a young fellow with thee, 'that thou hadst sent away thy maidens from thee for the same cause.
22 Susanna sighed, and said, Alas, I am in trouble on every side: though I follow your minde, it will be my death: and if I consent not unto you, I cannot escape your handes.
23 Well, it is better for me to fall into your handes without the deede being, than to shine in the sight of the Lord.
24 And with that she cried out with a loude bope; the elders also cried out against her.
25 Then came there one to the orchard doore, and smote it open.
26 And while the camenates of the house heard the crye in the orchard, they rushed in at the bache doore to see what the matter was.
27 So when the elders told them, the camenates were greatly ashamed; for why, there was never such a report made of Susanna.
28 On the morowe after came the people to Joacim her husband, and the two elders came also with malicious imaginations against Susanna, to bring her unto death.
29 And spake thus before the people:
30 Send for Susanna the daughter of Helchias, Joacins wife, and immediately they sent for her.
31 So she came with her father and mother, her children and al her kindred.
32 And Susanna was a tender person, and marvelous face of face.
33 Therefore the wicked men commanded to take her clothes from her face (for she was covered) that at the least they might be satisfied in her beauty.
34 Then her friends, yea and all they that knew her, began to wepe.
35 These two elders soode vp in the midst of the people, & laped their handes upon the head of Susanna, 36 And the elders said: As we were walking in the orchard alone, this woman came in with her two maidens, whom she sent away from her, and spared the orchard doores.
37 With that a young fellow which there was hid, came unto her, and lay with her.
38 As for vs, we spede in a corner of the orchard: and when we saw this wickednes, we came to them, and we lade them as they were together.
39 But we could not hold him, for he was stronger then we. Thus he opened the doore and got him away.
40 How wise we had taken this woman, we asked her what young fellowe this was, but she would not tel vs. This is the matter: we be witnesses of the same.
41 The common sorte beleived them as those that were the elders and judges of the people, & so they condemned her to death.
42 Susanna cried out with a loud bope and said: Verily God, & thou searchest of secretes, thou that knowest all things before they come to passe:
43 Thou wertt that they have done false witnesse against me, and behold I must dye, whereas I never did any such thinges as these men have maliciously inuented against me.
44 And the Lord heard her bope.
45 For when she was ten sight to death, the lorde raised by the spirite of a young child, whose name was Daniel.
46 Which cried with a loud bope, &
Then all the people turned to the people that thou hast speaken.

Daniel spake: In the midst of them, and said: What meaneth these words that thou hast spoken?

And Daniel spake: They are to such foolish ye children of Israel, that ye cannot discern no know the truth: Ye have here condemned a daughter of Israel unto death, and knowe not the truth wherefore:

So he in judgement againe: for they have spoken false witness against her. Wherefore the people turned againe in all the haste: and the elders, (that is to the principal heads) said unto them: Come we will volume here among us, and see ye: this matter, seeing God hath granted, she as great honour as an elder.

And Daniel saide: Go up: and put these too aflye one from another, and then shall I examine them.

When they were put aflye one from another, he called one of them, and said unto him: O thou old mankarde care that hast bled thy wickednes so long, thynne yugitations deedes which thou hadst done afore are now come to light.

For thou hast given false judgements, thou hast oppressed the innocent, and letten the gilte go free: where as yet the Lord saith: The innocent and righteous kee thou slay not.

Well then, if thou hadst seen her, tell me by what tree sauest thou them companion together: he answered: under a Hulberry tree.

And Daniel saide: Very well, noble thou spakest even upon thyne head: lo, the messenger of the Lord hath receaved the sentence of him, to cut thee in two.

Then put he him aside, and called for the other, and said unto him: O thou seed of Chanaan, but use of Juda, fairenes hath decreed thee, and lust hath subverte thyne heart.

Thus dealt ye afore with the daughters of Israel, and they were conformed unto you: but the daughter of Juda would not abide your wickednes.

And tell me then, under what tree didst thou take them companioning together: he answered: under a pomegranate tree.

Then saide: Daniel unto him: Very well, noble thou spakest even upon thyne head: the messenger of the Lord saitheth, saying with the blood to cut thee in two, and slay you both.

With that all the whole multitude gave a great shout, and prayed God: which alway delivered them, that put their trust in him.

And they came upon the two elders, whom Daniel had counsel with their owne mouth, that they had given false witness,

And dealt with them even lykeblysse as they would have done with their neighbours, yea they did* according to the law of Peoples, and put them to death: Thus the innocent blood was slained the same day.

Then Helias and his lyke prayed God: for their daughter Susanna, with Joacin her husband, and at the kine: that there was no dishonestesse found in her.

From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputation in the sight of the people.

And king Asyages was lapde with his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia reigneth in his steepe.

The ende of the story of Susanna.
Daniel did eat at the king's table, and was had in reverence above all his friends.

There was at Babylon an image called Bel, and there were spent upon him every day twelve cakes, fourtie sheep, and five great pots of wine.

He did the king worship him selfe, and went daily to honour him, but Daniel worshipped his owne God: And the king saide unto him, Why doest not thou worship Bel?

He answered and said: Because I may not worship things that be made with hands, but the living God which made heaven and earth, and hath power upon all flesh.

The king said unto him: Thinketh thou not that Bel is a living God: or feest thou not how much he eateth and drinketh every day?

Daniel replied and said, O king because not thyselfe: for this is but made of clay within, and of brass without, neither eateth he euer any thing.

Then the king was wroth, and called for his priestes, and bade them: If ye tell me not who is this that eateth by these expendes, ye shall dye:

But if ye can certifie me that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shall dye: for he hath spoken blaspheme against Bel, And Daniel laid unto the king: Let it to be, according as thou hast saide.

The priestes of Bel were threescore and ten, before their byymes and children: And the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

So Bel's priestes saide, Lo, we will go out: let thou the meate there of king, and pour in the vinte, then shut the door fast, and seal it with thine own signet:

And to morowe when thou comest in, thou shalt see not that Bel hath eaten by all, we will suffer death: or els Daniel, that hath lied upon vs.

The priestes thought them selves sure enough: for under the aultre they had made a privie entrance, and there went they in euer, and did eate by what there was.

So when they were gone forth, the king set meates before Bel: Now Daniel had commanded his attendants to bring ashes, and these he sitteth through out all the temple, that the king might see: then went they out and sparc'd the door, sealing it with the kinges signet, and so departed.

In the night came the priestes, with their byymes and children, as they were wont to do; and did eate and drinke by all.

In the morning betimes at the brake of the day the king arose, and Daniel with him.

And the king said: Daniel, are the scales whole yet: he answered: ye O king, they be whole.

Now assone as he had opende the door, the king looked into the aultre, and cried with a loud voice: Great art thou O Bel, and with thee is no desitie.

Then laughe Daniel, and held the king that he should not go in, and saide: Behold the pavement, marke. Well whole fooetteps are these:

The king said: I see the fooetteps of men, women, and children.

Therefore the king was angry, and toeke the priestes, with their byymes and children: and they showed him the poore doores where they came in, and dyd eate by such things as were upon the aultre:

For the which cause the king spake, and deliuered Bel into Daniel's power, that destroyed him and his temple.

And in that same place there was a great Dragon, which they of Babylon worshipped.

And the king laid unto Daniel, Sayest thou that this is but a god of brass alleo: Lo, he lyureth, he eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say that he is not living God: therefore worship him.

Daniel laid unto the king: I will worship the Lord my God, for he is the true living God: as for this, he is not the God of lyfe.

But gene ne leave O king, and I shall destroy this Dragon without wordes or flasse.
Bel and the Dragon. lxxxvij.

Lorde Almighty, God of our fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and of the righteous seed of them: which hath made heauen and earth, with all the omnienre, of which hath ordained the sea by the word of the commandement, which hath beene the deep, and hath sealed it for they earnefull and laudable name, which all men feare, and tremble before the face of thy power, and not to: the anger of thy thearening, the which is impossible to sinners, but the meare of the promis is great and unsearchable: for thou art the Lorde God most high above all the earth, long suffering, and exceeding mercifull, and repentaunt upon the matter of men.

The prayer of Manasses king of Iuda, when he was holden captiue in Babylon.

The Lorde Almighty, God of our fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and of the righteous seed of them: which hath made heauen and earth, with all the omnienre, of which hath ordained the sea by the word of the commandement, which hath beene the deep, and hath sealed it for they earnefull and laudable name, which all men feare, and tremble before the face of thy power, and not to: the anger of thy thearening, the which is impossible to sinners, but the meare of the promis is great and unsearchable: for thou art the Lorde God most high above all the earth, long suffering, and exceeding mercifull, and repentaunt upon the matter of men.

Thou Lorde after thy goodness hast promised repentauntance of the remission of sinnes, and thou that are the god of the righteous, hast put repentauntance to the righteous Izhaham, Isaac, and Jacob, unto that have not turnne against thee: but because I have turnne about the number of the landes of the sea, and that myne iniquityes are multiplied, I am humbled with many bandes of iron, and there is in me no breathing. I have pouched thine anger, and have done evil before thee, in committing abominations, and multiplying obvenes. And now I bowe the knees of my heart, requiring goodness of thee O Lorde. I have sinned, and I have sinned, and know myne iniquitie. I defire thee by prayer O Lorde forgive me, forgive me, destroy me not with myne iniquityes, neither do thou alwaies remember myne runnings to punishe me, but save me (which am unworthy) after thy great mercie, and I will praise thee everlastingly all the days of my life: for all the power of heaven playeth thee, and unto thee belongeth glory, woorlde without end, Amen.

After the death of Alexander the king of Macedonia, 11 Antiochus taketh the kingdom. 12 Many of the children of Israel make covenant with the Gentiles. 13 Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Hierusalem unto his dominion. 14 Hierusalem being burnt, they make laws of their own, and so did to keep gods laws. 50 Antiochus leteth by an roll over the utter of God.

After that Alexander king of Macedon, some of Philip went forth of the land of Ethiopia, and

New Darius king of the Persians and Pardes and raigned for him as he had done before in Grece.

It happened that he took great warres in hand, thame bey many strong citie, and five many kinges of the earth,

Going through to the ends of the world, and getting many spoyles of the people, informed that the whole world fode in awe of him, and therefore was he proud in his heart.

Now when he had gathered a mightie strong hoard,

And subdued the landes and people with their princes, so that they became tributaries unto him,

Then he fell like, and when he perceived that he mult needs pye,

He called for his noble estates, which had been bought up with him of childbe, and parted his kingdom among them while he was yet alive,

So Alexander raigned twelve yeres, and then dyed.

After his death fell the kingdome into his princes, and they obtained it every one in his roome,

And called them seues to be crowned as kinges: and so did their children after them many yeres, and much wickednes increaede in the worle.

ring vessels, the chargers, the golden spoons, the vases, the crowns, & golden apparel of the temple, and brake downe all in pieces.

24 Hee took also the silver and golde, the precious vessels, and the secret creatures that he found.

25 And when hee had taken away altogether, causeth a great number of men, and spake very proudly, the departed into his owne lande.

26 Therefoe there was great lamentation throughout all Israel.

27 The princes and the elders of the people mourned, the young men and the maidens were defiled, and the face beaute of women was changed:

28 The bridegome and the bride take them to mourning,

29 The lande and those that dwell therein was mourning: for all the house of Jacob was brought to confusion.

30 After two yeares the king sent his chief treasurier into the citie of Juda, which came to Hierusalem with a great multitude of people,

31 Speaking peaceable wordes unto the, but all was deceite: for when they had given him credence,

32 He fell seditiously upon the citie, and smote it sore, and destroyed much people of Israel:

33 * And when he had spoiled the citie, he set fire out, casting downe houses and balles on every side:

34 The women and their children took they captive, and led away their cattle.

35 Then builded they the citie of Dauid with a great and thicke wall, and with mightie towres, and made it a strong holde for them.

36 Beside all this, they set wicked people and beggaring men to keep it, 37 Stored it with weapons and victuals, gathered the goodes of Hierusalem, and layed them by there: Thus became it a threshing cattell.

38 Thus they became a heavy burthen, laying waste for the people that went into the sanctuary, and for the cruel destruction of Israel.

39 Thus they shed innocent blood on every side of the sanctuary, and defiled it.

40 Informe that the citiejs were faine to depart, and the citie became an habitation of strangers, being desolate of her owne seede: for her owne natures were faine to leaue her.

41 *Her sanctuary was cleane wasted, her holy daies were turned into mourning, her Sabathes were had in desision, & her honour brought to naught.

42 (8) Looke how great her glory was before, so great was her confusion, and her lope turned into bondage.

43 *Antiochus also the king sent out a commision unto all his kingdom, that all the people should be one.

44 Then they left every man his laboure, and at the heathen agreed to the commandement of king Antiochus:

45 Dea, many of the Israelites consented thereunto, offering unto idols, and desiring the Sabbath.

46 So the king Antiochus sent his messengers with his communion unto Hierusalem, and to all the citie of Juda, that they should follow the labours of the heathen:

47 And sobad either burnt offering, meat offering, or peace offering to be made in the temple of God, & that there should no Sabbath nor his leaf day be kept:

48 But commandeth that the sanctuaries and the holy people of Israel should be defiled:

49 He commanded also, that there should be set by other altars, temples, &c to offer by Abuses flesh, and other uncleane beasts,

50 That men should leave their children uncircumcised, to desile their houses with all manner of uncleannesse and abominations:

51 That they might so forget the laboure, and change all the holy ordinances of God,

52 And that whosoever would not doe according to the commandement of King Antiochus, should suffer death.

53 In the manner commended he throughout all his reigne, and set rulers over the people, for to compell them to doe these things:

54 Commanding all the citie of Juda to doe sacrifice unto idols.

55 Then went the people into the heathen by heapes, forsooke the law of the Lord, and committed much evil in the lande:

56 And the wore the Israelites into secret places, even where so ever they coulde see for succour.

57 The fiftie day of the moneth Casper, the.
In the hundred threescore and fifth year, set king Antiochus an abominable idol of desolation upon the altar of God, and they built altars throughout all the cities of Judah on every side, 54 Before the doors of the houses, and in the streets, where they burnt incense and did sacrifice.

55 * And as for the books of the law of God, they burnt them in the fire, and rent them in pieces.

56 Whatsoever he was that had a book of the testament of the Lord found by him, yea whosoever endured him selfe to keep the law of the Lord, the kinges commandement was, that they should put him to death.

57 And through his anathemat they executed these things every month, upon the people of Israel, that were founde in the cities.

The ii. Chapter.

1 The mourning of Maccathias and his sones for the destruction of the holy citie. 2 They refuse to do sacrifice unto idols. 3 They are blame and will not fight against, because of the Sabbath day. 4 Maccathias dying, commanded his sone to sticke by the word of God, after the example of the fathers.
And Mæthathias spake: Do is me, alas, that ever I was borne, to see this misfortune of my people, and to see this destruction of the holy city, and thus to fit to suit, it being delivered into the hands of the enemies. *Her sanctuary is come unto the power of strangers, her temple is as it were a man that hath lost his good name: her precious ornaments are carried away captive, her old men are slaine in the streets, and her young men are fallen by the sword of the enemies.

What people is it that hath not some possession in her kingdom? or who hath not gotten some of her spoyle? *All her glory is taken away, she was a free woman, and now she is become an handenayde.

Before her sanctuary, our beautie and honour is wasted away and defiled by the gentiles.

What helpeth us then to live?

And Mæthathias rent his clothes, and his sonnes, and put sackcloaths on them, and mourned very sore.

Then came the men thither which were sent of king Antiochus, to compell such as were fled into the citie of Modiun, to do to sacrifice, or to burn incense unto idols, and to forsake the law of God.

So many of the people of Israel consented and inclined unto them: but Mæthathias and his sonnes remained steadfast.

Then spake the commissioners of king Antiochus, and laid unto Mæthathias: Thou art a noble man, of thy reputation, and great in this citie, having many faire children and brethren: Come thou therefore first, and fulfill the kings commandement, like as all the heathen have done, yea and the men of Juda, and such as remaine at Hierusalem: so shalt thou and thy children be in the kings favour, and enriched with goodes, finer, and great rewards.

Mæthathias answered, and spake with a loud voice: Though all nations obey the king Antiochus, and fall alwaye every man from keeping the law of their fathers, although they consent to his commandements:

Let will I and my sonnes and my brethren not fall from the lawes of our fathers.

God forbid we shoule: that were not good for us, that we shoule forsake the lawe and ordinaunces of God, and to agree unto the commandement of king Antiochus.

Therefore we will do no such sacrifice, neither breake the statutes of our lawe, to go another way.

And when he had spoken these wordes, there came one of the Jews, which openly in the sight of all, did sacrifice unto the idoles upon the altar in the citie of Modiun according to the kings commandement.

When Mæthathias saw this, it grieved his heart, for that his reynes shoke within him, and his bowels tendered upon every sound of the lawe: With that he start up, and killed the Jewes before the altar:

And thenceforth they committed hym to do sacrifice, and destroyed the altar at the same time.

Such a zeale had he unto the lawe of God, like as Phinehes did unto Zambiz the sonne of Salome.

And Mæthathias cried with a loud voice toward the citie, saying: Who so is a zealous in the lawe, and will keepe the commandement, let him follow me.

So he and his sonnes fled into the mountaynes, and left all that ever they had in the citie.

Many other godly men also which were flushed and brightly departed into the wildernes, with their children, their wives, and their carret, and remayned there: for the tyranny increased sore upon them.

Now when the kings servants came, and the host which was at Hierusalem in the citie of David, hearde that certaine men had broken the kings commandement, and were gone their way to the wildernes into secret places:

Then many pursued after them, and after they had overtaken them, they ramped them selves, and set the battell aray against them in the Sabbath day.

And layed unto them: Will ye yet rebel: Get you hence, and doe the commandement of king Antiochus, and ye shall lyue.

They answered: We will not go, for thefe, neither will we do the kings commandement, to desile the Sabbath day.

Judas is made ruler over the Jews. 1 He killeth Apollonius and Seron the prince of Syria. 44 The conference of Judas with God. 15 Judas determined to fight against Leias, whom Antiochus had made captaine over his hoast. 80 The prayer of the aboleuers.

Then stoope by Judas Machabees in his fathers stead,

And all his brethren helped him, and to dyd all they that held with his father, and fought with efereftanefse for Israel.

Judas gat his people great honour: he put on a base plate as a giante, and arrayed him selfe with his harnesse, and defended the hoast with his sword.

In his actes he was like a lion, and as a bulls bulcpe razing at his pay.

He was an enemie to the wicked, and hunted them out, and brought by those that becrd his people:

So that his enemies fled for feare of hym, and all the workers of bvgodienefse were put to trouble: such lacke and prosperite was in his hande.

He went thorow the cities of Juda, destrouing the bvgodily out of them, turning away the death from Israel,

And receauing such as were oppressed: and the fame of him went unto the vertmost part of the earth.

Then Apollonius [a prince of Syria] gathered a mightie great hoast of the heathen, set out of Samaria, to fight against Israel. 8 When Judas perceaued, he went southe to meete him, fought with him, and he gate hym: the remaunt fled, and he toke their substance.

Judas also toke Apollonius olue stoope, and fought with it all his lyfe long.

D i. Machabees.
24. And Judas sallowed upon them beyond Bethozon, into the playne field, where there were name eight hundred men of them, and the residue fledde into the lande of the Philistines.
25. Then all the heathen on every side were afraid of Judas & his brethren:
26. So that the rumore of him came into the kings ears, for all the gentiles could tell of the wars of Judas.
27. So when king Antiochus heard these things, he was anger in his minde: wherefore he sent forth, and gathered an host of his whole realme, very strong armies:
28. And opened his treasure, and gave his host a peres wages in hande, commanding them to be redy at all times.
29. Nevertheless, when he said that there was not money enough in his treasures, and that thosold the disorde and perfecution which he made in the lande to put downe the laves that had ben of olde times, his soulemes and tributes of the lande were diminished:
30. He feared that he was not able to bare the costes and charges any lenger, nor to have such gifts to gene liberally as he dyd afose, more then the kings that were before him.
31. Wherefor he was heavy in his minde, and thought to go into Persides for to take tributes of the lande, and so to gather much money.
32. So he lef Lyons a noble man of the kings blood to oversee the kings business, from the water Ephrathas unto the borders of Egypt:
33. And to kepe well his sone Antiochus, till he came againe.
34. Moreover, he gave hym halfe of his host, and Elephantes, and committed them to him every thing, and gaue him the charge of all thinges that he woulde have done, concerning those whiche dwelt in Juda and Jerusalem:
35. That he shoulde sende out an armie against them, to destroy and to rooste out the power of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem, to put out their memorial from that place.
36. To fet strangers for to inhabit all their quarters, and to part their land among them.
37. Thus the king toke the other part of the host, and departed from Antioch a title of his realme, over the water Euphrates, in the hundred & fourtie and seven peres, and went thorde the hye countrys.
38. *And Lyphas chose those hym proloni the name of Dominius, Nicazon, and Gogias, mighty men, and the kings friends.
39. These he sent with fourtie thousande footemen, and seven thousande horsemen, for to go into the land of Juda, and to destroy it, as the king commaunded.
40. So they went forth with all their power, and came to Emmaus into the playne field.
41. When the marchantes of the country heard the rumour of them, they & their seruantes toke very much silver & gold for to bye the children of Israel to be their bondmen: There came unto them also yet mo men of Warre on every hyde, out of Syria, and from the Palatines.
42. Now when Judas and his brethren said that trouble increased, and that the host dyed yere unto their borders, consider the kings Wores, whiche he commanded unto the people [name?
43. They taye one to another. Let vs reddresse the decap our people, let vs fight for our folk & for our sancturie.
44. Then the congregation were boone redy gathered to fight, to pray and to make supplication unto God for merr and grace.
45. As for Hierusalem, it lay yoyde, as it was at first had ben a Wildernesse: there went no man in not out at it, and the sancturie was troben done, the alamtes kept the castle, there was the habitation of the heathen, the mirth of Jacob was taken away, the pype and the harpe was gone from among them.
46. The Nazarites gathered them together, he came to Halpe before Hierusalem: so in Halpe was the place where they played afose time in Israel.
47. So they fasted that day, and put lacke-clothes upon them, rast allbes upon their heads, rent their clothes.
48. And layde forth the bookes of the lawe, Whereouer the heathen sought to paint the likenesse of their images.
49. And bought the priestes ornaments, the firstlings, and the silver, they set there also the Nazarites, which had not accomplished their boodes before God:

Chapter.

And cried with a loud voice toward heaven, saying: What shall we do with these? and whether shall we carry them away?

For thy sanctuary is trodden down and defiled, the priests are come to heaviness and dishonour,

And behold, the heathen are come together for to destroy us: Thou knowest what things they imagine against us.

Howe may we stand before them, except thou (O God) be our help?

Then they blew out the trumpet also with a loud voice.

Then Judas obeyed: captains over the people, over thousands, over hundredes, over sittie, and over ten.

But as for such as builded them houses, married byues, planted them vineyards, and those that were earfull, he commanded them every man to go home againe, according to the land.

So the host removed, and pitched upon the south side of Emaus.

And Judas said: Arme your selues, be strong: my children, make you ready against to morowe in the morrow, that ye may fight with these people, which are agreed together to destroy vs and our sanctuary.

Better is it for vs to dye in battayle, then to see our people and our sanctuary in such a miserable case.

Neverthelesse, as thy will is O God in heauen, so be it.

The iii. Chapter.

1 Judas goeth against Gogias, which lyeth in waste. 2 He putteth Gogias a his host to flight. 3 Lyias inwaideath Iudie. 4 But Judas dyreth him out. 5 Judas purifieth the temple, and dedicateth the aultar.

Hence goeth Gogias by thousand men of foote, and a thousand of the best horsemen, and removed out of the camp by night, to come nye where the Jewes host lay, as is to slay them llenely, (Nowe the men that kept the talle, were the commanders of them.)

Howe when Judas heard this, he removed, and all the strong men that were with hym, to lyme the chiefes and principall of the kings host at Emaus:

For the army was not yet come together.

In the mean season came Gogias by night into Judas tentes, and when he found no man there, he sought them in the mountaynes, and thought they had ben fled away because of him.

But when it was day, Judas beheld hymselfe in the field with three thousand men only, which had neither harness, nor dovides to their mordes.

But on the other side, they saw that the heathen were mightie and well harnessed, and their hostmen about them, and all these well expert in cates of warre.

Then saide Judas to the men that were with hym: Fear not ye the multitude of them, be not afrayed of their violent running.

Remember howe our fathers were delivered in the red sea, when Pharaoh followed upon them with a great host.

Even so let us also crye noise towarde heaven, and the Lord shall have mercy upon vs, and remember the covenant of our fathers, yea destroy this host before our face this day.

And all the heathen shall knowe, that it is God hym selfe which deliueth and saueth Israel.

Then the heathen lift up their eyes, and when they sawe that they were coming against them,

They went out of their tentes into the battayle, and they that were with Judas blewe by the trumpettes.

So they buckled together, and the heathen were discomfited, and fled over the playne field:

But the hunnest of them were slayne with the sword. For they folloed them unto Aslaron, and into the fields of Humea toward Aot and Jamnia; so that there were slayne of them upon a thousand men.

So Judas turned againe with his host,
Machabees.

17 And laid unto the people, We not greedy of the spoil: we have yet a battle to sight.
18 For Sogoias and his host are here by vs in the mountaines, but hand ye fast against our enemies, to overcome them, then may ye safely take the spoil.
19 As Judas was speaking these words, behold, there appeared one part of them upon the mount.
20 But when Sogoias saw that they of his party were fled, and the tentes were bett by (for by the smoke they might understand what was done) they perceiving this, were very sore afraid:

21 And when they saw also that Judas and his host were in the field ready to strive battle, 22 They fled every one into the lande of the heathen.
23 So Judas turned againe to spoyle the tentes, where they gat much gold and siluer, precious stones, purple, and great riches.
24 Thus they went home, and sung a Psalme of thanksgivinge, and praised God in heaven; for he is gracious, and his mercie endures for ever.
25 And so Israel had a great bountie in that day.
26 Now all the heathen that escaped, came and told Judas every thing that had happened:
27 Wherefore Lybias was sore afraide and greeued in his minde, because Israel had not gotten such misfortune as he would they should, neither as the king commanded.

28 The next percholowing gathered Lybias three thousande chosen men of foote, and sixe thousande horsemen, to fight against Jerusalem.
29 So they came into Jurie, and pitched their tentes at Bethoron, where Judas came against them with ten thousande men.
30 And when he saw to great and mightie an host, he made his paper, and layde, blessed be thou O favour of Israel, which diddest destroy violent power of the giant in the hande of thy servant David, and gavest the host of the heathen into the hand of Jonathan the sonne of Saul, of his harnessse bearer:
31 Put this host now in the hand of thy people of Israel, let them be confounded in their multitude and horsemen.
32 Make them ascrype, and desolate the boldnesse of their strength, that they may be moved toward their destruction.
33 Cast them downe thowde the abode of thy louers, then shall all they that knowe thy name, pisse thee with thanksgivinge.
34 So they strooke the battell, and there were layne of Lybias host five thousande men.
35 Then Lybias leyng the desolatynge of his men, and the manitnese of the heathen, holde they were ready either to huse or to bye lyke men: he went into Antioch, and chose out men of warre, that when they were gathered together, they might come againe into Jurie.
36 Then layde Judas and his brethren: Be hold, our enemies are desomited, let us nowe goe by to clese and to re-paye the sanctuarie.
37 Upon this, at the host gathered them together, and went by into mount Sion.
38 Nowe when they sawe the sanctuarie layed waist, the auster defiled, the doores bent by, the stumpses grooving in the courtes, like as in a woode, upon moutayne poyes, and that the priests chambers were broken downe:
39 They rent their clothes, made great lamentation, cast ashes upon their heads.
40 Fell downe flat to the grounde upon their faces, made a great noyse with the trumpettes, and cried toward heaven.
41 Then Judas appointed certayne men to fight against those which were in the castle, till they had cleased the sanctuarie.
42 So he those priestes that were undesiled, such as had pleasurable in the lawe of God:
43 And they cleased the sanctuarie, and bare out the undesiled stones into an housete place.
44 And solesomuch as the auster of burnt offeringes was undasted, he tolde admittance what he might do withall:
45 So he thought it was best to destroy it, lest it shoulde happen to do them any shame, for the heathen had defiled it: and therefore they brake it downe.
46 As for the stones, they layed them vp upon the mountayne by the house ma convenient place, till there came a prophet to shew what should be done with them.

47 So they took whole bones, according to the law, and builded a newe aultar, such one as was before.

48 And made by the sanctuary within and without, & halowed the house and the courtes.

49 They made newe holy ornamente, & bought the candlesticke, the aultar of incense, and the table into the temple.

50 The incense layed they upon the aultar, & lighted the lampes which were upon the candlesticke, that they might burne in the temple:

51 They set the vrb bread upon the table, and hanged by the bayle, and finished all the workes which they had begun to make,

52 And upon the twentie and fift day of the nynt moneth (which is called the moneth of Caslen) in the hundred soute, and eight yerre:

53 They rose vp betimes in the morning, for to do sacrifice according to the lawe, upon the newe burnt offering aultar that they had made.

54 After the time and seazon that the heathen had defiled it, the same day was it set vp againe, with lougues, pypes, harpes, and cymbales.

55 And all the people set upon their faces, worshiping and thanking the God of heaven, which had given them the victorious.

56 So they kept the dedication of the aultar eight dayes, offering burnt sacrifices and thank offerings with gladnesse:

57 They deckt the forepart of the temple also with crownes and shildes of gold, and halowed the poxes and celles, and hanged dooses upon them.

58 Thus there was very great gladnesse among the people, because the blaspheme of the heathen was put away.

59 So Judas and his brethren, with the whole congregation of Israel, ordened that the time of the dedication of the aultar should be kept in his seazon from yerre to yerre, by the space of eight dayes, from the twentie and fift day of the moneth Caslen with myrth and gladnesse.

60 And at the same time builded they by the mount Sion, with hpe walles and strong toples round about, lest the gentiles should come and treade it downe, as they did afore.

61 Thersfore Judas set men of warre in it to kepe it, and made it strong so to defend Bethleume, that the people might have a refuge against the Edonites.

The v. Chapter.

1 Judas banished the heathen that go about to destroy Israel, and is holpen of his brethren Simon and Ionathas. So he overthrew the cite of Ephion, because they de nied him passage throuwe it.

2 Wherefore they thought to destroy the generation of Jacob that was among them: in so much that they began to say and to persecute cettayne of the people.

3 Then Judas fought against the children of Edon in Gomrea at Arabathan: for they dwelt rounde about the Israelites, where he stode and hopped a great multitude of them.

4 He thought also upon the matter and unhappinesse of the children of Edon, how they were a snare and stoppe unto

6 Phe people, and howe they layed wayte for them in the hpe way:

5 Wheresoe he shut them by into toles, and came into them, besieged them, and destroyed them utterly, & sent by their toles, with all that were in them.

6 Afterward went he against the children of Amnon, whereof he founde a mightie power and a great multitude of people, with Timothi their captaine.

7 So he stroke many battayles with them, which were destroyed before hym.

8 And when he had slayne them, he wan Gazer the cite, with the toles belonging thereto, and turned againe unto Iudie.

9 The heathen also in Galaad, gathered them together against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castle of Pachtemiam,
1. Machabees.

10 And sent letters unto Judas and his brethren, saying: The heathen that are about vs are gathered against vs on every side, to destroy vs.

11 And noise they make them ready so to come and lay siege to the castel whereunto we are sied, and Timothi is captain of their host:

12 Come therefore and deliver us out of their hands, for there is a great multitude of vs slayne already.

13 Pea and our brethren that were at Tabor, are slayne and destroyed well

14 And therefore and deliver us out of their hands, for there is a great multitude of us slayne already.

15 And layde, that they of Potomais, of Tyreus, and of Sidon were gathered against them, and that all Galilee was filled with enemies to destroy Israel.

16 When Judas and the people heard this, they came together a great congregation, to devise what they might do for their brethren that were in trouble and beleaguered of their enemies.

17 And Judas layd upon Simon his brother: Choose thee out certaine men, go deliver thy brethren in Galilee, As for my brother Jonathas, We will go into Galadurim.

18 So he left Josephus the sonne of Zacharias, and Asias, to be captains of the people, to kepe the remnant of the host in Jeru-

19 And commanded them saying: Take the oversight of this people, and see that ye make no warre against the heathen, until the time that we come againe.

20 And unto Simon he gave three thousand men so to go into Galilee: but Judas him selfe had eights thousand in Galadurim.

21 Then went Simon into Galilee, and stroke bernes battayles with the heathen, whom he overcometh.

22 And so knew upon them into the port of Potomais: and there were slayne of the heathen almost three thoulande men.

23 So he take the spoyles of them, and carrie away the Israelites that were in Galilee and Arbatis, with their wyues, their children, and all that they had, and bought them into Jerusalem with great gladnesse.

24 Judas Machabæus also and his brother Jonathas went over Jordan, and tranualed three dayes journey in the wilderness:

25 Where the Machabees met them, and receaued them lovingly, and tolde them every thing that had happened unto their brethren in Galadurim:

26 And holde that many of them were beleaguered in Baratha, Bozor, Almus, Carbon, Bageth, and Carmain (all these are strong walled and mightie great cities.)

27 And that they were kept in other cities of Galadurim also, and to move them were appointes to bring their host into these cities, to take them, and to destroy them in one day.

28 So Judas and his host turned in all the halfe in the wilderness toward Bozor, and wan the citie, slue all the males with the sword, to take all their goodes, and set fire upon the citie:

29 And in the night they took their jour-

30 And betimes in the morning when they loked up, beholde there was an innumerable people bearing ladders and other instruments of warre, to take the castell, and to overcome them.

31 When Judas sawde that the battayle began, and that the nople thereof went by, and raged into the heauen, and that there was so great rage in the citie,

32 He layd into his host, Fight this day for your brethren:

33 And so came behinde their enemies in three companies, and blew by the trumpettes, and cried in their prayer to God:

34 But soone as Timothæus host perceaued that Machabæus was there, they fled from hym: and he slue them downe right soe, so that there were killed of them the same day almost eights thoulande men.

35 Then departed Judas unto Dalphæ, delayed siege vnto it, and wan it, slue at the males in it, spoyled it, and set fire upon it.

36 From thence went he and took Carbon, Bageth, Bozor, and the other cities in Galadurim. 37 After After this, gathered Timotheus another host, which pitched their tents before Raphon beyond the water.

Judas also sent to spy the host, and they brought him words again, saying: All the heathen that be round about us are gathered unto him, and the host is very great:

pea, they have hired the Arabians to help them, and have pitched their tents beyond the water, and are ready to come and fight against thee. So Judas went out to meete them.

And Timotheus said unto the captains of his host: while Judas and his host came up the river, if he go over first, we shall not be able to withstand him: for why, he will be too strong for us.

But if he dare not come over, so that he pitch his tent beyond the water, then will we go over, so that he shalbe strong enough against him.

Now aloue as Judas came to the river, he appointed certaine tribes of the people by the river, and commanded them, saying: See that you leave none behind you on this side of the river, but let every man come to the battle.

So he went first over unto them, all his people after him, and all the heathen were discomfited before him, as their weapons fell, and ranne into the temple that was at Carmine, which itte Judas wanne, and burnt the temple, with all that were in it. So was Carmine subdue, and might not withstand Judas.

Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galadadim, from the least unto the most, with their wives and their children, a very great host, so to come into the land of Israel.

So they came unto Ephzon, which was a mightie great and strong citie, and lapp in their way: so they could not go by it, neither on the right hand nor on the left, but must go through it.

Nevertheless, they that were in the citie, would not let them go through, but walled up the poore with stones: and Judas sent unto them with peaceable words, saying:

Let us passe through your lande, that we may go into our owne country, there shall no boy do you harne, we will but only go through on foote. But they would not let them in.

Wherefore Judas commanded a proclamation to be made throughout the host, that every man should assault the citie in his order.

And so they did their best, by the valiant men: and Judas beleaguered the citie all that day, and all that night, and so wanne it, where they shone as many as were males, and destroyed the citie, and spoiled it, and went through at the citie over them that were slaine.

Then went they over Ioadane into the playne fielde before Bethsam.

And Judas helpe these that made that came beside, and gave the people good expostulation at the way through, till they came into the lande of Iuda.

Thus they went by unto the mount Sion, where they offered burnt offerings with much thanksgiving, because there were none of them slaine, but came home againe peaceably.

Now what time as Judas and Josiathas were in the land of Galadad, and Simon their brother in Galilue before Polumas:

Then Josephus the sonne of Zachari and Azarias the capitaines, hearing of the acts that were done, and of the batallles that were striken, said:

Let vs get vs a name also, and go fight against the heathen that are round about vs,

So they gave their host a commandement, and went toward Iamnia.

Then came Gogias and his men out of the citie, to fight against them:

Josephus also and Azarias were chaced unto the borders of Jethay, and there were slaine that day of the people of Israel two thousand men: so that there was a great miserie among the people of Israel,

And all because they were not obedient unto Judas and his brethren, but thought they shoulde quite their selues manfully.

Nevertheless, they came not of the seede of these men by whom Israel was helped.

But the men that were with Judas were greatly commended in the sight of all Israel, and all the heathen, whereas their name was heard upon.

And the people came unto them, bidding them Welcome.

After
1. Machabees.

65 After this, went Judas forth with his brethren, and fought against the children of Saul in the land that layth toward the south, where he won the city of Hebron and the towers that lay beside it: and as for the valleys and towers round about it, he burnt them up.

66 Then removed he to go into the land of the Philistines, and went through Samaria.

The 8th Chapter.

1 Antiochus willing to take the city of Elymas for a prey, is driven away by the citizens.

2 He falls into his own death. 17 His son Antiochus is made king. 34 The besieging of the tower of Sion, Eupator cometh into Eupsea with a great army. 3 The xableness of Cesar.

NOW when king Antiochus travailed through all countries, he heard that Elymas Impertia was a noble and plentiful city in sluer and golde,

2 And that there was in it a very rich temple, where were clothes, coat armours, and shieldes of golde, which Alexander the sonne of Philip king of Macedonia that reigned first in Greece had left behind him.

3 Wherefore he went about to take the city so spoyled, but he was not able: for the citizens were warned off, and fought with him:

4 And so he fled, and departed with great heauen, and came againe into Babylion.

5 Moreover, there came one which brought him shouges in Persia, that his hostages which were in the lande of Juda were taken away,

6 And how that Lyphas went souther first with a great power, and was driven away of the Jews, how that they had wonne the victory, and gotten great goods out of the hostages that perished,

7 How they had broken downe the abominauon which he set uppon the altar at Hierusalem, fenced the sanctuary with his walls, yea as it was a sore plea and Bethura his citsce also.

8 So it chanced, that when the king heard these woes, he was afraide, and greened very sore: wherefore he layde him downe upon his bed, and fell sick for very sorrow, and all because it had not happened as he had desired.

9 And there continued he long: for his grief was euer more and more, so that he save he must needs dye.

10 Therefore he sent for all his friends, and laid unto them: The keepe is gone from myne eyes for the very sorrow and vertu of heart that I have.

11 For when I consider in my minde the great adversitie that I am come into, and the shuddes of heavens which I am come in, where as afose time I was soiere, and so greatlie set by reason of my power:

12 Again, considering the evil that I have done at Hierusalem, from whence I take all the riches of golde and siluer that were in it, and sent to desyre the inhabitants of Hierusalem without any reason why:

13 I know that these troubles are come upon me for the same cause: and behold, I must dye with great sorrow in a strange lande.

14 Then called he for one Philip, a friend of his, whom he made ruler of all his realme, 15 And gave him the crown, his robe, and his ring, that he should take his sonne Antiochus into him, and hung by, till he might raigne him selfe.

16 So the king Antiochus died there, in the hundred fourete and nine yerre.

17 When Lyphas knew that the king was dead, he obtained Antiochus his sonne, whom he had brought vp, to raigne in his fathers stead, and called him Eupator.

18 Proue they that were in the castle at Hierusalem kept in the Jews rounde about the sanctuary, and fought euer still.
1. Machabees.

9-10. Wherefore Judas thought to destroy them, and called all the people together, that they might lay siege unto them. So they came together in the hundred and fiftie year, and besieged them, laying forth their ordinance & instruments of warre.

11. Then certaine of them that were besieged, went forth: unto whom some goodly men of Israel joined them selves also, and went unto the king, saying: how long will it be othey Punishe, and revenge our brethren?

12. We have ever been minded to do thy father service, to walke in his statutes, and to obey his commandements.

13. Therefore our people fell from vs: and whereas they founde any of vs, they slue them, and spoyle our inheritance.

14. And they have not onely medled with us, but with all our countries.

15. And behold, this day are they besieging the castle at Hierusalem to take it, and have made by the strong hold in Bethura: And if thou dost not prevent them right soon, they will more then these, and thou shalt not be able to overcome them.

16. When the king heard this, he was very angry, and called all his friends, the captains of his armie, and all his officers and horsemen:

17. He hired men of warre also, of other realmes pertaining to the kinges that were confederate with him, and of the Isles of the sea, which came unto him.

18. And the number of his hoast was an hundred thousand footemen, and twelve thousand horsemen, and thirtie & two Elephants well exercized to battale.

19. These came through Iudinea unto Bethura, and besieged it a long season, and made divers instruments of warre against it: but the Jewes came out and went them with fire, as fought like men.

20. Then departed Judas from the castle at Hierusalem, and removed the hoast toward Bethzacrara, over against the kinges armie.

21. So the king arose before the day, and bought the power of his hoast into the way to Bethzacrara: where the hoastes made them rede to the battale, blowing the trumpettes.

22. And to provoke the Elephants for to fight, they shed them the cape of red grapes, and mulberries.

23. And dende the Elephants among the hoast: so that by every Elephant there stoode a thousand men well harnessed, & helmettes of steelle upon their heads: ye, but every one of the Elephants also were ordained five hundred horsemen of the best.

24. Which waited on the Elephant, going wheresoeuer he went, and departed not from him.

25. Every Elephant was covered with a strong tible of wood, fastened thereon with instrumentes, whereupon were thirte, and two hallant men with weapons to fight, and within was a man of India, to rule the beast.

26. And when the king heare thereof, he sent them upon both the sides in two partes with trumpettes, to pouke the hoast, & to strike by such as were slove in the armie.

27. And when the kinges hoost also was dende, one parte upon the hie mountaines, the other lowe beneath: so they went on, taking good heed, and keeping their order.

28. And all they that dwelt in the lande, were astayed at the noyle of their hoast: when the multitude went forth, and when the weapons smote together: for the hoast was both great and mightie.

29. And Judas also and his hoast entered into the battale, and slue five hundred men of the kinges armie.

30. And now when Cleasar the sonne of Saura did see one of the Elephants deale with the kinges badge, and was a goodly beast then the other, he thought the king should be upon him.

31. And departed him selfe to deliere his people, to get him a perpetual name.

32. Wherefore he came with a courage unto the Elephant in the midst of the hoast, sluing them downe on both the sides, and slue many about him.

33. So he went to the Elephants seete, and gat him under him, and slue him, and set the Elephant downe upon him, and made them rede to the battale, blowing the trumpettes.
The viij. Chapter.

1. Demetrius raised after he had killed Antiochus and Lysias, he troubled the children of Israel through the counsel of certain wicked persons. 2. The prayer of the priests against Nicana. 4. Judas killed Nicana, after he had made his prayer.

A

N the hundred sritte and one yere, came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the city of Rome with a small company of men, unto a city of the sea roaste, and there he bare rule.

And when he came to Antioch the cite of his progenitores, his hoaste and Lysias, to bring them unto him.

But when it was to be done, he spake: let me see their faces.

So the hoaste put them to death. Now whiche Demetrius was set upon the hyrone of his kingsom.

5. Here came unto him wicked and undere men of Israel, whose captain was Alcinus, that would have ben made his priest.

6. These men accused the people of Israel unto the king, saying: Judas and his brethren have slaine thy frendes, and driven us out of our owne lande.

7. Wherefore, send now some man, to whom thou guesst credence, that he may go and see all the destruction which he hath done unto us and to the kings lande, and let him be punished, with all his frendes and favourite.

8. Then the king chose Zarchides a friend of Machabees.

9 And as for that wicked Alcimus, he made him his priest, and commanded him to be arrayed of the children of Israel.

10 So they departed (from the king) and came with a great howse into the lande of Judah, sending messengers to Judas, and his brethren, speaking unto them with peaceable words, but under dissemble.

11 Therefore Judas and his people believed not their saying; for they said that they were come with a great howse.

12 After this, came the tribes together unto Alcimus & Barchides, to entertain of reasonable covenants:

13 And the Assideans were the first among the children of Israel that required peace of them.

14 Saying: Alcimus the priest is come of the seed of Aaron, how can he decease us though he come with an armie:

15 So he gave them loving words, and wrote unto them, & said: we will do you no harme, neither your friends.

16 And they believed him: but the very same day took he therefore men of them, and slue them, according to the words that are written,

17 They have cast the sledge of thy samites and shed their blood round about Hierusalem, & there was no man that would bury them.

18 So there came a great fear and dread among all people, saying: There is neither truth nor righteousness in them: for they have broken the appointment and oath that they made.

19 And Barchides removed his howse to Hierusalem, & pitched his tent at Beth-zetha, where he went forth, & took many of them that had forsaken him: He slew many of the people also, and cast them into a great pit.

20 Then committed he the lande unto Alcimus, and left men of warre with him to help him: and Barchides him self went into the king.

21 And thus Alcimus defended his holy priesthood.

22 And all such as feared Israel, retired unto him: insomuch that they obtained the lande of Judah, and did much evil unto the Israelites.

23 And when Judas saw all the mischiefe that Alcimus and his company had done (yea more then the heathen them selves) unto the Israelites:

24 He went forth about all the borders of Jude, and punished those unfaithfull runnagates, so that they came no more out into the countrey.

25 So when Alcimus sawe that Judas & his people had gotten the upper hand, and that he was not able to abide them: he went againe to the king, and said all the worst of them that he could.

26 Then the king sent Nicano, one of his chief princes, which bare counsel unto Israel, and commanded him that he should utterly destroy the people.

27 So Nicano came to Hierusalem with a great howse, and sent unto Judas and his brethren with friendly words: but under dissemble, saying:

28 There shall be no warre betweene me and you, I will come with a peacefull men to see how we do with friendship,

29 Upon this he came unto Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably: but the enemies were appointed to take Judas by violence.

30 Nevertheless, it was told Judas that he came unto him but under dissemble: wherefore he gave him away from him, and would see his face no more.

31 When Nicano persuaded that his counsel was belied, he went out to fight against Judas, beside Capcharlama:

32 Where there were name of Nicanoos howse five thousand men, and the residue fled into the castle of Daniel.

33 After this came Nicano by unto mount Zion, and the priests with the elders of the people went forth to salute him peaceably, to the bune him the burnt sacrifices that were offered for the king.

34 But he laughed them and the people to leone, mocked them, beset their offertings, and make disbursefully:

35 And, and wrote in his wrath, saying: If Judas and his howse be not delusive red nothe into my handes, assoune as ever I come againe and fare well, I shall burne by this house, with that went he out in a great anger.

36 Then the priests came in, and stood before the altar of the temple, weeping, and saying:
The viii. Chapter.

1 Judas heard also the fame of the Romains, that they were mighty and valiant men, and agreeable to all things that are required of them, and make peace with all men which come unto them,

2 And how they were boughtie men of strength: besides that, it was told him of their battaile and noble acts which they did in Galatia, how they had conquered them, and brought them under tribute,

3 And what great things they had done in Spaine: how that with their wysdome and sober behaviour they had wonne the mines of siluer and gold that are there,

4 And obeyed at the land, with other places farre from them: how they had discomfited andemade downe the kings that came upon them from the bittermost parte of the earth, and how other people gave them tribute every pere:

5 How they had slaine and overcome Philip and Perseus kings of Cethim, and other no in battaile, which had brought their obiedience against them:

6 How they discomfited great Antiochus king of Asia, that would have spread out with them, having an hundred and twentie Elephants, with horsemen, chariots, and a very great hauing:

7 How they took him selfe alive, and entreined him, with such as should have raigned after him, to pay them a great tribute, yea and to funde them good garrisons and pledge besides all this:

8 How they had taken from him India, Mecia, and Libya, his best landes, and given them to king Eumenes:

9 Again how they perceiving that the Greekes were comming to bere them,

10 Sent against them a capayne of an hoast,
And that matter pleased the Romans right well:

Wherefore it was Written by: of the Which the Romans made a writing in tables of brass, and sent it to Hierusalem, that they might have by them a memoriall of the same peace and bonde of friendship, after this maner:

God save the Romans and the people of the Jews both by sea & by lande, and kepe the Jews and enemies from them for evermore:

If there come first any warre upon the Romans or any of their friends throughout all their dominion,

The people of the Jews shall helpe them, as the time requireth, and that With all their hearts.

Also they shall neither gene nor send unto their enemies victuals, weapons, & money, nor hirese: but suffice their enemies at the Romans pleasure, taking nothing of them therefor.

Alongst, if the people of the Jews happen first to have warre, the Romans shall stand by them with a good will, according as the time will suffer:

Neither shall they gene unto the Jews enemies victuals, weapons, money, nor hirese: Thus are the Romans content to do, and shall fullfil their charge without any disscrite.

According to these articles, the Romans made a bond with the Jews.

Now after these articles (tnde the) any of the parties Wyl put them, or take any thing from them, they shall do it with the consent of both: and whatsoever they adde unto them, or take from them, it shall stand fast.

And as touching the enmity that Deme- trins hath done into the Jews, we have writte unto him, saying: Wherefore layest thou thy hate on the Jews our friends and lovers:

If they make any complaint of thee againe unto vs, we shall defende them, and fight With thee by sea and by lande, according to justice.
I. Machabees.

The ix. Chapter.

1. After the death of Nicana, Demetrius sent forth his army against Judas. 18% Judas is slain. 34% Jonathan is put to the scade of his brother. 47 The strife between Jonathan and Bacchides. 55% Alcimus is taken with the paule, and both. Bacchides returned againe into the king. 68% He commeth upon Jonathan by the couneill of certain wicked persons, and is overcome. 70% The truce of Jonathan with Bacchides.

In the mean season, when Demetrius heard that Nicana and his host was slaine in the field, he proceeded further to send Bacchides and Alcimus againe into Judea, and the chief strength of his host with them. 2% So they went soothly by the way that leadeth into Galgala, and pitched their tentes before. Malathoph (which is in Arbela) and burnt the citie and mixt much people.

3. In the first month of the hundred and two, they brought their host and layde their siege against Hierusalem:

4. But rapping their campes, they came to Berea with twenty thousand footmen, and two thousand horsemen.

5. And when Judas had pitched his tent at Latina, with three thousand chosen men,

6. And when they sawe the multitude of the other army that it was so great, they were sore afraid: and many conceyver then sines out of the hoste, insomuch that there abode none of them but eight hundred men.

7. When Judas sawe that his hostes failed him, and that he must needs fight, he brake his heart, that he had no time to gather them together: wherefore the man was in extreme trouble.

8. Nevertheless, he said unto them that remained with him: Up, let vs go against our enemies, peradventure we shall be able to fight with them. 9 But ye would have stopped him, saying, We shall not be able: therefore now let us stay our lyues, and turne againe to our hostes: for though we should fight against them, we shall be fewe.

10% And Judas said: God forbid that we should flee from them. Wherefore if our tune be come, let us dye manfully for our hostes, and let us not staye our honour.

11% Then the host removed out of the tentes, and flocked against them, and the hoste were divided in two partes: the singe casters and archers went before the host, and all the mightie men were formost in the field.

12% Bacchides him selfe was in the right wing of the battaile, and the hoste bica use in two partes, and blew the trumpettes.

13% They of Judas SIDE blew the trumpettes also, and the earth shook at the noyle of the hostes: and they brake a field from the mowde till night.

14. And when Judas sawe that Bacchides host was strongest of the right side, he toke with him all the hardest men,

15% And brake the right wing of their order, and folowed upon them unto mount Azot.

16% Now when they which were the left wing, sawe that the right side was discomfited, they persecuted Judas and them that were with him hard at the heels.

17% Then was there a sore battaile: so many were slaine & wounded on both the partes.

18% Judas also him selfe was killed, and the remaunt fled.

19% So Jonathas and Simon toke Judas their brother, and buried him in his fathers sepulcher in the citie of Modin.

20% And all the people of Israel made great lamentation for him, and mourned long, saying:

21% Alas that this worthy should be slaine, which delivered the people of Israel.

22% As for other things pertaying to the battailes of Judas, the noble actes that he did, and of his worthyes, they are not written, for they were very many.

23% Now after the death of Judas, wea ked men came up in all the coasts of Israel, & there arose all such as did work ungodlinenes.

24% In those daies was there a great dearth in the lande, and all the country gave over them selves and theirs unto Bacchides.
25 So Baruches chose wicked men, and made them lodes in the land.
26 These sought out and made search for Judas' friends, and brought them by to Baruches, which he avenged him: for they were with great displeasure.
27 And there came to great trouble in Israel, as was not since the time that no prophet was there in them.
28 Then came all Judas' friends together, and sayde unto Jonathas:
29 Forsooch as the brother Judas is dead, there is none like him to go forth against our enemies, against Baruches and such as are adversaries of our own people.

Ecclesiasticus
34 Which when Baruches understood, he came over Iordan: with all his host upon the Sabbath day.
35 And had Jonathas sent his brother (Jonah) a captain of the people, to pay his friends the Nabuchites, that they would lend them their ordnance, for they had much.
36 So the children of Jambri came out of Hadaba, and took I hon and all that he had, and went their way withall when they had taken it.
37 Then came woode unto Jonathas and Simon his brother, that the children of Jambri made a great marriage, brought the bride from Hadaba with great pomp: for she was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Chanaan.
38 Wherefore they remembered the blood of I hon their brother, and went by, and hid them selves under the shadow of the mountayne.
39 So they left by their eyes, and loafed, beholde there was much a do: great preparation: so the bridegome came forth, and his friends and his brethren mette them with tympanies, instruments of musique, and many weapons.
40 Then Jonathas and they that were with hym, rose out of their lurking places against them, and few many of them; and the remaunte fled into the mountayne, and they took all their substance.
41 Thus the marriage was turned to mourning, and the noyse of their melody into lamentation.
42 And so when they had avenged the blood of their brother, they turned againe unto Iordan.
43 Baruches hearing this, came unto the very border of Iordan with a great power, upon the Sabbath day.
44 And Jonathas sayde to his compaine, Let vs get vp, and fight against our enemies, for it standeth not with vs to day, as in time past.
45 Behold, our enemies are in our day, the water of Iordan upon the one side of vs, with bankeis, steenes, and woods on the other side, so that there is no place for vs to depart unto.
46 Wherefore eye behold unto heaven, that ye may be delivered from the power of your enemies: So they broke the battayle.
47 And Jonathas stretcht out his hande to smite Baruches, but he fled backers.
48 Then Jonathas and they that were with hym, leap into Iordan, and swimned over Iordan unto the further bank: but the other would not passe over Iordan after him.
49 And there were none of Baruches & Ihon that day a thousand men.
50 Therefore Baruches with his host turned againe to Hierusalem, and built up the castles and strong holdes that were in Jurie, Jericho, Emaus, Bethston, Bethel, Ephanan, Phara, and Topho, with poore walles, with poostes, and with lockes:
51 And set men to kepe them, that they might bee their malice upon Israel.
52 He walked by the side Bethura, Gaza, and the castle, and provided them with men and battayles.
53 He toke also the chiefe men sones in the countrey for pledges, and put them in the castle at Hierusalem to bee kept.
54 Afterwarde in the hundred fiftie and three pre, in the seconde moneth, Nikmus commaundeth that they should destroy the walles of the Iordan court of the sanctuary, and he pulled downe and began to destroy the monuments of the prophetes,
55 But at the same time Alcimus was plagued and smitten with a poultrie, and his enterpises were hindered; his mouth was stopped by go so that he could no more speake not commannde any of his house concerning his businesse.
56 Thus died Alcimus in great miserie at the same time.
57 And when Barchides sawe that Alcimus was dead, he turned againe to the kings; to the land was in rest two yeres.
58 Then all the vagodly men held a counsell, saying: Behold, Jonathas and his company are at ease, and live without care; Wherefore let us bring Barchides hither, and he shall take them all in one night.
59 So they went and gave Barchides this counsel.
60 Which arose to come with a great host, and sent letters to his adherentes which were in Jurne, to take Jonathas and those that were with hym: but they might not, for the other had gotten knowledge of their device.
61 And Jonathas take srytie men of the country, which were the ringleaders of them, and did them.
62 Then Jonathas & Simon with their company departed into the citie Beth-baeon, where they pitched in the Valberonse, and repaired the decay therof, and made it strong.
63 When Barchides knewe this, he gathered all his host, and sent word to them that were in Jurne.
64 Then came he slays hege to Beth-baeon, and sought against it a long season, and made instrumentes of warre.
65 Prome Jonathas left his brother Sime non in the citie, and went south hym selfe into the country, and came with a certayne number,
66 And slue Odoerases and his brethren, and the children of Phaeraon in their tentes, so that he began to be strong and to increase in power.
67 As for Simon and his compaine, they went out of the citie, and went by the instrumentes of warre.
68 And sought against Barchides, and discomfited him; and Barchides was so herryed, because his counsell and trauaile was in vayne.
69 Wherefore he was weakest at the wicked men (3) that gave hym counsel to come into their land, & to make many of them: Then purposed he with his compaine to go a way into his owne country.
70 Whereof when Jonathas had knowldedge, he sent ambassadours unto hym solely to make peace with hym, and that he should deliver him his pilurers againe.
71 To the which Barchides contented gladly, and dyd according to his desire:
yea & made an oath that he should never do hym harme all the days of his lyfe.
72 So he restored unto him all the pil-urers that he had taken out of the lande of Juda, and then turned and went his way into his owne land, neither proceed he any further to come into the borders of Juda.
73 Thus Israel had no more warre, and Jonathas dwelt at Machmas, and began there to governe the people, and destroyed the vagodly men out of Israel.

The x. Chapter.

4 Demetrius desired to have peace with Jonathas. 48 Alexander moste warre against Demetrius. 50 Demetrius is sagne. 51 The friendship of Ttolomeus and Alexander.

1 In the hundred and threescore yere, came Alexander the sonne of noble Antiocbus, and toked Ttolomas, where after rescued him, and there he ragnued.
2 When Demetrius heard therof, he gas

3 Wherefore Demetrius sent letters unto Jonathas, with loving words, and paid him greatly.
4 For he sayde: We will first make peace with him, before he bynde himselfe with Alexander against vs.
I. Machabees.

5.
6. And so he gave Jonathan's leave to gather an host, to make weapons, and to be confederate with him, and commanded the pledges that were in the castle to be delivered unto him.

7. Then came Jonathan to Hierusalem, and read the letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in the castle.

8. And therefore were they sore afraid, because they heard that the king had given him licence to gather an host.

9. Thus were the pledges delivered unto Jonathan, which restored them to their parents.

10. Jonathan also dwelt at Hierusalem, and began to buy and to repay the title.

11. Commanding the workmen to build it, and the mount Sion round about with free stone, to be a strong hold: and so they did.

12. So for the heathen that were in the cities which Barchudes had made by, they fled:

13. So that every man left the place, and went into his own country.

14. Only at Beisura remanied certaine of the Jews, which had fortaken the lade and commandements of God, so Beisura was their refuge.

15. Whereupon the king Alexander heard of the promises that Demetrius had made unto Jonathan, and when it was told him of the battayles and noble acts which he and his brethren had done, and of the great trauailes that they had taken.

16. He sayde: Where shall we finde such a man? Well, we will make him our friend, and be confederate with him.

17. Upon this he wrote a letter unto him, with these wordes:

18. King Alexander saluteth his brother Jonathan.

19. We have heard of thee that thou art a valiant man, and meete to be our friend:

20. Wherefore this day we ordaine thee to be the lyke prieste of thy people, and to be called the kings frendes. (Upon this he sent him a purple clothing, & a crowne of gold) that thou mayest consider what is for our profite, and hope friendship to:

21. So in the fourteenth month of the hundred and thirteene yeare, upon the selfe same daye of the tabernacles, Jonathan put the holy raiment upon him: then gathered he an host, and prepard many weapons.

22. Whiche when Demetrius heard, he was maruylous sore.

23. And sayde: Alas what have we done, that Alexander hath prevented us, in getting the friendship of the Jews for his owne defence:

24. Yet will I wyte louingly unto them all, and promise them bignes and rewards, that they may be of my lyfe.

25. Whereupon he wrote unto the in these wordes: King Demetrius sendeth greeting unto the people of the Jews:

26. Whereas ye have kept your covenant toward vs, and continued in our friendship, not inclining to our enemies, we were glad when we heard thereof;

27. Wherefore remayne still and be faithfull to vs, and we shall well recompence you for the things that ye have done on our part:

28. We shall release you of many charges, & give you rewards.

29. And now I discharge you and all the Jews from tributes, I forgive you the customs of satt, and release you of the crowne tares, of the third part of seede,

30. And halfe the fruite of trees, which is myne owne duete, I do release them from this daye sixth, so that they shall not be taken of the lande of Juda, nor of the three citie of which are added therto, out of Samaria and Galiliee, from this daye sixth, so everymo.

31. Hierusalem also, with all thinges belonging therto halfe holy and free, ye the tythes and tributes shall pertayne unto it.

32. As for the power of the castle which is at Hierusalem, I remit and give it unto the high priest, that he may let in such men as he shall choose to kepe it.

33. I freely deliver all the Jews which are prisoners throughout all my realme, so that every one of them halfe free from paying any tribute, ye evem of their carret.

34. All the selfe same feastes, Sab-bathes; nor be moones, the dayes appointed, the three dayes before and after the fast, shalbe free for all the Jews in my realme.

35 So that in them no man shall have power to do any thing, or to veree any of them in any manner of cause.

36 There shall thirtie thousand also of the Jews be written by in the kings hoast, and have their wages payed as all other men of warre of the kings should have: and of them shalbe oxend certaine to keep the kings strong holds,

37 Pea and some of them shalbe set over the kings secret affairs: and their governours and princes shalbe of them selves, and spue after their owne labours, as the king hath commanded in the land of Juda.

38 And the three cities that are fallen into Jurie from the country of Samaria, shalbe taken as Jurie, and be under one, neither be subject to any strange lord, but to the high priest.

39 As for Ptolomais and the land pertaining thereto, I give it unto the sanctuarie at Hierusalem, for the necessarie expenses of the holy thinges.

40 Moreover I will give every yere seuerall thousande pences of siluer of the kings revenues, out of the places appertaining unto me.

41 And all the ouerplus which they have not payed for thinges due, as they by in the former yeres, from henceforth they shall give it toward the works of the temple.

42 And besides this, the seue thousande pences of siluer which they received perly of the account appointed for the intertemement of the sanituarie these pences paffed, even these things shalbe released, because they appertain to the priests that minister.

43 Item, whatsoever they be that see into the temple at Hierusalem, or within the liberties thereof, where as they are fallen into the kings danger for any manner of business, they shalbe pardon, and at the goods that they haue in my realme shalbe free.

44 For the building also and repaying of the worke of the sanctuarie, expenses shalbe given out of the kings revenues:

45 Pea and for the making of the walls rounde about Hierusalem, for the breaking downe of the olde, and for the setting up of the strong holds in Jure, shal the costs and charges be given out of the kings revenues.

46 *But when Johanas and the people heard these words, they gave no credence unto them, neither receaued them: for they remembered the great wickedness that he had done unto Israel, and howe sore he had bere them.

47 Wherefore they agreed unto Alexander, for he was a prince that had dealt friendly with them, and so they stoope by him alway.

48 *Then gathered king Alexander a great hoast, and brought his armee against Demetrius:

49 So the two kings broke battayle together, but Demetrius hasted, and Alexander followed after, and fell upon them.

50 A nightie seize fielde was it, continuing till the sunne went downe: and Demetrius was slayne the same day.

51 And Alexander sent ambassadors unto Ptolomai the king of Egypt, with these words, saying:

52 Forasmuch as I am come againe to my realme, and am set in the throne of my progenitors, and have gotten the dominion, overcommed Demetrius,

53 Conquered the lande, striken a field with hym, so that we have discomfited both hym and his hoast, and set in the throne of his kingdom:

54 Let vs nowe make friendship together, give me thy daughter to wife, so that I be thy sonne in lawe, and both gene the rewarde, and her accoyning to thy dightnic.

55 Ptolomai the king gave answer, saying: Happy be the day wherein thou art come againe to the lande of thy progenitors, and set in the throne of their kingdom.

56 And nowe will I fulfill thy wyshing: but meete me at Ptolomai, that we may see one another, and that I may marry my daughter unto thee according to thy desire.

57 So Ptolomai went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and cam into Ptolomai in the hundred thousandes and two pence.

58 Where king Alexander mette hym: and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleo:
Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolemais with great worship, as the manner of kings is to be.

59 Then wrote king Alexander unto Jonathan, that he should come and meet him.

60 So he went honorably unto Ptolemais, there he met the two kings, and gave them and their friends great presents of gold and silver, and found favour in their sight.

61 And there came together against Jonathan cereapple wicked men and bigamous persons of Israel, making complained of him: but the king regarded them not.

62 As for Jonathan, the king commanded to take of his garments, to clothe him in purple; and so they did. Then the king appointed him to sit by him,

63 And sayde unto his princes: Go with him into the midst of the city, and make a proclamation, that no man complain against him of any matter, and that no man trouble him for any manner of cause.

64. So it happened, that when his accusers saved the worship which was proclaimed of him, that he was clothed in purple, they fled every one.

65 And the king made much of him, wrote hym among his chief friends, made hym a Duke, and partaker of his dominion.

66 Thus Jonathan went againe to Hierusalem with peace and gladness.

67 In the hundred and three score and fift yere, came Demetrius, the sonne of Demetrius, from Creta, unto his fathers lande:

68 Whereof when Alexander heard tell, he was right sorry, and returned unto Antioch.

69 And Demetrius chose Apollonius, which had the government of Celoria, to be his captain: so he gathered a great host, and came unto Janina, and sent word unto Jonathan the high priest, saying:

70 Darest thou withstand us thy selfe alone:As for me, I am but laughe to shame, and shame because thou dostst vaunt thy strength against vs in the mountaines.

71 But therefore, if thou trustest in thine owne strength, come vobis to us into the playne, and there let vs irye the matter together, for thou shalt knowe that I have the strength of many cities.

72 And shalt knowe who I am, and the other that stand by me, which say, That your foote is not able to stande before our face, for thy fathers have beene stowy chaced in their owne lande.

73 And note howe vult thou be able to abyde so great an host of horse men and footemen in the field, where as is neither rocke, stone, nor place to see bote.

74 When Jonathan hearde the words of Apollonius, he was moved in his mynde, wherefore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Hierusalem: and Simon his brother mette hym for to helpe hym.

75 And they pitched their tentes at Joppa, but the citie kept hym forth: for Apollonius garrison was in Joppa.

76 Then Jonathan layed siege to it, and they that were in the citie for very feare let hym in: and so Jonathan van Joppa.

77 Apollonius hearing of this, toke three thousand horse men, with a great host on foote, and went to Azotus as though he would go further, and cause immediately into the playne field, because he had so many horse men, and put his trust in them.

78 So Jonathan followed upon hym to Azotus, and the army skirmished with his reareward, and there they brake the battayle.

79 Also Apollonius left a thousand horse men behinde them partly in the tentes.

80 And when Jonathan knewe that such wapte was layde behinde them, they went rounde about the enemies host, and shot darts at the people from the morning to the evening.

81 As for Jonathas people, they kept their order as he had commanded them, and the enemies horse were weery.

82 Then bought Simon southe his hoaste, and set them against the footemen (for the horse men were weery already:) So he discomfitted them, and they fled.

83 And they that were scattered in the field, got them to Azotus, and came into the temple of Dagon their idoll, that they might there save their lives.
84. But Jonathan set fire upon Azotus and all the cities round about it, and took their goods, and burnt up the temple of Dagon, with all them that were therein.
85. Thus were slaine and burnt within eight thousand men.
86. So Jonathan removed the hoast from thence, and brought them to Ascalon, where the men of the city came foorth, and mette him with great worship.

87. After this, went Jonathan and his hoast againe to Hierusalem, with great substance of good.
88. And when king Alexander heard these things, he thought to do Jonathan more worship:
89. And sent him a coper of gold, as the bee is to be gotten unto such as are of the kings next blood: He gave him also the title of Acaaron, with the landes belonging therto, in possession.

The xi. Chapter.

1. No the king of Egypt gathered an hoast like the lande that lyeth upon the sea shore, and many shippes, he went about to bid the people to obeye the king-dome of Alexander, and to obeye it unto his owne realme.

2. Upon this he toke his journey into Syr, the gentle wodes, that he was leften in the cities, & men came forth to meete him: for king Alexander had commanded them so to do, because he was his father in lawe.

3. Noble when Ptolomie entred into any citie, he left men of warre to kepe it: and thus he did thowdowt all the citie.

4. And when he came to Azotus, they showed him the temple of Dagon, and Azotus that was burnt vp, with the other thinges which were destroyed, the dead bodis of all the people, and the graves that they had made by the way side for such as were slayne in the sheeld.

5. And tolde the king that Jonathan had done all these thinges, to the intent they might get him eũpl will: But the king layde not one word therefor.

6. And Jonathan mette the king with great honour at Joppa, where they saluted one another, and toke their rest.

7. So when Jonathan had gone with the king into the water that was called Eiletherus, he turned againe to Hierusalem.

8. Ptolomie had gotten the dominion of the cities unto Scelucia upon the sea coast, imagining wicked counsels against Alexander.

9. And sent ambassadors unto Demetrius, saying: Come, let us make a bondy betwixt vs, so shall I give thee my daughter that Alexander hath, and thou shalt raigne in thy fathers king-dome.

10. I repent that I gave Alexander my daughter, for he goeth about to slay me.

11. And thus he flancked Alexander, because he woulde have had his realme.

12. Thus he toke his daughter from him, and gave her unto Demetrius, and folwoke Alexander: so that his malice was openly known.

13. And Ptolomie came to Antioch, where he set two crownes upon his owne head, the crowne of Egypt, and of Asia.

14. In the mean season was king Alexander in Scelucia: for they that dwelt in those places had rebellled against hym.

15. But when Alexander heare of this, he came to warre against hym: So king Ptolomie bought foorth his hoast, and sette him with a mightie power, and chauned him away.

16. Then fed Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended: and king Ptolomie honour increased.

17. And Zabdie the Arabian smote of Alexanders head, he sent it unto Ptolomie.

18. But the third day after died king Ptol.
protest hymn selfe, and they whom he had set in the strong holds, were slayne one of another.
19 And Demetrius raigning in the hundred thirteenth and seventh yeere.
20 At the same time gathered Jonathas then that were in Judea, to lay siege unto the castle which was at Hieru-salem, so they made many instrumentes of warre against it.
21 Then went there certaine hungdly persons, which hated their owne people, unto king Demetrius, and told him that Jonathas besieged the castle.
22 So when he heard it, he was angry, and immediately came unto Polonias, & wrote unto Jonathas, that he should not lay siege to the castle, but come and speak with him at Polonias in all haste.
23Nevertheless, when Jonathas heard this, he commanded to besiege it : he chose also certaine of the elders and priestes of Israel, and put him selfe in perill.
24 And take with him gold, silver, clothing, and divers presents, and went to Polonias unto the king, and confound him gracious.
25 And though certaine hungdly men of his owne people made complayntes upon him,
26 Yet the king reentered him, like as his predecessors had done before, and promised hym in the sight of all his friends,
27 Convinced hym in the hie priesthood, with all the worship that he had afoxe,
and made him his chief friend.
28 Jonathas also desired the king that he woule make Judea free, with the three head cities of Samaria, and the landes pertaining thereto; upon this did Jonathas promise hym three hundred talentes.
29 Whereunto the king conented, and gave Jonathas writing of the same confirming these words.
30 King Demetrius sendeth greeting unto his brother Jonathas, and to the people of the Iudæas.
31 We sende you here a copie of the letter which we did write unto our solem Lathemis concerning you, that ye shoulde knowe it.
32 King Demetrius sendeth greeting unto Lasphemus his father.
33 For the faithfullnesse that our friends
the people of the Iudæas kepe unto vs, and for the loving kindnesse which they beare towarde vs, we are determined to do them good.
34 Wherefore we affigne unto the coasts of Iudea the three governments, Affer-ma, Lydda, and Ramacha, which are added unto Judea from Samaria and all the landes pertaying thereunto, to be freely seperated for such as doe sacri-ifice in Hierusalem, both concerning the paymentes which the king toke perey aforetime, & the fruites also of the earth and trees.
35 As for other tithe and tributes that & belonged unto vs, we discharge them thereof from this time forth.
36 In like manner we graunte unto them all the customs of salt, & other races, which were brought unto vs: and this free domne that they have fruine & the fruitas from this time forth for evermore.
37 Therefore see that ye make a copie of these our letters, and deliver it unto Jonathas, that it may be set upon the holy mount in a convenient place.
38 After this, when Demetrius the king sawe that his land was in rest, and that no rebellion was made against him, he sent away all his hoast, every man to his owne place, except certaine bandes of Fraugiers, whom he brought from the Isles of the heathen: wherefore all his fathers hoast hated him.
39 Now was ther one Epphion that had been of Alexander's part afoxe, which when he sawe that all the hoast murmured against Demetrius, he went to Samathua the Arabian, that brought by Antiochus the sonne of Alexander, 40 And lay se on him to deliver hym this young Antiochus, that he might raine in his fathers stead: he told him also what great enyli Demetrius had done,: and had his men of warre trownd him not: &formerly there a long season.
41 And Jonathas sent unto king Demet-trius, to drive them out which were in the castle at Hierusalem, and those that were in the fortresses, for they by Iud-rael great harme.
42 So Demetrius sent word unto Jonathas, saying, I will not only do these things for thee and thy people: but at time convenient I will do both thee and thy people great worship.
1. Machabees.

43 But now thou shalt do me a pleasure if thou wilt send me men to help me: for all myne armie is gone from me.
44 So Jonathas sent hym three thousand strong men into Antioch, and they came unto the king, wherefore the king was very glad at their comming.
45 But they that were of the citie, even an hundred and twenty thousand men, gathered them together in the midst of the citie, 1 would have slaine the king:
46 Which fell into his court, and the citizens kept the streets of the citie, and began to fight.
47 Then the king called for the Jewes help, which came unto him altogether, and went aboue thowards the citie,
48 And fine the same day an hundred thousand men, set fire upon the citie, and gat many spoiles in that day, and deliuered the king.
49 So when the citizens sawe that the Jewes had gotten their will of the citie, and they their sines disapointed of their purpose, they made their supplication unto the king, saying:
50 Grant us peace, and let the Jewes cease from troubling us and the citie.
51 And upon this they cast away their weapons. Thus they made peace, and the Jewes lost great worship in the sight of the king and in the sight of all that were in his realme, and were broken of throughout the kingdom: and so they came againe to Hierusalem with great goodes.
52 So the king Demetrius sat in the throne of his kingdom, and had peace in his lande.
53 Neuertheless, he assembled in all that ever he spake, and witheld the hymn sele from Jonathas, neither rewarded him according to the benefits which he had done for hym, but troubled him very sore.
54 After this came Tryphon againe with young Antiochus, which reigned was crowned king.
55 Then there gathered unto him all the men of warre whom Demetrius had put away, these fought against Demetrius: which fled and turned his backe.
56 So Tryphon toke the Elephants, and wan Antioche.
57 And young Antiochus wrote unto Jonathas, saying: I confirme thee in thy goodnes, and make thee ruler of four countreyes, that thou mayest be a friend of the kings.
58 Upon this he sent hym golden vessels to be ferued in, and gave hym leane to drinke in golde, to be clothed in purple, and to wear a collar of golde.
59 He made his brother Simon also captayne, from the coasts of Tyrus into the borders of Egypt.
60 Then Jonathas toke his journey, and went thowards the cities beyond the water of Jordan, and all them of warre of Syria gathered them into hym for to helpe hym: so he came unto Ascalon, and they of the city receaued hym honorably.
61 And from thence went he to Gaza, but they would not let hym in: wherefore he layed siege unto it, burning by and spoiling the places that were about the citie.
62 And the citizens of Gaza submited them selves unto Jonathas, which made peace with them: but took of their somes to pledge, sent them to Hierusalem, and sent thowards the country unto Damascus.
63 Now when Jonathas heard that Demetrius princes were come into Cades which is in Galilee, with a great host, purposing to dye him out of the country:
64 He came against them, and left Simon his brother in the lande.
65 And Simon came to Bethsura, and laped siege to it a long season, and discomfited them.
66 So they desired to have peace with hym: where he granted them, afterwarde put them out from thence, took the citie, and let men to keep it.
67 And Jonathas with his host came to the water of Gessar, and bethines in the morning gat them to the playne field of Azor:
68 And behold, the hostes of the heathen mette them in the field, and layed watch for them in the mountaines.
69 So that when Jonathas came against them, the other which were layed to watche rode out of their places and fought.
70 And they that were of Jonathas side fled every man, and there was not one of them left, except Machathias the sonne of Abdaflomus, and Judas the sonne of Calpyt the captayne of the host.
Wherfore, in the sacrifices that we offer, and other ceremonies upon the high solemn days, and other, we alway remember you without ceasing, like as reason is, and as it becometh us to think upon our brethren,

Pea, and are right glad of your prosperous honour.

And though we have had great troubles and wars, so that the kings about us have fought against us:

Yet would we not be greevous unto you, nor to other of our lovers and friends in these warres.

For we have had help from heaven that hath succourred us, so that we are delivered, and our enemies subdued.

Wherfore we chose Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them into the Romanes, for to renewe the bond of friendship and love with them.

We commanded them also to come unto you, to salute you, and to deliver you our letters concerning the renouation of one brotherhood.

And now ye that do right well to give vs an aunt were thereunto.

And this is the copie of the writing which Aris the king of Sparta sent unto Dinas.

Aris the king of the Spartans, sendeth greeting unto Dinas the high priest:

It is found in writing, that the Spartans and Jews are brethren, come out of the generation of Abraham:

And now soe soon as this is come to our knowledge, ye shall do well to write unto vs of your prosperitie.

As for vs, we have written our minds unto you, our mettale and goodes are yours, and yours ours: these things have we commanded to be helde unto you, when Jonathan heard that Demetrius princes were come southerly to fight against him with a greater host then afoe.

He went from Jerusalem, and met them in the land of Bethanath: so he gave them not space to come into his owne country.

And he sent spies into their tents, which came againe and told him that they were appointed to come upon him in the night season.

Therefore when the sunne was gone downe, Jonathan commanded his men to watch all the night, and to be ready with weapons for to fight, and set watchmen rounde about the hoarte.

But when the adversaries heard that Jonathan was readie with his men to the battle, they feared, and were afraid in their hearts, and kindled fires in their tents, bake up, and gather them a-way.

Nevertheless, Jonathan and his company knew not till the morning, for they sawe the fires burning.

Then Jonathan solde them upon them, but he might not overtake the, for they were gone over the water Eleutherus.

So Jonathan departed into the Arabians, which were called Zabadei, sue them, and took their goodes.

He proceeded further also, and came unto Damascus, and went through all the country.

But Simon his brother toke his journey, and came to Ascalon, and to the next strong holds, departing into Joppa, and went.

(For he heard that they would deliver the hold to them that take Demetrius partes) wherefore he sent men of warre in the citie to kepe it.

After this came Jonathan home againe, and called the elders of the people together, and dwelt with them for to build by the strong holds in Jude.

And to make the walls of Jerusalem higher, to set up an high wall betwixt the castle and the citie, for to separate it from the citie, that it might be alone; and that men should neither by no sell in it.

Upon this, they came together for to build by the citie, and soon after the bookes of the east side, called Caphereta was fallen downe, repaired it.

And Simon set by Abiada in Sephe-la, and made it strong, setting poxes and lockes upon it.

Now when Tryphon purposed to rainsie in Aka, to be crowned, and to lay the king Antiochus:

He was afraid that Jonathan would not suffer him, but fight against him: wherefore he went about to take Jonathan and to kill him: So he departed, and came unto Bethaan.

Then went Jonathan fourth against him to the battle with four thousand chosen men, and came unto Bethaan also:

But when Tryphon sawe that Jonathan came with to great an host to destroy him, he was afraid:

And therefore he receaved him honorably, commended him unto all his friends, and gane him rewards, and commanded his men of warre to be as obedient unto him, as to him selfe:

And saide unto Jonathan, why hast thou caused this people to take such travaile, seeing there is no warre betwixt vs?

Therefore sende them home againe, and choose certain men to warre upon thee, and come thou with me to Ptolaeis: for I will doe it tooe, with the other strong holds, men of warre, and their officers: as for me, I will depart, this is only the cause of my coming.

Jonathan beseeched him, and so as he saide, putting away his hoarte, which went into the lande of Juda.

He kept but three thousand by him, whereof he sent two thousand into Galilee, and one thousand went with him selfe.

Both asdone as Jonathan entered into Ptolemayis, the citie was spared the gates of the citie, and took him, and sate all them with the boorde that came in with him.

Then sent Tryphon an host of foot men and horsemen into Galilee, and into the great plaine field, to destroy all Jonathans company:

But when they knewe that Jonathan was taken, and all they came that were upon him, they took counsel together, and encouraged one another, and came foorth against them rode to fight.
1. Machabees.

51 So when they which followed upon them, finding that it was a matter of life, they turned back again.
52 As for the other, they went into the land of Juda peaceably, and bespalel Jonathas, and them that were with him right sore: and Israel made great lamentation.
53 Then at the heathen that were round about them, sought to destroy them:
54 For they said, Now have they no captaine, nor any man to help them, therefore let us overcome them, and root out their name from among men.

The xiiij. Chapter.

1 After Jonathas was taken, Simon is chosen captaine, of whom Typhon taking his children and money for the redemption of Jonathas, killed him and his children.
2 The grane of Jonathas, Typhon killeth Antiochus, and pollseth the realm. Demetrias taketh cruel with Simon.
3 Simon winneth Gaja, he pollseth the in the castle, and remained there him self.
4 Typhon also removed from Phoeni-
5 And Simon pitched his tentes at "Ab-
6 But when Typhon knew that Se-
7 Though occasion whereof, all my berthen are name for Israel's sake, and I am left alone.
8 And now let not we spare upon our life, many maner of trouble, for I am no better then my berthen.
9 But will avenge our people and the sanctuarie, our children and our byres; so that all the heathen are gathered together to destroy us, of very makte.
10 Whatsoeuer chou commandest vs, we shall do it.
11 So he gathered all the men of warre, making haste to finde all the walles of Jerusalem, which he made strong round about.
12 Then sent he Jonathas the some of Abaloom with a fresh hoast unto Joppa, which doute them out that were in the castle, and remained there him self.
13 And Simon rideth with his captaine, to come into the lande of Juda, and to destroy.
14 And Simon pitched his tentes at "Ab-
15 Where as we have kept Jonathas, his brother, it is for money that he is obling in the kingse accept, concerning the busines that he had in house.
16 Wherefore, sende not a hundred tal-ent of silver and his two sonsnes for suretie (that when he is letter sooth, he shall not forfake us.) and we shall sende him again.
17 Reuerence, Simon knoweth that he diddele in his wordes; yet comanded he the money and children to be deliverd unto him, lest the Israelites might have hated him.
18 Wherefore, because he sent hem not the money and the children, therefore is Jonathas dead.
19 So Simon sent him the children and an hundred talents: but he didde not let Jonathas go.
20 Afterwarde came Typhon into the lande to destroy it, and went round about by the way that ledeth unto Abdo: But wheresoever they went, ther went Simon and his hoast also.
21 Now they that were in the castle, sent messengers into Typhon, that he should make haste to come by the wille and to sende them vitacies.

22 And
And Eryphion made reduc all his pos-men to come the same night: where-lese, it was a very great inoive, to that he came not because of the holye, but he removed and went into the country of Galaad.

23. And when he dree ye Salschana, he sue Jonathas and his somes there,

24. And then turned for to go home into his owne lande.

25. Then sent Simon for to sett his brothers dead coare, and buried it in Po-din his fathers cite.

26. So al Israel behaved him with great lamentation, and mourned for him very longe.

27. And Simon made upon the sepluhre of his father and his brethren, a building, he to lode into, office stone, he hunde before, and now:

28. And set up seven pillars upon it one against another, for his father, his mother, and four brethren.

29. And set great pillars rounde about them, with armes upon them for a perpetual memorie, and carued loipes beside the armes, that they might be scene of men saping in the fea.

30. This sepluhre which he made at Po-din, standeth yet unto this day.

31. Poole as Eryphion went foorth to walle with the young king Antochus,
he shewed him reaperously:

32. And raignd in his stead, crowned him frontal king of Asia, and did much eul in the lande.

33. Simon alsoe built by the castles in Ju-rie, making them strong with his to-ers, great walles, portes and lockes, and lade by vitalles in the strange holds.

34. And Simon chose certaine men, x sent them to hug Denetraus, to declare that he would discharge the lande from all bondage, for Eryphion had spolde it very late.

35. Whereupon Denetraus the king answered him, and wrote unto him, after this maner:

36. Demetraus the king sended greeting unto Simon the he priest his friend, with the elders x people of the Jewes:

37. And the golden crowne and precious stoe that ye sent unto vs, have we receaued, and are rede to make a nobel peace with you, peac and to wnte unto our officers for to release you, concerning the things where in we made you free.

38. And the apponment that we make with you, stable armes and stable: the strong holds which ye have builded, stable your owne.

39. As for any oversight or fault commited unto this day, we forgive it, and the crowne race that ye ought vs also: And where as was any other tribute in Jerusalem, it shal now be no tribute:

40. And loke Who are meets among you to be in our court, let them be written by,
that there may be peace betwixt vs.

41. Thus the pole of the heathen was takken from Israel, in the hundred and seventh yere.

42. And the people of the Jewes began to wrote in their letters and acts on this maner: In the first yere of Simon the he priest, a gouernour and prince of the Jewes,

43. In those dayes went Simon into Gaza, s beleved it rounde about, where he set by ordinaunce of warre, and dun a towre, which he toke.

44. So they that gat into the towre, lepyn to the cite, which was in a great feare.

45. In somuich that the people of the cite rent their clothes, and dympd by upon the wallis, with their wives and children, besching Simon to be at one with them, saying:

46. O woe warde be not after our wickednesse, but be grantes unto vs, (and we shall do theeervice.)

47. Then Simon for very pitie wouldbe fight no more against them, but putte the out of the cite, and causd the houses wherein the images were, to be clenched, and to entred the cite with plauntes of pappe, gowing thanks unto the hode.

48. So when he had caste all abominat-ions out of the cite, he set such men wit as kept the lade of God. and made the cite strong, and builded a dwelling place for himself.

49. Now when they in the caste at Herusalem were kept so straitlye that they could not come forth no go into the country, e nighte wether by no set, they were very hungry and many of them famished to death.

50. In somuch that they besought Simon to be at one with them, which he gram-ted them: So he put them out from there, and clenched the caste from hik nesse.
And upon the twentie and three day of the second moneth, in the hundred threescore and eleventh yere, they entered it with thankesgiving, and braunches of palmes trees, with harpes, crowdes, cymbales, and lutes, singeing palmes and longes of praise unto God, for that the great enemie of Israel was overcome.

And Simon ordained that the same day should be kept every yere with gladnesses.

And made strong the hill of the temple that was beside the castle, where he dwelt him selfe with his company.

Simon also perceiving that Iohon his soume was a mightie man of armes, made him captain of all the hoastes, and caused him to dwell at "Gaza.

The xiiiij. Chapter.

1 Demetrius is overcome of Aracades.
2 Simon being captain, there is great quietnesse in Israel.
3 The covenant of friendship with the Romane people of Sparta is renewed.
4 The hundred threescore and twelfth yere, gathered king Demetrius his hoast, and departed into Media, to get him helpe for to fight against Tryphon.

Now when Araces the king of Persia and Media, heard that Demetrius was entred within his borderes, he sent one of his princes to take him alioe, and to bring him unto him.

So he went and met Demetrius hoast, took him selfe, brought him to Araces, which kept him in Warde.

And all the lande of Juda was in rest so long as Simon lived, for he sought the wealth of his people, therefore were they glad to have him for their ruler, and to do him worship alway.

Simon was the cite of Joppa also for an haue of coloure, and made it an entrance into the Isles of the sea:

He enlarged the bounders of his people, and conquered them more lande:

He gathered by many of their people that were prisoners, he had the dominion of Gaza, Bethsura, and the castle which he cleansed from sithynes, and there was no man that resisted him.

So that every man tilled his grounde in peace, the lande of Juda and the trees gae their fruite and encrease.

The elders sate in judgement, and took their dencce for the wealth of the lande, the young men put on worshippe and harnessse upon them.

He provided bulales for the cities, and made goodly strong houles of them, so that the name of his worship was spoken of unto the ende of this world.

For he made peace throughout the lande, and Israel was full of rest and joy.

Every man sate under his vine and figge trees, and there was no man to take them away.

There was none in the lande to fight against them, for the kings were overcome.

He helped those that were in adversitie among his people, he was diligent to see the lande kept: as such as were vngodly and wicked, he roke them away.

He let by the sanctuary, and enceased the holy vessels of the temple.

When the Romane and Spartans had gotten woode that Jonathan was dead, they were right joye.

But when they heard that Simon his brother was made the pair in his stead, and how he had wonne the lande against the cities in it:

They wrote unto him in tables of haufe, to renewe the friendship and bonds of love which they had made asoere with "Judas" and Jonathan his brothe.

Which writings were read before the congregation at Hierusalem. And this is the copie of the letters that the Spartans sent:

The Senatours and citezins of Sparta send greeting unto Simon the great pair, with the elders, priests, and the other people of the Jews, their brethren:

When your Ambassadors that were sent into our people, certifie us of your worship, honour, & prosperous wealth:
we were glad of their coming.

22 And have written the ambassage in the publick records in this manner: namely, that Pnumenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason the Jewes ambassadours, are come unto vs, to reuene the olde friend-ship with vs.

23 Upon the people conceived, that the men should be honestly intreated, and that the cope of their embassage should be written the speciall books of the people for a perpetual memoire unto the Spartaens, sea and that we should send a cope of the same unto Simon the great priest.

24 After this, did Simon send Pnumenius into Rome, with a golden hyelet of a thousand pound weight, to continue the friendship with them.

25 Which when the Romanes understood, they laide: What thanks shall we recompence againe unto Simon and his children?

26 For he and his brethren and the house of his father, hath stablised Israel, and overcomme their enemies, whereas they granted him to be free, and confirmed the libertie thereof: therefore they wrote this intables of haste, and set it upon pillers in mount Sion.

27 The cope of the writing is this: The eleventh day of the moneth Chis, in the hundred threescore and twelfth year, in the third yere of Simon the high priest.

28 In the great congregation of the priests, rulers of the people, and elders of the countrey at Saraim, were these words openly declared:

29 Forsoomuch as there was much warfare in our lande, therefore Simon the sonne of Mathathas one of the children of Jair, his brethren put them selves in perill, and reuiled the enemies of these people, that their sanctuary and lande should be kept up, and did their people great worship.

30 Jonasas in lyke maner, after that he had governed his people and defeated his people's enemies, and lyseth buried beside his elders.

31 After that would their enemies have robbed their holy things under foot, destroyed their lande, and vnto the wall their sanctuary.

32 Then Simon withstood them, and fought for his people, spent much of his owne money, weaponed the valiant men of his people, gave them wages.

33 Had strong the cities of Juda, with Bethsura that lyeth upon the borders of Jude, where the ordinance of their enemies laye sometime, and set Ielues there to keep it.

34 He made fast Joppa also which lyeth upon the sea, and Gaza that lyeth upon Azotus, where the enemies dwelt afore, and there he let Ielues to keep it: and whatsoever was neede for the subduing of the adversaries, that laye therein.

35 Now when the people sawe the noble acts of Simon, and what worship he purposed to do for them, his godly beha-

36 And in his time they prospered well by him, so that the heathen were taken out of their lande, and they also which were in the cite of David at Hieru-

37 And Simon put men of the Ielues in it for the defence of the lande and cite, and set by the Valles of Hierusalem.

38 And king Demetrias confirmed him in his high preshood.

39 For these causes: made him his friend, and did him great worship.

40 For he heard that the Romanes calle-

41 Holy he the Ielues and priests concented that he should be their prince and he priest perpetually, till God repayed the true prophete:

42 And that he should be their captain, to care for the sanctuary, and to let of-

43 And to be obeyed of every man, and all the writinges of the lande to be made in his name, that he should be clothed in purple and gold:

44 And that it should be lawfull for none of the people nor priests to break any of these things, to withstand his words, not to call any congregation in the lande without him: that he should be clothed in purple, and wear a corder of golde.

And if there were any which disobeysed or spake this ordinance, that he should be punished.

So all the people consented to avow Simon, & to do according to these words:

Simon also him selfe take it upon him, and was content to be the iu priece, the captaine and prince of the Jewes and prieaces, and to gouerne them all.

And they commande to make this writing in tables of braffe, and fasten it into the wall that compassed the sanctuary, in an open place:

And to lay by a copie of the same in the treaurie, that Simon and his posterite might have it.

of the Jewes, and to all the people,

Concerning these words: Antiochus

the king sendeth greeting unto Simon

the priece, and to all the people of the Jewes.

Forasmuch as ccraine wicked men have gotten the kingdome of our progenitors, I have purposed to chalenge the realme agayne, and to refoire it to the olde estate: wherefore I have gathered a great hoast, and made shippes of warre:

That I may go through the countrey, and be avenged of them which have destroyed our lande, and wasted many cities in my realme.

And therefore now I make thee free also from all the tributes whereso the kings my progenitors have dischard thee, & from other customs where from they have releasted thee, where-soever they be:

Pea, I geue thee leane to smite money

doyn obyne within thy lande.

As for Hierusalim, I will that it be holy and free, and all the weapons and houes of defence which thou hast builded and kepet in thyne handes shable thyne.

Wberas any thing is of shalle obying unto the king, I sorgeue it thee, from this time forth for evermore.

And when we have obtayned our kingdome, we shall do thee thy people; and the temple, great worship: so that your honour thalbe known throughout the whole world.

In the hundred threscore and fourteenth yere went Antiochus into his fathers land, and all the men of waare came to-

With Tryphon.

So the king Antiochus followed upon him: but he fled unto Doxa, Which prety

by the sea side:

For he knew that there was nyschiue comming unto him, and that his hoast had lost been.

Then came Antiochus unto Doxa with an hundred and twentie thousand men of armes on foote, and eight thousand horsemen: so he compassed the title rounde about, and the shippes came by the sea.

Thus they beere the title by land and by water, incomprehent that they suffered no man to go in and out.

In the meane seacon came Pammen us, & they that had ben with him, from the cite of Rome, having letters written unto the kings & prouinces, wherein were contayned these words:

Lucius the consull of Rome, sendeth greeting unto Tolum the king.

The ambassadors of the Jewes our friends, being sent from Simon the jie priece, and from the people of the Jewes, came unto vs so to renew the D ole friendship and bonde of love,

Brought a shielde of golde werying a thousand pounde,

Wherfore, we thought it good to writte into the kinges and prouinces, to do them no harne, not to take part ag against them, their cities, nor countries, neither to maintaine their enemies ag

against them.
And we were content to receave of them the sheele.

If there be any wicked persons therefore fled from their country unto you, deliver them unto Simon the sic priest, that he may punish them according to their owne ladie.

The same wodes wrote the Romane also unto Demetrius the king, to Atti- nes, Arara, Arates,

And to all regions: as Samanes, to them of Sparta, Delo, Mydo, Se- don, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Lyria, Alcarnassim, and to the Rhodes, to Faesius, Coo, Sida, Arado, Corbyna, Solbium, to Cygnese, and Cyren.

And of every letter they sent a cope to Simon the sic priest.

So Antiochus the king brought his hoale unto Dora the second time to take it, where he made divers odinuance of vaine, and kept Tryphon in that he should not go either in or out.

Then sent Simon unto Antiochus two thousand choosen men to helpe him, with gole, siluer, & other plenteous things.

Whereas he sent Atenobius also a friend of his unto Simon for to reason with him, saying: He wvthholde me Ioppa and Gaza, with the estate that is at Hier- fulam, which are cities of my countrey, whole bodey ye have destroyed, and done great euil in the lande, having the dominion in many other places of my kingdome.

Wherefore deliver now the cities which ye have taken, with the tributes of the places that ye have rule upon without the bodey of Jurie.

Or else gue me five hundred talents of siluer: yea & for the harme that ye have done in the cities & for the tributes of the

The xxv. Chapter.

Cendeceus the captain of Antiochus hoale, is put to flight of the townes of Simon.

1. Prooms the sone of Judas killeth Simon and his two townes at a banquet.

Then aunswered Simon, and lace unto him: As for vs, we have neither taken other mens landes, nor whol- den the: but only our fathers heritage, which our enemies had unrighteously in possession a certaine time.

This heritage of our fathers have we challenged in processe of time.

And whereas thou complaineest concerning Ioppa, & Gaza, they did great harme to our people and in our lande, yet vs we gene an hundred talents for them. Nevertheless, Athenobius aunswered him not one byde:

But turned againe worthilily unto the king, tolde him at these words, and the great dignitie of Simon, with al that he had here: the king was very angry.

And in the mean time sended Tryphon by ship unto Orthoias.

Then the king made Cendeceus capture of the sea coast, and gave him an hoale of footeemen and horsemen, Commanding him to remove the hoale towrard Jurie, to build vp the citie of Ecdon, to make vp the poentes, and to vaine against the people of the Jewes: As for the king him selfe, he followed upon Tryphon.

So Cendeceus came unto Iamna, and began to vexe the people, to treaye inppon Jurie, to take the people po- ners, to slaye them.

And to build vp Ecdon, where he fea horsemen and other men of vaine, that they might come oneth, and go through the streetes of Jurie, lyke as the king had commanded him.

mon two of his eldest townes. Judas and John, and lade unto them: I and my brethren and my fathers house have ever from our youth up unto this day foughten against the enemies of Israel, and God gave us good fortune to deliver Israel out of wes.
And now as much as I am old, and ye by good's goodness are of a sufficient age, be ye in stead of me and my broter, to go sooth and sight for our people: and the help of God be with you.

So he chose twentie thousand fighting men of the country, with horsemen also, which went sooth against Cendebeus, and refled at Dodin.

In the morning they arose and went into the playne field, and beholde a mighty great host came against them, both of footemen and horsemen:
There was there a water broke betwixt them, and John remoued the host towards them: and when he saw that the people was afraide to go over the water broke, he went over first himself: and the men syng this, folowed him.

Then John set his horsemen and footmen in order, the one by the other: for their enemies horsemen were very many.

But when they blew by the piecets trumpettes, Cendebeus fled with his host: wherof many were slayne, and the remanent gat them to their strong holds.

Judas also John's brother was wounded at the same time, and John followed still upon the enemies, till he came to Cedon, which Cendebeus had builded.

The enemies fled also unto the towres that were in the fields of Azotus, and those dyd John burne by with flre: Thus there were slayn two thousand men of them, and John turned againe peaceably into Jutie.

And in the field of Jericho was Proplom the same of Abobus made captayne: which, because he had abundance of silver and golde,

(I for he had maried the daughter of Simon the lype pries).

Ward round in his minde, thought to conquer the land, imagining falshood against Simon and his sones, to destroy them.

How as Simon was going about thosw the cities that were in the country of Jutie, and caring for them, he came abode to Jericho with Basha-this & Judas his sones, in the hundred thousand & seventeenth yeere, in the eleventh moneth, called Sabat.

Then (as will report) the sone of Abobus re-caused them, but with difficulty, into a strong house of his, called Dorus, which he had builded, where he made them a banke, and had by men there.

So when Simon and his sones were very, and had drunken well, Proplom stoode by with his men (whom he had hid there) and toke their Weapons, entered into the banke house, and sul Simon with his two sones, and cer-tayne of his servantes.

Such great unjustlynesse byng Pro-lon in Jutie, and recommended capt for good.

Then wrote Proplom these things:
that Abobus required him that he shoude sende hym an host to help hym: and so shoude he deliver him the land, with the cities and tributes of the fame.

He sent other men also into Gaza for to take John, and wrote into the captynes to come to him, and he shoude gene them siluer, gold, and rewards.

And to Hierusalem he sent other to take it, and the sanctuarie.

Then ran there one before, and tolde D John in Gaza, that his father and his brethren were slayne, and tolde that Pro-lon had sent to slay him also.

When John hearde this, he was sore abashed, and laped handes of them that were come to destroy hym, and shut them: so he knewe that they went aboue to kill hym.

As for other things concerning John,
of his warres, of his noble acts wherin he behaunde hym self manfully, of the building of walles which he made, and other of his deedes,

They are written in the cronicles of his priesthood, from the nine forth that he was made lype pries after his father.

The end of the first booke of the Machabees.

   the hundred and three score and eight years, the Jews wrote unto you in the trouble and violence that came unto us: In those years, after that Jason departed out of the holy lande and kingdom,

8 They sent by the postes, and shed innocent blood: then made we our prayer unto the Lord, and we heard, we offered by sacrifices and fine flour,setting forth cakes and bread:

9 And now we come ye unto the feast of tabernacles in the temple called.

10 In the hundred and three score and eight years, the people that was at Hierusalem and in Judea, the counsel, and Judas him selfe, sent this wholesome saluation unto Aristobulus king Ptolomeus maister, which came of the generation of the anointed priests, and to the Jews that were in Egypt:

11 Inasmuch as God hath delivered us from great perils, we thank him highly, no less at all then if we had vanquished the king in battle.

12 For when he with those that had fought against the holy citie, by dyes upon Persia:

13 For as he was in Persia (namely) the captaine with the great host, he perished in the temple of Nanaeas, being diseased thereof he rode the device of Nanaeas priests.

14 For when Antiochus, as he should to marry with her, came, and his friends with him, into the place to receive by name of doubte the money wherewith the priests of Nanaeas had set forth:

15 He entred with a small companie into the compass of the temple, and to they that the temple.

16 Soe when Antiochus entred by opening the pryn entramme of the temple, the priests stoned the captaine to death, helde them in person that were with him, smote of their heads, and throe them out.

17 In all things God be praised, which hath delivered the wicked into our handes (to be punished)

18 Where as we are now purposed to kepe the purification of the temple upon the twenty (first day of the moneth) Callen,

19 For what time as our fathers were led away into Persia, the priests which there sought the honour of God, toke the fire purely from the altar, and dyed it in a valley, where as was a deep dye pit: and therein they kept it, so that the place was unknowne to every man.
hoped: that the heathen may know and see howe that thou only art God, which art our God.

28 Punishe them that oppose: and put vs to dishonour.

29 Set thy people againe in thy holy place, like as Moses had spoken.

30 And the priests song psalmes of thanksgiving, so long as the sacrifice endured.

31 Hove when the sacrifice was bent, Nehemias commanded the great stones to be sprinkled with the residue of the water.

32 Which when it was done, there was kindled a flambe of them also: but the light that shyned from the alter.

33 So when this matter was known, it was told the king of Persia, that in the place where the priests which were led away had byd lyre, there appeared water, and that Nehemias and his companie had purfied the sacrifices with all.

34 Then the king consideringe and pondering the matter diligently, included the place, and confecrated a temple, to shew the thing that was done.

35 And when he founde it so in derde, he gaue the priests many gifts and divers rewarding, pe he toke them with his owne hand, and gaue them.

36 And Nehemias called the same place Nephthar, which is as much to say as a censing: but many men call it Nephi.

The ii. Chapter.

4 Hove Jeremias hyd the tabernacle, the arke, and the alter in the hell. 23 Of the five books of Jacon conteyned in one.
7 When Jeremias perceived, he rejoyned them, saying: As for that place it shalbe unioyned, untill the time that God gather his people together againe, and receaue them into mercie.
 8 Then shal God shewe them these things, and the maitie of the Lorde, that appeareth the cloud also, like as it was shewed vnto Poples: and like as when Solomon desired that the place might be honorable sanctified, and it was shewed hym.
 9 For he beying a yoyle man, handled honorable and delycetly, offering vnto God in the halwinge of the temple when it was finished.
 10 And like as when Poples prayed vnto the Lorde, the fire came downde from heauen, and consumed the burnt offering: Even so prayed Solomon also, and the fire came downde from heauen, and consumed the burnt offering.
 11 And Poples praved: Because the same offering was not eaten, therefore ites so consumed.
 12 In like manner Solomon kept the dedication of halwinge euyght dapes.
 13 In the annotations and writings of Jeremias these things put alfo: and howe he made a librarie, and howe he gathered out of all countres the booke of the kinges, of the profhetes, and of Daviit, and the epiftles of the kindes concerning the hotly gifts.
 14 Then to Iudas alfo, looke what he learned by experience of warre, and such things as hath happeued vnto vs, he gathered them altogether, and so we have them by vs.
 15 If ye now defire to have the same, send some body to fetch them vnto you.
 16 Where as we then are about to celebrate the purification, we have written vnto you: therefore ye shall doe well, if ye kepe the same dapes.
 17 We hope alfo, that the God which delivered his people, and gave them at the heritage, kingdome, priestshipp, and sanctuarie, 18 That he promised them in the law, that shortly have mercy vpon vs, and gather together from under the heauen into his holly place: for he hath saved vs from great perils, and hath clemened the place.
 19 As concerning Judas Machabeus and his brethren, the purifications of the great temple, the dedication of the altar:
 20 Pea and of the warres that concerne noble Antiochus: & Eupato; his sonne:
 21 And the miracles shewed from heauen by the valiant actes of those which defended the Iews religion, so that a fewe ran through the whole countrey, and drave away the barbarous armies:
 22 Repaired againe the temple that was spoken of throughout all the world, delivered the cite, doing their best that the Lorde law which was put downde, might with all tranquillitie be restored againe vnto the Lorde, that was so mercifull to them.
 23 As touching Iasod also of Tyre, we have undertaken competently to bring into one booke the things that were comprehended of hym in syue.
 24 For we, considering the multitude of the books, and howe hard it shoulde be for them that woulde meddle with storie and actes, and that because of so divers matters:
 25 have undertaken so to comprehend the stories, that such as are disposed to reade, might have pleasure and patience therein: and that they which are diligent in such things, might the better thinke upon them: yea and that youseuer reade them, might have profite thereby.
 26 Nevertheless, we our selues that haue medled with this matter for the shortening of it, have taken no small labour, but great diligence, watching, and tranualie.
 27 Like as they that make a feast, wouldayne do other men pleasure: even so we also for many mens labours, are very well content to take the labour,
 28 Where as we may shortly comprehend the things that other men have truely written.
 29 For he that buyideth an house anewe, must provide for many things to the whole building: but he that payneth it afterward, seeketh but only that is comely, meeet and convenient to garnish it withall.
 30 Even so do we also in like manner: And why? He that beginseth first to write a story, must with his understanding gather the matter together, let his Poples in order, and diligently
What time as the holy city was inhabited in all peace and wealth, and when the labors were yet very well kept: so was it ordained to provide the godliness of Dnias the high priest, and other godly men that were enemies to wickedness,

8. It came to pass, that even the kings and princes them selves by the place great worship, and garnished the temple with great gifts:

9. Inasmuch that Seleucus king of Asia of his own rents bare all the costes belonging to the service of the offerings.

10. Then Simon, of the tribe of Benjamin, ruler of the temple, upon a variance risen between him & the high priest for wickedness that was done in the cite,

11. For that he could not overcome Dnias, he got him to Apollonius the sonne of Thaasia, which then was chief Lodge in Celosyria and Phemeis,

12. And tolde hym, that the treasuries in Hierusalem was full of innumerable money, & how that the common goodes whiche belonged not unto the offeringes, were exceeding great also: yet and howe it were possible that all these might come under the kings power.

13. Now when Apollonius had seend the king of the money, as it was tolde hym: the king called for Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent hym with a commandement to bring him the same money.

14. Immediately Heliodorus took his journey, but under a colour as though he would go to provide Celosyria and Phemeis to visite the cities, but his purpose was to fulfill the kings pleasure.

15. So when he came to Hierusalem, and was longony receaued of the hie priest into the cite, he tolde what was determined concerning the money, and said:

16. Now will we begin to shew the matter: for it is but a foolish thynge to make a long prologue, and to be short in the storie it selie.

The iii. Chapter.

1. Of the honour done unto the temple by the kings of the gentiles. 6 Simon entertains what creature is in the temple. 9 Heliodorus is sent to take them away. 26 He is striken of God, and healed at the prayer of Dnias.

2. It came to pass, that even the kings and princes them selves by the place great worship, and garnished the temple with great gifts:

3. Inasmuch that Seleucus king of Asia of his own rents bare all the costes belonging to the service of the offerings.

4. Then Simon, of the tribe of Benjamin, ruler of the temple, upon a variance risen between him & the high priest for wickedness that was done in the cite,

5. For that he could not overcome Dnias, he got him to Apollonius the sonne of Thaasia, which then was chief Lodge in Celosyria and Phemeis,

6. And tolde hym, that the treasuries in Hierusalem was full of innumerable money, & how that the common goodes whiche belonged not unto the offeringes, were exceeding great also: yet and howe it were possible that all these might come under the kings power.

7. Now when Apollonius had seend the king of the money, as it was tolde hym: the king called for Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent hym with a commandement to bring him the same money.

8. Immediately Heliodorus took his journey, but under a colour as though he would go to provide Celosyria and Phemeis to visite the cities, but his purpose was to fulfill the kings pleasure.

9. So when he came to Hierusalem, and was longony receaued of the hie priest into the cite, he tolde what was determined concerning the money, and said:

10. Then the hie priest tolde hym, that there was such money layed by for the upholding of lvpodwes and fatherlesse children,

11. And how that a certaine of it belonged unto Hescanus the tounge of Tobias a noble man, of that all the money (and not as that wicked Simon had reported) there were three hundred talents of silver, and two hundred of gold:

12. Pea & that it were impossible for those mens meaning to be diseased that had put assured confidence in the holinessse of the place, in the maiesse & undoubted saftety of the temple, Which was had in Jbosthy thowde the whole world, for the maintenance and honour of the same.

13. Whereunto Heliodorus answered, that the king had commanded hym in any hyple to bring hym the money,

14. So at the day appointed, Heliodorus entered into the temple to order this matter: wherefore there was no small feare throughout the whole cite,

15. The priests fellowe before the anniter in their vestiments, and called unto heaven upon hym, Wherein the same, to whom I was a commandement to bring him the same money.

16. Then who so had loked the hym priest in the face, it woulde have greeved his heart: for his comtenance and the chausing of his colour, declared the inwardly sovow of his mynde.

17. The man was all in heaviness, and his body in feare: whereby they that looked upon him, might perceave the greife of his heart.

18. The other people also came out of their house by heapes into the common prayer, because the place was like to come into contusion.
2. Machabees.

19 The women came together throught the streets with heavy clothes about their breasts: the virgins also that were kept in, ran to "Dias, some of them ran to the gates, some upon the walls, others some locked out at the windows.

20 Yea they all seide by their handes to warde heauen, and prayed:

21 A miserable thing was it to take upon the common people, and the high priest being in such trouble.

22 But they besought almighty God that the goodes which were committed unto them, might be kept whole for those that had delivered them to their keeping.

23 Nevertheless, the thing that Heli-odorus was determined to do, that perchance he in the same place, he hymself personally being about the treasure with his men of Warre.

24 But the state of almighty God shewed him self openly, so that all they which presumed to obey Heliodorus, felt the power of God into a great searesfulness and dread.

25 For there appeared unto them an horse, with a terrible man sitting upon him, deckt in goodly array, and the horse smote at Heliodorus with his forefettere.

26 Moreover, there appeared two sapes and beautifull young men of notable strength in goodly array, whiche stood by him, scourged him of both the sides, and gave hym many strike without cause.

27 "With that fell Heliodorus laboriously unto the grounde, so they took him by being compassed about with great darknesse, and bare him out upon a berre.

28 Thus he that came with so many runners and men of Warre into the sapye treasure, was borne out, where as no man might help hym, being destitute of harnesse and weapons: and so the power of God was manifestly knownen.

29 He lay still dumb also by the power of God, destitute of all hope and life.

30 And they prayed the Lord, that he had shewed his power upon his place and temple, which a little afore was full of seare and trouble, and that through the revelation of the almighty Lord it was filled with joy and gladnesse, 31 Then respite of Heliodorus' friends prayed Onias that in all haste he would call upon God, to graunt hym his lyfe, Which was going by the ghost.

32 So the lyfe priece being taken the king should suspect that the Jews had done Heliodorus some (b) eyll, he offered an offering for his health.

33 Howe when the lyfe priece had obta- pyned his petition, the same young men in the same clothing appeared, (e) stood beside Heliodorus saying, Thanke Dunias the lyfe priece: for for his sake both the Lord granted them the lyfe.

34 Therefore seying that God hath scour- ged thee, gene hym praise and thankes, and shewe every man his might and power. And when they had spoken these words, they appeared no more.

35 So Heliodorus offered unto God, made great boddes unto hym which had grunted him his lyfe, thanked Onias, take his hoast, and went againe to the king.

36 Then testified he unto every man, of the great workes of God, that he had seen with his eyes.

37 And when the king asked Heliodorus who were meete to be sent yet once againe to Hierusalem, he sayde:

38 If thou hast any enemie ox aduersarie unto thy realmc, sende him thyther, and thou shalt have hym punished, if he escape with his lyfe: for in that place no doubt there is a special power and working of God.

39 For he that dwellith in heauen, butteth and defendeth that place, and all that come to do it harne he punisitheth and plaguereth them.

40 This is nowe the matter concerning Heliodorus, and the keping of the treasurie (at Hierusalem.)
2. Machabees.

The iii. Chapter.

1 Simon reported the death of Onias. 7 Jason desiring the office of the high priest, corrupted the King with rewards. 19 The wicked intent of Jason.

1 This Simon noble (of whom we speak after) being a betrayer of the money and of his own natural country, reported most of Onias, as though he had moved Heliodorus unto this, as though he had ben a hunger of evil.

2 Thus was he not ashamed to call him an enemy of the commonwealth, that was so faithful an overseer and defender of the temple and of his people, and as a frequenter in the laue of God.

3 But when the malice of Simon increased to so farre, that they did his friends there were certaine manslaughters committed.

4 Onias considered the peril that might come thoroide this stryke, and howe that Apollonius the chief Libby in Medecia and Phoenicia, was as let upon them, and Simon's malice increased the same.

5 He got him to the king, not as an accuser of the citizens, but as one that by him selfe intended the common wealth of the whole multitude.

6 For he saide it was not possible to live in peace, neither Simon to leave off from his foulkhyne, except the king did take thereof.

7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus, which is called the noble, took the kynghome, Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be the high priest: For he came unto the king, and promised him three hundred and threescore talents of silver, and of the other rentes fourscore talents.

8 Besides this, he promised hym yet an hundred and fiftie more, if he might have licence to set up a foole and an exercice of weapons, and that he might call them of Hierusalem Antiochians.

9 When the King had granted, and he had gotten the superioite, he began immediatly to build his kinema to the enftime of the heathen.

10 And when the thongs that the Jewes had seie of lose, by Ihon the father of Eupolomus, which was sent ambassadour into Rome so to make the bonde of friendship and love, he put downe all the labours and liberties of the Jewes, and set up the wicked statutes.

11 Upon which, when he had made a foole ordinance under the castle, he drewe all the chiefest young men on his side, and traped them to be (a) hater.

12 And there was such a frequent desire to come to the manner of the heathens, and to take by newe strange fashions brought in thoroide the banqueting and by hauing wickednesse of Jason, which should not be called a priest, but an ungodly person:

13 Insoomuch that the priests were now no more occupied about the service of the altar: but despised the temple, regarded not the offering, gave naturall diligence to learne to fight, to waste, to leape, to dance, and to cast the stone:

14 Not setting by the honour of the fathers, but liked the glose of the Greeks best of all:

15 For the which they sought perniciously: they were greedy to follow their statutes, yet their lust was in all things to be like them, which arose were their enemies and destroyers.

16 Howbeit to do wickedly against the law of God, that shall escape unpunished, but of this we shall speake hereafter.

17 What time as the Olympians hostes were played at Tyana, the king hym selfe being present.

18 This inaudiens Jason sent wicked men, bearing from them of Hierusalem (which nowe were called Antiochians) three hundred daiesmes of siluer for an offering to Hercules: these had they that earned them defire under such a fashion as though they should not have been offered, but bestowed to other uses.

19 Neverthelesse, he that sent them, sent them to the trust that they should be offered unto Hercules: but because of those that were present, they were given as to the making of shippes.

20 And Apollonius the sonne of Neriens was sent into Egypt, because of the noble men of king Ptolemy Philtometer. Nowe when Antiochus perceived that he was put out from medling in the realme, he sought O (iij) his his owne profite, departed from thence, came to Joppa, and then to Hierusalem, where he was honouably receaue of Jalon, and of the cite, and was brouught in with toche light and with great page: and so he turned his hoast into Phencies.

22 After these years Jalon sent Benelius (the forelaud Simon's brother) to bære the money into the king, to bring him anfdone of other necessarie matters.

23 But when he was commended to the king for magnifying of his power, turned the priesthood unto himself, lay ing by those hundred talents of siluer for Jalon.

24 So when he had gotten commandments from the king, he came, having nothing that becameth a priest, but bearing the somatke of a cruel tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beast.

25 Then Jalon which had diseanched his owne brother, saying that he hym selfe was begied also, was layne to see into the lande of the Ammonites.

26 And Benelius gat the donation: but as for the money that he had promis'd unto the king, he byd nothing therein, albeft Sosratus the ruler of the caitie required it of him.

27 For Sosratus was the man that gathered the customes: wherefore they were both called before the king.

28 Thus was Benelius put out of the priesthood, & Lymphachus his brother came in his stead, and Sosratus left Castes overeler of the Cyprians.

29 It happened in the same season, that the Tharthians and Psalmotians made insurrection, because they were given for a present unto Antiochus the kings concubine.

30 Then came the king in all halfe to stand them again, and to pacifie the matter, leaving Andromic there to be his despute as one incore therefor.

31 Now Benelius supposing that he had gotten a right convenient time, stole cer tayne vessels of golde out of the temple, and gave them to Andromic for a present: and some he solde at Lyus, and in the citty therby.

32 Whiche when Dnias knewe of a certe ne, he reproved him: but he kept him in a custodie before Daphys, that lyeth by Antioche.

33 Wherefore Benelius gat hym to Andromicus, and prayed him that he would lay Dnias. So when he came to Dnias, he counseled hym craftly to come out of the sanctuarie, garing hym his hande with an oth., (hold be it he suspect hym) and then he sate Dnias without any regard of richtcounsnes.

34 For the which cause, not only the Jews, but other nations also, toke indignation, and were displeased for the unrighteous death of so godly a man.

35 And when the king was come againe from Cilicia, the Jews and cætarnie of the Greces were vnto hym, complaining for the unrighteous death of Dnias.

36 Rea Antiochus hym selfe was sorry in his mynde for Dnias, so that it pitted him: and he wepte, remembering his子弟ness and manerly behaviour.

37 Wherefore he was so kinded in his mynde, that he commanded Andromic to be strippd out of his purple cloth, and so to be led throughout the citie, yea and the vngnerius man to be layne in the same place where he committed his wickednesse upon Dnias: Thus the Lord rewarded him hispunishment, as he had deseru'd.

38 Now when Lymphachus had done many wicked deedes in the temple thowold the counfell of Benelius, and the bope came abode: the multitude gathered them together against Lymphachus, for he had carped out now much golde.

39 So when the people arose, and were full of displeasure, Lymphachus armed three thousande bastaries to defend hym, a cætarnie tyrant being their cap tayne, which was grownen both in age and woodness.

40 They therefore syng the intercalie of Lymphachus, caught up, some stones, some blockes endes, some hand fulles of dust that was next at hand, and threw them upon the rebels of Lymphachus bande that had set upon them.

41 Thus there were many of them wounded, some beynge layne, and all the other chased alway: But as for the wicked church robber hym selfe, they killed him before the treasurie.

42 Thus of these matters therefore, there was kept a court against Benelius.

43 Now when the king came to Lyus, three men that were rent from the sute pealed him quitte before the king.
2. Machabees.

But Menelaus, being more cunning, went and promised Ptolemy the sum of 30,000 pieces of gold to give him much money, which he would give the king in return.

So Ptolemy went to the king into a court, where as he was set to make him, and brought him out of that mind:

Inasmuch that he discharged Menelaus from the accusations, that notwithstanding was cause of all mischief: and those poor men which if they had told their tale, yea before the Scythians, they should have been judged innocent, then he condemned to death.

Thus were they soon punished, which followed upon the matter for the city, for the people, and for the holy vessels.

Wherefore they also of Tybus, moved with hatred of that wicked deed, caused them to be very honorably buried.

And so through the courtousness of them that were in power, Menelaus remained still in authority, encroaching in matter, to the hurt of the citizens.

The 3. Chapter.

1 Out the same time Antiochus undertook his second siege into Egypt.

And then were there scene throughout all the city of Jerusalem.

Fourtie days longe, horsemen running in the ayre, with rides of gold, and as bandes of speare men,

And as troupes of horsemen set in arap, in courting and courting one against another, with shaking of shieldes and multitude of darts, and drawing of swordes, and shooting of arrodes, and the glittering of the golden armour scene, and harness of all foates.

Wherefore every man prayed that those tokens might turne to good.

Now when there was gone southe, a false rumour, as though Antiochus had ben dead, Jason took a thousand men, and came sonebly upon the cite: the citizens came into the wallts, at the last was the cite taken, and Menelaus fled into the castle.

As for Jason, he spared not his owne citizens in the slaughter, neither con- sidered he what great evil it were to destroy the prosperitie of his owne kinde men: but did as one that had gotten the victory of his enemies, and not of his friends.

As for this gat he not the superstition, but at the last receaue confusion for his malice, * and seld againe lyke a barta bound into the land of the Ammonites.

Finally, for a revarde of his wickednesse, he was acutted before Aretsh the king of the Arabians, insomuch that he was same to see from cite to cite, being defiled of every man as a spoiler of the ladys, and an abominable person: and at the last as an open enemy of his owne natural country and of the citizens, he was driven into Egypt.

Thus he that afore put many out of their owne native lande, proceeded from home him selfe: he went to Jerusalem, thinking there to have gotten a fortune by reason of himself.

And he that afore had take many one out unburied, was thowten out him selfe, no man mourning for him, nor putting him in his grave: so that he neither enjoyed the buriall of a stranger, neither was he partaker of his fathers pulchre.

Now when this was done, the king inspected that the Iewes would have fallen from him, wherefore he came in a great displeasure out of Egypt. * a take the cite by violence.

He commanded his men of warre also, that they should kill and not spare: but lay downe such as withstood them, or tymed by upon the bowles.

Thus was there a great slaughter of young men, old men, women, children, and virgins.

In these days were there same fourtie thousand, fourtie thousand put in pylon: and there were as many sode as were slaine.

Yet was he not content with this, but durst go into the most holy temple of all the world, Menelaus that trappor to the ladys and to his owne natural country.
country being his guide.

16 And with his buckled hands took the holy vessels, which other kings and cities had given them for the garnering thing of honour of the place, they took he in his hands unworthily, and defiled them.

17 So mad was Antiochus, that he considered not how God was not a little worth for the times of them that dwelt in the city, for the which such confusion came upon that place.

18 And why? if it had not happened to have been lapped in many times, this Antiochus assembled as he had come, had loathen been punished and shut out of his presumption, like as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king sent to robbe the treasure.

19 Nevertheless, God hath not chosen the people for the places fake: but the people for the places fake.

20 And therefore is the place become partaker of the people troubles, but afterward shall it enjoy the wealth of them: And like as it was now forsaken in the wealth of Almighty God, so when the great God is reconciled, it shall be set up in his worship again.

21 So when Antiochus had taken a thousand and eight hundred talents out of the temple, he gave him to Antioch in all the state, thinking in his pride that he might make men fake upon the dye lande, and to go upon the sea, such an he multitude had he.

22 He left deputies there to vere the people at Jerusalem left he Philip a phy- gian, in manner more cruel then him selle that set him there:

23 At Garzin he left Andronicus and Benelus, which were more greevous to the cizens then other.

24 He doth as he was thus set in mallece against the Jews, he lent Apolonius, a cruel prince, with an armie of twenty and two thousand, commanding him to slay those that were of perfect age, and to fell the women, maydens, and children.

25 When he came now to Jerusalem, he saigne peace, he kept him still until the Sabbath day: and then he commanded his men to take them to their weapons, for the Jews kept holy day:

26 And lo he slue all them that were gone forth to the open play, running [here and there] through the city with his men Wapone, and nurthred a great number.

27 But Judas Machabues, which was the tenth, fed into the wildernesse, led his life there with his company among Wyde beasts and upon the mountains, dwelling there, and eating heares, lest they should be partakers of the kithynesse.

The 7th Chapter.

1 The Jews are compelled to leave the lawe of God: 4 The temple is defiled.

2 The readers are admonished that they shall not adore the adsusement where with the Lord afflicteth them. 3 The greevous paine of Ceesarue.

At longe after this, lent the king an old man of Antioch, so to compell the Jews to transgress the ordin- nances of the fathers, of the lawe of God,

2 To besiege the temple that was at Hierusaleme, and to call it the temple of Jupiter Omnipotens: and that they shoule be in Garzin, as those which dwelt at the place of Jupiter the harborious.

3 This buckled faction of the vngodlie, was heavy upon all the people:

4 For the temple was full of voluptuousnes, libbing and bolling of the heathen, of rybades and harlots together: the

The Women went into the holy place, and bare in that was not lawfull.

5 The atere also was full of unlawful things, which the lawe forbiddeth to lay upon it,

6 The Sabbthes were not kept, the other solemnse fastes of the land were not regarded: to be plaines, there durt no manbe knowe that he was a Jew.

7 In the day of the kinges birth they were compelled parfoure to offer, and when the faste of Barcues was kept, they were contrayned to weare gar- landes of iute, and to go about to the honour of Barcues.

8 Moreover, through the counsell of Philomeneus, there went out a comman- dement
2. Machabees.

21. They that surfeby by, being moved with pity (but not a right) for the old friendship of the man, took him aside privately, and prayed him that he would let such fethe be brought him as were lawfull to eate, and then to make a countenaunce as though he had eaten of the feth of the sacrifice, like as the king commanded,

22. For so he might be delivred from death: and so for the old friendship of the man, they shewed him this kindness.

23. But he began to consider differently, and as became his age and the excellency of his ancient years, and the honour of his gray hairs whereunto he was come, and his most honest conversation from his childhood, but chiefly the holy law made and given by God, therefore he numbed consequence, and bidded them straightwayes to send him to the grave:

24. For it becometh not mine age, saith he, in any ypse to dissemble, whereby many young persons might think that Eleazar being fourscore yeres old and ten, were nothe gone to a strange religion:

25. And so through myne hypocrisy for a little time of transtouch lyfe, they might be deceived by this meanes also should I desire myne age, and make it abominable:

26. For though I were nothe delivered from the tormentes of men, yet shoulde I not escape the hand of almighty God neither alive nor dead.

27. Wherefore I wyll dye manfully, and do as it becometh myne age:

28. Whereby I may peradventure leave an example of fredshines for such as be young, if I with a redie munde a manfully dye an honest death for the most worship and holy ladies. When he had fadde these words, immediatly he was drawn to the torment.

29. Now they that led him, and were mildes a little afore, began to take displeasure because of the words that he said: for they thought he had spoken them of an he munde.

30. But when he was in his martyrdom, he mourned, and said: Thou solde Which hast the holy knowledge, knowest openly, that where as I might be delivred from death, I suffer these sore pains...
2. Machabees.

The punishment of the seven brethren and of their mother.

1. It happened also that there were seven brethren with their mother, taken, and compell'd by the king to offer the laudes to eate livnes fleche, (namely) with scourges and leatherne whippes.

2. And one of them, which was the chiefest, said: what seekest thou, and what requirest thou of us? As for us, we are ready rather to suffer death, then to offend the laudes of God and the fathers.

3. Then was the king angry, and bad heate caudions & baken pottes: when they were made hot,

4. Immediately he commanded the tongue of him that spake first to be cut out, to pull the skin over his head, to pare the edges of his handes and feete: and that in the sight of his mother and the other of his brethren.

5. Now when he was clean unhang'd, he commanded a fire to be made, and so (while there was any breath in him) to be fed in the caudyon: in the which when he had ben long pained, the other brethren, with their mother, exhorted him to dye manfully, saying:

6. The Lorde God shall rearde the truth, and comfort vs, like as Popes teellishly, and declareth in his song (saying:) And he will have compassion on his seruantes.

7. So when the first was dead after this manner, they brought the second to be hauen in berrion, pul'd the shame with the heare over his head, and asked him if he would eate obines fleche; he were payned in the other members also throughout his body,

8. But he contemned in his owne language, and said, I will not doe it: and so he was comtented lyke as the first.

9. And when he was even at the going vp of the ghost, he said, Thou most abominous person putrefft vs now to death: but the king of the world that rapsel vs by which dye vs; his laudes, in the resurrection of everlasting lyfe.

10. After him was the third had in desision, and when he was required he put out his tongue, and that right soone, holding sooth his handes manfully.

11. And spake with a steadfast faith: These haue I of heaue, but now for the laudes of God I despise them: for my trust is, that I shall receave them of him againe.

12. In such sort that the king & they which were with him, marvied at the young mans boldnes, that he nothing regarded the paynes.

13. Now when he was dead also, they vexed the fourth with tormentes in like maner.

14. So when he was now at his death, he said: It is better that we being put to death of men have our hope of truitt in God, for he shall rappe vs by againe: as for thee, thou shalt have no recourse.

15. And when they had spoken to the fifth, they comtented him.

16. Then took he unto the king, and said, Thou hast power among men, that art a mortal man also thy selfe to do what thou wylt: but thinke not that God hath fo taken our generation.

17. Above thee, tary till a whilte, and thou shalt see the great power of God, how he wyl punishe the thee and the seede.

18. After him they bought the sixth, which being at the point of death, faide: Be not deceav'd of king: for this we suffer for our owne sakes, because we have offended our God, and therefore marvellous things are shelled by vs.

19. But thinke not thou which taketh in handes to strike against God, that thou shalt escape unpunished.

20. This excellent mother worthye to be wel reposed of had in remembrance, said her seven sonnes dye in one day, and suffered it patiently, because of the hope that she had in God:
her country language, and that boldly and stedfastly with perfect understanding, making by her wits she thought with a manly sonority, and said unto them,

22 I cannot tell how ye spake in my wonder: For I neither gave you breath, nor soul, nor lye, it is not I that joined the members of your bodies together,

23 But the maker of the world, which fashioned the body of man, and began all things: Even he also of his own mercie shall give you breath and lye again: lye, as ye now regard not your own selves for his lades sake.

24 How thought Antiochus, that the he had despised him, therefor he let her go with her repose, and began to exhort the youngest sonne which yet was left, not onely with words, but alsoe unto him with an oath, that he should make him a rich and wealthy man, if he would forsake the lades of his fathers: yea, and that he should lose him whatsoever were necessity for him.

25 But when the young man would not be moved for all these things, he called his mother and counselled her to saue her sonnes life.

26 And when he had exhorted her with many words, she promised him that she would speake to her sonne.

27 So she turned her unto him, laughing the cruell tyrant to stone, and spake in her country language: O my sonne, have pitie upon me, that bare thee nine monethes in my wonde, that gave thee sucke, nourished thee, brought thee vp by this age.

28 I beseeche thee my sonne, lye upon heaven and earth, and all that is there in, and consider that God made them and mans generation of naught.

29 So that thou not seare this hangman, but suffer death stedfastly, lye as thy brethern have done: that I may recompense thee againe in the same mercie with thy brethren.

30 While she was yet speaking these words, the young man said: Whom lye ye for? wherefore do ye tarry? I will not obey the kings commandement, but the law that God gave vs by Hophi.

31 As for thou that imagines at insuchie against the Jews, thou shal not escape the hande of God.

32 For we suffer these things because of our sines.

33 And though the living God be angry with vs a little while for our chastening and resoulation, yet shall he be at one againe with his sires troubled.

34 But thou Godless man, and of all the most Wicked, pride not thy selfe through baine hope, in being so malicious upon the sires troubled of God:

35 For thou hast not yet escaped the indignement of God, which is almightie, & seeth all things.

36 By brethren that have suffered a little paine, are some under the couenaunt of everlasting lye: but though the indignement of God, thou shal be punished righteously for thy pride.

37 As for me, lye as my brethren have done. I offer my soule and my body for the lades of our fathers, calling upon God, that he will some be mercifull unto our people: ye, and with paine and punishment to make the grant that he onely is God.

38 In me nowe and in my brethren, the wrath of almightie God is at an ende, which righteously is fallen upon all our people.

39 Then the king being hindered in anger, was more cruell upon them then upon all the other, and toke indignation that he was so lightly regarded.

40 So this young man dyed unbfallo, and put his trust still in the Lord.

41 Lack of all, after the sines was the mother put to death also.

42 Let this now be enough spoken concerning the offeringes and extreme cruellnesse.
Then Judas Machabees, and they that were with him, went privately into the tribute, called their kindred and friends together, and took unto them al such as continued yet in the faith and taine of the Jews, and brought forth five thousand men.

2 So they called upon the Lord, that he would have an eye unto his people, which was trodden down of every man, to be gracious unto the temple, that was defiled of the heathen.

3 To have compassion upon the destruction of the city, which was shortly like to be laid waste, to hear the boype of the blood that cried unto him:

4 To remember the most righteous deaths of young innocent children, the blasphemies also done unto his name, and to punish them.

5 *Now when Machabees had gathered this multitude together, he was to night in the heathen, for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercie,

6 He fell upon the tribute and cities by wars, burnt them, took the most commodious places, and slue many of the enemies.

But specially he made such chases by night, informuch that his mainlines was spoken of every where.

8 So when Philip said that the man increased by little and little, and that the matter prospered with him for the most parte: he wrote unto Ptolomei, which was a captain in Celosyia and Phenecies, to help him in the kings busines.

9 Then sent he Nicana, the sonne of Patroclus, a special friend of his, in all the haste, and gave him of the common store of the heathen no lesse then twentie thousand harneffed men, to root out the whole generation of the Jews, having to helpe him one Gogias a man of warre, which in matters concerning battles had great experience.

10 Nicana obained also the tribute, which the Romans should have had, to be even unto the king out of the capture of the Jewses, [namely] two thousand talents.

11 And immediately he sent to the cities of the sea coaste, requiring them for to bye Jewses to be their seruantes and bondmen, promising to sell them for five hundred and ten for one talent: but he consdered not the wrath of almightie God that was to come upon him.

12 When Judas knew of this, he told the Jewses that were with him, of Nicana's coming.

13 How were there some of them scareful, not trusting unto the rightouesnes of God, and seing their way, and abode not in that place:

14 But the other that remained, came together, and besought the Lord to deliever them from that wicked Nicana, which had solde them ouer: he came npe them:

15 And though he would not doe it for their sake, yet for the covenant that he made with their fathers, and because they called upon his holy and glorious name.

16 *And so Machabees called his men together [namely] about five thousand, exhorting them not to agree unto their enemies, neither to be afaire for the multitude of their adversaries comming against them unrighteously, but to fight manly,

17 Considering the reproose that they had done to the holy place without cause, how they had despised and oppressed the crite, yea and destroyed the ladies of the fathers.

18 *For they, said he, trust in their weapons and boldnesse: but our confidence is in the almightie Lord, which in the twinkling of an eye may both destroy them, and come against vs, and all the world.

19 He exhorted them also to call to remembrance, how he helped to expel the heile that God delived by:
2. Machabees.

bours round about arc laying waste, and for opportunitie to do harme: I have ordained that my sonne Antiochus shall raigne after me, whom I oft commended to many of you, when I was in the higher kingdoms, I have written unto him as it followeth hereafter.

Therefore I pray you and require you to remember the benefits that I have done unto you generally and in especiall, and that every man will be faithful to me and my sonne.

1. Judas Machabeus taketh a citie and the temple, to beginneth to descrie the acts of Cupato. 15 The Jews fight against the Idumeans. 24 Timothius invaded Turie, with whom Judas lyttel battell. 25 Five men appeare in the age to the help of the Jews. 3 Timothi is lytse.

Machabeus noble and his company this side the help of the Lord was the temple and the citie againe, Destroyed the altars and chapells that the heathen had builted through the streets.

1. Cleaned the temple, made another altar of beastone done, and after two yeres they offered sacrifice, set forth the incense, the lightes, and the twelve bread.

2. When that was done, they fell doun flat upon the grounde, and besought the Lord that they might come into no more incontinent: but if they sinned any more against him, he him selfe to chasten them with mercy, and not to come in the hands of those alienates and blasphemous men.

3. Noble upon the same day that the strangers polluted the temple, it happened that on the very same day it was cleansed againe: namely the twentie and fift day of the moneth called Calfuel.

4. They kept eight dayes in gladnesse, like as in the feast of the tabernacles, remembering that not long afore they held the feast of the tabernacles upon the mountaynes and in denses, like beastes.

5. And to the same token they bare greene bowles, haunches, 8 palines, and long Psalines before hym that had given them good success to cleanse his place.

6. They agreed also together, and made a statute that every yer those dayes should be solemnly kept of all the people of the Jews.

7. How Antiochus then, that was called the noble, died it is sufficiently told.

8. Noble will ye speake of Cupato, the sonne of that which Antiochus spake it happened with hym, and so with fowe Wordses to comprehend the aduenture that chamned in the warres.

9. When he had taken in the kingdome, he made one Lyphas which had beene captaine of the gosalm Pontes and Syria, ruler over the matters of the realme.

10. For Pholomio, that was called Bacon, being a ruler for the Jews, and specially to sit in judgement for such wrong as was done unto them, undertoke to deal peaceably with them.

11. For the which cause he was accused of his friends before Cupato; and when he was suspect to be a traytor, because he had left Cyprus that Pholineto had committed unto him, and because he departed from noble Antiochus that he was once into, he popplon hym selfe, and died.

12. Now when Sogias was governor C of the same places, he took strangers, and undertooke oftentimes to warre with the Jews.

13. Moreover, the Idumeans that held the strong holdes, receaved that they were expen from Jerusalem, and took in hande to warre aiso.
2. Machabees.

16 "But they that were with Machabes besought prayed into the Lord that he would be their helper, and so they fell upon the strong holds of the Idumeans.

17 And wan many places by strength: such as came against them they slue, and killed no less of all together then twenty thousand.

18 Nevertheless some, no less then nine thousand, were fled into two strong towers, having all manner of ordinance to withstand them.

19 Then Machabes leaving Simon, Josephus, Zachæus, and those that were with them, which were very many, went to believe them, to fight where most neede was.

20 And when they that were with Simon, being led with croucousness, were intreated for money toward certayne of those that lay in the castles, tolke three score and ten thousand of Dagonias; and let some of them escape.

21 But when it was tolde Machabes what had happened, he called the captaynes of the people together, accuring the pesons, that they had told the bee then for money, & let their enemies go.

22 So he sene those captayns, & immediately went in hande with the two castles.

23 And when they had disobed them selves many with their weapons & handes, they slue in the two castles ma their twentie thousand.

24 "Hold Timotheus, whom the Jews had overcome afoe, gathered a multitude of strange people, brought an hoard also of hostemen of the Ashans to Wilne Jurie by strength.

25 But when he deliuered Machabees and they that were with him, *sett to their paper, spakled affyres upon their heads, baying gydded with heery cloth about their loynes.

26 Felt doth bene before the auffer, and besought the Lord that he would be mercifull to them, but an enemye unto their enemies, and to take part against their adversaries; according as it was promised in the lawe.

27 So after the paper, they take their weapons & went on further from the cite: & when they came nere the enemies, they prepared them selves against them.

28 And betimes in the morning at the breake of the day, both the hostes buckled together; *The one part had the Lord for their refuge, which is the garden of prosperitie, strength, and victory: the other had an annoylye & numakers, which is a capayne of warfare.

29 The batallie noth beyng great, *there appeared unto the enemies from heaven nine goodly men upon horsebaches, with haddes of gold, leading the Jeeues.

30 And two of them having Machabees betwixt them, that kept him laxe on every side with their weapons, but shot darts and lightmuses upon the enemies, where chosoid they were confounded with blindness, & so afeare they that they fell downe.

31 There were slayne of hostemen twentiethousand and five hundred, and five hundred hostemen.

32 As for Timotheus himselfe, he fled unto Gazara, a very stronghold, wherein Chereas was captayne.

33 But Machabes and his company layed siege to it cheerfully for sere dayes.

34 Now they that were within, trusting to the strength of the place, curfed and bannned exceedingly, and made great crahing with wicked words.

35 Nevertheless, upon the first day in the following, twelve young men of Machabees company, being set on fire in their numbers because of the blaspheme, came manfullye unto the wall, and with bolde fromakes smote downe thosc that they smote.

36 Others also sworn by bothe the temples, undertaing to set fire upon the poxes, & to burne those blasphemoous persons quith the fires that they had made, others brake open the gates, and receaue the rest of the armie, and take the cite.

37 Two dayes were they destroying the castles, which when they founde Timotheus that was crept in a corner, they killed him; and free Chereas his brother in like maner, with Apolophanes.

38 When this was done, they song Psalmes with papples and thanksgiving into the Lord, which had done so great things for Israel, and gene them the victory.
Thus they went on willingly, having an helper from heaven, and the Lord mercifully to them.

They fell mightily upon their enemies like lions, sixe thousande footmen, fivee hundred horsemen, and put all the other to flight.

Many of them being wounded, and some gat away naked: See Lysias him selfe was faine to see thankfully, and so to escape.

Nevertheless, that man was not without understanding, but considered by him selfe that his power was numbed, and ponded howe the Jews being defended by the helpe of almightie God, were not able to be overcome: Wherefore he sent them wordes,

And promised, that he would consent to all things which were reasonable, and to make the king their friend.

To the which paire of Lysias, Machabeyes agreed, seeking in all things the commonwealth: Whatsoever Machabeyes wrote unto Lysias concerning the Jews, the king granted it.

For there were letters written unto the Jews from Lysias, containing these wordes: Lysias tendeth greeting to the people of the Jews.

John and Absolon which were sent from you, deliver'd me writings, and required me to fulfil the things concerning their errand.

Therefore take what might be granted, I certify the king thereof: Whatsoever was commaund, he agreed thereto.

If ye now will be faithful in these matters, I shall endure my selfe hereafter also to do you good.

As concerning these things by every article thereof, I have committed them to your messengers and to those whom I sent unto you, to communicate with you of the same particularly.

Obe ye well. In the hundred fourtie and eightyeere, the twentie and fourtie day of the month Discom:thus.

Now the kings letter contained these wordes: King Antiochus tendeth greeting unto his brother Lysias.

2. Machabees.

23 Forso much as our father is now translated into the gods, our will is, that they which are in our realm, live without any interruption, and every man to be diligent in his own matters:

24 We understand also, that the Jews would not content to have father; so to be brought into the custome of the gentiles, but to make their own statutes, for the which, cause they require of us also, to let them remain still after their own latitudes.

25 Wherefore our mind is, that this people shalbe in rest; we have concluded and determined also to restore them their temple againe, that they may have according to the vle and custome of their forefathers.

26 Thou shalt do us a pleasure therefore, if thou send unto them, and grant them peace: that when they are certified of our mind, they may be of good cheare, and take to their owne wealth.

27 And this was the letter that the king wrote unto the Jews: King Antiochus sendeth greeting unto the counsell, and the other people of the Jews.

28 If ye fare well, we have our desire: as for us, we are in good health.

29 Petrus came to the king, and saide that his desire was to returne home, and peaceably to enjoy your owne possessions.

The xii. Chapter.

When these counenantes were made, Lyphas went into the king; and the Jews tilled their ground.

But Timotheus, Apolomus the sonne of Gemen, Jerome, and Demophon (the prince) Nicaro, the captain of Cyprus, and they that lay in those places, would not let them have in rest their peace.

They of Joppa also dyd even such a haussant beadle: they payed the Jews that dwelt among them, to go with them dyues and ivd into the hipples which they had prepared, and dyd with them as though they had ought them no evil will.

Forso much then as there was gone forth a general proclamation, that the citie because of peace, they contented therof, to suspense nothing; but when they were gone forth into the deep, they dyd not no less than two hundred of them.

When Judas knew of this恶ut, he dyd into his people, he conformed those that were with him to make them redy.

Exhorting them to fall upon God the righteous judge, went forth against those thereof of his brethren, and in the hauen by night, rent by the hipples: and those that escaped from the fire, he slew with the sword.

And when he had done this, he departed, as though he would come againe and roote out all them of Joppa.

But when he had gotten word that the Jannites were induced to do in the same manner into the Jews which dwelt among
He came upon the Ammonites by night, and set fire on the bawn with the horses; so that the light of the fire was seen at Jerusalem upon a two hundred and fourtie surlonges.

But when they were gone from thence nyne surlonges in their journey towardbe Timotheus, five thousande men of fooe, and fyve hundreth host-men of the Arabians, fought with hym.

So when the battell was earrest, and perpursed with Judas thosowe the helpe of God: the residue of the Arabians being overcome, belought Judas to be at one with them, and promised to gene huim certayne pastures, and to bo hym good in other things.

And when Judas went also into a citty, whiche was very fast kept with hybdis, feued round about with walles, and dures kindes of people dwelling therin, called Caphin.

They that were within it, put such trust in the strength of the walles, and in their store of battayles, that thay were the slacker in their dyongs, cursing and reuiling Judas with blasphemies, and speaking such wordes as it becommeth not.

But Zachabees calling uppon the great yance of the leword, which without any battell rammes; the ordinaunce of warre, did cast downe the walles of Jericho, (in time of Joshua) fel manfully uppon the walles.

And the citty, they thowde the helpe of the Lord made an exceeding great laffhurther: insomuch that a take of two surlonges byode whiche lay therby seemed to flode with the blood of the frayne.

Then departed they from hence leuen hundred and fiftie surlonges, and came to Taraca into the Jewes that are called Lubiani.

But as for Timotheus they could not get him there; for not one maner dispatchd he was departed from thence, and had left certayne men in a very strong holde.

But Dositheus & Sospater, whiche were captaynes with Zachabees, flue those that Timotheus had left in the house of defence, more then ten thousand men.

And Zachabees prepared him with the seue thousand men that were about him, let them in order by companies, and went foorth against Timotheus, which had with him an hundred and twentie thousande men of fooe, two thousande and fyve hundreth hostmen.

When Timotheus had knowledge of Judas coming, he sent the women, children, and the other bagage into a castle called Carmion: For it coulde not be wonne, and was hard to come into, the ways of the same places were so narrow.

And when Judas his first bande came in sight, the enemies were found with peace, thosowe the presence of God: which seeth all things: Forsomuch that they kynge one here; another there; were rather desconsolate of their obline people, "Wounded with the strokes of their obline wordes.

And Judas also was very earrest in soluator upon them, punishing those vngodely, a sence thirtie thousande men of them.

Timotheus also hym selfe set into the handes of Dositheus and Sospater, whom he beleought with much craft to let him go with his lyfe, because he had many of the Jewses fathers & brethren in prizon, which if they put him to death shoule be desouled.

So when he had promised baystfully to deliever them againe according to the condition made, they let him go without harme, for the health of the brethren.

Then Zachabees marched soorth to Carmion and Atargation, and there came twentie and sence thousande men.

And after that he had chased away and slayne his enemies, he removed the hoast towardes Ephion a strong citty, wherein was Lysias and a great multitude of divers nations: and the strong young men kept the walles, defending them mightly, in the citty was much ordinaunce and possession of darts.

But when Judas and his companie had called upon almightie God, which with his power breakest the strength of the enemies, they went the citie, and sene twentie and sence thousand of them that were within.

From thence went they to the citty of
2. Machabees.

The *Sevthians, which yeath five hundred hurtles from Hierusalem.

30 But when the Jews whiche were in the citie, testified that theeins beate louingly with them, yet intreated the kindly in the time of their aduerse.

31 Judas and his companie gane them thanks, desiring them to be friendlye [in] unto them: and so they came to Hierusalem, the yere feast of the weekes being at hand.

32 And after the feast of Pentecost, they went southe against Gogias the governor of Judnea.

33 Who came out with three thousand men of foote, foure hundred horsemen.

34 Whiche when they mete together, it channed a siege of the Feastes to be slayne.

35 And Dolues one of the Macenas, a mightie horseman, took hole of Gogias, and would have taken him quicke: but an horseman of Thariss fell upon him, and broke of his arme, so that Gogias escaped and fled into Ilissia.

36 When they sawe that were of Gogias side, had sought long and were wearye, Judas called upon the Lord, that he would be their helper, and cap-tayne of the field:

37 And with that he began in his owne language, and song Psalmes with a loude voixe: insomuch that he made the enemys straue, and Gogias men of warre take their flight.

38 So Judas gathered his host, and came into the citie of Dollea: and when the sevenet day came upon them, they celest them selves as the custome was, and kept the Sabbath in the same place.

39 And upon the day following, as necessitie required, Judas and his company came to take up the bodies of them that were slayne, and to burie them in the fathers graves.

40 Nobe under the coates of certayne Feves which were slayne, they founde relfe that they had taken of the temple and from the idoles of the *Jamies, whiche thing is forbidden the Feves by the lawe: then every man sawe that this was the cause wherfore they were slayne.

41 And so every man gave thanks unto the Lord for his righteous judgement, whiche had open'd the thing that was hyd.

42 They set downe also unto their payers, and besought God that the fault whiche was made might be p't out of remembrance: Besides that, Judas ex-horted the people earnestly to kepe their selves from such same, so much as they labe before their eyes that these men were slayne for the same offence.

43 So he gathered of every one a cer-tayne, and sent two thousande bat-tunes of silver unto Hierusalem, that there might a sacrifice be offered to the indece: In the which place he did vel and right, for he had some consideration and pondering of the lyke that is after this time.

44 For if he had not thought that whiche were slayne shou'de ryte & gaine, it had ben superfuous and payne to make any bowe or sacrifice for them that were dead.

45 But so much as he labed that they which be in the favoure & flece of god, are in good rest and joy, he thought it to be good & honyzable for a reconciling, to do the same for those which were slaine, that the offence might be forgiv'en.

The xiii. Chapter.

1 The comming of Cypato into Jude: 4 The death of Benelauz. To Machaveus going to fight against Cypato, moued his soldiery into paper. 15 he killed four and thousand men in the citie of Anitoz. 2 Xibodocus the betrayer of the Jewes is taken. 4 Anitozus retaung friendship with the Jewes.

2 the hundred fourtie and nine perre, go* Judas knowledge that Anitozus Cypato was comming with a great power into Jude: And Baylas the steward and ruler of his matters Which him, having an hundred and ten thousand men of foote of the Grecians, five thousand horsemen, twentie and two Elephants, and three hundred charrettes set with hookes.

3 Benelauz also join'd hypne with them, but with great disceyte sake farse to the king, not for any good of the countrye, but because he thought to have ben made some great man of authourite.

er of them, to put him into death in the same place.
5 There was also in the same place a tower of siste cubites hie, heaped with ashes: and it had an instrument that turned rounde, & on every side it rouled downe into the ashes, and therewith sooner was condemned of heretedge; or of any other greuous crime, was cast downe into death.
6 Whereunto the king commanded that a namefull person to be cast among the ashes, as one that was cause of all ungodnesesse.
7 And reason it was that the unthyft should dye such a death, and not be buried.
8 For he had done much mischief beto the auctor of God, whose fire and ashes were holy: therefore was it right that he him selfe also should be destory-e with ashes.
9 But the king was wound in his minde, and came to them hem selfe more cruelly unto the Jewes, then his father was.
10 Which when Judas perceaved, he commanded the people to call upon the Lord nyght and day, that he would nowe helpe them also lyke as he had done alway: for they were afraid to be put from their latwe, from their natural country, and from the holy temple:
11 And not to suffer the people which a little while after began to recover, to be subdued againe of the blasphemous nations.
12 So when they had done this together, and besought the Lord for mercy, with weeping and falling three bayes long flat upon the grounde, Judas exhorted them to make them selves rude.
13 But he and the eldew together deuided to go faste (first with the people) afore
the king bought his hoaste into Jurtie, and after he beseged the cite, and so to commit the matter unto God.
14 Wherefore he committed the charge of all things unto God the maker of all the world, exhorting his people to fight manfully, yea even into death, for the lades, the temple, the cite, their owne nature country, and to defend the citizens: and he set his hoaste before Do-bim.
15 He gave them also that were with him a token of the victory of God, choosing out the manliest young men, went by night into the kings pavilion, one of the hoaste fourteene thousand men, and the greatest of the Elephantes, with those that late upon him.
16 Thus when they had brought a great fear and rumour among the tenes of their enemies, and all thinges went pros-eriouly with them,
17 They departed in the beake of the day, God being their helper and defender.
18 And when the king perceaved the manieues of the Jewes, he went about to take the strong places by craft, 19 And removed his hoaste unto Bethoura, which was a well kept house of deference of the Jewes: but they were chasked away, hurt, and discomfited.
20 And Judas sent unto them that were with, such thinges as were necessarie.
21 In the Jewes hoaste also there was one Rhodesbus, which tolde the enemies their secrets: but they fought him out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in paxion.
22 After this did the king commune with them that were in Bethsura, to thrust with them, departed, and broke a bat-tale with Judas, which overcame
him.
23 But when he understoode that Philip, whom he had left to be overier of this busines at Antioch, began to rebell against him, he was ashamed in his mind, so that he recibed him selfe to the Jewes, and made them an oath to doe whatsower they thought right.
24 Now when he was reconciled with them, he offered, made much of the temple, gave great gifts unto it, 25 Enbaced Machabens, making him E captaine and governor from Ptolemais unto the Gentenes.
26 Nevertheless when he came to Ptolemais, the people of the citty were not content with the bond of frendship: for they were afraid that he would break the covenant.
27 Then went Lysas vp into the judgment scate, and cursed the fact as well as he could, and ensouled the people, threw them the cause why, & passhed
them
Then: so he came again to Antioch. This is now the matter concerning the king's journey, and his return.

The xiii. Chapter.

1. By the motion of the Lorde, Demetrius sendeth Nicanoz to kill the Jews; 13 Nicanoz maketh a compact with the Jews, 19 which he yet breaketh through the motion of the king. 21 Nicanoz commandeth Rhasas to be taken. 4. The disorders of Rhasas.

After three years, was Judas informed how that Demetrius the son of Scæneus was come by both a great power and thipples, through the haven of Tripolis,

2. To take certaine commodious places and countreys, against Antiochus and his captain Stylass.

3. Doby Alcimus, which had ben his priest, and of his people, sitting in the time of the meeting, telling that by no means he could be helped, nor have any more entrance to the utter.

4. He came to king Demetrius in the hundred sithic and one yere, presenting unto him a crowne of gold, a pauline, and an olive tree, which as men thought belonged to the temple: and that day held his tongue.

5. But when he had gotten opportunity for his madnesse, Demetrius called him to counsel, and asked him what things or counsels the Jews leaned unto?

6. He answered: The Jews that be called Alloes (whose captain is Judas Machabeus) maintaine Darres, make insurrections, and will not let the temple be in peace.

7. For I being deprived of my fathers honour (I mean the high priestship) am come hither:

8. Partly because I was faithfull unto the king, and partly because I sought the profite of my people citizens: And why? all our people, though the wickednesse of them, are not a little troubled.

9. Wherefore I believe this king, consider all these things diligently, and then make some provision for the lande and the people, according to the kindness that thou hast offered unto them.

10. For as long as Judas liueth, it is not possible that men can live in peace.

11. When he had spoken these wordes, other friends also having called Wyll at Judas, let the king Demetrius on fire [against him.]

12. Which immediately sent Nicanoz, ruler of the Elephants, a captaine, into Jourie,

13. Commanding him to slay Judas, 1 and to scatter them that were with him, and to make Alcimus the priest of the great temple.

14. Then the heathen, which fled out of Jourie from Judas, came to Nicanoz by strokes, thinking the haemore and decay of the Jews to be their welfare.

15. Noth when the Jews heard of Nicanoz comming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they sprinkled them felues with earth, 2 and besought him which made them his people, and ever defended his owne portion with eudent toches, that he would prefer them still.

16. So at the commendement of the captain they removed straight wise from the temple, came to a towne called Delfan.

17. And Simon, Judas brother, fell in hand with Nicanoz: but through the losse comming of the enemies he was asraide.

18. Nevertheless, Nicanoz hearing the manuall of them that were with Judas, and the bolde nomake that they had to fight for their natural countre, durst not prooue the manner with bloodshedding.

19. Wherefore he sent Posidonius, "The odous, and Mathathias before, to give D and to take peace.

20. So when they had taken long amusement thereupon, and the captain moved it into the multitude, they were agreed in one mind to have peace.

21. And they appointed a day to be upon these matters quietly among them spleues, and for every one spleues also were bought and set forth.

22. Nevertheless, Judas commanded certaine men of armes to watch in commodious places, lest there should sodainly aryle any esult through the enemies: and so they communed reasonably together.
2. Machabees.

cxvii.

23. Nicanoz while he abode at Hierusalem, obeyed himself not unreasonably, but sent away the people that were gathered together.

24. He loved Judas ever with his heart, and favoured him.

25. He played him also to take a wife, and to bring fourth children. So he married, named in rest, and they led a common life.

26. But Alcimus perceiving the love that was betwixt them, and how they were agreed together, came to Demetrius, and told him that Nicanoz had taken strange matters in hand, and defayed Judas, an enemy of the reality, to be the king's successor.

27. Then the king was sore displeased, and through the wicked accusations which Alcimus made of Nicanoz, he was so provoked, that he wrote unto Nicanoz, saying: that he was very angry for the friendship and agreement which he had made with Machabees. Therefore he commanded him at the haste that he should take Machabees prisoner, and sent him to Antioch.

28. Which letter, when Nicanoz had seen, he was at his wits ende and tore greeued, that he should not break the things wherein they had agreed, specially seeing Machabees was that man that used him harme.

29. But because he might not withstand the king, he sought opportunity to fulfill his commandment.

30. Notwithstanding when Machabees said that Nicanoz began to be curious unto him, that he entreated him more roughly then he was wont, he perceived that such familiarity came not of good, and therefore he gathered a file of his men, and with them he fled from Nicanoz.

31. Which when he knew that Machabees had manfully precoured him, he came into the great and most holy temple, and commanded the priestes which were doing their usual offeringes, to deliuer him the man.

32. And when they sware that they could not tell where the man was by whom he fought,

33. He stretched out his right hand toward the temple, and made an oath, saying: If ye will not deliuer me Judas captive, I shall remove this temple of God into the plaines fieldes, that brake downe the altar, and consacrifie this temple unto Bacchus.

34. After these words he departed. Then the priestes lyft up their hands toward heaven, and besought him that was ever the defender of their people, saying:

35. Thou O Lord of all, which hast need of nothing, wouldst that the temple of thy habitation should be among vs:

36. Therefore now O most holy Lord, keep his house euer undefiled, which lately was cleaned, and stop all the mouths of the unrighteous.

37. Now was there accursed unto Nicanoz one Razias an alderman of Hierusalem, a lover of the whole city, a man of good repose, which for the king's heart that he bare unto the people, was called a father of the Jews.

38. This man off times when the Jews were munged to keep them selves undefiled, defended, and deliuered them, being content fredly to spend his body and his lyfe for his people.

39. So Nicanoz willing to declare the hate that he bare to the Jews, sent five hundred men of warre to take him:

40. For he thought if he gat him, he shou'd bring the Jews in great decay.

41. Now when the people began to runne in at his house, to breake the doores, and to set fire on it, he being now taken, fell upon his sword.

42. Choosing rather to dye manfully, then to receiue him selfe to those wicked dores: because of his noble stroke, he had rather have been put to extreme crueltie.

43. Norwithstanding, what time as he missed of his stroke for haste, and the multitude rushed in violently betwixt the doores, he ranne boldely to the wall, and cast himselfe downe manfully among the heapes of them:

44. Which gave some place to his fall, so that he fell upon his belly.

45. Nevertheless, while there was yet breath within him, he was kindled in his mind, and while his blood gushed out exceedingely so he was very sore wounded, he ranne through the midst of the people, and gave him to the top of a rocke.

46. So when his blood was NOW gone, he took out his owne swordes both his handes, thred them upon the people, calling upon the Lord of lyfe a pataite to redeeme him this againe: and so he dye.
2. Machabees.

The xv. Chapter.

2: Nicano goeth about to come upon Judas on the Sabbath day. 3 The blasphemies of Nicano. 14 Machabees expounding unto the Jews the vision, boldeneth their hearts. 21 The prayer of Machabees. 30 After the hoast of Nicano is once overcome, Machabees commandeth his head & his handes to be cut off, and his tongue to be burne unto foules.

1. When Nicano knew that Judas and his company were in the country of Samaria, he thought with his power to strike a field with him upon a Sabbath day.

2. Nevertheless the Jews that were compelled to go with him, said: O do not so cruelly and unluckily, but halowe the Sabbath day, and worshippe him that seeth all things:

3. [For all this.] yet faile the buggerations person. If there a mighty one in heaven that commanded the Sabbath day to be kept,

4. And when they faile: yea the lyuing God, the mightie Lord in heaven commanded the seventh day to be kept,

5. He faile: And I am mightie upon earth, to commande them for to arme them selves, to to perfourne the kings businesse. Notwithstanding, he might not have his purpose.

6. Nicano had devisd with great pride to overcomer Judas, and to bring alway the victorie;

7. But Machabues had ever a fast confidence and a perfect hope in God, that he would helpe him:

8. And exhorted his people not to be straye at the commaund of the heathen: but alway to remember the help that had been shewed unto them from heaven, yea and to be sure now also that almightie God would shew them the victorie.

9. He spake unto them out of the lawe and propheters, putting them in remembrance of the batailles that they had striken afore, and made them to be of good courage.

10. So when their hearts were pluckt up, he shewed them also the delectablesse of the heathen, and how they would kepe no covenante nor oath.

11. Thus he Weapona them not with the armoure of the heabe and speare, but with wholesome words and exhortations:

12. Which was this: He thought that he said Ones, which had ben he prest, a verituous and loving man, and of honest conversation, well spoken, and one that had ben exercised in godlines from a childie, holding up his handes toward heaven, and praying for his people.

13. After this, there appeared unto him another man, which was aged, honora ble, and glorious.

14. And Ones said: This is a lourer of the bretheren, and of the people of Israel: this is he that payeth much for the people, and for all the holy citie, Jeremie the prophet of God.

15. He thought also that Jeremie helde out his right hande, and gane unto Judas a sword of gold, saying:

16. Take this holy sword, a gift from God, where with thou shalt smite downe the enemies of the people of Israel.

17. And so they were well comforted through the wordes of Judas, which were very sweete and able to stirre up their courage: and take courage unto them, so that the young men were determined in their mindes to fight, and to abide stilly at it: in much that in the things whiche they toke in hande their boldnesse shewed the same, because the holy citie, the sanctuary, and the temple were in perill,

18. For the whiche they toke more care, then for their byres, children, bretheren, and kinfolkes.

19. Again, they that were in the citie, were most careful for those which were to fight.

20. Now, when they were all in a hope that the judgement of the matter was at hande, and the enemies due nye, the hoast being set in array, the Elephants and horsemen every one standing in his place:

21. Machabues considering the coming of the multitude, the ordinance of his weapons, the cruethes of the beasts, helde up his handes toward heaven, heaven, calling upon the Lord that both wonders, which generally not the victory after the multitude of weapons and power of the hoaste, but to them that please him, according to his owne wills.

22 Therefore in his prayer he saide these words, O Lord, thou hast sent thyne angel in the time of Sennacherib, and in the hoaste of Sennacherib slue an hundred fourscore and five thousand:

23 And send now also thy good angel befoe vs O Lord of heaven, in the fairefulness and peace of thy mightie armes,

24 That they which come against the holy people to blaspheme them, may be slaine. And so he made an ende of his words.

25 Then Nicanoes they that were with him, came vp with trumpettes and shoutinges for joy:

26 But Judas and his company, with prayer and calling vp God, encountered with the enemies.

27 With their handes they smote, but with their heartes they prayed into the Lorde, and sue no lesse then thirtie and five thousand men: For through the precent help of God, they were giously comforted.

28 Now when they left of, and were turning againe with joy, they understand that Nicanoes man was slaine with the other, for all his armour.

29 Then they gave a great shoute and a crye, praising the almighty Lorde in their owne language.

30 And Judas which was ever rede to hend his body and lyfe for his cirtizens, commanded to slue of Nicanoes head, with his arm and hande, and to be brought to Hierusalem.

31 When he came there, he called all the people to the altar, with those that were in the citie,

32 And hewed them Nicanoes head, and his wicked hande Which he had presumptuously holde vp against the temple of God.

33 He caused the tongue also of that

Nicanoes head, to be cut in little pieces, and to be cast to the foules, and that cruel mans hande to be hanged vp before the temple.

34 So every man gave thanks into the Lorde, saying: Blessed be he that hath kept his place undestiled.

35 As for Nicanoes head he hanged it vp upon the he castell: for an evident and playne token of the helpe of God.

36 And so they agreed al together to kepe that day holy, (namely) the thirteenth day of the moneth Abar,

37 Which in the Spyns language is called the next day before Barbocheus
day.

38 Thus was Nicanoes slaine, and from that time forth the Ibrues had the citie in possession: and here vppon Iesode make an ente.

39 If I have done well and as the scope required, it is the thing that I desired:
but if I have spoken stenderly & barely,
I have done that I could.

40 For as it is hurtfull to drinke wine a-alone, and then againe water, as wine tempred with water is pleasant & delighteth the taste: so the setting out of the matter delighteth the care of them that reade the story: And here halfe be the ende.

The ende of the second booke of the Machabees.
The description of the holy lande, conteyning the places mentioned in the foure Euangelyes, with other places about the seacoasts: wherein may be seen the ways and journeys of Christe and his Apostles in Iudea, Samaria, and Galilee: for into these three parts this lande is devided.

The places specified in this mappe, with their situation by the observation of the degrees, concerning their length and breadth.

The newe Testament of our sa-uiour Iesus Chriiste.
1595

I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, because it is the power of God unto salvation to all that believe. Rom.i.
HE new Testament so called, containing the writings of the Evangelistes, with the Epistles of Christ our Saviour, and with other such divine books, doth playfully vnto vs the similitude and effect of all the scriptures expressed in the olde Testament. That which was in figure and fome obscure inviolate involution by the patriarches and prophets in their prophetical volumes, written in the old Testament, is in this book more plaine and evidently set out, vnder the direction and tending of the felle same spirit by the children of the prophets the holy Apostles. In deedes the whole of the scripture was enriched by fome of their fathers. The whole or fome of the Propheetes, in vsome of the places, doe enlargeme and sett out. In this is discoverd the whole center of our instruction and redemption, which was most effectually discovered by vsome of their fathers. Our Churche, here is his holy conception dehired, his natuure, his education, his whole life and conservacion, his godly doctrine, his divine miracles. In this book of the new Testament doth be contained all which by vsome of the fathers, before it be come by vsome of the fathers, vsome of the fathers, have spake vnto the fathers by the prophets, but in these last daies he hath spoken vnto vs (vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come) by vsome of the fathers, vsome of the fathers, have spake vnto the fathers by the prophets, but in these last daies have spake vnto vs (vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come) of the holy fathers in like manner of the fathers by the fathers. In this book is containd the dureing and order of his latt judgement, after the general refurreccion of our bodies. Thy churche is the misteries of our faith, thee be the goundes of our refurreccion, thine be the word that we should then believe, and by our belief shoule enjoy life euerlasting. Once in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come, in vsom whom the ends of the vorld be come.
The (a) Gospell by Saint Matthewe.

The first Chapter.

1 The Genealogie of Christe from Abraham. 18 The marriage of his mother Marie. 20 The Angel thịtifieth Josephes mynde.

1. The interpretation of Christes names.

The book of the generation of Jesus Chrift, the found of David, the found of Abrahaunt.

Abraham begat Isaac, *Isaac begat Jacob, *Jacob begat Judas, and his brethren.

Jesse begat David the kynge, *David the kynge begat Solomon, of her that was the wyfe of Urie.

Az begat Jofaphat, Jofaphat begat Ioam, *Joram begat Ozias.

11 Josiahs begat Joram, *Joram begat Jeconias and his brethren, about the time they were caried away to Babylone.

12 And, after they were brought to Babilon, *Jehonias begat Salathiel, Salathiel begat Zorobabel.

14 Axo begat Sadoe, Sadoe begat Achu, Achu begat Eliud.

15 Eliud begat Eleazar, Eleazar begat Mattthan, Mattthan begat Jacob.

16 Jacob begat Joseph, the husband of Marie, of whose borne Jesus, that is called Christ. 17 And so, all the generations from Abraham to David, are fourteen generations: and from David until the carrying away into Babylon, are fourteen generations; and from the carrying away into Babylon unto Christe, are fourteen generations.

18 The birth of Jesus Christ was on this wise. When as his mother Marie was betrothes to Joseph before they when Jesus was born in Bethlehem, a city of Judæa, in the days of Herod the king: behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem,

2. Saying: Where is he that is born king of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him.

3. When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born.

5. And they told him, saying, At Bethléhem shalt thou find the young child, and of the house and of the line of David.

6. And when they heard it, they departed into the parts of Judæa, and entered into Jerusalem, and went into the temple: and when they saw the young child, they were astonished.

7. And Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared.

8. And he sent them to Bethlehem, saying, Go and search diligently, and bring me word of the young child, when ye find him, that I may come and worship him also.

9. When they had seen the young child, they fell down and worshipped him: and when they were returned from Herod, they discovered the saying of the prophet, saying: Out of Egypt came I and called my name Jesus.

10. And they returned from the west into the land of their own country, and it came to pass, as they were entered into their own country, they told all that things which were spoken by the prophet.

11. And all the people of the land were astonished at them.

12. And when they were departed, behold, the star which they saw in the west, went before them, until it came and stood over where the young child was.

13. And when they had seen it, they made known unto the priests and scribes of the exact place where the young child was.

14. And they went into the temple, and saw the young child, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, and presented unto him gifts, gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

15. And coming into the temple, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

16. Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and all in the country, as many as were voted.
two yere old, or under, according to the ynne, which he had diligently search-et out of the whole men.
17 Then was fulfilled that, which was spoken by Jeremie the prophet, saying.
”In Rama was there a youth heard,
oration, weeping, & great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and should not be comforted, because they were not. • 19 But when Herode was dead, before, an Angel of the Loorde appeared to Joseph in a dreame, in Egypt, saying.
20 Arple, and take the young chydie and his mother, and go into the lande of Je-rael. *For they are dead, which sought the young chydes lyce.
21 And he arose, and toke the young chydie and his mother, and came into the lande of Israel.

dyd reigne in Jurie in the yolume of his father Herode, he was afraid to go thynner. Notwithstanding, after he was warned of God in a dreame, he turned aside, into the partyes of Galilee, 23 And (went and) dwelt in a tynne, which is called Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophets: he shalbe called a Nazarene.

The.iiij. Chapter.

C. Johnes preaching, office, lyfe, baptisme, 7 prepending of the Pharisees, 13 and baptizing of Christe in Jordan.

1 In those dayes, came John the *Bapstiz,
preaching in the Wylderness of Jurie, and saying.

*Repent, (4) for the kingdome of heauen is at hande.

3 For this is he, of whom it is spoken by the prophet Esayas, saueing. *The boye of one crying in the Wylderness:
prepare ye the way of the Loorde, make his pathes straignt.

4 This John had his rayment of Camels here, *and a garde of a tymne about his lynpes, *his nicate was lo-culcs, and *Wyple hony.

5 Then went out to hym Hierusalem, and all Jurie, and all the region rounde about Jordan,

6 And were baptizid of hym in Jo-dane, confessting their synnes.

7 But when he sawe many of the Pharisees, and Saducetes come to his baptizone, he sayde unto them. *O generations of pipez, who sayest thou to see from the ange towne to come?

8 Sayinge fortherefrutty fruiutes meete for repentence.

9 And be not of suche mynde, that ye woulde saye within your synes, we haue Abraham to our father. For I saye unto you, that God is able of these stones to rayle by chydenes unto Abrahaum.

10 Even nowe is the axe also putt unto the roote of the trees: therefore, *every tree which bringeth not forth good fruite, is hewed downe, and cast into the fire.

11 I baptize you in Water *unto repentance: But he that shall come after me, is mightier than I, *whose shooes I am not worthy to bare, he shall baptize you with the holy ghost, and with fire.

12 *Whose name is in his hande, and he will purge his floor, and gather his wheate into his garner: but byl burne by the chasse with buquestable fire.

13 Then commeth Iesus from Galilee to Jordan, unto John, *to be baptized of hym.

14 But John forbade hym, saying. I have neede to be baptized of thee, and conneccfthou to me?

15 Iesus answered, sayde unto hym: Suffer it to be so nowe. For thus it beconnefth us, to fullfill all rightcouns.
Then he suffered hym.

16 And Iesus, when he was baptized, came straigntwaye out of the water, and loe *the heauens was open unto hym, and (John) sawe the fiuric of God descending lyke a boyle, and lyghting upon hym.

17 And loe, there (came) a voynce from the heauens, saying: *This is my beloved sonne, in whom I am well pleased.

X iij C The
Then was Jesus led into the presence of the people of God, to be tempted by the devil.

And when he had fasted forty days, and forty nights, he was afterward an hungered.

And when the devil came to him, he said: If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread.

But he answered, and said, it is written: 'Man shall not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.'

Then the devil took him to the holy city, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple,

And saith unto him: If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down. For it is written: 'He shall give his angels charge over thee, and with his hand they shall lift thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.'

And Jesus said to him: It is written again: 'Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.'

Again, the devil took him to a very high mountain, and showed him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them,

And saith unto him: All these will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down, and worship me.

And the devil took Jesus unto a high mountain, and said unto him: All the kingdoms of the world will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down, and worship me.

Then the devil leaveth him, and behold, the Angels came, and ministered unto him.

When Jesus had heard that John was delivered up, he departed into Galilee,

And left Nazareth, and went and dwelt in Capernaum, which is (a city) upon the sea coast, in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthalim.

That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying:

'The land of Zabulon, and Nephthalim, by the way of the sea beyond Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles.'

The people, which sat in darkness, saw great light: And to them which sat in the region and shadow of death, light is sprung up.

From that time, Jesus began to preach, and to say: Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.

And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brethren, Simon (which was) called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea (for they were fishers.)

And he saith unto them: Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men.

And they straightway left their nets, and followed him.

And when he was gone forth from thence, he saw other two brethren, James, and John, the sons of Zebedee, and he saith unto them, Son of man, I will make thee fishers of men.

And immediately, they left the ship and their father, and followed him.

And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the Gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness, and all manner of diseases among the people.

And his fame spread abroad through all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people, that were taken with divers diseases, and torments, and them that were possessed with devils, and those who were unclean, and those that had the palsy, and he healed them.

And there followed him great multitudes of people, from Galilee, and from the ten cities, and from Jerusalem, and from Phœnicia, and from the region of Tarassar, and from Perea, and from the region of Joppæa, and from all about Israel.
In this Chapter, and in the two next following, is contained the most excellent and loving Sermon of Christ, in the mount, which Sermon, is the very key, that openeth the understanding into the lawe. In this sixth chapter specially, he preacheth of the eight beatitudes, or blessings, 21 of manslaughter, 22 wrath, and anger, 27 of adulterers, 37 of swearing, 39 of suffering wrong, 44 and of love, even towards a many enemies.

17. Think not that I am come to destroy the lawe, or the prophets. I am not come to destroy, but *to fulfill.

18. For truly I say unto you, *till heaven and earth passe, one jot, or one te of the lawe shall not passe, till all be fulfilled.

19. Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandements, and teacheth men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven. But who so ever doth, and teacheth (to) the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

20. For I say unto you: except your right-teouslines exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

21. Do not hear, that it was said by them of the old tyme,* thou shalt not kill: who so ever shall kill, shall be in danger of judgement.

22. But I say unto you, that who so ever is angry with his brother, unadvisedly, shall be in danger of judgement. And who so ever shall say unto his brother, <r:at>sa, shall be in danger of a council:
But, whosoever shall say (thou) fool, shall be in danger of hell fire.

23. Therefore, if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest, that thy brother hath ought against thee:

24. Leave there thy gift, before the altar, *and go thy way, first and be recondited to thy brother: and then, come and offer thy gift.

25. *Agree with thy adversary quickly lire, whyshes thou art in the waye with him: lest at any tyme the adversary beturer thee to the judge, and the judge be lover thee to the minister, and then thou be cast into pryson.

26. Ceasely I say unto thee, thou shalt not take out thence, till thou hast paid the vemost farthing.

27. Do not hear, that it was not by to the tribes of tyme: *Thou shalt not commit adultery.

28. But I say unto you, *that whosoever

Auij

God
lokest on a woman, to lust after her, hath committed adultery with her already, in his heart.

29 If thy right eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee. For better it is for thee, that one of thy members perish, than that thy whole body should be cast into hell.

30 And if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee. For better it is for thee, that one of thy members perish, than that all thy body should be cast into hell.

31 It is said: Whosoever putteth away his wife, let him give her a writing of dissuement.

32 But I say unto you, that Whosoever doeth put away his wife, except it be for fornication, causeth her to commit adultery. And Whosoever marrieth her that is put away, (committed adultery.)

33 Agayne, ye have heard that it was said, let him give her a writing of dissuement. Thou shalt not forswear thy wife, but shalt performe unto the Lord thy wife other.

34 But I say unto you: Swear not at all, neither by heaven, for it is gods seate,

35 For by the earth, for it is his foot-stool, neither by Jerusalem, for it is the cite of the great tyring.

36 Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one herece whosoe or blakene.

37 But let your communication be yea, yea, nay, nay. For whosoever is more then these, committeth of cuphill.

38 He hath sete, that it is sayde, an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth.

39 But, I say unto you, that ye resist not evil. But Whosoever giveth thee a blowe on thy right cheek, turne to him the other also.

40 And if any man will sue thee at the lade, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloke also.

41 And Whosoever will compel thee to go a mile, go with him two miles.

42 *Give to him that asketh thee: and from him that would do thee wrong, turne not thou away.

43 He hath heard, that it is said: Thou shalt love thy neighbour, thou hate thy enemy.

44 But I say unto you, love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, pray for the which hurt you, and persevere you:

45 That ye may be the children of your father, which is in heaven. For he maketh his sunne to shine on the just, and on the unjust, and sendeth raine on the just, and on the unjust.

46 For, if ye love them which love you, Luk.xxvi. 9 what reward haue ye? Do not the publicans also even the same?

47 And if ye salute one another only, what singular thing do ye? Do not also the publicans so do likewise?

48 Ye shall therefore be perfecte, even as your father, which is in heaven, is perfecte.

1 Of almes, prayer, &c and fasting. 19 He forbodeeth the caretfull singing of worshipps songes.

1 All heere to your almes, that ye giue it not in the sight of men, to the intent that ye would be fene of the, or els ye haue no reward of your father, which is in heauen.

2 Therefore, when thou givest thyne almes, thou shalte not make a trumpet to be blown before thee, as hypocrites do, in the synagogues, & in the breakes, they might be esteemed of men. Uterly I say unto you, they have their reward.

3 But when thou doit (thyne) almes, let not thy left hand knowe, what thy right hand doeth.

4 That thyne almes may be in secrecte: And thy father, which seeth in secrecte, shall reward thee openly. &
And when thou prayest, *thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: For they love to stand in the synagogues, and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. *Tercy I say unto you, they have they rewarde.

But when thou prayest, *enter into thy chamber, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy father, which is in secret, and thy father which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

But when ye pray,* babble not much, as the heathen do: For they prayne (as they | will come to passe,) that they shall be heard, for they much babbling take.

Be ye not therefore like unto them. *For your father knoweth, what things ye have need of, before ye ask of him.

After this manner therefore pray ye: *Our Father, which art in heaven, *hallowed be thy name.

Let thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as it is in heaven.

Give us this day our daily bread.

And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.

And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.

For, *if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly father will also forgive you.

But, *if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your father forgive you:

Therefore, *when ye fast, be not of an heavy countenance, as hypocrites are: For they disfigure them selves, that they might appear unto men, to fast. *Tercy I say unto you, they have they rewarde.

But thou, when thou fastest, anonyth thy head, and wasthe thy face:

That thou appear not unto men, to fast: but unto thy father, which is in secret, and thy father which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

Vowes not for thy feuelles, treasures upon earth, where the moth and rust both corrupt, and where thieves break through, and steele.

But laye up for you, treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through, nor steal.

For, where your treasure is, there shall your heart be also.

The light of the body, is the eye. Wherefore, if thine eye be single, all thy body shall be full of light.

But if thine eye be wicked, all thy body shall be full of darkness. Wherefore, if the light that is in thee, be darkness, how great is that darkness?

Of whom ye have not learned that which is right, ye shall learn it of me. *For he shall shewe me the one thing, to love the other: or else leave to the one, and dispute the other. *He can not serve two masters.

Therefore I say unto you, *be not carefull for your life, what ye shall eat, or drink: nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more precious then meat? *the body then rayment?

Behold the fowles of the air: *For they sowe not, neither do they reap, nor carre into the barnes: yet your heauenly father feedeth them. Are ye not much better then they?

*Which of you, by taking of careful thought, can add one rubic unto his stature?

And why care ye for rayment: *Learn of the Lylies of the field, how they growe. They weary not, neither do they speme;

And yet I say unto you, that even Solomon in all his royals, was not arrayed lycle one of these.

Wherefore, *if God doth clothe the grass of the field, which though it flande to day, is to morrow cast into the oven: shall he not much more (bo) the same for you, O ye of little faith?

Therefore take no thought, saying: *What shall we eat? or, *What shall we drink? or, Wherewith shall we be clothed?

(For after all these things, ye do the Gentiles seke;) *For your heavenly father knoweth, that ye have need of all these things.

But rather, seke ye first the kyndgome of God, and his rightcounfes, and all these thynes shall manister bunto you.

Carre not then the noyowde: for the noyowde shall care for it selfe. (b) Sufficient bunto the day, is the cupy thereof.

*That is, heareth was his name of his stone great or steele. But her.

   destroyed, ye shall be destroyed with them.
   3 He that sacrificeth to God, and sacrificeth not to God, is an abomination.
   4 For the sacrifices of the law are many; but the sacrifice of Christ is one.
   5 Thrice seven times, and it shall be burnt.
   6 But the sacrifice of Christ, being offered once for all, intyrqued into heaven for ever, is ready to be ministered by angels, who bare them into heaven.
   7 But the sacrifice of Christ, being offered once for all, intyrqued into heaven for ever, is ready to

21 Not every one, that layeth sown, shall gather the same:
   *Loide, Loide, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: but he that doth the will of my father, which is in heaven.
   22 Many will say to me in that day, Loide Loide, have we not prophesied in thy name? and they which have prophesied in thy name, will call out, Amen. And many will do great works in thy name, 23 And then will I confess unto them, I knew you not, ye that work iniquity.
   24 Wherefore, whosoever shall hear these sayings, and doeth them, the same shall be called the greatest of all the children of God: but he that shall do the will of my father, which is in heaven, shall be called the greatest of all the children of God.
   25 And the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God: and the wisdom of God is foolishness with the world: and the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

14. And when Jesus was come into Peter's house, he saw his disciples sitting, and many others gathered together.

15. And he said unto them, Where is Simon Peter? And they said, He prayeth abroad.

16. And the Lord said unto Simon, Simon, thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

17. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

18. Therefore go ye, teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost:

19. And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen.
man might go by that way.

29 And behoie, they eyed out, saying:

*D Jesus, thou Sonne of God, what have we to do with thee? Art thou come hither, to torment us before the tymne?

30 And there was, a good way of from them, a hearde of many Swyne, feeding.

31 So, the devils besought hym, saying: *Beseech thou not us, suffer us to go away into the hearde of Swyne.

32 And he sayde unto them, Go. Then went they out, and departed into the hearde of Swyne: And behoie, the whole hearde of Swyne rushed headlong into the sea, and perished in the waters.

33 Then they that kept them, rent, and went they: waves into the atie, and tode every thyng, and what was done of the poscelled with the devils.

34 And behoie, the whole atie came out to meete Jesus: and when they saw hym, *they besought hym, that he would depart out of them coales.

The ix. Chapter.

1 And he entred into a cyffe, & passed over, & came into his owne atie.

2 And behoie, they fought to hun a man, hichte of the paule, lyuing in a bedde. And when Jesus saw the fayth of them, he layde into the hichte of the paule: Sonne, be of good cheare, thy soules be forgenue thee.

3 And behoie, certayne of the Scribbs sayde, with in then flesse: This man blaphemeteth.

4 And whiche Jesus saw their thoughtes, he layde: Wherefore thinke ye euyl in your heertes:

5 Whether is easie to say, thy soules be forgenue thee: Or to say, arpile and walke?

6 But that ye may knowe, that the sonne of man hath pouer to forgenue soules in earth (then layde he to the hichte of the paule) *Arpile, take up thy bedde, and go into thyne house.

7 And he arose, and departed to his house.

8 But when the multitude sawe it, they manuelped, & glorified which had euens such pouer unto men.

9 And as Jesus passe forth from thence, he sawe a man, named Maththebe, sitting at the recepce of custome: *He fayth into hym, follow me. And he arose, and followed hym.

10 And it came to passe, as Jesus wasate at meate in his house, behoie, many publicans also and sinners came, and lare dounder with Jesus and his discipules.

11 And when the Pharisees sawe it, *they layde into his discipules: why eateth your master with publicans and sinners?

12 But when Jesus heard that, he layde into them: They that be whole, need not the physiton, but they that are sicke.

13 So ye, and learn what that meaneth, I will [have] mercie, and not sacrifies: for I am not come, to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

14 *Then came the discipules of John into hym, sayinge: *Why do we and the Pharisees fast oft, but thy discipules fast not?

15 And Jesus layde into them: Can the children of the hyde chamber moune, as long as the hydegrome is with them? But the days wil come, when the hydegrome shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast.

16 No man putteth a peecce of newe {cloth} in an olde garment: for then, the peecce taketh alway some thing from the garment, and the rent is made worse.

17 Neither do men putt newe vine into olde vessells: els, the vessells breake, and the wyne runneth out, and the vessells pryshe: But they put new wyne, into neve vessells, and both are preferred together.

18 *Whyle he spake these thynges unto them, *behoie, there came a certayne ruler, and worshippyed hym, saying:
My daughter is even now dead, but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live. 19 And Jesus arose, and followed him, and so did his disciples. 20 And behold, a woman which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment, 21 For she said within herself, If I may touch but his garment, I shall be whole. 22 But Jesus turned and said, Woman, thy faith hath made thee whole. Go in peace, and be whole of thy disease. 23 And when Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw the minstrels and the multitude, he rebuked them, and said unto the ruler, Be quiet. 24 And when the rulers of the synagogue saw how the disease was healed, they were amazed, and said, Where did this fellow get, that he even dares to do such things? He is a Prince of devils. 25 And Jesus said unto the ruler, Be not afraid any more; only believe, and she shall be whole. 26 And the nurse's mother said to the lord, Be not afraid any more; only believe, and she shall be whole. 27 And when Jesus had departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, The son of David, have mercy on us. 28 And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: And Jesus said unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord. 29 Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to thy faith be it unto thee. 30 And their eyes were opened. And Jesus charged them, saying, See that no man know it. 31 But they glorified him: And when they were departed, they spread abroad his name in all that land. 32 As they went out, behold, they brought him a dumb man, possessed with a devil. 33 And when the devils were cast out, they wrought, and vexed the whole land, so that they were strengthened. 34 But the Pharisees said, He casteth out devils, not but by Beelzebul, the prince of devils. 35 And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said to them, Every kingdom divided against itself shall be brought to desolation; and every city or household divided against itself shall not stand: 36 And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how then shall his kingdom stand? 37 And if I by Beelzebul cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? Therefore they shall be your judges. 38 But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you. 39 Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and plunder his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will plunder his house. 40 And Jesus said unto him, Out of the mouth of the sword shall your prophecy come. 41 For he shall�数 unto God, looking upward, saying, Lo, I have reserved for God those things which I have prepared against him. 42 Then said he also to him who told him, What, seeing thou knewest not thou what this thou talkest? How is it that thou hast not feared God, seeing the Lord spoke to thee? 43 And he found him, and brought him to Jerusalem. 44 And he beheld all the throngs, and was marvelling, and said unto him, Whence came this throng? 45 And he said, The king of the jews hath given me authority to bind and to loose. And he had cast them out of the synagogues, and they went about among all Galilee, teaching. 46 And the Pharisees gathered themselves together with the Sadducees, and drew a plot against him, to take him by craft, and to kill him. 47 But they said, He shall not be put to death. 48 And some from among them went unto the Levites and the elders, 49 and said, We are one of the house of Joseph; and there is no man among the priests to go up to the house of the Lord our God at the sabbath day. 50 And they said, Let one of us go, and be priest to the Lord, and make an offering after the manner of the charge. 51 And they said, Behold, there is a full year to morrow, and I will call thee, and I will give thee two sheep, and two cheeses of bread. 52 And he said, The Lord will provide; I know not the day. But said unto them, The Lord knoweth all the thoughts of the children of men. 53 And they were afraid, and said, What shall we say unto John, whose works appear have been done by him? 54 Or what shall we say, The chief priests and the scribes? They say, A man that receiveth money, and is a witness to things as heareth. 55 So we beseech thee, that we may know this word of truth, whereby we may escape our own confusion, and whereby we may save our souls. 56 And when the Pharisees were gathered together unto him, they said unto him, Where is thy teacher? And he said, He is teaching, as a man teacheth. 57 And the Sadducees, who say there is no resurrection, and neither doth soul nor spirit come into being; they asked him, saying, Master, Moses said, If a man die, he shall have no more children; and if she die, she shall not more be married. 58 But as touching the dead, if they rise indeed, neither doth soul nor spirit come into being; how saith the Scripture seven, the first woman, and she brought forth seven sons, and seven daughters: 59 The answer of Jesus was, is where it is written, 60 David said, He shall not see death, neither shall he see corruption: for thou, Lord, hast kept me alive, and I shall not see corruption. 61 And I know that thou wilt keep me alive, and that I shall not see corruption. 62 And Jesus answered and said unto them, Ye say, He shall not see death, neither shall he see corruption; 63 But I say unto you, Ye shall see corruption; for as Moses said, The dead shall rise again. 64 But I say unto you, Ye shall not see corruption. 65 The High Priest then said unto them, Why tempt ye me? I know that ye have no inward strength, neither say ye, The Lord shall give. 66 And I ask you, Who is it that hath given me authority to bind and to loose? 67 And he said, Thy master shall answer thee. 68 And they said, He is our father, whose sons we be: and we knew not that he had any other son. 69 Howbeit the Pharisees went forth, and plot against him, and the chief priests, and scribes, *to slay him.
Mark vi. b.
Luk.xi.a.

9 * Poffeffe not golde, nozg Kfeuer, noz baffe in your pures,
10  * Nor yet strippc, towarde your courney, neither two coates, neither shoes, not yet a baffe. * For the workman is worthy of his meate.
11 But to whatsoeuer crie or tone ye shall come, inquire who is worthy in it, and by there abyde, till ye go thence.
12 * And when ye come into a house, fa-itude the fame.
13 And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if be not worthy, let your peace returne to you again.
14 And whosoever shall receaue you, noz vill hearre your preaching: When ye derart out of that house, or that citte, shalke of the dust of your feete.
15 Tercly I say unto you, it shall be er for the lande of the Sodaneites and Gomorans, in the day of judgmemnt, then for that citte.
16 * Beholde, I sende you forth, as sheep in the midst of wolves. Be ye therefore wicke as serpentes, and harme-lesse as dothes.
17 * But beware of men. For they shall delver you up to the councells, and shal scourge you in their synagogues.
18 And ye shalbe brought to the head rulers, anb kynges, for my fakc, in vitnuelle to them, and to the Gentiles.
19 But when they delver you vp, take ye not thought, how or what ye shall speake,
* For it shall be given you, even in that same hour, what ye shall speake.
20 For it is not ye that speake, but ye spriet of your father, which speaketh in you.
21 * The brother shalb deluer the brorher to death, and the father the sonne, and the children shalb speake against their fathers, and mothers, and shal put them to death.
22 And ye shalbe hated of all men, for my names sake: but he that endureth to the ende, hahe faude.
23 But, * When they persecute you in this cite, fie ye into another. For erly
I lay unto you, ye shall not ende all the cities of Israel, till the time of man be come.
24 * The disciple is not above the master, noz the fermant above his lofe.
25 It is enough for the disciple, that he d be as his master is: and that the fer-mant, be as his lordes. If they have taile the lofe of the house Belzebub:
halve much more shall they call them of his household for:
26 Fear not them notherefore: for there is nothing close, that shall not be opened: a nothing hyde, that shall not be knowen.
27 What I tell you in darknesse, that speake ye in lyght: And what ye hearre in the carye, that preache ye on the houles.
28 *And fear ye not them, which hyde the body, but are not able to hyde the sole.
But rather fear hyme, which is able to destroy both soule and body in hell.
29 Are not two little sparowes solde for a farthing: And one of the shall not lie in grounded, without your father.
30 Pea, even all the heeres of your head are numbered.
31 Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value then many sparowes.
32 * Every one notherefore, that shall confecc me before men, hypp byll I confesse al so, before my father, which is in heauens.
33 But whosoever shall denye me before men, hypp byll I alio denye, before my father, which is in heauens.
34 * Thynke not that I am come to sende peace into the earth, I came not to sende peace, but a broude.
35 For I am come to set a man at bar-rynne agaynst his father, & the daughter agaynst her mother, and the daughter in lawe agaynst her mother in lawe.
36 And a mans foes [haule] they of his owne household.
37 Be that toucheth father or mother, more then me, is not worthy of me. And he that toucheth somme or daughter, more the me, is not worthy of me.
38 * And he that taketh not his crosse, I slovebeth me, is not worthy of me.
39 *Be that findeth his life, shall lose it:
and he that loseth his lyfe, for my sake shall finde it.
40 * He that receaue you, receaue me; he that receaue me, receaue hym that tent me.
41 * He that receaue a prophet in the name of a prophet, shall receaue a prophetes rewarde. And he that receaue a ryghteous man, in the name of a ryghteous man, shall receaue a ryghteous mans rewarde.
42 * And whosoever shall geue unto one of these litte ones, to drynke, a cuppe of cold water only, in the name of a dis-ple, erly I lay unto you, he shall not lose his rewarde.
And it came to passe,
that when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

2 When John being in prison heard the voices of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and lafte unto him:

3 Art thou he that should come? or do the look for another?

4 Jesus answered and lafte unto them: Go and shewe John again what ye have seen and heard.

5 The blind receive their sight, the halt do walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the dead are raised up; and the poor receive the Gospel.

6 And happy is he that is not offended in me.

7 And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitude concerning John: What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind?

8 What went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, such as wear soft clothing are in king's houses.

9 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? Yea I say unto you, and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he of whom it is written: "Behold I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee."

11 Verily I say unto you, among them that are born of women, there is not a greater than John the Baptist: Nevertheless, he that is leffe in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 From the days of John the Baptist until now, the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.

13 For all the prophets and the law did foretell John.

14 And if ye shall receive it, this is Elias which was to come.

15 Ye shall see hunger and thirst in your souls.

16 But wherunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto little children, which sit in the market-places, and call unto their fellows, 17 And say: We have pipped you not, and ye have not denounced: we have (a) mourned you, and ye have not comforted.

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, he hath the devil.

19 The friends of men came eating and drinking, and they say, behold a drunkard, and an (unmeasureable) drinker of wine, and a friend unto publicans and sinners: And wisdom is inflamed of their children.

20 Then began he to upbraid the cities which might had mighty works were done in, because they repented not.

21 Wo unto thee, Chorazin; wo unto thee, Bethsaida: for if the mighty works which were wrought in you had been wrought in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes.

22 Nevertheless I say unto you, it shall be easier for Tyre and Sidon at the day of judgment, than for thee.

23 And thou Capernaum, which art lifted up into heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: For if the mighty works which have been wrought in thee had been wrought in Sodom, they had remained unto this day.

24 Nevertheless, I say unto you, that it shall be easier for the land of Sodome in the day of judgment, than for thee.

25 At that time Jesus answered and saith: I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast shewed them unto babes.

26 Even so (st is) O Father, for so was it thy good pleasure.

27 All things are given unto me by my father: And no man knoweth the same but the father, neither knoweth any man the father save the same, and he to whomsoever the same shall open it.

28 Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

29 Take my yoke upon you and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls.

30 For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.
The Gospel

The 19th Chapter.

1 And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these things, he departed from Galilee, and came into the country of Judea:

2 And there came to him his disciples, and certain other of the people of about him, out of Jerusalem, and from all parts of Judea, and from the coasts of the sea of Galilee, and from the country of the Phenicians, and the Sidonians, and from the country of Samaria, and from Idumea, and from beyond the Jordan, and from the coasts of Phœnicia.

3 And they brought unto him many sick, having evil spirits; and they besought him to touch them: and whatsoever he touched, was made whole.

4 And when the Pharisees saw it, they said, He doth nothing but receive sinners, and eat with them.

5 But he spake of the Son of man, as he spake in the temple, saying, I am he that speaketh unto you, while it was yet day; but when night cometh, ye shall not see me any more.

6 He that seeth me seeth the Father also.

7 Therefore if ye be willing to receive myщу, come after me, and I will teach you to catch men.

8 And Simon Peter answered and said, Behold, we have forsaken all, and followed thee; what then shall we have?

9 And Jesus answered, Do ye °see that which is written in the law, How that the prophet Abraham had in him a son Isaac, and he said, Take now thy son, thy only son Isaac, and go to the land of Moriah, and offer him there as a burnt-offering upon one of the mountains which I will show thee?

10 And God said unto Abraham, Take now thy son, thine only son Isaac, whom thou lovest, and get thee into the land of Moriah; and offer him there as a burnt-offering upon one of the mountains which I will show thee.

11 And Abraham rose up in the morning, and saddled his ass; and he took two of his servants with him, and his son Isaac; and he clave the wood, and took his fire and his burnt-offering; and they went together to the place of which God had told him.

12 And on the third day Abraham looked, and beheld the place afar off; and he said unto his servants, Abide ye here with the ass; I and the lad will go yonder, and worship, and come again to you.

13 And Abraham said unto the lad, my son. And he answered, Here am I, my father.

14 And Abraham said, My son, gird thy loins, and take for thyself the golden pot, and put therein the bread and the wine, and put on this young ass; and go to the young men; and I and the lad will go yonder, and worship, and come again to you.

15 And the angel of the Lord called unto Abraham out of heaven, and said, Abraham, Abraham. And he answered, Here am I.

16 And he said, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him; for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son.

17 And Abraham lifted up his eye, and looked, and beheld behind him a ram caught in a thicket by the hinder parts: and he took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt-offering in the stead of his son.

18 And Abraham said, My son, the voice of God spake unto thee, saying, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son.

19 And Abraham builded the altar, and laid his son Isaac upon it, and took fire in the midst; and they both were ready together, when Isaac spake to his father Abraham, saying, My father. And he said, Here am I, my son.

20 And he said, Behold the fire and the wood: but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering? I see it not. And Abraham said, My son, God will provide himself a lamb for a burnt-offering: lo, this is me the lamb of God.

21 And it came to pass the angel of the Lord called to Abraham out of heaven, and said, Abraham, Abraham. And he answered, Here am I.

22 And he said, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou anything unto him: for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son.

23 And Abraham looked up, and beheld the ass, which came of the thicket. And he took the ass, and offered him up for a burnt-offering on the place of God. And Abraham called the name of the place, The L ORDHIS ABODE; and thereunto this saying is added, Behold, the L ORDHIS ABODE, and his house, and the house of his children for ever.

24 And the children of Israel did this thing: they did not depart from the commandment of the Lord, which he commanded Moses, so long as they lived in the land whereupon they came forth from the land of Egypt.

25 But when they came into the land into which the Lord had given unto them, and they had possessed that land, and dwelt therein; they began to wander after their gods, which were before them that dwelt in the land; and they forgot the Lord their God. And they did according unto all the work of their fathers, which they had done in the land of Egypt; and their hearts were not hardened again toward the Lord their God, for they returned again to their vile practices.

26 So the Lord was very angry with Judah, and he removed them out of his sight, and none was left but the tribe of Benjamin.

27 And the Lord delivered them into the hand of all their enemies, and they destroyed them; and he turned all the face of Jerusalem, and all the cities of Judah, to be destroyed by every mouth, and by every sword, and by every hand, which they had among all their enemies; even unto the exile thereof, even unto the destruction thereof, even unto this day.

28 Therefore the Lord brought upon them the word of his anger, the anger and the wrath and the tribulation, and the plague, according to all the word that the Lord had spoken by his servants the prophets.

29 And the people were scattered abroad among the nations; and the calamity of Jerusalem and Judah did exceed all that ever befell Jerusalem from the time of Sennacherib, and the time of Manasseh.

30 And there was great hatred amongst all the nations against Jerusalem and Judah, so that none saved them; for they had forsaken the Lord their God, and bowed themselves unto strange gods, according to all the work of their fathers.

31 And the Lord spake of the exile of Jerusalem, and said, I will send them into the land of Babylon, and they shall be there two hundred years; and in the land of Babylon they shall serve me, and they shall remember me, and return to me, saith the Lord. And they shall return to me with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning; and I will hearken unto them in the land of Babylon, saith the Lord: and I will gather them out of the land of Babylon, and lead them again to the place that I have chosen, saith the Lord.
The xiiij. Chapter.

1 The same day, went Jesus out of the house,

2 And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so greatly that he went and sat in a shippe, and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 And he spake many thynges to them in parables, saying: Beholde, the soles went foorth to solde.

4 And when he solded, some seedes fell by the wayes side, and the foldes came, and devoured them vp.

5 Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth, and anone they sprong vp, because they had no depe nesse.

6 But other fell among thistle, thorns, and stones, and they sprong vp quickly.

7 But when they had brought them vp, they found them thistle, thorns, and stones.

8 And they asked him, why they found them not good as they saw in the parable.

9 And he saide unto them, He that hath ears to heare let him heare.

10 And the multitude desired of him, saying, Beholde, we would see parables.

11 And he said unto them, Is it not lawful for me to do what I will in my estate? be it not lawful for me to judge?

12 Even as ye shall hear that judgment so shall ye hear the parables.

13 For to whom it shall be given, will it be denied.

14 And he said to them many such things, as they would hear.

15 And he spake other parables, and Said unto them, The ground of the good seed is the heart of the={['i.e.']}
It is among many that it is not tween that you may take it.

And when the time was come, they caught heart, and because they had not root, they withdrew away.

And some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked them.

But some fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundred fold, some an hundred fold, some thirty fold.

Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

And the disciples came, and said unto him: Why doth my Lord speak to them by parables?

Because it is given unto you to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

And in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Esaias, saying: By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing, ye shall see, and shall not perceive.

Because they are blind guides, and blind by nature, and their care is dull of seeing, and their eyes have they closed: lest at any time ye should see with your eyes, and hear with your ears, and understand with your heart, and should convert, that I might heal them.

But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

Beware: for many prophets and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen: and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard.

Hear ye therefore the similitude of the sower.

When one heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh that evil one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart: this is he, which receiveth seed by the way side.

But he that receiveth seed into non places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it.

Yet hath he not root in himself, but endureth for a season: but when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended.

And he also that receiveth seed into the thorns, is he that heareth the word: and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word: and it is hindered.

But he that receiveth seed into the good ground, is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it, which also receiveth fruit: by and by it doth increase.

Another parable put he forth unto D them, saying: The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man, which sowed good seed in his field.

But while men slept, his enemy came, and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

But when the blade was sprung up, and had brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

So the scribes and the Pharisees, being of the householder came, and said unto him: Sir, didst thou not sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

He said unto them: The enemy hath done this. The scribes and the Pharisees, being of the householder came, and said unto him: Why do they, who touch the tares, every one plucketh them up?

But he said: Let both grow together until the harvest; and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but cast the wheat into my barn.

Another parable put he forth unto them, saying: The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man taketh and soweth in his field.

Which in due season is the least among seedlings: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among seedlings: and beareth fruit and casteth forth and multiplyeth itself.

Another parable spake he unto them: The kingdom of heaven is like unto a net, which a woman taketh and casts into the sea.
in these peeces of meale, ytt all be learned.

34 All these thynge spaketh Jesus vnto the people in parables: and without a parable spake he not vnto them.

That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophet, that saith:

35 If I shall open my mouth in parables, I will speake forth thynge which have ben kept secret from the foundation of the world.

Then Jesus sent the people away, & went into the house: & his discipyles came vnto hym, saying: Declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the field.

Be annfwered and sayde vnto them: the that soweth the good seedde, is the soune of man.

The field, is the worlde: & the good seedde, they are the children of his kingdom: the tares, are the children of vs wicked.

38 The enemie that soweth them, is the devil, the haruerke, is the ende of the worlde: the reapers, be the Angels.

40 Even as the tares therefore are gathered and benct in the fire: so shall it be in the end of his worlde.

41 The soune of man shall sende forth his Angels, & they shall gather out of his kingdom, all thynge that offend, and them which do iniquite.

42 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: There shall be weeping, and gnashing of teeth.

43 Then shall the righteous shone as the sunne, in the kingdom of their father, who hath cares to heare, let hym heare.

44 Agayne, the kynghomde of heauen is lyke vnto treasure lyd in the field: the which a man hath founde, and lyd, and forsoy therof, goeth and selleth all that he hath, and byrch the field.

45 Agayne, the kynghomde of heauen is lyke vnto a marchaunt man, seeking goodly pearles.

46 Which, when he founde one precious pearle, went and solde al that he had, and bought it.

47 Agayne, the kynghomde of heauen is lyke vnto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of all kynde:

48 Which when it was full, men drewe to lande, and fatted downe, and gathered the good into vessells, but cast the bad away.

49 So shall it be at the ende of the world:

The Angels shall come forth, and seuer the bad from among the good:

50 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: *there shall be weeping, and gnashing of teeth.

51 Jesus luyfe vnto them: have ye understande all these thynge? They sayd vnto hym: Pec Lorde.

52 Then sayde he vnto them: Therefore; euery Scribe which is taught into the kynghomde of heauen, is lyke vnto a man that is an householder, which byngeth forth out of his treasuure, thynge newe and olde. &c.

53 And it came to passe, that when Jesus had finished these parables, he departed thence.

54 And when he came into his owne countrye, he taught them in their synagogues, in so much, that they were astonisshed, and sayd: Whence commeth this byndome and powers vnto hym?

55 *Is not this the carpenters sonne: is not his mother called Maria: and his brethren, James, and Joses, and Simon, and Judas?

56 And are not all his sisters with vs: Whence hath he then all these thynge:

57 And they were offended in hym, Jesus sayde vnto them: *A prophet is not without honour, laue in his owne countrye, and in his owne house.

58 And he did not many mighty workes there, because of their unbelieve.
And when he would have put him to death, he feared the people: * because they sounded hymn as a prophet.

But when Herodes’ birth day was kept, the daughter of Herodias daunted before them, and pleased Herode.

Wherefore he promised with an oath, that he would give her whatsoever she would ask.

And she, being instruct of her mother before, said: give me here John Baptist’s head in a platter.

And the king was sore: Nevertheless, for the sakes, and them which sat also at the table, he commanded it to be given her:

And sent, and beheaded John in the prison.

And his head was brought in a platter, and given to the damsell: and [he] brought it to her mother.

And his disciples came, and toke by his body, and buried it: and went, and tolde Jesus.

When Jesus hearde of it, he departed thence in a shippe, into a desert place, out of the way: And when the people had hearde thereof, they followed hymn on foote out of the citie.

And Jesus went forth, and sawe much people: and he was moved with mercy towards them, and he healed their sick.

And when the even drawe on, his disceples came to hymn, saying: this is a desert place, and the hour is notke past, let the people depart, that they may go into the townes, and bye them bittels.

But Jesus sayde unto them: They have no vede to go away, gene ye then to eate.

They sate into hymn: he have here but five loaves, and two little.

He sayde: bringe them hither to me.

And he commanded the people to sit downe on the grass, and he took the five loaves, and the two filthes, and lift by his eyes towards heaven, & blessed: And when he had broken them, he gave the loaves to his discipules, and his discipules to the people.

And they dyd all eate, and were satisfied. And they gathered by (of the fragments that remayneed) twelve baskets ful.

And they that had eaten, were about five thousand men, beside women and children.

And straightway Jesus constrainned his discipules to get by into a shippe, and to go before hymn into the other side, whyle he sent the people away.

And when the people were sent away, he * went by into a mountayne Luk.xvii.

But the shippe was in the midst of the sea, & was tost with waues, for it was a contrary wynde.

And in the fourth watch of the nyght, Jesus went unto them, walkeing on the sea.

And when the discipules sawe hymn, walkeing on the sea, they were troubled, saying, it is a spirit: and they cryed out for fear.

But straightway, Jesus spake unto them, saying: be of good cheare, it is I, be not astrayde.

Peter authwerde hymn, and sayde: Lorde, if it be thou, yd me come unto thee, on the water.

And he sayde: come. And when Peter was come downe out of the shippe, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.

But when he sawe a wittles wynde, he was afrayde: And when he began to sinke, he cryed, saying, Lorde save me.

And immediatly Jesus stretched forth his hande, and caught hym, and sayde into hymn: O thou of little faith, wherefore diddest thou doubt?

And when they were come into the shippe, the wynde ceased.

Then they that were in the shippe, D came and worshipped hymn, saying: of a truthe thou art the sonne of God.

And when they were gone out, they came into the lande of Genesearet.

And when the men of that place, had knowledge of hym, they sent out into all that country rounde about: and brought hymn all that were sicke.

And besought hymn, that they might touche the hemme of his garment only: And as many as touched it were made whole.
Then came to Jesus Scribes and Pharisees, which were come from Jerusalem, saying:

Why do thy disciples transgress the traditions of the elders?

But he answered and said unto them: Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God, by your tradition?

For God commanded, saying: Honour father and mother: and he that curseth father or mother, let him die the death.

But ye say, Whosoever shall say to father or mother, By the gift that is offer'd of me, thou shalt be helped:

And so shall he not honour his father or his mother. And thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect, by your tradition.

Hypocrites, full well dyd Slayas prophetic of you, saying:

This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their hearts are farre from me.

But inayne do they worshippe me, traching doctrine, preceptes of men.

And he called the people to him, and saide unto them: Hear, ye underthe

Which goeth into the mouth, defyleth not the man: but that which commeth out of the mouth, defyleth the man.

Then came his disciples, and saide unto him: Knowest thou not, that the Pharisees were offended after they hearde this saying?

But he answered and saide: Every plantynge which my heavenly father hath not planted, shall be rooted vp.

Let them alone, they be the blind leading the blind. If the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the dunce.

Then annullered Peter, and saide brief:

to hym: Declare unto vs this parable.

Jesus saide: Are ye also without understanding?

Do not ye yet understand, that whosoeuer entereth at the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught:

But those thynges which proceed out of the mouth, come forth from the heart, and they defyle the man.

For out of the heart, proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, whoredomes, thieves, false witnesses, blasphemies.

These are the thynges, which defyle a man: But to eat with unwashed handes, defyleth not a man.

And Jesus went thence, and departed, and was led into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon.

And beside, a woman of the Chana-nites, which came out of the same coasts, cried unto hym, saying: Have mercy on me, O Lorde, thou some of David: My daughter is grievously vexed with a ducyl.

But he annullered her not a worde: and his disciples came, and besought hym, saying: Send her away, for the cryeth after vs.

But he annullered, and saide: I am not sent but unto the lost shephe of the house of Israel.

Then came the, and worshipped him, saying: Lorde, helpe me.

He annullered, and saide: It is not meete to take the chyldren's bread, and to cast it to little dogges.

She annullered and saide, truly: Lorde: and yet little dogges eate of the crumbs, which fall fro their masters table.

Then Jesus annullered, and saide unto her: D woman, great is thy faith, be it unto thee, even as thou wouldest. And her daughter was made whole, even from that same tyme.

And Jesus went from thence, and came npe unto the sea of Galile, and went by into a mountayne, and sat:

The xv. Chapter.

and rebuked the Scribes and Pharisees for transgressing God's commandment through their owne traditions, as the thyng that goeth into the mouth, defyleth not the man. 2. he bequered the woman of Canane's daughter, 30 healeth the multitude, 3 and with seven loaes, and a fewe little fishes, feedeth foure thousand men, beside women and childe.
And great multitudes came unto him, hanging with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and other sickly, and called them down at Jesus feet: And he healed them.

In so much that they were astonished, when they saw the dumb speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: And they glorified the God of Israel.

Then Jesus called his disciples unto him, and said: I have compassion on the people, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not let them depart fasting, lest they faint in the way.

And his disciples say unto him: Whence (should we get) so much bread in the wilderness, as to suffice to great a multitude?

And Jesus saith unto them: how many loaves have ye? And they say, seven, and a few little fishes.

And he commanded the people to sit down on the ground:

And took the seven loaves, and the fishes: and after that he had given thanks, he brake them, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples gave them to the people.

And they had all eaten, and were sufficient; and there were taken up of the broken meat that was left, twelve baskets full.

And yet they that did eat, were four thousand men, besides the women and children.

And he sent away the people, and took shippe, and came into the partes of Ptolemais.

\begin{itemize}
\item[9] Do ye not yet perceive, neither remember those five loaves, when there were five thousand men, and how many baskets took ye up?
\item[10] Neither the seven loaves, when there were four thousand men, and how many baskets took ye up?
\item[11] Howbeit is it that ye do not understand, that I brake it not unto you concerning bread, (warning you) that ye should beware of the leuen of the Pharisees, and of the Saducees.
\item[12] Then understood they, how he brake that he bad not them beware of the leuen of bread: but of the doctrine of the Pharisees, and of the Saducees.
\item[13] When Jesus came into the coasts of Capharnaum Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying: Whom do men say that the sonne of man is?
\item[14] They say: Some say that thou art John Baptist, some Elias, some Jerenum, or one of the prophets.
\item[15] He saith unto them: But whom say ye that I am?
\item[16] Simon Peter answered and said: Thou art Christ, the sonne of the p\-up God.
\item[17] And Jesus answered, and said by:}
And when he had taken him aside, he began to rebuke his disciples, saying: Lo, lo, in thy felfe, this shall not be unto thee.

But he turned hym about, and tadel Peter: go after me, Satan, thou art an offence before me: for thou savrest not the thinges that be of God, but those that be of men.

Then sayde Jesus unto his disciples: If any man will folowe me, let hym forsake felfe, and take up his croafe, and folowe me.

For, whosoever shall lose his lyfe for my sake, shall finde it.

For what doth it profite a man, if he winne all the whole world, and lofe his owne soule? Or what shall a man gyve for a ramofte of his soule?

For the some of man shal come in the glory of his father, with his Angels: and then shall he rewarde every man according to his workes.

Truly I say vnto you, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the soume of man come in his kyngdome.

The xvij. Chapter.

2 And the transfiguration of Chriſte, he healed the lunatike, and papist tribute.

And after fere daues, Chriſte taked Peter, and James, and John his brothere, and bringeth threee into an hie mountayne, of the way.

And was transfigured before them, and his face did shone as the fume, and his clothes were as whife as the lyght.

And beholde, there appeared vnto them, Moses, and Elia, and choylyng with hym.

Then answered Peter, and sayde vnto Chriſte: Lo, lo, it is good for vs to be here. If thou wyft, let us make three tabernacles: one for thee, and one for: Moses, and one for Elia.

While he yet spake, beholde, a blyght cloude shadowed them: And beholde, there came a boye out of the cloude, which sayde: this is my beloue fone, in whom I am well pleased, hearce hym.

And when the disciples heard, these things: they fell on their face, and were fote acred.

And Chriſte came, and toucht them, and sayde: arype, and be not acred.

And when they had lyft by their eyes, they fawe no man, fave Chriſte ony.

And when they came downe from the mountayne, Chriſte fhard them, faying: fhewe the busion to no man, but till the soume of man be reft againe from the dead.

And his disciples after hym, faying: why then fay the scribes, that Elia must fift come?

Jefuſt answered, and fayde vnto them: Elia truely fhall fift come, and reftore all thinges:

But I say vnto you, that Elia is come already, and they knewe hym not, but have done vnto hym, whatfoever they listed.

Phetephe, fhall also the soume of man suffer of them.
Then the disciples understood, that he spake unto them of John Baptist.

14. And when they were come to the people, there came to him a certain man, crying down to him, and saying:

Lo, here is he that taketh away the sins of the world. And the children of them that believed in him said unto him, What shall we do?

15. And he answered and said unto them, He that hath two coats give to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, do this same thing also. And another also said, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

16. And he said unto him, Why askest thou me? have I not taught thee, that ye must take up your cross, and follow me? Then said they, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?

17. Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent. Amen, amen, I say unto you, he that doeth the works of God, sheweth the same works, that my Father doeth also. For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things, that he may shew forth his glory in the Son. If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it. If ye love me, keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever; even the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him. But ye know him; for he abideth with you, and shall be in you. "A little while yet, and ye shall seek me, and shall not find me; and when ye shall seek me, ye shall see me: because I shall come unto you." Then said Jesus, Will ye also go away because I have told you the truth? Verily, verily, I say unto you, if a man keep my word, he shall never see death. If any man love me, he shall keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him. He that loveth me not, he hath not seen me. He that loveth me, shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

19. *Then came the disciples to Jesus secretly, and said, Why could not we cast him out?

20. Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, That because of your unbelief the sons of Israel have not believed. But I have greater things to shew you: for what thing soever is spoken in a secret, that is spoken in the sight of heaven. Amen, amen, I say unto you, there be some that of this present time are not alive, who shall not see the kingdom of God, come: But Wo to that man, by whom the offence cometh!

27. And if thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee. It is better for thee to enter into life halt, or maimed, than for thee, having two hands, or two feet, to be cast into hell fire. And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life one eyed, than for thee, having two eyes, to be cast into hell fire.

28. Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, that in heaven their Angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

29. For the kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king, that made a great banquet for his臣民. And sent his servants to call those that were bidden to the marriage, and they would not come. Again, he sent other servants, saying, Tell them which were bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner, my gown is ready, and my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage. But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his own farm, another to his merchandise. And the king was wroth, and sent his soldiery, and they cast them into outer darkness, where there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few are chosen. Then shall the righteousness of God be declared in the Gentiles: for he will have mercy on all that call upon him.

32. *Then Jesus said, Amen, amen, I say unto you, he that acknowledgeth me before men, him will I acknowledge before my Father which is in heaven. But he that shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven. Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword. For I came to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law: and a man's enemies shall be they of his own household. He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. And he that taketh not the sword against me to my flesh, is not worthy of me. & He that receiveth you receiveth me, and he that receiveth me receiveth Christ, who sent me. He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's reward. And he that receiveth a righteoun man in the name of a righteoun man shall receive a righteoun man's reward. & And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only, in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward.
ho"e thynke ye? If a man have an hundred}, and one of them be gone away, both he not leave nine,
and goeth into the mountaynes, and seeteth that which went astray?
And ye to be that he synde it, everly
I say unto you, he receyvertch more of that thirpe, then of the ninte and nine, which went not astray.
14. Even so, it is not the Wyll of your fa-ter in heauen, that one of these litlle ones should periye.
15. Moreover, if thy brother trespas against thee, go and tell hym his faute between thee and hym alone: If he heare thee, thou hast worne thy brother.
16. But if he heare thee not, then take with thee one or two; that in the mouth of two or three wittneses, every Bo"ode may be stab"ished.
17. If he heare not them, tell it unto the Church: If he heare not the Church, et hym be unto thee as an hea"ten man, and a pub"lican.
18. Everly I say unto you: whatsoever ye bynde on earth, shall be bound in heauen: And whatsoever ye loose on earth, shall be loosed in heauen.
19. Agayn, truly I say unto you, that if two of you agree in earth, as touching any thing that they shall af"ke, it shall be done for them, of my Father, which is in heaven.
20. For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the middles of them.
21. Then came Peter to hym, and saye:
Lorde holde off that my brother sune against me, and I forgue thee two seven tynes.
22. Jesus saith unto hym, I lye not but to thee tynly seven tynes: but, but thy seven tynes sever.
23. Wherefore is the kyngdome of hea-en, likened unto a certaine man, that was a kyng, which wouldte take ac-tompes of his servauntes.
24. And when he had beginne to re"xen, one was bought unto hym, which ought hym ten thou"ande talents.
25. But forasmuch as he had not to pay,his Lorde comman"ded hym to be solde, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made.
26. The servaunt fell downe, and be"oughym,saying: Lorde, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.
27. Then the Lorde of that servaunt, moved with pite, looked hym, and forgave hym the debt.
28. But the same servaunt went out, and founde one of his seilowes, which ought hym an hundred pence: and he lade handes on hym, and toke hym by the thote, saying: pay me that thou ob"ed.
29. And his seilowe fell downe at his feete, and be"oughym,saying: have patience
with me, and I will pay thee all.
30. And he woulde not: but went, and cast hym into prison, till he shoulde pay the debt.
31. So, when his seilowes labe what was done, they were very joy: and came, and tolde into their Lorde all that was done.
32. Then his Lorde called hym, and sayd unto hym: O thou vngracious servaunt, I forgue thee all that debt when thou defitect me:
33. Shouldest not thou also, have had compassion on thy seilowe, even as I had pite on thee?
34. And his Lorde was vn"d, and de"ned hym to the tormentoues, till he shoulde pay all that was due unto him.
35. So I sayde, shall my heavenly father do also unto you, ly" e from your heartes, forgue not, every one his brother, their trespases.
4 And ye shall say unto them: When ye were a child, did ye not speak? 5 And sayeth: For this cause, shall a man leave father and mother, and shall be knit to his wife: and they twain shall be one flesh. 6 Wherefore, they are no more twain, but one flesh. Let not man therefore put a slander, that which God hath joined together.

7 They lay unto him: Why did Moses, in the law, command to put away his wife, if he put her away of her heart? 8 And he saith unto them: Moses, because of the hardness of your hearts, suffered you to put away your wives: But from the beginning it was not so.

9 And he said unto them: Whosoever putteth away his wife, and putteth her away, except it be for fornication, and marrieth another, committeth adultery. And he that marrieth her which is divorced, both sinneth adultery.

10 His disciples lay unto him: If the matter be so betwixt man and wife, [then] is it not good to marry. 11 He saith unto them: All men cannot receive this saying, but he to whom it is given.

12 For there are some which are chaste, which are so born, out of their mothers' wombe; And there are some, which are made chaste of men: And there be chaste, which have made themselves chaste, for the kyngdome of heauen is taie, be that is able to receive it, let him receive it.

13 Then were there brought unto him young chil- dren, that he should put his handes on them, and pray: And the disciples rebuked them.

14 But Jesus lade unto them: suffer the young chil- dren, and sayd, them not to come unto me: for of such, is the kyngdome of heauen.

15 And when he had put his handes on them, he departed thence.

16 And beholde, one came, and said unto him: Good master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?

17 He saith unto him: Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, [and that is] God. But ye shall love thy neighbour as thyself.

18 He saith unto him: Which is the great commandment in the law? Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might. 19 And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these.

20 And the young man saith unto him: All these things have I kept from my youth up: What lack I yet?

21 Jesus saith unto him: If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell what thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heauen: and come and take up thy cross, and follow me.

22 And when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: For he had great possessions.

23 Then Jesus saide unto his disciples: Verily I say unto you, that a rich man shall hardly enter into the kyngdome of heauen.

24 And againye I say unto you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kyngdome of God.

25 When the disciples heard this, they were exceedingly amazed, saying: Who then can be saved?

26 But Jesus behelde them, and said unto them: with men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.

27 And saith unto them: *The scripture hath said, *He that hath entered into the house, and shut the door, then cometh the cock, and crieth, and the hen and the ox doth rise, and are given to the dog, and the serpent will eat them up.

28 And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or land, for my names sake, *shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life.

29 But many there are that are sick, that abide last, and the last, that abide first.

The xx. Chapter.

Or the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man, that is a householder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his vineyard.

And he agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, and sent them into his vineyard.

And he went out about the third hour, and saw other standing idle in the market place,

And saide unto them: Ye are also come, go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right, I will give thee.

And they went their way.

Againe, he went out about the sixth and thirteenth hour, and did likewise.

And about the eleventh hour, he went out, and found other standing idle, and saide unto them: Why stand ye here all the day idle?

They saide unto him: Because no man hath hired us. He saide unto them: Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive.

So when even was come, the lord of the vineyard saide unto his steward: Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning at the first last, until the last.

And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they receaved every man a penny.

But when the first came, they supposed that they should have receaved more: and they receaved every man a penny.

And when they had receaved it, they murmured against the good man of the house,

Saying: These last have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day.

But he answered one of the slaves, Frende, I doe thee no wrong: doest thou not agree with me for a penny?

Take that thyne is, and go thy way: I will give thee what is just, even as thou wast hireed to.

I am not Judas for to doe so, to doe that I would with mine owne: is thyne eye just, because I am good:

16 So the last, halfe the first, halfe the first [halfe halfe]: For many be called, but few chosen.

17 And Jesus, going up to Jerusalime, took the twelve disciples aside in the way, and saide unto them:

18 Whose head, we go up to Jerusalime, and the soule of man shall be betrayed into the chief priests, and into the scribes, and they shall condemn him to death:

19 And shall deliver him to the Gentiles, and to the Gentiles, and to the筐, and they shall mock him, and be crucified: and the third day he shall arise again.

20 Then came to hym the mother of Zebedees children, with her sonnes, requesting certaine thing of hym:

21 And he saide unto her: What wilt thou? She saide unto hym: Grant unto me, that these my two sonnes may sit, one on thy right hande, and the other on the left, in thy kingdom.

22 But Jesus answered, and said: Be ye not discontent with me. Are ye able to drinke of the cuppe that I drinke of?

23 But if you will not drinke, but be baptized with the baptism of the christ, ye may not come.

24 But if you will not drinke, but be baptized with the baptism of the christ, ye may not come.

25 But Jesus answered, and saide, Be ye content: For as the children of Israel have drank of the alike cuppe, and are become apostates; and they that are great, exercise authority upon them.

26 If it shall be not so among you: But whatsoever I shall be great among you, let hym be your minister.

27 And who so shall be chief among you, let hym be your lesse.

28 Even as the soule of man came, not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.
And as they departed from Jericho, much people followed him.

And behold, two blind men sitting by the wayside, when they heard that Jesus passed by, they cried, saying, O Lord, thou son of David, have mercy on us.

And the people rebuked them, because they should hold their peace. But they cried the more, saying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou son of David.

And as they came into Jericho, there met him a blind man begging alms.

And when they drew nigh unto Jericho, there came to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, the sord of Jesus two disciples, Saying unto them, Go into the village that is by the way, and make ready for us the table.

And when they had entered into the house, they took bread and bare it to them, and they began to eat.

And as they did eat, Jesus said, Behold, the Son of man goeth as it is written of him.

And in the morning, when he returned into the city, all the people were amazed at him.

And when he was come into a city, there met him a blind man begging bread.

And when he knew it, he said, Thou hast faith: be it done unto thee as thou wouldest.

And he received his sight immediately.
Jesus answered, and said unto them: "Verily I say unto you, if ye have faith, and doubt not, ye shall not only do this, which is done to the figge tree: but also, if ye shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; it shall be done.

And all thy faith, whatsoever ye ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.

And when he was come into the temple, the chief priests, and the elders of the people, came unto him. And they said, "By what authority dost thou these things? and who gave thee this power?"

Jesus answered, and said unto them: "If I do also work miracles, which ye cannot believe, do ye therefore the things which were done by me, in the name of the Son of man? And when they heard it, they said, "We shall not take him." Then said Jesus, "The Son of man must be offended against, and they of his own household also. But all that shall be offended against me, it shall be brought of the Son of man. But woe unto him, through whom the fall of a stone is brought. It is better for him if he were never born.

And when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people saw him. And they say unto him, "What need you this? Who is it, that proves you, that you can do these things? Do these miracles also in the temple, as ye do in Samaria."

Jesus answered, and said unto them: "Is it a marvel that I make my miracles in Jerusalem, which is called the temple, and ye do not believe? But the hour cometh, when ye shall neither have this temple, and your worship. But the place, where I shall be honor, ye shall build."

Therefore lay I unto you, that the kingdom of God shall be taken away from you, and be given to a nation from the ends of the world, for as many as shall please them.

And Whosoever falleth on this stone, shall be broken in pieces: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it shall not hurt him, but shall convert him into a stone. And when they had heard these parables, they perceived that he spake of them.

And they went out to lay hands on him: but they feared the multitude, because they took him as a prophet.
And Jesus answered, and spake unto them again by parables, and said:

The kingdom of heaven is like unto a man which made a marriage for his son.

And sent forth his servants to call them which were bidden to the marriage: and they would not come.

Against he sent forth other servants, saying: Tell them which were bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner, my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandise.

And the remnant of them took his servants, and entreated them spitefully, and slew them.

But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth, and sent forth his men of warre, and destroyed those murderers, and burnt up their citie.

Then saide he to his servants, the marriage in bode is prepared: But they which were bidden, were not worthy.

So ye therefore out into the hick wayes: and as many as ye finde, bid them to the marriage.

And the servants went out into the hick wayes, and gathered together all, as many as they could finde, both good and bad: and the wedding was furnished with gesteres.

Then the king came in, to see the gesteres: and when he espied there a man, which had not on a* wedding garment,

He saide unto him: Friend, how camest thou in hirther, not having a wedding garment? And he was even beathesed.

Then saide the king to the ministers: bind him hame and foote, and cast him into bitter darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

For many are called, but few are chosen.

5 Then went the pharisees, and took counsel how they might entangle hym in his tale.

6 And they went out into hyn their discipules, with the herodians pheruauntes, saying: Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God truely, neither carest thou for any man: for thou dost not respect mens persons,

7 Tell us therefore, howe thyne heth thou: As it lawfull that tribute be geuen unto Caesaour not:

8 But Jesus perceaving their wicked: Yeste, fayde: Why tempt ye me, ye hyborites?

9 Show me the tribute money. And they brought unto hym a peny.

10 And he fayde to them: Whose is this image and supercritoion?

11 They fayde unto hym: Caesar's. Then fayde he unto them: *Gent therefore unto Caesar, the [thrones] Which are Caesaours: and unto God, those [thrones] that are gods.

12 When they had hearde [these words]: they maracleled, and left hym, and went their way.

* The same day came to hym the Saduces, which say that there is no resurrection, and asked hym, 24 Saieing: Master, Bores fayde, that if a man dye, having no childe, his brother shoule marie his wyfe, and rape by feebe unto his brother.

25 Ther were with vs seven brethren, and the first maried a wyfe, and decaised without issue, and left his wyfe unto his brother.

26 Likewise, the seconde, and the thirde, unto the seuenthe.

27 Last of all, the woman dyed alio.

28 Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wyfe shall the be of the seuen? For they all had her.

29 Jesus answered and fayde unto them: ye do erce, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection, they neither marry, nor are gessen in marage: but are as the Angels of God in heauen.

31 But as touching the resurrection of the dead: but ye not read that which is spoken unto you of God, which saith,
* I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob: God is not the God of the dead, but of the living.
33 And when the multitudes heard this, they were astonished at his doctrine.
34 But when the Pharisees had heard that he had put the Sadducees to silence, they came together.
35 And one of them, which was a lawyer, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying:
36 Master, which is the great commandment in the law?
37 Jesus said unto him: Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all the mind.
38 This is the first and great commandment.
39 And the second is like unto this.
* Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.
40 In these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.
41 Whyle the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them, 42 Saying: what saith the law, that whole house is he? They said unto him: They saybe unto him: (the house) of David.
43 He sayde unto them: howe be them:? Dauid in spirtech call him Lord, saying:
44 The Lord saye unto my Lord: * the thou on my right hande, tyl J make thyne enemies thy footstool.
45 If Dauid then call him Lord, howe is he then his house?
46 And no man was able to answerbe hym a woode: neither durst any man (from that day forth) ask hym any no questions.

The xxii. Chapter.

C : Christe ecreth wo to the pharisees, Scribes and hypocrites, and propheticeth the destruction of Hierusalem.

1  He spake Jesus to the multitudes, and to his disciples,
2 Saying: * The Scribes and the Pharisees sit in Doves state.
3 All therefore, whatsoeuer they did you obsere, that obserue and do: but do not ye after their workes, for they lay, and do not.
4 * Ye, they bynde together heavy burdens, and grievous to be borne, and lay them on mens shoulders: but they them selves will not move them with [one] of their fingers.
5 All their workes they do, for to be seen of men: They make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the hennies of their garnements.
6 And love the uppermost seats at feastes, and to set in the chief place in coucils.
7 And greetings in the markettes, and to be called of men, Rabbi.
8 * But be not ye called Rabbi: For one is your master, [even] Christe, and all ye are brethren.
9 And call [no man] your father, upon the earth: for one is your father, which

* Is in heavne.
10 Neither be ye called masters, for one is your master [even] Christe.
11 He that is greatest among you, shall be your servant.
12 * But whosoeuer exalteth hym selfe, shall be brought lowe: And he that humblyt hym selfe, shall be exalted.
13 Wo unto you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven before men: * ye neither go in your felues, neither suffer ye them that come, to enter in.
14 Wo unto you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye be saucers of doves, houses, and that under a pretence of long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater damnation.
15 Wo unto you Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: for ye compasse sea and lande, to make one (prostyte: when he is become one, ye make hym two solde nuce the ephode of hell, then ye your felues [are].
16 Wo be unto you pe byphane guides: for ye say, whosoever oath sauehy by the temple, it is nothing: but whosoever sweareth by the goyle of the temple, he is a (b) better.
And Jesus went out, and departed from the temple: and his disciples came to him, for to shew him the building of the temple.

Jesus loved them: See ye not all these building?
And Jesus answered, and said to them: take heed, that no man deceave you.

For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceave many.

Ye shall hear of war, and rumours of war: see that ye be not troubled, for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.

*Nation shall rise against nation, and nation against nation: and there shall be pentialence, and famine, and earthquakes, in various places.

All these are the beginning of sorrows:

*Then shall they put you to trouble, and shall kill you, and ye shall be hated of all nations for my names sake.

And then shall many be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another.

And many false prophets shall arype, and shall deceave many.

And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold.

But he that endurance to the end, the same shall save.

And this Gospel of the kingdom, shall be preached in all the world, for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come.

When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place, (whosoever shall readeth, let him understand;)

Then let them which be in Judea, flee into the mountains:

And let them which are in the house, not go out, and them which be in the field, return not back.

Wo to them that are with child, and to them that lacte milk,

But pray that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the sabbath day:

For then shall be great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the world to this time, no, nor shall be.

Yea, and except those days should be shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake, those days shall be shortened.

Then ye shall see the Son of man come in the cloud with power and great glory.

Immediately after the tribulation of those days, shall the sun be darken, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

And then shall appear the sign of the sonne of man in heaven: And then shall all the inhabitants of the earth mourn, and they shall see the sonne of man comming in the clouds of heaven, with power and great glory.

And he shall send his Angels with the great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his chosen, from the four winds, even from one end of heaven to the other.

Learn a parable of the fig tree: when his branche is yet tender, and the leaves unfold, ye know that somer is nere:

So likewise ye, when ye see these things, be sure that it is nere, even at the doores.

Wery to lay unto you: this generation shall not passe, till all these things be fulfilled.

Heaven and earth shall passe away, but my words shall not passe away.

But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no not the angels of heaven, but my father only.

But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the sonne of man be.

For as in the days that were before E
the flood, they dyed cate, and dyynke, marry, and got in marriage, even until the day that Noe entered into the Arke:

39 And kneve not, till the flood came, and toke them all away: So shall also the comming of the sonne of man be.

40 Then shall two be in the field, the one receaued, and the other refused.

Luk.xvi. 41 *Two? (women) shall be grining at the mill, the one receaued, and the other refused.

42 Watch therefore, for ye knowe not what hour your Lorde doth come.

43 Of this ye let be sure, that ye the good man of the house, kneve what watche the thief would come, he would freely watche, and not suffer his house to be broken up, 44 Therefore, be ye also redy: for in such an hour as ye thinke not, the sonne of man commeth.

The xxv. Chapter.

C 1 The ten virgins, 14 the talents deluetered to the servauntes, and of the generall judgement.

Then shall the kyng-dome of heaven be skened unto ten virgins, which take their lampes, and went to meete the bydegromne. But spue of them were foolishlye, and spue were wyse.

2 They that were foolishlye, take their lampes, but take none oue with them.

3 But the wyse, take oue in their vessels, with their lampes also.

4 While the bydegromne tarped, they all slumbered and slept.

5 And even at midnight, there was a crye made: behold, the bydegromne commeth, go out to meet that hym.

6 Then all those virgins arose, and prepared their lampes.

7 So the foolish ye fande vnto the wyse: gene vs of your oule, for our lampes are gone out.

8 But the wyse aanswered, saying: *Not vs to lest there be not anough for vs yow: but go ye rather to them that fell, and bye for yowtisues.

9 And while they went to bye, the bydegromne came: and they that were redy, went in with hym, to merryage,

10 And the gate was shut vp.

11 Afterwardes came also the other virgins, faying: *Lorde, Lorde, open to us.

12 But he answered and faying: verly I laye vnto you, I knowe you not.

13 *Watch therefore, for ye knowe neither the day, nor the houre, wherin the sonne of man shall come.

14 *Lykewyse, as a certaine man redy to take his journey into a strange country, called his owne servauntes, and deluetered vnto them his goods.

15 And vnto one, he gave fynke talents, to another two, and to another one: to every man after his habilitie, a straight way departed.

16 Then he that had receaued the fynke talents, went, and occupied with the same, made them other fynke talents.

17 And lykewyse, he that receaued two: he also ganed other two.

18 But he that receaued that one, went and digged in the earth, and hyd his Lodes money.

19 After a long season, the Lorde of those servauntes commeth, and recketh with hem.

20 And so, he that had receaued fynke talents, came, and brought other fynke talents, talentes, saying:

Verse 29.

For unto every one that hath, shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but he that hath not, from him shall be taken away, even that which he hath.

Verse 30.

And cast the unprofitable servant into outer darkness; there shall be Weeping, and gnashing of teeth.

Verse 31.

And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats.

Verse 33.

And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

Verse 34.

Then shall the king say unto them on his right hand, Come ye blessed of my father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

Verse 35.

For I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in:

Verse 36.

Naked, and ye clothed me: Sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

Verse 37.

Then shall the righteous answer say unto them,

Verse 38.

Til ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me.

Verse 39.

And they also shall answer him, saying,

Verse 40.

Til ye did it unto me in my lees, that I was.] and did not minister unto thee.

Verse 41.

Then shall he answer them say,

Verse 42.

Til ye did it unto me in my lees, and did not minister unto me.

Verse 43.

I was a stranger, and ye took me in: I was naked, and ye clothed me:

Verse 44.

I was in prison, and ye visited me.

Verse 45.

Then shall ye say unto them,

Verse 46.

These shall go into everlastingpunishments: the righteous into life everlasting.
And it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all his sayings, he layed his hand upon his disciples:

16 And from that time forth, he sought opportunity to betray him.

17 The first day of unleavened bread, the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him: Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee, to eat the Passover?

18 And he said: Go into the city, to such a man, and say unto him, the master saith, my yoke is at hand; I will keep the Passover at the house, with my disciples.

19 And the disciples said as Jesus had appointed them: and they made ready the Passover.
Until that day when I shall drink it newe with you, in my fathers kyngdome.

And when they hadde paypest [God] they set out unto the mount of Olives.

Then saith Jesus unto them: All ye shall be offended because of me this night.

For it is written: *I will smite the shepherd, and the theepe of the flocke shall abated abode.

But after I am risen againe, I will go before you unto Saker.

Peter answered, and said unto him: Though all men be offended, because of me, yet will I never be offended.

Jesus sayde unto hym: Verly I say unto thee, that in this same night, before the Cocke crowde, thou shalt deny me thrice.

Peter sayde unto hym: Though I should dye with thee, yet will I not deny thee. Lykewise also sayde all the discipules.

Then came Jesus with them unto a place, which is called Gerusalem, and sayde unto the discipules: Sit ye here, whyte I goe and pray ponde.

And he taketh with him Peter, and the two names of Zebeder, and began to warre against full and heauy.

Then sayde Jesus unto them: *My soule is heavy, even unto the death, tary here, and watche with me.

And he went a little further, and fell flat on his face, and prayed, saying: O my father, if it be possible, let this cuppe passe from me: Neverthelesse, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

And he came unto the discipules, and founde them a sleepe, and sayde unto Peter: What, could ye not Watche with me one houre?

Watche, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: *The sheepe in deede is lyblyng, but the fether is weake.

He went alwaye once againe, and prayed, saying: O my father, if this cuppe may not passe alwaye fro me, except I drinke it, thy will be fulfilled.

And he came, and founde them a sleepe againe: fo, their eyes were heavy.

And he kneept, and went agayne, and prayed the third time, laying the same woes.

Then commytteth he to his discipules, and saith unto them: Sleepe hencethrough, take your rest, beholde, the houre is at hande, and the time of man is betrayed into the hauenes of strangers.

Verly, let us be going: beholde, he is at hauende that both betray me.

*Whyte he yet spake, loe Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with hym a great multitude, with swords and staves, from the chiefe priests and elders of the people.

But he that betrayed him, gave them a token, saying: Whomsoever I kysse, that same is he, hold hym fast.

And soothwise, he came to Jesus, and layde, hayle matter, and kydled hym.

And Jesus sayde unto hym: Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they, and layde handes on Jesus, and toke hym.

And beholde, one of them which were with Jesus, stretched out his hande, and strewe his swords, and stroke a ternuant of the hye priests, and snitte of his eare.

Then said Jesus to hym: Put by thy swords into thy sheate. For all they that take the sword, shall perish with the sword.

Thinkest thou that I can not nowe be pray to my father, and he shall give me more then twelve legions of Angels?

But hove he then shal the scriptures be fulfilled: Fo, thus must it be.

In that same houre, sayde Jesus to the multitudes: *Ye be come out, as it were unto a thief, with swords and staves, for to take me. I satte daily with you, teachynge in the temple, and ye take me not.

*But all this is done, that the scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled: *Then all the discipules for soke him, and fledde.

And they take Jesus, and leade hym to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled.

But Peter folowe hym a farre of, unto the high priests palace, and went in, and satte with the servauntes to see the ende.

*The chiefe priests, and elders, and all the counsell, fought vnto witnesss against Jesus, for to put hym to death.

But founde none: yea, when many false witneses came, yet founde they none. At the last, came two false witneses, for to put the into the Treasure, because it is the price of blood.

And they took counsel, and bought with them a potters field, to bury strangers in.

wherfore that field is called the field of blood, but all this day.

(Then was fulfilled that, which was spoken by Jeremia the prophet, saying: And they took thirsic silver pieces, the price of hym that was valued, whom they bought of the children of Israel:"

And gave them for the potters field, 35 as the Lord appointed me.)

*Jesus stode before the deputie, and the deputie asked hym, saying: Art thou the king of the Jews? Jesus said unto him: You are right.
And he answered hym to never a word: insomuch, that the deute put unto the people a paxt, whom they would desire.

2 And they stripped hym, and put on a scarlet robe:
29 And platted a crown of spomes, and put upon his head, and a reede in his right hande, and bowed the knee before hym, and mocked hym, saying: hail hym of the Jewes.

30 And they had spt upon hym, they took the reede, and smote hym on the head.

31 And after that they had mocked hym, they took the robe of hym agayne, and put his owne rcayment upon hym, and led hym away, to crucifie hym.

32 And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, named Simon: upon

34. And gaine hym vnder to drinke, mingled with gall: And when he had taffed there, he would not drinke.

35 When they had crucifed hym, they parted his garments, and cast lots, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophete: they departed my garments among them; upon my beslee they cast lots.

36 And they bate, and watched hym there.

37 And set up on her head, the cause of his death) written: This is Jesus, the king of the Iewes.

38 Then were there two thieues cruci fied with hym: one on the right hande, and another on the left.

39 They that passed by, crupled hym, wagging their heads,

40 And saying: Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thy selfe. If thou be the sonne of God, come downe from the cross.

41 Iphelby also the bye priesstes, mocking hym, with the spomes, and elders, and pharisees, saying:

42 He spared other, hym selfe can he not save. If he be the byng of Ibrat, let him alone come downe from the cross, and we byll believe hym.

43 He trusted in God, let hym deliever hym noble, ye he byll have hym: so he sayde, I am the sonne of God.

44 The thieues also which were crucif
ed with hym, caste the same in his teeth.

45 For the firste hour, was there dark nese over all the lande, unto the nynt hour.

46 And about the nynt hour, Jesus cried: God willing, that thou shouldest know that hym is the sonne of God.

The Gospel

The xxviiij. Chapter.

The Resurrection of Christ. 1 The hie priests gave the soldier's money, to say that Christ was stolen out of his grave. 2 Christ appeareth to his disciples, and tendeth them to go to preach, and to baptize.

N the later end of the Sabbath day, which dayeth the first day of the week, came Marie Magdalene, and the other Marie, to see the sepulchre.

And behold, there was a great earthquake, for the Angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came & rouled backe the stone from the doore, and sate upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snowe.

And for fear of them, the keepers were alarmed, and became as dead men.

The Angel answered, and sayde unto the women, fear ye not: for I knowe that ye seek Jesus which was crucified.

He is not here, he is ryen, as he said. 5 Come, go to the place where the Lord was layde.

And go quietly, & tell his disciples that he is ryen againe from the dead. And behold, he goeth before you into Galile, & ther shall ye see him. Lo, I have tolde you.

And they departed quietly from the sepulchre, with fear, and great joy, and sayde among them, to bring his disciples before, & say to the world, that Christ is ryen, as he said.

And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying: All haste, and they came and offered him by the Then said Jesus unto them: Be not afraid. Go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, there shall they see me. When they were gone, behold, some of the watch came into the city, and showed unto the priests all the things that were done. And they gathered the together, with the elders, and took counsel, and gave large money to the southerners. Saying, Say ye, that his disciples came by night, and stole him away while ye slept. And if this come to the deputies (care) we will peradventure him, and save you harmless. So they took the money, and dyd as they were taught. And this saying is inscribed among the Jews, but by this day.

Then the eleven disciples went down into Galilee, into a mountaine, where Jesus had appointed them. And when they saw him, they worshipped him: But some doubted. And Jesus came, and spake unto them, saying: All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth.

Go ye therefore, teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the father, and of the son, and of the holy ghost:

Leaving the to observe all things, whatsoever I have commanded you. And loe, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world.

Here endeth the Gospel by Saint Matthew.

The first Chapter.

The office of John the Baptist. The baptism of Christ. His fastings. His preaching. The calling of Peter, Andrew, James, and John. Christ heals the man with the unclean spirit. Helpeth Peter's mother in law. And cleareth the leper.
and preached the baptism of repentance, for the remission of sins.

5 And all the land of Judea, and they of Jerusalem, went out unto him, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins.

6 *John was clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle about his loins: and he did eat locusts and wild蜂.

7 And preached, saying: *He that is stronger than I, is come after me, whose shoe latchet I am not worthy to unloose: and I am not worthy to unloose

8 I have baptized you with water: but he shall baptized you with the Holy Ghost.

9 And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth, of Galilee, *he was baptized of John in Jordan.

10 And straightway came to him all the region about the lake of Gennesaret, 11 And straightway came to him all the region about the lake of Gennesaret, and they stayed upon the boat, and heard him: and immediately the disciples from the midst of the crowd.

12 And immediately the Spirit drave Jesus into the wilderness.

13 And he was there in the wilderness forty days, and was tempted of Satan, *he was with the wild beasts, *the Angels ministered unto him.

14 After that John was delivered, to prison, Jesus came into Galilee, *preaching the Gospel of the kingdom of God,

15 And saying: The kingdom is at hand, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent, and believe the Gospel.

16 As he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon, and Andrew his brother, casting nets into the sea: and there were fishermen.

17 And Jesus saith unto them: Follow me, and I will make you to be fishers of men.

18 And straightway they forsook their nets, and followed him.

19 And when he had gone a little further thence, he met James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, which also were in the ship: and they were诧ised.

20 And alone he called them: And they left their father Zebedee in the ship, with the hired servants, and followed him.

21 *And they came into Capernaum, and straightway, on the Sabbath day, he entered into the synagogue, and taught.

22 And they were astonished at his teaching: *For he taught them, as one that had authority, and not as the Scribes.

23 *And there was in their synagogue, a man vexed with an unclean spirit, he cried, 24 Saying: *Alas, what have we (to do) with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth: Art thou come to destroy us? I know thee what thou art, even that holy one of God.

25 And Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, saying: *Hole the peace, and come out of him.

26 And when the unclean spirit had come out of him, he cried with a loud voice: he came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, insomuch that they demanded one of another among them selves, saying: What thing is this? What new doctrine is this? *For with authority commanded he the unclean spirits, and they obeyed him.

28 And immediately his fame spread abroad throughout all the region bordering on Galilee.

29 And straightway, when they were come out of the synagogue, *they entered into the house of Simon, and Andrew, with James, and John.

30 But Simon's mother lay sick of a fever: *and when they told him of her.

31 And he came, and took her by the hand, and lifted her up: and immediately the fever left her: and (she) ministratd unto them.

32 And when, even, when the son was douht, they brought him unto him all that were diseased, and them that were vexed with devils:

33 *And all the city was gathered together at the door.

34 And he healed many, that were sick of divers diseases, and afflicted many devils: and suffered not the devils to speak, because they knew him.

35 And in the morning, before day, *he was risen up, and departed, and went out into a solitary place, and there prayed.

36 *And Simon, and they that were with him, followed after him.

37 And when they saw him, they laid about him: all men seek for thee.

38 And he said unto them: Let us go into the
And after he had given hym a straight commandement, he sent hym away foot with.

44 And lastly unto hym: *See thou say nothing to any man, but get thee hence, shew thy fette to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing those things which Moses commanded, for a witnesse unto them.

45 But he, as sone as he was departed, began to tell many synages, and to publishe the saying: unlouced, that Jesus could no more openly enter into the citie, but was without in desert places: And they came to hym from euerie quarter.

The 11. Chapter.

C He healeth the man of the pauls, 14 calleth Leuit the customer, 16 eateeth with open synners, 18 and excuseth his disciples.

After sone dayes also, he entred into Capernaum againe, and it was notised that he was in the house.

And anone many were gathered togethers, in somuch that no lde there was no roome to reccauce them, no, not so muche as about the doore: and he preached the Word un to them.

*And they came unto hym, brynging one sace of the paulcie, which was borne of foure men.

*And they came unto hym, brynging one sace of the paulcie, which was borne of foure men.

4 And when they could not come nye unto hym for peace, they uncouuered the rooke of the house: that he was in: And when they had broken by the rooke, they bry[the coide] let downe the bedde, whereby in the sace of the paulcie lay.

5 When Jesus saw their faith, he saide unto the sace of the paulcie: *Some, the synnes be forgiven thee.

6 But there were certaine of the scribes seying there, and reasonning in their heartes:

7 Why doest he thus speake blasphemies: Who can forgive synnes, but God onely?

8 And immediately when Jesus perceaved in his spirite, that they so reasoned within them selues, he saide unto them: Why reason ye suche synneges in your heartes:

9 Whethere is it easier to say to the sace of the paulcie, thy synnes be forgiven thee: or to say, arlyse, take by thy bedde, and walke:

10 But that ye may know, that the sone of man hath power in earth to forgive synnes (he spake unto the sace of the paulcie)

11 Ifathe unto thee, arlyse, and take by thy bedde, and get thee hence unto this house.

12 And immediately he arose, toke by the bedde, and went forth before them all: unlouced that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying: we never sawe it on this fashion.

13 And he went againe unto the sea, and all the people reforted unto him, and he taught them.

14 And as Jesus passed by, he saide Leuit (the name) of Alphe, sitting at the receipt of custom, and saide unto hym: follow me. And he arose, and folowed hym.

15 And it came to passe, that when Jesus late at meat in his house, many publicanes and sinners sate also together at meat with Jesus and his discipules: for there were many that folowed hym.

16 And when the scribes and pharisees saide hym late with publicanes and sinners, they saide unto his discipules: howe is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicanes and sinners:

17 When Jesus heard that, he saide unto them: They that be whole, have no neede
...and they that are did not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

18 And the disciples of John, and the pharisees disobeyed him, and say unto him: Why do thy disciples of John, and the pharisees fast, but thy disciples fast not?

19 And Jesus said unto them: Can the children of the bridegroom fast, while the bridegroom is with them? As long as they have the bridegroom with them, they can not fast.

20 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

21 No man also setteth a piece of new cloth into an old garment: otherwise would the new piece be made bad, and the old piece should not be preserved.

22 And no man putteth new wine into old vats; else the new wine both burst the vats, and the wine runneth out, and the vats are marred: But new wine, must be put into new vats.

23 *And it came to pass, that he went through the country fildes on the Sabbath days, and his disciples began by way to pluck the ears of corn.

24 And the pharisees said unto him: Behold, why do they on the Sabbath days, that which is not lawful?

25 And he said unto them: Have ye never read what David did, when he had need, and was an hungry, both he, and they that were with him:

26 *So he went into the house of God (in the days of Abiaiah the high priest), and did eat the shewbread, which is not lawful to eat, but for the priests, and gave also to them which were with him.

27 And he said unto them: The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

28 Therefore is the son of man, Lord also of the Sabbath.

Chapter

1 And he entered again into the synagogue, and there was there a man which had a withered hand:

2 And they watched him, whether he would heale him on the Sabbath days, that they might accuse him.

3 And he saide unto the man which had the withered hand: Arise, and stand in the midst of them.

4 And he saide unto them: Is it lawful to do good on the Sabbath days, or to do evil; to save life, or to kill? But they held their peace.

5 And when he had looked round about upon them with anger, mourning for the hardness of their hearts, he saith to the man: Stretch forth thy hand. And he stretched it out: And his hand was restored, even as whole as the other.

6 *And the pharisees departed, and straitly gathered a council, with the Herodians, against him, that they might destroy him.

7 But Jesus anointed, with his disciples, to the sea: And a great multitude followed him from Galilee, and from Judea,

8 And from Hierusalem, and from every where, and from beyond Jordan, and they that were in the cities.

9 And Jesus comandeth his disciples, that a shipp should be bare on him, because of the people; lest they should change hym.

10 For he had healed many infirmities, that they presséd upon him so; to touch hym, as many as had plagues.

11 And when the busy spirits saw hym, they fell down before hym, and crying, saying: Thou art the Sonne of God.

12 And he straitly charged them, that they should not make hym known.
13 And he went up into a mountain, and called unto him whom he would: and they came unto him.
14 And he ordained twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach, 15 And that they should have power to heal sicknesses, and to cast out devils.
16 And he gave unto Simon to name Peter,
17 And he called James the son of Zebedee, and John, James' brother (and gave them to name Boanerges, which is, Thunders).
18 And Androebe, and Philip, and Bartholomee, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Alphaee, and Thaddaeus, and Simon Cananite, 19 And Judas ISCariot, which also betrayed him. And they came into the house:
20 And the people assembled together againe, so that they had no leasure so much as to eate bread.
21 And when they that belonged unto hym, heard of it, they went out to lave handes vpon hym: Fo they sayde, he is made.
22 And the serues whiche came downe from Hierusaleme, sayde: He hath Beelzebub, and by the chiefe devill, calseth he out devils.
23 And he called them vnto hym, and saide vnto them in parables: Howe can Sa- tan drue out Satan?
24 And of a realme be deduced against it selfe, that realme can not endure.
25 And of a house be deduced against it selfe, that house can not continue.
26 And of Satan make incuration against him selfe & be deduced, he can not continue, but hath an ende.
27 No man can enter into a strong mans house, and take away his goodes, except he first hynde the strong man, and then spoyle his house.
28 Then saide he, I laye vnto you, at times shalbe fooguen into the children of men, blaspheemies wherewith so ever they have blasphemen:
29 *But he that speake eth blaspheemies agaynst the holy goode, hath never for- goone theesse, but is in baunguer of eartneal dampanation.
30 For they sayde: he hath an uncleane spirte.
31 *There came also his mother, and his brethren, and stoode without, and sente hym, to call hym out.
32 And the people lade about him, lade hym: Beholde, my mother and my brethren are here without.
33 And he aunswered them, sayinge: who is my mother, and my brethren?
34 And when he had looke rounde about on his disciples, which lade in compass about hym, he sayde: Beholde my mother, and my brethren.
35 Fo whosoeuer doeth the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother.

The. iiiij. Chapter.

C: The parable of the sower. 37 Christe fylleth the tempes of the sea, which oveped hym.

1 And he began againe to teache by the sea side: And ther gathered unto hym much people, so greatly, that he entered into a shippe, and satte in the sea: and all the people was by the sea side on the shore.
2 And he taught then many things by parables, and sayde vnto them in his doctrine.

Hearken: Beholde, there went out a looper to solde:
3 And it centreth as he lode, that some fell by the way side, and the sodiles of the aye came, and denouened it by.
4 Some fell on some grounde, where it had not muche earth: and immediatly sprange by, because it had not deapth of earth.
5 But assone as the some was by, it caught heart: and because it hadde not rootes, it wipshed alway.
6 And some fell among thones: and the thones grewe by, and choked it, and it gaue no fruite.
7 And some fell by good grounde, and ddb
And he saide unto them: Be ye good to heare, let your heare be inneferring.

And when he was alone, they that were about hym, with the twelve, asked of hym the parable.

And he saide unto them: *To you it is given to knowe the mysterie of the kingdom of God: But unto them that are without, all thynge are done by parables;

12 That when they see, they may see and not discern: and when they heare, *they may heare and not understand: lest at any tyme, they should trowe, and their finnes should be forsooken them.

13 And he saide unto them: Knovde ye not this parable? And howe thenwyll ye knowe all other parables?

*The souer, soueth the woode.

And they that receive seed by the way side, are those where the woode is sowe: but when they have hearde, Satan commeth immediately, and taketh away the woode that was sowe in their heares.

And lykewyle they that receive seed into the some ground, are they, which when they have hearde the woode, at once receaue it with gladness.

He have no roote in them selues, and so endure but a tyme: and anone when trouble and persecution apytheth for the woodes sake, immediaty they are offended.

18 And those be they that receaue seed among thomes: and those [Iare] are suche as heare the woode,

19 And the care of this woode, and the deceptynne of ryches, and the lustes of other thynge enter in, and choke the woode, and it is made unfruitfull.

20 And they which receaue seed into good ground, are suche as heare the woode, and receaue it, so that one come both bying forth thynge, some sittie, some aun slumbered.

21 And he saide unto them: *Is the candle lighted to be put under a bullesell, or under the table? And not to be put on a candlesticke;

22 *For there is nothing so privy that shall not be opened: neither hath it ben so secreete, but that it shall come abode.

23 If any man have care to heare, let hym heare.

24 And he saide unto them, take heed what ye heare: *With what measure ye meete, with the same shall ye measure;

25 For *unto hym that hath, shall it be gate: and from hym that hath not, shall it be taken away, even that which he hath.

26 And he saide, so is the kyndom of God: euene as *if a man shoude sowe seede in the grounde, 27 And shoude sleepe, and ryse by night and day, and the sowe shoude sleepe (byng a groode by, he knoweth not howe).

28 For the earth bringeth forth fruite of her selfe, first the blade, then the care, after that, the full come in the care.

29 But when the fruite is brought forth, anone he thinkest in the sicle, because the harrest is come.

30 And he saide: Whereunto shal we lyken the kyndom of God? *Or with what comparision shall we compare it?

31 *It is like a grayne of mustarde sowe, which when it is sowe in the earth, is lesse then all sedes that be in the earth.

32 When it is sowe, it groweth vp, and is greater then all heares, and beareth great baumunches, so that the foules of the ayre may make their nestes under the shadowe of it.

33 *And with many such parables preac
ed he the woode unto them, as they were able to heare it.

34 But without parable spakke he nothing unto them. But when they were alone, he expounded all thynge to his discipules.

35 And the same day, when euene was come, he saide unto them: Let vs passe ouer unto the other lyde.

36 And they left the people, and toke hym, euene as he was in the hippe. And there were also with him, other little hippes.

37 *And there arose a great storme of wynde, and the stannes daffled into the hippe, so that it was notde ful.

38 And he was in the sterne a stepe ouer pelowe. And they awaketh hym, and saide unto hym: Master, carest thou not that we perpyde?

39 And he arose, and rebuked the wynde, and said unto the sea, peace, and be still. And
And the Wynne ceased, there folowed a great calme.
40 And he sayde vnto them: why are ye so scarefull? holde is it, that ye haue no "fath?
41 And they feared exceedingly, and sayde one to another: who is this? For both wynne and sea obey hym.

The v. Chapter.

21 And they came once to the other side of the sea, into the countrey of the Sambairenes.
22 And when he was come out of the shipe, immediatly there met hym from among the tombes, a man [possed] of an uncleane spirit:
23 Which had his abdyng among the tombes: And no man could bynde hym, nor with cheynes.
24 Because, that when he was often bounde with cheynes and cheynes, he pluckt the cheynes a sinder, and brake the cheynes in pieces: Neither coude any man tame hym.
25 And alwayes, night and day, he was in the mountaynes, and in the tombes, crying, and beatynge hym selfe with bones.
26 But when he had sied Jesus a farre of, he carne, and worshipped hym.
27 And cried with a loude boyce, sayde: What haue I to do with thee, Jesus, thou sonne of the most highe God? I Require thee in the name of God, that thou torment me not.
28 (For he sayde vnto hym: come out of the man thou soule spirit.)
29 And he aske hym, what is thy name: And he aunswered, and sayde vnto hym: my name is legion, for we are many.
30 And he sayde hym innocently, that he woulde not tande them away, out of the countrey
31 But there was there, npe into the mountaynes, a great hearde of hywne seydnyng.
32 And all the devells besought hym, sayng: sende vs into the hywne, that we may enter into them.
33 And annoe Jesus gave them leave.
34 And the uncleane spirtus went out, and entered into the hywne: And the hearde ran headlong into the sea, (they were about two thousand,) they were drownned in the sea.
35 And the hywnehearched, and tolde it in the citie, and in the countrey. And they went out to see what was done.
36 And came to Jesus, and sayde hym that was wered with the lynde, and had the legion, yet, both clothed, and in his right wynne: they were afraid.
37 And they sayde to hym, tolde them, howe it came to passe to hym that was possessd with the demp: and also of the hywne.
38 And then beganne to pray hym, that he woulde depart out of their coasts.
39 And when he was come into the shipe, he that had [ben possed] with the demp, payed hym, that he mighte be with hym.
40 Howebeit, Jesus woulde not suffer hym, but sayde vnto hym: go howe to thy frens, and shewe them howe great thynges the Lord hath done for thee, and holde he had compassion on thee.
41 And he departed, and beganne to publishe in the ten citiies, howe great thynges Jesus had done for hym: and all men dyd marauyle.
42 And when Jesus was come over against by shipe, into the other side, much people gathered vnto hym, and he was wynne vnto the sea.
43 *And beholde, therc came out of the rulers of the synagogue, whole name was Faries: and when he saw hym, he fell downe at his feate.
44 And besought hym greatly, sayng: my young daughter lyeth at poyst of death, I pray thee, come and lay thy hande on her, that the may he safe, and lyue.
45 *And he went with hym, and much people folowe him, and thronged hym.
46 *And there was a certayne woman, which had ben diseased of an issue of blood twelve yeres.
many physicians, and had spent all that the had, and felt none amendment at all, but rather the worse.
27 when he had heard of Jesus, the came in the sence behinde hym, and touched his garment.
28 For the seyde: if I may but touche his clothes, I shalbe whole.
29 And straitway the fountayne of her blood was dyed vp: and the felt in her body, that she was healed of the plague.
30 And Jesus immediatly, knowyng in hym seynt, that vertue proceeded from hym, turned hym about in the sence, and seyde: who touche my clothes?
31 And his discipules seyde unto hym:
thou visit the people think the, asked the, who dyd touche me?
32 And he loket round about, for to see her that had done this thyng.
33 But the woman, fearyng & tremblyng, knowyng what was done withyn her, came, and fett downe before hym, and told hym all the true.
34 And he seyde unto her: Daughter thy seynt hath l aun thee, go in peace, and be whole of the plague.
35 While he yet spake there came from the sence of the synagoguees house, with, which sayde: thy daughter is dead, why doest thou the maister any further?
36 Alfoone as Jesus seynde the seynt that was spoken, he satde unto the ruler of the synagogue, he not aseynde, only beleue.
37 And he suffred no man to following him, laue Peter, and James, and John the brother of James.
38 *And he came to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and seynde the tumult, and them that wept and waspe great.
39 And went in, and seyde unto them:
why make ye this a doe, and wepe? the damfell is not dead, but slepeth.
40 *And they lught hym to sleepe: But he put them all out, and toket the father and the mother of the damfell, and them that were with hym, and entred in where the damfell laye.
41 And taket the damfell by the hande, and seynde unto her. Taitha cumi, which is, yone do interpeter it, damfell (I lay unto thee) arise.
42 And straightway the dam Fell arose, and Walket: For she was of the age of twelve yeres. And they were alyphed out of unafure.
43 And he charged them straftly, that no man shoulde knowe of it: and commaunded to give her meete.

And when the sabbath day was come, he begane to teach in the synagogue: And many that hearde hym, were assonmed, and seynde: from whence hath he these thynges? And what wis-dome is this that is gessen unto hym?
and such wyphe books that are bought by his handes.
*Is it not this the carpenter Daries toone, the brother of James & Joakes, and of Judah and Simon: and are not his sisters here with vs: And they were offended at hym.

phete is not without honour, bu in his owne countrie, and among his owne kynne, and in his owne house.
5 And he could there there no nighte wooke: but seynde his handes upon a fete the fete folk, and healed them.
6 And he marueld, because of their unbelieue. 59 *And he went about by3 the tribes that lay on every hyde, teacching.
7 *And he called the twelve, and begane to tende them forth, two and two, and gave the power over uncleane spirits.
8 And commaunded them, that they should take nothing in their journe, faile and gave hym reverence: and when he heard hym, he dyd many thynge, and heare hym gladly.

21 And whyle a convenient day was come, that herode on his birth daye made a supper to the lodges, hye captaynes, and chiefe estates of Galile.

22 And when the daughter of the same herodias came in, and daunced, and pleased herode, and them that dide at boode also, the kynge said unto the dam-self: Aske of me what thou wilt, and I wyll give it thee.

23 *And he swere unto her: whatsoever thou shalt ask of me, I wyll give it thee, even unto the one halfe of my

dome.

24 And she went soothe, & sayde unto her mother: what shall I aske? She saide, John Baptistes head.

25 And the came in stryghtwaye, with hastie, unto the kynge, and asked, saying:
I wyll, that thou gue me by and by in a charger, the head of John Baptiste.

26 And the kynge was sore, howbeit, for his owne sake, & for their sake, which knew that at supper also, he woulde not calle her of.

27 And immediately the kynge sent the hangman, and commanded his head be brought in: And he went, and beheaded hym in the pylon.

28 And brought his head in a charger, & gave it to the damself, & the damself gave it to her mother.

29 And when his discipes hearde of it, they came, and toke by his body,
and lade it in a tombe,

30 And the Apostles gathered themselves together unto Jesus, & tolde hym all thynges, both what they had done, and what they had taught.

31 And he lade unto them: "Came ye a-alone out of the way, into t Wylderness, and rest awhyle: For there were many comers and goers, and they had no

F 35 *And when the day was nowe farre spent, his disciples came unto hym, sayynge: This is a desert place, & nowe the tymc is farre passed:

36 Let them departe, that they may go into the country rounde about, and in to the townes, and bye them bread: for they have nothing to eate.

37 He aunderstood and sayde unto them: Geue ye them to eate. And they laide bun to hym: Shall we goe and bye two hundred penyworth of bread, & geue them to eate?

Mar.vii.a 38 He sayde unto them: Howe many loaves haue ye, go louke: And when they had searche, they sayde, fyue, and two fishes.

39 And he commanded them, to make them all fitt towne by companies upon the greene graffe.

40 And they looke about, here a rove, and there a rove, by hundredes, & by fifies.

41 And when he had take the fowe loaves, and the two fishes, he looked up to heauen, he bidded, and baue the loaves, & geue them to his disciples to set before them: and the two fishes beuned he among them all.

42 And they all did eate, & were satisfied.

43 And they tooke by twelue baskets full, of the fragmentes, & of the fishes.

44 And they that dyd eate, were about fouteen hundred men.

F 45 *And straightway, he constrained his disciples to goe into the shipp, and to goe ouer the sea before, into Bethsaida, whyle he lefte away the people.

Mat.xii.c 46 *And afternoone as he had lefte them a way, he departed into a mountayne to pray.

47 *And when even was come, the ship was in the tyme of the sea, and headlong on the lande.

48 And he saue them troubled in rowing (for the lynbe was contrary unto them:) And about the foure watch of the night, he came unto them, Walking upon the sea, and would haue passed by them.

49 But when they saue hym walkyng upon the sea, they supposed it had ben a spirit, & cryed out.

50 For they all saue hym, & were afrayed. And anoye hee talked with them, & saue unto them: Be of good cheer, it is I, be not afrayed;

51 And he went by unto them into the shipp, and the lynbe ceased, and they were for amased in themselves beyond measure, and maruelled.

52 For they understood not the miracle of the loaves, because their heart was hardened.

53 And when they had pasted oure, they came into the lande of Genesareth, and delyve by into the haue.

54 And as soon as they were come out of the shipp, straightway they knew him,

55 And ranne foorth through out all the region rounde about, & began to cry about in beddes those that were sikel, thither, where they heard that he was.

56 And whether soever he entred, into townes, citie, or villagis, they layde the sicklie in the streets, prayed hym that they mighte touche and it were but the hoeume of his garment: And as many as touched it, were made whole. 57

A 1 AND the pharisees came together unto hym, & censur of the specches which came from Hieronymem.

2 And they saue one of his disciples eate bread with common [that is to say, with bawthen handes] specches, they saue fault.

3 For the pharisees and all the jewes, except they bawthe their handes oft, eate not, obseruing the traditions of st elders.

4 And when they come from the market, except they bawthe, they eate not. And many other things there be, which they have taken upon them to obserue [as] the bawlyng of cuppes and pottes, and hauken defles, and of tables.

5 Then asked hym the pharisees and s stribes: why walke not thy disciples according to the traditton of the elders, but eate care bread with unleavened hands:

6 he answered, and said unto them, that Elias hath prophesied well of you hypocrites, as it is written: "This people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is farre from me."

7 holebeit, in waye do they worship me, teaching doctrines, the commandments of men.

8 For ye have the commandment of God apart, and observe the tradition of men, as the washinge of pottes, &c. And many other such like things ye do.

9 And he sayde unto them: Well, ye caste aside the commandment of God, to make your owne tradition.

"For Moses sayde, Honor thy father and thy mother: and, Whoso curseth father or mother, let him dye the death."

But ye say, If a man shall say to father or mother, What is this that is, by the ygd, that is offered of me, thou shalt be helped.

16 If any man have cares to heare, let hym heare.

17 And when he came into the house, away from the people, his disciples asked hym of the similitude.

18 And he sayde unto them: Are ye also without understanding? Do ye not perceave, that whatsoever thing fed without, entret in, into a man, it can not defile hym.

19 Because it entret not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, purging all meats:"

20 And he sayde: That which commeth out of a man, defileth the man.

Chapter vii.

The miracle of the seven loaves. 11 The Pharisees ask a signe. 12 The leun of the Pharisees. 13 The blindness of his sight. 14 Peter confesseth Christ. 15 And is rebuked of Christ. 16 Do we should follow Christ, 17 lose our life,

1 And they reasoned among them selves, saying: We have no bread.

2 And Jesus knew it, and said unto them: Why reason ye, because ye have no bread? Percease ye not yet, neither understand: Have ye your heart yet hardened?

3 Have ye eyes, and see not: and have ye ears, and hear not: Do ye not remember:

4 When I brake six loaves among four thousand men, how many baskets filled with bread ye to by: They lay unto hym, twelve.

5 When I brake seven loaves among four thousand men, how many baskets of the leaunynes of the broken bread to take ye by: They lay unto hym, five.

6 And he took his disciples aside, and said unto them: What think ye? who will be able to give us our daily meat?

7 Ye take ye bread, and ye perceive it not; and he brought the bread, and brought it to the table, and said unto them: Be ye able to give us our daily meat?

8 And they did not give, but perceived it not.

9 And he called the twelve, and said unto them: If ye be able to give us our daily meat, how much more shall I be able to give you the bread of God?

10 And he said: Go and make the preparation of the supper, and see, and prepare; and they said: Whom shall we follow, if we give them bread?

11 And he called the five loaves, and the two fishes, and said: Take ye bread, and give unto the multitude, and they did eat, and were filled. And they took unto them, and cast away the broken bread, and filled three baskets.

12 And the Pharisees came forth, and began to dispute with hym, seeing of him a signe from heaven, tempting him.

13 And when he had lifted up his spire, he spake: Why did ye both this generation lose this signe? Truly, if I say unto you, there shall no (a) signe be given unto this generation.

14 And he lefte them, and went into the ship againe, and departed over the water.

15 And they followed him, saying: *Take heede, because of the leun of the Pharisees, and of the leun of herode.

and after three days, apple againe.

And he spake that saying openly: And Peter took hym alde, and began to rebuke hym.

But he turned about, and looked on his discipules, and rebuked Peter, saying, go after me Satha: for thou hast erred not the things that be of God, but the things that be of men.

And when he had called the people unto hym, with his discipules also, he laid before them: Whosoeuer byll folowe me, let hym forfaie hym selfe, and take by his crofe, and folowe me.

For whosoeuer byll folowe his life, shall lose it: But whosoeuer shall lose his life, for my sake & the Gospels, the same shall have ete.

For what shall it profite a man, if he hymne all the worde, and lose his owne soule?

Whosoever shall a man gue, for a rauntome of his soule:

Whosoeuer therefore haie ashamed of me, and of my wordes, in this adulterous and sorneful generation: of hym also shall the name of man be ashamed, when he commeth in the glorie of his father, with the holy Angels.

And after thee dayes, Jesus takeoth Peter, and James, and John, and leaebh them by into an hye mountayne, out of the waye alone; and he was transefigured before them.

And his rayment byll shyne, * becaus very bylyte, even as snowe: so bylyte, as no fuller can make upon the earth.

And there appeared unto them Elias, with Moses: And they talked with Jesu.

And Peter answereth, and sayeth to Jesu: Master, here is good byng for vs, let vs make alfo these tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

For he witt not what he saide, for they were asleepe.

And there was a cloud that shadowed them: and a voyuer came out of the cloud, saying, * This is my beloved sonne, heare hym.

And sodely, when they had loked rounde about, they sawe no man, more then Jesus onely, with them.

And as they came downe from the lyll, he charged them, that they shoule tell no man those thynge that they had seene, till the some of man were ryen from the dead agayne.

And they kept that sayng with them, and demanded one of another, what the ryng from the dead againe, should meane:

And they asked hym, sayng: why then say the serues that Elias must first come:

Be aurnerred, and sayde unto them: *Elias veryly when he commeth firste, Mat.iii.11: refeth all thynge: And the some of man, as it is written of hym, shall suffer many thynge, & be set at naught.

But I sayde unto you, that Elias is come, & they have done unto hym whatshere they should, as it is written of him.

And when he came to his discipules, he saide much people about them, and the serues disputing with them.

And stragghingway all the people, which they behelde hym, were amazed, & ran to hym, and faluite hym.

And he asked the serues, what dispute ye with them?

*And one of the companie aurnberred, & sayde: Master, I have broghte unto thee my sonne, which hath a dumbe spirit:

And whensoever he takeoth hym, he teareth hym, & he stouteth, & gnasheth with his teeth, & puncheth away: and I spake to thy discipules, that they shoule cast hym out, and they could not.

The Gospel

19 He aumfwereth hym, and satth: D sapphertic nation, houe long shall I be with you? houe long shall I suffer you? 20 And they brought him into him:And when he had hym, straunghes the spirite face hym:And he fell downe on the grounde, walloweth and founying, 21 And he afseth his father, houe long it is a go fonce this came into hym:And he fayde, of a chylde, 22 And offt tymes it hath cast hym into the fe, and into the water, to deftroye hym: But ye thon canst do any thyng, have mercy on vs, and helpe vs. 23 Jesus fayde into hym: this thyng ye thon cant belce, all thynges are possi bile to hym that belceueth, 24 And straunghes the father of the child cried with teares, saying: Lobe J belce, helpe thou mine unbelfe. 25 When Jesus fayed the child cried with teares, saying: Lobe J belce, helpe thou mine unbelfe, 26 And the spirte, when he had cryed and rent his lofe came out of hym: and he was as one that had ben dead; into much that many fayde, he is dead. 27 But Jesus caught hym by the hande, and lyt hym vp: and he rofe. 28 And wha he was come into the house, his discipules asked hym secretly:why coude we not call hym out? 29 And he laide into them: This lynde can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fallyng. 30 And they departed thence, and took their womey thosonde Galilee: and he would not any man should knowe it. 31 For he taught his discipules, and laide into them: The fomme of man, halbe deluered into the handes of men, they shall kill him: and, after that he is kiled, he halbe rife againe the thirde day, 32 But they understonde not that faying, and were afrayde to afke hym. 33 And he came to Capernaum: And when he was come into the house, he ake them, what was it that ye disput ed among your felves by the way? 34 And they held their peace: For by the way, they had reasoned among them felves, who shoulde be the chiefer. 35 And when he was fet downe, he ca led the twelve to hym, and fayde unto them: If any man before to be fiek, the fame halbe last of al, if erualit unto al. 36 And he took a young chylde, and fet hym in the mydes of them: and when he had taken hym in his armes, he fayde unto them, 37 Whosoeuer receaueth any such a young chylde in my name, receaueth me: And whosoeuer receaueth me, receaueth not me, but hym that fent me. 38 And John aumfwered him, faying: Dafer, we fayde one eafe oue depilues in thy name, he foloweth not vs: and we fo bath him, because he foloweth vs not. 39 But Jesus fayde, fo dyd hym not: For there is no man, wilche, ye do a miracle in my name, can hyghly heake cupll of me. 40 For he that is not against vs, is on our part. 41 Whosoeuer fhall in my name gue, Mat xix. a cup of colde water to dyinke, because ye belong to Christe: verly I fay unto you, he shall not tolke his rewarde. 42 And Whosoeuer fhall offende one of Mat xvi. thee little ones, that belceueth in me, it were better for him, if a myflone were hang ed about his necke, and he were cast in to the fea. 43 And ye the hande offende thee, cut it Mat xvi. of: It is better for thee to enter into lyfe & mayned, then haung two handes, to go into hell, into fire that never halbe quenched: 44 Where their bone dyeth not, & the fire goeth not out. 45 And ye the foote offende thee, cut it of: It is better for thee to go hait into lyfe, then haung two feete, to be cast into hell, into fire that never halbe quenched: 46 Where their bone dyeth not, and the fire goeth not out. 47 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out: It is better for thee to go into the kyngeome of God with one eye, then haung two eyes, to be cast into hell fire: 48 Where their bone dyeth not, and the fire goeth not out. 49 Every man halbe falled with fire: *and every sacrifce halbe fasoned with leaft fall. 50 Salt is good: But if the falt be dut, verre, with what thyng shall you feasun it: Have falt in your felles, and have peace among your felles, one with an other.
A ND when he rose from thence, he went into the counties of Judea, through the region that is beyond Jordon: And the people received him again, and the pharisees came, and asked him:

And he answered, and said unto them: What did Moses command you to do?

And they said: Moses suffered to write a book of duowement, and to put her away.

And Jesus answered, and said unto them: For the hardnesses of your heart, he wrote this precept among you.

But from the beginning of the creation, "God made them male and female."

And said: For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and be yoke by his wife: And they twain shall be one flesh, So that they are no more twain, but one flesh.

Therefore, what God hath joined together, let not man separate.

And in the house, his disciples asked him again, of the matter of?'

And he saith unto them: Whoever putteth away his wife, and marryeth another, committeth adultery against her.

And ye a woman put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery.

And they brought young children to him, that he should touch them: And his disciples rebuked those that brought them.

But when Jesus saw it, he was very displeased, and said unto them: Suffer the young children to come unto me, for they of such, is the kingdom of God.

Verily I say unto you, whosoever shall receive one of such, him shall not be cast out.

And when Jesus was gone forth into the way, there came one running, and kneeled to him, and asked him: "Good Master, what shall I do, that I may inherit eternal life?"

Jesus said unto him: Why callest thou me good? There is none good but one, which is God.

Thou knowest the commandment: Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not defraud any man, honour thy father and mother.

Then he answered, and said unto him: Master, all these have I observed from my youth.

Jesus beheld him, and loved him, and said unto him: Follow me.

And when Jesus had looked round about, he took with him his disciples: And entered into the kingdom of God.

And the disciples were as assent at his words. But Jesus answered again: Verily I say unto you, Children, how hard it is for them that trust in riches, to enter into the kingdom of God.

It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich to enter into the kingdom of God.

And they were astonished out of measure, saying between them: Who then can be saved?

Jesus answered, and said: Verily I say unto you, of men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God all things are possible.

And Peter began to say unto him: Lo, we have forsaken all, and followed thee.

Jesus answered, and said: Verily I say unto you, there is no man that hath forsaken house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or land, for my sake and the Gospels,

But
But he shall receive an hundredth soke nolue at thispresent, houses, and bethren, and sisters, and mothers, and ryhiden, and landes, with persecutions, and in the bamboo to come, eternall lyfe.

But many that are first, shall be last:
and the last, first.

And they were in the way, going up to hierusalem: And Jesus went before them: And they were amazed, and followed, and were afraid. And Jesus take the twelve agayne, and begane to tell them what thynges should happen buto hym.

Beholde, we go up to hierusalem, and the soume of man shall be deluered unto the lyke pristes, & into the fire:
and they shall condemne hym to death,
and shall delyer hym to the Gentiles.

And they shall mocke hym, & Scourge hym, put upon hym, and byll hym: And the thirde day he shall ryse agayne.

And James and John, the soumes of Zebode, came unto hym, sayng:
Wassier, we would that thou shouldest do for vs, whatsoever we desire.

He sayde unto them: What would ye, that I shoulde do for you?

They sayde unto hym: Grant Lyte to us, that we may sit, one on thy right hande, and the other on thy left hande, in thy glory.

But Jesus sayde unto them, ve vore not what ye aske: Can ye drikke of the cuppe that I drikke of? and be baptiz with the baptisme that I am baptiz with?

And they sayde unto hym: That we can. Jesus sayde unto them: Ye shal in dece dyrkke of the cuppe that I dyrkke of, and with the baptisme that I am baptizd withall, shal ye be baptizd:

But to sit on thy right hande, and on my left hande, is not myne to geue, but into them, for whom it is prepared.

And when the ten hearde it, they began to disputaine at James and John.

But Jesus, when he had called them to hym, sayde unto them: Re knothe, that they which seeme to beare rule among the Gentiles, raigne as Lorde over them: And they that be great among them, exercise authorie upon them.

Nevertheless, so shall it not be among you: but Whosoever of you, shall be great among you, that he may be your minister.

And Whosoever of you shall be the chiefest, that he may seruant of all.

For the soume of man also came not to be ministred unto: but to ministre, and to geue his lyfe, a raunstone for many.

And they came to hierico: And as he went out of cite of hierico with his disciples, and a great number of people, blynde Bartimaeus the soume of Zene-us, sate by the lyke wayes lyde begnyng.

And When he hearde that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he beganne to cry, and say: Jesus, thon soume of Dauid, have mercy on me.

And many rebuked hym, that he should holde his peace: But he ceryd the more a great deale, thon soume of Dauid have mercy on me.

And Jesus stood still, and commaunded hym to be called. And they called the blynde, sayng buto hym: Be of good comfort, ryfe, he calleth thee.

And he thewe alway his cloke, frose, and came to Jesus.

And Jesus annulfed, and sayde buto hym: What wile thou that I do buto thee: The blynde sayde buto hym:
Wassier, that I myght see.

Jesus sayde buto hym: Go thy way, thy lyfe hath lauch thee. And immediately he receaued his lyght, and folowed
Jesus in the way.

The xv. Chapter.

And when they came

Bethphage & Beth-
iam, at the mount of Blumes, he sendeth forth two of his disciples,

2 And saide buto them. Go your Way into the towne, that is over against you:
And assone as pe be entred into it, pe shall synde a colte bounde, wheronor neuer man late: loose hym, and brynghym

3 And pe any man say buto you, why Say ye, that the Lord hath need of thee: and straightway he will send hym hence.

And they went their way, and founde the colt tyed by the doore without, in a place where two wapes met: and they loosed hym.

And dures of them that stood there, sayde unto them: What do ye lookeinge the colte?

And they sayde unto them, even as Jesus had commaundad: And they let them go.

And they bought the colte to Jesus, and cast their garments on hym, and he sate upon hym.

And many spred their garments in the way: Whereout doole branches of the trees, and straule them in the way:

And they that went before, and they that folowed, cryed, saying, Hosanna, blessed is he that commeth in the name of the Lord.

Blessed be the kyngdome, that commeth in the name of hym that is Lord of our father David: Hosanna in the hiesel.

And the Lord entered into Hierusalem, and into the temple: And when he had looke round about, upon all thynge, and notede the even tyde was come, he went out into Bethanie with the twelve.

And on the morowe, when they were come out from Bethanie, he hangered.

And when he had spred a fyge tree a farre of, hauing leaues, he came to seeke he might fynde any thing tharon: And when he came to it, he founde no thing but leaues: for the spyne of fyges was not yet.

And Jesus aunswered, and sayde unto the fyge tree: Never man eate fruite of thee hereafter, lyple the woode handeth. And his dusses earde it.

And they cam to Hierusalem: And Jesus went into the temple, and began to cast out them that solde and bought in the temple, & overthred the tables of the money changers, and the taxaes of them that solde dooes.

And would not suffer, that any man shoulde carry a bestell though thou temple.

And he taught, saying unto them: If it not written, My house shall be called the house of prayer unto all nations: But ye shawe made it a trame of thyncehes.

And the scribes & hye piecetes hearde it, and bought hulve to destroy hym:

For they feared hym, because all the people was atteneded at his doctrine.

And when even was come, Jesus went out of the cite.

And in the morning, as they passed by, they solde the hyge tree dyed vp by the roots.

And Peter remembreed, and sayde unto hym: Bailler, beholde, the fyge tree which thou cursedst, is withered away.

And Jesus aunswered, and sayde unto them: hauye faith in God.

For he sayde, verely I saye unto you, that whosoeuer shall lye on this mountayne: Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea, shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe those thynes, which he faith shall come to passe, whatever he faith, shall be done on that tree.

Therefore I saye unto you, what thynes soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receaue [them] ye shall have [them].

And when ye stande & praye, forgueye, Math.vi.d.

ye have ought agaynst any man: that your father also which is in heauen, may forgive you your trespasses.

But ye do not forgue: neither will your father, which is in heauen, forsoeue you your trespasses.

And they came agaynce to Hierusalem:

And as he walked in the temple, there came to hym the hye piecetes, and the scribes, and the elders.

And sayde unto hym: By what auotolice doest thou thes thynes: & who gave thee thes auotolice, to doe thes thynes:

And Jesus aunswered, and sayde unto them: If ye will also aske of you one question: And aunswer me, and I will tell you by what auotolice I do thes thynes.

The baptisme of John, whether was it from heauen, or of men? Aunswer me.

And they reasoned with them selues, saying, If we shall say from heauen: he will say, Why then dyde ye not believe hym:

But ye shall say, of men: We slee: (2) This is the thirdeyn grasse in grece.

And they aunswered, and sayde unto Jesus: We can not tolle. And Jesus aunswered and sayde unto them: neither will I tell you by what auotolice I do thes thynes.

C The
The vineyard is let out to husbandmen, who enfranchised them that were sent to receive fruit, and filled the heir. 14 tribute is due to Caesar, 25 Christ proves the resurrection by Scripture, against the Sadducees, 26 the chief commandments of the lawe, 27 Christ is the sonne of David, 28 the hypocrifical usage of the scrivites, 41 the poore widows fasting.

And he began to speak unto them by parables. A (certaine) man planted *a vine yard, and compassed it about with an hedge, and beyond it a wypenpestle, and built a towre, and let it out unto husbandmen and went into a strange country.

And when the time was come, he sent to the husbandmen a seruanta, that he might receive of the husbandmen, of the fruit of the vineyard.

And they caught him, and beat him, and sent him away empty.

And moreover, he sent unto them another seruanta, and at him they cast stones, and brake his head, and sent him away empty, all to resettle.

And againe, he sent another, and him they kylled: and many other, beating some, and kyllyng some.

And so, when he had yet but one beloved sonne, he sent him unto them, saying, they will stand in a dwre of my flock.

*But the husbandmen sade amongst them selves: this is the lyce, com, let vs kyl him, and the inheritance shalbe ours.

And they took him, and kylled him, and cast hym out of the vineyard.

What shall therefore the Lord of the vineyard do? he shall come, and destroy the husbandmen, and will give the vineyard unto other.

Have ye not read this Scripture: *The stone which the builders despised, is become the chief stone of the corner:

This is the Lords day, and it is manureous in our eyes.

They went about also to take hym, and feared the people: For they knew, that he had spoken the parable against them. And they left hym, and went away.

*And they sent unto hym, certayne of the pharisita, and of the Herodians to take hym in his boordes.

And assoone as they were come, they sayde unto hym: Master, we knowe that thou art true, and carest not for man: for thou confidest not the perfons of men, but teachest the way of God truely: Is it lawful for us to pay tribute to Caesar, or not?

Ought lie to gene, or ought lie not to gene: But he seeing their hypocrisy, sayde unto them: why tempt ye me: shewing me a pene, that I may see it.

And they bought it: And he sayde unto them, Whole is this image and superstition: And they sayde unto hym: Cæsar.

And Jesus answered, and sayde unto them: * Gene to Cæsar (the thynges) that belong to Cæsar: and to God, (the thynges) which pertayne to God. And they marstified at hym.

There came also unto hym, the Sadducees, which say that there is no resurrection, and they asked hym, saying:

Master, *Poyles wrote unto vs, if any mans brother dye, and leane his wyse behinde hym; let vs take his wyse, and rase by seede unto his brother.

There were seuen brethren: and the first take a wyse, and when he dyed, left no seede behinde hym.

And the second take her, and dyed, neither left any seede: And the third lykewyse.

And seuen had her, and left no seede behinde them: Last of all, the wyse dyed also.

In the resurrection therefore, when they shall rise againe, whose wyse shall the be of them: for seuen had her to like.

And Jesus answered, and sayde unto the: Do ye not therefore err, because ye overthrow not the Scriptures, neither the power of God?

For when they shall rise againe from the dead, they neither marry, nor are given in marriage: but are as the Angels which are in heaven.

As touching the dead, that they rise againe
The xii. Chapter.

1 And as he went out of the temple, one of his disciples sayde unto him: Master, see what stonies, & what bullynge [are here.] And Jesus answered, sayde unto him: Seest thou these great bullynge? There shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

2 And as he sate upon the mount of Olives, have ye not read in the booke of Nophes, howe in the bulle, God spak unto him, sayinge: I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob?

3 He is not the God of the dead, but God of the living. He therefore do greatly err.

4 And when there came one of the scribes, he had heard them disputying together, and perceaved that he had answered them well, he asked him, which is the first of all the commandements.

5 Jesus answered him, the first of all the commandements is: Hear O Israel, The Lord our God, is one Lord:

6 And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soule, and with all thy might, and with all thy strength. This is the first commandement.

7 And the second is like unto this: Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thy selfe. There is none other commandement greater then these.

8 And the scribe sayde unto him: Well master, thou hast sayde the truth, for there is one God, & there is none but he.

9 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, & with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love a [mans] neighbour as thy selfe, is greater then all the burnt offeringes and sacrifice.

10 And when Jesus saw that he answered discretely, he sayde unto him: Thou art not farre from the kingdom of God. And no man after that, durst ask hym any question.

11 And Jesus answered and sayde, teaching in the temple: howe say the scribes that Christ is the sonne of David:

12 For David hym selfe, inspired with the holy ghost sayde: The Lord said unto my Lord, sit on my right hand, till I make thy enemies thy footstool.

13 David hym selfe calleth hym Lord: and howe is he then his sonne? And much people hearde hym gladly.

14 And he sayde unto them in his doctrine: beware of the scribes, which desere to go in long clothynge, and salutations in the market places,

15 And the chiefe seates in the congregations, and the uppemost roddines at feastes, 16 Which denoure widowe houses, & under a pretence, make long prayers: These shall receaue greater damniation.

17 And when Jesus saw that he was agayn at the treasurie, he beheld, & holde the people put money into the treasurie: And many that were rich, cast in much.

18 And there came a certayne poore widowe, & she threw in two mites, which make a farthing.

19 And he called unto hym his disciples, & sayd unto them: Verily I say unto you, that this poore widowe hath cast more in, then all the, which have cast into the treasurie.

20 For they all did cast in of their super; but she, of her poore, did cast in all that she had, even all her lyuing.

The. xii. Chapter.
when ye shall heare of warres, and Tynges of warres, ye ye not troubled:
for such thynges must redes be, but the ende is not yet.

For there shall nation arise against country, and kyndome against kynddome: And there shall be earthquake in divers places, and famine there shall be,
and troubles. These are the beginn-ning of sorowes.

But take ye heed to your selves:
For they shall deliver you up to coun-tels, and to synagogues, and ye shall be beaten, yea, and shall be thrown before rulers and kings for my sake, for a tesimonal into them.

And the Gospel must first be published among all nations.

But when they lead you, and present you, be not careful forshame, neither take thought what ye shall speak: but whatsoever ye seein you in the same hour, that speak ye. For it is not ye that speak, but the holy ghost.

The brother shall betray the brother
to death, and the father the sonne:
and the childe ren shall rise against their fathers and mothers, and shall put them to death.

And ye shall hate of all men for my names sake: But who so endureth unto the ende, the same shall live.

Moreover, when ye see the abomnation of desolation, wherof is spoken daniel by the prophet, stand where thou standest (let him that readeth un-derstande) then let them that be in Jerusalem flee to the mountaines:

And let him that is in the hou se tone, not goe downde into the hou se, neither enter therein, to fetch any thing out of his house.

And let him that is in the fielde, not turne backe agayn into the thynges which he left behinde hym, for to take his garnemente with hym.

Who shall then to them that are with chypide, and to them that sene suche in thos days.

But pray ye that your night be not in the wypner:

For there shall be in thos days such tribulation, as was not since the beginnyng of creatures, which God created, unto this tym, neither shalbe.

And except that the Lord shoulde shorten (thos) dayes, no sesthe shoulde be saved: But for the electes sake, whom he hath chosen, he hath shortened (thos) dayes.

And then, ye any man say to you, in here is Christ, he is there, believe not.

For false Chrystes, and false prophete shall rype, and shall shewe signes and wonders, to deceave, yf it were possible, euen the elect.

But take ye heed: Beholde, I have shewed you all thynges before.

Moreover, in thos dayes, after that tribulation, the sunne shalbe darkne, and the moone shall not gue her light:

And the signes of heaven, shall fall:
and the powers which are in heaven,
shalbe shaken.

And then shal they see the soume of man commynyng in the cloudes, with great power and glory.

And then shall he sende his Angels, and shall gather together his elect, from the foure wyndes, from the ende of the country, to the most part of heaven.

Learn a parable of the hygg tree:
when his huanche is yet tender, and hath bought foorth leaves, ye knowe that sommer is neare:

So ye in lyke maner, when ye see these thynges come to passe, understand, that he is ype, even at the doores.

Cerefy I saye unto you, that this ge-generation shall not passe, yf all these thynges be done.

Heauen and earth shall passe away,
but my doodes shall not passe away.

But of that day and tyme knowe no man, no no the Angels which are in heauen, neither the soume him selie, saue the father only.

Take heed, watche and pray: for ye knowe not when the tyme is.

As a man which is gone into a strange country, and hath left his hous, and gaven anointinge to his servauntes, and to every man his doode, and commanded the porter to watche:

Watche ye therefore, (yeo knowe not whiche the master of the house wyl come, at euen, or at mydyng, whiche of the cocke crowynge, or in the bawmynge.)

Let ye he come sordely, he synde you lepping.

And that I saye unto you, I saye unto all, watche.
After two days the Passover was at hand, and the chief priests and Pharisees had with them the high priest and the whole counsel of the elders, to seize Jesus by trickery anddeliver him up to death.

But they said: not in the feast day, lest any business arise among the people.

And when he was at Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, even as he was at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of very precious ointment, and she poured it on his head.

And there were some, that had indignation within them selves, and said: what need this ointment?

For it might have been sold for more than three hundred pence, and have been given to the poor. And they reproved her.

And Jesus said: let her alone, why trouble ye her? She hath poured out a fragrant ointment upon my body.

For ye have the poor always with you, and whensoever ye will ye may do good: but the poor ye have not always.

She hath done that which she could: for she hath poured out of her alabaster box on my body.

Verily I say unto you: wherever this Gospele be preached through out the whole world, it shall be said of her, that she hath poured out this ointment on my body, and anointed me.

And Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went away into a country, to betray him unto them.

When they therefore heard that, they were glad, and agreed: and they said that they would give him money. And they sought him, that he would willingly betray him.

And the first day of unleavened bread, when they dyd sacrifice the Passover, his disciples sayde unto him: Where wilt thou that we go and prepare, that thou mayest eat the Passover?

And he sent two of his disciples, and said unto them: Go ye into the city, and there shall meete you a man bearing a pitcher of water, follow him,

And wheresoever he goeth in, say ye the good man of the house, the master sayeth: Where is the guest chamber, where I shall eat the Passover with my disciples?

And he shall shewe you a large upper chamber, paved and prepared: there make ready for vs.

And his disciples went about, and came into the city, and found as he had said: and they made ready the Passover.

And when it was nowe even, they came: with the twelve.

And as they were at supper, Jesus sayde: Verily I saye unto you, one of you, that eateth with me, shall betray me.

And they began to be sorry, and to say: to whom is it? and another sayde, is it I?

He answered and sayde unto them: It is one of the twelve, even he that toucheth with me in the platter.

The sonne of man truely goeth as it is written of him: but woe to that man by whom the sonne of man is betrayed. Good were it for that man, if he had never been born.

And as they dyd eat, Jesus took bread: and when he had blessed, he brake it, and gave to them, and sayde: Take, eat: this is my body.

And he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he took to them, and sayde: Take, eat: this is my body.

And he sayde unto them: This is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many.

Verily I say unto you: I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day, that I drink it newe in the kingdom of God.

And when they had prayed [God] they went out into mount of Olives. And 27 And Jesus saith unto them: All ye shall be offended because of me this night. For it is written: I will slay the sheepeheard, and the sheepe shall be scattered.

28 But after that I am risen again, I will go into Galilee before you.

29 Peter saide unto hym: Although all men be offended, yet will I not.

30 And Jesus saith unto hym: Verely I say vnto thee: That this day, even, in this night, before the cocke crowe twice, thou shalt deny me three tymes.

31 But he spake more vehemently: no, if I should dye with thee, I will not deny thee. Lest whiles also saide they all, D

32 *And they came into a place which was named Gethsamani, and he saide to his discipes: Sit ye here, while I shall pray.

33 And he taketh with hym, Peter, and James, and John, and began to warre abasied, and to be in an agonie. D

34 And saide vnto them: *My soule is heavy, even vnto the death, tarry ye here and watche.

35 And he went sooth a little, and fell flat on the grounde, and prayed: that if it were possible, the houre myght passe from hym.

36 And he layde: *Abba father, all thynges are possible vnto thee, take away this cup from me. Neverthelesse, not that I wyll but that thou wyllst be done.

37 And he came, and founde them slepeing, and saide vnto Peter: Simon, slepest thou? Coudest not thou watche one houre?

38 Watch ye, and pray, lest ye enter into temptation: the spirite truely is redy, but the flesh is weake.

39 And agayne he went syde, syprayed, and hake the same wordes.

40 And he returned, and founde them a slepe agayne. For their eyes were heame: neither wist they what to awaide hym.

41 And he came the thirde tymes, & layde vnto them: slepe hencesseforth, and take your cale, it is enough: The house is come, beholde, the fonne of man is betrayed into the handes of sinneres.

42 Rype vp, let us go: Lo, he that betrayed me, is at hande.

43 And immediately whyile he yet spake, conneth Judas, which was one of the twelve, and with hym a great number of people, with adversaries, from the hye prieses, and scribes, and elders.

44 And he that betrayed hym, had geuen them a general token, saying: whofoever I do kysse, that same is he, take hym, and leaue hym alway barely.

45 And assonne as he was come, he goeth straightway to hym, and saide vnto hym: Baister, Baister, and killed hym.

46 And they layde their handes on hym, and toke hym.

47 And one of them that stood by, v

48 And Jesus aunswere, and saide vnto them: *Ye be come out as vnto a theefe vth hym, and with hym, and with hym with hym, for to take me.

49 I was dayly with you in the temple, teachynge, and ye took me not, but these thinges come to passe, that the Scriptures shoulde be fulfilled.

50 *And they all forsooke hym, & ranne away.

51 And there followed hym, a certaine young man, clothed in hymen vpon the bare: and the young men caught hym.

52 And he left his hymen garment, and fled from them naked.

53 *And they ledde Jesus away to the hysset pries, and with hym came all the hys prieses, and the elders, and the scribes.

54 And Peter followed hym a great way of, even til he was come into the palacie of the hys pries, and he sat with the sernamets, and warned hym selue at the hys.

55 *And the hys prieses, and all the counsell, bought for witnesse agaynst Jesus, to put hym to death, and founde none.

56 For many bare false witnesse agaynst hym, but their witnesse agreed not together.

57 And there arose certayne, and bought false witnesse agaynst hym, saying,

58 We heare hym say: *I wyll betray this temple that is made with handes, and within three days I wyll builde another, made without handes.

59 But yet their witnesse agreed not together.

60 *And the hys pries stoode vnto amongst them, and asked Jesus, saying: Arise, perceiue thou nothing: holde it is that these beare witnesse agaynst thee.
And one in the datyning, * the hye priests held a counsell, with the eiders, and the stribes, and the whole congregacion, and bound Iesus, and leved hym away, and deliered hym to Pilate.

2 And Pilate asked hym: Act thou the kyng of the Jewses: and he amnswered, and sayde unto hym: Thou sayest it.

3 And the hye priests accused hym of many thynge:

4 So Pilate asked hym agayne, saying: *Amnswerest thou nothyng? Scholde bothe many thynge theye witnesse agaist thee.

5 Iesus yet amnswered nothyng, so that Pilate marueilde.

6 At that feast, Pilate dyd deliuer unto them a pilou, whomsoever theye wolde deselle.

7 And there was one, that was named Barabbus, which lay bounde, with them that made insurrection: Which men had committed murder also in the insurrection.

8 And the people cryinge aloude, began to deliuer hym that he wolde do, according as he had orer done unto them.

9 Pilate amnswered them, sayinge: Wyll ye that I let loose unto you the kyng of the Jewes?

10 For he knewe, that the hye priests had deliuered hym of enemie.

11 But the hye priests moved the people, that he sholde rather deliuer Barabbas unto them.

12 Pilate amnswered agayne, and sayde unto them: *What wyll ye that I do unto hym, whom ye call the kyng of the Jewes?

13 And they cried agayne, crucifie hym.

14 Pilate sayde unto them: What wyll ye that I make hym to do?

15 And so Pilate, wyllinge to content the people, let loose Barabbas unto them, Math.17.6, and deliered by Iesus, when he had bounden hym, to be crucifie.

16 And the soldiers led hym away, into the hall, called Praetorium, and called together the whole bande of soldiers: And
And they clothed him with purple, and they platted a crown of thorns, and crowned him with thorns,

And began to salute him: Hail King of the Jews.

And they spat upon him, and took the reed, and laid it on his head, and bowed their knees, and worshipped him.

And when they had mocked him, they took the purple gown, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucifie him.

And they compelled one that passed by, named Simon of Cyrene, (being out of the field, the father of Alexander and Rufus) to bear his cross.

And they gave him to drink: but he rereceaved it not.

And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots upon them, what every man should take.

And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and they crucified him.

And the title of the cause was written: THE KING OF THE JEevES.

And they crucified with him two thieves: the one on the right hand, and the other on his left.

And the Scripture was fulfilled, which saith: He was numbered among the transgressors.

And they that were gone before, cursed him, saying: Aye, thou couldst destroy the temple, and build it in three days.

Save thyself, and come down from the cross.

Lyke wyse also mocked him the people, scoffing among them, with the,idles, and layde: he laude other men, hym selfe he can not falle.

Let Christ the king of Israel descend nowe from the cross, that we may see, and believe. And they that were crucified with him, cursed him also.

And when the sixth hour was come, darkness arotte over all the earth, until the synth hour.

And at the synth hour, Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying: Eloi, Eloi, lana sabachtain: which is, Ye interpretation it: By God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

And some of them that stood by, when they heard that, sayde: Behold, he calleth Elias.

And one ran, and signified a lunye fyn of vineger, and put it upon his mouth, and gave him to drink: neither did he receive it.

But Jesus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghost.

And the vynle of the temple rent in two partes, from the toppe to the bottome.

And when the Centurion, which stood before him, sawe, that he did cry, and gave up the ghost, he sayde: Truly this man was the sonne of God.

There were also women, which came with him from Galilee, which followed him, and ministered unto him: and many other women, which came vp with him into Jerusaleme.

And when the even was come, (because it was the day of preparing, that goeth before the Sabbath)

Joseph of Aramathia, a noble counsellour, which also loked for the kingdom of God, came, and went in boldely into Pilate, and begged of him the body of Jesus.

And Pilate marueyled that he was already deade: and calleth into him the Centurion, and asked of him, whether he had been whyle dead.

And when he knoew the true truthe of the Centurion, he gaue the body to Joseph.

And he bought a linen cloth, and took him downe, and wrapped him in the linen cloth, and layde him in a sepulcher, that was hewed out of the roche, and rouled a stone unto the doore of the sepulcher.

And Marie Magdalene, and Marie Jooses, behide where he was layde.
No where the Sabbath day was past, Marie Magdalene and [the mother] of James, Salome, bought sweete sandle and myrrh, that they might come and anoint hym.

And early in the morning, the third day of the Sabbath, they came into the sepulchre, when the stone was opened:

And they layde among them clothes, who shal rout it away the stone from the doore of the sepulchre:

And when they looked, they sawe how the stone was routed away, for it was a very great one.

And they went into the sepulchre, and sawe a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment, and they were amazed.

And he sayth unto them, be not amazed: ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucifed: he is risen, he is not here, behold the place where they had put hym.

But goe your way, and tell his disciples, and Peter, that he goeth before you unto Galilee, there shall ye see hym, as he faide unto you.

And they went out quickly, and fled from the sepulchre, for they trembled, and were amased: neither sayde they any thing to any man, for they were afraid.

When Jesus was risen early, the third day after the Sabbath, he appearead first to Marie Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils.

And he went and tolde them that were with hym, as they morned and wept.

And they, when they heard that he was alipe, and had ben scene of her, beleued it not.

After that, appeared he into two of them in another srounde, as they walked and went into the country.

And they went and tolde it unto the residue: and they beleued not these also.

Afterwarde, he appeared unto the eleven, as they sate at table, and call in their teeth their unbelieues and hardines of heart, because they beleued not them which had scene that he was risen againe from the dead.

And he sayde unto them: Go ye into Math. 18 d.

all the world, and preache the Gospell to all creatures.

He that beleueth, and is baptized, shall be saue:

But he that beleueth not, shall be damned.

And these tokens shall folowe them that beleue: in my name they shall cast out devils, they shall speake with newe tongues,

They shall take away serpentes: and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them: They shall lay their hands on the sick, and they shall recover.

So then, when the Loiske had spoken unto them, he was receaue into heaven, and sate hym downe on the right hande of God.

And they went forth, and preached euerywhere, the Loiske working with them, and confirming the Wordde with signes folowing.
The first Chapter.

And they had no chylde, because that Elizabeth was barren: and they both were nowe well striken in age.

And it came to passe, that when Zacharie executed the priestes office before God, as his course came,

According to the custom of the priests office, his lot was to burne incense, while he went into the temple of the Lord.

And the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, while the incence was burning.

And there appeared unto hym an Angel of the Lord, standing on the right side of the altar of incence.

And when Zacharias sawe hym, he was troubled, and fear came upon hym.

But the Angel saide unto hym: Fear not Zacharie, for thy prayer is heard: and thy Wife Elizabeth shall beare thee a sonne, & thou shalt call his name John.

And thou shalt have ioy and gladness, and many shall rejoice at his birth.

For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and shall neither dyne before nor strong dyne: and he shall be filled with the holy ghost, even from his mothers womb.
And many of the children of Israel shall he turn to their Lord, the God of their fathers; for they shall turn to the Lord with their whole heart, and with their soul, and with all their might, to seek him, and to serve him with gladness and with joy.

And he shall go before them, even the spirit and power of Elias; and to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just; that he may make ready a people prepared for the Lord.

And Zacharias said unto the Angel: Why art thou come unto me, seeing I am an old man, and my wife is barren, and of an age in years?

And the Angel answered and said unto him: I am Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God; and am sent to speak unto thee, and to give thee salutation of great joy.

And he said unto me: Why art thou sore troubled, Zacharias? for thy prayer and supplication is heard; and Gabriel is sent from before God unto thee, to give thee glad tidings of great joy.

And it came to pass, that when Zacharias came into the temple of the Lord in the order of the course of his office,

Then his wife Elisabeth conceived in her old age, and none could doubt her, and every day her soul magnified the Lord.

And the Angel answered, and said unto her: Fear not, Elisabeth; for thou shalt bear a son, and shalt call his name John: for he shall be great in the sight of the Lord; and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost from his mother's womb.

And Elisabeth arose in the fifth month, and opened her mouth to speak; and her tongue was loosed, and she praised God.

And she spake in prophesy, saying:

And the Lord hath done great things for me, and my soul shall magnify his name.

And his mother said: For he is great, and his name is blessed; and all generation shall call me blessed.

And his father answered, and said: For thou shalt make many glad, my daughter.

And he turned, and entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elisabeth.

And when Elisabeth heard the salutation of Mary, her soul magnified the Lord.

And she spake in her heart, saying:

And blessed is the fruit of thy womb, more than mine.

For the Mother of my Lord is come to me.

And blessed is the child of my sister, that is born before me.

And Mary went into the house of Zacharias, and kindled a lamp, and set herself to serve.

And she spake in prophesy, saying:

And his father Eliud answered, and said: For he shall be called the son of Noah.
him, from generation to generation.
51 He hath shewed strength with his arm, he hath scattered them that are proud in the imagination of their hearts.
52 He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree.
53 He hath filled the hungry with good things, and the rich He hath sent empty.
54 He helped his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy, 55 (Even as he promised to our fathers, Abraham and to his seed) forever.
56 And there was Mary above her about three months, and returned again to her own house.
57 Elizabeth's (that was Zaccur's wife) called that she should be delivered, and the thought saith a sonne.
58 And her neighbours, and her cousins heard how the Lord had shewed mercy very much by her, and they rejoiced with her.
59 And it came to passe, that on the eight day they came to circumcise the childe, and called his name Zacharias, after the name of his father.
60 And his mother auenterered, and said: not so, but he shall be called John.
61 And they sayd unto her: There is none in thy kindred that is named with this name.
62 And they made signes to his father, howe he would haue hym called.
63 And he asked for writing tables, and wrote, saying, his name is John. And they marrieed all.
64 And his mouth was opened immediatly, and his tongue loosed, and spake, and prophesied God.
65 And fear came on all them that hearde them: And all these sayings were mighty abode throughout all the holy country of Iudie.
66 And all they that hearde them, laide them by in their hearts, saying: What manner of child shall this be? And the hande of the Lord was with hym.
67 And his father Zacharias was full of holy ghost, prophesying, saying, 68 Prayed he in Iudah God of Irael, for he had visited his redeemed people.
69 And raster raysed by an home of salvation unto vs, in the house of his servant David.
70 Even as he promised by the mouth of his holy prophets, which were since the world began.
71 That he would spare vs from our enimies, and from the hande of all that hate vs.
72 That he would deal mercifully with our fathers, and rememder his holy covenant.
73 And that he would preserve the oath, whereby he swore to our father Abraham, to vs.
74 That we, being delivered out of the handes of our enimies, might serve him without feare.
75 All the days of our life, in such holy and righteousnes [as are accepted] before hym.
76 And thou shalt be called the prophet of the highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord, to prepare his wayes.
77 To give knowledge of salvation unto his people, by the remission of their sines.
78 Though tender mercy of our God, whereby the day spring from an high hath viseted vs.
79 To give light to them that sit in darkness, and in the shadowe of death, to guide our seete into the waye of peace.
80 And the childe grewe, and waxed strong in spirte, and was in utternesse till the day came when he should reveym hym selfe unto the Israelites.
Luke, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David,
5 To be tailed with Mary his espoused wife, which was with child.
6 And so it was, that while they were there, the days were accomplished, that she should be delivered,
7 And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.
8 There were in a certain country shepherds abiding in the field, watching their flocks by night.
9 And loe, the Angel of the Lord stood beside them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid.
10 And the Angel said unto them, be not afraid: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, that shall come to all people.
11 For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.
12 And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lain in a manger.
13 And straightway, there was with the Angel a multitude of heavenly hostes praising God, and saying,
14 Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, and good will to men.
15 And it came to pass, as soon as the Jæbusenes were gone away from them, into haue, the shepherds for the shepheardes, and the shepheardes for one to another, Let vs go nowe even unto Bethleuem, and see this thing that is come to passe, which the Lord hath shewed vs.
16 And they came with haste, and found Marie and Joseph, and the babe layde in a manger.
17 And when they had seen it, they publisht abroad the laying which was told them, of that childe.
18 And all they that heard it, wondered at those things which were told them of the shepheardes.
19 But Marie kept all these sayings, and pondered them in her heart.
20 And the shepheardes returned, praising and lauding God, for all the things that they had hearde and seene, even as it was tolde unto them.
21 And when the efpghth day was come, that the childe should be circumcised, his name was called Jesus, which was so named of the Angel, before he was conceived in the Womb.
22 And when the days of her purification, after the law of Moses, were accomplished, they brought him to Hierusalem, to present him to the Lord.
23 (As it is written in the law of the Lord: Every man that is begotten of the female, shall be called holy to the Lord.)
24 And to offer, as it is tolde in the law of Moses, a pair of turtle doves, or two young pigeons.
25 And beholde, there was a man in Hierusalem, whose name was Simeon: and the same man was full of the justitie of God, and looked for the consolation of Israel, and the holy ghost was upon him.
26 And a revelation was given him of the heavenly glory, that he should see the Lord's Christ.
27 And he came by inspiration into the temple: And when the father saw another brought in the childe Jesus, to do his will after the custome of the law, 28 Then take he hym vp in his armes, and praped God, and layde in:
29 Lord, nowe lettest thou thy seruant depart in peace, according to thy promise, 30 For mine eyes have seen thy salvation,
31 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people:
32 A light to be revealed to the gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.
33 And Joseph and his mother maruelled at those things which were spoken of hym.
34 And Simeon blessed them, and said unto Marie his mother: This childe is let to be the fall, and the lifting up of many in Israel, and for a sign which is spoken against,
35 And moreover, the Lord (c) shall make his soul an offering for sin, and in his name shall many hearts be opened.
36 And there was a prophetesse, one Anna, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher, which was of a great age, and had liued with an husband fiftie years from her virginitie.
37 And she had ben a widow about fourscore and four yeeres, which departed not from the temple, but serued God with fastynge and prayers night and day.
Eph And
And the, coming at the same instant upon them, confessed likewise the Lord, and spake of hym, to all them that looked for redemption in Hierusalem.

And when they had performed all things, according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their owne cite Nazareth.

And the chyld crede, and warde strong in spirit, and was filled with Wisdom: and the grace of God was upon hym.

Noble, his parents went to Hierusalem every where, at the feast of the Passover.

And when he was twelve yeare old, they ascended up to Hierusalem, at the custome of the feast day:

And wise they had fulfilled the days, as they returned home, the chyld Jesus abode ftyl in Hierusalem: for Joseph and his mother knewe not of it.

But they, supposing hym to have ben in the company, came a dayes journey, and sought hym among their kinfolke and acquaintance.

And when they founde hym not, they turned backe againe to Hierusalem, and sought hym.

And it came to passe, that after three dayes, they founde hym in the temple, sitting in the mydles of the doctors, hearing them, and poysoning them.

*And all that hearde hym, were astoyned at his understanding & amulfices.

And when they founde hym, they were amazed. And his mother laid unto him: Sonne, why haft thou thus dealt with vs? Beholde, thy father and I have sought thee, travayling.

And he lade unto them: Noble is it that ye sought me? Why ye not, that I must go about my fathers businesse?

*And they underfloode not that saying which he spake unto them.

And he went doubte with them, and came to Nazareth, & was obedient unto them: But his mother kepe all these sayinges in her heart.

And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God & men.

The thirde Chapter.

O. The preaching and baptism of John. 7 he baptizeth the hypocrites, &c.

6 And all flesh, shall see the salvation of God.

7 Then saide he to the people that were come forth to be baptiz'd of hym: O generation of vipers, who hath forewarned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bringing forth therefore due fruite of repentance, and beganne not to say within yourselves, We haue Abraharn to our father: For I saye unto you, that God is able of these stones, to rase by chyldre unto Abraharn.

9 Noble also is the (c) are layed into the (c) roote of the trees: Every tree therofore (which bygneth not foorth) good fruite, is hidden doubte, and cast into the fire.

10 And the people asked hym, saying: (c) what shall we do then?

11 He answereth, and saide unto them, He that hath two (c) coates, let him part with hym that hath none: and he that hath meate, let hym do likewyse.

12 Then came publincans (c) also to be baptized, and saide unto hym: Master, what shall I doe then?

And he spake unto them: Require no more than that which is appointed unto you.

The sordidousukebule demanded of hym, saying: And what shall we do? And he said unto them: Do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely, and he content with your wages.

As the people departed, all men mutt in their hearts of John, whether he were very Christ.

John answered, and said unto them all, "Indeed I Baptrize you with water: but one stronger than I commeth, whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose; he shall baptize you with the holy ghost, and with fire."

Which hath his name in his hand, & will purge his house, & will gather the wheat into his barn: but the chaff will burn with fire, that never shall be quenched.

And many other things, in his exhortation, preached he unto the people.

Then herode the tetrarch, when he was rebuked of hym for 3erodias, his brother Philippes prese, and for all the evils which hecde dy, Abed this above all, & shut up John in prison.

And it came to pass, as all the people were baptized, and when Jesus was baptized, and dyd præste, that the heaven was opened,

And the holy ghost came downe, in a bodily shape like a Dove, upon hym; and a boye came from heaven, which laybe, "Thou art my beloved sonne, in the I am well pleased.

And Jesus him selfe began to be about thirtie yeares of age, byng (as he was supposed) the sonne of Joseph: which was the sonne of Juda:

Which was the sonne of Mattha, which was the sonne of Leu, which was the sonne of Helch, which was the sonne of Zama, which was the sonne of Joseph:

Which was the sonne of Nathathan, which was the sonne of Simeon, which was the sonne of Lamech:

Which was the sonne of Nathusala, which was the sonne of Enoch, which was the sonne of Jard, which was the sonne of Selem, which was the sonne of Cainan:

Which was the sonne of Oren, which was the sonne of Seth, which was the sonne of Adam, which was the sonne of God.
The temptation and falling of Christ. 1. He overcometh the devills, and teacheth at Nazareth with great admiration of the people. 2. A prophet is despised, teaching in his owne country. 3. He healed the man possessed with a devill; 4. the devill confessed him to be Christ; 5. he healed Peters wyues mother; 6. he healed many of divers diseases; 7. the devill confesse Christ, and are of hym repoued; 8. and he preacheth through the cities.

Chapter.

1. Math. iii. a. Mark i. b.

Elus, being full of the holy ghost, returned from Jordan, 2. was led by the spirite into an high mountain, and there was tempted with divers lusts by the devill. 3. And the devill saide unto hym: If thou be the sonne of God, command that this stone be turned into bread. 4. And Jesus answered him, saying:

5. It is written, that man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. 6. And the devill taketh hym into an high mountain, 7. and showed hym all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time. 8. And the devill saide unto hym: All this power will I give thee, and with whom soever I will, I will give. 9. If thou therefore wilt fall downe before me, and worship me, thou shalt have all the same. 10. And Jesus answered, and saide before hym: 11. Hence from me, Satan: For it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and worship none other. 12. And he causeth hym to euerlast, and saide before hym: If thou be the sonne of God, cast thyself downe from hence. 13. For it is written, that he shall give his Angels charge over thee, to keep thee. 14. And in his hands they shall bear thee up, that thou dash not thy selfe at any stone against a stone. 15. And Jesus answered, and saide before hym: It is saide, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God. 16. And assisone as all the temptations was ended, the devill departed from hym for a leacons.

17. And Jesus returned, by the power of the spirite, into Galilee: 18. there went a fame of hym, throughout all the region rounde about. 19. And he taught in their synagogues, 20. and he came to Nazareth, where he was nurtured: and, as his custome was, he went into the synagogue on the Sabath day, and stood up to read. 21. And there was delivered unto hym the booke of the prophet Elias: 22. And when he had opened the booke, he found the place where it was written, 23. And to the synagogues, because he was anointed, to preach the Gospel to the poore he hath sent me, to heale the broken hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at libertie them that are bruised; 24. And to preach the acceptable yere of the Lord. 25. And he closed the booke, and gaue it a gsayne to the minister, and sat downe. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogues, were fastened on hym. 26. And he began to say unto the: this day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears. 27. And all bare him witness, 28. and wonderd at the gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth. 29. And they say, Is not this Jesus the sonne of Joseph? 30. And he saide unto them: 31. He sayd, that he shall say, because he saide, he is not this Josephes sonne; 32. And he saide unto them: Be ye blind, and certainly laye unto me this puonere, pith, on heal thy selfe: 33. and whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do we same here by thy selfe in thine owne country. 34. And he saide: Uerily I saye unto you, no prophete is accepted in his owne country. 35. But I tell you of a truth, many lye: 36. doves were in Israel, in the baptes of Elias, when heauen was shutte three moneths, when great sustumption was throughout all the lande: 37. And unto none of the was Elias sent, saue into Sarepta, a site of Sidon, unto a woman that was a lyddower. 38. And many lepers were in Israel, in the bapte of Elias the prophete: and none of them was cleane, sauing Naaman the Syrian.

And
And all they in the synagogue, when they heard these things, were spied with wrath:

They rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him even into the edge of the town: and they cast him out of the city, and stoned him. But the brethren brought him into a liberties, and he recovered of his stripes.

And they were astonished at his doctrine: For his preaching was with power.

And in the synagogue was there a man, which had an unclean spirit, and cried with a loud voice, saying: Doth thou come to destroy us? I know who thou art; even the Holy One of God.

And Jesus rebuked him, saying: Hold thy peace, and come out of the man.

And when the unclean spirit had entered into him, he came out of the man, and hurt him not.

And when they were come to him, they that were possessed with devils besought him that they might not depart from them.

And Simon anointed, and laid his hands upon them to sanctify them.

And when Simon Peter saw it, he fell down, and said unto him: Lord, depart from me; for I am a sinful man, and am not worthy that thou shouldest come under mine house.

And Simon anointed, and laid his hands upon them to sanctify them.
And it came to pass, that when he was in a certain city:

And it came to pass, on the second Sabbath, after the first, that he went through the corn fields: and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, and rubbed them in their hands.

And certain of the Pharisees said unto him: Why do ye that, which is not lawful to do on the Sabbath days?

And Jesus answered them, saying: Have ye not read what David did when he was hungry, he and they which were with him:

How he went into the house of God, and did eat the shewbread, and gave also to them that were with him, which was not lawful to eat but for the priests only?

And he said unto them: The Son of man is Lord also of the Sabbath day.

And it came to pass also in another Sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue, and taught: and there was a man, whose right hand was withered.

And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the Sabbath day: that they might find an occasion against him.

But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand: Rise up, and stand forth in the presence of them all. And he arose, and stood forth.

Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you a question: Whether is it lawful on the Sabbath days to do good, or to do evil; to save life, or to destroy it?

And he beheld them all, and said unto him: Stretch forth thy hand. And he stretched it: and his hand was restored again, as whole as the other.

And they were filled with madness, and communed together among themselves what they might do to Jesus.

C: He healed the captaine servants, the eart of the Centurion, he rapted by the woldwes some, he is confess to be a great prophet. John Baptist sent his discipules to Christ. Christs testimorie of John, he rebuketh the Jews for their unjustunices. he earthe with the parisee, the woman washeth his feet with her Tear.

When he had ended all his sayinges, in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum, and a certayne Centurion, which was deare unto hym, lay sick, and was in perill of death. And when he heard of Jesus, he sent unto hym the elizers of the Jews, beseeching hym that he would come, and heate.
And when they came to Jesus, they besought him instantly, saying, he is worthy that thou shouldest do this for him.

For he touched our nation, and hath built us a synagogue.

Then Jesus went with them. And when he was not farre from the house, the Centurion sent friends to him, saying, Lorde, trouble not thy selfe, for I am not worthy that thou shouldst enter under my roofe.

Wherefore I thought not my selfe worthy to come unto thee: but say thou the word, and I shall be whole.

For I also am a man, set under po

When Jesus heard these thinges, he maruell'd at him, and turned him about, and sayde to the people that stood about him: I sayd unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.

And they that were sent, turned backe home againe, and founde the seruant whole, that had been sicke.

And it came to passe the day after, that he went into a cite, which is called Nain: and many of his disciples went with him, and much people.

When he came nere to the gate of the cite, beholde, there was a dead man carried out, which was the only sonne of his mother, and she was a widow: And much people of the cite was with her.

And when the Lorde saw her, he had compassion on her, and sayde unto her: Weep not.

And he came nere, and touched the beere, (and they that bare hym stood still) and he sayde: Young man, I say unto thee, arise.

And he that was dead, sate vp, and began to speake: *And he deliuered hym to his mother.

And there came a lorde on them all, & they gaine the glory unto God, sayng: *Agreat prophet is risen among vs, and verily God hath visittd his people.

And this rumeour of hym went forth throughout all Israel, & through out all the regions which he comde about.

And the disciples of John, chewed hym of all these thinges.

*And John called unto hym two of his disciples, and sent them to Jesus, saying: Art thou he that shoulde come, or shall we take for another?

When the men were come unto hym, they sayde, John Baptiste sent vs unto thee, saying: Art thou he that shoulde come, or shall we take for another?

And in that same house, he cured manye of their infirmities & plagues, and of enuill spirits, and unto many that were blind, he gane sight.

Then Jesus answered, and sayde unto them: Go your way, and bying, Wode againe to John, what thinges ye have heare and seent, how that he bynde, etc.

Then he answered, and sayd unto them: Go your way, and bying, Wode againe to John, what thinges ye have heare and seent, how that he bynde, etc.

This is he, of whom it is written: *By the face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

For I sayde unto you, among womenes children, is there not a greater prophet then John Baptiste. Neuertheless, he that is lesse in the kyngdome of God, is greater then he.

And all the people, and the publicanes that hearde hym, *(a) delibered God, and were baptizd with the baptisme of John.

But the pharisees and lye of this generation, and what thing are they like?

They are like unto children, singing in the market place, and crying out to another, and laying: we have pyped into you, and ye have not dammed: we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

Mark iii. 32 For John Baptist came, neither teaching bread nor drinking wine, and ye say he hath the devil.

33 The same of man is come, and eateth and drinketh, and ye say, beholde a gluttonous man, and an [unmeasurable] drunker of wine, a friend of publicanes and sinners.

And no one is justified of all his children.

35 And one of the pharisees desired him, that he would eat with him. And he went into the pharisees house, and sat down to meat.

36 And beholde, a woman in that city, which was a sinner, assone as the kniwe that Jesus sat at meat in the pharisees house, she brought an alabaster box of ointment:

37 And fannie at his feet behinde him, weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and wiped them with the ointment, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

38 When the pharisee which had bathed him, saw he spake within himself, saying: If this man was a prophet, he would surely know who, and what manner of woman this is, that touched him, for she is a sinner.

39 And Jesus answered, and said:

Luke xdi. 2 And also that certain woman, which were healed of evil spirits, and infirmities, Mary which is called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils.

And Joanna the wife of Chuza he-rodes Stefan, and Susanna, many other which ministered unto him of their substance.

1 And it came to passe afterward, that he went into a certain city, and being preached thereunto, the kingdome of God, the twelve with him.

2 And also that certain woman, which were healed of evil spirits, and infirmities, Mary which is called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils.

3 And Joanna the wife of Chuza he-to hym: Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he saide: Master, say on.

41 There was a certain lender which had two daughters: The one ought two hundred pence, and the other fifty.

42 When they had nothing to pay, he forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them wilt thou love most?

43 Simon answered and saide: I suppose, that he to whom he forgave most. And he saide unto him: Thou hafte truly judged.

44 And he turned to the woman, and said: Simon, Scest thou this woman?

45 And at this time I entered into thy house, thou gavest me no water to wash my feet, but the host washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the herces of her head.

46 Thou gavest me no kylus: but she fente the tymne I came in, hach not asked to kylse my feet.

47 Wherefore I say unto thee, many sinnes are forgiven her: for the loved much. To whom leffe is forgiven, the same leffe is lorne.

48 And he saide unto her: Thy sinnes are forgiven thee.

49 And they that sate at meat with him, began to say within them selves, who is this that forgiveth sinnes also?

50 And he saide to the woman: Thy faith hath saved thee, go in peace.*
And some fell among thones, and the thones sprang up with it, and choked it.

And some fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit, an hundred fold. And as he spake these things, he spake: He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

And his disciples asked him, saying what manner of similitude is this?

And he said, Unto you it is given to know the secrets of the kingdom of God: but to other by parables, that when they see, they understand not; and when they hear, they understand not, and they be discouraged. The parable is this. The seed is the word of God. Those that are beside the way are they that hear; then committeth the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe, and be saved.

They on the stones, are they that which, when they hear, receiveth the word with joy; these have no roots, which for a while believe, and in time of temptation go abey.

And that which fell among thones, are they which, when they hear, go forth, and are choked with cares and riches and voluptuous living. And thy word is broken through patience. No man when he setteth a candle, couseth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a table, but setteth it on a candle-stick, that they which enter in may see the light.

For nothing is secret, that shall not come abroad: Neither any thing hid, that shall not be known, and come to light.

Take heede therefore, how ye heare. For whosoever hath, to him shall be given; and whosoever hath not, from him that have shall be taken even that same which he supposed that he had.

Then came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come at him for the crowd.

And it was told him, that there was an heart of many divers, feeding on an hill: and they besought him, that he would suffer them to enter into them: and he suffered them.

And there was there, an heart of many divers, feeding on an hill: and they besought him, that he would suffer them to enter into them: and he suffered them.

Then went the devil's out of the man, and entered into the swine: And the swine heard ran headlong with violence into the temple, and were choked.

34. When the headdmen saw what was done, they ran and when they were departed, they tode it in the city, in the villages.

35. Therefore they came out to see what was done, and came to Jesus, and found the man out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus: clothed, and in his right mind, and they were astonished.

36. They also which saw it, told them by what means he that was possessed of the devils was healed.

37. Then the whole multitude of the country about about the Sadarmites, besought him that he would depart from them, for they were taken with great fear. And he sent him away into the shippe, and returned backe agayne.

38. Then the man out of whom the devils were departed, besought him that he might be with him. But Jesus sent him away, saying:

39. So he went agayne to thine owne house, and sayd what things so euer God hath done for thee. And he went his way, and preached throughout all the city, what things so euer Jesus had done unto him.

40. And it came to passe, when Jesus was come agayne, the people receaued hym: For they all vapted for hym.

41. And beholding there came a man named Simon, which was a ruler of the synagogue, & he fell downe at Jesus feete, praying hym that he would come into his house:

42. For he had but one daughter only, upon a twelve yeeres of age, and the tap a dyng. (But as he went, the people thronged hym.)

43. And a woman, having an issue of blood twelve yeeres, which had spent all her substance upon phisitians, neither could be holpen of any.

44. Came behinde hym, and touched the hemme of his regment: and immediately her issue of blood staunched.

45. And Jesus sayde: Who is it that touched me? Whose every man dened Peter, and they that were with hym, sayde: Master, the people thrust thee, and beare thee, and layest thou, who touched me?

46. And Jesus sayde: Some body hath touched me: For I perceive that verie is gone out of me.

47. When the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and fell at his feet: and told him before all the people, for what cause she had touched him, and howe she was healed immediately.

48. And he sayde unto her: Daughter, be of good comfort, thy faith hath saved thee, goe in peace.

49. Whyle he yet spake, there came one from the ruler of the synagogues house, which sayde to hym: Thy daughter is dead, deseale not the Master.

50. But when Jesus heard that word, he was moved with discerne, and sayd: Fear not, only, he that made whole,

51. And when he came to the house, he suffered no man to go in with hym, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and the mother of the mater.

52. Every body wept, and sorrowed for her.

And he sayde: Where art thou, the dauid is not dead, but sleepe.

53. And they laughed hym to scorne, knowing that she was dead.

54. And he taketh them all out, and take her by the hande, and cryed, saying: Mayde, aryse.

55. And her spirite came agayne, and the sole straightway, and he commanded to give her meat.

56. And the father and the mother of her, were astonoved: But he warned the that they should tel no man what was done.

1. The Apostles are sent to preach. 2. Herode hearde of Chistie. 3. Finde thousande tolde with true loaves. 4. Divers opinions of Christ. 5. The confession of the Apostles. 6. The transfiguration of Christ. 7. Christ is to be heard. 8. The famine is healed. 9. The mislike of the Apostles. 10. They pray who should be greater. 11. None casting out devils in Chistie name. 12. The Samaritans would not receaue Christie. 13. The discipes desire benageance, and are of hym reproued. 14. Of those that would follow Christie, but after dierers sorte of loking bache.

2. And he sent them to preach the kyngdome of God, and to heale the sick.

3. And he sayde unto the: Take nothing to thy journey, neither stades, nor scrippe, neither bread, neither mony, neither.
neither have two coats.

4 And whatsoever house ye enter into, there abide, and thence depart.

5 And whatsoever house ye shall enter into, when ye go out of that house, shew the eun from your feet, for a testimo-

6 And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the Gospel, and healing everywhere.

7 And Herod the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him; and doubted, because that it was said of some, that

8 And of some, that Elias had appeared, and of some, that one of the old prophets was risen again.

9 And Herod said, John the Baptist: from what is it that I hear such things? And he desired to see him.

10 And the apostles returned, and told him all that they had done. And he took them, and spake unto them of the kingdome of God, and how he must be healed.

11 And when the day began to wear away, then came the twelve and sayde unto him: Send the people away, that they may go into the towns, and villages round about, and lodge, and get meat: for we are here in a place of wilderness.

12 But he said unto them: Go and ye shall eat: and they said: we have no bread but two loaves, and two fishes, except we should go and buy meat for these people.

13 And they were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples: Caution the to sit down by fifts in a companie.

14 And they sat down, and made all as many as might.

15 And he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, and blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples to give to the people.

16 And they did eat, and were satisfied. And there was taken up of that remained to them, twelve baskets full of broken meat.

17 *And it came to passe, as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him, and he asked them, saying: Who say the people that I am?

18 They answered, and sayde, John the Baptist: some say, Elias: and some say, that one of the old prophets is risen again.

19 He sayde by to them: But what say ye that I am? (Simon) Peter answered, and said: Thou art Christ, of God, the Son of the living God.

20 And he warned them, saying them, that they should tell no man that thing.

21 Saying: The some of men must suffer many things, and be reproved of the elders, and of the hie prelates, and scribes, and be slaine, and reck agayne the third day.

22 And he said to the all: If any man take a come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his crose daily, and folde me.

23 For Whosoever sayle his lyke, that lose it: But Whosoever sayle his lyke for my sake, the same shall find it.

24 For what can a man say: if a man say, Lo, the whole world, and lose his lyke for my sake, the same shall find it.

25 For what can a man say: if a man say, Lo, the whole world, and lose his lyke for my sake, the same shall find it.

27 And I tell you a truth, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the kingdome of God.

28 And it came to passe, about an eyght days after these sayings, he toke Peter, and John, and James, and went up into a montayne to pray.

29 And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenaunce was changed, and his gar-

30 And beholde, there talked with hym two men, which were Hophes and Elias:

31 That appeared in the manner, spake of his departing, which he should end at Jerusalem.

32 But Peter, and they that were with him, were behoyn with sepre: and when they aboke, they sawe his manner, and two men standing with hym.

33 And it came to pase, as they departed from him, Peter said unto Jhesus: Baister it is good being here for vs, let vs make thee three tabernacles, one for thee, one for Hophes, and one for Elias; and why not what he sayde.

34 Whyte he thus spake, there came a cloude, and were shadowed them: and hey feared when they were come into cloude.

35 And there came a bope out of the cloude, saying: this is my beare some, heare him.
34 And alloute as the voice was past, Jesus was founde alone: and they kept it close, and tolde no man in those days of any of those thynges which they habbed seen.

35 And it came to passe, that on the next day, as they came downe from the hilly, much people met hym.

36 And behold, a man of the companion-cried out, saying: Master, I beseech thee behold my sonne, for he is all I have:

37 And he, a spirit taketh hym, and so deadly he receieth, and teareth hym, that he someth againe, & with much paine departeth from him, when he hath rent
hym.

38 And I besought thy disciples to call hym out, and they could not.

39 Jesus answered, and said: O faith-

I be with you, and shall suffer you:
Byng thy sonne hyther.

40 As he was yet a communing, the fiende rent hym, and tare hym: And Jesus rebuked the duckene spiritte, and healed the chylde, and delucred hym to his fathre.

41 And they were all amazed at the marvillous power of God: But whye they wondered every one at all thinges which he dyde, he lade unto his disciples,

42 Let theставлен synges fincke downe your care: For it wyll come to passe, that the somere of man shalbe delucred into the handes of men.

43 But they wyll not what that Wodemeant, and it was hyde from them that they understode it not: And they fearde to ake hym of that synging.

44 They therfore arose a disputacion among them, which of them should be the greate.

45 When Jesusereaueth the thought of their hearts, he tike a chylde, and set hym haerde by hym;

46 And lade unto them: Whosoeuer re-caueth this chylde in my name, receaueth me: And Whosoeuer receaueth me, receaueth hym that sent me. For he that is least among you all, the same shalbe great.
The Lord appointed other seven, and sent them two and two before him into every city and place, wherein he himself should come.

Therefore saith he unto them: The harvest is great, but the labourers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers to his harvest.

So your wages: behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves.

4 Fear no man, neither stripe you, nor put you to prison: neither shall it be by the way. Into what house ye enter, first say, peace be to this house.

5 And if the house stand, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall turn to you again.

6 And ye shall eat your bread by the way, sitting in the houses of them which receive you, and will receive you not, depart ye.

7 And in the same town, eating and drinking, whatsoever ye shall need, the same shall give you, and whatsoever house ye enter into, say ye, Peace be to this house.

8 But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as they give you: and heal the sick in their streets.

9 And if ye enter into a house, let nothing of that house enter you, neither say ye, Peace be to another town: but that same thing spake to you: ye shall eat such things as are set for you: and he that feedeth you, shall feed you, and he that putteth you to bed, shall put you to bed.

10 But into whatsoever city ye enter, & they receive you not, go your ways out into the streets of the same, and say:

11 Even the very dust of your city, which we walked through, behold, it is appointed unto you for a testimony.

12 I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Sodom, than for that city.

13 Two into thee Chorazin, two into thee Bethsaida: if the miracles which were done in thee, were done in Tyre and Sidon, these shall come nigh thee with thunder and an earthquake.

14 But I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon, at the judgement of this generation, than for thee.

15 And thou Capernaum, which art exalted to heaven, shalt be cast down into hell.

16 For he that heareth you, heareth me: and he that despiseth you, despiseth me: and he that despiseth me, despiseth the Father that sent me.

17 And the seventy returned out of their journey, saying: The demons are subject unto us, through thy name.

18 And he said unto them: I saw Satan as lightning fall from heaven.

19 Behold, I give you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: nothing shall hurt you.

20 Nevertheless: in this rejoicing not, that the spirits are added unto you: but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven.

21 That same hour rejoiced Jesus in the spirit, and saith: *I am glad for you, O disciples of my Father, that you have seen things which I have not seen: these things shall be added unto you, but that same thing spake to you:*

22 All things are given me of my Father:

23 And he turned to his disciples, *saying secretly: Happy are the eyes which see the things that ye see.

24 For I tell you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them, and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

25 And behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying: Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

26 And he said to him: What is written in the law, how readest thou?

27 And he answered, and said: Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind: and thy neighbour as thyself.

28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right:
11 The reason of the parishes is to be avoided. 2 Who is to be feared. 3 To confede god's name, 4 to doe it. 5 Blaspheme against the pure. 6 Be comforteth the disciples against affliction. 7 and warneth them to beware of courtesies by the multitude.

41 And he spake unto them, the parishes & the pharisees began to be gone vehemently, to provoke hym to speak many thynges. 42 Layinge laphte for hym, and seeking to catche somethynge out of his mouth, whereby they might accuse hym.

The xij. Chapter.

1 The teuon of the pharisees is to be avoided. 2 Who is to be feared. 3 To confede god's name, 4 to doe it. 5 Blaspheme against the pure. 6 Be comforteth the disciples against affliction, 7 and warneth them to beware of courtesies by the multitude.

11 And when they bring you unto the synagogues, and unto the rules and officers, take ye no thought, neither what thyng ye shall amende, or what ye shall shall speake.

12. For the holy ghost shall teache you in the same house what ye ought to say.

13. One of the company spake unto hym: Master, speake to my brother, that he declive the inheritance with me.

14. And he spake unto hym: Dost, who made me a judge or a divider over you?

15. And he spake to them, Take heed of the babblers of out of countieries: For no man (yea standeth) in the abundance of the thynges which he possesses.

16. And he put forth a similitude unto the, saying: The ground of a certaine ymage man brought forth plentiful fruits.

17. And he thought within him selfe, saying, what shall I do, because I have no voldme where to deposite my fruities?

18. And he spake, this vyll I do, I will destroy my barnes, and builde greater, and therein vyll I gather all my fruities and my goodes.

19. And I will lave to my soule: Soul, thou hast much goods laped up (in store) so many yeres, take thyne eale, eate, drinke, and be merry.

20. But God spake unto hym: *Thou soul, this vyll I will they fetch alwaye thy soule againe for thee: *Then whole that all those thynges be, which thou hast poured:

21. So is he that gathereth riches to himself, and is not the wyse towards God, and is no the wyse towards his soule.

22. And he spake unto his discipules: Therefore I say unto you, take no thought for your lyfe, what ye shall eate, neither for the body what ye shall put on.

23. The lyfe is more then meate, and the body is more then rayment.

24. Consider the Balancers, for they neither loue nor reap: Which neither haue fowe house nor barne, and God feedeth them: and he loude much more are ye better then theye fools?

25. *Which of you, with taking thought, can add to his stature one cubit: If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least: why take ye thought for the remnaunt:

26. Consider the Lylipes how they growe, they labour not, they spaine not: and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his raiownd was not clothed lyke one of these.

27. If God so clothe the grasse, which is to daye in the fielde, and to innowde is cast into the furnace, howe much more vyll he clothe you, Oye of little faith?

28. And also not ye what ye shall eate, or what ye shall drynke, neither be ye of doubtfull minde:

29. For all these thynges do ye the [Heathen] people of the wyldle fette for: and your father knodeth that ye haue neede of these fruities.

30. But rather fette ye after $ kyngdome of God, and all these thynges shall be mi- lindered unto you.

31. Fear not little flete, for it is your fa- thers pleasure to give you a kyngdome.

32. Sell that ye haue, and gree alone:

33. And prepare you bagges which were not olde, even a fature that saffeth not in heauen, where no frite commeth, neither moth corrupteth.

34. For where your fature is, there vyll your heart be also.

35. *Let your topynes be gire about, and your lyghites shenynge,

36. And ye your fues like unto men, that waurre for ther Lodge, when he vyll returne from the Weddeng, that when he commeth, and knocketh, they maye open vnto hym immediately.

37. Happy are those terrnautes, who the Lodge, when he commeth, shall fynde wakynge. Verly I say vnto you, that he shall girdes him selwe, and make them to sit doune to meate, and vyll come forth, and minutter vnto them.

38. And if he come in the seconde watche, yea if he come in the thirde watche, and fynde them so, happy are those terr- nautes.

39. This undersande, that yf the good man of the house knew what houre the thiefe woulde come, he woulde surely watche, and not suffer his house to be digged through.

40. *Be ye therefore redy also, for yf some of man vyll come at an houre when ye thynke not. o

41. Then Peter saide unto hym: *Master, tellest thou this similitude vnto us, or to all (men)?

42. And the Lord saide: who is a faithful and wyldle stervarde, whom his lodge shall make ruler over his househode, to geue them their portion of meate in due seacon;

43. Happy is that terrnaute, whom his Aposelle Iodde when he commeth, shall fynde so doingye.

The Gospel

1 The xiij. Chapter.

1 Of the Galileans, 4 and those that were appalled at Siloe. 6 Of the sycamore tree that bare no fruit. 11 The woman having a spirit of infirmity beashed. 13 The hole of the Sabbath. 18 He declared by diets similitudes what the kingdom of God is. 24 If we enter into the kingdom of Christ, 32 He repouseth Herode and Hierusalem.

There were present at the same scene, certain men, that knew him of Galileans, whose blood Pilate hadde mingled with their old vine, facrifice.

And Jesus admonished, and sayde unto them: Suppose ye that these Galileans, were greater sinners than all the others Galileans, because they suffered such punishment?

I tell you naye: but except ye repent, ye shall all lykedely persyle.

But that ye are all persyle. A taxe B taine man had a sycamore tree planted in his vineyarde, and he came, and sought fruite theron, and founde none.

Then sayde he to the dresser of his vineyarde: Veholde, this tree pere I have come, and sought fruite in this sycamore tree, and finde none: cut it downe, why remaineth it the ground?

And he audmistered, and sayde unto him: Lord, let it alone this pere also, till I digge rounde about it, and doe it.

And ye bear fruite, thou shalt depart thence, thy ouer shall have made good the bynok nite.
24. Strype (c) to *enter in at the straute gate: for many I say unto you, Will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.
25. When the good man of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the doore, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the doore, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us: and he shall answer and say, I know you not whence ye are.
26. Then shall ye begin to say: We have eaten and drunken in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.
27. And he shall say: I tell you, I knew you not, whence ye are: depart from me all ye that work iniquity.
28. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and ye shall be *cast out.
29. *And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.
30. And behold, *there are last, which shall be first: and there are first, which shall be last.
31. The same day, came there certain of the pharisees, and sayde unto hym: Get thee out, and depart hence, for Herode will kyl thee.
32. And he sayde unto them: Go ye, and tell that hence, beholde, I cast out devils, and heale the people to day, and to morowe, and the third day I shall be perfected.
33. Nevertheless, I must walk to day and to morowe, and the day following: For it can not be, that a prophet perisheth any where else but at Hierusalem.
34. *Dierusalem, Hierusalem, Which kyllest prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee, holy often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her young under her wings, and ye would not.
35. Beholde, your house is left unto you, desolate. Verily I say to you, ye shall not see me, until ye shall see the signe come that ye shall say, *Reffes is he that commeth in the name of the Loide.
And it came to pass, that he went into the house of one of his chief pharisees, to eat bread on the Sabbath day: and they watched him.

And behold, there was a certain man before him, which had the dipsey.

And Jesus answered, and spake by to the lawyers and pharisees, saying: 'Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath day?'

And they held his peace. And he took bread, and blessed it; and brake, and gave unto them, and said: 'Take, eat; this is my body.'

And they understood none of these things: and they felt on him, and would have taken him; but they feared the people, and left him, and departed: neither did they in word report him.

But the Pharisees, being filled with malice, said unto themselves: 'Why do we not take this man to witness against him?'

And they sent demand to her husband, saying: 'Is it lawful to give a woman a bill of divorcement, and to put her away?'

But Jesus answered them, saying: 'He that is without sin among you, let him be the first to condemn her.'

Then said unto them Jesus: 'He that is without sin among you, let him be the first to condemn her.'

And he that had dipped his hand in the money bag lifted up, and said: 'This is not mine.'

Then said Jesus unto them: 'Let him that is without sin among you cast the first stone at her.'

And the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman which was taken in adultery, and in the presence of all, began to accuse her,

And said unto her: 'Woman, where are the things of thy husband? Answer me.'

But Jesus, being entered into the temple, driving out all them that trafficked therein, said unto them: 'It is written, My house shall be called a house of prayer: but ye have made it a den of thieves.'

Then said unto them Jesus: 'If any man come to me, and hate his father, or mother, or wife, or children, or brethren, or sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple.'

And whosoever shall follow me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.

And when they came to Jerusalem, he went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the temple; and when the buttock-sellers were in the temple, he cast them out, and said unto them: 'It is written, My house shall be called a house of prayer: but ye have made it a den of thieves.'

And the scribes and Pharisees began to persecuted him, and to say unto him: 'Thou hast cast out wicked spirits in the name of the主's, thou art no friend of the Pharisees.'

And Jesus answered and said unto them: 'Every plant, which my Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.'
The xv. Chapter.

C: The Pharisees murmured because Christ rendered sinners. 4 The great mercy of God is set forth in the parable of the lost sheep, and of the piece of silver lost, and of the prodigal sonne.

1. Then resolved unto hym all the publicans and sinners, for to heare hym.

And the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying: He receaueth sinners, and eateth with them.

3. But he put forth this parable unto them, saying:

4. "What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the baue- nek, and go after that which is lost, until he finde it?

5. And when he hath found it, he layeth it upon his shouder with joy:

6. And assonne as he calleth home his shouder, he calleth together his louers and neighboures, saying unto them: Rejoyce with me; for I have found my shepe which was lost.

7. I say unto you, that lyke lykevous toy shalbe in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more then over ninety and nine just persons, which neede no repentance.

8. Either what woman, having tenne pieces of curre, if she lose one of them, doth not light a candle, and waue the house, and slee diligently till she finde it?

9. And when she hath found it, she calleth her louers and her neighbours together, saying: Rejoyce with me; for I have found the piece which I had lost.

10. Lykevous I say unto you, hall there be joy in the presence of the Angels of God, over one sinner that repenteth?"
The Goellpell.

...and Joab answered, and said unto Joab, I will not leave thee; but as my lord the king appointeth, so shall I do. For my lord the king is wise, and will behold all that shall come to pass. Nevertheless, Joab said unto Abishai, ...

4 I wote what to do, that when I am put out of the stewardschippe, they may回收 me into their houses.

5 So, whiche he had called all his masters betteres together, he sayde unto the first: holde much owste thou out of my masters.

6 And he sayde, an hundred measures of oyle. And he sayde unto hym: Take thy oyle, and lyt downe quickly, and write siste.

7 Then sayde he to another: holde much owste thou: And he sayde, an hundred measures of wheate. He sayde unto hym: Take thy byll, and write foursorde.

11 No man can serve two masters: For either he shall hate the one, and loue the other: or els, he shall leaue the one, and desyre the other. Ye can not serve God, and Mammon.

12 All these thinges heard the pharisites, also, which were cautous, and they mocked hym.

2 Christ teacheth to continue in prayer, by the example of the wicked Judge and the widow. 10 The prayers of the Pharisee and the publican. 16 To children belongeth the kingdom of God. 18 Of the way to salvation. 20 And what things hinder the reward promised to his servants. 21 He foresaw his death. 22 He rejoiced a blind man to his sight.

10 Two men went up into the temple to pray; one a Pharisee, and the other a publican.

11 The Pharisee stood, and prayed thus with himself: O Lord, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or as this publican.

12 I fast twice in the week; I give tithes of all that I possess.

13 And the publican standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner.

14 I tell you, this man departed just when the publican returned home, rather than the other. 15 For every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted. 16 But Jesus, when he had seen that man, said unto him, Go home, thy faith hath saved thee.
And fell into them: * Behold, we go up to Hierusalem, and all things shal be fulfilled to the same of man, that are written by the prophets.

32 For he shalde delievered unto the gentiles, and shalt mocked, and spitefully entreated, and spit on:

And Jesus sayde unto hym: receaue thy right, thy fath hast laued thee; And immediatly he receaued his right, and followe hym, praysing God: And all the people, when they sawe it, gave praise unto God.

The xix. Chapter.

Of Zachaeus. 1: The ten pieces of money despenced to the servants. 28 Christ sypped into Hierusalem, a weeping over it, for the destruction thereof. 45 He easter yers and sellers out of the Temple.
And when they all said it, they murmured, saying that he was gone in to tarry with a man that is a sinner.

And Zacheus stood forth, and spake unto the Lord: Behold, Lord; the half of my goods I gave to the poor, and if I have taken from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold.

Jesus spake unto him: This day is salvation come to this house, because he also is a chief of the house of Abaihan.

And as they heard these things, he added and spake a parable, because he was not to Hierusalem, because they thought that the kingdom of God should shortly appear.

He spake therefore: A certain noble man went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to come again.

And he called his ten servants, and delivered unto them ten pieces of money, saying, Take, go into your several cities, and deal there as it shall please you.

And it came to pass, that when he had received his kingdom, and returned, he called his servants to whom he had bequeathed the money, and said unto them, I thought, when I sent mine unto you, I should have said, when thou takest a certain piece, lookest it, and layest it up until thou takest another which is six times as much: as thou hast, be thou content, but as thy Lord hath said, give it him not.

And he spake unto them: Of thine own mouth wilt thou judge thee, thou crude servant. Neekest thou that I am a stern man, taking up that I layed not downe, reapping that I dyed not sowe:

And whatsoever thou dost thou do in the day, and at my comings I might have required mine owne with vauntage:

And he spake unto them, saying: Take from him that is parted away, and give it to him that hath ten pieces.

And they spake unto him: Sir, we have none:

And he spake unto them: Go and make a feast to my Lord, and say, Thus saith thy Lord: Peace be among you.

And he came to pass, when he was come, to Bethphage and Bethanie, and was at the mount which is called Olivet, he sent two of his disciples, Saying: Go ye into the town which is over against you, into the white, and whatsoever ye shall find there, see that ye do it, and that is the Lord's cup at his hand.

And as they went, he commanded them, saying: Whosoever goeth to you, let him not say to them, I come to drink water: but whatsoever ye shall be assayed, saith, I come to ben do thy will, and thy son is a king.

And they brought him, and he said unto them: Behold, I have laid upon you the kingdom, and ye shall sell it and let their rayment on the coin, and let Jesus thron.

And as he went, they spread their clothes in the way.

And when he was made come into Bethphage and Bethanie, and was at the mount which is called Olivet, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice, and to praise God with a loud voice, for all the miracles that they had seen.

Saying: Blessed be the kyng that cometh in the name of the Lord, peace in heaven, and glory in the highest.

And some of the Pharisees and the chief priests took counsel against him.

And he spake unto them: I tell you, that if peace, and when he was come nearer, he beheld the crie, and wept on it.

42 Saying: If thou haddest known the things which be come to thy peace, even in this thy day: But noibe are they hid from thine eyes.

43 For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a banke about thee, and compass thee rounde, and hope thee in on every side;

44 And make thee even with 2 grounde, and thine children which are in thee: and they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another, because thou knowest not the time of thy visitation,

45 And he went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought,

46 Saying into them, it is written: By house is the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves.

47 And he taught daily in the temple: and the chief of the people, went about to destroy him, 48 And could not find what to do: for all the people stakk by hym, when they heard hym.

The xx. Chapter.

4 Christ speacheth the Pharisees mouthes with another question, who he wright their destructive by a parable of the vineyard. 17 Christ the sorne reproved, 19 the priests take to kill hym. 22 Tribute to be payde. 27 Gente to Caesar, and to God, whiche to them belongeth. 27 He disputeth with Sadurues of the resurrection. 41 Christ the soome of Davud, he describeth the seruants.

A

And it came to passe, that on one of those days, as he taught by people in the temple, he reached the Gospell, he spake to his people, and the seruants of God, and the seruets came vpbb hym, with the elders.

And spake unto hym, saying: Tell us by what authoritie dost thou these thynge? Either who is he that gathee this authoritie?

Jesus ansuwered, and sayde to them: I also wille the one thing, amensuer me.

The baptisme of John, was it from heauen, or of men?

And they reasoned within the seruens, saying, If we fast from heauen, he will say, Why then belongeth not hym not?

But and if we fast of men, all the people wolle stone us: For they be perswaded that John is a prophete.

And they ansuwered, that they could not tell whyt it was.

And Jesus ansuwered, and sayde to them: Neither tell I you by what authoritie I do these thynge.

Then began he to put forth to the people this parable, A certayne man planted a vineyard, and let it fortho to busbande men, and went hym selfe into a strange country for a great season.

And when the time was come, he sent a seruant to the husbande men, that they shoulde givene hym of the fruite of the vineyard. And they beat hym, and sent hym alway emptie.

And againe, he sent yet another seruant; and hym they did beat, and entreated hym shamefully, and sent hym alway emptie.

And when the husbande men sawe E hym, they reasoned within them selves, saying: This is the hepe, come, let us kill hym, that the inheritance may be ours.

And they cast hym out of the vineyard, and killed hym. What shall the Lord of the vineyard therefore doe unto them?

He shall come and destroye thehusbande men, and shall let out his vineyard to other. When they heard this, they sayde, God foiled hym.

And he beheld then, and sayde: What is this then that is witten. The stone, that the buiders refusde, the same is become the head of the corner.

Who soeuer这两 stumble upon that stone, halfe broken: but on who soeuer it faileth, it wille givene hym to powder.

And the lye paiesth & the seruets, the same... same hour went about to take handes on hym: and they feared the people.

For they perceived that he had spoken this similitude against them.

And they watched hym, and sent forth spies, which should saye them slues righteous men, to take hym in his works, and to deliever hym into the power and authoritie of the deputie.

And they asked him, saying: Master, we knowe that thou sayest and teachest right, neither considerest thou the outward appearance of any man; but teachest the way of God truly:

Is it lawful for vs to give tribute unto Caesar, or no?

He per ceaued their craftynesse, and saide unto them: Why tempt ye me?

Shew me a pence, whose image and superscription hath it? They shewed him, and sayde, Caesars.

And he sayde unto them: Give then unto Caesar, the thynges which belong unto Caesar, and to God the thynges that pertain unto God.

And they could not reproue his say nging before the people: and they marrie led at his aunswere, and helde their peace.

Then came to hym certaine of the scribes, which denying that there is any resurrection, and they asked hym, Saying: Master, why-sayest thou that Christ is Daubs sonne?

And David hym selfe sayeth in the booke of the plaines: The Lord saide to my Lord, thy sonne on my right hand,

Tell I make thine enimies thy foo de.

David therefore calleth hym Lord, and saith he is his (9) sonne:

And in the audience of all the people, he saide unto his disciples.

Belavre of the tribes, which is thyselfe, go in long robes, and love greetings in the markets, and the olde seated in the synagogues, and the chiefe roubles at feastes:

Which devour doiboves howles under colour of longe prapers: The same shall receaue greater damndation.

The xxj. Chapter.

The liberalitie of the poore tyboode. He was warneth of the destruction of Hierusalem. 8 of false teachers. 9 of tenes is troubles to come. 10 of the ende of the woode. 34 of rye and brokhemelle. 35 he taught in the temple.
5 And into some, that spake of the temple, holy it was garnished with goodly stones and figures, he sayde.

6 Are these the thynges whiche ye looke upo? The thynges bevill come, in which there shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown downe.

7 And they asked him, saying: Waister when shall these thynges be? and what signe lopp there be, when these thynges shall come to passe?

8 And he sayde: Take heed, that ye be not deceived. For many shall come in my name, saying I am Christ, and the pyne diadmed neare. Followe ye them therefore not.

9 But when ye heare of warres, and dis- tresses, be not afraid: for these thynges must stert come to passe, but the end followeth not by and by.

10 Then sayde he unto them: Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom.

11 And great earthquake shall be in divers places, and hunger, and pestilence, and fearsome thynges shall there be from heauen.

12 But before all these, *they shall lave their handes, and perfecute you, delurcung you to the synagogues, and into palons, and shall byng you unto kings and rulers for my names sake.

13 And it shall turne to you for a testimo- niall.

14 We at a sure point therefore in your heares, not to stode before what ye shall anw覆ere:

"I will give you a mouth, and prophesie, where agaiynst, all your aduertisers shall not be able to speake no resist.

15 For ye shall be betrayed also of your parents, and brethren, and kynsfolk, and friends, and fome] of you that they put to death.

16 And hated shall ye be of all men for my names sake.

17 And there shall not one heere of your head perish.

18 And there shal not one eare of your head perish.

19 Postell ye your soule by patience. And whie ye beleeve Hierusalem besieged with an haunted, then shere that the de- solation of the same is nere.

20 Then let them which are in Judea, flee to the mountaynes, and let them which are in the myndes of it, depart out: and let not them that are in other countreys enter them.

21 For these be the dayes of bengame, that all things which are written, may be fulfilled.

22 But woe unto them that are with childe, to them that have sucke in those dayes: For they shall great distresse in the lande, and woe over this people.

23 And they shall fall through the edge of the woode, and shalbe led alwayes captiue into all nations: And Hierusalem shalbe renuer doyntne of the gentiles, and the pyne of the gentiles be fulfilled.

24 And there shall be signs in the aunie, and in the moone, in the stars: and upon the earth trouble among the nations, with perperitie. The sea and the water shalbe roze.

25 And mens heartes shal sayle them for feare, and for looking after those thynges which shal sound on the woode: For the poyers of heaven shalbe shaken.

26 And then shall they see the some of man come in a cloude, with power and great gloie.

27 And when these thynges began to come to passe, then shalbe, and shalbe by your heades, for your redemptio dall- eth yne.

28 *And he shewed them a similitude: Beholde the figge tree, all the trees.

29 When they sounde fasth (there bode) ye see and knowe of your owne trees, that sommer is then yne at hande.

30 So likewise ye, when ye see these thun- ges come to passe, be ye sure that the pyngdomne of God is yne.

31 Uerly I say unto you, this generation shall not passe, eyll all be fulfilled.

32 Heauen and earth shall passe, but my Woodes shall not passe.

33 Heauen and earth shall passe, but my Woodes shall not passe.

34 Take heed to your soules, lest at any tyme your heartes be overcomne with lurtung and bockenne, and cares of this lyfe: and to the dape come upon you ynderaces.

35 For as a snake shall it come on at them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

36 Watche ye therefore, and pray continu- ally, that ye may be accustomed Watchy to escape all these thunges shall come, that ye may stand before some of man.

37 In the dape he taught in the temple: and at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called Olivet.

38 And all the people came in to hym, in the temple, to heare hym.
Then entered Satan into Judas, whose surname was Iscariot, which was of the number of the twelve.

And he went his way, and communed with the scribes and officers, how he might betray him unto them.

And they were glad, and promised to give him money.

And he consented, and sought opportunity to betray him unto them, when the people were alway.

Then came the day of sweete bread, when [of necessity] the passover must be offered.

And he sent Peter and John, saying: Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat.

They said unto him: Where wilt thou that we prepare?

And he said unto them: Behold, when ye enter into the city, there shall a man meete you, bearing a bucket of water, goe into the same house that he enreth in.

And ye shall say unto the good man of the house, the master hath sent me, where is the guests chamber, where I shall eat my passover with my disciples?

And he shall shew you an upper chamber, prepared, there make ready.

And they went, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover.

And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him.

And he said unto them: I have earnestly desired to eat this passover with you, before that I suffer.

For I say unto you, hereunto I say unto you, hereunto I will not eat of it any more, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

And he took the cuppe, and gave thankes, and saide, Take this, and divide it among you:

For I say unto you, I will not drinke of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God come.

And he took bread, and when he had gave thankes, he brake it, and gave unto the, saying, This is my body, which is given for you: This do in remembrance of me.

Lykewise also, when he had supplie, he took the cuppe, saying: This cuppe is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

And behold, the hande of hym that betrayeth me, is with me on the table.

And truly the sonne of man goeth as it is appointed: but who is that man by whom he is betrayed?

And they began to enquire among them selves, which of them it was that should do it.

And there was a strife among them, which of them should seeme to be the greatest.

And he said unto them: The kings of nations raigne over them, and they that have authorities before them, are called gracious lords.

But ye shall not be so. But he that is greatest among you, shall be the younger, and he that is chief, shall as he that doth minster.

For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meat, or he that serveth? Is it not he that sitteth at meat? But I am among you, as he that serveth.

Ye are they, which have bydded me in my temptations.

And I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my father hath appointed unto me.
30 There may eat and drink at my table in my house, and be my guests, and be my company, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before the rest, and passed me unto Jesus to kiss him.

48 But Judas said unto him, Lord, it is I. And when he had said that, he went forth again. And when he was gone out, Jesus said, One of you shall betray me.

49 And when they together about him, which would betray him, they said, Lord, shall he in the mouth of man with a kiss?

50 And one of them smote him with the reed of the mouth piece, and broke of his right ear.

51 Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus farce forth. And when he had touched his ear, he healed him.

52 Then said Jesus unto them, when I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no hands against me: but this is thy hour, and the power of darkness.

53 Then took they the hymn, and led him hymn, and brought him to the hypocrates house; and Peter followed a farce of.

54 And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the house, and were set down together, Peter also sat down among them.

55 But when a certain woman beheld him, she bare him a little while by mouth, and said, This same fellow was also with him.

56 And he denied him hymn, saying, Woman, I know him not.

57 And after a little while, another saw hymn, and said, Thou art also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not.

58 And about the space of an hour after, another affirmed saying, Truly this fellow also was with him, for he is of Galilee.

59 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately while he yet spake, the cock crowed.

60 And the Lord turned back, and said upon Peter: And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

61 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.

62 And the men that helde Jesus, mocked hymn, and smote hymn.

63 And when they had blindfolded hymn, they broke hymn on the face, and smote hymn, him, saying: Arise, who is it that smote thee?
65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against hym.
66 And as soon as it was day, the elders of the people, and the hye priests, and scribes, came together, and led hym into their counsel, saying:
67 Art thou the Christ, tell us? And he sayde unto them: If I tell you, you will not belieue:
68 And if I saye you, you will not auswer me, nor let me go:
69 Hereafter shall the sonne of man sit on the right hand of the power of God.
70 Then said they all: Art thou then the sonne of God? He sayde: Ye say I am.
71 And they sayde: What neede we any further witnesse? For we our selues have heard of his owne mouth.

The xxiii. Chapter.

1 Jesus is accused before Pilate, and is sent to Herode. 2 Herode mocketh hym. 25 Bar-rabas is set at libertie, and Jesus gведен to be crucified. 26 Simon of Cyrene. 27 The women lament Christ crucified. 34 he prayeth for his enemies. 40 One of the thieves rapeceth on hym, 41 and the other is staid by faith. 46 He generly by the ghost, and is buried.

2 *The whole multitude of them arose, & led hym unto Pilate.
And they began to accuse hym, saying: We founde this fellow perverting the people, and forbydding to paye tribute to Caesar, saying that he is Christ, a lyng.
3 And Pilate apposed hym, sayng: Art thou the king of the Jews: He answered hym, and sayde: Thou sayest it.
4 Then said Pilate to the hye priests, and to the people: I finde no fault in this man.
5 And they were the more fierce, sayng:
he moveth the people, teaching them to revolt against Caesar, and began at Galilee, cen to this place.
6 When Pilate hearde mention of Ga-illee, he alised whether the man were of Galilee.
7 And as soon as he knewe that he belonged unto Herodes jurisdiction, he sent hym to Herode, which was also at Jerusalem at that tyne.
8 And when Herode sawe Jesus, he was exceeding glad: For he was de-rous to see hym of a long season, because he had hearde many things of hym, and he trusted to have seene some miracle done by hym.
9 Then he questioned with hym many woudes: But he answered hym nothing.
10 The hye priests and scribes noode
sooth, and accused hym straightly.
11 And Herode with his men of warre defiled hym: and when he had mocked hym, he arrayed hym in hyppye clothing, and sent hym agayne to Pilate.
12 *And the same day Pilate and Herode were made friends together: For before they were at variance.
13 And Pilate called together the hye priestes, and the rulers, and the people, 14 And said unto them: Do you have brought this man unto me, as one y perverting the people: and behold, I examine him before you, and finde no fault in this man of those things whereof you accuse hym: 15 Do, or yet Herode: For I sent you to hym, and loe nothing worthy of death is done to hym.
16 I will therefore chasten hym, and let hym loose.
17 *For of necessitie he must have let one loose unto them at the feast.
18 And all the people cryed at once, saying: Ayday with hym, and budge to vs Barabas.
19 Which for a certaine insurrection made in the citie, and for murther, was cast in pyson.
20 Pilate spake againe to them, bypylyng to let Jesus loose.
21 But they cryed, sayng: Crucifie hym, crucifie hym.
22 He sayde unto them the third time:
what enuill bate he done? I finde no cause of death in hym, I will therefore chasten hym, and let hym go.
23 *And they were infant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified. And the voices of them, and of the hye priestes prevalied.
24 And Pilate gaue sentence, that it should be as they required.
The Gospel

25 And he let loose unto them, him that for inhumanity and murder was cast into prison, whom they had delivered [into them] Jesus, to do with him what they would.

26 And as they led him away, they caught one Simon of Cyrene, whom they compelled to carry his cross, that he might bear it after Jesus.

27 And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jesus turned back to them, and said: [Ye] daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for your fathers, and for your children.

29 For behold, the days will come, in which they shall say: Happy are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the pappies which never gave suck.

30 Then shall they begin to smart to the mountains, fall on us, to the hillocks, cower vs.

31 For if they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry?

32 And there were two crucil doers, led with him to be stryched.

33 [And after that] they were cometo the place which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the crucified doers, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

34 Then said Jesus, Father forgive them, for they know not what they do. *And they parted hisanielment, *and cast lobbies.

35 And the people stood, and behelde: and the rulers mocked him with them, saying: He saved other; [men] let him save himself, if he be very Christ the chosen of God.

36 The soldiers also mocked him, and came and offered him vinegar.

37 And said: If thou be the King of the Jews, save thy selfe.

38 *And a superscription was written over him, with letters of greke, and latin, and hebreue, This is the King of the Jews.

39 And one of the crucil doers which were hanged, railed on him, saying: If thou be Christ, save thy selfe and vs.

40 But the other answered, and rebuked him, saying: Fearest thou not God, seeing thou art in the same damnation we are righteouslie (punneth) for we receive according to our deeds: But this man hath done nothing amisse.

41 And he layde unto Jesus: Lord, remember me, when thou commnest unto thy kingdom.

42 And Jesus said: This day shalt thou be in paradise.

43 And Jesus said unto them: Truly I say unto you, to day shall thou be with me in paradise.

44 And it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the earth, but till the ninth hour.

45 And the sun was darkned, and the vayle of the temple was rent, even tho' rove the middes.

46 And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he layde: Father into thy handes I commnede my spirit. *And when he thus had layde, he gane by the ghost.

47 When the Centurion saw what was done, he gloried God, saying: Truly this was a righteous man.

48 And all the people that came together to that light, saw the thinges which were done, shone their vesseles, and returned.

49 And all his acquantance, *and the women that followed him from Galilee stood a farce of, beholding these thinges.

50 And behelde, there was a man named Joseph, a counsellour, and he was a good man, and a just.

51 The same had not consented to the counsel, and deede of them, which was of Iramathia a city of the Jews, which same also vapted for the kingdoms of God.

52 He went unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus.

53 And toke it downe, and wrappd it in a linen cloth, and layde it in a sepulchre that was hewn in stone, wherein no man before was layde.

54 And that day was the preparinge of the Sabbath, and the Sabbath drew on.

55 The women that followed after, which had come with him from Galilee, behelde the sepulchre, and how his body was layde.

56 And they returned, and prepared sweete odours and ointmentes; but rested the Sabbath day, according to the commandement.
At the first day of the Sabbathes, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre; and brought sweet ointments which they had prepared, and other women with them.

And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre,
And they went in: but found not the body of the Lord Jesus.
And it came to pass, as they were amazed thereat: behold, two men stood by them in glory garments.
*And as they were amazed, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them: Why seek ye the living among the dead?
He is not here, but is risen: Remember how he spake unto you, when he was yet in Galilee, Saying: that the sonne of man must be delivered into the hands of sinfull men, and be crucified, and the third day rise againne.
And they remembered his words,
And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto those eleven, and to the remnant.
*It was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of Jachob, and other that were with them, which told these things unto the Apostles.
And their voices seemed unto them sayned thynges, neither believed they them.
Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre, and looked in, and saie the linen clothes layde by them seules, and departed, wondering in him selfe at that which was come to passe.
*And beholde, two of them went that same day to a towne called Emmaus, which was from Hierusalem about threecro s furlonges.
And they talked together of all these thynges that were done.
And it came to passe, that whyle they communed together, Jesus him selfe drewe neare, and went with them.
But their eyes were holden, that they C should not knowe him.
And he sayde unto them: What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another as ye walke, and are sad?
And the one of them, whose name was Cleophas,answereth, and sayde to him: Art thou only a stranger in Hierusalem, and hast thou not known the thynges which are come to passe there, in these dayes?
He sayde unto them: What thynges?
And they sayde unto him: Of Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet, mightie in deed and worde before God, and all the people:
And holde the hye priests, and our rulers deliered him to be condemned to death, and haue crucified him.
But we trusted that it had ben he which shoulde have redeemed Israel: And as touching all these thynges, to day is even the thirde day, that they were done.
*Pea, and cerayne women also of our companie made vs asonmed, which came early unto the sepulchre,
And founde not his body, and came, sayinge that they had seen a vision of angels, which sayde that he was aigne.
And cerayne of them which were with vs, went to the sepulchre; and founde it empty so as the women had sayde: but hym they sawe not.
And he sayde unto them: O fooles and stolfe of heart, to beliue all that the prophets have spoken.
Ought not Christ to have suffered these thynges, to enter into his glory?
And he began at Moses, and all the prophets, and interpreted unto them in all Scriptures which were written of hym.
And they dwelt nye unto the towne which they went unto, and he made as though he would have gone further.
And they *constrayned hym, sayinge:"
Mark.xv.b. 30 And it came to passe, as he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them.
31 And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he vanished out of their sight.
32 And they sayde betweene themselves: Dyd not our heartes burne within vs, whyle he talked with us by the way, and opened vnto vs the scriptures?
33 And they rose vp by the same houre, and returned [agayne] to Ierusalem, and founde the eleven gathered together, and then that were with them.
34 Saying: The Lorde is ryzen in dede, and hath appeared to Simon.
35 And they tolde what thynges were done in the way, and howe they knewe him in breaking of bread.
36 And as they thus spake, Iesus him selfe stode in the midst of them, and saide vnto them: Peace be vnto you.
37 But they were abash'd and afaynde, supposed that they had seene a spirite.
38 And he sayde vnto them: Why are ye troubled, and why do thoughtes arise in your heartes?
39 Beholde my handes and my feete, that it is eu'n I my selfe: handle me and see, for a spirite hath not fleshe and bones, as ye see me haue.
40 And when he had thus spoken, he showed them his handes and his feete.
41 And whyle they yet believed not for joy, and wondered, he sayde vnto them:
42 Have ye heare any meate?
43 And they offered him a peecce of a bopled fish, and of an hony combe.
44 And he took it, and dyd eate before them.
45 Then opened he their ow[n] vittes, that they might understand the scriptures.
46 And layde vnto them: Thus is it written, and thus it behooved Chylde to suffre, and to rise agayne from death the third day:
47 And that repentance and remission of sinesse shoulde be preached in his name among all nations, and must begin at Ierusalem.
48 And ye are witnesses of these thynges.
49 And beholde I wil lende the promisse of my father vpon you: But tary ye in the cite of Ierusalem, untill ye be endued with power from an hpe.
50 And he led them out into Bethane, and left by his handes, & blessed them.
51 And it came to passe, as he blessed them, he departed from them, and was caried vp into heauen.
52 And they worshipped him, and returned to Ierusalem with great joy, 53 And were continually in the temple, praising and lauding God. Amen.

Here endeth the Gspell by Saint Luke.
The First Chapter.

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made. In him was life, and the life was the light of men. And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not. There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. He was not that light; but was sent to bear witness of the light. That light was the true light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. He was in the world; and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not. He came among his own, and his own received him not.

But as many as received him, to them gave he power to be born of God, even them that believe on his name. Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the肉se, nor of the will of man, but of God. And the same word became flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory, as the glory of the only begotten of the father), full of grace and truth.

And John bore witness of him, and cried, saying: This was he of whom I spake, he that cometh after me; for he was before me.

And of his fulness have we receaved, and grace for grace. For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ. No man hath seen God at any time: The only begotten Son which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

And this is the record of John: When the Jews sent priests and Levites... leaveth from Hierusalem, to ask to hym: what art thou?
20 And he confessed and denied not, and said, Playfully, I am not that Christ.
21 And they asked hym: What thinkest thou? And he saith, I am not.
*Art thou that prophet? And he answered, no.
22 Then saide they unto hym: What art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us: What sayest thou of the自我?
23 He sayde: *I am the bopep of a river in the wilderness; make straight the way of the Lord, *as sayde the prophet Elias.
24 And they which were sent, were of the pharisees.
25 And they asked hym, and sayde unto hym: Why baptiseth thou then, yf thou be not Chuite, nor Elias, neither that prophet?
26 John answered them, saying: *I baptize with water, but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not.
27 He it is, which though he came after me, was before me, whose shoes lest I am not worthy to bind.
28 These things were done in Bethabara beyond Jordan, *where John dyd baptize.
29 On the next day, John seeth Jesus comming unto him: and faith, *Behold the lamb of God, which taketh away the sinne of the world.
30 This is he of whom I sayde, After me commeth a man, which is preferred before me, so he was before me.
31 And I knew hym not: but that he should be declared to Israel, therefore am I come, baptizing with water.
32 *And John bare recorde, saying: I saw the spirit descend from heaven, like unto a dove, and abode upon hym.
33 And knew hym not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same sawe upon me: upon whom thou shalt see the spirit descend, and tary stille on hym, the same is he which baptizeth with the holy ghost.
34 And I sawe, and bare recorde, that he is the sonne of God. *s 35 The next day after, John strode againe, and two of his disciples.
36 And he behelde Jesus as he walked by, *saying: behold the lambe of God.
37 And the two disciples hearde hym speak, and they followed Jesus,
38 And Jesus turned about, and saide them following hym, *saying unto them: what seek ye? *They sayde unto hym: Rabbi (which is to say by one interpret it, Master) where dwelleth thou?
39 He sayde unto them: come and see. They came, and sawe where he dwelt, and abode with hym that day: for it was about the tenth hour.
40 One of the two which hearde John speak, *following hym, was Andrew, Simon Peters brother.
41 The same founde his brother Simon first, and saide unto hym: we have founde Messias, which is by interpretation, the Christ.
42 And brought hym to Jesus. And Jesus behelde hym, and sayde: Thou art *Simon the sonne of Jona, thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone.
43 The day followyng, Jesus woulde goe into Galilee, *founde Philip, and saide: *Follow me, follow hym, follow hym, follow hym, follow hym, follow hym.
44 *Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.
45 Philip founde Nathanael, and saide unto hym: we have founde Messias, of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets, dyd wittese: Jesus of Nazareth, the sonne of Joseph.
46 And Nathanael sayde unto hym: *Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip sayde unto hym: come and see.
47 Jesus found Nathanael coming unto hym, *saying unto hym: Behold a righteous Israelite, in whom is no guile.
48 Nathanael sayde unto hym: whence knoweth thou me? Jesus answered, and saide unto hym: Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the sygge tree, I sawe thee.
49 Nathanael answered, and saide unto hym: Rabbi, thou art even the sonne of God, thou art the sonne of God, thou art the sonne of God, thou art the sonne of God, thou art the sonne of God, thou art the sonne of God.
50 Jesus answered, *saide unto hym: Because I sayde unto thee, I saw thee under the sygge tree, thou onely believed. Thou shalt see greater things then these.
51 And he sayde unto hym: Verely, verily I saye unto you, hereafter shall ye see heaven open, and the Angels of God ascending and descending upon the sonne of man.
Thrice begateth to work miracles, and turned water into wine, 12 he went to Capernaum, and to attendeth to Hierusalem. 14 he calleth bispers and sellers out of the temple, & he forewarneth his death and resurrection, 15 and many believe in him when they see his miracles.

And the third day, was there a marriage in Cana [a citie] of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there. And Jesus was called, and his disciples unto the marriage.

And whilst the wyne savel the mother of Jesus savel to hyn: they have no wyne.

Jesus saith unto her: Woman, what have I to do with thee, myne house is yet not yet come.

And there were set there, three water pottes of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three batins a piece.

Jesus saith unto them: Fill the water pottes with water. And they filled them up to the hyn.

And he saith unto them: drink ye out of water, and beare unto the governour of feast. And they bare it.

When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wyne, and knewe not whence it was (but the ministers which drebew the water knewe) the governour of the feast calleth the bypedgrone:

And saith unto hyn. Every man at the beginnyng both set southe good wyne, and when men have well dronke, then that which is worse: But thou hast kept the good wyne until nowe.

This beginnyng of miracles dyd Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and shewed his glory, & his disciples beleued on hym.

After this, he went doctoe to Capernaum, he, and his mother, and his brethen, and his disciples, and there continued not many dayes.

And the Jews Pasover was at hand, 7 Jesus went up to Hierusalem.

And founde setting in the temple, thole that sold ore, and thepe, and doues, and chaungers of money.

And when he had made as it were, a scourge of small cordes, he drove them all out of the temple, with the theape, the ore, and pouzed out the chaungers money, and ouerthrew the tables.

And sade unto them that sold doues: Have these thinges hence, and make not my fathers houle an houle of mar-chandize.

And his disciples remembered that it was written: The salr of thine houle hath even eaten me.

Then annulerust the Jews, & sayde unto hym: What token wert thou done unto vs, seeing that thou dost these things?

Jesus annulerast, & sayde unto them: *Destrue this temple, & in three dayes will I recreate it by."

Then sayde the Jews, fourtie and fere peres was this temple a buldying, and wolt thou recreate it by in three dayes?

But he spake of the temple of his body.

Alone therefore, as he was riven from death againe, his disciples remembered that he thus had sayde: And they beleued the scripture, & the wyodes which Jesus had sayde.

When he was in Hierusalem at the Pasover, in the feast day, many beleued on his name, when they sawe his miracles which he dyd.

But Jesus dyd not commit hym selfe unto them, because he knewe all men.

And needed not, that any shouldbe testifie of man: For he knewe what was in man.

The 11th Chapter.

11 Chapter.

There was a man of the pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews.

The same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him: Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man could do these miracles that thou doest, except God were with thee.

Jesus answered: Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

Nicodemus saith unto him: How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter into his mother's womb, and be born again?

Jesus answered: Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

That which is born of the flesh is flesh: and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.

Maruaple not thou that I say to thee, ye must be born again.

The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearst the sound thereof; but cannot tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth. So is every one that is born of the Spirit.

Nicodemus answered, and said unto him: How can these things be?

Jesus answered: Art thou a master of Israel, and knowest not these things?

Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

If thou hast borne children, why dost thou marvel that I have borne one? But as thy father criest: He who is born after the flesh is flesh, and he who is born after the Spirit is spirit.

And no man can receive this doctrine, except he be born again.

And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up:

That whosoever believeth in him may have eternal life;

15 For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that all who believe in him might have eternal life; 16 because the Son of God was given for all mankind, that they may believe and receive eternal life.

17 For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world: but that the world through him might be saved.

18 He that believeth in him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

19 And this is the condemnation: that men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.

20 For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved.

21 But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they may be esteemed true, which he hath done.

22 After these things, Jesus and his disciples went into the land of Judea, and there dwelt;

23 And John also was baptizing in Enon, beside Jerusalem, because there was much water there: and they came, and were baptized.

24 For John was not yet cast into prison.

25 And there arose a question between John's disciples and the Jews, about purifying.

26 And they came unto John, and said unto him: Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, whom thou didst know, beholds the same baptizeth, and all men come to him.

27 John answered, and said: A man can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven.

28 Ye yourselves bear witness that it is true: for I say nothing of my own: but as the Father taught me, I spake.

29 He that hath heard and hath not believed, is condemned: he that hath not heard, and believe, is condemned.

30 He that receiveth my word, and believeth him that sent me, hath eternal life: he that believeth not is condemned already.

31 He that receiveth my word, and believeth him that sent me, hath eternal life.
And what he hath seen and heard, that he testifieth: and no man receiveth his testimony.

He that hath receiveth his testimony, hath testifieth, that God is true.

For he whom God hath sent, speaketh the words of God: *For God giveth not the spirit by measure unto hym.

The father loveth the sonne, *and Luke hath gien all things into his hands.

*He that beleeueth on the sonne, hath eternall luyfe: *he that beleeueth not the sonne, shall not see luyfe, but the wrath of God abideth on hym.

The iiiij. Chapter.

7 Christ wered, at eth watter of the woman of Samaria, *The litle watter. 24 He reacheueth trie worshipppe. 26 He confesst hym selfe to be Messias. 29 The woman breueth the citiizens that Christ is come. 30 The Samaritane beueth Chyist. 45 Chyist is reaueth of the Galilias. *He heaueth f rulers sonne.

Soone as the Lord knew, bow the pharisies had heaued that Jesus made and baptizd no disciples then John.

(Though thout John) heaueth hym selfe baptizd not, but his disciples: *he leaueth Jurie, and departed agayne into Galilee.

For (it was to that) he must needs go through Samaria.

Then caueth he to a city of Samaria, which is called Siichar, besides the possession that Jacob gaue to his sonne Joseph.

And there was Jacobs well. Jesus then beueng very of his journey, sat thus on the well. And it was about the 5te houre: 7 And there caueth a woman of Samaria to drawe watter: Jesus saueth her, gie me dryke.

For his disciples were gone alwaie, but to the towne to byre meate.

Then saueth the woman of Samaria unto hym: bowe is it, that thou beueng a Jewe, askest dryke of me, which am a Samaritane: *For the Jewes meddle not with the Samaritane.

Jesus saueth, and saueth unto her: pyt thou knowest the gyst of God, a bbb it is that thyeth to thee give me dryke, thou wouldest have afked of hym, and he woulde haue geuen thee watter of lyfe.

The woman saueth unto hym: *She, bowe hast nothing to drawe with, and the well is deep: from whence then haue thou that water of lyfe?

Art thou greater then our father Jacob, which gaueth the well, and he hym selfe dranke therof, and his chyldren, and his cattell?

Jesus saueth, and saueth unto her: Whose ouer dryketh of this watter, shall thyfe sting agayne: 14 But whose ouer dryketh of the watter that I shall gauethe hym, shall neuer be nore a thyfe: but the water that I haue gaueth him, shall in hym a well of water, springing by into eternall luyfe.

The woman saueth unto hym: *She, gie me of that water, that I thyfe not, not, neither come hither to drabbe.

Jesus saueth unto her: Go, call thy hune, and come hither.

The woman saueth, and saueth unto hym: *I haue no hunbe, Jesus saueth unto her: Thou haft well saueth, I haue no hunbe.

For thou hast had five hunbeades, and he whom thou now hast, is not thy hunbeade. In that saueth thou truly.

The woman saueth unto hym: *She, *I perceaueth that thou art a prophyete.

Our fathers worshipppe in this mountayne, and ye say that in Hierufalcm is the place, where men ought to worshippe.

Jesus saueth unto her: Woman beleue me, the house commeth, when ye shall neither in this mountayne, noz yet at Hierufalcm, worshipppe the father.

We worshipppe ye were not what, We knowe what we worshipppe: *For saluation eexod.xxe.xeption commeth of the Jewes.

But the house commeth, and no file is, when the trew worshipppees, shall worshipppe the father in spiritte, and in the truth: For heu that the father also requireth to worshipppe hym.

God is a spiritte, and they that Worshipppe hym in spiritte, D 25 The woman sayeth unto him, I know that that which is called Christ, when he is come, he will tell us all things.
26 Jesus saith unto her, I that speake unto thee, art he.
27 And immediately came his disciples, and marveled that he talked with the woman: Yet no man said, What seest thou, or why talkest thou with her?
28 The woman then left her water pot, and went her way into the city, a latter to the men.
29 Come, see a man which tolde me all things that ever I dyd: Is not he Christ?
30 Then they went out of the city, and came into hym.
31 In the mean while his disciples played hym, saying: Master, eat.
32 He saide unto them: I have meate to cafe that ye wot not of.
33 Therefore saide the disciples among them selves: Hath any man brought hym ought to eate?
34 Jesus saith unto them: My meate is to do the will of hym that sent me, and to finifh his workes.
35 Say not ye, there are yet sone moneathes, and then commeth harreffe: He holdeth, I laye before you, lyft by your eyes, and loke on the regions: for they are whyle alreadie into harreffe.
36 *And he that reapeth, recaapeth wages, and gathereth fruite into the earthens: that both he that soweth, and he that reapeth, maye reioyece
together.
37 For here is the saying true, that one soweth, and another reapeth.
38 I sene you to reappe that, whereon ye beholded no laboure. Other men laboured, and ye are entered into their labours.
39 Many of the Samitarines of that city believed on hym, for the saying of the woman, which tolde that he tolde her all that ever she dyd.
40 So, when the Samitarines were come into hym, they behought hym that he would tarry with them: And he abode there two dayes.

41 And many no beleued, because of his owne worde.
42 And layde unto the woman: Noble, we beleue, not because of thy sayinge: for we have heard hym our selues, and know that this is euere Christ, the lument of the worlde.
43 After two dayes he departed there and went (away) unto Galile.
44 *For Jesus hym selle testifie, that a prophete hath none honour in his owne country.
45 Then, assone as he was come into Galile, the Galileans receaund hym, when they had seen al the thynges that he dyd at Jerusalem, at the day of the feast. For they went alfo unto the feaf day.
46 So Jesus came agayne into Cana of Galile, where he turned the water into wyne. And there was a cerayne ruler, whose sone was sick at Capera num.
47 Assone as the same hearde that Je us was come out of Judie into Galile, he went unto hym, and befough hym that he woulde come downe, and heale his sone: For he was wery at the point of death.
48 Then saide Jesus into hym: except ye fee synes and wonderes, ye wyll not beler.
49 The ruler sayeth unto hym: Say come downe ye, euere that my sone dy.
50 Jesus saith unto hym: So thy way, yth thy sone lythe. The man beleued the wyde that Jesus had spoken unto hym, and he went his way.
51 And as he was novee going downe, the terruynes met hym, and tolde hym,
sayng, thy sone lythe.
52 Then enquire he of them the hour, when he began to amende. And they sayde unto hym: Yesterday at the fourth thour, the feuer left hym.
53 So the father kneele, that it was the same thour, in the thich Jesus sayde to hym the sone lythe: *And he belered, and all his househilde.
54 This is agaynde the seconde maracre, that Jesus dyd, when he was come out of Judie into Galile.
After this, there was a feast day of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. And there is at Jerusalem by the sheep market, a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches. In which lay a great multitude of sick folk, of both sides, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water. For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and stirred up the water; whoever then first got into the pool after the stirring of the water was made whole of whatsoever disease he had. And a certain man was there, which had been diseased thirty and eight years. When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had already lain there a long time, he said to him: Wilt thou be made whole? The sick man answered him: Sir, I have no man when the water is stirred up to put me into the pool: but while I am about to come another stepeth down before me. Jesus saith unto him: Rise, take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked. And the same day was the Sabbath. The Jews therefore said to him: It is the Sabbath, and he is in the pool. But he answered them: That which is born of the water is born into water, for the water is not able to cleanse that which is defiled by the spirit of God. And they answered him: Art thou greater than our father Joshua, which brought them out of the land of Egypt? And he answered them: My Father worketh even to this day, and I work. For this cause the Jews sought the more to kill him, because he not only did these things on the Sabbath, but also said that God was in himself. Therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him, because he not only said that God was in himself, but also said, Whereunto I was born, and my mother conceived me. But there was among the Greeks among them that sought to come unto the feast: These spake unto Philip and said: We would see Jesus. ThenPhilip goeth and telleth unto Andrew: Andrew goeth and telleth to Simon Peter. And Simon Peter and Andrew goeth and telleth to Jesus. And Jesus answereth: What would ye that I do for you? They say unto him: Lord, we would that thou shouldest make us to sit in thy kingdom. But Jesus saith unto them: You know not what you ask. Of what sort of kingdom will you that I make you sit, of this sort? They say unto him: Lord, we will that thou make us to sit in thy kingdom, like as thou hast set before us them that sit with thee on thy right hand, and on thy left hand. Jesus saith unto them: You shall drink of the cup that I shall drink, and be baptized with the baptism that I shall be baptized with, except you love one another, you shall not sit in my kingdom.

10 Christ fedeth his choulds with socks and two fishes. 15 The people would have made hym king. 19 He wasshing the feet, followed the disciples which were troubled in a ditch with a great tempel. 26 They see Christ, to be sedde. 29 Faith is the work of God. 30 They ask signes and wonders. 31 Of the bread of life. 40 Of faith. 66 The carnall are offended at hym. 67 Some of his disciples offended, for sake hym. 69 The apostles confess hym to be the søone of God. 71 Judas is a devil.

1 After these thynges, * Jesus went his voyage over the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Liberias.

And a great multitude followed hym, because they sawe his miracles which he dyd on them that were diseased.

And Jesus went in to a mountayne, there he sat with his disciples.

And the Passover, a feast of sods, was nye. 5 When Jesus then lyft his eyes, and sawe a great company come unto hym, he saith unto Philip: Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?

(Thys he saide to yowre hym: for he hym lyfte knoue what he wold do.)

7 Philip answereth hym: * Two hundred pence worth of bread are not sufficient for them, that every man may take a little.

3 One of his disciples, Andrew, * Simon Peteres brother, sayth unto hym:

9 There is a little ladde here, which hath fyve barly loaves and two fishes, but what are they among so many?

10 And Jesus saide: Make the people sit doon. There was much grass in the place. So the men fete doon, in number about fyue thousand.

11 And Jesus toke the bread, and when he hadde thankedes, he gave to the disciples, and the disciples to them, they were set doon, and lykedysse of the fysh, as much as they woulde.

12 When they had eaten enough, he saide unto unto his disciples: Gather by the broke meat that remaineth, that nothing be lost. 18 And they gathered it together, & filled twelve baskets with the broken meat of the five barley loaves, which (broken meat) remainned unto them that had eaten.

14 Then those men, when they had seene the miracle that Jesus did, said: This is of a truely the same prophet that should come into the world. 15 When Jesus therefore perceived, that they would come and take him to make him king, he departed againe into a mountain hym self alone.

16 And when even was novide come, his disciples went downe into the sea. 17 And gat by into a shippe, and went ouer the sea, towards Capernaum: And it was novide barke, and Jesus was not come to them. 18 And the sea arose, with a great wynde that blew.

19 So, when they had rowed about xvi. or xvi. furlongs, they sawe Jesus walking on the sea, and daylingnere into the shippe, and they were afraide. 20 But he saith unto them: Iet is I, be not afraide.

21 And they Wythlyngly receaue hym into the shippe, and immediately the shippe was at the lande Wythere they went.

22 The day solloving, when the people, while they stode on the other side of the sea, saue that there was none other shippe there, saue that one whereinto his disciples were entered, and that Jesus went not in with his disciples into the shippe, but that his disciples were gone away alone:

23 Howbeit there came other shippes fro Theras, yne into the place, where they dyd eate bread, after that the Lord had given thankes. 24 When the people therefore sawe that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also toke shipping, and came to Capernaum, sollyng fro Jesus.

25 And whe they had sounded hym on the other side of the sea, they lade him ynto, Rabbi, when cannet thou sollyze: Jesus answered them, and saide: 26 Verly verly I saye you, ye seke me, not because ye haue the miracles, but because ye dyd eate of the loaves, & were fylled.

27 Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that which endureth; into everlasting luy, which [meate] the some of man shall gene unto you: For hym hath God the father seased.

28 Then saide they unto hym: What shall we do, that we might worke? 29 Jesus answered, & saide unto them: This is the worke of God, that ye believe on hym whom he hath sent.

30 They said therefore unto hym: What signe will thou then, by we may see, & believe thee: What doest thou woorke? 31 Our fathers dyd eate manna in the desert, as it is written: Be gave them *bread from heauen to eate.

32 Then Jesus said unto them: Verly verly I saye you, Peoples gave you not bread fro heaven, *but my father geneth you a true bread fro heauen.

33 For the bread of God, is he which co-neth doynne from heauen, and geneth luyse into the world. 34 Then saide they unto hym: Lore, evermore gene vs this bread.

35 And Jesus saide unto them, I am the bread of life: He that commeth to me, shall not hunger: and he that belueth on me, shall never thirst. 36 But I say unto you, that ye also have seene me, and yet ye beleue not.

37 All that the father geneth me, shall come to me: and hym that commeth to me, Icast not abay.

38 For I came doynne from heauen, not to do that I wyll, but that he wyll, which hath seased me.

39 And this is the fathers wyll which hath seased me: that of all which he hath gonne me, I shall lose nothing, but carpe it up agayne at the last day.

40 And this is the wyll of hym whiche sente me: that etery one which solkyeth the soume,* & solkyze on hym, hath everlastynge luy: And I wyll ryfle hym up at the last day.

41 The Jews then murmured at him, because he sayde: I am the bread of life, which came doynne from heauen. 42 And they said: Is not this Jesus, the sonne of Joseph, whose father and mother we knowe: howe is it then that he & sayth, I came doynne from heauen?

43 Jesus answered, & saide unto them: I am not begotten, not anong your felenes, & 44 No man can come to me, except the father which hath seased me, haue doynne by hym:

Ex. vii. 11. i. John. ii. 5.

He that eateth, saith he, of the same shame hath the Word, and liveth by it. 42. That is, of the same word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 43. That is, of the same Word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 44. He that eateth, saith he, of the same Word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 45. He that eateth, saith he, of the same Word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 46. He that eateth, saith he, of the same Word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 47. He that eateth, saith he, of the same Word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 48. He that eateth, saith he, of the same Word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 49. He that eateth, saith he, of the same Word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 50. He that eateth, saith he, of the same Word, hath the Word, and liveth by it. 51. For there is no man that doeth anything in secret, and he saith it not in public. If thou do such things, show them to the world. For his brethren believed not in him. Then Jesus said unto them, If ye were blind, ye should have no sin; but now ye say, We see; therefore your sin remaineth.
man spake as this man doth.

17 Then answered the Pharisees and the scribes, saying, Why dost thou? But they answered him nothing.

18 Then answered some of them, saying, He hath not spoken good, because he eateth with publicans and sinners.

19 And he said unto them, The son of man is come eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold, a glutton and a drunkard, and a friend of publicans and sinners: but wisdom is justified of all her children.

20 And again, they said, Who is this that speaketh blasphemies? It were better for him if he had never been born.

21 Jesus answered and said unto them, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me.

22 For whosoever shall save his life shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it.

23 And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, There is no doctor, but they that are sick; as long as they are sick, they have need of the doctor.

24 But when they are made whole, they no longer need a doctor.

25 Again I say unto you, That where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

26 The light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

27 But if thine eye be bad, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!

28 No one can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Thou canst not serve God and mammon.

29 Then came to him the father of the woman which was possessed with a spirit, and fell at his feet, and благословеный son.

30 And he answered him, and said, Every one that is angry with his brother, he shall be in danger of the council: again, whosoever shall say, Thou fool, he shall be in danger of hell fire.

31 Then came to him a lawyer, and tested him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

32 He said unto him, What is written in the law? what dost thou read? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.

33 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.

34 But he, desiring to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour?

35 And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

36 And there came by a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.

37 And likewise also a Levite, when he was at the place, came and there forsook him, going out again.

38 But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,

39 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine thereof; and set him on his own beast, brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

40 And on the morrow, when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more than these two pence, I will repay thee when I come again.

41 He answered him, Lord, what shall I do, that I may inherit eternal life? 42 And he said unto him, Why speakest thou of what thou shouldest do? dost thou not know what it is written, The man that is kind after God, he shall inherit the life everlasting? 43 Then said he, Which is my neighbour? 44 And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

45 And by chance there came a certain Samaritan, and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,

46 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine thereof; and set him on his own beast, brought him to an inn, and took care of him:

47 And on the morrow, when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more than these two pence, I will repay thee when I come again.

48 For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.

49 And as they continued to speak there, Jesus took the five loaves, two fishes, and bestowed upon his disciples, and brake, and gave to them to eat.

50 And they all ate, and were filled: and they gathered up twelve baskets full of the fragments that remained.

51 And they that did eat were about five thousand men, beside women and children.

52 And he said unto his disciples, The kings of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them; and they that exercise power over them are called masters.

53 But ye shall not be called masters, for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren.

54 And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be humbled; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.
Then saye they unto hym: Where is thy father? Jesus answered, He neither knew me, nor yet my father: If ye had known me, ye should have known my father also.

These words spake Jesus in his treas-ure, as he taught in the temple, and no man laughe hardes on hym, for his hour was not yet come.

Then saye Jesus againe unto them: If I go my way, and ye shall seke me, and shall dye in your synnes, why then do ye not yet believe that I am he, ye shall dye in your synnes.

Then saye they unto hym: who art thou? And Jesus faith unto them: Even the very same thyng that I saye unto you, is from the begynnynge.

I haue many thynges to saue, and to judge of you. Pea, he that sent me, is true: And I speake to the world, those thynges which I haue heard of hym.

Holddebeit, they understood not that he spake to them of his father.

Then said Jesus unto them: When ye haue lifft up[21][an bye] the sonne of man, then shall ye knowe that I am he, and that I do nothing of my selfe: but as my father hath taught me, even so I speake these thynges.

And he that sent me, is with me. The father hath not left me alone: For I do alwayes those thynges that please him.

As he spake those wordes, many beleued on hym.

Then saye Jesus to those Jewes which beleued on him: If ye continue in my word, then are ye my very disciples. And ye shall knowe the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

They[20] answered hym: We be Abrahames seme, and were never bondes to any man: hовe layest thou then, ye that haue made me free.

Jesus answered them: Verily, verily I saye unto you, that whosoeuer beareth michte same, is the semeault of same.

And the semeault abideth not in vs: for: but the same abideth ever.

If the semea therefore shall make you free, then are ye free in deed.

I know that ye are Abrahames seed, but ye seke [means to kill me, because my wordes hath no place in you.

I speake that which I haue seene with my father: and ye do that whiche ye haue seene with your father.

They answered and saide unto him: Abraham is our father, Jesus faith by to them: If ye were Abrahames childe, ye would do the wores of Abraham.

But now ye go about to kill me, and that hath told thee the truth, which I have heard of god: this did not Abraham.

Ye do the deeds of your father. Then said they to him: We be not home of for- mation, we have one father, even God.

Jesus saide unto them: If God were your father, truly ye would lover me: For I proceeded from God, and came from God: neither came I of my selfe, but he sent me.

Why do ye not believe my speache, even because ye cannot hear my word.

Ye are of your father the devyll, and I am of one: The lustes of your father yielde ye do. He hath a murderer from the begin- nyng, and abode not in the truth: be- cause there is no truth in hym, when he speakeith a lye, he speakeith of his owne: For he is a lyer, and the father of the same lye.

And because I told you the truth, ther- fore ye beleue me not.

Which of you rebeuketh me of sinne? If I say the truth, why do ye not beleue me?

He that is of God, heareth gods word: Ye haue not liste nor heare the not, because ye are not of God.

Then annswered the Jewes, saide unto hym: Say we not well that thou art a Samaritane, and hast the deuill?

Jesus annswered, I have not the devill: but I honour my father, and ye have dishonoured me.

If ye be not my owne obline paule, there is one that sekeith, and judgeth.

Uercly verily I saye unto you, ye a man kepe my laying, he shall never see death.

Then saye the Jewes unto hym: Now know we that thou hast a devill.

53 Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead: and the prophets

Jehu answered: By I honour my selfe, much honour is nothing. It is my father that honoureth me, which ye say is your God:
54 And yet ye have not known him, but I know him: And if I say I know

The x. Chapter.

1 Cepheus the true shephearde of the doore, 4 Christes shepe heare his boype, and will not heare a straunger. 10 Ife shepheardes are byrlinges and thieues, 13 Christe willingly geyche his life for his shepe. 16 The calling of the Gentiles. 7 Discerption among the Jewses about his worde. 34 They also pe he Christe. 38 Wherefore the Jewses bekele not. 31 The Shepheare would haue stoned hym, and called his preaching blasphemen, 34 Priestes, called Gods, 37 Christes worde declared hym to be God.

sone, and that he was borne bynde:
21 But he what meane he now seeth, he can not tell: Or who hath openes his eyes, can not be tell, he is old enough, alke hym, let hym awenbore for himselfe.
22 Such worde spake his father another, because they feared the Jewses: For the Jewses had decreed already, that if any man dyd confess that he was Chrisme, he should be communique out of the synagogue.
23 Therefore sayde his father another, he is old enough, alke hym.
24 Then agayne called they the man that was bynde, and sayde vnto hym: Gene God the preyde, be knovde that this man is a sinner.
25 He answered, and sayde: whether he be a sinner or no, I can not tell: One thing I am sure of, that whereas I was bynde, nowe J see.
26 Then sayde they to hym agayne: what dyd he to thee: Hode opene he thyne eyes?
27 He answered them: I tolde you yper where, and ye dyd not heare: Wherefore would pe heare it agayne: Wylle ye also be his disciples?
28 Then rapted they hym, and sayde: Bese thou his disciple: We are Moses disciples.
29 We are sure, that God speake vnto Moses: So for this feleode, we knovde not from wherence he is.
30 The man answered, and sayde vnto them: this is a marviulues thyng, that ye dyd not from wherence he is, and yet he hath opened myne eyes.
31 For we be sure, that God heareth not sinners: But vnder any man be a vroughypere of God, and obedient vnto his WILL, hym heareth he.
32 Sence the Woude began, was it not hearede, that any man opened the eyes of one that was borne bynde.
33 If this man were not of God, he coulde haue done nothing.
34 They answered, & sayde vnto hym: Thou art altogether done in sone, and dost thou teache vs: And they cast hym out.
35 Jesus hearede that they had excomintimate hym, & when he had stonned hym, he sayde vnto hym: Dost thou beleue on the sone of God?
36 He answered and sayde: who is he Loide, that I might beleue on hym?
37 And Jesus sayde vnto hym: Thou art both beleue hym, & it is he that talcketh with thee.
38 And he sayde, Loide, I beleue: And he Wothipped hym. 39 And Jesus sayde vnto hym: I am come vnto iudgement into this Wodde, that they which see not, myght see: And that they which see, myght be made bynde.
40 And some of the pharisees which were with hym, hearede these worde, & sayde vnto hym: Are we bynde also?
41 Jesus sayde vnto them, If ye were bynd, ye shoulde haue no sinne: But noilde ye say, we see, therefore your sinne remayneth.

John. xii.c. 4. The x. Chapter.

1 God, the true shephabet X (the door, 4 Christ sees sheperd his people, and will not hear a stranger. 10 False shepherds are thieves and rascals, 13 Christ willingly gave his life for his sheep. 16 The calling of the Gentiles. 7 Description among the Jews about his words. 34 They also say he is Christ. 38 Wherefore the Jews declare not. 31 The Shepherd would have stoned him, and called his preaching blasphemy. 34 Priests, called Gods, 37 Christ's words declared him to be God.

Chapter.

1 Cepheus, verily, I say unto you: he that entereth not in by the door, is the thief and a robber.
2 But he that entereth in by the door, is the shepherd of the sheep.
3 To hem the porter openeth, and the sheep heareth his voice, and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.
4 And when he hath sent forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep followeth him: for they know his voice.
5 A stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.
6 This parable spake Jesus unto them: But they understood not what parables
24. Then came the Jews round about him, and laid hands on him: *humbled thou make us doubt? Whom thou be Chrisse, tell us pappuly.
25. Jesus answered them: *I tolde you, and ye believe not. The works that I do in my fathers name, they bear witness of me.
26. But ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheepe, as I sayde unto you.
27. *By theepe hearre my boye, and I knowe them, and they follow me:
28. And I gave you to them, and they believed me:
29. My fathre which gave them me, is greater then all: and no man is able to take them out of my fathre hands.
30. *I and my fathre are one.
31. *Then the Jews againe toke vp stones, to stone him; [withall,
32. Jesus answered them, Many good works haue I shewed you from my fathre; for which of these do ye stone me?
33. The Jews answered them: *Is it not written in your laide, *I sayde ye are Gods:
34. *If he called them Gods, unto whom the voice of God was spoken, and the scripture can not be broken:
35. *Say ye of hym whom the fathre have sanctified and sent into the worlde, thou blasphemest, *because I saide I am the some of God:
36. *If I do not the works of my fathre, believe me not:
37. But *if I do, and ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may knowe and beleue, that the fathre is in me, and I in hym.
38. *Agayne they went about to take hym: and he escape out of their hande.
39. And many of them saide: *He hath the devil, and mad, why heare ye him?
40. Other saide: *These are not the words of hym that hath the devell. Can the devill open the eyes of the blinde?
41. *And it was at Jerusalem, the feast of the dedication, and it was winter;
42. And Jesus walked in the temple, even in Solomons porche.
Certaine man was sicke, named Lazarus of Bethanie, the tōbūne of Mary and her sister Martha. (It was that Mary * which anointed ᾽Ioh 12:1-11 ᾿Ioh 11:1-16 ᾿Ioh 12:1-11) with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sicke.)

Therefore, his sisters sent unto hym, saying: Lorde, behold, he whom thou louest is sicke.

When Jesus heard that, he sayde, this infirmitie is not unto death: but for the glory of God, that the sōune of God, might be glorified thereby.

Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.

When he had heard therefore that he was sicke, he abode two days still in the same place where he was.

Then after that, sayde he to his discipul̂̂es: Let vs go into Iurie agayne.

His discipul̂̂es sayde unto hym: Master, the Jewes lately sought to stone thee; and sayde thou go shitter agayne?

Jesus answered: Are there not twelue hours of the day? If any man walke in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world.

But if a man walke in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in hym.

These thynges sayde he, and after that, he sayde unto them: Our sienede Lazarus is leped, but I go to wake hym out of slepe.

Then sayde his discipul̂̂es: Lorde, ye lēpe, he shall do well enough.

Hobbeit, Jesus spake of his death, but they thought that he had spoken of the natural slepe.

Then sayde Jesus unto the playnely, Lazarus is dead:

And I am glad for your sakes, that I was not there, because ye may beleue. Hearerethelisio, let vs go unto hym.

Then sayde Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fieLeod discipul̂̂es: let vs also go, that we may lēpe with hym.

Then went Jesus, and founde that he had lēpe in his græue, four dāpes already.

(Thelisio was iû̂e unto Hierusalem, about 15 fītūres fīlūnges of.)

And many of the Jewes came to Martha and Mary to comfort them over their brother.

Martha answere as the hearde that Jesus was commyng, went and met hym: but Mary sate still in the house.

Then sayde Marthe unto Jesus: Lorde, * if thou haddest ben here, my brother had not dyed:

Hearerethelisio, nothe I knowe that whatsoeuer thou askest of God, God will gene it thee.

Then sayde Jesus unto her: Thy brother shall ryle agayne.

Martha sayde unto hym: I knowe that he shall ryle agayne in the resurrection at the last dāp.

Jesus sayde unto her, I am the resurrection, and the lyse: * He that beeth on me, yea, though he were dead, yet shall he lyue.

And Whosoever lyue, and believeth on me, shall never dye. Believt thou this?

She sayde unto hym: Yea Lorde, I belieue that thou art Christe the sōune of God, which should come into the world.

And alsoone as she had so sayde, she went her way, and called Mary her sister secretely, saying: The Master is come, and calleth for thee.

Alsoone as the hearde that, she arose quickly, and came unto hym.

Jesus was not yet come into the tōbūne: but was in that place where Marthe meuter.

The Jewes then which were with her in the house * comforted her, when they sawe Mary that she rose by hallelye, and went out, followed her, saying: She goeth unto the græue, to seep there.

Then when Mary was come where Jesus
Jesus was, and saw him, and fell downe at his feate, and layde into him:
Lorde, yf thou haddest been here, my brother had not ben dead.

And sayde: Where haue ye layde him? They layde into hym: Lorde, come, and see.

Jesus sayde to the Jews: Behoive howe he loued hym.

And some of them sayde: Could not he which *opened the eyes of the blinde, haue made also, that this man shoule not haue dyde?

Jesus therfore agayne gredon in hym selue, and came to the grave. It was a caue, and a stone layde on it.

Jesus layde: Take ye alwaye the stone, Martha, the sister of hym that was dead, layde into hym, Lorde, by this tense he thinketh: For he hath ben dead foure yeres.

Jesus sayde unto her: Sayde I not unto thee, that if thou dydest beleue, thou shouldest see the glory of God?

Then they toke alwaye the stone from the place where the dead was layde. And Jesus lyft up his eyes, and sayde: Father, I thynke thee that thou haft hearde me.

Hodie we knowe, that thou hearest me alwayes: but *because of the people which stande by, I sayde it, that they maye beleue that thou haft sent me.

And when he thus had spoken, he cryed with a loude voyce: Lazarus, come foorth.

*And he that was dead, came foorth, bounde in hannde and foote, with grave clothes, and his face was bounde with a napkin. Jesus layde into them: loose hym, and let hym go.

Then many of the Jewses which came to Parce, and had seen these thynges which Jesus dyde, beleued on hym.

But some of them went their wayes to the pharisses, and tolde them what Jesus had done.

Then gathered the hye priestes and the pharisses a councll, and layde:
What do we? For this man doth many miracles.

If we let hym scape, all men wyll beleue on him, and the Romaynes shall come, and take awaye both our crowne and the people.

And of one of them named Calaphas, beyng the hye priest that same yere, sayde unto them: Ye perceau nothingat all,
Not consider, that *it is expedient for vs, that one man dyde for the people, and not that all the people perithe.

This shaketh he, not of hym selue, but beyng hye priest that same yere, he prophesied that Jesus shoulde dyde for the people,

And not for the people only: but that he shoulde gather together in one, the children of God, that were scattered abroad.

*Then from that day foorth, they take council together, for to put hym to death.

Jesus therfore walchen no more openly among the Jewses: but went his way thence, unto a countrey npe to a wildernesse, into a cite which is called Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples.

*And the Jewses Easter was npe at hannde, and many went out of the countrey by to Hierusalem before the Easter, to purifie them selues.

Then sought they for Jesus, shaketh among them selues, as they stode in the temple: *What thinke ye, that he commeth not to the feast day?

The hye priestes and pharisses had geuen a commandement, that if any man knewe where he were, he shoulde thede it, that they myght take hym.
when Jesus, lye days before the Passover, came to Bethany, where Lazarus had been dead, whom he raised from death.

There they made a supper, and Martha ferued: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

Then took Marry a pound of ointment of Spikenard, very costly, and anointed Jesus feet, and lifted his fecte with her hands: and the house was filled with the odoare of the ointment.

Then layde one of his discipels, even Judas Iscariot Simons sonne, which should betray hym.

Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

This he layde, not that he cared for the poore: but because he was a thief, and had the bagge, and bare that which was sein.

Then layde Jesus: Let her alone, against the day of my burying hath she this kept.

For the poore alwayes shall ye haue with you; but me haue pe not alwayes.

Much people of the Jews therefore had knowledge that he was there. And they came not for Jesus sake only: but that they might see Lazarus also, who had been raised from death.

But the ye peates helde a councell, that they might put Lazarus to death also.

Because that for his sake, many of the Jews went away, and believed on Jesus.

On the next day, much people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus should come to Hierusalem, took branches of palm trees, and went forth to meete hym, and cryed:

Hosanna: blessed is he that in the name of the Lord commeth, king of Israel.

And Jesus got a young Asse, and sat theron, as it is written:

* Fear not what is said to Sion, behold, thy king commeth, sitting on an Asse colte.

These thynges understode not his discipels at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, they remembered they that such thynges were written of him, * that such thynges they had done boute hym.

The people that was with him, when he called Lazarus out of his grave, and raised hym from death, bare recorde.

Therefore met hym the people also, because they heard that he had done such a miracle.

The pharisees therefore layde among them furies: persecute ye, howe ye preuilege. Beholde, [all the whole] world goeth after hym.

* There were certaine Grekes among them, that came to worship at the feast:

* The same came therefore to Philip, which was of Bethsaida, a citie of Galilee, and desired hym, saying: Sir, we would [be]are of Jesus.

* Philip came and tolde Andrew; and againe, Andrew & Philip tolde Jesus.

* And Jesus answeered them, saying:

* The hour is come, that the son of man must be glorified.

* Telerpy, beply, I laye unto you,

* except the whead come fall into the grounde, and dye, it a bidereth alone: If it dye, it bringthe forth much fruit.

* He that looueth his lyfe, shall destroy it: and he that detrefheth his lyfe in this world, shall keepe it unto lyfe eternall.

* If any man murther bunte me, let hym solowe me: And * where I am, there shall also my murtherer be. If any man murther bunte me, hym will my father honour.

* Obde is my soule troubled, and what shall I say? Father, save me from this houre: but therefore came I into this houre.

* Father, gloue thy name. Then came there a boype from heaven [saying] I have both gloues it, and wyll gloue it agayn.
The Gospel

John xii. c.

29 The people therefore that stood by, and heard it, sayde that it thundred: Other sayde, an Angel spake to hym.

30 Jesus answeréd and sayde: This voyce came, not because of me, but for your sakes.

31 And I sayde to them: This is a judgment of this worde: *No man shall the prince of this worde be cast out.

32 And I, if I were lyft up from the earth, would draw all men unto me.

33 (This he sayde, signifying what death he should undergo.)

34 Then Jesus sayde unto them: Yet a little while is the light with you. *Walk in while ye have light, lest the darkness come upon you: for he that walketh in the dark, wotteth not whither he goeth.

35 Whyle ye have light, believe on the light, that ye may be the chylde of the light. *These thynges speke Jesus, and departed, and hid hym self from the.

36 But though he had done so many marvells before them, yet believed not they on hym.

37 That the laying of Eliaas the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake: *Lorde, who shall beleue our sayngs: And to whom is the arme of the Lorde declared?

38 Therefoe coude they not beleue, because that Eliaas sayd agayne:

39 The xii. Chapter.

1 Chrile was called the Apostles seete. 2 Peter refuted to be washed, but afterwardes con- senteth. 10 The Apostles are cleanse. 11 Chrile, Lode, and Wafer. 14 Ershaping to humil- itie and charitie. 25 Chrile theweth who shall betray hym. 27 Satan entred into Judas. 30 He goeth out to the pharisees. 1 Chrile erobrath 3 disciples to love. 36 Whereby Chrile's disciples are known. 38 He sae waverneth Peters denyall.

23 For the feast of the Passover, when Jesus knew that his hour was come, he hould the departe out of this world into the father: when he loved his which were in the world, into the ende he loved them.

40 *He hath bluded their eyes, and hardened their heart, that they should not see with their eyes, lest they should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heale them.

41 Such thynges sayde Eliaas, when he fade his glory, and spake of hym.

42 Neuerthelesse, among the chiefe rulers also, many beleued on hym: But because of the pharisees, they dyd not confesse hym, lest they should be excommunicate.

43 *For they loved the peace of men, more then the peace of God.

44 Jesus answered, and sayde: *He that be- leueth on me, believeth not on me, but on hym that sent me.

45 And he that beleeueth seeth hym that sent me.

46 *I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me shall not abide in darkness.

47 And ye any man hear my woordes, and believe not, I judge hym not: For *I came not to judge the woilde, but to save the woilde.

48 He that refuseth me, receaueth not my woordes, but the father which sent me, he gave me a commandement what I should say, and what I shoude speake.

49 And I knoade that his commandement is lyke everlastyng. Whatsoever I speake therefore, even as the father had me, so I speake.
Then came he to Simon Peter. And Peter sayde vnto hym: Loorde, doest thou wash my feet?

Jesus answered, and sayde vnto hym: What I do, thou knowest not, but thou shalt knowe hereafter.

Peter sayeth vnto hym: Thou shalt never wash my feete. Jesus answered hym: If I wash thee not, thou haue no part with me.

Simon Peter sayeth vnto hym: Loorde, not my feete only, but also the handes, and the head.

Jesus sayeth to hym: He that is washed, needeth not to haue his feete washed, but is cleane every whit. And ye are cleane, but not all.

For he knewe who it was that should betray hym. Therefore sayde he: ye are not all cleane.

So, after he had wafted their feete, and receaued his clothes, and was set downe agayne, he sayde vnto them: Wote ye what I haue done to you?

He calleth Maister, and Loorde, and ye say well, for so am I.

If I then your Loorde and Maister, have wafted your feete, ye also ought to wafthe one another's feete.

For I have gereen you an enample, that ye shoude do as I haue done to you.

Ye knowe these thynges, happy are ye, ye do them.

I speake not of you all. I knowe whom I haue chosen. But that the scripture may be fulfilled: he that eateth bread with me, hath lift vp (a) his heele against me.

Nobly (a) tell I you before it come: that when it is come to passe, ye myght believe that I am he.

Urrily, verply, I sayde vnto you: The scriuane is not greater then his maister, neither the messenger greater then he that sent hym.

If ye knowe these thynges, happy are ye, ye do them.

I speake not of you all. I knowe whom I haue chosen. But that the scripture may be fulfilled: he that eateth bread with me, hath lift vp (a) his heele against me.

Nobly (a) tell I you before it come: that when it is come to passe, ye myght believe that I am he.

Urrily, verply, I sayde vnto you: he that receaueth whomsoever I sende, receaueth me: And he that receaueth me, receaueth hym that sent me.

When Jesus had thus sayde, he was troubled in spirite, and teched, & sayde: Urrily, verply, I sayde vnto you, that one of you shal bere me.

Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake.

There was one of Jesus disciples, leaunynge on Jesus doosome, [cuen he] John, xix. e. Whom Jesus loued.

To hym beckened Simon Peter therefore, that he shoulde aske who it was of whom he spake.

He then, when he leaned on Jesus brete, sayde vnto hym: Loorde, who is it?

Jesus answered hym: He it is to whom I giue a sop when I haue dippes it. And D he set the sop, and gaued it to Judas Iscariot, Simon's sonne.

And after the sop, Satan enterred into hym. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: That thou doest, do quickly.

That vifte no man at the table, for what intent he shalke vnto hym.

Some of the thought, because Judas had the bagge, that Jesus had layde vnto hym, bye those thynges that we haue neede of against the feate: or, that he shoulde giue somethynge to I poore.

Asdone then, as he had receaued the sop, he went immediatly out: and it was nyght.

Therefore, when he was gone out, Jesus sayde: Nobly is the somme of man gloyset: And God is gloyset in hym.

If God be gloyset in hym, God shal also gloyset hym in hym felte, and shal stranglyday gloyset hym.

Little children, let a little whyle am I with you. Be shall seeke me: and as John, vii. e.

I sayde vnto the Scriuernes, whiche I go, thyster can ye not come. Also to you say I noke:

A newe commaundement giue I vnto you, that ye lonne together, as I have louned you, that euon to ye lonne one another.

By this shall all men knoue that ye are my disciples, ye haue lonne one to another.

Simon Peter sayde vnto hym: Loorde, whichter goest thou? Jesus answered hym: Whichter I go, thou canst not folloewe me nowe, but thyn shall folloewe me afterwarde.

Peter sayde vnto hym: Loorde, why cannot I folloewe thee nowe? I will ieparde my lyfe for thyn sake.

Jesus answered hym: uype thou ieparde thy lyfe for my sake: Urrily, verply, I sayde vnto ther, the Coche shall not crowe, tyll thou haue derpped me thrille.

The xv. Chapter.

1 Christ consecrated the disciples, putting them in remembrance of affliction and trouble. 7 Of the holy ghost, and his office. 17 Of Christ's attention. 23 To ask in the name of Christ. 23 Peace in Christ, afflictions in the world.

These things have I said unto you, because ye should not be offended.

*They shall excommunicate: yea the time shall come, that whosoever killeth you, will think that he doth God service.

*And such things will they do unto you, because ye have not known the Father, neither me.

But these things have I told you, that when the time is come, ye may remember then that I told you. *These things will I not say unto you at the beginning, because I was present with you.

5 But now I go my way, to him that sent me, & none of you asketh me, why the things thou.

6 But because I have said such things unto you, your hearts are full of sadness.

7 Nevertheless, I tell you the truth, it is expedient for you that I go away. For if I go not away, that comforter will not come unto you: but if I depart, *I will send him unto you.

8 And when he is come, he will rebuke the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment.

9 Of sin, because they believe not on me.

10 Of righteousness, because *I go to my Father, and ye shall see me no more.

11 Of judgment, because the prince of this world is judged already.

12 I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye can not hear them at all now.

13 Nevertheless, when he is come, which is the spirit of truth, he will lead you into all truth. He shall not speak of himself: but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak, and he will shew you things to come.

14 He shall glorify me: For he shall receive me, and shall shew me.

15 *All things that the Father hath are mine: Therefore saith he I (unto you) that he shall take of mine, & shew unto you.

16 *After a while, and ye shall not see me, and againe after a little while ye shall see me: for I go to the father.

17 Then saith one of his disciples betwene them selues: What is this that he saith unto us, after a while, & ye shall see me, and again, after a little while ye shall see me, and that I go to the father?

18 They saie therefore: What is this that he saith, after a while: We can not tell what he saith.

19 Jesus perceived that they would ask him, and saide unto them: Do ye enquire among your selues what I said after a little while, and ye shall see me, & again, after a while ye shall see me.

20 Veryly verily I say unto you, ye shall wepe and lament, the world shall rejoice: ye shall sorrow, but *your sorrow shall be turned to joy.

21 A woman, when the transept, hath sorrow, because her youre is come: but & as soon as she is delivered of the child, the remembrance no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.

22 And ye noth therefore have sorrow: but I will peace between you, & againe, and your hearts shall rejoice, and your joy shall no man take from you, from where you.

23 And in that day shall ye ask me no question. *Veryly verily I say unto you, whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will gene it you.

24 Hypotherto have ye asked nothing in my name: Ask, ye shall reache, that your joy may be full.

25 These things have I spoken unto you by proverbs. The time will come, when I shall no more speake unto you, by proverbs: but I shall shewe you plainly of my father.
by Saint John.  lxvi.

26 And I say not unto you, that I will pray unto my Father for you.
27 For the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God.
28 I went out from the Father, and came into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.
29 His disciples said unto him: Lo, now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no more parable.
30 Jesus answered them, saying: Do ye now believe?
31 And yet a great many of the people believed on him, and said: That he is the Christ, the king of Israel. But they went not up to him for fear of the Jews.
32 And he went out of the region of Judea, and entered again into the region of Judea, and gathered his disciples together. And he said unto them, I have found my sheep which were lost.
33 And I have given them life eternal, and they are in my name, and I came to my Father, that they might also be one, as we are.

When Jesus had spoken these words, "he went forth with his disciples over the brooke Ebron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, his disciples.

2 Judas also which betrayed hym, knew the place. For Jesus oftentimes resorted thither, with his disciples.

3 Judas then, after he had received a band of men, and officers of the synagogues, and of the chief priests, came thither with lanterns, and torches, and weapons.

4 And Jesus, knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and spake unto them, whom he saith:

5 They understood him: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. Judas also which betrayed hym, stood with them.

6 As soon then as he spake unto them, I am he, they went backward, fell to the ground.

7 Then asked he them again, whom he spake. They said: Jesus of Nazareth.

8 Jesus answered them: I have tolde you, that I am he. If ye knew me, ye would know my Father also.

9 That the saying might be fulfilled which he spake: Of whom whom thou gavest me, have I not lost one.

10 Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it, and smote the servant of the high priest, and cut off his right ear. The name of his name was Malchus.

11 Therefore saith Jesus unto Peter: Put up thy sword into the sheath: thou hast not drunk of the cup which my Father hath given me:

12 Then the companie, and the captain, and officers of the Jews, took Jesus, and bound hym.

13 And led hym away to Annas first; for he was father in law unto Caiaphas, which was he priest that same year; [And Annas sent Christ bound unto Caiaphas the high priest.]

14 *Caiaphas was he which gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

15 *And Simon Peter followed Jesus; and so did another (b) disciple. That disciple was known unto the high priest, who was with Peter, and entered in with Jesus into the palace of the high priest.

16 But Peter stood at the door without. Then went out that other disciple, which was known unto the high priest, and spake unto the damsel that kept the door, and brought in Peter.

17 Then saith the damsel, that kept the door, unto Peter: Art thou also one of this mans disciples? He saith, I am not.

18 The servants and officers stood there, which had made a fire of coals, (for it was cold) and they warned the disciple, Peter also stood among them, and warmed hym.

19 *The high priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine.

20 Jesus answered him: I spake openly to the world, I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whether all the Jews resist, in secret have I spake

And they stroke hym with roddes.
4 Pilate went forth agayne, and sayde unto them: Scholde, I byng hym forth to you, that ye may knowe that I lynde no fault in hym.

Then
Then came Jesus into, wearing a robe of purple, and a robe of purple: And he laid him on them, behold the man.

When Pilate heard that saying, he was the more afraid. And went again into the judgment hall, and said unto Jesus, Whence art thou? But Jesus gave him none answer. Then said Pilate unto him: Speakest thou not unto me? Knowest thou not that I have power to crucifie thee, and have power to set thee free? Jesus answered: Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: Therefore that thou didst me into this, hast the more sin. And from thenceforth sought Pilate [mean] to lose him. But the Jews cried, saying: If thou let him go, thou art not Caesar's friend. For who is able to make thee a king, speaketh against Caesar. When Pilate heard that saying, he brought Jesus forth, and he sat in judgment, in the judgment seat, in a place that is called the Praetorium, but in the Hebrew tongue, Capharnaum. It was the preparation of Passover, and about the sixth hour: And he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King. They cried, away with him, away with him, crucifi him. Pilate saith unto them: Shall I crucifie your King? The Jews answered: We have no king but Caesar. Then delivered he him unto them, to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away.

And they took his cross, and went forth into a place, which is called a place of dead men's stakes, but in Hebrew Golgota: Where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst.

But Pilate wrote a title, and put it on the cross. The writing was: Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews.

This title read many of the Jews: For the place where Jesus was crucified, was called the place of a Jews: but, that he saied, I am king of the Jews. Pilate answered: What I have written, that have I written. Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part, and also his coat. The coat was without seam, woven from the toppe throughout. They therefore among them fellies: Let be not denied, but cast lottes for it, who shall have it. That the scripture might be fulfilled, saying: They parted my ramment among them, for my coat dyd they call lottes. And the lottes dyd such thinges in deed. There stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Marie Magdalene.

When Jesus therefore saw his mother and the disciple standing by, *Whom (a) John.xix. 26 he loved, he bath into his mother: Woan, behold thy son. Then saide he to the disciple, behold thy mother. And from that hour, the disciple toke her unto his owne.

After these thinges, Jesus knowing that all thinges were now pereit, and that the scripture might be fulfilled, he said, I thirst. So there stood a vessel full of bineger: *Therefore they filled a sponge with bineger, and put it upon aloe, and put it to his mouth.

Alasone as Jesus then receaue of the bineger, he saide, *It is (b) fulfilled: and bode his head, and gave up the ghost. The Jews therefore, for because it was the preparation of the Sabbath that the bodyes should not remaine upon the cross, but that they should be taken downe. Then came the soldiers, and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified with hym:
The xx. Chapter.

1. Marie comitteth to the sepulchre, and after, to ride the disciples that he was taken away: Peter and John runne to see. The apostles were ignorant of the resurrection. 2. Marie weepeth at the sepulchre, and saw a thousand of angels. 3. Jesus spake to Marie: 4. He the seventh the disciples. 5. Jesus appeared to the apostles: 6. He came the holy ghost, and sent them to preach. 7. Thomas believed not that Christ was risen. 8. Christ appeared againe. 9. Thomas, who confessed Christ to be God, 10. The scriptures written, are sufficient unto salvation.

But when they came to Jesus, he said that he was dead already, they brake not his legges. 34. But one of the soudyers with a spear smit into the side, and straightway came there out blood and water: 35. And he that saw it, bare record, and his record is true: he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe. 36. For these things were done, that the scripture should be fulfilled: He shall not brake a bone of his. 37. And againe another scripture faith: They shall take on hym whom they pleased. 38. After this, Joseph of Aramathia, (which was a disciple of Jesus, but secretly, for fear of the Jews) besought Pilate that he might take downe the body of Jesus. 39. And Pilate gaue hym lincture. He came therefore, and toke the dye of Jesus. 40. Then toke they the body of Jesus, and wounde it in linen clothes, with the oodres, as the manner of the Jews is to bury. 41. And in the place where he was crucified there was a garden, and in the garden a newe sepulchre, wherein was never man yet layde. 42. There layde they Jesus therefore, because of the preparing (of the Sabbath) of the Jews: for the sepulchre was vacant at hande. 43. In the first day of the sabbathes, came Marie Magdalene early, when it was yet darke, into the sepulchre, and saw the stone taken away from the grave. 44. Then the same day, and to Saint Peter, and to the other disciple (which Jesus loved) he saide into the: They have taken away the Lord out of the grave, we can not tell where they have layde him. 45. Peter therefor went forth, and that other disciple, he came to the sepulchre. 46. They ranne both together, and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre. 47. And when he had stopt bred, downe, he sawe the linen clothes lying, yet went not in. 48. Then came Simon Peter following hym, and went into the sepulchre, and sawe the linen clothes lying, 49. And the napkin which was about his head not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it self. 50. Then were in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he sawe, and believed. 51. For as yet they knew not the scripture, that he should ride againe from death. 52. Then the discipules went away againe unto their owne house. 53. This is Mary Magdalene without at the sepulchre weeping: So, as she wept, she beeke her selfe into the sepulchre, and seid, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, Where the body of Jesus was layde. 54. They laye unto her: Woman, why weepest thou? She said unto the: For they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where theyhave layde him. 55. When she had thus layde, she turned her selfe bache, and sawe Jesus standing, and knewe not that it was Jesus. 56. Jesus saith unto her: Woman, why weepest thou? Whom sekest thou? She supposing that he had been the gardener, said unto him: Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast layde him, and I will sethyn. 57. Jesus saith unto her, Marie. She turned her selfe, and saide unto hym: Rabbi, which is to say, Master.
The Golghead

Jesus went unto her: Touch not me, for I am not yet ascended unto my Father: but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father, and to my God, and your God.

Mary Magdalene came and told...that he had spoken these things unto her.

And when he had said this, he breathed upon them, and said, Receive ye the Holy Ghost. And when he had said this, he breathed upon them, and said, Receive ye the Holy Ghost.

Whosoever soweth me...reapeth. But Thomas, one of the twelve, which was called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

And after eight days, again his...and Thomas with them: Then came Jesus, when the doores were shut, and stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

After that said he to Thomas: Bring thy finger, and reach thy hand, and thrust it into my side; and be not faithless, but believing.

Thomas answered, and said unto him: My Lord and my God.

Jesus saith unto him: Because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: Blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed.

And many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book.

These are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing ye might have life through his name.

The xxij. Chapter.

1 Chirist appeared to his disciples when they were abasing, and they take a great multitude of fishes, Peter leapt into the water, and Christ rebuked Peter to his face, and commended him to feed his sheep. Peter therefore warmed Peter of his death and perfection.

But when the morrow was come, Jesus stood on the shore: Nevertheless the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

Jesus saith unto them: Children, have ye any meat? They answered, No.

And he saith unto them: Cast out the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find abundance. They cast out therefore, and an hundred and fifty three great fishes, and one of them. Simon Peter was one of the disciples.

Simon Peter said unto them: Lo, I will go fishing. They said unto him: We will also go with thee. They went therefore, and entered into a ship immediately, and that night caught they nothing.

But when the morning was come, Jesus stood on the shore: Nevertheless the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

And he saith unto them: Cast out the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find abundance. They cast out therefore, and an hundred and fifty three great fishes, and one of them. Simon Peter was one of the disciples.

Simon Peter said unto them: Lo, I will go fishing. They said unto him: We will also go with thee. They went therefore, and entered into a ship immediately, and that night caught they nothing.

The other disciples came by ship, and met him.
(for they were not farre from lande, but as it were two hundred cubites.) And they drewe the net with fishes.

9 Allone then as they were come to lande, they sawe what coats, and fishes layde theron, and bread.

10 Jesus saith unto them: Byng of the fishes which ye have nowe caught.

11 Simon Peter went up, and drave the net to the lande, full of great fishes, an hundred and andie, and three: And for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

12 Jesus saith unto them, come and dyne. And none of the disciples durst ask hym, who art thou? For they knewe that it was the Lord.

13 Jesus then cane, and toke bread, and gave them, and fishes lyke chylde.

14 This is nowe the third dyne that Jesus appeared to his discipul, after that he was risen agayne from death.

15 So when they had dyne, Jesus saith to Simon Peter: Simon, thou art mad, thou hast no right to this dyne: Pee, Lo! Lo! Thee. He saith unto hym: Feede my lambs.

16 He saith to hym agayne the seconde dyne: Simon, thou hast no right to the seconde dyne: Pee, Lo! Lo! Thee, he saith unto hym: Feede my sheape.

17 He saith unto hym the thirde dyne: Simon, thou hast no right to the thirde dyne: Pee, Lo! Lo! Thee, he saith unto hym: Feede my sheape.

18 Verily verily I saith unto thee, when I was young, thou grydest thy sheepe, and walkest gretely that thou wouldest: But when thou shalt be olde, thou shalt stretch forth thy handes, and another shall gypse thee, and lead thee wherethou wouldest not.

19 That spake he, signifying by what death he should glorifie God. And when he had spoken this, he layth hym, and folowe me.

20 Peter turned about, and sawe the disciple, whom Jesus loved, sitting at table, who also leaued on his dress at supper, and saide, Lo! Lo! Thee, that betrayeth thee.

21 When Peter therefore sawe hym, he saith to Jesus: Lo! Lo! Thee, that he doth.

22 Jesus saith unto hym: If I saith not, thou hast hym to tary till I come, what is that to thee: Folowe me.

23 Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not dye: Yet Jesus saith not to hym, he shall not dye: But, if I saith that he tary till I come, what is that to thee?

24 The same disciple is he, which testifieth of these thynges, and wrote these thynges. And he knoweth that his testimony is true.

25 There are also many other thynges, which Jesus dyd, the which ye should be written every one, I suppose the world could not containe the booke that should be written.

Here endeth the Gospell by Saint John.
The first Chapter.

1. For former treatise of Theophilus, we have spoken of all that Jesus began to do and teach.

2. Until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the holy ghost, had given commandments unto the Apostles, whom he had chosen,

3. To whom also he showed himself alive after his passion, and that by many tokens, appearing unto them forty days, and speaking of the kingdom of God,

4. And gathering them together, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the father, "Wherof (lately

5. ye have heard of me.

6. For John truly baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the holy ghost, after these few days.

7. When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying: Lorde, wilt thou at this time restore againe the kyngdome to Israel?

8. And he spake unto them: "It is not for you to know the times, or the seasons, which the father hath put in his owne power.

9. But ye shall receive power, after that the holy ghost is come upon you: And ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in all Samaria, and even unto the uttermost part of the earth.

And
And while they looked steadfastly up to the heaven, as he went, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel, which also said, ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come, even as ye have seen him go into heaven.

Then returned they unto Jerusalem, from the mount that is called Olives, which is from Jerusalem a sabbath day's journey.

And when they were come in, they went up into a parlor, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas the brother of James.

These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren.

And in those days, Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said, The number of names together were about an hundred and-twenty.

And men and brethren, let me declare unto you the word which was before spoken unto you by the mouth of all the apostles.

For he is not now far from you all that maketh you holy, and calleth you by his name, from the day of John the Baptist, who was forerunner to the Baptist, and that baptism of repentance, wherein he was baptized for the remission of sins, which he spake by the Holy Ghost, as he also said;

For it is written in the book of psalms, 'Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein: And his bishoprick let another take.'

Wherefore, after that the apostles had overcome them, they appointed two, Joseph which was called Barsabas, and Matthias, to whom they gave the choice.

And they prayed, saying, Thou Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen, that it may be known, by one of them, who it beest, which hath been ordained to be apostle unto this people, and this nation in baptism, and to shed his blood for the forgiveness of sins, as Moses spake in the book of this generation, according to the law of this people: for the promise, that thou hast made to Abraham, and to his seed for ever, hath he fulfilled thereof.

And they gave forth their lot by the casting of lots, and they have sold the lot for four hundred and fifty pieces of silver; and they have given the charge of this matter, that it might be done according to the law of Moses.

The holy ghost came upon the apostles and priests, and they were all full of the spirit, and began to speak with every tongue, as the spirit gave them utterance.
The acts

22 As yet Peter spake these words, when the holy ghost fell on all them which heard the word of Peter.  And they paid him that he was John that Baptist; for he was baptised with water.  But Peter said, 23 Ye men and brethren, let me make known unto you by what mean things and signify things in the prophetic writings, 24 How that the Holy One of God should suffer, and should be the first to rise from the dead, and should make his people witnesses, who by faith should have hope of the mighty power of God.  So that ye see, ye men of Israel, how that the hope of glory, which was promised to our fathers, 25 In the mouth of David, this all prophesied, saying through the mouth of our Saviour Jesus Christ, 26 Of whose death and burial, we publish unto you good tidings, that the holy spirit, which was promised, by the mouth of David, saith, 27 How that this Jesus of Nazareth whom they crucified, hath God raised up, which by the right hand of power hath received his resurrection; 28 Repent therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out; and that times of refreshing may come from the Lord; 29 And that he hath sent the Holy Ghost, which was promised, by John the Baptist, saying, 30 The baptism of John, whereunto ye came forth, was the baptism of repentance, for the remission of sins, which shall be fulfilled by the coming of Jesus Christ; 31 Whose feet were no washing; 32 Forasmuch then as God hath raised him from the dead; 33 Who also said, 34 I will lay to you the foundation of this thing: 35 That there is no other name under heaven, given among men, whereby we must be saved. 36 And now, brethren, I would not burden you, to go beyond the limits of our commission; 37 But to be obediency unto them that believe, 38 And that these may be made perfect who have believed; 39 For the working of the saints is one.  So then, my brethren, be even more excellent in all good works. 40 And withal pray ye for us also: for we trust that we shall see you face to face. 41 In your prayers, construe mercy for us also, and that we may be strengthened with you in the same grace, in Christ Jesus. 42 And the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.  Amen.
39 For the promise was made to you, and to your children, and to all that are a savor of, even as many as the Loarde our God shall call.

40 And with many other words bare he witness, and exhorted them, saying: Save your souls from this untoward generation.

41 Then they that gladly received his word, were baptized; And the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls.

42 And they continued stedfastly in the Apostles doctrine and (b) fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.

43 And fear came upon every soul. And many wonders and signs were done by the Apostles.

44 And all that beleued, kept them selves together, and had all things common,

45 And sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need.

46 And they continued daily with one accord in the temple, and break bread from house to house, and eate their meat together, with gladness and singleness of heart.

47 Praying God, he had favour with all the people. And the Loard added to the Churche daily, such as should be bamed.

q The iii. Chapter.

Dive Peter and John went vp together into the temple at the nymth hour of paper.

And a ccerne man, that was lame from his mothers wombbe, was brought, whom they layde dayly at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, to albe almes of them that entred into the temple.

When he sawe Peter and John that they woldde go into the temple, he desire to receave an almes.

And Peter fastening his eyes upon hym with John, sayde: Looke on vs.

And he gare heede into the, trusting to receave something of them.

Then sayde Peter: Suffer and golde have I none, but such as I have, gene I thee: In the name of Jesus Christe of Nazareth, rply vp,and walke.

And he toke hym by the righte hande, and layf hym vp. And immediatly his seee and ancle bones receaved strength.

And he spagh, roode, and walked, and entred with them into the temple, walckynge, and leaping, a praising God.

And all the people falle hym walke, and prase God.

And they kneele hym, that it was he, which satte and begge at the beautiful gate of the temple. And they wondred, and were for affrayed at that which had happened unto hym.

11 And as the lame which was healed, helde Peter and John, all the people ran amased unto them, in the *poetl, that is called Solomon's.

12 And when Peter sawe that, he ame Flerver into the people: Be men of Israell, why marrie ye at this, or why loke ye to vs, as though by our owne power or (b) godlynesse, we made this man to goe.

13 The God of Abraham, and of Israell, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, hath glorified his sonne Jesu, whom ye betrayed, and devere in the presence of Pilate, when he had judged hym to be loosed.

14 But ye denied the holy and just, *and delered a murtherer to bee gaven yow,

15 And killed *the Lord of lyfe, whom God hath raised from the dead: of the which we are witnesses.

16 And his name, through the faith in his name, hath made this man sounde, whom ye see and know: And the faith which is by hym, hath gaven to this man health, in the presence of you all.

17 And noble brethren, I wote that though ignorarce ye dpy it, as dpy also your rulers.

18 But those thynges which God before had shewd by the mouth of all his prophets, that Christe should suffer, he hath to fulfilled.

19 Repent ye therefore and convert, that D ytes sines may be done away, when, Math.iii.11.

The actes

1. As they spake unto people, the priests and the ruler of the temple, and the fanctuary, came upon them, telling them seriously that they taught the people, and preached in Jesus the resurrection from the dead.

2. And they laid their hands on them, and put them in holde, until the next day: for it was now even.

3. And it came to passe on the morowe, that their rulers and elders,

4. And Amas the chiefest priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the inuicde of the tye priests, were gathered together at Hierusalem.

5. And when they had set them before them, they asked: by what power, or in what name have ye done this:

6. Then Peter, full of the holy ghost, saide unto them: Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel,

7. If we this day be examined of the good deed done to the sike man, by what meanes he is made whole:

8. Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised agayne from the dead: even by him doth this man stande here before you whole.

9. What is this word which is cast aborde of you buysters, which is the head of the temple:

10. Neither is there salvation in any other name, for none other name is given among men, whereby we must be saved.

11. And behyng this all the man which was heade, standing with them, they could not say against it.

12. But commaunding them to go aside out of the counsel, and comfined among them selves,

13. Saying: What shall we do to these men? For a manifest signe is done by them, and is openly knoued to all them that dwell in Hierusalem, and we can not deene it.

14. But that it be not told no farther among the people, let vs threaten and charge them that they speake henceforth to no man in this name.

15. And they called them, and commaunding them, that in no hype they should speake, nor teache in the name of Jesu.

16. But Peter and John answered, and saide unto them: Whether ye be sight in the sight of God, to hearken unto you more then to God, judge ye.

17. For we cannot but speake that which we have seene and hearde.
So threatened they them, and let them go, and found nothing how to punish them, because of the people: for all men prayed God, because of that which was done. For the man was about fourscore, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed. Then all done as they were let go, they came to their fellows, and shewed all that the bye priests and elders had laved unto them. And when they heard that, they left up their voices to God with one accord, and sayde: Lord, thou art God, which hast made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, which by the mouth of thy servant David, hath laved: Why dyd the heathen rage, and the people imagine vaine things? The kings of the earth stode by, and the rulers came together, against the Lorde, and against his Childe. And of a truth, against thy holy Childe Jesus, whom thou hast anointed, both Herode and also Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and the people of Israel, gathered them selves together, for to do whatsoever thy hande shal thy counsel determined before to done. And no lode Lorde, belo vde their threats: laved unto thy fervenutes, that with all boldnesse they may speake thy word. So that thou stretch forth thine hande, that heaping, and signs, and wonders, be done by the name of thy holy Childe Jesus. And as done as they had prayed, the place money where they were assembled together, and they were all filled with the holy ghost, and they spake the word of God boldly. And the multitude of them that be, were of one heart, and of one soule: Neither laved any of them, that ought of their things which he possessed, was his own: but they had all things common. And with great power gave the Apostles testimonie of the resurrection of the Lorde Jesus: And great grace was with them all. Neither was there any among them, that lacked: For as many as were poftes of landes, or houles, solde them, brought the price of the things that were solde, and laved it downe at the Apostles feete: And distribution was made unto every man, according as he had need. And Joies, which was also called of the Apostles Barnabas (that is to say) the sonne of consolation, being a Leuite, and of the country of Cyper, when he had solde, solde it, and laved the money done at the Apostles feete. Miracles are done by the Apostles. The Angel of God byngeth them out of prison. They are brought before the councell. The sentence of Gamaliel. The Apostles are beaten. They rejoice in trouble.
9 Then Peter spake unto her: Why have ye agreed together, to tempt the spirit of the Lord? Behold, the seer of the which have buried thy husband, are at the door, and shall tarry thee out.
10 Then fell the dowe straightway at his feet, and pented by the ghost. And the young men came in, and found her dead, and carried her out, and buried her by her husband.
11 And great fear came upon all the Church, and upon as many as heard these sayings.
12 And by the handes of the Apostles, were many signes and wonders (meade) among the people. (And they were all together) unto one accord in 'Solomons pouche.
13 And of other lust no man loue hym selfe to them, nevertheless, the people magnified them.
14 The number of them that beleued in the Lord, both of men and women, grewde more and more.) 15 In so much that they brought the sike into the streets, & layde the on beddes and touche, that at the least way, the shadofe of Peter when he came by, might shadofe some of them.
16 There came also a multitude of the cities ronde about, unto Hierusalem, byngynge sike folkes, and them which were bereed with uncleane spirtes: And they were healed every one.
17 Then the chiefe priesse rose up, and all they that were with hym, which is the seet of the Saducetes, and were full of indigation:
18 And laped handes on the Apostles, and put them in the common prison.
19 But the Angel of the Lord by night opened the pison doozen, and brought them thirth forth, and laped:
20 Go, and speake in the temple to the people, all the worbes of this lyfe.
21 And when they heard that, they en-tred into the temple early in the morning, and taught: But the chiefe priesse came,
and they were with hym, & called a coumage together, and all the elders of the chyldren of Israel, and sent to the pison to let them.
22 But when the officers came, & founde them not in the pison, they returned,
and tolde:
23 Saying: The pison truly founde
we shut with all diligence, & the keepers standynge without, before the doores:
But when we had opened, we founde no man within.
24 Then when the chiefe priesse and the ruler of the temple, and the lyre priesse heard these sayings, they doubted of them, whether this woulde groode.
25 Then came one and theved them, saying: Behold, the men that ye put in pison, stande in the temple, and teache
the people.
26 Then went the ruler of the temple, with the officers, and bought them without violence: (For they feared the people, lest they should have beenstoned) 27 And when they had bought them, they set them before the counsell. And the chiefe priesse asked them, 28 Saying: *byd not we straglyth commaunde you, that ye should not teache in this name: And beholde, ye have ty-led Hierusalem with your doctrine, and intende to byng (b) this mans blood upon vs.
29 Then Peter and the other Apostles amunibered, and sayde: *we ought most to obey God then men.
30 The God of our fathers rapsed by Jefus, whom ye slewe, & hanged on tree.
31 Hym hath God lyst by with theght hande, to be a prince and a saunour, to gene repentanture to Israel, and for-grenenesse of smyes.
32 And we are recordes of these thynges which we say, & is also the holy ghost, whom God hath geneu to them that obey hym.
33 When they hearde that, they clame a funder, and sought meanes to slay the.
34 Then flode there by one in the countell, a phariseer named Gamaliel, a doc-tour of laude, had in reputation among all the people, and commanded the Apostles to go aside a little space, 35 And laped unto them: Ye men of Israel, take heed to your selves, what ye entende to do, as touching these men.
36 For before these daies rose by one Theudas, boilynge hym selfe, to whom reliost a number of men, about a four hundred, which was slayne: and they all which beleued hym, were scattered abode, and brought to naught.
37 After this man, arose up one Judas of the apostles.

When they had called the apostles, they bade them, and commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go.

And they departed from the council, reproving that they were counted worthy to suffer rebuke for his name.

And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ.

Then seven deacons are ordained in the church. 11 Seven is accused.

And in those days, when the number of disciples was multiplied, there arose a grudge among the Greeks against the Hebrews, because their words were spoken in the hebrew, in the daily ministic.

And the twelve called the multitude of the disciples together, and said: It is not good that we should leave the word of God, and sit at tables.

But they will go out from us, and to the ministic of the word.

And the saying pleased the whole multitude, and they chose seven, a man full of faith, and of the holy ghost, and wisdom, to whom they gave the name of the seven.

And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly, and a great company of the priests were obedient to the word.

And seven deacons are ordained in the church. 11 Seven is accused.

Then came he out of the land of the Chaldeans, and dwelt in Charran; and from thence, where his father was dead, he brought him into this land wherein ye dwelt first.

And they said to this priest: Are these things so? And he said: Ye men, heareth, and fathers, hearken. The God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham, when he was in Chelopatarnia, before he dwelt in Charran,
And he gave hym none inheritance in it, no not the breadth of a foote: and promised that he would give it to hym to possess it, and to his seede after hym, when as yet he had no childe.

And the nation vnto whom they shalbe in bondage, wyll I judge, sayde God: And after that, (shall they come forth,) serve me in this place.

And he gave hym the covenante of circumcision: And he begate Isaac, and circumcised hym the eight day, and Isaac (begate) Jacob, and Jacob (begate) the twelve patriarches.

And the patriarches named with enuer, solde Joseph into Egypt: and God was with hym.

And delivered hym out of all his adversitie, and gane hym favour & wisdome in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt: and he made hym governour ouer Egypt, & ouer all his housethould.

But there came a beahte ouer all the land of Egypt and Chanaan: and great affliction, that our fathers founde no sustenance.

But when Jacob hearde that there was come in Egypt, he sent our fathers first.

And at the second time, Joseph was knowen of his brethren, and Josephes kinebe was made knowen into Pharaos.

Then sent Joseph, and caused his father to be brought, and all his hyme, three foce and fiftene soules.

And Jacob defended into Egypt, and byed, both he and our fathers,

* The same syne was Mopses born, and was acceptable outo God, and nourished by in his fathers house three monethes.

And when he was cast out, Pharaos daughter toke hym by, & nourished hym for her owne sonne.

And Mopses was learned in all matter of wise-dome of the Egyptians, and was myghtie in deedes and in wordes.

And when he was full fourtie yeres olde, it came into his heart to visite his brethren the chyldren of Israel.

And when he Steve one of them suffer wrong, he defended hym, and avenged his quarril that had the harme done to hym, and smote the Egyptian.

For he supposed his brethren would have understande, howe that God by his hande shoule dyeuer them: But they understande not.

And the next day he shewed hym selfe vnto them as they stowe, and would haue set them at one agayne, saying: Sies, ye are brethren, why do ye weep one to another?

But he that did his neighbour wrong, tisnot hym wise, saying: who made thee a ruler and a judge ouer vs?

Wyl thou Kill me, as thou diddest the Egyptian yesterday?

Then fledde Mopses at that saying, and was a stranger in the land of Madian, where he begate tow sonnes.

And whose fourtie yeres were expired, there appeared to hym in the hynmer of mount Sinai, an Angel of the Lord in a flame of fire in a bulpe.

When Mopses sawe it, he wondered at the sight: And as he draw neare to behold the voyce of the Lord came into hym.

I am the God of thy fathers, & God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Mopses trembled, & durst not beholde.

Then seyde the Lorde to hym: *Put of thy shoses from thy feete, for the place where thou standest, is holy grounde.

Saul perished with the Christians. 4 The Apostles are scattered abroad.

Philip commeth into Samaria. 5 Simon Magus is baptized, and he inflameth. 6 Philip baptizeth the Eunuch.

1 And Saul* confeuned unto his death. And at that time there was a great persecution against the Church which was at Jerusalem, And they were all scattered abroad thro' the regions of Judea, and Samaria, except the apostles.

2 And devout men were carefully together touching Steven, and made great lamentation over hym.

3 As for Saul, he made havoc of the Church, and entered into every house, he drew out both men and women, and put them into prison.

4 Therefore, they that were scattered abroad, went everywhere preaching the word of God.

5 Then came Philip into the citie of Samaria, preached Christ unto the.

6 And the people gae heed unto those things which Philip spake with one accord, hearing and seeing the marvells which he dyd.

7 For, vnaure spirits, crying with loude voyce, came out of manye that were possessed with them. And many taken with paiues, many that haunt, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that citie.

9 But there was a certayne man called Simon, which before tyne in the same citie vnde witchcraft, and beefodied the people of Samaria, saying that he was a man that could do great shynese:

10 Whom they regarded from the leaft to the greatest, saying: This man is the great poower of God.

11 And bym they sette much by, because that of long tymne he had beefodied the with fatuaries.

12 But assone as they gae credence to Philip preaching of the lyving doun of God, and of the name of Jesus Christe, they were baptized, both men & women.

13 Then Simon hun fetel behene also: And whyle he was baptized, he continued with Philip, & worked, beholding the marvells & signes which were shewed.

14 When the apostles which were at Jerusalem, heard say that Samaria had receaue the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John.

15 When which they were come downe, prayed for that they might receaue the holy ghost.

16 (For as yet he was come downe upon none of them, but they were baptized only in the name of Christ Jesus.)

17 Then laid they their hands on them, and they receaue the holy ghost.

18 And when Simon falke, that though laying on of the apostles handes, holy ghost was gane, he offered the money.

19 Saying: Give me also this powere, that on whomsoever I put the handes, he may receaue the holy ghost.

20 But Peter layde unto him: Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gyste of God may be obtained with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor portion in this businesse: For thy heart is not right in the lyght of God.

22 Repent therefore of this thy wickednesse, & pray God. for perhaps thou hast thought of thine heart may be foguen thee.

23 For I perceaueth, thou art (b) in the gall of bitternesse, & wrapped in (c) michtes.

24 The answere of Simon was said: Praye ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things whiche ye have spake fall on me.

25 And they, when they had testified, and preache the word of the Lord, returned toward Jerusalem, and preache the Gospell in many townes of the Samaritanaus.

26 And the Angell of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying: Arystele, and goe toward the South, into the waye that goeth downe from Jerusalem into Gaza, which is desert.

27 And he arose, and went on: and behold a man of Ethiopia, an Eunuch, of great autonome with Candace, Queene of the Ethiopeas, had the rule of all her treasure, came to Hierusalem to vnde the Lord.

28 And as he returned home againe, lyting in his charite, he read Eiuanus the propher.

29 Then the spirit said unto Philip: Go neare, & passe thy lyte to vnder charite.

30 And Philip ranneth to him, & heard hym read the propher Eiuanus, & saide: Understand what thou readest.

31 And he said: how can I, except I had a guider.
a gupde: And he desired Philip that he would come up, and sit with hym.

32 The renour of the scripture which he read, was this: *He was leade as a shepe to the Daughter, *by a lambe punche before his hearde, so opened he not his mouth.

33 In his Humilitie, his judgement is exalted: But who shall declare his generation? For his lyse is taken from the earth.

34 And the Eunuche aunswered Philip, and lapyde: I pray thee of whom speakest the prophet this: Of hym false, of some other man:

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached unto hym Jesus.

36 And as they were on their way, they came unto a certayne water, and the Eunuche sayde: See, here is water, what doth let me to be baptised?

37 Philip sayde: [unto hym] If thou beliewest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he aunswered, and lapyde: I believe that Jesus Christ is the Sonne of God.

38 And he commanded the charite to stande still: and they went downe both into the water, both Philip and also the Eunuche; and he baptised hym.

39 And as soon as they were come out of the water, the spiritue of S Saul caught away Philip, that the Eunuche sawde hym no more. And he went on his way rejoycing.

40 But Philip was founde at Azotus. And he walked throughout the countrey, preaching in all the cities, till he came to Celaera, &

Linde (even Jesus that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest) hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, & be filled with the holy ghost.

And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales, & he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized.

And received meat, and was conferred. Then was Saul certaine days with the disciples which were at Damascus.

And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he was the Sonne of God.

But all that heard him, were amazed, and sayde: Is not this he that destroyed them which called on this name in Hierusalem, and came by these for that intent, that he might dye the bondage unto the eye pricets?

But Saul increas the more in strength, and confounded the Jewses which dwelt at Damascus, afforning that this was very Christe.

And after that many days were suffiled, the Jewses take counsel together to kill hym.

But their laying alwaye was known of Saul. And they watched his gate day and night to kill hym.

Then the disciples took him by night, and put hym through the wall, and let hym downe in a basket.

And when Saul was come to Hierusalem, he assayde to compe hym selfe to the discipes: but they were al aafayde of hym, and belieued not that he was a disciple.

But Barnabas took hym, & brought hym to the Apostles, and declared to them howe he had seene the Lord in the way, that he had spoken to hym, and howe he had beene boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

And he had his conversation with the at Hierusalem.

Speaking boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus. And he spake and disputed against the Greeks: but they went about to se a hym.

Which whiche the brethren knewe, & they brought hym to Cesarnea, and sent hym forth to Tarus.

Then had the Churches rest throughout all Judea, and Galilee, and Samarita, and were edified, and walked in the fear of the Lord, & multiplied by the comfort of the holy ghost.

And it came to passe, as Peter walked F throughout all quarters, he came also to the Saints which dwelt at Lydya.

And there he found a certaine man, named Eneas, which had kept his bed eight yeres, & was lichte of the palpue.

And Peter sayde unto hym, Eneas, Jesus Christe make thee whole: arype, and make thy bedde. And he arose immediately.

And all that dwelt at Lydya, and Saran sawe hym, and turned to the Lord.

There was also at Joppa a certaine woman, a disciple, named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Doxas: the same was full of good workes and almes deedes, which the dyb.

And it came to passe in those daies that she was sichte, and dyd: whom when they had walled, they layde her in an upper chamber.

And so amuch as Lydya was nye to Joppa, and the disciples hadde hearde that Peter was there, they sent unto hym two men, despoyng hym that he would not hegree to come unto them.

Then Peter arose, came with them, and when he was come, they brought hym into the upper chamber: And all the Wydowes stoode rounde about him weeping, and havinge the coates and garments which Doxas made while he was with them.

And Peter put them all sooth, and kneele downe, and prayed, and turned hym to the body, and sayde: Tabitha, ris. And he opened her eyes, and when the sawe Peter, the fate ly.

And he gau her the hande, and by her vp: and when he hadde called the lantes and wydowes, he delivered her aluye.

And it was knowne throughout all Joppa, & many beliued in the Lord.

And it came to passe, that he taryed many daies in Joppa, with one Simon a Tanner.

Math. vi. 18.
Here was a certain man in Cæsarea, called Cornélius, a captain of the band of the "Italian band."
1 And when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord?
2 And he said unto him: Thy prayers and thine alms, are come up for remembrance before God.
3 And now send men to Joppa, and call for one Simon, whose surname is Peter.
4 He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side: he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to do.
5 And when the angel which spake unto Cornelius was departed, he called two of his household servants, and a devout soldier of them that waited on him,
6 And told them all the matter, and sent them to Joppa.
7 On the morrow they entered into Cæsarea: And Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and special friends.
8 And it came to pass, as Peter came in, Cornelius met him, who fell down, and said,
9 But Peter said, Not so, for I also am a man.
10 And as he spake with him, it came to pass, that the men that were come worthy; and as Cornelius was towards Peter, and fell down, he said unto him,
11 But Peter said, Not so; for I also am a man.
12 And he said unto him: Ye know how that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew, to consort with a stranger.
13 And he said unto him: Therefore came I unto you without waiting, as I was sent for:
14 But Peter said, Not so; for I also am a man.
15 And he said unto him: What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.
16 And this was done thrice, and the vessels were received up again into heaven.
17 Howbeit Peter doubted in himself, what this vision which he had seen meant:
18 And called, and asked whether Simon which was prayed, were lodged there.
19 While Peter thought on the vision, the spirit said unto him: Behold, three men seek thee.
20 Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, and doubt not, for I have sent them.
21 Then Peter went down with them, and the men of Joppa sent with them, and sent one that had been a captive, with cornet, and store of goods.
22 And the thrice day after, he came into Cæsarea: And Cornelius met him, and said:

And we are witnesses of all things which he did in the land of the Jews, and at Jerusalem, whom they slew, and hanged on tree.

And Peter opened his mouth, and said: Of a truth I perceave that God hath no regard of persons:

Then sent I for thee immediately, and thou hast well done that thou art come. Now therefore are we all here present before God, to hear all things that are commanded unto thee of God,

And he commanded vs to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he which was osdefined of God to be the judge of quick and dead.

Whole Peter yet spake these words, for the holy ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

And they of the circumcision which beleved, were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the genticles also was shed out the gift of the holy ghost.

For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnifie God. Then answered Peter:

Whosoever believeth in the name of the Lord, shalle be saved.

The end.

No the apostles & brethren that were in Jure, heard that he had also receaved the word of God.

And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, they that were of the circuilion contended against him, Saying: Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, & diddest eat with them.

But Peter rehearsed the matter from the beginning, and expounded it by order unto them, saying:

And he shewed vs, hoewe he had seen an Angel in his house, which stoode and sayde unto hym: Sende men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter:

He shall tell thee wordes, whereby both thou and all thy house shall be saved.

And as I began to speake, the holy ghost fell on them, as he dyd on vs at the beginning.

Then came it to my remembrance, hoewe that the Lord sayde: *John baptised with water, but ye shall baptised with the (b) holy ghost.

For as much then, as God gave them the lyke gift as he dyd unto vs, when we believed on the Lord Jesus Christ: what was I, that I should haue with stande God:

When they heard these wordes, they helde their peace, and glouised God, saying: Then hail! God also to ^Sntiles, grannied repentance unto lyfe.

They also which were scattered a boode through the affliction that arose about Steven, walked through hont to Phenice, and Cyprers, and Antioche, preaching the wordde to no man, but unto the Jewes onely.

And some of the were men of Cyprers, and Cyprenes, when they were come to Antioche, spake unto p Graces, and preached the Lord Jesus.

And the hande of the Lord was with them, and a great number believed and turned unto the Lord.

Then the puynge of these things came D unto the cares of the Churche, which was in Hierusalem: And they sent forth Barnabas, that he shoude go into Antioche.

Which when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and exhort ed them all, that with purpose of heart they wouldе cleane unto the Lord.

For he was a good man, and full of the holy ghost, and of faith: And much people was added unto the Lord.

Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seeke Saul.

And when he had founde hym, he brought hym into Antioche. And it came to passe, that a whole yerere they had their convocation with the Church there, taught much people: in so much, that the discipules of Antioche, were the (c) first that were called Chistians.

And in those daies, came prophete from Hierusalem into Antioche.

And there stoode by one of them na med Agabus, and signified (d) by the spirit, that there should be great earth through all the world: Which came to passe in the daies of Claudius Cesar.

Then the discipules, euery man according to his abilitie, purposed to sende succour unto the brethren which dwelt in Jurie.

Which thyng they also dyd, and sent it to the elders by the handes of Barnabas and Saul.

4 And they, after they were sent forth of the holy ghost, departed into Seleucia, and thence they sailed to Cyprus.
5 And when they were at Salamine, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews: and they had also John to their minister.
6 And when they had gone through the isle unto Paphos, they found a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Barisius:
7 Which was with the deputation of the country, one Sergius Paulus, a prudent man: the same called unto him Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God.
8 But Elymas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) opposed them, and wrought, and hindered, that they should not believe the things spoken.
9 Then Saul (which is also called Paul) being full of the holy ghost, set his eyes on hym,
10 And said: O full of all subtility and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemie of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the ways of the Lord?
11 And now behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, and not see the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness, and he went about, seeking some one to lead him by the hand.
12 Then the deputation, when they saw what was done, believed, and were baptized at the doctrine of the Lord.
13 And when they that were with Paul were departed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia: and John departed from them, and returned to Hierusalem.
14 But when they that were departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in Pisidia, and went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and sate down.
15 And after the lecture of the law and the prophets, the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying: Ye men and brethren, if ye have any word to exhort the people, say on.
16 Then Paul stood up, and said: Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience.
17 The God of this people of Israel, chose our fathers, and exalted the people,
And we declare unto you, hode that the promise which was made unto the fathers, God hath fulfilled the same unto vs their children, in that he rapsed by Jesus agayne. As it is written in the second psalme: Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

And as concerning that he rapsed hym up from the dead, noda no more to returne to corruption, he sayde on this wise: If I will, I may clyse hym, and to his fathers, and was lapyd by vs his fathers agayne, and fade corruption:

But he whom God rapsed agayne, fade no corruption.

Behold ye defiles, and wondre, and per(e) the perf. I do a worke in your dares, a worke which ye shal not beliue though a man declare it you.

And when they were gone out of the synagoge of the Jews, the Gentiles besought that they would preache these woordes to them; their next-Sabbath.

And the next Sabbath day came almost the whole cite together, to heare the woode of God.

But when the Jews rapsed the people, they were ful of indignation, and spake against those thinges which were spoken of Paul, speaking against, and rapsing.

Then Paul and Barnabas rared voldte, and sayde: It was meete that the woode of God should first have ben spoken to you: but he true ye put it from you, and thynke your slues boudly of everlastyng lyse, loe, we turne to the Gentiles.

For so hath the Lord commanded vs. I have made thee a light of the Gentiles, that thou be the saluation unto the ende of the woode.

And when the Gentiles hearde this, they were glad, and glorified the woode of the Lord, and as many as were adayned to everlasting lyse, beleued.

And the woode of the Lord was publisshed throughout all the region.

But the Jews rapsed the devout and honest women, and the thicke men of the cite, and rapsed perfecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coailes:

But they spoke of the dull of their secte against them, and came unto Ionum.

And the disciples were spyled with toy, and with the holy ghost.

The xv. Chapter.

1 The decree of the Apostles concerning circumcision, and other ceremonies of the Jews; 2 Paul and Barnabas preach in Antioche; 3 Paul & Barnabas falling at Lystra, haste company.

1 And certain men which came downe from Judea, taught the brethren, except ye be circumcised after the manner of the Jews, ye cannot be saved.

2 So, when there was sore contention and disputing, not a little, between Paul and Barnabas, against them: they determin'd that Paul and Barnabas, and Galatia, the certaine other of them, should go up to Hierusalem, unto the Apostles and elders, about this question.
And after they were brought on their way by the Church, they passed through Phenicis and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the gentiles, and they brought great joy unto all the brethren.

And when they were come to Cezarea, they were received of the Church, and of the Apostles and elders: And they declared all things that God had done with them.

Then too by certayne of the set of the pharisees, which dyd believe, saying that it was needful to circumcise the, and to commande to kepe the lawe of Poples.

And the Apostles and elders came together, for to consider of this matter.

And when there had been much disputing, Peter rose up, and sayde unto them: He which is a brother, ye knowe how that a good while ago, God did chuse among vs, that the gentiles by my mouth, should hear the word of the Gospel, and beleue.

And God which * knoweth the hearts, bare them Wintesse, and gane unto them the holy ghost, even as he dyd unto vs:

And put no difference betwene vs and them, purifying their * hearts by faith.

Neither therefore, why tempt ye God, to put on the discipes neckes, the * yoke which neither our fathers nor we were able to beare:

But we beleue, that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, we haide faith, even as they.

Then all the multitude was silent, and gane audience to Barnabas and Paul, which toide what signes and wonders, God had wrought among the gentiles by them,

And when they heide their peace, James annullised, saying: Hen and brethren, heare it mine.

Simon toide, howe God at the beginning dyd wilte, to receave of the gentiles, a people in his name.

And as this agree the wordes of the prophets, as it is written:

*After this I will returne, and will builde againe the tabernacle of David, which is fallen downe: and that which is fallen in decay of it, will I builde againe, and I will set it vp :

Then pleased it the Apostles and elders, D with the whole Church, to sende choosen of their owne companie to Antioch, with Paul and Barnabas: [That is] * Judas, whose name was Barabas, and Silas, which were chief men among the brethren,

And wrote letters by them, after this maner.

The Apostles, and elders, & brethren, sende greetings vnto brethren, which are of the gentiles in Antioch, Syria, & Cilicia, F ozzamuch as we have heard, & that certayne which departed from vs, have troubled you with wordes, and embred your myndes, saying ye must be circumcised and kepe the lawe, to which we gave no such commandment.

If it seemed therefore to be a good thing, when we were come together with one accord, to sende choosen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,

Men that have jeopardized their hunes, for name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

We have sent therefore Judas and Silas, which shall also tell you * same thynges by mouth.

For it semed good to the holy ghost, and to vs, to charge you with no more then these necessarie thynges [That is to say]

33 And after they had tarried there a space, they were let go in peace of the brethren unto the Apostles.
34 Notwithstanding, it pleased Silas to abide there still.
35 Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with other many.
36 But after a certain space, Paul laid aside Barnabas; Let us go againe, and visit our brethren, in every city where we have shewed of the word of the Lord, (and see) how they do.
37 And Barnabas sent soule to take with them John, whose surname was Mark.
38 But Paul would not take him unto their company, which departed from them from Paphylia, and went not with them to the work.
39 And the contention was so sharp betweene the, that they parted asunder one from the other, and so Barnabas took Mark, and laid him unto Cyprus.
40 And Paul chose Silas, and departed, being commended of the brethren unto the grace of God.
41 And he went through Cyprus, Cytherea, establishing the Churches.

The xvi. Chapter.

1 Paul circumcised Timothie, they the spirits called them from one countrey to another. 2 Lyza is converted. 3 Paul and Silas imprisoned, couered the taylour, and are delivered because they be Romans.

1 Then came he to Derbe and to Lystra: And beholde, a certaine disciple was there, named Timotheus, a woman's sonne which was a Jewesse, and believed: but his father was a Greke.
2 Of whom the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium, reported well.
3 Paul woulde that he should goe sooth with hym, and take & circumcised hym, because of the Jews, which were in those quarters: so they knoynge all, that his father was a Greke.
4 And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees for to kepe, that were *doxapny of Jesus, and elders, which were at Hierusalem.
5 And so the Churches stood in the faith, and increased in number daily.
6 And so when they had gone through Phrygia, and the region of Galatia, and were forbidden of the holy ghost to preach the word in Asia,
7 They commynig to Myla, sought to go into Bithynia: but the spirite suffered them not.
8 And they passing through Myla, came down to *Troada.
9 And a vision appeared to Paul in the night: There stood a man of Macedonia, and peyned hym, saying: Come into Macedonia, and helpe vs.
10 And after he had seen a vision, immediately we prepared to go into Macedonia, being certified that the Lord had called us to preach the Gospel among them.
11 When we had looked soothly then from Troada, we came with a straight course to Samothracia, and the same day to Neapolis:
12 And from thence, to Philippi, which is the chief city in the parts of Macedonia, and a free city: And we were in that city abysyng certayne baptes.
13 And on the day of the Sabbathes, we went out of the city, beside a ryuer, where prayer was wont to be made: And we fasted downe, and spake unto the women which resorted thither.
14 And a certaine woman, named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of the Thyatirians, which worshipped God, gaue vs audience: Whose heart the Lord opened, that the attended unto the things which Paul spake.
15 And when she was baptised, and her household, the befalgence vs, saying: Yf ye have judged me to be faithfull to the Lord, come into my house, and abide there, And the contrayned vs.
16 And it came to passe, as we went to prayer, a certaine damsel possessed with a spirit of (2) foulsaying met vs: Which brought her masters much vauntage with foulsaying.
17 The same followed Paul, and vs, and cried, saying: These men are the werewolves, which caueth all that are possessed to do.

18 And this pbe the many sapes, But Paul not content, turned about, and spake to the sprites, I commannde thee in the name of Jesus Christ, that thou come out of her. And he came out of the same hour.

19 And when her masters saw that the hope of their gaines was gone, they caught Paul & Silas, and drave them into the marketplace, into the rulers,

20 And brought them to the officers, saying: These men trouble our cite, being Jews:

21 And preach ordinances, which are not lawful for vs to receaue, neither to observe, keeping we are Romans.

22 And the people ran against them, and the officers rent their clothes, and commanded them to be beaten with rods.

23 And when they had beaten them sore, they cast them into ppyson, commanuing the ayter of the ppyson to kepe them diligenty.

24 When which he had receaue this commandement, thrust them into the inner ppyson, and made their feet fall in the stocks.

25 And at myndight Paul and Silas prayed, and lauded God. And the ppysones hearde them.

26 And lothly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundation of the ppyson was shaken, and immediately all the doores opened, and every mans bands were loosed.

27 When the keeper of the ppyson waked out of his sleepe, and saw the ppyson doores open, he drave out his slave and woude have killled hym selfe, supposing that the ppysoner had ben sied.

28 But Paul cryed with a loude voyce, saying: Do thy seie no harme, for we are all here.

29 Then he called for a light, and stande up, and came trembling, and fell downe before Paul and Silas, 30 And brought them out, and spake: yeu, what must I do to be saved?

31 And they spake: believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy householde.

32 And they spake into hym the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house.

33 And he take them the same house of the night, and washes their wounds, and was baptysed hym selfe, all they of his householde straungeday.

34 And when he had brought them into his house, he let meat before them, and prayed that he with all his householde believe on God.

35 And when it was day, the officers sent the sergantes, saying: Let those men go.

36 And the keper of the ppyson tolde this saying to Paul, the officers have sent wordbe to looke you. Nothe therefore, get you hence, and go in peace.

37 Then spake Paul unto them: They have beene vs openly uncondemned, being Romans, and have calle vs into ppyson: and nothe woude they thrust vs out pouly: Nay verely, but let them come to me, and let vs out.

38 And the sergantes tolde these wordes unto the officers, and they feared when they hearde that they were Romans.

39 And they came, and besought them, and brought them out, and deliered the to depart out of the cite.

40 And they went out of the ppyson, and entred into the house of Lydia, when they had seene the brethren, they comfortted them, and departed.

The xvij. Chapter.

S they made their journey thro' the robe Amphipolis, and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews.

2 And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and spake in the Sabboth days disputing with the out of the scriptures.

3 Opeyning and alleagying, that Christ must needs have suffered, and resen a gaine from the dead, and that this is Christ Jesus, which I preache to you.

4 And some of them believed, and joined with Paul and Silas, and of the devouit Grekes.
Grakes a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5 But the Jewses which were not, moved with envy, took unto them certain vagabounds and evil men, and gathered a company, and set all the rite on a roe, and made an assault unto the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people.

6 And when they found them not, they were Jason and certain brethren unto the heads of the rite, crying: these that trouble the world, are come hither afe.

7 Whom Jason hath receaved (sacredly.) And these afe contrary to the decrees of Cæsar, (saying that there is another king.) Jesus.

8 And they troubled the people, and the officers of the rite, when they heard these things.

9 And when they were sufficiently anncndered of Jason, and of the other, they let them go.

10 And the brethren immediately sent away Paul to Silias by night, unto Berea: which when they were come thither, they entered into the synagogue of the Jewses.

11 There were the noblest of birth among them of Thessalonica, which receaved the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether these things were so.

12 Therefore many of them believed. Also of honest women which were Grakes, and of men not a few.

13 But when the Jewses of Thessalonica had knowledge that Paul of God was preached at Paul at Berea, they came thither and moved the people.

14 And then immediately the brethren sent away Paul, to go as it were to the sea; but Silas & Timothy absented there thine.

15 And they that urged Paul, bought hym into Athens, and receaved a commandement unto Silas & Timothy for to come to hym with speed, & went their way.

16 Whilst Paul wafted for them at Athens, his spirit was moved in hym, when he saw the rite genue to worship ping of idoles.

17 Therefore disputed he in the synagogue with the Jewses, and with the denount persones, and in the market daily with them that came unto hym by chaunce.

18 Then certain philosophers of the (b) Epistles, and of the Sidurcs disputed with hym, and some said: What think you? This babler say: Other some, he seemed to be a fitter fouth of neve gods; because he preached unto his, and the resurrection.

19 And they took hym, and brought him into Marce strete, saying: Have we not knowe what this neve doctrine & hygiene thou speakest? For thou bringest certain strange things to our ears; we would knowe therefore what these things meanes.

20 For all the Athenians and strangers which were there, gave them selves to nothing els, but either to tell or to hear some neve thing.

21 Then Paul stood in the myrdes of Marce strete, and sayde: ye men of Athens, I perceane that in all things ye are to superfluous.

22 For as I spake by, and behinde the matter holde ye worship your gods, I founde an author, wherein was written, F into the unknowe god. Whom ye then ignoquantly worship, him shalbe I ibto you.

24 God that made the world, & all that are in it, being that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelling not in temples made with handes: Neither is worshipped with mens handes, as though he needed of any thing, being he him selfe *geneth life and breath to all, every where.

26 And hath made of one blood all nations of men, so to dwell on all face of the earth, s hath determined the mynces before appointed, and also the boundes of their habitation:

27 That they shoulde take the Lord, & perhaps they might have felt and founde hym, though he be not here fro every one of vs.

28 For in hym we live, and move, & have our being, as certaine of your owne postrs sayde: for we are also his offpring.

29 Forasmuch then we are as the (c) offspring of God, we ought not to thinke that the Godhead is like unto godles, flater, or stone, graven by art, and made by men. And the mynce of this ignoquence God nourished at: but noide by both all men, every where to repent:}

Because
Because he hath appointed a day in which he will judge the world in righteousness, by that man by whom he hath appointed, and hath offered sacrifice to all men, that he hath rapped hymn from the dead.

And when they heard of the resurrection from the dead, some mocked, and other sayde, we will hear thee agayne of this matter.

33 So Paul departed from among them.
34 Hobe be it, certain men clave unto hym, and believed: among the whiche was Demas Areopagita, and a woman named Damaris, & other with them.

The xviij. Chapter.

Paul preached at Corinth. 19 Paul goeth agayne into Syria, and commeth to Ephesus and Antioche. 24 Of Apollos, 26 Aquila and Priscilla.

After these thynges, Paul departed fro Athens, and came to Corinth.

And found a certaine Jewbe, named Aquila, borne in Pontius, lately come fro Jutac with his wyfe Paleilla (because that Claudius had commanded all Jewes to depart from Rome) and he came unto them.

And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wrought (for their craft was to make tentes)

And he disputeth in the synagogue every Sabbath, and exhorteth the Jews and the Greeks.

And when Silas and Timotheos were come fro Macedonia, Paul was constrained by the Spite to testifie to the Jewes that Jesus was Christ.

And when they sayde contrary, and blasphemyed, he shooke his rattynent, and laid unto them: Your blood be upon your owne heads. From henceforth will I go blamlessly unto the gentiles,

And he departed thence, and entered into a certaine manes house, named Justus, a Worshipper of God, whose house opened hader he synagogue.

And one Crilpus the chief ruler of the synagogue beleued on the Lord, with all his housethould; and many of the Corinthians hearinge, beleued, and were baptized.

Then spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision: Be not afraid, but speake, and holde not thy peace:

For I am with thee, and no man shall invade thee to hurt thee. For I have many people in this cite.

And he continued there a per and six monethes, and taught the word of God among them.
And a certaine Jewe, named Apollos, borne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and mighty in the scriptures.

25 The same was informed in the way of the Lord, and spake frequenty in the spirit, taught diligently the things of the Lord, and lane but the baptism of John only.

26 And the Lame began to speake boldly in the synagogue, whom when Aquila and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly.

27 And when he was disposed to go into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receive hym: which when he was come, helped them much which had beleued through grace.

28 For he overcame the Jewes mighty ly, and that openly, hebying by the scriptures, that Jesus was Christ.

The xix. Chapter.

And it came to passe, whyle Apollos was at Cench, Paul passed through the upper coasts, and came to Ephesus, and found certaine disciples,

And sayde unto them: Haue ye receaued the holy ghost fene be beleued? And they sayde unto hym: We haue not haered whether there be any holy ghost b2 no.

And he sayde unto them: Unto what then were ye baptised? And they sayde: Unto John baptisme.

Then layde Paul: John beryly baptizet with the baptisme of repentance, laying into yee people, that they should beleue on hym which should come after hym, that is, on Christ Jesus.

When they heard this, they were baptizet (c) in the name of the Lord Jesus.

And whe Paul had layde his handes upon them, the holy ghost came on the, and they spake with tongues, and prophesied.

And all the men were about twelve.

And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three monethes, disputing & perswading those thinges that appeartane to the kyngdome of God.

But when divers werearde hearted, and beleued not, but spake eulp of the way of the Lord, and that before the multitude, he departed from them, & separated his disciples, and he disputet dayly in the scoole of one called Tyranus.

And this continued by the space of two yeres, so that all they which dwelt in Asia, haerde the worde of the Lord Jesus, both Jewes and Greces.

And God Wrought special miracles by the handes of Paul.

So that from his body, were broughc into the sicke, naphans, and particlettes, and the diseases departed from them, and the eulp spirites went out of them.

Then certaine of the bagabounde Jewes, eristat, toke upon them to call ouer them which had eulp spirites, the name of the Lord Jesus, saying: we asuere you by Jesus, whom Paul preacheth.

And there were seven soumes of one Seana a Jewe, and chiefe of hyr preistes, which dyed.

And the eulp spirite anumbered, and sayde, Jesus I knowe, and Paul I knowe: but who are ye?

And the man in whom the eulp spirite was, ran on them, & overcome the, & preapled aganist them, so that they fled out of that house naked & woold.

And this was knowen to all Jewes & Greces also which dwelt at Ephesus, and feare came on them all, & the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified.

And many that beleued, cam & conceyed, and shelled their worke.

Many also of the which beld curious craftes, bought their bookes, & burned them before all men, and they counted the price of them, & founde it fiftie thousand peeces of siluer.

So mightily grew the word of God, and preapled.

After these thinges were ended, Paul purposed in the spirit, when he had passed over Macedonia and Achaia, to L y

4. And when we had found disciples, we tarried there seven days: Who said to Paul through the spirit, that he should not go up to Jerusalem.

5. And when the days were ended, we departed, and went our way, and they all brought us on our way, with epicles and children, till we were come out of the city. And we kneeled down in the shore, and prayed.

6. And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took shippe, and they returned home againe.

7. When we had full ended the course from Tyre, we went downe to Ptolomada, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8. And the next day, they that were of Paulues company departed, and came unto Cefarea: And we entered into the house of Philip the Evangelist (which was one of the seven) and abode with hym.

9. And the same man had sorne daughte- ters, virgins, which dyd prophetic.

10. And as we taried there a good many of days, there came a certaine prophetic from Juries, named Agabus.

11. And when he was come unto vs, he took Paulues girdle, and bounde his owne handes and feete, and said: Thus saith the holy ghost, To shal the Fildes at Hierusalem bynde the man that obedyt this girdle, and shall duiyer hym into the handes of the gentiles.

12. And when we heard these things, both we and other which were of the same place, besought him that he would not go up to Hierusalem.

13. Then Paul amanubred what so ye weeping and beweyng myne heart: For if I am redy, not to be bounde only, but also to dye at Hierusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.

14. And when we could not turne his mynde, we ceased, saying: the will of Mathew, the Lord be fulfilled.

15. And after those days, we took by our Durbeths, and went up to Hierusalem.

16. *There went with vs also (certaine) of the discipiles of Cefarea, that wooted with them one Heslon of Cyprus, an old disciple, with whom vs should lodge.

17. And when we were come to Hierusalem, the brethren received vs gladly.

18. And on the morowe, Paul went in with vs unto (a) James, and all the elders came together.

19. And when he had saluted them, he tolde by othere all things that God had wrought among the gentiles by his ministrie.

20. And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and saide unto Paul: Thou seest brother, howe many thoulande Fildes Jews there are which believe, & they are all earnest followers of the law.

21 And they are unsoured of thee, that thou teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, and layed that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs.

22 What is it therefore? The multitude must needs come together: For they shall hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that we have to thee, we have four men, which have a vow on them:

24 Then take, & purify thy selfe with them, and do take them on, that they may have their heads: And all shall knowe, that those things which they have heard concerning thee, are nothing, but that thou thy selfe also walkest and keepest the lawe.

25 As touching the Gentiles which believe, We have written and concluded, that they observe no suche thing, save only that they keepe them solems from thongs offered to idoles, & from blood, and from strangled, & from fornication.

26 Then Paul tooke the men, and the next day purifying himselfe with them, entered into the temple, declaring the accomplishment of the dapes of the purificacion, but till that an offering should be offerd for every one of them.

27 And when the seven dapes were almost ended, the Jews which were of Asia, when they had hym in the temple, mowed at the people, & layde hands on hym.

28 Crying: Men of Israel help. This is the man that teacheth all men every where against the people, & the lawe, and this place: he hath also brought Greeks into the temple, and hath polluted this holy place.

29 For they had beene before with hym in the citie *Trophimus an Ephesian, 30 Whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple.

31 And all the citie was moved, and the people swarmed together: And they tooke Paul's drudge hym out of the temple, & forthwith the doores were shut.

32 And as they went about to kill hym, tybynge came unto the lyce captain of the soldiers, that all Jerusalem was in an hyrose.

33 Which immediately tooke (c) soldiers, and under capitanes, and ran downe unto them: And when they sawe the upper capitan and the soldiers, they left slaying of Paul.

34 Then the chief captain came nearer, & toke hym, and comandad hym to be bound with two chaynes, & demanued who he was, & what he had done.

35 And some cried one thing, some another, among the people. And when he could not knowe the certantie for the rage, he comandad hym to be carried into the castle.

36 And when he came upon the sappes, it was so that he was borne of the soldiers for the violence of the people.

37 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, away with hym.

38 And when Paul began to be caried into the castle, he laide unto the lyce capitan: May I speake unto thee: who sayde: Canst thou speake Grecce?

39 Art not thou that Egyptian which before these dapes madest an hyrose, and leddest out into the wylderness suche thoulouse men that were murthcres?

40 But Paul saide: I am a man which am a Jew, of Tarshis, a citie in Cypros, & cyriuis of no byle citie, & I becund the suffre me to speake unto the people.

41 And when he had geyen hym licence, Paul stood on the sappes, & beckened with his hande unto the people: And while there was made a great sille, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, saying:

And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and castigating in prison both men and women.

And as the chief priests and all the counsel of the elders of the Jews did me, I received letters from Damascus, about noon, sorely there, from heaven a great light round about me.

And I fell into the earth, and heard a voice saying unto me: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

And I answered: Who art thou, Lord? And he said: I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest.

And they that were with me, fell on their faces, and were afraid: but they heard the voice of the Lord, that spake with me.

And I said: What shall I do Lord? And the Lord said: Arise, and go into Damascus, and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

And when I saw nothing for the space of three days, I was receiv'd by the hand of the Lord, that were with me, and came into Damascus.

And one Ananias, a devout man, came to me, and said: Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And the same hour I received my sight, and I said: Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?

And he said: The God of our fathers hath chosen thee, before thou wast born, to be to Israel a prince and a commander.

And I said: Lord, only them that are of the circumcision cannot believe, and have the truth of the righteousness of God.

And they that were with me said: The Lord hath delivered thee, Saul, from the hand of them that seek thy life.

And it came to pass, that when I was come again to Jerusalem, I was persecuted by the church of the Jews.

And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and castigating in prison both men and women.
1. Paul commeth before the counsell. 2. Ananias causeth hym to be striken, i. e. the captaine deliuereth hym, 3. God comforteth hym. 4. he is sent to Cesarea.

And Paul earnestly beseeching the counsell, saide: "Men and brethren, I have hyyd in all good confidence before God but why this day.

And why priest saide: "Then sayde Paul vnto him: God shall smite thee thou hast paynted wall: For, thou hast judged me after the lade, and commast me to be shutten contrary to the lade;

And thay that stooode by, sayde: "Reuuest thou Gods why priest:

Then sayde Paul: "I wyse not brethren, that he was the why priest. For it is written: *Thou shalt not urch the ruler of the people.

But when Paul perceaved that the part were saducees, and the other pharisees, he cryed out in the counsell: "Men and brethren. *I am a pharisee, the sonne of a pharisee: *Of the hope of resurrection of the dead, I am cudged.

And when he had so sayde, there arose a debate betwene the pharisees and the saducees, and the multitude was deviced.

For the saducees say, that there is no resurrection, neither Angel, nor spirit: But the pharisees confesse both.

And when there arose a great eye: and whe the sevies which were of the pharisees part arose, they stroue, sayng, We finde none euill in this man: But of a spirit or an Angel hath spoken to hym, let vs not stroue agaynst God.

And when there arose a great debate, the chiefe captain, fearing lest Paul should be haue beene puthe slumber of the, commaunded the soldiery to goe vnlne, and to take him from among them, and to byng hym into the castle.

And the nyght stooing the Lorde stooed by hym, and sayde: Be of good chere Paul, so as thou hast testified of me in Ierusalem, *so muft thou bere wittnesse also at Rome.

12. And when it was day, certayne of the Jevdes gathered them selues together, and made a *poulle, saying that they woulde neither cate nor lykene, pli they had kylled Paul.

13. And they were no then fourtie men, which had made this conspiracy.

14. And they came to the chiefe priests and elders, and sayde: We haue bounde our selues with a poulle, that we byll cate nothing but we haue layne Paul.

15. Poulle therefore gene ye knowledge to the upper captayne, and to the counsell, that he byng hym soothly into you to mooryde, as though ye woulde knowe something more perfectly of hym: And we, or euere he come neare, are redy to byll hym.

16. And when Paules sisters some heard of their sayng aluaite, he went & entred into the caste, and tolde Paul.

17. And Paul called one of the under captaynes into hym, and sayde: Byng this young man into the yce captayne, for he hath a certayne thynge to shewe hym.

18. And he toke hym, and brought hym to the yce captayne, and sayde: Paul the palmer called me into hym, and prayed me to byng this young man into hym, which hath a certayne mater to shewe thee.

19. Then the yce captayne toke hym by the hand, and went with hym out of the caste, and alised hym: What is it that thou hast to tell me?

20. And he sayde: The Jevdes are determined to deliere thee, that thou wouldest byng sooth Paul to mooryde into the counsell, as though they would enquire somewhat of hym more perfectly.

21. But folowe not thou their myndes: For there he in wayte for hym, of them, to the fourtie men, which have bounden themselues with a poulle, that they will neither cate nor lykene, pli they have kylled hym. And nowe are they redy, and loke that thou shouldest procede.

22. The upper captayne then lea young man depaert, and charged hym, lec thou rell it out to no man, that thou hast shewed these thynges to me.

And
A ND after true days, Ananias the high priest descended, with the elders, and with a certain scribe, named Tertullus, which appeared before the deputie against Paul.

2 And when Paul was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying:

Saying that we (c) obtained great quietness by the means of thee, and that many good thynge are done into this nation through thy prudence,

That abode we ever, in all places, most noble Felix, with all thankes.

(c) Notwithstand that I be not tedious unto thee, I pray thee, that thou wouldst heare us of the cursed a fewe works,

3 For we have found this man a pestilent seditio, and a noower of debate unto all the Iewes in the whole land, and a maynteyner of the sect of the Nazarites.

6 And hath gone about to pollute the temple: Whom the toke, and would have judged according to our laude.

3 But the hye captayne Lysias, came upon us, and with great violence toke hym away out of our handes,

8 Commanding his accusers to come unto thee: Of whom thou mayest, if thou wilt enquire, know the certaintie of all these thynge, whereof we accuse hym.

9 And the Iewes spake up, saying that these thynge were true.

10 Tho Paul, after that the deputie hym selfe had becketted unto hym that he (d) should speake, answered: With a more quiet manner do I aunswere for my selfe, toasmuch as I understand, that thou hast ben of many yeres a judge into this nation:

11 Because that thou mayest know that there are yet but twelve dapes, hence I went up to Hierusalem so as to worship, 12 And they neither founde me in the temple disputing with any man, either raying by the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the cite.

Neither
Neither can they prove the things whereof they accuse me.

But this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and the prophets,

And have hope towards God, that the resurrection of the dead which they themselves seek for also, shall both of the living and the dead.

And herein Lude, to have all ways a clear conscience toward God, and toward men.

No one after many years, as I came and brought alms to my nation, and offerings:

In the which they found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor yet with buxquetene.

Howbeit, there were certain Jews out of Asia, which ought to be here present before thee, as I accuse me, yet they had ought against me:

Orestes let these same here lay, if they have found any curril doing in me, while I stand here in the counsel:

Except it be for this one voice, that I cried standing among them, of the resurrection from the dead, and I judged of you this day.

And while Felix heard these things, and he deferred them, for he knew very well of that way, and said: When Lysias the captain is come downe, I will know the bmotz of your matter.

And he commanded an under captain to keep Paul, and to let him have rest, and that he should so forbode none of his acquaintance to minister unto him, or to come unto him.

And after certain days, when Felix came, with his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewesse, he called forth Paul, and heard him of the faith which is towarde Christ.

And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come, Felix (2) trembled, and was troubled: So the way for this time, when I have a convenient season, I will venore for thee.

He hoped also, that money should be given unto him from Paul, that he might loose hym: Wherefore, he lent for hym the oftener, and communed with hym.

But after two years, Porcius Felix came into Rome: And Felix *Wypnyng to thede the Jeves a pleasaunce, left Paul bound.

The xxv. Chapter.

When Festus was come into the prouince, after three days, he attended from Cesarea unto Hierusalem.

Then esenounced him the hie presth, and the chief of the Jeves, of Paul: And they besought hym,

And declared favour against hym, that he wouldende for hym to Hierusalem: And they layde in the way, to kill hym.

But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cesarea, and that he himselfe woulde shortly depart thither.

Let them therefore, sayde he, which among you are able, come downe with vs, and accuse hym, if there be any fault in this man.

And when he had tarped among them, it was more than ten days, he went downe into Cesarea, the next day late downe in the judgmente seate, and commanded Paul to be brought.

Who beyng come, the Jews which were come from Hierusalem, stood about hym, and layde many grevous complaints against Paul, which they couldt not (2) prove.

Whyles he answered [for hym selfe] that he had agaynst the lade of the Jeves, neither agaynst the tribe, nor yet agaynst Cæsar offended any thing at all.

But Festus Wypnyng to do so Jeves a pleasure, unanswered Paul, and sayde: Whyle thou goe by to Hierusalem, there be judged of these thynge before me?

Then said Paul: I stande at Cæcarius judgument.
Paul affirmed to be aypue.
11 And because I doubted of such manner of questions, I asked hym whether he would go to Hierusalem, and there be judged of these matters.
12 But when Paul had appealed to be kept unto the knowledge of Augustus, I commanded hym to be kept, till I might send hym to Cæsar.
13 Then Aegrippa saide unto Fesus: I would also heare the man my selfe. To morowe said he, thou shalt heare hym.
15 About whom, when I came to Hierusalem, the high priests and elders of the Jews encountered me, and desired to have judgement against hym.
16 To whom I answered: It is not the maner of the Romaines, to favour to deliuer any man that he should perse, before that he which is accused, have the accusers before hym, and have licence to answer for hym selfe, concerning the crime layde against hym.
17 Therefore, when they were come hither, without any delay, on the morowe I sate to give judgement, and com- manded the man to be brougthe forth.
19 But had certayne questions against hym of their owne superstition, and of one Jesus which was dead, whom

25. And lo, I saw a cloud come down from heaven, like a dove, and it rested on the head of the high priest, and then it departed. And I heard a voice from heaven, saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." And the high priest knelt down and cried, "Hallelujah!"

26. And when the high priest arose from the ground, he saw a light from heaven, and he said, "I have seen the glory of the Lord, and I have spoken with the angel of the Lord." And the light went out of his face, and he fell prostrate on the ground. But the angel said to him, "Arise, and speak to the people, for the Lord is with you." And the high priest arose and spoke to the people, and they were all filled with fear. And the angel said to them, "Fear not, for I am here to assist you." And the people were comforted and encouraged, and they went forth to do the will of the Lord.

Paul shippeth towards Rome. Julius the captaine entreateth hym curteously.

And at the last they utter this waTche.

And when it was concluded, that we should sayle into Italie, they delivered both Paul and certaine other prisoners, unto one named Julius, an under captaine of Augustus bande.

And we entered into a shippe of Adramyttium, looke from lande, appointe to sayle by the coasts of Asia, one Aristarchus out of Macedonia, of the countrey of Thessalonia, tarying still with vs.

And the next day we came to Sidon: And Julius curteously entreated Paul, and gaue hym liberie to goe to his friends, and to refire the hym self.

And when we had launched from theane, we sayled harde by Cyperes, because the shippes were contrarie.

And when we had sayled over the sea of Cilicia, and Pamphylia, we came to Myra, which is in Lycia.

And there the under captaine founde a shippe of Alexandria redy, that sayled into Italy, and he put vs thern.

And whyle we had sayled soone many dayes, a carie were come over against Grybun, because the wynde was soode vs, we sayled harde by Candiue, over against Salmo.

And with much woote sayled beyond it, and came into a place which is called the Faze haunes, newherinto was the citie of Laca.

When much wynde was spent, when sayling was noile leopardus, because also that they had onerlong faide, Paul put them in remembrance.

And sayle into them: Sybes, I perceive that this byage will be with hurt and much damage, not of the ladyng and shippe onely, but also of our lyues.

Nevertheless, the under captaine beleued the governour and the maister of the shippe, more then those thynges which were spoken of Paul.

And because the haune was not commodious to wynter in, many take coumunt to depart thence, yt by any meanes they myght attayne to Phenice, yt there to winter, which is an haune of Candiue, and highte towarde the southwest and northwest wynde.

And when the south wynde bleweth softly, they supposing to obtayne their purpose, looked into Asson, and sayled past Candiue.

But not long after, there arose against their purpose, a waTle of wynde out of the northeast.

And when the shippe was caught, and could not resst the wynde, we let her go, and were dryuen with the weather.

But we were carened into an isle which is named Claudiue, and had much woote to come by a boate.

Which they take by, and blesse, and made fast the shippe, feareinge lest they should fall into the Sytes: And so they let downe a balle, and were caried.

The next day, when we were tossed with an ecerebring tempest, they lighted the shippe,

And the thirde day, we cast out with our othre handes, the tacking of the shippe.

And when neither s hunte nor stares in many dayes appeared, and no small tempest layd upon vs, all hope that we should be faide, was then taken away.

But after long abstinence, Paul doode foorth in the middes of them, and sayde: Sybes, ye shoude haue harkened to me, ye not to haue lookt fro Candiue, neither to haue brought unto vs this haune and losse.

And now I exhort you to be of good chere: for there shalbe no losse of any mans lyfe among you, but of the shippe.

For there shooe by me this nighte, the Angel of God, whole I am, and whom I isere.

Saying: Fear not Paul, thou must be brought before Caesare. And lo, God hath greaued all them that sayle with thee.

Wherefore sybes be of good chere: for I believe God, that it shalbe even as it was tolde me.

Hoolde, we must be cast into a certaine place.

But when the fourteenth nyght was come, come, as we were saying in Asia, about myriads of the people supposed that there appeared some countrymen to them:

28. And founding, and soone it twentie sadders. And when they had gone a little further, they founded agayne, and found it twenty sadders.

29. Then searing lest they should have fallen on some rocks, they caste some anchors out of the sticke, and wished for the day.

30. And as the hyppmen were about to see out of the shippe, when they had doone the boat into the sea, under a colour, as though they would have cast anchors out of the shippe.

31. Paul lade unto the under captayne, and to the soldiers: Except these abide in the shippe, ye can not be safe.

32. Then the soldiers out of the rope of the boat, and let it fall away.

33. And when the day began to appeare, Paul besought them all to take meat, saying: This is the fourteenth day, that ye have tarped & continued fasting, receaung nothing at all.

34. Wherefore I pray you to take meat, for this no doubt is for your health: for there shall not an one here fall from the head of any of you.

35. And when he had thus spoken, he toke bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all: And when he had broken it, he began to eate.

The xxvii. Chapter.

And when they were leaped, then they kneve that the Ile was called Melite.

And strangers selected vs no little humblenesse: for they hundled the syre, and received vs every one, because of the present rainie, and because of the colde.

And when Paul had gathered a bouldell of sticke, and layde them on the syre, there came a Tiper out of the heate, and caught hym by the hande.

And when the strangers sawe the beast hang on his hande, they lade among them selves, No doubt this may is a murthyar : whom though he have escaped the syre, yet vengeance is not to lyue.

And he shoke of the Tiper into the syre, and felt no harme.

Holden, they waiered while he should have avoiu, or fallen doone deadly: But after they had looke a great while, and faw no harme come to hym, they changed their myndes, and lade that he was a God.

In the same quarters were possidions of a chief man of the Ile, whose name was Publius, which receaued vs, and lodged vs.
And it came to pass, that the father of Publius lay sick of a fever, and of a bloody flux: to whom Paul went in, and laid his hands on him, and healed him.

So when this was done, other also which had diseases in the Jile, came and were healed:

And after three months we departed in a shippe of Alexandria, which had vowed in the Jile, whose badge was Castor, and Pollux.

And when we came to Spaconia, we tarped there three daies.

And from thence we fet a compass, and came to Megiddon, and after one day the south wynde blew, and we came the next day to Putculos:

where the founde brethren, and were desired to tary with them seven daies, and so we came towarde Rome.

And from thence, when the brethren hearde of vs, they came to mette vs at Appii forum, and at the three tawners, when Paul sawe the, he thanked God, and barded boldye.

And when we came to Rome, under captaine delighted the prisoners to the chiefe fighte of the host: But Paul was suffered to dwell by him selfe, with a custonier that kept hym.

And it came to passe, that after three daies Paul called the chiefe of the Jedes together. And whyle they were come, he sayde unto them: Hen and brethren, though I have committed nothing against the people, or ladues of the fathers, yet was I delighted prisoner from Hierusalem unto the handes of the Romaines.

Which when they had examined me, would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me.

But when the Jedes spake contrary, I was contrayned to appeale unto Cæsar: not that I had ought to accuse my people of.

For this cause then have I called for you, even to see you and to speake with you: because that for the hope of Israel, I am bound with this chayne.

And they lade into him: we neither receaued letters out of Jirice concerning thee, neither any of the brethren that came, neither spake any harme of thee.

But we will hear of thee, what thou thinkest: For as concerning this sect, we knowe that every where it is spoken agaynst.

And when they had appointed hym a day, there came many to hym into his lodging, to whom he expounded and testified the kynddome of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the lawe of Moses, and out of the prophets, even from morning to night.

And some were perfuaded in the things which were spoken, and some beleued not.

And when they agreed not among them selves, they departed after that Paul had spoken one word, (that he may well speke the holy ghost by Elias the prophet, unto our fathers).

Saying: Go unto this people, and say, with your eares shall ye heare, and shall not understande: and with your eyes shall ye see, and not perceiue.

For the heart of this people is waxed grosse, and their eares are dull of hearing, and their eyes have they closed: lest they should see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and understand with their hearts, and should be conuer ted, and I should heale them.

Be it knowen therefore unto you, that this salvation of God is sent to the gentiles, and they shall heare it.

And when he had sayde these words, the Jedes departed, and had great reafoning among them selves.

And Paul dwelt two yeares full in his owne hired house, and receaued all that came in unto hym.

Preaching the kynddome of God, and tryinge those things which concern the Lorde Jesus Christe, with all confidence, no man forbiddyn hym.

The Epistle of the Apostle Saint Paul, to the Romanes.

The first Chapter.

1 Paul the receipt by whom and to what purpose he is called. 1b what the Gospel is. 1c The recompense of God upon the wicked. 20 The use of the creatures. 24 The ingratitude and punishment of the wicked.

Paul the servant of Jesus Christ, (1) called to be an Apostle, seueinng into the Gospel of God, which he had promis'd afore by his prophets in holy scriptures Of his sonne, which was made of the seed of Dauid after the flesh: And hath ben declared to be the sonne of (2) God, with power after the spiritue that sanctified, by the resurrection from the dead, of Jesus Christ our Lord. By whom we have receavde grace and apostleship, that obedience might be given unto the faith in his name, among all the heathen. Among whom, ye are also the called of Jesus Christ: (3) To all that be in Rome, beloved of God, saints by calling, grace to you, and peace, from God our father, and the Lord Jesus Christ. First verily I count that the grace of God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is publish'd throughout all the world.

9 For God is my witness, whom I serve with my spirit in the Gospel of his sonne, that without ceasine I make mention of you, Praying always in my prayers, that by some meanes at the last, one tyne or other, I might take a prosperous Journey by the word of God, to come unto you. For I long to see you, that I might bestowe among you some spiritual gift, that ye might be established. That is, that I might have consolation together with you, eche with others faith, yours and mine. I would that ye should know brethren, holde that I have offentimes purposed to come unto you, (and have ben let hyther,) that I might have some fruit also among you, as among other of the gentiles.
14. Therefore God gave them up to uncleanness, through the lusts of their own hearts, to despise their own bodies among them tenses.

24. Wherefore God gave them up to be cleansed by the lusts of their own hearts, to despise their own bodies among them tenses.

25. Which changed the (1) righteousness for a lie, and worshipped and served the creature, more then the creator, which is to be punished forever. Amen.

26. Wherefore God gave them up to be filled with unrighteousness, fornication, beastly practices, and more.

27. And likewise also, the men left the natural use of the woman, and were changed into that which is against nature.

28. And as they regarded not to reverence God, so they were not even to be made good and most of, but were filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, beastliness, and more.

29. Backbiters, haters of God, polytheists, false witnesses, conmen, and more.

30. Without understanding, disobedient, in every way disobedient to father and mother.

31. Without understanding, covenant breakers, without natural affection, truce breakers, without piety.

32. The which, notwithstanding their righteousnesses, they which commit such thynges are worthy of death, not only to do the same, but also have pleasure in them that do them.
W theft of the righteous to his (c) deeds: etc.

To them, which by continuing in well doing, seek for glory, and honour, and immortality, eternal life.

But unto those that are contentious, that do not obey the truth, but obey righteousnesses (shall come) indignation, and wrath.

Tribulation, and anguish, upon every soul of man that doeth evil, of the Jews first, and also of the Greeks:

But glory, and honour, and peace to every man that doeth good, to Jewels first, and also to the Greeks.

For there is no respect of persons with God.

For whosoever hath sinned without law, shall also perish without law:
And as many as have sinned in law, shall be judged by the law.

(For in the light of God, they are not righteousness which hear the law: but the doers of the law shall be justified.

For when the Gentiles, which have not the law, do of nature the things contemplated in the law: they having not the law, are a law unto them themselves.

Which shew the works of the law written in their hearts, their conscience beating them witness, and their thought-es, accusing one another, or excusing.)

At the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ, according to (c) up Gospel.

Where, thou art called a Jew, and restest in the law, and makest thy boast of God.

And knowest his will, and affordest the things that be excellent, insomuch
by the law:

And believest that thou thy selfe are a gude of the blinde, a light of them which are in darkness,

An infomrue of them which takke difference, a teacher of the unlearned:
which hath the foure of knowledge, of the truth in the law.

Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest not thy selfe: Thou preached a man shoule not stcale, yet thou stalest.

Thou that layes a man shoule not commit adultery, breakest word.
Thou abhorrest idoles, and yet robbest
God of his honour.

Thou that makes thy boast of law, though breaking the law dishonours
God.

For the name of God is euil spoken among the Gentiles, through you:
As it is written.

For circumcision bearly nothing, yet thou kepe the law: But ye thou be a breake of the law, thy circumcision is made bircumcision.

Wherefore if the (c) bircumcision kepe the ordinances of the law, shall not his bircumcision be counted for circumision?

And shall not bircumcision which is by nature, if it kepe the law, judge thee, which being under the letter is circum-
sion, doest transgress the law?

For he is not a Jew, which is a Jew outwardly, Neither is that cirmcision which is outibrarde in the flesh:

But he is a Jew which is one interally, and the cirumcision of the heart: (which consisteth in the spirit: and not in the letter, (is circumorzation) Whole people is not of men, but of God.

* The iij. Chapter.

The Jews have a prerogative. 10 The Jews and Gentiles be both sinners.
11 All are justified by grace through faith, and not through works.

What preference
Then hath the Jew?
What an advantage
geth circumcision: Much every way.
First, for "because unto them were committed the wor-des of God.

What then though some of them dyd not believe: Shall their unbeliever make the (c) law of God without effect?

which taketh bunge-ource: I speake after the manner of men,

56 God soley. For when shall God judge the world?

7 For the truth of God hath most abounded through my lyes, into his glory, why am I as yet judged as a sinner:

3 And not rather (as men speake ciynt of us, and as some affirm that we say) let us do cynt, that good may come thereof: whose damnation is such.

9 What then? Are we better then they? No, in no wise. For we have already proved, holde that both Jews and Gentiles are all under sinne.

10 As it is written: There is none righteous, no, not one.

11 There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God.

12 They are all gone out of the way, they are all unprofitable, there is none that doth good, no not one.

13 Their trespass is an open sepulchre, with their tongues have they deceived, the posy of asp is under their lippes.

14 Whole mouth is full of cursing and bitternesse.

15 Their feet be swift to shed blood, their practices grieue them in their wapes.

16 And they way of peace haue they not knouen.

17 And there is no fear of God before their eyes.

18 There is no fear of God before their eyes.

19 O we knoue that what thinges so euer the lade faith, it faith it to them which are under the lade: That all mouthes maye be stopped, and that all wordes maye be damagued to God.

20 Because that by the deeds of the lade, there shall no flesh be justified in his sight. For by the lade, commeth the knowledge of none.

21 But no sive is the righteousnes of God declared without the lade, being buttressed by the testimonie of the lade and of the prophets.

22 The righteousnes of God (commeth) by the fayth of Jesus Christ, unto all and upon all them that believe. There is no difference.

23 For all have sinned, and are destitute of the grace of God.

24 Justified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus:

25 Whom God hath seent (to be a propiatiuon, through fayth in his blood, to declare his rightousnes, in that he forsooke the sins that are past,

26 Which God dyd suffer, to shew at this time his rightousnes, that he might be just, & the fayther of hym which beleueth on Jesus.

27 Where is then thy boasteing? It is excluded. By what lade? Of works: Nay, but by the lade of fayth.

28 Therefoe we holde that (a man is) justified by fayth, without the deeds of the lade.

29 Is he the God of the Jewes only?

30 For it is one God which shall intushe the circumcision by (b) fayth, and uncircumcision through fayth.

31 Do we then destroy the lade through fayth? God forbid: But we rather magnifie the lade.

7 Justification is the free gift of God, as it appeareth by Davids and Abrahams words and also by the office of lade and fayth.

A What shall we say then that Abraham our father, as partrumyn to the fleshly, dyd synde? For if Abraham were justified by works, the hath he where to boast, but not before God.

3 For what fayth the scripture: Abraham beleueth God, and it was counted unto him for rightousnesse.

4 To lade that worketh, is the rebaid not reckened of grace, but of dutie.

5 To lade that worketh (a) not, but beleueth, on fayth that is reckended the (b) goodly, on fayth is counted for rightousnesse.

6 Even as Davids descerebth the blessed-neesse of the man unto whom God imputed rightousnesse without works.

7 Blessed are they whose bounteous rightousnesse are forseen, & whose names are covered.
The promise might be sure to all; be not to that only which is of the land, but to that also which is of the faith of Abraham, which is the father of all nations.

Who contrary to hope, beleved in hope, that he should be the father of many nations, according to that which was spoken before, so that the seed be.

And he was not only judged, but also was circumcised, that the righteousness might be imputed unto them also.

And that he might be father of circumcision, not being only what he was circumcised, but also that he walked in the footsteps of the faith that was in our father Abraham, before the time of circumcision.

For the promise that he should be the hope of the world, was not to Abraham or to his seed through the law, but through the righteousness of faith.

For they which are of the law be wipped, but they that are of faith hope, they hope in their heart, and it is granted unto them.

Therefore by faith is the inheritance of those that hope. It might come by grace, that grace would be patient: patience is the hope of the godly.

And hope maketh not ashamed, because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the holy ghost, which is given unto us.

For when we were yet weak, according to the type, Christ died for the ungodly.

Not that only; but also we rejoice in tribulations, knowing that tribulation worketh patience: patience proveth, proveth hope:

And hope maketh not ashamed, because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the holy ghost, which is given unto us.

For when we were yet weak, according to the type, Christ died for the ungodly.

Not that only; but also we rejoice in tribulations, knowing that tribulation worketh patience:
The Epistle

The Epistle

What shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound: God forbid.

Blest are ye not, that all we which have been baptized into Jesus Christ, have been baptized into his death.

We are buried then with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the father: even so, we also should walk in newness of life.

For if we be dead with him, by baptism into death; much more, if we be alive in him:

Having the same Spirit moreover are also exhorted one to another: Let us therefore follow suit of Christ.

Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with Christ, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin.

For he that is dead is delivered from sin.

And if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him:

Knowing that Christ is risen from the dead, even so we believe.

Knowing that Christ is risen from the dead, we believe, that ye should also live in him who died for us, that we should rise also by the power of his resurrection.

Neither
not to the Romans.

XCl

Neither give ye your members as instruments of vnicst Routicholusse unto sinne: but give your selves unto God, as they that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God.

For sin shall not have power over you, because ye are not under the law, but under grace.

What then? Shall we sin because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid.

But know ye not, that to whom ye sellete to commit your selves as servants unto sin, his servants ye are to whom ye pe obay: Whether it be of time unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin: but ye have obeyed with heart the fountain of doctrine, into the which ye were brought unto.

11 Nor he ye not brethe? (sa I speake to the that knowe the lawe) hodie that the law hath power over ane, as long as he lyeth:

For the woman which is in subjection unto a man, is bounde by the lawe to the man, as long as he lyeth: But of the man be dead, she is loosed from the lawe of the man.

So then, whilst the man lyeth, shee couple her ffre with another man, shee be counted a weddiche breake: But of the man be dead, she is free from the lawe, so that she is no weddiche breake, though she couple her ffre with another man.

Even so, ye alle my brethren, are dead concerning the lawe by the body of Christ, that ye should be coupled to another, who is rasped from the dead, that we should bryng forth fruite unte God.

12 For when we were in the selle, the lutes of sinne Whiche were by the lawe thought in our members, to bring forth fruite unto death.

13 But being then made free from sinne, ye are become s of frumarntes of righteounesse.

14 I speake after the manner of man: because of the intemtity of your selle.

As ye have given your members s to vnicst amusse, and iniquite, unto iniquite: even so noe ye, that your members s vnicst amusse, unto holyne.

15 For when ye were the s of sinne, ye were free from vnicst amusse.

16 What scute had ye then in those thinges, whereof ye are noe attahned? For the end of those thinges, is death.

17 But noe ye bying made free from sinne, and made the s of God, haue your fruite unto holyne, and the end euertialy lypse.

18 * For the reobard of sinne is death; but the gift of God is eternal lypse, thorne Jesus Christe our Lode. [Gen ii. 24. Rom v. 23.]

19 * For I speake after the manner of man: because of the intemtity of your selle.

20 For the end of those thinges, is death.

21 But noe ye bying made free from sinne, and made the s of God, haue your fruite unto holyne, and the end euertialy lypse.

22 For I speake after the manner of man: because of the intemtity of your selle.

23 For the reobard of sinne is death; but the gift of God is eternal lypse, thorne Jesus Christe our Lode.
The Epistle

14. For we know, that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, sold under sin.

15. For what I do, I do not what I would: but what I hate, that do I.

16. If I do that which I would not, I consent unto the law, that it is good.

17. Now then it is not I that do it: but sin that dwelleth in me.

18. For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but to do good is not.

19. For the good that I would, I do not: but the evil which I would not, that do I.

20. And if I do that which I would not, then it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

21. I find then the law, that when I would do good, evil is present with me.

22. For I delight in the law of God after the inward man.

23. But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captive unto the law of sin which is in members.

24. O wretched man that I am! Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?

25. Thanks be to God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then, with the mind I serve the law of God: but with the flesh, the law of sin.

The vii. Chapter.

The assurance of the faithfull. 6 The fruits of the holy ghost. 7 The strength of the law. 8 Of patience under the cross. 9 Of the knowledge of God.

There is then no danpation to them which are in Christ Jesus, which walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit.

For the law of the spirit of life (through Jesus Christ) hath made me free from the law of sin and death.

For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, for sin, conquered sin in the flesh:

That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, which walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit.

For they that are carnal, are sold under sin: But they that are spiritual, are spiritually minded.

To be spiritually minded is life: But to be carnally minded, is death. Because that the carnally minded is enmity against God: For it is not obedient to the law of God, neither can be.

So then, they that are in the flesh, can not please God.

But ye are not in the flesh, but in the spirit: if so be that the spirit of God dwelleth in you. If any man have not the spirit of Christ, the same is none of his.

And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin: but the spirit is life because of righteousness.

But, ye Spirit of Christ, which was raised from the dead, dwelleth in you: and that which was raised by Christ from the dead, shall also quicken your mortal bodies, because that his Spirit dwelleth in you.

Therefore be ye zealous, and strive for the mastery of the升高, not out of the flesh, but out of the Spirit.

For ye live after the Spirit, ye shall die: But if ye through the Spirit, do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live.

For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.

For ye have not received the Spirit of bondage again to fear: but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father.

The same Spirit, beareth witness to our spirit, that we are the sons of God.

If we be sons, then are we also heirs, the heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ: So that we suffer together, that we may also be glorified together.

For I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.
For the fervent desire of the creature, abythes looking whe the sons of God shall appear:

Because the creature is Subject to vanity, not byling, but for hym which hath subdued the same in hope,

For the same creature shall make free from the bondage of corruption, into the glorious libertie of sons of God,

For we knowe, that every creature groaned with us also, and travaileth in paine, even into this tyme,

Not only they, but we also which have the first fruiter of the spirite, and we ourselves mourne in our lustes, and waye for the adoption, even the delierance of our body.

For we are laied by hope: But hope that is seen, is no hope. For hode can a man hope for that he seeth,

But and t lic hope for that we fee not, the do we with patience abide for it,

Phelbysse, the spirite also helpeth our infirmities, For we knowe not what is to desire as we ought: but the spirite maketh great (a) intercession for vs, With groynge, Which can not be expressed.

And he that seacheth the hearts, (b) knoweth what is the meaning of the spirite: for he maketh intercession for the saints according to the pleasure of God.

For we knowe all things worke for the best, unto them that lave God, to them which also are called of purpose,

For those which he knowe before, he also dyd prcdestinate, that they should be lyke fashioned into the shape of his sonne, that he urged be first begotten among many brethren.

Moreover, whom he dyd prcdestinate, the also he calleth, And whom he calleth, them also he justifis: And whom he justifis, them he also glorifis.

What shall we then say to these thynges: If God be on our lyke, who can be against vs?

Which spared not his owne sonne, but gave hym for vs all: Where shalle he not with hym also give vs all thynges?

Who shall lave any thyng to the charge of Gods chosen: It is God that justifis:

Who is he that can condemme: It is Christe which dyed, (a) rather which was dyed agayne, Which is also on the right hande of God, and maketh intercession for vs.

Who shall seperates from the lour of God: Shall tribulation or anguishe, or perfecution, either hunger, either nakednesse, either perpl, either doys:

As it is written: For the lave are we kylled all daye long, and are counted as sheece for the slauhther.

Nevertheless, in all these things we overcome, through hym that loved vs,

For I am sure, that neither death, neither lyfe, neither angels, nor rule, neither power, neither thynges present, neither thynges to come,

Neither heryth nor deapeth, neither any other creature, shalte able to separate vs from the lour of God, Which is in Christe Jesu our Lord.

Paul declareth his fervent lour towards his nation, in the treatise of election and vs.

Also of the callynge of the gentiles, and of the callynge of, of the Jews.
That is to say: "They which are the children of the flesh, are not the children of God: But they which be the children of promise, are counted the seed.

For this is a word of promise: 'About this time will I come, and Sarah shall have a son.'

Not only this, but also Rebecca was with child by one [even] by her father Isaac.

For per the [children] were born, when they had neither done good neither bad, that the purpose of God by [by] election might stand: not by the reason of works, but by the caller.

It was fadde unto her: 'The elder shall serve the younger.

As it is written: Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated.

What shall we say then? Is there any righteousness with God? God forbid.

For he shall not be unto mercy: 'I will shew mercy unto whom I will shew mercy: and have compassion on whom I have compassion.

So then it is not of the will, nor of the runner: but of the mercy of God.

For the scripture fadde unto Pharaoh: 'Even for this same purpose have I shered thee up, to shew my power in thee, that my name might be declared throughout all the world.'

So hath he mercy on whom he will, and whom he will, he hardeneth.

Thou shalt say then unto me: Why then Blancheth he [his] pet? For who hath been able to resist his will?

But O man, what art thou which disputest with God? Shall the booke say to the workman, why hast thou made me on this fashion?

Hath not the pottter power over the clay, even of the same lump to make one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour?

If then, God willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, suffered with long patience, the vessels of wrath, or dayned to destruction,

To declare the riches of his glory, on the vessels of mercy, which he had prepared unto glory;

Whom also he called, not of Jewes only, but also of the Gentiles.

As he spake also in Dece: 'I will call E them my people, which were not my people: and her beloved, which was not beloved.

And it shall come to passe, that in the place where it was fadde unto them: He are not my people, there shall they be called children of the young God.

And Elias cries concerning Israel: 'Though the number of the children of Israel, be as the sand of the sea, yet [but] a remnant shall be found.'

For he finiseth the [woode, and makes it short in righteousness: For that woode the Lord make of earth.'

And as Elias layde before: 'Except the Lord of Sabboth had left be [his] seed, we had been made as Sodoma, and had been licked to Sominaria.

What shall we say then: that the gentiles which followed not righteousness, have obtained righteousness: even the righteousness which cometh of faith.

But Israel, which followed the law of righteousness, hath not attained to the laude of righteousness.

Wherefore because [they sought it] not by every: but [as it were] by the works of the law. For they have stumbled at the stumbling stone.

As it is written: 'Schoole, I put it in (Sion a stumbling stone, and a rock of offence: And whosoever believeth on him, shall not be confounded.'

Paul doth the cause of the fall of the Jewes. The difference between the justice of the law, and faith. Is the causing of, of the Jewes, and calling of the Gentiles.
for righteousness to all that believe.
15 For *Hoyles writeth, of the righteousness which (18) of the law, howbeit that the man which both those things, shall judge by them.
16 But the righteousness which is of faith, speaketh on this wise: Say not thou in thy heart, who shall ascend into heaven? That is, to fetch Christ down from above.
17 Neither is there any difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him.
18 For *Hoyles shal call on the name of the Lord, shall be saved.
19 And *Hoyles shall say on them, *Hoyles shal ascend into heaven? That is, to fetch Christ down from above.
20 But what saith he? *The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart. This same is the word of faith, which we preach.
21 For if thou shalt knowleage with thy mouth, the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thy heart that God raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved.
22 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth man confesseth to salvation.
23 For the scripture saith: *Whosoever believeth on him shall not be confounded.
24 There is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him.
25 But what saith he? *The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart. This same is the word of faith, which we preach.

The xxiv. Chapter.

1 God hath his Church though it appear not alway to the world. He hath for taken the Jews, and chosen the gentiles, in whom yet he warneth to humble them selves. He repenteeth not of his gifts. 5 The depth of God's judgements.

2 Say then, hath God cast away his people? God forbid. For I also am Israelite, of the seed of Abrahaun, of the tribe of Leviun, God hath not cast a people which he knoweth before. What the scripture fath of he maketh intercession to save Israel.

3 Saying: Lord, they have kiled thy prophets, and digged down thy race. And I am left alone, and they take my life.

4 But what saith the amours of God unto them? *I have refuered unto my selfe seven thousande men, which have not bowd the knece to *image of Baal.

5 Even so at this tyne, there is a remainunt, according to the election of grace.

6 If it be of grace, then is it not of works. For the grace is no more grace, but if it be of works, then is it not so grace: For then works is no more works.

7 What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he sought: but the election hath obtained it, the remainunt hath been blyped.

The Epistle

10 Let their eyes be blinded: they see not, and though they do not understand their backs alway.

11 If they then, have they therefore stumbled, that they should fall? God forbid: but through their fall, salvation is come unto the Gentiles, for to provoke them to jealousy.

12 Now the fall of them was not unto the Gentiles, but to provoke them to jealousy; but when they shall fall, salvation shall come unto the Gentiles by the fall of the Jews: 3 for if they were not broken, they could not be grafted in: but now they are broken, that they may be grafted in again.

13 For I speak to you Gentiles, as much as I am the Apostle of the Gentiles, I magnify my ministry.

14 If by any means I may provoke to jealousy those which are my flesh, and might save some of them. 5 For if by any means I shall reach to some of them that are fallen, I shall save some of them. 6 Or doth not the parable of the vineyard declare this of them? When thou gavest the vineyard, thou didst require and gavest the tares. 7 And thou saidst, Lest while the tares were yet young, thou shouldst not pluck them up: lest perhaps they might not be converted. 8 Wherefore then castest thou the good seed also? Behold, the tares are an enemy that doth destroy the good seed; but the enemy is he that soweth tares. 9 Wherefore the Lord said, The workers of iniquity are cast out. 10 Go ye therefore into the vineyard, and pluck out the tares: do ye not lose any thing? 11 And he saith unto them, No: but when ye have plucked out the tares, cast them into the fire: where neither foul nor bird setteth, but only the stones. 12 And the laborer is worthy of his hire. 13 For if a workman work, he shall receive of the Lord a recompense. 14 Speak, Lord, I am ready; I am come: this day I am parted to the work of the Lord. 15 And it came to pass, when he saw it, that it was good. 16 And he said, Go ye...

1 Let every soule be subject into the hyer powers: For there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordained of God.

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: And they that resist, shall receaue to the selues dampanation.

3 For rulers are not wardell to good works, but to the enly. Whyle thou not feare the power? Do well, and thou shalt haue peace of the same.

4 For he is the minister of God for thy wealth. But ye thou do enly, feare:

For he beareth not the sword in bayne, so he is the minister of God, revenger of warre on hypon that doth enly.

5 Wherefore, ye must needs be subject, not only for fear of punishment: but also because of (3) confidence.

C This epistle was written to the Romans from Corinth ([and sent] by Phoebe the minister unto the Church at Cenchrea.

R. E.

The first Epistle of Saint Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.

The first Chapter.

1. He prophesies the great graces of God showed to them, 10 exhorting them to concord and humility.

2. He beareth down all pride, and wisdom which is not grounded upon God:

3. Shewing whom God hath chosen to confound the wisdom of the world.

4. A wise called to be an Apostle of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, and brother Socinus:

5. Unto the Church of God which is at Corinth: To the that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, (a) saints by calling, with all that call on the name of our Lord Jesus Christe in every place, both of theirs and ours:

6. Grace be unto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christe.

7. I thank my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you in Jesus Christe:

8. That in all thynges ye are made riches in hymn, in all bitterness, & in all knowledge:

9. As the testimonie of Jesus Christe was confirmed in you.

10. So that ye are destitute of no gift, wanting for the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christe,

11. Which shall also strength you unto the cubde, that ye may be blamelesse in the day of our Lord Jesus Christe.

12. *God is faythfull, by whom ye are called into the fellowship of his some Jesus Christe our Lord.

13. Now be ye beloved, that the name of our Lord Jesus Christe, that ye all speake one thing, and that there be no discontents among you, but be ye knit together, in one mynde, and in one meaning.

14. For it is shewed unto me by brethren, of you, by them which are of the house of God, that there are contentions among you.

15. Now this I say, that every one of you hath, I am of Paul, and I am of Apollo, and I am of Cephas, and I am of Christe.

16. As Christe deuided: was Paul crucified for you: eather were ye baptized in the name of Paul:

17. I thank the God that I baptized none of you but Cephas and Sauls:

18. Left any shoulde say, that I had baptized in anye other name.

19. I baptized also the householde of Stephana: Furthermore knowe I not whether I baptized any other.

20. For Christe sent me not to baptize, but to preache the Gospel: not with wise

21. But of simple words, lest the crosse of Christe should be made of none effect.
The first Epistle

18 For the preaching of the cross, is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved, it is the power of God.

Rom. i. b 19 For it is written, "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will cast down the understanding of the prudent." Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this world? Hath not God made the foolish things of the world to confound the wise? 1 Cor. ii. 19 For it is written, "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will cast down the understanding of the prudent." Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this world? Hath not God made the foolish things of the world to confound the wise?

20 Therefore the wisdom of this world is foolishness in God: and the wisdom of God is foolishness in the world, as it is written, 'He hath brought down the mighty from the seat of power, and exalted those of low degree.'

21 But after that the world through wisdom knew not God, it was made known unto them that believe, for the God of wisdom hath manifested it unto them.

22 For the Jews require a sign, and the Greeks seek after wisdom:

23 But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block, and unto the Greeks foolishness;

24 But unto them which are called both of Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God.

25 For the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

26 But as it is written, "The eye hath not seen, nor the ear heard, neither hath entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

27 But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world, that not many wise men after the flesh, nor many mighty, nor many noble, should be in this place.

28 And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea and things which are not, to bring to nought things that are.

29 That no flesh should glory in his presence.

30 And of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who is the power of God, and the wisdom of God.

31 That as it is written, the scripture shall be fulfilled, which says, 'I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and the understanding of the prudent shall be shortened.'

The second Chapter.

For I knew that he would Khal that should not be known, nor understood, neither be taught, that no flesh should glory in his presence.

9 But as it is written, 'The eye hath not seen, neither the ear heard, nor the heart conceived, neither the things which God prepared for them that love him.'

10 But God hath revealed them to us by his spirit: for the spirit searcheth all things, yea the deep things of God.

11 For what man knoweth the things of a man, save his own spirit? so also the things of God, no man, but the spirit of God.

12 And we have known, and do also the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God, that we may know the things that are given to us of God.

13 Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teaches, but which the Holy Ghost teaches, comparing spiritual things with spiritual things.

14 But the natural man perceiveth not the things of the spirit of God, for they are foolishness unto him: Neither can can he knowe [them] because they are spiritually discerned.
15 But he that is spiritual, discerneth all things, yet he himself is judged of no man.

The iij. Chapter.

16 For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he might instruct him?

But we have the mind of Christ.

17 And I could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal [even] as unto babes in Christ.

18 I gave you milk to drink, and not meat: For ye were not strong enough, neither are ye yet.

For ye are carnal. Seing then, there is among you envying, strife, and seditions, and divisions, and all sorts of carnal iniquity;

19 And another, I am of Paul, and another, I am of Apollo, are ye not carnal?

What is Paul? What is Apollo? Only ministers are they by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man.

20 But God gave the [cere]

6 So then, neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth, but God that giveth the increase.

7 He that planteth, and he that watereth, are one, and every man that receiveth his reward according to his labour.

8 For we are labourers together for God. Ye are the harvest, and God the [cere]

9 For we are labourers together for God. Ye are the harvest, and God the gatherer of it.

10 According to the grace of God given unto me, as a wise master builder have I laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But every man taketh heed how he buildeth thereon.

11 For other foundation can no man lay, than that which is laid; which is Jesus Christ.

12 If any man build on this foundation:

13 Every man's work shall be made manifest; for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is.

14 If any man's work abide which he hath built upon it then he shall receive a reward.

15 If any man's work perish which he hath built upon it, he shall suffer loss, but he shall be made as it were of fire by fire; nevertheless, as it were through fire.

16 Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?

17 If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy. For the temple of God is holy, which [temple] ye are.

18 Let no man deceive himself. As ye have received Christ Jesus, walk in him.

19 For the wicked one of this world, is foolishness with God: and it is written: "He compasseth the wise in [their] own craftiness:"

20 And again: The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they be vanity.

21 Therefore let no man glory in [their] own understanding: For all things are yours.

22 Whether it be Paul, or Apollo, or Cephas, either the world, either you, or death, whether they be present things, or things to come, all are yours, 23 And ye are Christ's, and Christ is God's.

The iii. Chapter.

1 After that he had described the office of a true apostle, lefying they did not acknowledge hym such one. 2 he appealed to god's judgement, being downe to their glasse, which did hinder them to parse that which was despised in hym. 3 he knew what he required on their part, and what they ought to take for of hym at his returne.

2 For I knowe nothing by my selfe, yet am I not thereby justified: but he that judgeth.

3 With me it is but a very small thing that I should be judged of you, either of mans judgement: No, Iudge not (a) mine owne selfe.

4 (a) whether I have great knowledge, also of many,
The first Epistle

5 Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who shall lighten thine eyes that are in darkness, and open the counsels of the hearts, and then shall every man have praise of God.

6 And these things brethren, I have figuratively applied unto myself, and to Apollos, for your sakes, that ye might learn by vs, that no man conceav in mynde above that which is written, that one dwell not against another for any mans cause.

7 For who repenteth thee? And what hast thou, that thou hast not received? If thou hast received it, why reiocest thou, as though thou haddest not received it?

8 Now ve are full, now ve are made void: ve raigne as bynges without bs, and I would to God ye dyb raigne, that we also might raigne with you.

9 For me thynketh, that God hath let booth vs, withche are the last apostles, as it were men appointed to death. For we are made a galing stone unto the worde, and to the angels, and to men.

10 Even unto this time ve both hunger and thirst, and are naked, and are buffetted, and have no cernaine dwelling place.

12 And labour, working with our owne hands, we are reputed, and ve blisse, we are perfeconed, and suffer it.

13 We are enuio spoken of, and ve praye: we are made as the slythynesse of the worde, the offswirling of all thynges unto this day.

14 I write not these thynges to shame you, but as my beloved sonnes I warne you.

15 For though ye have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet [have ye] not many fathers: For in Christe Jesu I have begotten you through the Gospel.

16 Wherefore, I desire you, ye folowers of me.

17 For this cause have I sent unto you Timothy, which is my beloved sonne, & faithful in the Lord, which shall put you in remembrance of my wayes which be in Christe, as I teach every where in all Churches.

18 Some live as though I would come no more at you:

19 But I will come to you shortly, if the Lord will, and will not that the Lord will, but the power.

20 For the kyngdome of God is not in words, but in power.

21 What will ye? Shall I come unto you with a rodde, or in love and in the spirit of mekenesse?

The First Epistle

The vii. Chapter.

1. The apostle answers to certain questions which the Corinthian desired to know, as of single life, of the duty of marriage, of disobedience and disgregation in marriage; of marriage between the heathen and the heathen, of unbecoming the circumcision, the second marriage.

Owe as concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me, it is good for a man not to touch a woman. Nevertheless, to a ype formation, let every man have his own ype, and let every woman have her own husband. Let the husband give unto the ype due reverence: Lyke ype also the ype unto the husband. The ype hath not the power of her own body, but the husband: And lyke ype also the husband hath not the power of his own body, but the wife. "Defende you not the one the other, except ye be with both your contents for a time, that ye may give your selves to fasting and prayer: and afterward come together again, that Satan tempt you not for your incontinence."

This I say by saue, not of commandement.

For I would that all men were as I myselfe; but every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, another after that.

I pray therefore unto them that be married, and ypped ypes, it is good for them if they abyde even as I. But if they cannot abstaine, let them marrie: For it is better to marrie then to burne.

Unto the married commandement, not I, but the Lord, "Let not the ype depart from the husband: But and if she depart, let her remaine unmarried, or be reconciled unto her husband [again]: And let not the husband put away his ype. But to the remarquant speake I, not the Lord: If any brother have a ype that believeth not, if she be content to dwell with him, let him not put her away. And the woman which hath left her husband be an infidel, and she content to dwell with her, let her not put him away. For the unbecoming husband is sanctified by the ype, and the unbecoming ype is sanctified by the husband: else were your children blemish, but now are they holy."

But if the unbecoming depart, let yp depart: A brother or a sister is not in subjection in such things: But God hath called us in peace.

For ype knowest thou that O woman, whether thou shalt have thy ype, or ypper knowest thou O man, whether thou shalt have thy ype?

But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath called every one, to ype them baile, and to ype them in all Churches.

Is any man called belonging circumcised: let him not abde uncircumcised: Is any called uncircumcised: let him not be circumcised. Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but the keeping of the commandements of God.

Let every man abyde in the same calling, wherein he was called.

Art thou called a seruant? care not for it: Nevertheless, if thou mayest be free, be it rather.

For he that is called in the Lord [being] a seruant, is the Lord's free man: And ype also he that is called [being] free is Christes seruant.

Be ye dearly bought, be ye not the seruantes of men.

Brethren, let every man wherein he is called, therin abyde with God.

Now concerning virgins I have no commandement of the Lord: yet geue I counsell, as one that hath obtained mercy in the Lord to be bethefull.

I suppose therefore that it is good for the present necessitie: for I say, it is good for a man to be.

Art thou bounde unto a ype: leketh not to be loosed: Art thou loosed from a ype: leketh not a ype.

But and if thou marrie a ype, thou lumped not, and if a virgin marrie, she bath not lymned: Nevertheless, such that have trouble in their defe, but I beare with you.
But this say I brethren, the time is short: It remaineth, that they which have wives, be as though they had none:

And they that weep, as though they wept not; that they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not: and they that bej, as though they possessed not:

And they that be in this world, as though they bled it not: For the fashion of this world passeth away.

*If any man thinketh that he is unmeet for the virgin if he paire the time of marriage, and neede to require, let him do what he will, he sinne not; let them be married.

Nevertheless, he that purposeth sithly in his heart having no neede, but hath power over his owne will, and hath so receeved in his heart that he will keepe his virgin, doth well.

So then he that is unmeet his virgin in marriage, doth well: but that is unmeet his virgin not: in marriage, doth better.

*The luyfe is bounde to the ladie as long as her husbande lyueth: but if her husbande be dead, she is at libertie to marry with whom she will, only in the Lorde.

But thee is happier if she asbe, after my judgement: And I thinke hereby that I haue the spritie of God.

This speake I for your profite, not to tangle you in a snare: but that ye may folowe that which is honest and comely, and that ye may cleare fast unto the Lorde without separation.

But if any man thinke that it is unmeet for his virgin if he paire the time of marriage, and neede to require, let him do what he will, he sinne not; let them be married.

Nevertheless, he that purposeth sithly in his heart having no neede, but hath power over his owne will, and hath so receeved in his heart that he will keepe his virgin, doth well.

So then he that is unmeet his virgin in marriage, doth well: but that is unmeet his virgin not: in marriage, doth better.

*The luyfe is bounde to the ladie as long as her husbande lyueth: but if her husbande be dead, she is at libertie to marry with whom she will, only in the Lorde.

But thee is happier if she asbe, after my judgement: And I thinke hereby that I haue the spritie of God.

This speake I for your profite, not to tangle you in a snare: but that ye may folowe that which is honest and comely, and that ye may cleare fast unto the Lorde without separation.

*For some having consience of the luyfe, will this house, eat as a thing offered unto luydes, and to their consience being weak, is defiled.

But meate maketh vs not acceptable to God: For neither if we eate, haue we the more, neither if we eate not, haue we the leffe.

But take ye be left by any means this Libertie of yours be an occasion of falling, to them that are weak.

As concerning the eating of those things that are offered unto luydes, we are sure that an luyde is nothing in the Lorde, and that there is none other God but one.

And though there be that are called gods, whether in heauen or in earth, (as there be gods many, and luydes many)

Yet beo unto vs is there but one God, which is the father, of whom are all things, and are in him, and one Lorde Jesus Christe, by whom are all things, and we by him.

But every man hath not knowledge:

1. Cor. viii. 1. 2. Cor. x. 3. 4.

Rom. vii. 3. 4.

1 Cor. i. 2.

(1) touching things offered unto luydes, we are sure we haue knowledge. Knowledge maketh a man stedfast: but one eateth. If any man thinke that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know. But if any man love God, the same is knovved of him.

As concerning the eating of those things that are offered unto luydes, we are sure that an luyde is nothing in the Lorde, and that there is none other God but one.

And though there be that are called gods, whether in heauen or in earth, (as there be gods many, and luydes many)

The ix. Chapter.

1. He exhorted them by his example to use their liberty to the edification of others.

2. To run not only in the course that they have begun.

3. I not an Apostle: am I not free? have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? Are ye not my work in the Lord?

4. If I be not an Apostle unto you, yet doubt not: for the sign of my apostleship are ye in the Lord.

5. Be ye and to us as the Lord hath made us of you.

6. And Paul and his companions went forth through Phoenicia and Syria, having the Gospel to preach.

7. And when they were come unto Antioch, they gathered the whole church together, and they imparted the work that God had done among the Gentiles by their ministry.

8. Then they, after they had stayed there a long time, departed, and went on through Galatia, and Phrygia, in order, unto Mysia.

9. But Paul, having resolved to pass through Asia, since they would not suffer him, But Paul and Sylas (for so it was written in the book of the prophets, Sylas being a Levite) departed from them, and went to BITHYNIA.

10. But as they would not stay at Bithynia, they went through Asiana, and came unto Miletus, where they were wont to come, and sent unto the elders of the church.

11. And when they had taken their leaves of him, and of all the brethren, they sailed from Miletus unto Patmos.

12. And when they had crossed over to Chios, they came unto Samos, and remained there a year and more.

13. And from Samos they went to Miletus, where they were wont to come, and sent unto the elders of the church.

14. And when they had taken their leave of one another, they sailed from Miletus unto Patmos.

16 — The cuppe of blesyng which we do blesse, is it not by parakyng of the blood of Christe? the bread which we breake, is it not the parakyng of the body of Christe?

17 For: we that are many, are one bread and one body, in as much as we be all partakers of one bread.

3 The xv. Chapter.

In ye Tudor time...
12 See that ye give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor yet to the Grecians, nor yet to the Church of God.
The xii. Chapter.

1 The diversities of the gifts of the holy ghost, ought to be tied to the edifying of Christ's church, as the members of man's bodyitur to the use of one of another.

Accepting spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant.

1. Wherefore I declare unto you, that no man speaking by the spirit of God, saith Jesus is not God, but by the holy ghost.

2. There are diversities of gifts, but the same spirit.

3. And there are diversities of administrations, but the same Lord.

4. And there are diversities of operations, but God is one, which worketh all in all.

5. The manifestation of the spirit is given to every man, to profit withal.

6. For one is given by the spirit of the wise, to another the word of knowledge, by the same spirit.

7. To another faith, by the same spirit: to another the gifting of healing by the same spirit.

8. To another, that power to do miracles, to another prophecy, to another a gift of knowledge, to another, the interpretation of tongues.

9. But all ye travail of one and the same spirit, decreeing to every man a merciful gift, as he will.

10. For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of one body, though they be many, yet are (but) one body: even so is Christ.

11. For by one spirit, are we all baptized into one body, whether (we be) Jews or gentiles, whether (we be) bond or free: and have all drunk of one spirit.

12. For the body is not one member, but many.

13. If the foot should say, because I am not the hand, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

14. And if the ear should say, because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

15. If all the body were an eye, where would be the hearing? If all were hearing, where would be the smelling?

16. But now hath God set the members, every one to his work.

17. Wherefore the foot is not for shame to be the same with the hand, or the head with the feet; no, but the members of it that seem to be less are necessary:

18. And he that is least of all the members, which seemeth to be the least, is that which is not so.

19. Beza, rather a great deal, those members of the body which seem to be more feeble, are necessary:

20. And upon those members of the body which we think least honour, put we more honour on. And our undeedly parts, have more comeliness on.

21. For our comely members need it not: but God hath tempered the body together, and hath given the more honour to that part which lacked.

22. Least there should be any strifes in the body: but that the members should have the same care one for another.

23. And if one member suffer, all suffer with
The first Epistle

With it. If one member be hid in honour, all the members rejoice with it.
27 Ye are the body of Christ, and members one of another.
28 And God hath disposed some in the Church, first Apostles, secondarily, prophets, thirdly teachers, and then them that do miracles: after that, the gifts of healing, helpers, governours, par-} ite of tongues.

29 Are all, Apostles: are all, prophets: are all, teachers:
30 Are all, doers of miracles: have all the gifts of healing: Do all speak with tongues: Do all interpret;
31 Court after the best gifts: And yet the I unto you a more excellent way.

The xiii. Chapter.
1 Because love is the souptane and rule of edifying the Church, he feteth forth the nature, office, and price thereof.

Though I speake with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not love, I am as an unson pedal, yea, I am a sounding brass, or a tinkling Cymbal:
And though I could prophesy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge: Pea, if I had all prophecy, so that I could move mountains out of their places, and have not love, I was nothing.

though I bestowe all my goodnes to feed the poore, and though I gave my body that I burned, and have not love, it profitteth me nothing.

3 And though I bestowe all my goods to feed the poore, and though I gave my body that I burned, and have not love, it profitteth me nothing.

4 Love suffereth long, and is curteous: Love envieth not, love bothe not striveth, desireth not,
5 Dealeth not disdonesst, * seetheth not her owne, is not provoked to anger, thinketh none evil,
6 Reioyseth not in iniquitie: but rejoysceth in the truth:

7 Suffreth all thinges, believeth all thinges, hopeth all thinges, endureth all thinges.
8 Though prophesieyes prophesy, other tongues reasle, or knowledge vanishe away, be not unioled never away;
9 If for our knowledge is unperfect, and our prophesying is unperfect:
10 But when that which is perfect, is come, then that which is imperfect shall be done away.
11 When I was a childe, I spake as a childe, I understoode as a childe, I imagined as a childe: But adowse as a man, I put away chypdishness, 12 Where we see in a * glass, even in a darke speaking: but when we see face to face. Where I knowe imperfectly: but when I knowe even as I am known.
13 Where abdydeth speaking, and love, these three, but the chiefe of these is love.

The xiii. Chapter.
1 He exhorteth to love, commendeth the gift of tongues, and other spiritual gifts, * But chiefly prophesying: 2 He commanndeth women to keep silence in the Church: 3 And teacheth what good order ought to be observed in the Church.

Dowle after love, and court spiritual [giftes] but most chiefe of that ye may prophesie.

For he that speakeneth with the tongue, speakeneth not unto men, but unto God: For no man heareth hym, howbeit, in the spirite he speakeneth mysteries,

But he that prophesieeth, speakeneth unto men to their edifying, to their exhoration, and to their comfort.

He that speakeneth with the tongue, edifieth hym selfe: * he that prophesieeth, edifieth the Church.

5 I wouldde ye al speake with tongues, but rather that ye prophesieeth: For greater is he that prophesieeth, then he that speakeneth with tongues, except he expondde it, that the Church may have edifying.

6 Dowle brethren, ye if I come unto you speaking with tongues, what shall I be profite you, except I speake to you either by revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrine:

7 Dowle, thinges without lye getting unto the Corinthians.

25 If then when ye come together in one place to eat, and your wife is not with you, let her alone go to eat by herself; for of such things are ye guilty before God: nay, ye do wrong, and sin, and it remaineth upon you.

26 But if any man have a mind to eat, with thanks, let him eat with his own house: and when thou hast eaten, give thanks to God. For why shouldest thou, or any other, judge, lest thou shouldest be judged of the same manner?

27 For, I say unto you by revelation, that when ye come together to eat, ye eat not the Lord's supper.

28 For we, being many, are one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of his body and blood. For by him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father.

29 Brethren, come not together as though the Lord's supper were to be eaten in the house of God.

30 For we, being many, are one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of his flesh and of his blood. But why eat ye that which is holy one to another, and cause your brother to stumble?

31 Brethren, ye are the guests of our Lord Jesus Christ.

32 Therefore escape, my brethren, as brute beasts from the snare of the devil, and be not partakers with him.

33 For, if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged: but when we are judged, we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world.

34 For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

35 Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his show: for he is hid that is hid from God, who is the mind of all things.
The first Epistle

The xv. Chapter.

The preacher the resurrection of the dead; and first that Christ is risen, 2: then, that we shall rise; 3: and the manner howe.

1. Docover brethren, I declare unto you, the Gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and wherein ye stand.

By the which also ye are saved, ye hepe in memonie after that manner I preached unto you, except ye have beleeved in bayne.

For first of all I declared unto you, that the which, I receaue: hoode that Christ dyed for our limes, agreeing to the scriptures.

And that he was buried, and that he arose againe the third day, according to the scriptures:

And that he was scene of Cephas, the first of all the Apostles.

After that, he was scene of nothen five hundred brethren at once: of which, many remaynente into this day, I s assaults are fallen a slaue.

After that, he was scene of James, when all of the Apostles.

And last of all he was scene of me, as of one humbled out of due tyme.

For I am the least of all the Apostles, whom am not worthy to be called an Apostle, because I persecuted the Church of God.

But by the grace of God, I am that I am: and his grace which is in me, was not in bayne: but I laboured more abundantly then they all, yet not I, but the grace of God which is with me.

Therefore, whether it were I or they, so we praech, and so haue beleeved.

If Christ be praech at hoode that he rose from the dead: hoode saie sone among you, that there is no resurrection of the dead:

If there be no ryling agayne of the dead, then is Christ not rylen agayne.

If Christ be not rylen agayne, then is our praechyng bayne, and your faith is alfo bayne.

16 For if the dead ryse not agayne, then is not Christ rylen agayne.

17 If it be so, that Christ rofe not agayne, then is your faith bayne, and ye are yet in your limes.

18 Therefore, they which are fallen in a slaue in Chylst, are perschiled.

19 If in this lype only we have hope on Chylst, then are we of all men moost miserable.

20 But noode is Chylst rylen from the dead, the first frutes of them that sleept.

21 For since baue (came) death, euery man be to be by man came the resurrection of the dead.

22 For, as by Adam all die: euery man by Chylst shall all be made alyne, 23 But euery man in his owne order.

The first fruteis of Chylst, afterward, they that are Chylstes at his commyn:

24 When commonly the ende, when he hath deluere by the kyndom to God the father, when he hath put doynte all rule, and all autocratie, and power.

25 For bannst raigne

26 The last enemie that thalbe destroyed, the death.

27 For he hath put doynte all thynges under his seete: But when he saith, all thynges are under hym, it is manifest that he is excepted which dyd put all thynges under hym.

28 When all thynges are subdoubt into hym, then shall the some allg hym selfe be ubiect into hym that put all thynges under hym, that God may be all in all.

29 Els what shal they do, which are baptised for the dead, ye the dead ryse not at all?

30 Why are they then baptised for them?

31 By our reworpyng which I haue in Chylst Hele our Lode, I dye daily.

32 If I haue fought wath beasts at Ephesus after the maner of men, what anaunftaghy it me, ye the dead ryse not agayne.

33 Be not decaeted, Cypill worbes, corrupt good maners.
to the Corinthians.
cv.

34 Awake truly out of sleep, and tune not: For some have not the knowledge of God. I speak this to your shame.
35 But some man will say, how are the dead raised up? with what body shall they come?
36 Thou fool, that which thou sowest, is not quickened except it die.
37 And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare come, as of wheate, or of some other:
38 But God giveth it a body at his pleasure, to every seed his own body.
39 All flesh, is not of the same flesh: But there is one flesh of man, another flesh of beasts, another of serpents, and another of birds.
40 There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial: But the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial another.
41 There is another glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: For one star differeth from another in glory.
42 So is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption:
43 It is sown in dishonour, it is raised in honour: It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power.
44 It is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.
45 As it is written: The first man Adam was made a living soul; and the last Adam was made a quickening spirit.
46 Howbeit, that which is spiritual, it is not first which is natural, and then that which is spiritual.
47 The first man [is] of the earth, earthly: the second man [is] the Lord from heaven.
48 As is the earthy, such [are] they that are earthly: And as is the heavenly, such [are] they also that are heavenly.
49 And as we have borne the image of the earthy, so shall we bear the image of the heavenly.
50 This first man [is] of earth: that selle and blood can not inherit the kingdom of God: Neither is corruption inheriting incorruption.
51 Behold, I shew you a mystery. We shall not all sleep: but we shall all be changed.
52 In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump. For the trump shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.
53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.
54 When this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality, then shall be brought to passe the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up into victory.
55 O death where is thy sting? O hell where is thy victory?
56 The sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law.
57 But thanks be to God, which giveth us the viour through our Lord Jesus Christ.
58 Therefore to be beloved brethren, be ye perfect, blameless, unblamable, without blemish in the sight of the Lord, so much as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

\( \text{The xvi. Chapter.} \)

1 He putte thin remembrance of the gathering for the poor brethren at Hierasalem, is the most perfect in faith, in the love of Christ, and of our neighbour.*
2 After his commendations, he would to them all prosperite.

\( \text{Concerning the gathering for the sanctes, as I have ordained in the Churches of Galatia, even so do ye.} \)

Upon some Sabbath day, let every one of you put aside by hym selfe, and lave by as God hath prospered hym, that then there be no gatherings when I come.

3 When I am come, whomsoever ye shall abobe by [your] letters, then well Iende, to bring your liberalitie unto Hierusalem.
4 And p[ut] me meete that I go also, they shall go with me.
5 I will come unto you, after I have gone over Macedonia (for I wyl passe through Pardonia)
The \( j \). Epistle

6 And it may be, that I will abide, yea or return with you, that ye may bring me on my way whytber better I go.

7 For I will not see you now in my passage, but I must to abide a while with you, if the Lord will suffer me.

8 I will be at Ephesus until Whitsun day:

9 For a great doze and effectual is opened unto me, and there are many adversaries.

10 Of Timothy come, see that he be without fear with you: For he worketh the work of the Lord, as I do.

11 Let no man therefore despise hym, but commend him forth in peace, that he may come unto me: For I look for hym with the brethren.

12 As touching our brother Apollo, I greatly desired hym to come unto you with the brethren, but his mind was not at all to come at this time: Howbeit, he will come when he shall have convenient time.

13 I watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quyre ye, bcne men, be strong.

14 Let all your things be done with love.

15 I beseech you brethren (ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is \( b \) firstfruits of Achaia, and that they have appointed them selues to minister unto the saints)

16 That ye be obedient even unto such, and to all that helpeth with vs, labour.

17 I am glad of the conning of Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus: For that which was lacking [brome] on your part, they have \( c \) supplied.

18 For they have comforted my spirit, and yours: Looke therefore that ye know them that are such.

19 The Churches of Asia salute you, Aquila and Priscilla salute you much in the Lord, and so do both the Church that is in their house.

20 All the brethen greet ye:

21 The salutation of me Paul, with mine owne hande.

22 Of any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, the same be Anathema maranaatha.

23 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

24 By love be with you all in Christ Jesus. Amen.

The second Epistle of Saint Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.

1 The \( j \). Chapter.

4 \( a \) He declareth the great profit that commeth to the faithfull by these afflictions: 16, 17. And because they should not impute to lightness that he deferred his coming contrary to his promise: he proveth his constancie, both by the fiercenes of his preaching, and also by the immutableness of the Gospel, a which truth is grounded on Christ, and sealed in our hearts by the holy ghost.

1 Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, \( b \) brother Timotheus. Unto \( c \) Church of God which is at Corinth, with all the saints which are in all

2 Achaia:

Grace be with you, and peace from God our father and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 Blessed be God, the father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is the father of mercies, the God of all comfort: Which comforted vs in all our tribulation, insomuch that we are able to comfort them which are in any manner trouble, with the comfort which we vs selues are comforted of God.

5 For as the \( d \) affections of Christ are plenteous in vs: even so is our consolation plenteous by Christ.

6 Whether we be troubled (\( e \) is) for your consolation and salvation, which salvation the Lord bestoweth in that ye suffer the same affections which we also suffer: or Whether we be comforted (\( f \) is) for your consolation and salvation:

Ut I determined this in my selfe, 2 I should not come againe to you unthankfully.

For if I make you sure, who is he should make me glad, but the same which is made (alone) by me.

And I wrote this same unto you, lest when I came, I should take heaviness of them of whom I ought to rejoice. This confidence have I toward you all, that my joy is (the joy) of you all.

For in great affliction and anguish of heart, I wrote you with many tears, not that ye should be made sorry, but that ye should perceive the love which I have, most specially unto you.
The Second Epistle of Peter

8 wherefore I pray you, that you would continue your love towards hym.
9 For this cause deeply did I write, that I might know the plague of you, whether ye be obedient in all things.

to the Corinthians.

The viiij. Chapter.

He declareth his diligence, and roundness in his office: and that which his enemies took to his disadvantage, to wit, the cross and affliction which he endured, he turned to his great advantage, 17 the which was the path of what posture commeth thereby.

A 1 Therefore, saying that we have such a ministrie, as we have received mercie, we say not: But have cast from us the clothes of vnholenesse, and walke not in craftiness, neither handle we the word of God deceitfully, but in opening of the truth, and report our felues to every mans conscieunce in the light of God.

3 If our Gospel be yet hid, it is hid in them that are lost:

4 In whom the (3) god of this world hath blinded the vnides of them which believe not, lest the light of the Gospel of the glose of Christ, (which is the image of God) should shine upon them.

5 For we preach not our felues, but Christ Jesus the Lord, and our felues your sernauntes for Jesus sake.

6 For it is God that commaineth the light to shine out of darkness, Which hath shone in our heartes, so to gene the light of the knowledge of the glose of God, in the face of Jesus Christ.

7 But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellence of the power be Gods, and not ours.

8 We are troubled on every side, yet are we not without hope. We are in power, but not powerly without somewhat.

9 We suffer persecution, but are not forsaken therein. We are cast downe, but we perish not.

10 We alwayes beare about in the body the bying of the Lord Jesus, that the byse of Jesus might also appeare in our body. 11 For we which live, are alwayes because of death, 12 and therefore I speak: 13 But to the naturally, so as it is written, The eleventh chapter of the first book of Corinthians.

14 For we knowe, that he which raiseth vp by the Lord Jesus, shall raisse vs also by the meanes of Jesus, and shall set vs with you.

15 For all thinges (as I) for your sakes, that the plentuous grace, by thankes giving of many, may redound to the praise of God.

16 Wherefore we are not weary: But though our outward man perithe, yet the inward man is renewed day by day.

17 For our exceeding tribulation which is momentanea (b) light, prepar eth an exceeding and an eternall waygeth of glose buto vs.

18 Wherefore we loke not on the thynge which is seene, but on the thynge which is not seene. For the thynge which is seene, are temporal: but the thynge which is not seene, are eternal.

The vi. Chapter.

Paul proceedeth to declare the visitation that commeth by the cross. 4 home we ought to prepare our felues bento it. 1 by whom, and for what ende. 14 15 He setteth forth the grace of Christ, 30 and the office of ministres, all the faithful.

A 1 For we knowe, that of our earthly tabernacle were destroyed, we haue a bauing of God, an habitation not made with hands, but eternall in heauen.

2 For therefore say we, desiring to be clothed with our house which is from heauen:

3 So yet, yf that we be founed clothed, and not naked.

10 As sorrowing, and yet alway rejoicing; as poore, and yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessed of all things.

11 Of ye Corinthians, our mouth is open unto you, our heart is made large:

12 We are in no straiten in vs, but are in a strait in your dede:

13 I write you, like as ye received us in Christ, so that ye would receive us, though we be not?

14 And bear not ye a strange yoke with the unbelievers. For what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? Or what communion hath light with darkness?

15 What concorde hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth, with an infidel?

16 For the temple of God is holy, which is the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom ye are building.

17 Wherefore come out from among them, and separate yourselves from them; for they are not your companions any longer:

18 And will be a father unto you, and ye shall be sons and daughters, faith the Lord almightie.

π The vii. Chapter.

1 For I exhort thee by the promise of God, to beheare them that are pure;

7 For they that be yeare your companion, and are not the fruit of your heart,

9 I wrote to you not, because I would make you sorrow; but, that ye should learn the lesson by the example of our brethren that be in Christ.

10 For godly sorrow worketh repentance unto salvation, not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death.

11 Behold how this great sorrow hath washed you, how it hath cleansed you from your evil deeds.

12 Wherefore, though I wrote unto you,

13 Therefore we are comforted, because ye are comforted: yea and exceedingly, that ye rejoice, as ye ought to rejoice;

14 I am therefore not ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to hym of you,
you. For as all things which we spake unto you are true: even so our boasting that I made unto Titus is made true.

15 And his minde's affection is more abundant toward you, when he remembered the obedience of you all, howe with fear and trembling ye received his hymn.

16 I rejoice that I may be bold in you in all thynges.

3. If the ministryng to the lautes, it is but superfluous for me to write unto you: For I know the readiness of your mind, whereof I boast my selfe of you, unto them of Macedonia, that Achaea was prepared a yere a go: and your zeale hath promised many.

4. Yet haue I sent the brethren, lest our boastynge which I make of you, should be in vaine in this behalf, that ye (as I have laide) may prepare your felues.

5. Left ye of Macedonia come with me, and synke you unprepared, we (I will not say you) should be ashamed in this matter of boastynge.

6. Therefore, I thought it necessarie to exhort the brethren, to come beforehand unto you, and to prepare your good boystynge promised afore, that it might be reddy, so that it be as a boystynge, and not a defraudynge.

7. Let every man doe, accordyng as he hath purposed in his heart, not grudgingly, or necessarie: *For God loueth a chearfull gener.

8. God is able to make you riche in all grace, that ye in all thynges haveing sufficient into the blast, may be riche into all manner of good workes.

9. As it is written: *He hath (as) harde abode, and haft been to the poore; his rychtouynesse remayneth for eter.

10. He that unfruitly seeketh usto the utter, unfruitly bread also for soude, and multiplyeth your seed, and encreseth the fruiues of your rychtouynesse.

11. That in all thynges ye may be made riche into all singlenesse, which causeth through vs, that thankes are gaven unto God.

12. For the administration of this service, do not only supplieth ye needs of the lautes, but also is abounding by the thankes geyng of many unto God.

13. Which by the experiment of this ministraion, may collect God for the obedience of your contenytng to the Gospell of Christ, and for your singlenesse in distribuying to them, and to all men:

14. And by their prayers for you, which long after you, for the abundaunt grace of God in you.

15. Thankes be unto God, for his unspakeable gift.

The x. Chapter.

1. He toucheeth the lisse Apostles, and defendeth his authority, exhortynge them to obedience: And the weeth what his power is, es and haue hebleth it.

2. Paul my selfe beche the you by the mehenesse of gentleness of Christ, whiche when I am present among you, am tobyse: but am boide towarde you byng absent.

3. I beche you, that I neede not to be boide when I am present, with that same boidenesse, wherewith I am supposd to have men boide, agaynst soue, which repente vs as though we walked accordyng to the fruiue.

4. *For the wepons of our warfare are not carnall, but nyghticke through God, Eph.vi, to cast doylne strong holdes.

5. Wherewith we ouerhoyde counseles, and every hye thyng, that is extract a-gaynst the knowledge of God, byng into capriittie all imagination, to the obedience of Christ.

6. And are readie to take venemace on all disobedience, when your obedience is fullfilled.

7. Looke ye on thynges after the bitter appearance: If any man trut in lyme selfe that he is Christes, let hym considere this agayne of hym selfe, that as he is Christes, even so are we of Christ.

8. For
The 15th Epistle

8 For though I should boast of my self somewhat more of our authoritie, which the Lord hath given to vs for estification, and not for your destruction, it that not be to my shame:
9 Let I should write as though I wert about to make you afraid by letters.
10 For the letters sayth he, are safe and strong: but his bodye presenc is weake, and his speeche rude.
11 Let hym that is such, thynke on this wise: that as we are in vsorde by letters, when we are absent, such are we in vsorde when we are present.
12 For the sure make not our selues of the number of them, or to compare our selues to them which passe themselves. Nevertheless, while they measure them selues, with them selues, and compare them selues with them selues, they understande not.
13 But wełyll not reioyce above measure: but according to the measure of the rule, which God hath distributed unto vs, a measure to reache even unto you.
14 For we stretch not out our selues beyond measure, as though we reached not unto you: for euery to you also haue we come with the Gospell of Christ:
15 And we haue not our selues out of measure in other mens labours: Pea, and we hope, when your faith is increased among you, to be magnified according to our measure abundantly, 16 And that I shall preache the Gospell, in those regions which are beyond you: and not to glorious of those things, which by another mans measure are prepared already.
17 But let hym that goeth, goeth in the Lord.
18 For he that payseth himselfe, is not allowed, but Whom the Lord payseth.

The 16th Chapter.

2 He declarth his affection towards them. 3 The excellency of his ministrie. 4 and his diligence in the same. 5 The fetches of the false Apostles. 6 The pervertie judgment of the Corinthians. 6 And his owne paysethes.

1 Oudo to God ye coulde have suffered me a little in my foolishnesse: and in vsord ye do soordear me.
2 For I am gelys ouer you, with Godly gelysoue: for I have coupled you to one man, to present you a shalfe virgin into Christ.
3 But I seare left by any meanes, that as the serpente beguiled Eve through his subtletie, even to your myocardes should be corrupted to the ungodlesse that is towards Christ.
4 For ye he that communeth, preacheth another (k) Jesu, whom we haue not preached: or ye receaue another spirite whom ye haue not receaue: either another Gospell which ye haue not receaue, ye woulde well have suffered (hyn).
5 Verly I suppose that I was not be hynde the shalfe Apostles.
6 But though I be rude in speaking, yet not in knowledge, but in all thynges among you, we haue ben well knownen to the burnest.

7 Dyd I suyne because I submitted my selfe, that ye might be exalted, because I preached to you ye Gospell of God freely?
8 I robbed other Churches, takynge wages of them, to do you servyce.
9 And when I was present with you, and had need, I was chargeable to no man: for that which was lacking unto me, the brethren which came from Macedonia supplied, and in all thynges I haue kept my selfe so that I should not be chargeable to any man, and (b) Ipyll I kept my selfe.
10 (k) The truthe of Christ is in me, that this rejoyning shall not be by agaunt me in the regions of Achaia.
11 Wherfore: Because I love you not: God knoweth.
12 But what I do, that Ipyll I do, to cut away occasion from them which desire occasion, that they myght be founde lyke unto vs, in our glories. 13 For such false Apostles are deceitful workers, transformed into Apostles of Christ.
14 And no marable, for Satan haunte his is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore 15 Therefore it is no great thing though his ministers be transformed as the ministers of righteousness, whose end shall agree according to their works.

16 I say again, let no man think that I am foolish: yet if others think that they be wise, yet I shall not be a fool, that I also may boast my flke a little.

17 That I speak, I speak not after the (1) Loade: but as it were foolishly, in this manner of boasting.

18 Seeing that many glory after the flesh, I will glory also.

19 For ye suffer fools gladly, suffering ye your fleshes are wise.

20 For ye suffer, if a man bring you into bondage, ye a man deuorce; ye a man take, ye a man eat, ye a man fjalbe, ye a man fjalbe with ye, ye a man fjalbe with ye, ye a man fjalbe with ye, ye a man fjalbe with ye, ye a man fjalbe with ye, ye a man fjalbe with ye.

21 I speake concerning reproche, as though we had ben weake: howbeit, wherein soever any is boide, I speake foolishly I am boide also.

22 * They are Ebues, even so am I. They are Haribilces, even so am I. They are the Seed of Abraham, even so am I.

23 They are the ministers of Christe, (I speake as afoole) I am more in labours more abundant, in stripes more measure, in pyson more plecloud, in death off.

24 * Of the Jews these tuneys receaue I fourtie ( stripes) saue one.

25 * Thylke was I beaen with rodde, once broad, twice I suffered shipwache, night and day have I ben in depth:

26 In tourneynge of ten, in perils of wa\res, in perils of robbes, in perils of myne obvye nation, in perils among the heasten, in perils in the citie, in perils in the widerness, in perils in the sea, in perils among falle beithen,

27 In laboure and travaile, in watchinges often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakednesse, 28 Besides the thynge which outwardly I come into my: my dayly encombrance the care of all the Churches.

29 *Who is weake, and I am not weake: who is offended, and I burne not?

30 If I must needs glory, I will glory of the thynge that concern myne infirmities.

31 The God and father of our Loade Jesus Christe, which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lye not.

32 In the citie of Damascus, Areas the kynges governour of the people, layde wa\rche in the citie of the Damaskes, and woulde haue caught me:

33 And at a wyndowe was I let downe in a bawset through the wall, and seaped his handes.

3 The xij. Chapter.

1 He reioyche in preserment, but chisely in his humblenesse, and layth the cause of his boatynge uppon the Corinthians, as he theweth what good wil he beareth them, and promiseth to come into them.

2 It is not expedient doubts, for me to gloze, I vyl come to bisions & revelations of the Loade.

3 For I knew a man (Christe) aboue aui, yetes ago, whether he were

4 in the body I cannot eel, or whether (the were) out of the body, I can not eel, (God knoweth) that he was taken up into the third heaven:

5 And I knewe the same man (whether in the body or out of the body, I can not eel, God knoweth)

6 Holde that he was taken up into paradis, & hearde unspeakeable wordes, which is not lawfull for man to eel.

7 Of such a man vyl I gloze, yet of my felse vyl I not gloze, but in myne infirmities.

8 For though I woulde desire to gloze, I shal not be a boote, for I vyl lay the trueth: but I vylde refrayne, lest any man shoulde thynke of me, aboue that which he leeth me to be, or he eere of me.

9 And lest I shoulde be exalted out of measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was givyn unto me a pricke to the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, because I should not be exalted out of measure.

10 For this thynge befoile I the Loade thynge, that it mighte depart from me.
And he sayde vnto me: By grace is sufficient for thee. For my strength is made perfect in weakeenesse. Post gladly therefore, I wil rather glorie in mine infirmities, that the power of Christ might be dwell in me.

Therefore have I dilataction in infirmities, in rebukes, in necessities, in persecutions, in anguishes for Christes sake: For when I am weake, then I am strong.

I am become a fool (m) glorying. Ye have compelled me: for I ought to have been commended of you. For nothing was I inferior unto the chief Apostles, though I be nothing, Truly the signs of an Apostle were sought among you, in all patience, and signs, and wonders, and mightie deeds.

For what is it, wherein ye were inferior unto other Churches, except (it be) that I was not chargeable unto you; Forgwe me this wrong.

Who else, noble the third time I am ready to come unto you, and yet will I not be chargeable unto you: For I feke not yours, but you. For the children ought not to lay up for the fathers and mothers: but the fathers and mothers for the children.

Dive come I the third time unto you, in the mouth of two or three witneses shall every word be established.

I tolde you before, and tell you before, as though I had ben present with you the second time, so write I noble being absent, to them which in time past have sinned, and to all other, that if I come agayne, I wil not spare,

Seing ye lecke experience of Christes speech, which spake he in me, which to you wares is not weake, but is mighty in you,

For though he was crucified of weakeenesse, yet kicth he of the power of God. And we no doubt, are weake in hym: but we shall truely in hym, by suche might of God toward you.

Examine yore selues, whether ye are in the saffr: done yore owne selues, know ye not your owne selues, howe that Jesus Christ is in you: except ye be repobates.

I trufl ye that knowe that we are not repobates.

Truly I say to God that ye do none eruell, not that we shoude seeme appro

For we can do nothing agaynt the truch but for the truch.

For we are glad when we are weake, and ye are strong. Truely this alio the with the, even your perfection.

Therefore write I these thynges being absent, lest when I am present, I should charene ye, according to ye power into which the Lord hath given me to edification, and not to destruction.

Finally brethren, fare well, be perfect, be Paul an Apostle, not of men, neither by man: but by Jesus Christ, and by God the father, which raised him up from death:

And all the brethren which are with me. Unto 5 Churches of Galatia:

Grace be with you, and peace from God the father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ:

Which gave hym selfe for our sakes, to deliver us from this present evil world, according to the will of God, and our father:

To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

If marrable, that ye are so soone turned from him that had called you in the grace of Christ, but another Gospel:

Which is not another Gospel but that there be some which trouble you, and intend to pervert the Gospel of Christ.

Nevertheless, though we, as an Angel from heaven, preach any other Gospel unto you, then that which we have preached unto you, let hym be accurst.

As we layde before, so say I nowe a-gayne, ye any man preach any other Gospel unto you, then that ye have receaue, let hym be accurst.

Do I nowe persuade men, or God? Other do I seeke to please men? For ye should ye please men, I were not the servant of Christ.

I certify you brethren, that the Gospel which was preached of me, was not after man.

For I neither receaude it of man, neither was I taught, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ.

For ye haue hearde of my conversation in ymme past in the Jeudes religion, howe that beyond measure I pervert the Church of God, I spoilde it:

And profited in the Jeudes religion, aboue many of my companions in my own nation, being a very servent maitrepur of the traditions of my fathers.

But when it pleased God, which seperated me out of my mothers, would, a called mee, by his grace,

To keale the soule by mee, that I should by the Gospel preyse hym among the heathen: immediatly I commynded not with haste and blood:

Neither returned to Hierusalem, to them which were Apostles before me; but went my wayes into Arabia, and came agayne into Damascul.

Then after three yeeres, I returned to Hierusalem to see Peter, and abode with hym sevemt yeares.

But other of the Apostles sawe I none, save James the Lords brother.

The thynge therefor which I wrote unto you, beholde, before God I lie not.

*Afterwarde, I came into the coasts of
The Epistle

of Syria & Cilia, and was unknown in face unto the Churches of Jude, which were in Christ.
22. But they had heard only, that he which persecuted us in time past, now preacheth the faith, which before he destroyed.

And they gloried God in me. 23. The past Chapter:

i. Concerning his Apostleship to be of God, he sheweth why Titus was not circumcised, and that he is nothing inferior to other Apostles. ii. Pea. and that he hath received Peter, the Apostle of the Jews. i. After, he committh to the principal sense, which is, to prove that justification only commeth of the grace of God by faith in Jesus Christ, and not by the works of the law.

2. Then fourteen years later, I went up again to Jerusalem, with Barnabas, and took Titus with me. I went up also by revelation, & I declared unto them the Gospel which I preach among the Gentiles: but privately, with them which were the chief, lest by any means I should run more than had run in the way.

3. But neither Titus which was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised,

4. And that because of the circumcision, that they might not be afraid of the Gentiles.

5. To whom also were a great fear, the terror of the Gentiles, that they might be afraid of the Gentiles.

6. Of whom which seemed to be some What they were in time passed, it maketh no matter to me, God accepteth no mans person: for they which were chiefly, added nothing to me.

7. But contrary wise, when they saw that the Gospel of the uncircumcision was committed unto me, as the Gospel of the circumcision was committed unto Peter.

8. So that as I was my self in Peter in the Apostleship of the circumcision the same was my self in me toward the Gentiles.

9. When they perceived that the grace which was given unto me, then James, Cephas, and John, which seemed to be pillars, came to me and Barnabas the right hand of the apostles, that we should be Apostles unto the Heathen, and they unto the circumcision.

10. Only that you should remember the poor: wherein also I was diligent to supply the necessaries of God's holy ones.

11. But when Peter was come to Antioch, I withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed.

12. For before certaine came from James, then they which were of the Apostles, and of the Brethren, were come.

13. And the other Jews dissembled with hypocrisy with hymn: insomuch that Barnabas also was brought into their simulation.

14. But when I saw that they went not the right way to the truth of the Gospel, I laid it to Peter.

15. We which are, Jews by nature, and not sinners of the Gentiles,

16. Know that a man is not justified by the deeds of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ: and we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the deeds of the law, because

17. If thou shalt be made righteous by Christ, then our faith is useless Christ the sinner of none: God forbid.

18. For if I build again the things which I destroyed, then make I myself a trespasser.

19. For if I, through the law, am dead to the law, that I might live unto God: I am crucified with Christ.

20. Neverthelesse, I live: yet not I, but Christ liveth in me. And by which which I doubt live in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, which loved me, and gave hymself to me.

21. I receive not the grace of God: For ye by righteousness come of the law, then Christ is dead in vain.

2 The 11. Chapter.

Foolish Galatians, who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the truth: To whom Jesus Christ was described before the eyes of among you crucified.

2 This only would I learn of you, whether ye received the spirit by the deeds of the law, or by the hearing of the faith?

3 Are ye so foolish, that after ye have begun in the spirit, ye would be made ends in the flesh?

4 Have ye suffered so great things in vain? It is yet in vain.

5 He therefore that ministereth to you the spirit, and worketh miracles among you, doth he it through the deeds of the law, or by hearing of the faith?

6 Even as Abraham believed God, it is accounted to him for righteousness.

7 Know ye therefore, that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham.

8 For the scripture saith, whatsoever God would unto the heathen through faith, through faith, be it done to them that believe.

9 So then, they which be of faith, are blessed with the faithfull Abraham.

10 For as many as are of the faith, are under the curse. For it is written, Curseth is every one that curseth not in all things which are written in the book of the law, to do them.

11 But that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident. For the just shall live by faith.

12 And the law is not of faith: but the man that doth them, shall live in them.

13 Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us. For it is written, Curseth is every one that hangeth on tree:

14 That the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Jesus Christ, that we might receive the promise of the spirit through faith.

15 Brethren, I speak after the manner of man: Though it be but a man's oath, yet if it be not broken, no man thinketh it, or addeth thereto.

16 To Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not to the seed, as of many: but to thy seed, as of one, which is Christ.

17 This I say, that the law which was given after promise, made promise, that the promise of the law might be fulfilled by faith.

18 For if of promise be of man, then is the promise of God at man's will.

19 If it be after promise, then is the promise of God at man's will, and not of him that calleth him.

20 A mediator is not a mediator of one, but God is one.

21 Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid. For if there were 100 promises, and 100 men came, and said, Ye shall live after the promises of God: if ye had not been a people, made known for blessing, which were not redeemed of God, then had the promise made to Abraham for the children of a hundred and thirty, and not of the children of the flesh.

22 But the scripture hath concluded all under sin, that the promise by faith of Jesus Christ might be given unto them that believe.

23 But before faith came, we were kept under the law, to the end that the faith which should be after faith, might be reckoned.

24 Therefore, the law was our schoolmaster unto Christ, that we should be justified by faith.

25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster.
faith in Christ Jesus.

27 For all ye that are baptized, have put on Christ.

28 There is no Jew, neither Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male, nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus.

29 If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise.

The iii. Chapter.

He therefore, wherefore the ceremonies were ordained, which being shadowes, must end, when Christ the true commeth. He moueth them by certaine exhortations, and confirmeth his argument with a strong example of allegorie.

And I say, that the heyp, as long as he is a childe, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be Lord of all,

But is under tutors and governors, until the time appointed of the father.

Even so we, when we were chyldren, were in bondage under the rudiments of the world:

But when the fulnesse of the time was come, God sent his sonne, made of a woman, and made under the law,

To recompence them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of chyldren.

Because ye are soures, * God hath sent the * spirite of his sonne into your hearts crying,  Abba Father.

Wherefore thou art no more a seruante, but a soure: if thou be a soure, thou art also an heire of God through Christ.

And with standing, when ye knew not God, ye dyd service unto the heyp by nature are not Gods.

But now after that ye have knovened God, ye are, rather are knovened of God, howe turne ye againe unto the heyp and beggary rudiments, whereby againe ye defer the heyp to be in bondage?

We obferve days, and monethes, and yeres.

I am in feare of you, lest I haue bestowed on you laboure in van:

12 Brethren, I beseech you be as I am (am) for I am as ye are, ye haue not imured me at all.

13 Ye knowe howe through informitie of the fleshe, I preache the Gospel unto you at first:

14 And my temptation which was in my fleshe, ye despised not, neither abhorr:ed: but receaue me as an Angel of God, even as Christ Jesus.

15 What is then your felicitie? For I beare you record, that ye it haue ben possible, ye would have plucked out ye owne eyes, and haue geuen them to me.

16 Am I therefore become your enemie, because I tell you the truth?

17 They are galioute over you amisse, yea, they intende to exclude you, that ye should be feruente to them Wardes.

18 It is good alwayes to be selyous in a good thyng, and not only when I am present with you

19 By little chyldren, of whom I trauayle in birth agayne, until Christ be fashioned in you.

20 But I desire to be present with you nowe, and to change my boype: for I stand in doubt of you.

21 Tell me ye that desire to be under the law, do ye not heare the law?

22 For it is written, that Abrahame had two sons, the one by a bonde man, and the other by a free woman.

23 But he which was of the bonde woman, was borne after the body: but he which was of the free woman, (was borne) by promise.

24 Which things are spoken by the allegorie. For these are two testamentes: the one from the mount Sinia, which gendreth unto bondage, which is Agar.

25 For Agar is the mount Sinia in Arabia, and bondes, and bondeshe upon the citie, which is nowe called Hierusalem, and is in bondage with her chyldren.

26 But Hierusalem which is about, is free: which is the mother of us all.

27 For it is written, Reioype thou baren, that bearest not chyldren, breake tooh and eye, thou that translatest not: For the desolate hath many chyldren, then the which hath an husbande.
The v. Chapter.

28 But brethren, we are after Isaaeh the children of promise.

29 But as then he that was born after the flesh, persecuted him that was born after the Spirit: even so is it now.

30 Heurthelethe, What saith the script-ture: *put away the bondwoman and her sonne: For the forme of the bond-woman, shall not be heere with the sonne of the free woman.

31 So then brethren, we are not children of the bondwoman, but of the free.

14 For all the lawe is fulfilled in one word, which is this: *Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thy selfe.

15 If ye be ye be and devote one another, take heed that ye be not conformed one of another.

16 *Then I say, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh.

17 For the flesh lusteth contrary to the Spirit, *and the Spirit contrary to the flesh. There are contrary one to the other, so that ye can not do what ye would.

18 But and ye be ledde of the Spirit, then are ye not under the lawe.

19 The deeds of the flesh are manifest, which are these, Adultery, Fornication, Nudenesse, Wantonnesse,

20 Idolatry, Witchcraft, Hatefull, Varaunce, Zeale, Wrath, Strife,
Foulness, Seditios,

21 Lyinge, Seducers, Drunkennesse, Gluttony, and Covetousnesse: of the which I tell you before, as I have tolde you, in myrte past, that they which do such things, shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

22 But the fruite of the Spirit is, Love,
Joye, Peace, Long suffering, Gentilenesse, Goodnesse, Faith,

23 Meekenesse, Temperauncie: *Agaynst such there is no lawe.

24 They truly that are Christes, *have cruched the flesh, with the affections and lustes.

25 Yet we prie in the Spirit, let vs Walke
in the Spirit.

26 Let vs not be desirous of banye glorie, provoking one another, envying one another.

to the Ephesians.

Chapter.

To magnifie the grace of Christe, which is the only cause of salvation, \\ he showed them what manner of people they were before, and what they \\ are now in Christe.

And you that were \\ dead in trespasses and sins, \\
In the which time \\ passed ye walked, according to the course of this world, after the \\ governor that ruleth in the ape, the \\ spirit that moveth in the children of disobedience. \\ Among whom we all had our conversation also in time past in the lustes \\ of our flesh, fulfiliyng the wyll of the \\ Flesh, and of the mind, were by \\ nature the children of wrath, even as \\ other:

But God which is riches in merie, for \\ his great love wherewith he loved us, \\ Even when we were dead by inches, \\ hath quickened us together with Christ, \\
by grace are ye saved:

And hath raised [H] by together, and \\ made [H] by together in the heavenly \\ in Christe Jesus.

epistle, that hath declared unto you the mystery of his grace, in figure and in similitude, that God would manifest in due time his power and will in the Christ Jesus, who is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of every creature; that in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in kindness towards us through Christ Jesus. For by grace are ye made safe through faith; and that not of your selves, it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast himself. For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath prepared before, that we should walk in them. Wherefore, remember that ye being in time past Gentiles, in the flesh, not having the law of God, and never so circumcised, which is called "circumcision of the flesh made by the hands of God:" That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenant of promise, having no hope, without God in this world. But now in Christ Jesus ye which sometime were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. For he is our peace, which hath made both one: and hath broken down the wall that was a stoppe betwixt vs, taking away in his flesh the hatred [even] the law of commandements [contened] in ordinances, so to make of twaine one newe man in hym selfe, so makynge peace, and that he might reconcile both unto God in one body through [his] cross, and selleve hatred thereby. And came and preached peace to you which were a farre of; and to them that were nere. For through him we both have an entrancethrough one spirit into the father. And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, the Church Jesus him selfe being the head corner stone, in whom all the building coupled together, groweth into an holy temple in the Lord. In whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the spirit.

The Epistle

The iiij. Chapter.

1 He sheweth the cause of his imprisonment, 2 directed them not to say anything because of his trouble, 3 and prays God to make them sound in his spirit.

7 Whereof I am made a minister, according to the gospel of the grace of God, which is given unto me after the working of his power. Unto me the grace of God hath been given; that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, and to bring light to them that sit in darkness and among the Gentiles, 8 of whom I am made a minister, the Gentiles, to the end that I should make the Gentiles heirs of the promise according to the gospel of God, 9 to whom I am called to the ministering of his son in the waters of his church; of whom I am made a minister, 10 that I might be known by the church, the church of Christ the body of Christ, 11 according to their eternal purpose, which he wrought in Christ Jesus our Lord; 12 by whom we have boldness to enter into his holies with confidence, which is by faith of him. Wherefore...
Therefore, a prisoner of the Lord, exhort you, that ye walk worthy of the vocation whereunto ye are called,

With all lowliness and meekness; with long suffering, bearing one another in love.

Endeavouring to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace:

One body, and one spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling.

One Lord, one faith, one baptism.

One God, and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.

But as we have much to suffer by the power of grace, according to the measure of the gift of Christ:

Wherefore he saith, when he went up, he led captive in bondage, and gave gifts unto men.

But that he ascended, what is it but that also he descended first into the lower parts of the earth?

That he descended, is even the same also that ascended by farre above all heavens, to fullfill all thyges.

And he gave some apostles, and some prophets, and some evangelisttes, and some shepheardes and teachers.

To the gathering together of the launes, into the worke of ministership, on, into the edifying of the body of Christ:

Now all are meete together into the unity of the faith, and knowledge of the same of God, into a perfect man, into the measure of the age of the fulnesse of Christ:

That we henceforth be no more children, walking in vanity and duplicity, in the vppiness of men, in craftynesse, to the laying of deceit.

But speaking the truth in love, let us growe by unto him in all thyges which is the head, Christ:

In whom all the body being coupled and knit together by every joint of ministeration, according to the effectual power in the measure of every part, maketh increas of the body, unto the edifying of it selfe in love.

This is the mystery which was from thefoundation of the world, but is now made manifest by the worke of Christ in the ministration of his church:

Darkened in cogitation, being alienated from the light of God by the ignorance that is in them, by the blindness of their hearts.

Which being past, feeling, have gotten the fuerue over into bantamnesse to worke at bantamnesse with greynesse.

But ye have not so learned Christ.

30 And (g) greece not the holy spirit of God, by whom ye are sealed unto the day of redemption.
31 Let all bitterness, and solene, wrath, and crying, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice, 32 Be ye courteous one to another, merciful, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake forgave you.

3. But fornication, and all bastefulness, or courteou, let it not be once named among

4. Neither sithens, neither sith the sithing, neither sithing, which are not comely: but rather, genyng of thankes.

5. For this ye know, that no Whoemonger, neither baleune person, no courteous person, which is a worshiper of images, hath any inheretance in the kyngdome of Christ, and of God.

6. Let no man deceace you with bale uvodes: For, because of such thynges conneth the wrath of God uppon the children of disobedience.

7. We be ye therefore companions of them.

8. For ye were sometimes dares: but nole are ye lyght in the Loode. *Walke as children of lyght.

9. For the fruite of the spirit (b) in all goodnesse, and rightounesse, and truth, 10 Approuyng What is acceptable unto the Loode.

11. And have no fellowship with the bfrutesful workses of darkness, but rather even rebu.

20 Gring thankes alwayes for all thinges into God and the father, in your name of our Lorde Jesus Christe, 21 Submitting your fones one to another in the feare of God,
22 Byeus, submite your feires unto your owne hulfandes, as unto the Lorde:

23 For the hulfande is the head of the wyfe, even as Christe is the head of the Church: she is the favoure of the hulfande.
24 But as the Church is subject to Christe, so lykewyse the wyfes to their owne hulfandes in all thinges.
25 Ye hulfandes love your wyfes, even as Christe also loved the Church, and gave hym selfe for it,
26 To sanctifie it, cleaung it in the fountayne of water in the wyfe, 27 To make it into hym selfe a glorious Church, not haying spot or wratich, 28 of any such thing: but that it should be holy, and without blame.
29 So ought men to love their wyfes, as their owne bodies, he that loueth his wyfe, loueth hym selfe.
30 For no man ever yet hated his owne flesh: but nothwithstanding he loatheth it, even as the Lorde the Church.
31 For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones.

32 This is a great secret: but I speake of Christe and of the Church.
33 Therefore every one of you do ye to Let every one of you love his wyfe even as hym selfe, and let the wyfe reverence her hulfande.

Sent from Rome unto the Ephesians, by Eichius.

The Epistle of Saint Paul the Apostle to the Philippians.

The first Chapter.

Saint Paul discovereth his heart towards them, by his thankes gettynge, prayers, and wishes for their faith and salvation. 7, 13, 20. He sheweth the fruit of his crosse, 15, 27, and exhorteth them to mitrice, 38 and patience.

Abounde yet more and more in knowledge, and in all understanding:

That ye maye discerne thynges that be differ, that ye maye be pure, and without offence, till the day of Christ:

Being filled with the fruites of righteousness, which are by Christ, into the grace and ppeace of God;

But I would ye should understand brethren, that the thynges which came unto me, hath come rather unto the furthercunce of the Gospel:

So that my bonds in Christ, are manifest, throughout all the judgement halfe, and in all other places.

And many of the brethren of the Lorde, being encouraged through my bonds, dare more plentifully speake the word,without fear.

Some speache Christes of eniem & strife, and some of good will.

The one speache Christes of strife, not sincerely, supposing to add some more affliction to my bonds:

But the others of love, knowing that I am let to the defence of the Gospel.

What then? So that Christ be preached any maner of way, whether it be by pretence, or by truth, I joy therein, and will joy.

For I knowe that this shall turne to the Philippian.

cxvij.

20. According to my expectation, and my hope, y' in nothing I shall be ashamed: but with all boldness, as also by nature, so now also, Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life, or by death,

22. But if I live in the flesh, this [18] the fruit of my labour, and what I shall choose, I wrote not.

23. *For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to be with Christ, which is much farre better,

25. And this am I sure of, that I shall abide [18] continue with you all, for your furtherance and joy of faith,

26. That your rejoicing may be [5] more abundant in Jesus Christe for me, by my comnying to you againe.

27. Only let your conversation be, *as it Ephesians, becommeth the Gospel of Christe: that whether I come and see you, or els be absent, I may yet hear of your matters, that ye continue in one spirit, in one soule, fighting together for your faith of the Gospel.

28. *And in nothing fearing your aduer- lates, which is to them a token of per- dition: but to you of saluation, and of that of God.

29. For unto you it is geuen [5] for Christe, not only this to believe on him: but also this, to suffer for his false,

30. Having the same fight, which ye lawe in me, and notorious hate in me.

The 15. Chapter.

He exhorteth them above all thynge to humilitie, whereby pure doctrine is chiefly main- tained, in promissing that he and Timotheus well speedily come unto them, and executeth the long enquiring of Ephaphroditus,

If there be therefore any [6] contention in Christe, ye any comfort of love, ye fellowship of the spirit, ye any compisition and mercy,

Full ye my joy, that ye be as ye mynde, having the same ye, being of one accord, of one mynde.

Let nothing be done through strife or bayne glorie, but in meekenesse of mynde, everyone man esteeming one another better then him selfe.

*Like not every man on his owne thynge, but every man also on the thynge of others.

Let each mynde be in you, which was in Christ Jesus:

Who being in the foreme of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God.

But made hym selfe of no reputation, taking on him the foreme of a servant, and *made in the likeness of men, and found in figure as a man:

He humbled hym selfe, made obediant unto death, even the death of the crosse,

Wherefore God also hath highly exalted hym, and given hym a name which is above every name.

That in the name of Jesus, every knee should bowe, [6] of them the in heaven, and [6] of them in earth, and [6] of them under the earth:

And that every tongue should confess that the Lord, Jesus Christe, be to the glory of God the father.

Wherefore, my dearly beloved, as ye have alwayes obeyed, not as in my presence only, but nowe much more in my absence, soe put out your owne salvation with fear and trembling.

For it is God which worketh in yo, both to will and to do of good will.

Do all thynge without murmuring and disputing:

That ye may be blameless and pure, the foreme of God, without rebuke in the myndes of a crooked and pervert not nation, among who hympe ye as lightes in the world.

Boldely fast the wordes of lyfe, to my *rejoycing in the daye of Christe that I have not runne in bayne, neither have laboured in bayne.

Dea, and though I be offered by your offering and service of your faith,
I rejoice, and rejoice with you all.

18 For the same cause also do ye rejoice, and rejoice with me.

19 But I trust in the Lord Jesus, to send Timotheus shortly unto you, that I also may be of good comfort, when I know your state.

20 For I have no man like him, who will naturally care for your state.

21 For all seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's.

22 But I know the reproach of hyn, that as a sonne with the father, he hath serve(d) with me in the Gospel.

23 Hyn therefore I hope to sende, asone as I know your state.

24 But I trust in the Lorde, that I also my selfe shall come shortly.

25 But I supposed it necessarie to sende to you Epaphroditus, my brother and companion in labour, a fellowlabourer, but your Apostle, and the minister of my needes.

26 For he longed after you all, and was full of heavinesse, because that ye had hearde that he had bene sick.

27 And no doubt he was sicke npe unto death, but God had merce on hym, and not on hym only, but on me also, lest I should have forsooke upon forsooke.

28 I sent hin therefore the more diligentie, that when ye see him againe, ye may rejoice, and that I may be the lesse fooldowfull.

29 Because hyn therefore in the Lorde with all gladnes, *I make much of such;

30 Because, for the worke of Christ, he was npe into death, not regarding his lyfe, to fulfill your lacke of seruice towarde me.

*The xii. Chapter.

2 He warneth them to beware of false teachers, *against whom he setteth Christ.

4 Likewise himselfe, *and his doctrine, *and reprobeth many owne righteounenes.

20 My brethren, rejoice ye in the Lorde: It greeveth me not to write the same thing often to you, for to you it is a sure thing.

Warde of dogges, beware of evil workers, beware of conclusion.

* For we are the circumcision, which worship God in the spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jesus, and have no confidence in the flesh: Though I might also have confidence in the flesh, If any other man thinketh that he hath, Whereof he uppright trueth in the flesh, more I:

Circumcised the eight day of the kindred of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, *an Ebrue of the Ebrues, after the lawe a pharisee.

Concerning seperuenesse, percutting the Churchie: touchyng ye righteounenesse which is in ye lawe, I was blamelesse.

* But the things that were vantage unto me, those I counted losse for Christes sake.

For, I thinke all things but losse, for the excellence of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lorde: For whom I have counted all things losse, *do judge the but vise, that I may wonne Christes.

9 And be founde in hyn, not hayping owne owne righteounenesse which is of the lawe: but that which is through the faith of Christ, the righteounenes which commeth of God through faith:

10 That I may knowe hyn, and the power of his resurrection, and the felloe shippe of his passiones, confirmable unto his death,

11 If by any meane, I might attayne unto the resurrection of the dead.

12 Not as though I had alreadye attained, either were already perfect: but I folowe, ye that I may compenddeadlie, *wherein also I am composchonded of Christ Jesus.

13 Brethren I count not my selfe as yet that I have attained: but this one thing I say: I for grotes those things which are behynnde, and endeavoure my selfe unto those things which are before.

14 And I prate toward the market, for the price of the hye calling of God in Christ Jesus.

15 Let us therefore as many as be perfect, be thus minded, and if ye be other whil mynde, God shall reuoke the same also unto you.

16 Nevertheless, unto that which we have attained unto, let vs proceade by one rul, that we may be of one accord.

17 Therefore, be sodolars together of me, and take on them Whateake so as ye have vs for an example.

18 For many walk, of whom I have told you oftener, and often tell you, that they are the enemies of the crosse of Christ:

The.iii. Chapter.

1 I rebuke you them to be of honest conversation, and thanketh them, because of the provision that they made for hym being in prison, and so concluded with sallutations.

2 Therefore my brethren beloved & longed for, my joy and crowne, so continue in the Loade ye beloved.

3 Ver, and I beseeche thee also fastfull pochetelowhe, helpe those [women] which laboured with me in the Gospel, and with Clement also, and with other my 4 Rejoyce in the Loade alway, and gayne as I say rejoyce.

5 Let your patient mynde be knowen unto all men: The Loade [18] at hande.

6 Be carefull for nothynge: but in all thynges, let your petition be manifest unto God, in prayer and supplication with owynge of thanke.

7 And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall [5] kepe your heares and myndes through Christe

thynges are true, whatsoever thynges
(are) honest, whatsoever thynges
(are) just, whatsoever thynges pure, Whatsoever thynges lovely, whatsoever thynges of honore re-caued, and heard, and seen in me: Thesethings do, and the God of peace Shalbe with you.

10 But I rejoyce in the Loade greatly, that nothe at the last ye are returned agaie to care for me, in where ye were also carefull, but ye lacked opportunitie.

11 I speake not because of [6] necessitie, but for I have learned, in whatsoever estate I am, [therewith] to be content.

12 I knowe howe to be lowe, and to knowe howe to exceede. Every where in all thynges I am instructed, both to be full, and to be hunger, both to have plente, and to suffer need.

13 I can do all thynges through Christe,
Which strengtheneth me.

14 Notwithstanding, ye have well done pe dyd communieate to my afflictions.

15 Ye Philippes knowe also, that in the [7u] beginnynge of the Gospel, when I departed fro Macedon, [no Church] communicated to me, as concernyn gyng and receaung, but ye onely.

16 For even in Thessalonia, ye sent once, & afterward agayne unto my necessitie.

17 Not that I desire a gyft, but I desire fruite aboundynge to your accompt.

18 But I have receaued all, I have plente.
It was even spyled after that I had receaued of Epaphroditus the thynges which were sent from you, an odour of a sweete fynet, a sacrifice acceptable, pleasante to God.

19 My God shall suppye all your neede, by through his riches in glory, in Christe Jesus.

20 Unto God and our father, be praise evermore. Amen.

they that are of Caesars household.

23 The grace of our Loade Jesus Christe

To the philippians. cxvii.

Rom.xii.

This Epistle was written from Rome, by Epaphroditus.
The Epistle

The Epistle of Saint Paul and the Apostle to the Colossians.

The first Chapter.

Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, and Timotheus the brother.

To them which are in Colossea, saints and faithful brethren in Christ:

Grace be unto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places.

In whom we have boldness and access in confidence by the faith of him:

For he is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of all creatures;

For by him were all things created, both in heaven and that which is in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers:

And he is before all things, and in him all things consist.

In whom ye also trusted, having believed, ye were sealed with the Holy Ghost of promise:

For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, have not ceased to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wise understanding,

That ye might walk worthy of the Lord, having fruits of righteousness, and of peace, for the kingdom of God.

Strengthened with all might through his glorious power, unto all patience and long suffering, with joyfulness:

Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light,

To whom be glory for ever.

14: *In whom we have redemption, even the forgiveness of sins:

15: Who is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of all creatures.

16: For by him were all things created, that are in heaven and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, dominions, principalities, or powers.

17: And he is before all things, and in him all things consist.

18: *And he is the head of the body, the Church: he is the beginning, the first-born of the dead, that in all things he might have the preeminence.

19: For it pleased the Father, that in him should all the fulness of the Godhead dwell;

20: And by him to reconcile all things unto himself, and to create in himself, even in Christ, reconcile all things;

21: And you, who were sometime stranger and foreigners, and enemies, by his own knowledge, hath he made both one.

22: In the body of his flesh, through death, to present you holy, and without blame before him in sight:

23: If ye continue in the faith, rooted and built up in him, and stablished in the knowledge of Christ,

24: And giving answers for them which sleep, that ye may testify of the faith which is in Christ, whereby ye may know the hope of his calling, the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the sanctification of his saints,

25: Whose works Christ made ready beforehand, according to the dispensation of God, which is given to me to preach, to fulfill the word of God.

The
The. iij. Chapter.

1 Having protected his good will towards them. 4 he admonisheth them not to turn back from Chistie, 5 to the service of Angels or any other invention, or ceremonies of the lawe, 17 which have finished their office, and are ended in Chistie.

26 The mystic hyd fenceth the world began, and [fence the beginning of ] generations: 9 but note is opened to his (a) sainies:

27 To whom God would make knowne what [15] the riches of the glory of this mystic among the gentiles, which is Chistie in you, the hope of glory:

28 Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdome, to present all men perfect in Chistie Iesus:

29 Whereunto I also labour straung, according to his working which worketh in me night and day.

2 Then I would that ye knew what great sight I have for you, and for them that are at Laodicea, and for as many as have not scene my face in the flesh,

2 That their hearts might be comforted, being kept together in love, and in all riches of certaintie of understanding, to knowe the mystery of God, and of the father, and of Chistie,

3 In whom are hyd all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

4 This I say, lest any man should degrade you with perdition of worodes.

5 For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, rejoicing and beholding your order, and your steadfast faith in Chistie.

6 As ye have therefore receaved Chistie Jesus the Lode, [10] Walk ye in hym:

7 Rooted and built in hym, ftablised in the fath, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanks going.

8 Be labour lest any man spoyle you through philosophy & bayne deceipt, after the tradition of men, and after the rubimentes of the world, and not after Chistie.

9 For in hym dwelleth all the fulnesse of the Godhead boddy:

10 And ye are complete in hym, which is the head of all principality and powder,

11 In whom also ye are circumcised with circumsicion made without hands, by putting of the body of sinnes of the fath, in the circumcition of Chistie:

12 Buried with hym in baptism, in whom ye are also risen againe through his fath

3 of the operation of God, who hath raised hym from the dead.

13 And ye bryng dead to fife and to the uncircumcision of your fath, hath he quickeened with hym, forgivyn all your trepasses,

14 And putting out the ynde Writynge of C ordinesances, that was agaynst us, and that hath he taken out of the Way, fatisfying it to his crosse:

15 Spyllynge all principallies & powders, hath made a thewe of them openly, thrumplyng over them unit.

16 Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drinke, or in part of an holy day, or of the nebe moone, or of the Sabboth [bapges]:

17 Which are paradyes of thyncenes to come, but the body (18) of Chistie,

18 Let no man (5) begle you of vertue, in the humblenesse and worhipping of Angels, intundynge (hym felle into those things) which he hath not seene, catle, fuff pufp by his fleshy mynde,

19 And hold ythnot the head, whereof all the body by yontes & bandes suppoted and unit together, encreaseth with the encrease of God.

20 Wherefore, ye be dead with Chistie from y/ rubimentes of the world:why, as though lypynge in the worde, are ye led with traditions,

21 Touch not, take not, handle not;

22 Which all be in corruption, abuynge after the commandementes and doctrines of men.

23 Which thynces have a thewe of wisdome, in superstitition & humblenesse of mynde, and in hurtyng of the body, nor in any honour to the satysfying of his fath.

(b) Iubhous: lyng & Gea by hym power raised up Chistie, where of we hawe a fute taken in curt baptisme.
The Epistle

1 The ii. Chapter.

He theweth where we shoulde seke Chylste, it he exhorteth to mortification, to put of the olde man, and to put on Chylste, it to the which he addeth exhortation, both generally and particular, to charite and humilitie.

If ye then be ryfen againe with Chylste, seke those things which are above, where Chylste sitteth* on the right handes of God.

Set your affection on thynge above, not on thynge on the earth.

For ye are dead, and your lyfe is lyved with Chylste in God.

When forwight Chylste which is our life, shall appeare, then shall ye also appeare with hym in gloce.

Bless fortherefor your members which are upon the earth: sateination, lustemaness, stedfast affection, cupl concupiscence, and couetousnesse, which is worshipping of images:

For which thynges take, the wrath of God committed on the children of disobedience.

*In the which ye walked sometime, when ye lyved in them.

But nowe put ye of all, wrath, sacteine, maliciounsnesse, blasphemen, filthie commutation out of your mouth.

Lye not one to another, feyng that ye haue put of yole mans with his words:

*Haung put on the newe man, which is renuced into the knowledge after the image of hym that made hym,

*Where is neither Greke nor Jewe, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond, free: but Chylste is all, and in all.

Put on therefore (as the elect of God, *holy and beloved) bovetles of mercie, kyndenesse, humblenesse of mynde, meeknesse, long sufferyng,

Forgoying one another, and forgoynge one another, ye any man haue a quarrel against any: even as Chylste forgoye you, so also

And abowe all thynge put on * love, Mat.xxvii.

which is the boinde of perfectnesse.

And let the peace of God haue the victorie in your heartes, to the which also we are called in one body: And see that ye be thankfull.

Let the yvoide of God dwelle in you richly in all your commaundments and admonishing your owne soules, *in plainnes, and hymnes, and spirittuall longes, sunging with grace in your heartes to the Lord.

And whatsoever ye do in yvoide all the daye, [90] all in the name of the Lord Jesus, gemyng thankes to God and the fader by hym.

Woues, hibmit your soules into your owne bullsndes, as it is comely in the Lord.

Husbandes, love your woues, and be not bitter against them:

*Children, obey your fathers and mothers in all thynges, for that is well pleasing into the Lord.

Fathers (c) pouke not your chylde (to anger), lest they be discouraged.

* Servauntes, obey in all thynges to your bodily masters: not with eye seruice, as men pleasers, but in singlenesse of heart, feareing God.

And whatsoever ye do, do it heartilie,

as to the Lord, and not into men:

Knowing, that of the Lord ye shall receaue the reward of inheritance, for ye feare the Lord Chylste:

But he that doth wrong, shall receaue for the wrong he hath done: And there is no respect of persones.

The iii. Chapter.

He exhorteth them to be feruent in paper: to walke wisely to warde them that are not yet come to the true knowledge of Chylste, he saluteth them, and with them all prosperite.

Afters, do unto your seruauntes that which is instexquall, knolling that ye also have a master in heauen.

*Continue in paper, and watche in the same.

With thankes greynge:

*Praying also for vs, * that God may open into vs the (a) doore of seruauntes, that we may speake in nysterie of Chylste,

Wherefore I am also in bondes:

That I may berte it, as I ought to speake.

to the Colossians.

The first Epistle of Saint Paul the Apostle, unto the Thessalonians.

The first Chapter.

The thanketh God for them, that they are to feed in faith and good works, and receive the Gospel with such earnestness, that they are an example to all others.

In the sight of God and our father.

Knovving, brethren beloved, your election of God.

For our Gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the holy Ghost, and in much certainty, as ye know after what manner we were among you for your sake.

And ye became followers of us, and of the Lord, receaung the word in much affliction, with joy of the holy Ghost:

So that ye were an example to all that believe in Macedonia and Achaia.

For we from you, founded out the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia: but also in every place your faith to God-varde is spread abroad, so that that we need not to speake any thing.

For they therin selleth their of you, what manner of entryng in we hade into you, and holde ye turned to God from imagines, to serve the lyuing and true God.

10 And to tary for his sonne* from heauen, whom he rayled from the dead: as [20] Jesus which deparceth vs from the wrath to come.

q The iij. Chapter.

1 To the intent they should not taime under the crose, he commendeth his diligence in preaching. and therein in obeying. he exerciseth his absence, that he could not come and open his heart to them.

2 O ye your felues, brethren, knowe our entraunce in unto you, it was not in haype. But euen after that we had suffred before, and were shamefully entreated as ye knowe, at Philippo, we were holde in our God, to speake unto you the Gospell of God, in much stryving.

3 For our exhortation was not of deceit, neither of vntieenes, neither in guile:

4 But as it were alowed of God, to be put in credite with the Gospell: even so we speake, not as plesasing men, but God, which tryeth our hearts.

5 For neither at any tyme vied we flatteringe words, as ye knowe, neither of courtonlines, *God (is) recorde, neither sought we the plesauns of men, neither of you, nor yet of others:

6 When we might haue ben in authority, as the Apisoches of Christ, but we were tender among you, even as (a) nonecre thenlyth her children, and therefore no other to bide for her chyldren sake.

7 O ye remember brethren, our labour and trauayle. *For we labouring night and day, because we would not be chargeable within any of you, preache you the Gospell of God.

10 He (are) witnesses, *God (also) holde holists, and ugly, and unblamably, he behaue our felues among you that believe.

11 As ye knowe, holde that as a father his childern, so we have exhorted, consoled, and boughched every one of you, that ye wold haue walke worthis of God, who hath called you vnto his byngdom and glosie.

13 For this cause thank ye God also without ceasing. because ye recaying the word of which ye hearde of vs concerning God, ye receaved it not as the word of man, (but as it is in deed) the word of God, which effectuall by worke keth also in you that believe. *3

14 For ye brethren became soldiers of the Churches of God, which in thire are in Christ Jesus: for ye have suffred like thinges of your countrymen, as they have of the Ieves:

15 Who both kylled the Lord Jesus, and their owne prophets, vs haue persecuted vs and God they pleae not, and are contrary (c) to all men:

16 And hynder vs to speake to the gentiles that they might be saued, to fullfill their times alway. For the word of God is come on them to the heath.

17 Foashal begethe us, as we are kept from you for a short season, in person, not in heart, we enforced more to see you personally with great desier.

18 And therefore we woldhe bave come unto you, (I Paul) once agayne: but Satan hyndered vs.

19 For what is our hope, or joy, or crowne of rejoycing: *Are (c) not ye it in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ, at his coming?

20 Ye, ye are our glories and joy.
to the Thessalonians.

That no man should be moved in these afflictions: For ye yourself know how we entered into the midst of you, and how we stood before you. For verily when we were with you, we told you before that the Lord would suffer tribulation, even as it came to passe, and as ye know. For this cause, when I could no longer forbear, I sent to know your faith, lest by some means the tempter had tempted you, and our labour have been in vain. But now I am come unto you, and the report of you is come unto us. Therefore I am more ambitious to go forth among you, after the manner of those that go forth among the Gentiles, and to speak to you the gospel of the cross. For the stablishing of your hearts, I am come to you in the manner of a father, in the doctrine of Jesus Christ.

The iiiij. Chapter.

1 This exhorteth them to holiness, 6 innocencie, 9 love, 11 labour, 13 and moderation in lamenting for the dead; 17 describing the end of the resurrection.

2 For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus. For this is the will of God, your holinesse, (e) that ye should abstaine from fornication.

3 That every one of you should know how to possesse his bessell in holinesse and honour:

4 Not in the lust of concupiscence, euen as the gentiles, which know not God.

5 That no man oppresse and defraud his brother in any matter, because that the Lord is the avenger of all such: as we also have forewarned you, and testifie.

6 For God hath not called us unto uncleannesse, but unto holiness.

7 He therefore that defiliseth, defiliseth not man, but God, who hath given to you "his holy spirit."

9 But as touching brotherly love, ye need not that I write unto you: For ye are taught of God to love one another.

10 And that thing thereby ye do ob ye to all the brethren which are in Byschopon: But we exhort you brethren, that ye encrease more and more:

11 And that ye studie to be quiet, and to do your owne businesse, and to work with your owne hands, as we commanded you:

12 That ye may walke honestly toward them that are without, (f) that nothing be lacking in you. (g)

13 (h) But I woulde not have you to be ignorant brethren, concerning them which sleepe: that ye (i) knowe not even as other, which have no hope.

14 For ye beleue that Jesus dyed and rose againe: even so them also which sleepe by Jesus, vppon his rising with hym.

15 For this say we the vnto you in the vord of the Lord, that we vnhiste the true, remaying vnto the conuoy of the Lord, shall not prevent them which sleepe.

16 For the Lord hym selwe that descendeth from heaven in a shoute, (and in the voyce of the "Archangel", and in the trumpes of God; And the dead in Christ shall arise first.
17 than we which lyue, which remaine, shall be caught up together with them in the cloudes, to meete the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord. 18 wherefore comfort your selues one another in these wordes. 19 for the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

The .v. Chapter.

1 that ye haue them in hype reputation, in love for their worke, and be at peace among your selues. 2. We exhort you brethren, waerne them that are burnde, comfort the feeble inrnde, lyst by the weake, be patiente toward all men. 3 see that none recompence evil for evil. 4 with any man: but ever solwe that which is good, both among your selues, and to all men. 5 therefore let us not sleepe, as [do] other: but let vs watche and be sober. 6 for vs are all the children of lught, and the children of the yompere: we are not of the night, neither of darkeenesse. 7 Therefore let vs sleepe, as [do] other: but let vs watche and be sober. 8 for they that sleepe, sleepe in the night: and they that be drancken, are drancken in the yompere. 9 for God hath not appointe vs to warre: but to obteine saluation, by our Lord Jesus Chaffe, 10 wherefore comfort your selues togethe, and eulfie every one another, even as ye do. 11 and be sheze you brethren to know them which labour among you, and haue the oversight of you in the Lord, and adonime you;
The second Epistle of the Apostle Saint Paul, to the Thessalonians.

The first Chapter.

1. Paul and Silvanus and Timotheus, unto the Church of the Thessalonians in God our father, and the Lord Jesus Christ:

Grace unto you and peace from God our father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2. We are bound to thank God always for you, as it is meet, because that your faith worketh patience, and the love of every one of you toward another aboundeth:

So that we ourselves rejoice in you in the Churches of God, over your patience and faith in all your perfections and tribulations that ye suffer, (which is) a token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for which ye also suffer.

For it is a righteous thing with God, to recompence tribulation to them that trouble you:

3. And to you which are troubled, rest with vs, in the revelation of the Lord Jesus from heaven, with the Angels of his power,

4. In flaming fire, rending vengeance unto them that know not God, and that obey not the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.

5. Which shall be punished with everlasting damnation, from the presence of the Lord, and of the glory of his power:

6. When he shall come to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because of our testimonie toward you was believed) in that day.

7. Wherefore also we pray alwayes for you, that our God would make you worthy of the calling, fulfiling all good pleasure of goodness in the work of faith in power:

8. That the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

The second Chapter.

1. Verily ye beseech, ye brethern, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our assembling unto hym, That ye be not taken unawares (of your) mind, no, be troubled, neither by (the) spirit, nor by word, nor yet by letter, as from us, as though the day of Christ were at hand.

2. Let no man deceive you by any means, for the day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the sonne of perdition,

(Which is) an adherefarie, and is reale

(i.) above all that is called God, or that is worshipped: for that he is godly, in the temple of God, showing himselfe that he is God.

3. Remember ye not, that when I was present with you, I tolde you these things:

6. And now ye know what witholdeth, that he might be revealed in his time.

7. For the misterie of iniquitie shall al redie worke, till he which nowe only letterly, be taken out of the way.

8. And
The Seconde Epistle

8 And then shall that wicked be revealed, whom the Lord shall disclose with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming:

9 Whose coming is after the working of Yaan in all power and signs, and wonders, of lying.

10 And in all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

11 And therefore God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe lies:

12 That all they might be damned which believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

13 But we are bounde to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because that God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation in sanctifying of the spirit, & in faith of the truth:

14 Whereunto he called you by our Gospel, to the obedience of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 Wherefore brethren stand fast, and hold the ordinaunces which ye have been taught, whether it were by our preaching, or by our epistle.

16 Our Lord Jesus Christ, and God and our father, which hath loved us, and hath given us eternaly consolacion, and good hope in grace, 17 Comfort your hearts, and stablythe you in all good saying, and doing.

The Tij. Chapter.

1 He desirith them to pray for hym, that the Gospel may prosper, and gather them warningly to reproue the idle, and so worship them all wealth.

Furthermore brethren, praye ye for vs, that the Lord of the Lord may have free passage and be glorified, even as with you:

And that we may be delivered from disordered and unye men: For all men have not so faith.

But the Lord is faithful, which shall stablythe you, and keep you from euill.

And we have confidence in the Lord to youvbarde, that ye both do, and will do the thynges which we commande you.

And the Lord guide your heartes to the love of God, and to the patient waiting for Chylfe.

We commande you brethren in the name of our Lord Jesus Christe, that ye withdawe your selues from every brother that walketh ungodly, and not after the affection which he receaue of vs.

For ye your selues knewe hode ye ought to solod vs: For we behavien not our selues inordinately among you,

Neither take we the bheade of any man for ought: but thought with labour and sweat nyght and daye, because we woulde not be chargeable to any of you.

Not but that we had autentie, but to make our selues an enexample unto you to solod vs.

For when we were with you, this we warned you of: that ye also should not worke, the same should not eate.

For we have hearde that there are some which walke among you inordinately, working not at all, but be busy bodies.

Then that are such, we commande and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that they working in quietnesse, eate their owne brede.

And ye brethren, be not weery in well doing.

If any man obey not our doctrine, sigute hym by an epistle, and have no compaine with hym, that he maye be ashamed.

Let count him not as an enemy, but warne hym as a brother.

Hewe the very Lord of peace give you peace alwayes, by all means. The Lord be with you all.

The salutation of me Paul with mine owne handes. This is the token in every epistle. So I write.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.
The first Epistle of the Apostle Saint Paul, unto Timotheus.

The first Chapter.

1. The Apostle of Jesus Christ, by the commission of God our Saviour, and Our Lord Jesus Christ, whereunto is our hope, unto Timotheus, an honest man according to the doctrine of faith and truth, which he received of his mother Eunice, and of his grandmother Philippa, who were in the faith;

2. Unto the End of which, grace and peace be upon us, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, who gave himself for our sins, and presented himself an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweetsmelling savour.

3. Therefore, I exhort, first of all, that supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men;

4. For kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may live a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty.

5. For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour;

6. Who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth.

7. For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus;

8. Who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time;

9. Whereunto I am appointed as a preacher, and an apostle, (I speak the truth in Christ, and lie not;) as a teacher of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God.

10. Whereunto I am consecrated, according to the prophecy that standeth over me, by the word of God, even Jesus Christ; (for which I am also a prisoner, that having preached the gospel, I might therein make intercession for them that are unbelief.)

11. For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.

12. For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, The just shall live by faith.

13. And the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ is come upon us. Amen.

14. But we are bound to give thanks always to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, in that God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation through sanctification of the spirit and belief of the truth:

15. Whereunto he called you by our gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

16. Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

17. For ye know the commandment, How that they which do such things shall suffer chastening.

18. But speak ye the word of our Lord with all boldness, with much doctrine.

19. For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that believe not?

20. And if the righteous shall suffer thus, what shall happen to the ungodly?

21. Wherefore suffer the labour of love, forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye.

22. And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves: for charity shall cover the multitude of sins.

23. Usest not wrath, nor railing, but righteousness.

24. Abstain from wine, which is contention; from things strangled, which is sin, and from things defiled.

25. But in all things shew thyself a pattern of good works; in doctrine pure, in the doctrine of the truth commendable;

26. In correction grave, in affection gentle, in spirit willing, in charity faithful, in purity innocence, in holiness without blemish.

27. But if I stay in Athens, will I send to you Timotheus, who hath the same heart with me in working the work of the gospel;

28. That he may quicken your minds, and bring you into remembrance of the words which are spoken before, that ye may be established in the truth.

29. For the time is come that judgement must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin with us, what shall the end be of them that believe not?

30. And the Lord hath given me power over the gospel of Christ, for the testimony of Jesus Christ.

31. Forasmuch as I have already said, that the dwelling of the Holy Ghost was promised unto you, which dwelling ye sought to enjoy; even so now ye are not lacking any part thereof.
The first Epistle

The iij Chapter.

1. He exhorted to pray for all men. 4. Wherefore, 8 and home. 5. As touching the apparel and modesty of women.

1. Exhort therefore, that first of all, prayers, supplications, intercessions, and giving of thanks be made for all men: *For hynges,(and for all that are in authority, that we maye leade a quiete and peaceable lyfe, in all godlynesse and honestie.

8. For that is good and accepted in the sight of God our favour. 9. Who shall have all men to be saved, and to come into the knowledge of the truth. 10. For there is one God, and one meditator of God and men, the man Christ Jesus: Who gave him selfe a * raunge for all, a testimone in true lyries. Whereunto I am ordained a preacher and an apostle (I tell the truth) in Christ, and he not a teacher of the genies in fayth and beritie. 6. I will therefore, that the men pray everywhere, by hylpe by hylpe handes, without wrath and reasoning. 7. Liket Wolfe also the women, that they array thens selves in comely apparell, with shamefassnesse, and discreete behaviour, not in bazyded heres, either golde or pearls, or collye array. 11. But (that becommeth) women professing godlynesse through good workes. 12. But I suffer not a woman to teach, D neither to disturb autotitie over 3 man, but to be in silence. 13. For Adam was first born, then Eve. 14. And Adam was not deceaued: but the Woman being deceaued, was (b) in the transgression.

The iij Chapter.

2. He declareth what is the office of minsters. 11. and as touching their families, 16. the dignitie of the Churche, 16. the principall point of the heauenly doctrine.

2. This is a faithful saying: *If a man deere his office of a bishop, he desireth a good worke. A bishop therefore must be blamelesse, the husband of one wife, watching soberly, comely apparell, a lover of hospitaltie, apt to teach, not geniun to overmuch wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre: but gentle, abhoring filthy lucre, abhoring covetousneess. 4. One that ruleth well his owne house, hauing chyldren in subjection, with all utterance. 5. For if a man knowe not to rule his owne house, howe shall he care for the Churche of God? Not a young coleter, lest he, being pulled by, fall into the condemnation of the breuil. 6. He must also have a good report of them which are without, lest he fall into the rebuke and shame of the breuil. 8. Likewise must ye ministers be graine, not doublt tongued, not geniun to much wine, neither greedy of filthy lucre: houlding the minister of the fayth in a pure confidence. 10. And let them first be pouched, then let them minster, being blamelesse.

11. Even so must they breues be graine, not euyl speakers, sober, fastful in all thinges. 12. Let the deacons be the husbandes of one wife, and such as can rule their children well, and their owne householde. 13. For they that have mainteyned well, get them fylues a good degree, and great libertie in the fayth, which is in Christ Jesus. 14. These things write I unto thee, hoppynge to come shortly into thee: 15. But if I delay long, that thou mayest knowe howe thou oughtest to behave the selfe in the house of God, yhich is the Church of the hynge God, the pryt-ler and

ler and grounde of truthe.
16 Andwithout doubt, great is that ne-5 sterie of godlynesse: *God was thred in the flesh, was insuffed in the spirite, was seene among the angels, was preached unto the gentiles, was belcued on in the word, and was receaue in glose.

aduertice, if the have ben continually given to every good work.

But the pomer Wyboles refuse; For Whyle they have begun to warre wanton against Christ, they will marrie:

Having damnation, because they came away their first fath.

They learne to wender about from house to house idle: yea not idle only, but also tatters and busbodies, speaking thynges which are not comely.

I will therefore that the pomer women do "marrie, to beare chyldren, to gyde the house, to geue none occasion to aversarie to speake slanderously.

For certaine of them are already turned backe after Satan.

Many men or woman that beleueth have wyboles, let them suffre them,

& let not the Churches be chargd, that there may be sufficient for them that are wyboles in deede.

The elders that rule well are worthy of double honour, most specially they which labour in the worde & teaching.

For the scripture saith: "Thou shalt not model the tre that treatheth out the town: And, "the labourer is worthy of his rewarde.

Against an elder receaue none accusation, but "unber two or three witnesses.

Then that sine, rebuke before all,

that other also may feare.

I testifie before God, and the Loorde

Jesus Christe, and the elect angels, that thou obtene these thynges without ha-slynde of jugentiment, and do nothing after partialitie.

"Lay handes lodehly on no man, neither be partaker of other mens sines.

Repe thy life christe.

Drinke no longer water, but "be a little wine for thy sonnaces take & thine often diseases.

Some mens sines are open before hande, haungy before unto jugentiment, and in some they solowe after.

Lykewise also, good wyboles are manifest before hande, and they that are otherwyse cannot be hyd.

The vj. Chapter.

As many "seruantes as are under the poke, count their matters Worlyc of all ho-our, that the name of god and his doctrine be not blasphemed.

And they Whiche have beleuynge masters, despise them not because they are bezethen: but rather do serve, sofatmuch as they are beleuynge and beloved and partakers of the (honttie. These thynges teache and choyt.

If any man teache otherwyse, and contented not unto the wylsome wor-des of our Loorde Jesus Christe, and to the doctrine which is accoyding to godlynesse:

He is pisset vp, knowing nothing, but doting about quechions and "trithes of words, whereof commeth enuie, strife, eapynges, enuyl furmynges.

Thus disputations of men of corrupte mynde, delitute of the truth, thyn-king luce to be godlynesse. From suche be thou separate.

Godlynesse is great luce, "if a man be content with that he hath.

For we brought nothing into the worlde, and it is certayne that we may carry nought away.

But haungy foode and rayment, we must therewith be content.

For they that (hylly be riche, fall into temptations and snares, and into many folihe s nolysome lukes, which souline men in perdition and destruction.

For love of money, is the roote of all enuie, whiche wyllye some lost after, C they erred from the faith, & (p) pearcd

the felues through with many foulene.

But thou O man of God, see these thynges, and solowe after righteousnes, godlynes, faith, love, patience, mekenes.

Fight the good figh of fath, lay hand on eternall lyfe, whereasunto thou art also called, and hast professed a good profession before many Witnesses.

I there
The second Epistle of the Apostle Saint Paul, to Timothie.

The first Chapter.

C Paul encorespeth Timothie to Godliness and patience in persecution, and to continue in the doctrine that he had taught him, 1b whereof his bonds & afflictions were a gage. 1c A commendation of Onesiphorus.

1 Pet an Apostie of Jesus Christ by the will of God, 1d according to the promise of life, which is in Christ Jesus,

To Timothie a beloved sonne : Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the father, and Christ Jesus our Lord.

I thank God 1e whom I worshippe from my forefathers in pure confience, that without realizing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night & day.

Desiring to see thee, myndfull of thy tears : that I may be sould with joy.

When I call to remembrance the disfigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice : and I am assured that it dwelleth in thee also.

Wherefore I put thee in remembrance that thou (b) sere by the gift of God, which is in thee (b) by the putting on of my handes.

For God hath not geuen to be the spirit of fear : but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind.

Be not thou therefore ashamed of the testimonie of our Lord, neither of me, his prisoner : but suffer thou aduersities with the Gospell, according to the power of God.

Who hath (a) faied vs, (a) called vs (b) even in holy calling, not according to our workes : but according to his owne purpose and grace, which was geuen vs in Christ Jesus, before the world began.

But is nowe made manifest by the appearing of our saueur Jesus Christ, (c) who hath put away death, and hath brought life and immortalitie into light through the Gospell.

Whereunto I am appoynted, a preacher and Apostle, and a teacher of the gentiles.

For the which cause I also suffer these thynge. Neuertheless, I am not ashamed:
The Althoe Epistle.

The ii. Chapter.

1. You therefore my sonne, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus.
2. And the thynges that thou hast heard of me in many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, which have been apt to teache other also.
3. Thou therefore suffer afflictions as a good soulfr of Jesus Christ.
4. No man that wandereth, entangleth hym selfe with thaffayres of this life, that he may please hym which hath chosen hym to be a souder.
5. And if a man also lixest, yet is he not condemned except he lixest lawfully.
6. The labouryng husbandman must first be partaker of the frutes.
7. Consider what I say: and the Lord geue thee understanding in all thynges.
8. Remember that Jesus Christ, of the seed of Daviid, was raised from the dead, according to my Gospell,
9. Wherein I suffer trouble as an ewyl doer, even unto bonds: But the word of God is not bounde.

Therefore I suffer all thynges for the electes sakes, that they might also obtaine the saluation, which is in Christ Jesus, both eternal glorie.

It is a faithfull saying: for ye we be dead with hym, we shall also liyne with hym:

If we be patient, we shall also raigne with hym: *if we deyne hym, he also shall deyne vs.

If we be unfaithful, he abideth faithfull, he can not deyne hym selfe.

Of these thynges put them in remembrance, teachise before the Lordse, that they storie not about woordes to no profite, but to the percutryng of your hearers.

Studie to speake the felle approved by God, a workman not to be ashamed, righteous bringyng the wordes of truth.

But prophane boyes of banyste passe over: For they wyll encreace unto greater ungodlynest.

And their wordes shall set as both a cauter: of whom is *Hymenes and Philetus,

Which about the truthes have erre, saying that the resurrection is past already, to doe overthow the faith of some.

But the strong foundatioun of God standeth styr, haung this seate; (b) The Lordse knoweth the that are his: And let every one that namesth the name of Christ, depart from iniquitie.

But in a great house are not onely D vessels of gold, and of siluer, but also of wood and of earill: some to honour, and some unto dishonour.

If a man therefore poure hym selfe from these, he shall be belles by souer, and meete for his uses of the Lordse, and prepaerd unto every good work.

Lustes of youth anodyce, but folowe righteously, faith, love, peace, with them that call on the Lordse out of a pure heart.
But foolish and unlearned questions put from thee, knowing that they do but gender strife.

And the servant of the Lord must not strive: but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, suffering evil in meekness.

Instructing the which are in contrary.

The iiij. Chapter.

He prophesieeth of the perilous times, writeth out hypocrites in their colours, doth the state of the Christians, and how to escape dangers.

What profess commeth of the scriptures.

Their madness shall manifest unto all men as also theirs was.

But thou hast followed my doctrine, and the fashion of lyeing, purpose, falsity, long suffering, love, patience,

Persecutions, afflictions, which came unto me at Antioch, at Iconium, at Lystra, which persecutions I suffered patiently: and from them all the Lord delivered me.

Pen, and all that lye on godly Jesus Christ Jesus, shall suffer persecution.

But the evil men and deceivers, shall taste worse and worse, deceiving and deceived.

But continue thou in the thynges which thou hast learned, and art been committed unto thee, knowing of whom thou hast learned them:

And that from that which thou hast known the scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and [is] profitable to doctrine, to exposition, to correction, to instruction which is in righteousness,

That the man of God may be perfect, instructed unto all good works.

The iiiij. Chapter.

Thee exhorteth Timotheus to be sincere in the word, and to suffer adversity, maketh mention of his own death, and biddeth Timotheus come unto him.

Christ therefore before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, which shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing, and his kingdom.

Preache the word, be instant in season, out of season: Impeache, rebuke, hoist in all long suffering and doctrine.

For the wise shall come, when they shall not suffer wholesome doctrine: but after their owne lustes, that they whose eyes careth, get the anseape of teachers:

And shall come away there hearing from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables:

But watch thou in all thynges, suffer afflications,
The seconde Epistle

afflictions, do the worke of an Evangelist, fully thy ministrie:

6 For I am no wise to be offered, & the tyne of my dissolution is at hande.

7 I have taught a good lyght, I have fullylyd my course, I have kept my faith.

8 Henceforth there is layde by for me a crowne of ryghteousnesse, which the Lord, the ryghteous judge, shall gonne me at that day: not to me only, but also to the alfo, I have loued his appearing.

9 Do thy diligence to come shortly vnto me.

10 For Demas hath forsaken me, having loued this present woode, and is departed vnto Thessalonica, Cretens to Galatia, Titus vnto Dalmatia.

11 Only Luke is with me. Labynge Warke & byng him with the, for he is profitable vnto me for thy ministrie.

12 And Erigius haue I sent to Ephesus.

13 The cloke that I left at Troas with Carpus, whiche thou committest bring with the, and the bookes, but specially the parchementes.

14 Alexander the coppersmith sheld me much cust : The Lord our Lord according to his deeds.

15 Of whom be thou ware also: For he hath greatly withstanded our preaching.

16 At my first amsweryng, no man asstred me, but all forsoke me, (I pray God) yt it may not be layde to their charges:

17 And notwithstanding, the Lord asstred me, and strengthened me, that by me the preaching should be fullyled to the vnoft, and yt all the gentiles should heare, and I was delivered out of the mouth of the Lion.

18 And the Lord shall deliver me from every cust I vll preserve me vnto his heavenly kingdome: To whome be praise for euer and euer. Amen.

19 Salute Paclia and Aquila, and the householde of Onesiphous.

20 Erasmus abode at Corinth: But Trophimus haue I left at Miletum sicke.

21 Do thy diligence to come before winter. Cubolus greet eth thee, and Pudens, Linus, and Claudia, and all the brether.

22 The Lord Jesus Christ be with thy spirite: Salute be with you. Amen.

The seconde epistle unto Timothe, was written from Rome, when Paul was presented the seconde tyne unto the Emperour Nero.

Paul a servant of God, an Apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the grace of God given unto them, that they may be obedient, and faithful in all things.

B 1

But speak thou the things which befit the doctrine of godliness, that the old men be sober, grave, temperate, in due use of wine, not Epicureans, not brawlers, not covetous; but hold the mystery of the faith with a pure conscience.

2. The elder women should rule well, not given to much wine, teachers of good things, that they may teach the young women to love their husbands, to understand that which is good.

4. To make the young women sober, to love their husbands, to hold the mystery of the faith with a pure conscience.

5. (To be) discreet, chaste, housekeepers, good, obedient, that they may teach the young women to understand that which is good.

6. Young men in like manner, obedient, that they may teach the young women to understand that which is good.

7. In all things shewing thyself a pattern of good works, in doctrine, in charity, in simplicity.
To thee, therefore, which art faithful, andkest with all authority. Let us, therefore, man dispise thee.

1. Of obedience to such as be in authority. He warneth Titus to beware of foolish and unprofitable questions, concluding with certaine private matters, and salutations.

2. To be subject to rule and power, to obey magistrates, to be sober, to employ good works.

3. To be kind, helpful, and meek unto all men.

4. For we ourselves also were sometime foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, one another.

5. But after that the kindness and love of our Saviour God be manifested.

6. Not of works which are in righteousness wrought, but according to his mercie, he saved us by the fountain of regeneration and renewing of the holy spirit.

7. Which be shed on us richly through Jesus Christ our Saviour.

8. This is a faithful saying: And of these thynes I will that thou confirm, that they which have beleued in God, may get be careful to the faith, good works. These thynes are good and profitable unto men.

9. But foolish questions, and strifes of men, the which have occurred, and strivings about the law, avoid: for they are profitless and profitless.

10. A man that is an author of sectes, but after the first and the second admonition,

11. Knovving, that he that is such, is seduced and sinned, being damned of hym self.

12. When I shall sende Artemas unto thee, or Tychicus, be diligent to come unto me unto Nicopolis: for I have determined there to winter.

13. Byng Zenas the ladepe, and Apollos, on their journey, diligently, that nothing be lacking unto them.

14. And let ours alio learn to excell in good works to necessarie uses, that they be not unfruitfull.

15. All that are with me, salute thee. Greeteth them that love vs in the faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

Written from Nicopolis, (a citie) of Macedonia.
The Epistle of Saint Paul unto Philemon.

1. Paul, a prisoner of Jesus Christ, and brother Timotheus, unto Philemon, the beloved, and our fellow labourer, And to the beloved Apphia, and Archippus our fellow labourer, and to the church in thy house:

2. Grace to you, and peace from God, our father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3. I thank my God, making mention always of thee in my prayers.

4. Hearing of thy love and faith, which thou hast towards the Lord Jesus, and towards all saints;

5. That the (c) fellowship of thy faith may be effectual in the knowledge of every good work, which is in you, towards Christ Jesus.

6. For we have great joy and consolation in thy love, because the (c) bowels of the saints are refreshed by thee, brother.

7. Wherefore, though I might be much bowels in Christ, to injoy thee that which is convenient:

8. Ver. sa: I rather beseech thee, being such a one as Paul the aged, now also a prisoner of Jesus Christ.

9. I beseech thee, for my son (c) Onesimus, whom I have begotten in my bowels;

10. Which in thy bowels was, was to thee unprofitable, but now profitable to me and to thee.

11. Whom I have sent againe: Thou therefore receive hym, that is, mine own bowels,

12. Whom I would have returned with me, that in thy stead he might have ministered unto me in the bonds of the Gospel:

13. But without thy mind I would I do nothing, that thy benefite should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly.

14. For happily it therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receive hym for ever:

15. Not now as a servant, but above a servant, a brother beloved, specially to me; but bowe much more into thee, both in the flesh, and in the Lord:

16. If thou count me therefore a bowe, receive hym as my self.

17. If he have offended, or oweth (thee ought) that lay to my charge,

18. If he have injured, or oweth (thee) that lay to my charge,

19. I Paul have written it with mine own hande, I will recompense it: Albeit, I do not lay to thee, bowe that thou owdest unto me even thyne owne selfe.

20. Peace brother, let me enjoy this pleasure of thee in the Lord: Comfort my bowels in the Lord.

21. Trusting in thine obedience, I wrote unto thee, knowing, that thou wilt also do more then I say.

22. Moreover, prepare me also a lodging: for I trust that through your papers, I halbe gven unto you.

23. There salute thee Epaphras, my fellow prisoner (c) in Christ Jesus.

25. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

Written from home, by Onesimus a servant.

The Epistle of Saint Paul the Apostle, unto the Hebrews.

The first Chapter.

1. Do which in time past, at sundrie tymes, and in divers maners, spake unto the fathers in the prophets:

2. Hath in these (c) last days, spoken unto us,
The Epistle

1. Wherefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip.

2. For ye know how that after he had by himself borne our sins in his own body on the tree,

3. And ye are witnesses of it: for so is the gospel preached unto you, according to the which doctrine ye have learned,

4. And how ye ought to speak henceforth, not after the carnal man, nor after the flesh, but according to the spirit of faith, and grace, that is, according to the word of Christ.

5. For he that is in Christ is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

6. And the last enemy shall be destroyed, death.

7. For the preaching of the gospel is the secret of life, and the mystery of the kingdom of God.

8. And the secret of life is the mystery of the kingdom of God.

9. For the secret of life is the mystery of the kingdom of God.

10. And the mystery of the kingdom of God is the secret of life.

11. For thou hast joined righteousness to thyself, and hated iniquity: therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

12. And thou hast lifted up thy voice in the wilderness, and made the foundation of the earth.

13. And the heavens are the workes of thy hands:

14. They shall perish, but thou endurest, and thou shalt have none that can abide thy sight.

15. But unto which of the Angels said he at any time: Thou art my son, this day have I begotten thee?

16. And again: I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son:

17. And again, when he bringeth in the firstbegotten into the world, saith he of the Son of God: Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

18. And let all the Angels of God worship him.

19. And unto the Angels he saith: He maketh his Angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire.

20. But unto the Son: Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased: this is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

21. The Saviour of thy kingdom [is] a saviour of thy kingdom.
16 For he in no place taketh on hym the ○ Angels: but the seed of Abraham taketh he on hym.
17 Wherefore, in all things it became him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be merciful, and a faithful life priest in thynges concernyng God, for to purge the peoples sines.
18 For in that he hym felle suffered and was tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted.

The .iii. Chapter.

1 He required them to be obedient into the wode of Christ; who is more worthy then Moses. 2 The punishment of such as wil harren their heart, and not believe, that they might have evernall rest.

1 Therefore holy brethen, partakers of the celestial calling, (c) consider the apostile and lye priest of our profession Christ Jesus.
2 Being faithfull to him that appointed hym, as also [was]
Moses in all his house.
3 For this [man] is counted worthy of more glory then Moses, (malmuch) as he which hath builden the house, hath more honour then the house.
4 For every house is builded of some man: but he that builded all thynges, is God.
5 And Moses verily [was] faithfull in all his house, as a minister, for a wittness of those thynges which were to be be ken after:
6 But Christ as a some [bath rule] over his own house, whose (b) house are we, pf we holde fast the confidence and the rejoynynge of that hope unto the ende.
7 Wherefore, as the holy ghost faith: To day pf ye wyll heare his bope.
8 Harden not your heartes, as in the ponohyng, in the day of the temptation in the wylderneste,
9 Where your fathers tempted me, pos ted me, and saue my wodkes, peres.

The .iii. Chapter.

1 For vs beare therefore, left at any tym, by forsaking the promise of entryng into his reque, any of vs shoulde be defrauded.
2 For unto vs was the Gospel pre-ched, as well as unto them: But the word while they hearde byd not pos-site them, not beynge coupled with lye
th to them that hearde.
For we which have believed, do enter into his rest, as he laby'd: Even as I have done in my warrant, (as thy) that enter into my rest. Although the wor-

4 kises were made perfectly from the foundation of the world.

For he spake in a particular place of the (7) dapse on this wise: And God byd rest the seventh day from all his wor-

5 kises.

And in this place again ye: they shall enter into my rest.

Being therefore it followeth, that some must enter there unto, and they to who the Gospel was first preached entered not therein for unbelief.

7 Againe, he appointeth a certaine day, by to day, saying in David after so long a time, as it is said, To day will the Lord hear his voyce, hard not your hearts. For yet (as) it was given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

9 There remaineth therefore yet a rest to the people of God.

10 For he that is entred into his rest, hath ceased also from his owne workes, as God byd rest the seventh day from all his workes.

11 Let us therefore so enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same example of disobedience.

12 For the word of God is querke, and mighty in operation, and sharper then any two edges (word, and entrench thou-rowe, even unto the bending of a sander of the (7) soul & the spirit, and of the spirits & the marke, and is a discovery of the thoughts and of the intents of the heart:

13 Neither is there any creature that is not manifext in the sight of hym: But all thinges are naked and open unto the eyes of hym of whom we speake.

14 Seying then that we have a great hye priest, which is entred into heavens, Je-

15 us the soume of God, let vs hold faste the confession.

16 For we have not an hye priest which D can not be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted lyke as we are, and (as) without sinne.

17 Let vs therefore come boldly into the thone of grace, that we may obtayne mericie, and hynde grace to helpe in time of neede.

The v. Chapter.

1 Do every hye priest taken from among men, is ord-

2 ned for men, in things pertaining to God, to offer (as) hyep's sacrificial for some:

2 Which can sufficiently have compassion on the ignorant, & on them that err out of the waye, forasmuch as he hym

3 felte also is compassed with infirmite.

And for some (infirmite) he is bounde to offer for same, aswell for hym selte, as for the people.

4 And no man taketh the honour unto hym selte, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron.

5 Even so, Christ also glorified not hym selte to be made hym priest: but he that sayde unto hym, Thou art my soume, to day have I beoffered thee, (gaue it hym.)

6 As he faileth also in an other place, Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedech.

7 Which in the dapes of his selte, when he had offered by prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears, unto hym that was able to hauue hym

8 from death, and was haued in (as) that which he feared.

9 Though he were the soume, yet learned he obedience, by these things which he suffered:

9 And being perfect, was made the aun-thor of eternall salvation but at them that obey hym:

10 And is called of God an hye priest after the order of Melchisedech.

11 Of whom we have many thinges to say, and hynde to be hyttende, being ye are dull of hearing.

12 For when as concerning the tyne, ye ought to be teache, yet hau ye ende againe that we teache you the first principles of the begynning of the wordes of God, and are become such as hau ye ende of "mylyte, and not of strong meate."

13 For every one that belie hyte mylyt, is un-expert of the wordes of righteousnes, for he is a babe.

14 But strong meate belongeth to them that are perfecte, even those which by reason of fe, hau ye wittes exerci-fied to discerne both good and euyll.

C The
The vii. Chapter.

1 Therefore leaving the doctrine of the beginning (a) of Christ, let us go on to perfection, not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith to the working of God,

2 Of the doctrine of baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment.

3 And this do I put in a plainest manner: for this ye know, that except ye have been converted, ye shall perish.

4 For it cannot be that they which were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the holy ghost,

5 And have tasted of the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come,

6 And are fallen away, should be received again unto repentance, having disdained him that cometh unto them in the manner spoken of before; for they were the church of his church, and of his body; and he made a mark of his body and blood.

7 For the earth which drinketh in the rain that falleth upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them by whom it is dressed, even so shall ye bring forth them which are meet for them which do the word of God.

8 But ye grieve the holy spirit of God, against whom ye were called to the peace of God.

9 Nevertheless, beare ferenes, be not persuaded by their enemies, which throng against you;

10 And have all the more strength of faith, because ye have had a strong consolation, though ye thus speak.

For God is not unrighteous, "to fo-got your worke labour of love, which ye have shewed toward his name, having ministered to the saints, and ye have ministered.

11 Pea and desire that every one of you do the work of faith diligently, to the glory of God.

12 That ye lay not idly, but be followers of them which through patience and affliction inherit the promises.

13 For when God made promise to Abraham, because he had no greater to sware by, he sware by himself,

14 Saying : Surely, bless YHWH; bless thee, and multiplying, multiple thee.

15 And do after that he had tarried patiently, he enjoyed the promise.

16 For men verily sware by the greater, and an oath for confirmation, is to them an end of all slype.

17 Wherein God willing very abounds, daunty to selle unto the heires of promise, the staleness of his countny, confirmed by an oath:

18 That by two immutable thinges, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong confirmation, which have fled to hold fast the hope laid before by:

19 Which (hope) we holde as an anker of the soule both sure and stedfast, and en- teryng in, into that thing which is with- in the bayle:

20 Whethir the forerunner is for us entered. "Jesus, the adorer of Melchisedech, made a priest for ever.

Hebr. viii. 1.

The vii. Chapter.

1 The highpriest of Christ unto Melchisedech, 11 also Christ's highpriest with the Levites.

2 To whome also Abraham gave the of all thinges, first being called by interpretation king of righteousness, after also, king of Salem, which is, king of peace.

R if

without father, without mother, without beginning of days, neither end of life, but lived unto the sonne of God, and continued a priest for ever.

And verily they which are of the children of Levi, which receive the office of the priesthood, have a commandment to take tythes of the people accept ning to the laue, that is, of their brethren, though they came out of ș tythes of Abraham.

But he whose kynde is not counted among them, receaued tythes of Abra ham, and blessed hym that had the promise.

And without all controversy, the lefte is blessed of the better.

And here men that dye, receaued eithe: but there he (receaued them) of whom it is witnessed that he lyueth.

And to say the truth, Leui also which receaued tythes, payed tythes in Abraham.

For he was yet in the tythes of his fa ter, when Paterkaede met Abra ham.

If therefore perfection was by the priesthood of ș Leuites (For under that priesthood the people receaued the law) what need it furthermore that ano ther priest should rise after the order of Paterkaede, and not to be called after the order of Aaron?

For if the priesthood be translated, or necessitie or there is made a transferri of the laue.

For he of whom these typhges are spoken, parted yet into another tribe, of which no man stoode at the auker.

For it is evident that our Lord lyu* out of Juda, of which tribe he receaued hopes nothing concerning priesthood:

And it is yet a farre more euident thing,
to the Hebrewes.

The vii. Chapter.

So he protesteth the abolishing as well of the Levitical priesthood, as of the old covenant, by the spiritual and everlasting priesthood of Christ, and by the new covenant.

1. A number of holy things, and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord kept, and not man.

2. For every high priest is ordained to offer sacrifices and sacrifices: wherefor it is of necessity, that this man have some what also to offer.

3. For he were not a priest, as he were on the earth, seeing there are priests that according to the land offer sacrifices, who ere unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was commanded of God, when he was about to sanctify the tabernacle: for he saw, saith he, that they make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount.

4. But now hath he obtained a more excellent office, by how much also he is the mediator of a better covenant, which was confirmed in better promises.

5. For if that first covenant had been sounder, then should no place have been sought for the second.

8. For in redeeming them, he saith: Be hold the days (b) come, saith the Lord, and I will smite upon the house of Israel and upon the house (b) of Judah, a new covenant; not like that that I made with their fathers, in the day when I took them by the hand, to lead them out of the land of Egypt; because they continued not in my covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

10. For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the Lord, getting my people into their own land, and in their heart I will write them, and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people.

11. And they shall not (c) teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the little of them to the great of them.

12. For I will be merciful to their transgressions, and their iniquities will I remember no more.

13. In that he spake a new covenant, he hath made out the first: for that which is come out and waxed old, is ready to vanish away.

The ix. Chapter.

1. How that the ceremonies and sacrifices of the law are abolished, ii by the eternity and perfection of Christ's sacrifice.

2. The first covenant then had verily using old sacrifices, seruings of God, and worshipping holyness.

3. For there was a tabernacle made, wherein was the light, and the table, and the bread, which is called holy.

4. But after the second tabernacle, called holy of all: which had the golden candlestick, and the ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was the golden pot having Manoa, and Aaron's rod that had budded, and the tables of the covenant:

5. And over it, the Cherubins of glory, shadoying the mercy seat: Of which things we can not now speak particular tie.

6. For these things were thus ordained, the priests went always into the first tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7. But into the second went the high priest alone once every year, not without blood, which he offered for himself, and for the ignorances of the people.

8. The holy ghost this signifying, that the wave of holy things was not yet opened, whereupon the first tabernacle was standing;

9. Wherein (w) was a similitude for the temple, then prepare, in which were offered gifts.
and sacrifices, that could not make the worshipper perfect as pertaining to the conscience.
10 With only meats and drinks, and libations and washings, and anointings of the flesh, which were laid by until the true of reformation.

But Christ being come an high priest of good things that should be, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building,

Neither by the blood of Goats and Calves: but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, found eternal redemption.

For if the blood of Goats and Calves, and the ashes of a young Calf, purging the unclean, sanctify to the purifying of the flesh:

How much more the blood of Christ, which through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, shall purge your conscience from dead works, to serve the living God:

And for this cause he is the mediator of the new testament, which was by the blood of a better and perfect sacrifice than the first, even Jesus Christ.

For where as is a testament, there must also of necessity be the death of him that maketh it.

For a testament is confirmed when men are dead: for it is of no effect, as long as he that made it remaineth alive.

For which cause also, neither the first dedicated without blood.

For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, taking the blood of Goats and of Calfes, with water and purple wood and hyrpe, he sprinkled both the bookes it selfe, and all the people.

Saying: This is the blood of the testament, which God hath enjoyned unto you.

And likewise he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministerie.

And almost all things are by the blood purged with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no remission.

For it is neede then that the patern of heauenly things be purifed with such thynge: but the heauenly thynge the felues (he purifed) With better sacrifices then are they.

For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands (which are) paterners of true thynge: but into heauen: and it selfe, neither to appear in the sight of God for vs.

Not that he shoulde offer him selfe often, as the high priests entereth into the holy places every yere in straunge blood.

(For then must he have often sphyten hence the foundation of the world:) But once in the end of the world hath he appeared, to put away sinne, by the sacrifice of hym selfe.

And as it is appointed unto men once to dye, and after this the judgement:

Even so, Christ once offered to take away the sins of many, the second, in himselfe without sinne, of them which wait for hym unto salvation.

The x. Chapter.

The olde lawe had no power to cleane away sinne, but Christ dyd it with offering of hym selfe once for all. And exhortation to receive the goodness of God thankfully, with patience andieldfast hope.

6 In burnt sacrifices & saine (offenges) thou hast had no pleasure.
7 Then saide I, lo I come (In the beginning of the book it is written of me) to do thy will, O God.

29 Of holy vnche also promisent (suppose ye) shall be weorthy, whiche tredeth under foote the soune of God; and counteth the blood of the sancitay wherein he was sanctified, an vnjoyde thyng, and doth despite to the spirit of grace:
30 For we knowe by that hath layde, F vengeaunce (belongeth) unto me, I wyl render faith the Lorde: And agayne, the Lorde shall judge his people.
31 It is a searefull thyng to fall into the handes of the oung God.
32 Call to remembaunce the former dayes, in the which after ye had receaved light ye endured a great fight of adversaries:
33 Partly whye ye were made a gaging flocke, both by reproches & afflictions, and partly whye ye became companions of them which were do tosted to s tro.
34 For ye suffered also with my bondes, & toke in worsrth the spoyling of your & goodes With gladnesse : knovling in your soules how that ye haue in heauen a better and an eternely sublimage.
35 Call not awaie therefore your confi- dence, which hath great recompence of rewarde.
36 For ye have neede of patience, that after ye have done the wil of God, ye might receave the promise.
37 For yet a very lute while, and he that shall come, wyl come, and wyl not tary.
38 And the wils shall lyue by faith: And ye which have my soules, my soule shall have no pleare in hym.
39 We are not of them that Withdawde oulles unto perdition: but we parteyspe unto faith, to the wyping of the soule.
The Epistle

The x. Chapter.

What faith is, and a commendation of the same. Without faith we can not please God. The sedulous belief of the fathers in old time.

Epistle is the ground of thynges hoped for, the evidence of thynges not seen. For by it, the elders obtained a good report.

Through faith, we understand that the worldes were ordained by the Word of God, and that thynges which are seen, were made of thynges which were not seen.

By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice then Cain: by which he was witnessed to be righteous, God testifying of his gifts: by which also he being dead, yet speaketh.

By faith was Enoch translated, that he should not see death, neither was he found, for God had taken him away: For afore he was taken away, he was reported of to have pleased God.

But without faith it is impossible to please him: For he that cometh to God, must believe that God is, and that he is a rewarder of them that seek him.

By faith noe being warned of thynges not seen as yet, moved with reverence, prepared the ark to the saving of his house, through the which [ark] he condemned the worlde, and became heir of the righteousness which is by faith.

By faith Abraham when he was called, obeyed, to go out into a place where he should afterwards receive inheritance: and he went out, not knowing whither he should go.

By faith he removed into the lande of promise, as into a strange country, wher he had dwelt in tabernacles, with Isaac and Jacob, heires with hym of the same promise.

For he looked for a citie having a foundation, whose builder and maker is God.

Through faith also Sara her selfe received strength to conceave seede, and was deliuered of a childe with she was paxeage, because the wedged hym faithfull which had promised.

And therefore spang there of one, even of one which was as good as head [to Gen. xv.14, many] in multitude, as are the stares in the skye, and as the lande which is by the sea shore innumerable.

These all dyed according to faith, not having receaved the promises, but being them a farre of, and beleuing, and lauting, and confessing that they were strangers and pilgrimes in the earth.

For they that say such thynges, declare that they feke a countrey.

Also of they had been myndfull of that countrey from whence they came out, they had pleasure to have returned:

But nowe they delire a better, that is, a heavenly. Wherefore God is not ashamed of them to be called their God, for he hath prepared for them a citie.

By faith Abraham offered by Isaac when he was [1] proued: and he that had receaved the promises, offered by his only begotten sonne:

To whom it was said, that in Isaac shall thy seede be called.

For he considered that God was able to rade the dead by agayne, for whence also he receaved hym in a similitude [of the resurrection].

By faith did Isaac bless Jacob and Esau, concerning thynges to come.

By faith Jacob when he was a dying, blessed both the sonses of Joseph, and bespyled towards the toppe of his feputer.

By faith Joseph when he dyed, remembered the depauring of the chil- dren of Israel, and gave commandement of his bones.

By faith Bery's where he was borne, was byd three monethes of his father and mother, because they faile he was a proper childe, neither feared they the kynges commandement.

By faith Moses when he was great, refused to be called the sonne of Pharaohs daughter:

Choosing rather to suffer adversitie with the people of God, then to enioye the pleasures of time for a season:

Esteeming the rebuke of Christ, grea-
to the Hebrewes.

3327. By faith he sojourned in Egypt, fearing not the wrath of the king, for he endured, even as though he had seen him which is invisible.

28 *Though faith, he overflowed the Passover and the effusion of blood, lest he that destroyed the first born, should touch them.

29 By faith, they passed through the Red sea, as by dry land: which the Egyptians aspiring to do, were dissolved.

30 By faith, the valiant of Jericho fell double, after they were compassed about upon dunes.

31 By faith, the harlot Rahab perished not with them that were disobedient, when she had received the spies with peace.

32 And what shall I more say? for the time would fail me, to rehearse of Sebenon of Barac, and of Samson, and of Jephthah, and Samuel, and of the prophets:

33 *Which through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obeyed the plagues, stopped the mouths of the Lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, warded in fight, turned to fight the armies of the alantes.

35 *The women received their dead, rayed to Lyse again: Other were raked, not looting for deliverance, that they might receive a better resurrection.

36 And others were tried with mockings, and scourgings: notch, moreover with bonds and imprisonment:

37 *They were stoned, were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword, wandered about in sheepshades, and goates shunes, being desitute, afflicted (and) tormented:

38 Of which the bounde was not with those: They wandered in wilderness, and in mountaynes, and in deuines, and caves of the earth.

39 And these all through faith, obtained good report, and received promiseth: not the perfect:

40 God promising a better thing for us, that they without vs should not be made perfect.

The xij. Chapter.

1 In exhortation to be patient and stedfast in trouble and adversity, upon hope of everlasting rewardes: 2 A commendation of the new Testament about the old.

5 And ye have forgotten the exhortation, which speacheth unto you as unto chil-ven: By some despite not thou the chastening of the Lord, neither sayest when thou art rebuked of hym:

6 For whom the Lord loveth, he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son that he receaueth.

7 If ye endure chastening, God de-ereh him felle as unto sonnes: For what some is he whom the father chasteneth not:

8 But ye be without chastisiment, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sonnes.

9 Furtheermore, we have had fathers of our nature, which corrected vs, and we gave them reverence: Shall we not then much rather be in subjection unto the father of spirits, and pype?

So that we may boldly say, the Lo\vrb is my helper, and I will not fear what man may do unto me.

Remember them which have the oversight of you, whom have spoken unto you the Word of God, whose saying ye consider as spoken, solemn as their faith.

Jesus Christ yesterday and to day, and the same for ever.

Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrines: For it is a good thing that the heart be established with grace, not with meats, which have not profit ed that have been occupied therein.

We have an altar, whereof they have no right to eat which serve in the tabernacle.

For the bodies of those beasts whose blood is brought into the holy place by the high priest for time, are burnt without the tents.

Therefore Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, suffered without the gate.

For he hence we have no continuing city; but we look for one to come.

By him therefore, do we offer sacrifice of laude allbayes to God: that is, the fruit of lipes confessing his name.

A The iiij. Chapter.

He forbidden all ambition to seke honour above our brethren. He describeth the proprie of the tongue, 15, 16. And what difference there is betweene the wil-dome of God, and the wil dome of the world.

1 Wholesomely to all this matter, "be not ma-

"ie masters, knowynge holde that we shall re-come the greater dan-nation:

For in many thynges
we sinne all. If a man shone not in (b) word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to brickle all the body.

3 Welholde, we put bites in the holes mouthes, that they may obey vs, and we turne about all the body of them:

4 Welholde all ye chyppes, which though they be so great, and are dipyn of sierc windes, yet are they turned about with a very small hele, whether seuer the violence of the governour lyvy.

5 Even so the tongue is a little member also, a boaste in great thynges, Welholde how great a matter a little fire kindeth.

6 And the tongue is lyue, even a word of wickednesse. So is the tongue let among our members, that it deslcteth the whole body, and (b) lettreth on lyve the course of nature, 3 it is set on lyve of hell.

7 All the natures of beastes, so bydes, and of serpentes, and thynges of the sea, are meeker and tamed of the nature of
man:

8 But the tongue can no man tame, it is an bruiely crypfull of deadly poison.

9 Therewith blesse we God the father:
and therewith curse we men, * which are made after the similitude of God.

10 Out of one mouth procadeth blessing and cursing. By brethen, these thynges ought not to be.

11 Both a fountayme seteth forth at one place, sierc water, and bitter al;

12 Can the liggge tree, my brethen, beare blue berrys: either a bine beare figges?
So can no fountayme gene both salt water and freslye albo.

13 Who is a wise man, and endued with knowledge
knowledge among you; let him that is wise among you be a wise and gentle, but not bitter, but instructed in your reasonings; and let him that is rich reason about this, that if there had been a rich man, he should have hid his riches. For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all unrighteousness of men who do not restrain reasonings against the truth. For if wisdom were of this world, it is not, but wisdom is of God, who is by himself. And the fruit of right reasonings is revealed in peace, and that makes peace.

The Epistle

Rom. Whence there is warre and fighting among you; come they not here hence, even of your lustes that fight in your members? Ye lust, and have not; Ye enmite, and have indignation, and can not obtaine: Ye fight and warre, ye have not, because ye ask not. Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, even to consume it upon your lustes. Ye adulterate, and lust for sin, and have no hatred of the Scripture's pictures of sin. Either do ye think that the Scripture's faith in you, the spirit that is of law, innocent after enmite? But the Scripture offers more grace, and therefore faith, God resists the proud, but geneth grace into patience.

Submit your lusts therefore to God: but resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Drive ye, from God, and he will drive you to. Cleanse your hands ye sinners, and purify your hearts ye double minded.

Suffer afflictions, and mourn, and weep: Let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness.

Humble your selves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.

Banebit not one another brethren, he that backbiteth his brother, and he that judgeth his brother, backbiteth the father of his brother, and judgeth the law: But ye judge the law, thou art not an observer of the law, but a judge.

There is one law gener, which is able to save and to destroy, What art thou that judgeth another?

To nodde ye that lay (to day and to morrow let vs go into this a cite, and continue there a verre, and bye and fell, andWyne.

And yet can not ye tel what shall happen on the morrow. For what thing is your lyke: It is even a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then he is bathed away.

For that ye ought to say: If the Lord will, and if the lyne, let vs do this or that.

But nodly ye requyse in your boathing: All such requyse is euyll.

Therefore to hym that knoweth howe to do good, and doth it not, to hym it is unye.

The.v. Chapter.

2 He threatneth the wicked rich men, 7 chresteth into patience, 12 to beware of swearing, 15 one to knowledge his lustes to another, 20 and one to labour to bying another to the trueth.

O to nodde ye riche men, wepe and howle on your wickednesse that shall come upon you. Your riches is corrupt, your garments are mosteaten:

Your gold and silver is counted, and the rufe of them slably a Wittenese against you, and shall call your thes as it were lyue. Ye have heaped treasure together together in your last days.

4. Behold, the hire of labourers, which have reaped downe your fieldes, which hire is of you keppt by fraud, which is the truth, and the eyes of them which have reaped, are entred into the cares of the Lord Saaboth.

5. Ye have lued in pleasure on the earth, and ben wanton: Ye have nourished your hearts, as in a day of slaughter.

6. Ye have condemned and kylled the luff, and he hath not resifled you.

7. Ye be patient therefore brethren, into the connyng of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman wayeteth for the precious fruites of the earth, and hath long patience therupon, until he receaue the early and the later rayne.

8. Ye be also patient therefore, and sette your hearts, for the connyng of the Lord dawbeth nye.

9. Struggle not one against another brethren, lest ye be dampt: Behold, the judge standeth before the doore.

10. Take my brethren, the prophets for an enample of suffering abstinence, and of patience, which spake in the name of the Lord.

11. Behold, ye count the happy which endure. Ye have hearde of the patience of Job, and ye knoaten what ende the Loide made: For the Loide is very pitifull and mercifull.

12. But above all things my brethren,

The end of the epistle of Saint James.

The first epistle of Saint Peter the Apostle.

1. The first Chapter.

2. Ye theweth that through the abundant mercie of God, we are elect and regenerate to a lively hope, that our faith must be tried, so that the salvation in Christ is no newes, but a thing prophected of olde; ye exhorted them to a godly conversation, so as they are now borne a newe by the word of God.

3. Grace be multiplied unto you. Rom. i. 7. Cor. i. 2. Gal. i. 3. Cor. i. 4. Eph. i.

4. Blessed be God the father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercie begat us agayne into a lively hope, by that great Jesus Christe roose agayne from death, to an inheritance immortall, and unbesed, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heauen for you.

5. Which are kept by the power of God through faith into saluation, which is prepared aforeside to be shewed in the last time.

The Epistle

for a season (yea need require) ye are in heavinesse through manifold temptations:

7 That the triall of your faith, being much more precious then gold (that perisheth), although it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise, glory, and honour, at the appearing of Jesus Christ:

8 whom ye have not seen, and yet love hym, in whom ye are beloved, euen with joy unspeakable and glorious:

9 Recounting the end of your faith, euen the salvation of your soules.

10 Of which salvation have ye prophesied & searched, which prophesied of the grace that should come unto you:

11 Searching when or at what time the spicure of Christ which was in them, shoulde signifie, which spicure testified before, the passions that should happen unto Christ, and the glory that should folowe after.

12 Unto which spicure it was also declared, that not unto them selues, but unto you, they should minister things which are noble newed unto you of them, which by the holy ghost sent downe from heaven, have in the Gospell preached unto you, the things which the Angels desire to behold:

13 Wherefore guide by the myndes of your mynde, be sober, and trust perfectly on the grace that is bought unto you, by the revelation of Jesus Christ:

14 As obedient chylde, not fashioning your selues into the former lustes of your ignoance:

15 But as he which called you is holy, even so be ye holy also in all maner of conversation:

16 Because it is written, *be ye holy, for I am holy.

17 And *to be that ye call on the father, which without respect of person judgeth *accounting to every mans workes, see that ye passe the tyne of your dibeling here in feare:

18 Of which as ye know, hovse that ye were not recondend with corruptible thynges, as silver and golde, from your bynane conception which ye received by the tradition of the fathers:

19 But with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb unbroaded, *without spot:

20 which was obeyed beforehande, euen before the Boxide was made, but was declared in the last tynes *to your takes:

21 which by his meane do beloue on God that rayled hym by from death, and glorified hym, that ye might have fauth and hope toward God:

22 Even ye which have purified your soules through the spicure in obeying the truth, with brotherly love unfaigned, see that ye love one another with a pure heart sincerly:

23 For ye are borne a newe, not of mortall seede: but of immortal, by the Gospell of God, which true and lasteth for ever:

24 *For all fleshe is as grass, and all the gloise of man, is as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower falleth away:

25 But the Gospell of the Lord endureth ever. *And this is the Gospell, which by the Gospell was preached unto you.

The 11. Chapter.

Wherefore lay aside all malisiousnesse, and all guile, and faynednesse, and euene, and all backbityng, And *as nevbe borne babies, defend ye v milke of the Boxide, which is without deceit: that ye may growe therby [unto salvation]

3 If so be that ye have tasted hovse gratesions the Lord is:

4 To whom ye come, as unto a young stone, disallowed of men, but chosen of God and precious:

5 And ye as lyncel stones, be you made a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, for to offer spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesu Christ.

Wherefore
25 6 Wherefore it is contained also in the scripture: "be hold, I put in store a stone to be laid in the chiefest corner, elect and precious, and that he believeth on him, shall not be confounded.

7 Unto you therefore which believe, he is precious: but unto them which believe not, the stone which the builders refused, the same is made the head of the corner.

8 And a stone shall be brought forth to the highway, which they shall stumble at, and which they shall stumble at, and which they shall stumble at, and being disobedient, unto the which thing they were even ordained.

9 But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people: that ye should shew forth the virtues of him that called you out of darkness into his marvellous light.

10 Which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God: which sometime had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

11 Dearly beloved, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul:

12 And see that ye have honest conversation among the gentiles: that where as they bidden you as cup-bearers, * they may by your good works which they shall see, pay God in the day of visitation.

13 *Subint your selves therefore unto all manner obedience of man for the Lords sake: whether it be unto the king, as having the persuasion:

14 Other unto rulers, as unto them that are sent of him; for the punishment of cup-bears, but for the laude of them that do well.

15 For so is the will of God, that with well doing, ye may stoppe the mouths of foolish and ignorant men:

16 As free, and not as having the liberty for a cloke of malice and seditions, but even as the seruants of God.

17 *Honour all men. Love brotherly sentiments to them that call on our name; of good men, and honour the king;

18 *Seruants, obey your masters with all fear, not only if they be good and courteous, but also though they be froward.

19 *For it is thank worthy, not to a man for patience toward God, endure griefs, and suffer wrong underdone.

20 For what weight is it, if when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye take it patiently? But if when ye do well ye suffer wrong, take it patiently, then is there thank with God.

21 For hereunto verily were ye called, for ye Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps.

22 Which did no sin, neither was there guile found in his mouth.

23 Whiche when he was reviled, reviled not againe: when he suffered, he threatened not, but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously.

24 *Which his owne selfe bare our infames in his body on the tree, that he beeing delivered from sinne, shoulde live unto righteousnesses: By whose stripes ye were healed.

25 For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now turned unto the sheeps hearde by the proph of your soules.

The iiij. Chapter.

1 Howe wives ought to order themselves towards their husbands, and in their apparel. 2 The dutie of men towards their wives. 3 If he rebuketh all men to write and lose. 4 And patiently to suffer trouble by the example and benefit of Christ.

2 Whyle they beholde your chast conversation coupled with fear.

3 Whose apparel shall not be outward with brayedd heere, hanging on of gold, either in putting on of gorgeous apparel.

4 But let the lady man which is in the heart, be without all corruption, so that the spirit be at rest and quiet, which is before god, a thing much let by.

5 For after this manner in the old time dyd the holy women, which trusted in God, trye them selves, and were obedient unto their husbands.
The first Epistle

6 Even as Sara obeyed Abraham, and called him Lord, whose daughters ye are as long as ye do well, and are not afraid for any terror.

7 Like wise ye husbands dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life, that your prayers be not hindered.

8 In conclusion, be ye all of one mind, of one heart, compassionate, brotherly, affable, be courteous,

9 Not rending up your eyes for eyries or rebukes: but contrarywise blesse, knowing that ye are thereunto called, even that ye should be (a) hopes of the blesyling.

10 For he that doeth long after ye, and loueth to see good days, let him re- store ye his tongue from eyrie, and his lips, that they speak no guile.

11 Let them cleave up ye and do good, let them let peace and ensue it.

12 For ye eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: Asa, the face of the Lord is (b) over them that do evil.

13 Moreover, who is it that shall harm ye, ye which follow that which is good?

14 See, happy are ye if any trouble happen unto you for righteous ones sake: We not ye afraid for any terror of them, neither be ye troubled:

15 But sanctifie the Lord God in your hearts. Wo thy alway to gene an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you.

16 And that with meekness and fear, having a good conscience: *that where as they backbite you as eyries doers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ.

17 *For it is better, yf the eyrie of God be so, that ye suffer for well doing, then for eyrie doing.

18 *Foras much as Christ hath once sufferred for sins, the just for the unjust, to bring inuen to God, and was killed as a sacrifice unto the flesh, but was quickened in the spirit.

19 In which spirit, he also went thanking the spirits that were in pylos,

20 Which sometime had ben disobedient, when once the long suffering of God abode in ye days of Noah, while the Arche was a prepearing, wherein felwe, that is to say right soules, were saved in the water:

21 To the which also the figure agreedeth that noode faucteys, even "daphning, not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but that a good conscience might request to God, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ:

22 Which is on the right han of God, and is gone into heaven, angels, poede, ers, and myght subdued unto eyrie.

The .iii. Chapter.

1 He exhorted men to cease from time, 2 to spende no more time in bice, 7 to be sober and apt to pay, 8 to love the other, 12 to be patient in trouble, 15 to beware that no man suffer as an eyrie doer, 16 but as a christian man, and to not to be ashamed.

Or as nunca then as Christ hath suffered for vs in the flesh, arme ye your selves lyke wise with the same mynde: for he which suffereth in the flesh, easeth from same:

2 That he hence ford, we shoulde lyue, as much lyue as remayneth in yf flesh, not after the lustes of men, but after the will of God.

3 For it is sufficient for vs that we have spent the lyue that is passe of the lyse, after the will of the gentiles, walking in wantonnes, lustes, in exceed of Wynes, in exceed of catynge, in exceed of biping, and abominable idolatrie.

And it seemeth to them an unacquainted ethynge, that ye reme not alfo with thys, they be not. (c) in the world thinketh this cold hearted, and despiseth that behaveth (b) to the preser of yf flesh, but they might have been worse ben provoked to doys of ye some gall, inbide now are besides to the image, they might be judged lyke other men in the flesh, but should lyue before God in the sprit.

5 Which els shall accomplishe to hym that is cedy to judge quick and dead.

6 For unto this purpose verysh was the Gollepe pleased also unto this (d) dead, that they shoulde be judged lyke other men in the flesh, but should lyue before God in the sprit.

7 The ende of all thynges is at hand.

8 Ye therefore sober, and watch the into prayer.

But
8 But above all thyues, have feruent love among your selues: For loue shall cover the multitude of sines.

9 Ye be hartebous one to another, without grudgyng.

10 As every man hath receaved the gift, eue so number the same one to another, as good numberes of the maniford grace of God.

11 If any man speake, [let hym talke] as the voyes of God. If any man number, let hym do it as of the ability whiche God ministretly bento hym, that God in all thyues may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for euer and euer. Amen.

12 Dearely beloved, thinke it not strange concerning the seerie triall, which thinng is to trye you, as though some seerie thynge happenet to you.

13 But reioyce, in as much as ye are partakers of Christes passions: that when his glory appeareth, ye maye be more and glad.

14 * If ye be appyed uppon for the name of Chri$t, happy are ye. For the sprit of glory and of God, refeth upon you: On their part he is upn spoken of, but on your part he is glorified.

15 See that none of you be punished as a nurrether, or as a thief, or as an euyl loer, or as a bulkebody in other mens matters.

16 * If any man suffer as a Chnstian man, let hym not be ashamed, but let hym glorifie God on this behalfe.

17 For the tyme is [some] that indigement must begin at the house of God. If ye stie[ begin] at ys, what shall the ende be of them which beleue not the Gospel of God:

18 And* if the ryghteous slantly be saued, where haile the vngoddy and the sinner appeare?

19 Wherefore, let them that are troubled acrobyng to the wyl of God, commit their soules to hym with well boyyng, as into a faythfull creatour.

The v. Chapter.

2 The diuerse of pasfours is to sebe the flocke of Chri$t, and what rewarde they shall haue that be diligent. 5 Be euerethe young persons to submit them selues to the elders, 8 to be fober, and to watche that they may resit the enemie.

38 Submit your selues therefore under the mightie hande of God, that he may cra$ you when the tyme is come.

3 Cast all your care upon hym, for he car$ retty for you.

8 Be fober, 8 watche, for your adventurrie the deuill, as a roa$yng Lion wal$ about seeking whom he may devoure.

9 * Whom resit nedfalt in the fayth, kno$ying that the same affiictiones are accomplished in your brethren that are in the word.

10 But the God of all grace whiche hath called vs into his eternall glory by Chri$t Jesus, haile his owne selte, after that ye have suffered a little affiiction, make you persife, sette, strenghe, and stabi$ the you.

11 To hym be glory and dominion, for euer and euer. Amen.

The Second Epistle

The Second Epistle of Saint Peter.

The First Chapter.

Forasmuch as the power of God hath given them all thynges parycting into lyse; he forsereth them to see the corrupcy of wryckol lustes, to to make their calling sure with good works and frutes of playth. 14 He maketh mention of his owne death, 15 declaring the Lorde Jesus to be the true lyne of God, as he him selfe had scene by upon the mount.

To Zedon Peter, a

Ver. 2 Grace and peace be multiplied vnto you, through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus Christ our Lord:

Ver. 3 Accordyng as his godly powre hath geuen vnto vs all thynges that parycte vnto lyce and godlynysse, through the knowledge of hym that hath called vs vnto godly vertue:

And hereunto vnto all dysciplyng in your faith, vnto vertue, vnto knowledge;

6 In knowledge temperance, in temperance patience, in patience godlynysse,

7 In godlynysse brotherly kyndnesse, in brotherly kyndnesse love.

8 For of these thynges be among you, and ben plentiful, they wyll make you that ye be nether chaufe ble nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lorde Jesus Christ.

9 But he that lacketh these thynges, is blinde, and can not see fayre of, hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sines.

10 Wherefore brethern, gyne the more diligence for to make your calling and election sure: For ye pe do such thynges, ye shall never fall.

11 Pea, and by this means an entering in that be ministring vnto you abounds, into the excellencie kyndome of our Lorde and Saviour Jesus Christ.

12 Wherefore I wyll not be negligent to put you alaways in remembrance of suche thynges, though ye knowe them your selues, and be stabifiled in the present truthe.

13 Forwithstanding I thinke it necte, as long as I am in this tabernacle, to shere you by by putting you in remembrance:

14 Forasmuch as I am sure that shortly I must put of this my tabernacle, even as our Lorde Jesus Chylste shewed me.

15 I wyll ever also gyne my diligence pe may have wherewith to shere by the remembrance of these thynges after my departuyng.

16 For we haue not solowed deerefull fables, when we opened vnto you the power and conquyng of our Lorde Jesu Chylste, but vth our eyes we saw his mayestie:

17 Even then deerefully when he receaued of God the father honour and glorie: When there came suche a toyse to hyn from the excellent glorie: This is my deere beloved some in whom I delpte:

18 This toyse we heard come from heauen, when we were with hym in the holy mount.
The 4th Chapter.

1. Ye prophesie of false teachers, and sheweth their punishment.

2. There were false prophets also among the people, even as "there shall be false teachers among you, which privately shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord, that hath bought them, and byying vp them leadeth into damnation.

3. And many shall follow their damnable wapes, by whom the way of truth shall be corrupted.

4. And through covetousness, shall they with covetous and deceitful hearts make merchandize of you, whose judgement is no less farre from, and their damnation sleepeth not.

5. For if God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them bothe into hell, and delivered them into chaynes of darkness, to be kept up to judgement:

6. Neither spared he the olde worlde, but saved Noe the righteoue person, a preacher of righteousness, and brought in the flood upon the worlde of the ungodly.

7. And turned their cities of Sodome & Gomorrhe into ashes, overthrown theire, dammed them, and made of them an ensample unto those that after shoulde lyve ungodly.

8. And uid Lot, hered with his unclean concubines of the wicked, delivered he.

9. For he beying righteouse, & dwelling among them, in seesing and hearng, vbere his righteouse soule from daye to daye with his unbloudfull heades.

10. The Lord knoweth howe to deluer the godly out of temptation, and to preserve the ungodly unto the day of judgement for to be punished.

11. But chiefly them that walke after the sleigh in the lust of uncleanenesse, and despise autoritie. Presumptions are they, and stand in their owne conceit, whichse feare not to speake euyl of them which eat in wship.

12. But these, as brute beasts lorde with sensualitie, and made to be taken and destroyed, speake euyl of the thynge that they understande not, and shall persis through their owne corruption.

13. And receave the reward of unrighteounesse, they count it pleasure to lyue devoutrylye for a reason: Spotxes they are and blootes, declining themselves in their deceitynes, in selflyng with you.

14. Hauing eyes full of adulterie, & that cannot escape from suche, beguyling unrighteouse soules: Heares they have exercised with robbie, they are cursed chyldren.

15. Which have forsaken the ryghteoue waye, and are gone astray, solobyng the way of Sallani the sonne of Bofo, which louted the reward of unrighteounesse.

16. But was rebukd of his iniquitie. The dumbe beat, and tied to the yoke, speaking with mans voyce, sobad the madnesse of the prophete.

17. These are welles without water, clouds that are caried with a tempest, to whom the miste of darkenesse is reserved for ever.

18. For when they have spoken the great euyllyng worodes of banities, they entere through luistes in the boluptuousnesse of the sleigh, them that were cleane escaped, from them which are wrapperd in euernce.

19. Whyle they pommel them libertie, where as they sete their selues are by bondes servaantes of corruption. For of whom a man is overcome, unto the same is he brought in bondage.

20. For if they, after they have escaped from the furiousnesse of the worlde, they receave the knowledye of the Lord, & the famour Jesu Christ, are yet tanged Sij aayne.
againe therein, and "overcome, then is the later end boss with them then the begynning.

21 For it had ben better for them not to have knownen the way of rightouenness, then after they have knownen it, to turne from the holy commandement that was geuen unto them.

22 But the same is happened unto them that is bie to be spoken by the true proverbe: "The dogge is turned to his owne bone againe, and the love that was lasshed, is turned againe to her wallowyng in the image.

The 2. Chapter.

This is the seconde epistle that I now write you, deacyly beloved, wherewith I shre by & warne your pure wounds,

By puttynge you in remembrance, that ye may be myndfull of the yowdes which were obde before of the holy prophytes, and also the commandement of vs, which be Apostles of the Lord and saumour.

This heil understande, that there come in the lasse dapes morters, which will walke after their obne lustes.

And say, where is the promisse of his commynge? For since the fathers dyed, all thynge continueth ylike from the begynning of the creation.

For this they knowe not (and that wyllfully) holde that the heauen was of olde, and the earth that was of the water, and by the water, by the word of God:

By the which thynge the world that then was, perished, being then over runne with water.

"But the heauen and earth which are obde, be kept by his power in fire, and referued unto fire, against the day of judgement and perdition of ungodly men.

Dearyly beloued, be not ignozaunt of this one thynge, holde that "one day is with the Lord as a thousande yere, & a thousande yere as one day.

9 The Lord that hath promisde, is not slacke, as some men count slackenesse, but is parent to bodarde (forsooth) as he woulde have no man losse, but wyll receive all men to repentence.

10 Nevertheless the day of the Lord & wyll come as a thefe in the nyght, in the which the heauen shal paffe abowt with a noyle, and the elements shall melt with heat, the earth also and the yowdes that are therin shall burne.

11 Seyn then that all these thynges shall perishe, What maner persons oughte ye to be in holy commoration and godlynesse:

12 Loking for, and hasting unto the comynge of the day of God, by whom the heauen shall perishe with fire, and the elements shall melt with heat:

13 Nevertheless, we according to his promisse, luke for a newe heauen, and a newe earth, wherein dwelleth righteounenesse.

14 Wherefore dearyly beloued, seyn that ye loke for such thynges, be diligent that ye may be founde of hym in peace, without spot, and undefyled:

15 And supposse that the long sufferings of the Lord is saluatiou, even as our dearyly beloued brother Paul also, according to the visedone geuen unto hym, hath witten unto you:

16 Se almost in every epistle, speyynge of such thynges, among which are manye thynges harde to be understond, which they that are unlearned and unsable, peruerst, as they do also the other scriptures, but of their owne destruction,

We thercfor beloued, seynge ye be warned afore hande, be bare to ye with other men be also plucked abowt through the error of the wicked, and fall from your owne firbanknesse:

18 But growe in grace, and in the kndowledge of our Lord and saumour Jesus Christe, to whom be glorie both nowe and for euer. Amen.

The
The first Epistle of Saint John the Apostle.

The first Chapter.

2 True witness of the eternity of God. 7 The blood of Christ is the purgation of sin. 10 No man is without sin.

5 And this is the testimony which we have heard of him, that God is light, and there is no darkness in him.

6 If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth.

7 But if we walk in light, even as he is in light, then our fellowship is with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ is the remission of sins from all sin.

8 If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10 If we say we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

-The 2d Chapter.

1 Christ is our advocate. 5 Of true love, and how it is tried. 13 To beware of antichrist.

1 And little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous.

2 And he is the atonement for our sins: not for our sins only, but also for the sins of all the world.

3 And hereby we are sure that we know him, if we keep his commandments.

4 He that saith he knoweth him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 But whosoever keepeth his word, in him is the love of God perfect perfected, hereby know we that we are in him.

6 He that saith he believeth in him, ought to walk even as he walked.

7 Brethren, I write no new commandment, but that old commandment which ye had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word which ye heard from the beginning.

8 Again, a new commandment I write unto you, that true is in him, and [the same is true] also in you: For the darkness is past, and the true light now shineth.

9 He that saith he believeth in him, and yet hateth his brother, is in darkness, even as he did before this time.

10 He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is none occasion of reproach in him.

11 He that hateth his brother is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and cannot tell where he goeth, because darkness hath blinded his eyes.

12 Babes I write unto you, because your sins fathers, because ye have known the words of God, and of the Son of God. Therefore come, and let us reason together: 19 For if ye be called a son, then are ye heirs of the Almighty God. 20 Therefore, let us reason together. 21 For he that knoweth the Son, knoweth also the Father; and he that knoweth the Father, knoweth also the Son. 22 Whosoever committeth sin, transgresseth also the law of God. 23 Therefore, let us reason together. 24 For he that knoweth the law, hath not perceived the sin. 25 Therefore, let us reason together. 26 For he that knoweth the law, that transgresseth also the law, and knoweth anything else, he is a sinner. 27 Therefore, let us reason together. 28 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the sin. 29 Therefore, let us reason together. 30 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 31 Therefore, let us reason together. 32 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 33 Therefore, let us reason together. 34 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the sin: and he that knoweth the sin, knoweth also the righteousness. 35 Therefore, let us reason together. 36 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 37 Therefore, let us reason together. 38 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 39 Therefore, let us reason together. 40 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 41 Therefore, let us reason together. 42 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 43 Therefore, let us reason together. 44 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 45 Therefore, let us reason together. 46 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 47 Therefore, let us reason together. 48 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 49 Therefore, let us reason together. 50 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 51 Therefore, let us reason together. 52 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 53 Therefore, let us reason together. 54 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 55 Therefore, let us reason together. 56 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 57 Therefore, let us reason together. 58 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness. 59 Therefore, let us reason together. 60 For he that knoweth the law, knoweth also the righteousness.
9 Whosoever is born of God, sinneth not: for his seed remaineth in him, and he can sin no more, because he is born of God.

10 In this are the children of God, whom he hath begotten: these know God.

11 Who so is born of the flesh is of the flesh; and he can only be a servant, and not inherit the kingdom of God.

12 Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away, behold, all things are become new.

13 And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Christ, and hath given us the ministry of reconciliation; to wit, that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them.

14 But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ.

15 For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us; 16 Having abolished in his own mind the enmity of the law of commandments, that he might make in himself of two one new man, so making peace; 17 And that he might reconcile both unto himself in one body, through the cross, having slain the enmity thereby, even the law of commandments: that he might make in himself of two one new man, so making peace; 18 And to reconcile both unto himself in one body, through the cross, having slain the enmity thereby, even the law of commandments: that he might make in himself of two one new man, so making peace; 19 For this is the will of God, that he should have both the fathers and the children together in unity.

20 Not as Cains, which was of that wicked, and slew his brother: And wherefore slew he his brother? Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous.

21 Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God: and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also who is begotten of him.

22 This is the difference between the spirit of life and the spirit of error. 7 The love of God and of our neighbours.

23 And this is his commandment, that we believe on the name of his only begotten Son, Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he commanded us.

24 And that he might make in himself of two one new man, so making peace; 17 And to reconcile both unto himself in one body, through the cross, having slain the enmity thereby, even the law of commandments: that he might make in himself of two one new man, so making peace; 19 For this is the will of God, that he should have both the fathers and the children together in unity.

23 And this is his commandment, that we believe on the name of his only begotten Son, Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he commanded us.

24 And that he might make in himself of two one new man, so making peace; 17 And to reconcile both unto himself in one body, through the cross, having slain the enmity thereby, even the law of commandments: that he might make in himself of two one new man, so making peace; 19 For this is the will of God, that he should have both the fathers and the children together in unity.

The Epistle of S. Jude.

Saint Jude admonished all Churches generally to take heed of deceivers, which go about to draw away the hearts of the simple people from the truth of God, to wilfully have no licit way with such, whom he elsewhere hath in their lively colours, showing by divers examples of the scriptures, what terrible vengeance is prepared for them. Finally, he Comforteth the faithfull, expostulating them to persevere in the doctrine of the Apostles of Jesus Christ.

1. Jude the servant of Jesus Christ, the brother of James: Lothen which are called and sanctified in God the father, and preferred in Jesus Christ:

B. H. L.

3. Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, to exhort you, that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once gaven unto the saints.

4. For there are certain ungodly men crept in, which were before of old ordained to this condemnation: They turn the grace of our God unto wantonness, and deny God which is the only Lord, and our Lord Jesus Christ.

5. My mynde is therefore to put you in remembrance: No such as ye once knewe this, holde that the Lord, after that he had delivered the people out of Egypt, destroyed them which afterward believed not.

6. The Angels also which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness, unto the judgement of the great day.

Gen. xii. 7. Even as Sodome and Gomorrie, and the cities about them, which in like manner deuiled them selves with oppression, and soloved strange fleshe, are set footh for an example, and suffer the paine of eternall fire.

8. Lykedyme, these being deceased by dreams, beule the fleshe, despite rulers, and speak euyl of them that are in authority.

9. Yet Michael the Archangel, when he strove against the devil and disputed about the body of Moses, durst not gene rayling sentence, but sayde, the Lord rebuke thee.

10. But these speake euyl of those thinges which they knowe not: What thinges they knowe naturally; as beasts which are without reason, in those thinges they corrupt them selves.

11. Wo be unto the, for they have followed the way of Cain, and are utterly genned to the error of Balaam for lucre sake, and perished in the gapaying of Cose.

12. These are spots in your salues of Docharite, whose they feast with you, without al feare feeding the fleues: cloudes they are without water, carried about of winde, corrupt trees, and without fruite, wise dead, and plucked by the roots:

13. They are the raging waves of the sea, soming out their ovne name: They are wandryng harres, to whom is referred the mist of darkness by euer.

14. Enoch the seventh from Adam, prophesied before of such, sayeing: Beholde, the Lord shall come with thousands of saints,

15. To give judgement agaunt all men, and to rebuke all that are ungodly among them, of all their ungodly deroges, which they have ungodly committed, and and of all their cruel speakynge, which vngodly hyres have spoken agayn the hym.

16 These are murmurers, complainers, walking after their owne lustes, whose mouthes speake proude thynges. They have men in great reverence because of advantage.

17 But ye beloued, remember the wyrdes which were spoken before, of the Apostes of our Lord Jesus Christe.

18 Holde that they holde you, that there should be beggers yn latt tymne, which should walke after their owne vngodly lustes.

19 These are makers of sectes, schisme, haungyng not the spryte.

20 But ye dearly beloued, edifie your selues in your most holy layth, praying in the holy ghost.

21 And kepe your selues in the lour of God, looking for the merite of our Lord Jesus Christe, vnto eternall lyfe.

22 And haue compassion of some, hepe: Kat rynting them:

23 And other laxe with care, pullyn g them out of the lyfe, and haue compassion on the other, and hate euene the garment spotted by the slyte.

24 Unto hym that is able to kepe you free from sinate, and to present you faultlesse before the presence of his glorie with joy.

25 To God our savour, which only is Wyse, be glorie, maestie, dominacion, and powr, nodde and ever. Amen.

The revelation of Saint John the divine.

The first Chapter.

1 The cause of this revelation. 2 Of them that reade it. 4 John writeth to the seven churches. 5 The maestie and liue of the lonne of God. 20 The vision of the candlestickes and starres.

He (s) revelation of Jesus Christe, which God gave into hym, for to shewe to his servantes thynges which must shortly come to passe:

And when he had seene, he slewe by his Angel, vnto his seruant John, vnto his seruant John, which bare record of the word of God, and of the teychnome of Jesus Christe, and of all thinges that he saide.

Happy is he that heareth, and they that heare the wordes of this prophetic, and kepe those thynges which are written therein, for the tymne is at hande.

John to the seven Churches in Asia: Grace by into you, and peace, from hym which is, and which was, and is to come: and from the seuen hyres which are before his throne,

And from Jesus Christe, which is a faithful witness, and first begotten of the dead, and Lord over the hyres of the earth: Unto hym that loved vs, and washed vs from our sinnes in his owne blood,

And made vs hyres and priests vnto God his father, be glorie and dominacion for evermore. Amen.

Beholde, he commeth With cloudes, and all eyes shall see hym, and they also which pearke hym: And all kinredes of the earth shall waple before hym. Even so, Amen.

I am Alpha and Omega, the beginnyng and the enpyng, faith the Loade almighty, which is, and which was, and which is to come.

I John, your brother and companion in tribulation, and in the bondage and patience of Jesus Christe, was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the wordes of God, and for the wittnesyng of Jesus Christe.

I was in the spytte on the Lordes day, and hearde behinde me a great voyce, as it had ben of a trampe.

Saying: I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: That thou seest, write in a booke, and sende it unto the seven Churches which are in Asia, unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philippphia, and 12 And I turned back to see the voice that spake to me: And when I was turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks;

13 And in the midst of the candlesticks one like unto the son of man, clothed with a garment downe to the feet, and girded about the pappes with a golden girdle.

14 His head, and his haeres were white as white woull, and as snow, and his eyes were as a flambe of fyre.

15 And his steele lyke unto fine brass, as though they went in a furnace, and his voyce as the sounde of many waters.

16 And he had in his ryght hande, seven starres: And out of his mouth went a sharpe two edged sword: And his face shone, even as the sunne in his strength.

17 And when I had hym, I fell at his steele even as dead: And he layde his ryght hande upon me, saying vnto me, Feare not, I am the first and the last,

18 And am alway, and was dead: And beholde, I am alway for evermore, Amen, and haue the keyes of hell and of death.

19 Write therefore the thinges which thou hast scene, and the thinges which are, and the thinges which must be fulfilled hereafter.

20 The misterie of the seven starres which thou sawest in my ryght hande, and the seven golde candlestickes. The seven starres, are the Angels of the seuen Churches: And the seven candlestickes which thou sawest, are the seuen Churches.

The 12. Chapter.

1 He exhorteeth foure Churches, to repentaunce, to perfecuaunce, patience, and amendement, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18. as promisses of rewarde.

2 To the Angel of the Church at Ephesus, write: these thinges layeth he that holdeth the seuen starres in his ryght hande, and that walketh in the muddes of the seuen golde candlestickes:

3 I knowe thy workes, and thy labour, and thy patience, and howe thou caust not so bare them which are evill: and haue examinad them which say they are Apostiles, and are not, and haue founde them lyers:

4 Nevertheless, I haue some what against thee, because thou haist left thy first loue.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and doe the thinges which thou hast left to do the first worke: Else I wyll come vnto thee shortly, and wyll remove thy candlesticke out of his place, except thou repete.
6 But this thou hast, because thou hast the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which (deeds) I also hate.

7 Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches.
To him that overcometh, will I give to eat of the *tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

8 And unto the Angel of the Church of Smyrna, write: These things saith he that is first and the last, which was dead, and is *alive.

9 I know thy works, and tribulation, and patience: but thou art *rich.
And I know the blasphemy of them which say they are the saints, and are not,
but are the synagogue of Satan.

10 Fear none of those things, which they shall suffer: Behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, to tempt you, and ye shall have tribulation ten days. Be faithfull unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.

11 Let him that hath an ear, hear
what the Spirit saith unto the Churches.
He that overcometh, shall not be hurt by the second death.

12 And to the Angel of the Church in Pergamos, write: This saith he which hath *Apostate (wood) with two edges:
I know thy works, and where thou dwellst, even where Satan's seat is,
and thou keepest my name, and hast not denied my faith: Even in those days when Antipas my faithful martyr was slayne among you, where Satan dwelleth.

14. But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there, them that makethap the doctrine of Balaam, *which taught in Balaam, to put a Habuiplyng blocke before the chyldren of Israel, that they should eate of meate dedicate unto idols, and commit fornication.

15 Even so hast thou that makethap the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, which thou hast.

16 Repent, or else I will come unto thee shorthly, and will fight against thee with the sword of my mouth.

17 Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches.
To him that overcometh, will I give to eat of the *tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God,

The Revelation

The xiij. Chapter.

1 And write unto the Angel of the Church that is at Sardis; these things say: I know thy works: thou hast a name that thou livest, and thou art dead.

2 Be alert, and strengthen the things which thou hast; keep thou what thou hast, that thou mayest not lose in the day of tribulation, in which I shall come to judge all men.

3 Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and holdest fast, and repent: if thou wilt not watch, I will come upon thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

4 Thou hast a few names in Sardis, which are not found, whicharestwofosters, and they shall walk with me in white, for they are worthy.

5 He that overcometh, he shall be clothed in white, and I will not put out his name out of the book of life, and I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels.

6 Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches.

7 And unto the Angel of the Church of Philadelphia, this thing be: that is holy and true, which hath the key of David; which openeth, and no man shuttesthuth, and shuttesthuth, and no man openeth.

8 I know thy works: Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it, for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my sayings: and hast not denied my name.

9 Behold, I make them of the synagogue of Satan, which call themselves Jews, and are not, but do lie: Behold, I will make them that they shall come into captivity, and shall be辱pp before the feet, and shall know that I have loved thee.

10 Because thou hast kept the words of my patience, therefore I will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth.

11 Behold, I come quickly: hold that which thou hast, that no man take away thy crown.

12 But unto him that overcometh, I will give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

13 And unto the Angel of the Church which is in Laodicea, this thing be: I know thy works: they are neither cold nor hot; I would thou wert cold or hot.

14 Be thou waked, and strengthen the things which thou hast, that thou mayest be clothed against cold, and that coldness and nakedness do not appear, and thou mayest be rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing.

15 Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

16 To him that overcometh, I will grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I have sat with my Father in his throne.

17 Let him that hath an ear, hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches.
The iii. Chapter.

1. The vision of the manifold of God. 2. He seeth the throne, and one sitting upon it, 3 and. xiv. states about it, with. xiv. elders sitting upon them, and four bea tles praying God day and night.

A. Afer this, I looked, and be dile a doore was open in hen, and the first boype which I heard, was as it ere of a trumpet talking ith me, which said: Come by hyther, and I will show thee thinges ich must be fullfled herelafter.

2. And immediately I was in the spirit, and beheld, an, throne was set in heavenly and one fante on the throne.

3. And he that fate, was to leke bypon like unto a Jasper stone and a Sardine
: and there was a raynebow ab
the throne, in light like to an Eneralbe.

4. And about the throne were ciiw. seates, and upon the seates, ciiw. elders sitting, clothed in white rayment, and had on their heads crownes of golde.

5. And out of the throne proceeded lightnges, and thunders, and boypes, and there were seven lampes of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven spirites of God.

6. And before the throne there was a sea of glass, like unto crystal, and in the upmoste of the throne, a rounde about the throne, were four bea tles, full of eyes before and behinde.

7. And the first beate was like a Lion, and the second beate like a Calfe, 2 the thirde beate had a face as a Man, and the fourthe beate was like a flying Egle.

8. And the four bea tles had cede one of them fire lynges about hym, and they were full of eyes within: and they had no rest day neither night: saying: "holy, holy, holy Lorde God almightie,which was, and is, and is to come.

9. And when those bea tles gaue gloine, d and honour, and thanks to hym that ate on the throne, which lyseth forever and ever:

10. The ciiw. elders fell downe before hym that fane on the throne, and worshiped ym that lyseth foruer, and call their crownes before the throne, saying:

11. Thou art worthy, 0 Lorde, to receive gloine, and honour, and po dre: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasures they are were created.

The v. Chapter.

1. He seeth the lambe openynge the booke, 8. 14. and therefore the four bea tles, the
xiw. elders, and the angels, praie the lambe, and do hym worship for their redemption and other benefite.

A1. And I saue in the right hande of hym that fane on the throne, a booke writte within,
and on the backe lyde, sealed with seven seales.

2. And I saue a strong angell, which preached with a loud yeare: who is Worthy to open the booke, and to looke the seales thes.

3. And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the booke, neither to loke theron.

4. And I wept muche, because no man was founde worthy to open it to reade the booke, neither to loke theron.

5. And one of the elders saie unto me, bepe not: behold a Lion of the tribe of Juda, the roote of David, hath obey-ned to open the booke, and to looke the seven seales thes.

The Revelation

9 And they sung ane voice, saying: Thou art worthy to take the book and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of all nations, and tongues, and people, and tribes:
10 And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth.

11 And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels about the throne, and the four beasts, and the four and twenty elders, saying with a loud voice: Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honor, and glory, and blessing.

12 And I heard every one of the four beasts say: Praise ye the Lord God Almighty, which is and was and is to come.

13 And every thing which is in heaven, and in earth, and under the earth, shall worship him, saying: Blessing and honor and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.

-- The vj. Chapter.

The Lamb opened the first seal, and many things followed the opening thereof, so that this contraryeth a general prophetic to the end of the world.

And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard one of the four beasts say, As it was written in the book of life, so was it.

1 And I beheld, and, lo, a white horse; and he that sat on him had a bow: and he was clothed with a cloud, and his name was called Faithful and True.And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea.

2 And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, as a bride adorned for her husband.

3 And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night.

4 And there was given unto every one of them merchandise: and power was given unto them: and white robes were given unto them; and they were told that they shouldrest a little season, until their fellow servants also should be slain as they were.
And when he had opened the fourth scale, I heard the voice of the fourth beast say, come and see.

And I looked, and behold a pale horse, and his name that sat on him was death, and hell followed after him, and power was given unto them over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth.

And when he had opened the fifth scale, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were killed for the word of God, and for the testament which they had.

And they cried with a loud voice, saying: Boive long tarryest thou, Lord, holy and true, to judge and to avenge our blood on those that dwell on earth.

And long wherefore garnitures were given unto every one of them; and it was fayde unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until the number of their fellows, and brethren, and of them that should be killed as they were, were fulfilled.

And I beheld when he had opened the sixth scale, and loe there was a great earthquake, and the sun was as blacke as sackcloth made of deere, the moone waxed
And after that, I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, holding the four windes of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, neither on the sea, neither on any tree.

And I saw another angel ascend from the rising of the sun, which had the seal of the living God, and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea,

Saying: Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, neither the trees, till we have sealed the seruantes of our God in their foreheads.

And I hearde the number of them which were sealed: And there were sealed an hundred thousand thousands of all the tribes of the children of Israel.

Of the tribe of Juda were sealed, rix. thousand. Of the tribe of Ruben were sealed, rix. thousand. Of the tribe of Gadd were sealed, rix. thousand.

Of the tribe of Asar were sealed, rix. thousand. Of the tribe of Nepthali were sealed, rix. thousand. Of a tribe of Manasse were sealed, rix. thousand.

Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed, rix. thousand. Of the tribe of Levi were sealed, rix. thousand. Of the tribe of Jakar were sealed, rix. thousand.

Of the tribe of Zabullon were sealed, rix.
of Saint John.

ix, thousande. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed ix, thousande. Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed ix, thousande.

9 After this I beheld, and lo a great multitude which no man could number of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, fuddle before the thone, and before the lamb, clothed with long white garments, and palınces in their handes.

10 And cried with a loud voice, saying: Salvation be ascribed to hym that sitteth upon the thone of our God, and unto the lamb.

11 And all the angels fwoode in the compass of the thone, and of the elders, of the four beasts, and fell before the thone on their faces, and worshipped God.

12 Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and worship, and thanks, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for evermore, Amen.

13 And one of the elders asuchered, saying unto me: What are these which are arrayed in long white garments? and whence came they?

14 And he sayde unto hym, Lo the thou wotest. And he sayde to me: These are they which came out of great tribulation, and haue washed their long robes, and made them white by the blood of the lamb.

15 Therefore are they in the presence of the thone of God, and séeue hym daye by daye, and night in his temple, and he that sitteth in the thone, shall dwell among them.

16 They shall hunger no more, neither thirsty, neither shall the sunne light on them, neither any heat.

17 For the lamb which is in the myddes of the thone shall feede them, and shall leade them unto fountaynes of living water, and God shall wipe awaye all tears from their eyes.

The viij. Chapter.

1 The seventhefeale is opened, there is silence in heaven. 6 The foure angels blowe their trumpettes, and great plagues folowe upon the earth.

1 And when he had opened the seventhefeale, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an houre:

2 And I sawe the seuen angels standinge before God, and to them were gwen seuen trumpetes.

3 And another angell came and fwoode before the aultre, haung a golden sennfer, and much of odours was gwen unto hym, that he should offer of the pappers of all launtes upon the golden aultre.

Which was before the thone.

4 And the smoke of the odours which came
And the prayer of all saints, attended up before God, out of the angels hand.

And the angel took the censer, and fulled it with fire of the altar, and cast it into the earth: and hordes were made, and thunderings, and lightnings, and earthquake.

And the seven angels which had the seven trumpettes, prepared them selves to blowe.

The first angel blew, and there was made hail with fire, mingled with blood, and they were cast into the earth, and the third part of trees was burnt, and all greene grasse was burnt.

And the second angel blew, and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea, and the third part of the sea turned to blood.

And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and hadde life, dyed, and the third part of shippes were destroyed.

And the third angel blew, and there saw a great starre from heaven, burning as it were a lampe, and it fell into the thirde part of the riveres, and into fourtaynes.
The ix. Chapter.

1 And the first angel blew the trumpet, and the fame part of the earth fell down as it were vaine.
2 And the second angel blew the trumpet, and the hale earth was burned up, and many men were slain.
3 And the third angel blew the trumpet, and the lightning fell to the earth, and man did expire.
4 And the fourth angel blew the trumpet, and the thirde part of the sun and moon, and half the stars, so that the thirde part of the sun was darkened; and the day was shutten, that the third part of it shoude not shine, and bykeilde the night.
5 And the fifth angel blew the trumpet, and the third part of the water was changed to blood, and many men dyed dead.
6 And the sixth angel blew the trumpet, and the third part of the earth was burned up, and man did expire.
7 And the seventh angel blew the trumpet, and the locusts came out of the earth, and they were as the scorpions of the earth, and they had wings like unto horses, and I heard a voice from heaven, saying, Lo, lo, lo, lo, lo to the inhabiters of the earth, because of the boys to come of the trump of the third angels, which were yet to blowe.

The ix. Chapter.

1 And the first angel blew their trumpetes, the starr fell eth from heaven.
2 The locustes came out of the smoke. 12 The first wo is past. 14 The four angels which were yet to blowe.

not the scale of God in their soheads.
5 And to them was commaunded that they should not kill them, but that they should be welte five monethes, and their name was as the payne that commeth of a scorpion, when he hath stung a man.
6 And in those days shall men lye death, and shall not finde it, and shall desire to dye, and death shall come from them.
7 And the similitude of the locustes was like unto hoses prepared into battale, and on their heads were as it were crownes like unto gold, and their faces were as it had been the faces of men.
8 And they had here as the here of women, 5 their teeth were as 5 teeth of "This Lions.

of Saint John.
9 And they had hairchings as it were hairchings of iron, and the sound of their wynges was as the sounde of char-rettes when many horses runne together to bataple.

10 And they had tables lyke unto scorpion ons, and there were wynges in their tables: and their power was to hurt men five monethes.

11 And they had a king over them, which is the angell of the bottomlesse pytte, Whose name in the Hebroue tongue is A-badon, but in Greke tongue Apollion, (that is to say, a destroyer.)

12 One woe is past, behold two woes come yet after this.

13 And the xviangell blewe, and I heard a booke from the foure houses of the golden aulter, which is before God,

14 Saying to the xviangell which had the trumpe: Looke the foure angels which are bounde in the great ruer Euphates.

15 And the foure angels were looked, which were prepared for an houre, for a day, for a moneth, and for a yere, for to sche the third part of men.

16 And the number of hostmen of harre were twentie thousand times ten thousande, and I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I sawe the horses in a bill-on, and them that flete on them, haung fierce hairchings of a fairet colour, and bymstone, and the heades of the horses were as the heades of lions, and out of their mouthes went foyth fire, and smoke, and bymstone.

18 And of these three was the third part of men kylled (that is to say) of fire, smoke and bymstone, which proceeded out of the mouthes of them.

19 For their power was in their mouthes, wherein they spake: for their tables were lyke unto serpentes, and had heades, and with them they dyd hurt.

20 And the remnant of the men which were not killed by these plagues, repeted not of the deedes of their handes, that they shoude not worship beuvs,
and idoles of golde, and syller, and brasse, and stone, and of wood, which neither can see, neither heare, neither go:

21 Also they repented not of their mur-ther, of their forreie, neither of their con-fication, neither of their theft.
The Angel hath the book open, he taught there should be no more type, he gave the book unto John, which eateh it by.

And I saw another myghtie Angel come downe from heaven, clothed with a cloud, and his face as it were the sunne, and his feete as it were pillars of fire.

2 And he had in his hand a little book open, and he put his right foote upon the sea, and his left foote on the earth:

3 And euyed with a loud booke, as it were a lion roareth: And when he had euyed, seven thunders bettered their boyes.

4 And when the seven thunders had bettered their boyes, it was about to write: and I hearde a booke from heauen, laying intoo me: seeke by those things which the seven thunders bettered, and write them not.

5 And the Angel which I sawe stande upon the sea and upon the earth, lift up his hande to heauen,

6 And saue by hym that euyeth for euermore, which created heauen and the thynge that therin are, & the earth and the thynge that therin are, and the sea, and the thynge which therin are, that there shoulde be no more tyne.

7 But in the dyes of the boyster of the seventh Angel, when he shall begin to blowe, even the misterie of God shall be finished, as he declared to his seruautes the prophete.

8 And the boyster which I hearde from heaven, spake unto me agayne: And I sayde: *So, and take the little booke which is open in the hande of the Angel, which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth.

9 And I went unto the Angel, and I sayde unto hym, give me the little booke. And he sayde unto me, take it and eate it vp, and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth as sweete as hony.

10 And I took the little booke out of the Angel hande, and ate it vp, and it was in my mouth as sweete as hony: and assone as I had eate it, my belly was bitter.

11 And he sayde unto me, thou shalt prophete agayne among the people, and nations, and tongues, to many kynges,
The Relation of The Reuclation

The. xj. Chapter.

The temple is measured. 2 Two witnesses rapted by the Lozde, are murthered by the braut, 1t but after receaft to go lost. 15 Christ is erafted, 16 and God is praised by the, sfinit, elders.

1 And the was given me a reede like unto a rod, and the angel stooed by, lying: Rize & meate y temple of God, & the utter, and them that worshipped therein:
2 But the court which is without the temple, call out, and meate it not: for it is given unto the gentiles, and the holy city shall they trande under foot four-tie and two monethes.
3 And I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesie a thousand two hundred, and thirty days, clothed in fackcloth.
4 These are two olive trees, and two candlesticks, standing before the God of the earth.
5 And if any man will hurt them, sere shall proceede out of their mouths, to sume their enemies: And if any man wil hurt them, this Lyse must be killed.
6 These have power to shut heaven, that it raine not in the days of their propheisyng: and have power over waters, to turne them to blood, and to pute the earth with all manner plagues, as often as they will.
7 And whde they have finished their testimone, the beast that commeth out of the bottomlesse pit, shall make warre against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them.

8 And their bodies shall lye in 5 streates of the great cite, which spiritually is called Sodome and Egypt, where our Lozde was cruified.
9 And they of the people, and knurdes, and tongues, and they of the nations, shall see their bodies three dayes and an halfe, & shall not suffer their bodies to be put in graves.
10 And they that dwell upon the earth that rejoice over them, and be glad, and shall send gyffes one to another: for these two prophecies bared them that dwelt on the earth.
11 And after three dayes and an halfe, & the spirit of lyfe comming from God, shall enter into them: And they shall stand upon their feete, a great fearce shall come upon the which sawe them.
12 And they shall heare a great boype from heauen, lying unto them, come by hyther. And they shall ascende by to heauen in a cloud, and their enemies shall see them.
13 And the same houre shall there be a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the cite shall fall, and in the earthquake shall be name names of men seven thousande: and the remauunt shall be afraye, and give glorie to the God of heauen.
14 The seconde wo is past, and beholde the thirde wo wyll come anone.

And
And the seventh angel blew, and there were made great voices in heaven, saying: the kingdoms of this world are the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christes, and he shall reign for evermore.

And the seven elders which sat before God on their seates, set upon their faces, and worshipped God, Saying: We give thee thanks, 0 Lord God almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; for thou hast redeemed the great multitude, a salt nation.

And the nations were wroth, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead that they should be judged; and that thou shouldst give reward unto the seeruntes the prophets and saints, and to them that keep the commandments of God, and their faith.

And the temple of God was opened in heaven: and there were seen in his temple the ark of his testament: and there followed lightnings, and booses, and thunders, and earthquake, and much hail.

The xi. Chapter.

There appeareth in heaven a woman clothed with the sunne. Michael fought with the Dragon which persecuted the woman. The vise is gotten, to the comfort of the faithfull.

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven: A woman clothed with the sunne, & the moon under her feete, & by her head a crown of twelve stars:

And she was with child, and cried, travailing in birth, and paine redy to be delivred.

And there appeared another wonder in heaven, for behold, a great reade dragon, having seven heads, and tenne horns, and seven crownes upon his heads.

And his tail enue the third part of the stars of heaven, and cast them to the earth: And the dragon stooke before the woman which was reede to be delivred, soe to devour her childe assone as it were borne.

And she brought forth a man chyld, which should rule all nations with a rodde of yron: And her sonne was taken up by God, and to his throne.

And the woman fled into wilderness, where she had a place prepared of God, that she should feede her there a thousand two hundred and threescore days.

And there was a battayle in heaven, Michael and his angels fought with the dragon, and the dragon fought and his angels,

And prevailed not, neither was their place founde any more in heaven.

And the great dragon, that old serpent, called the devill, Satan, was cast out, which deceateth all the world: And he was cast into the earth, and his angels were cast out with hym.

And I hearde a loude boase leaping in heaven: Holde is made saluation, & strength, & the kingdom of our God, & the porder of his Christes: For the accuser of our brethren is cast dibue, which accused them before our God day & night,

And they overcome hym by the blood of the Lamb, and by the wordes of their testimonie, and they loved not their lyues into the death.

Therefore rejoicest heauen, and ye that dwel in them, bow to the inhabitaers of the earth, and of the sea: For the devill is come dibue into you, which hath great wath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short tym.

And when the dragon saw that he was cast into the earth, he persecute the woman which brought forth the man chyld.

And to the Woman were given two wynges, of a great Eagle, that the wyglyt flee into the wilderness into her place, where she is nourished by a wygly, tydes, and halfe a tym, from the presence of the serpent.

And the serpent cast out of his mouth water after the Woman as it had ben a floodde, that he might cause her to be carped away of the floodde.

And the earth holpe the Woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swalowed by the wyuer which the dragon cast out of his mouth.
The Revelation

17 And the dragon was wroth with the woman and went and made warre with the remnant of her seed, which kepe the commandementes of God, and have the testimonie of Jesus Christe.
18 And I spode on the sea sande.

1. The beast becauseth the repudiate, 2. 4. 12. and is confirmed by another.
2. The priviledge of the beastes martie,

And I sawe a beast rype out of the sea, hauing充分体现heades, and ten houes, and vpon his homes ten crobynes, and vpon his head the name of blasphemie.
And the beast which I sawe, was like a Leoparde, and his feete were as the feete of a Beare, and his mouth as the mouthe of a Lion: And the dragon gaue hym his power, and his state, and great autoritie.
And I haue one of his heads, as it were wounded to death, and his deadly wounde was healed: And all the world wounded after the beast.
And they worshipped the dragon which gaue power vnto the beast, and they worshipped the beast, saying: Who is like unto the beast? Who is able to warre with hym?
And there was geuen vnto hym a mouthe, that spake great thynges and blasphemyes, and power was geuen vnto hym, to do, rij, monethes.
And he openeth his mouthe vnto blastingmes against God, to blasphame his name, and his tabernacle, and then that dwell in heauen.
And it was geuen vnto hym to make Warre with the saints, to overcome them: And power was geuen him over all kynredes, and tongues, and nations.
And he dwell vpon the earth, worshipped hym. Whose names are not written in the booke of life of lambe, which was killed from the beginning of the world.
If any man haue an eare, let hym heare.

10 He that leadeth into captituitie, shall go into captituitie. He that kylleth with a sword, must be kylleth with a sword.
Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.
11 And I behelde another beast coming by out of the earth, and he had two houes lyke a lambe, and he spake as byd the dragon.
12 And he byd all that first beast coulde do in his presence, he caufed the earth and then Which dwell therein, to worshipping the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.
13 And he byd great wonders, so that he made lyce come downe from heauen on the earth in the sight of men.
14 And deceaued them that dwelt on the earth, by the meanes of those signes which he had power to do in the sight of the beast, spaying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make the image of the beast which had the wounde of a sword, and byd lyce.
15 And he had power to gene a spirit byd to the image of the beast, that the image of the beast shoude speake, and shoude caufe that as many as shoude not worship the image of the beast, shoude be kylle.
16 And he made all both small great, rich, poor, free, bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads.
17 And that no man myght dye or fall, save he that had the mark of the name of the beast, and the number of his name.
18 Here is the vndome. Let hym that hath write, count the number of the beast: For it is the number of a man; his number is fower hundred threescore and foure.

the voice of a great thunder: And I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps:
3 And they long as it were a weary song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders, and no man could learn that song, but the hundred and four and fourscore thousand, which were redeemed from the earth,
4 These are they which were with women, for they are bidden to follow the lamb whither goeth: These were redeemed being the first fruits unto God, the lamb.
5 And in their mouths was this guile: For they are without the throne of God.
6 And I saw another angel see in the middes of heaven, harping the euangel, to preach unto them that sit and dwell on the earth, and to all nations, and kindredes, and tongues, and people,
7 Saying with a loude voype: *Fear God, and give honour to hyn, for the houre of his judgment is come: and Worphippe hyn that made heaven and earth, and the sea, and fountaynes of water.
8 And there folowed another Angel, saying: *Babylon is fallen that great citie, for she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.
9 And the thirde Angel folowed them, saying with a loude voype: *If any man Worphippe the beast and his image, and receive his marke in his foreheade, or on his hande,
10 The same shall drynke of the wine of the wrath of God: pease of the pure wine which is poured out of the cup of his wrath: And he shall be punished in fire & brimstone, before the holy angels, and the lamb.
11 And the smoke of their torment derth by euermore: And they rest day nor nyght which work beast and his image, and whollsome, reauche the pynt of his name.
12 Here is the patience of the saintes: They are they that kepe the commandementes of God, and the faith of Jesus.
13 And I hearde a voype from heaven, saying unto me, Write: *Blesse are the dead, which hereafter dye in the Lord. Even so faith the spirite, that they rest from their labours, and their works folowe them.
14 And I loked, and beholde a wyhte & cloude, and upon the cloude one sitting lyke unto the sonne of man, harping on his head a golden crolwe, and in his hande a sharpe sicle.
15 And another Angel came out of the temple, cryinge with a loude voype to hyn that sat on the cloude: *Thynke in thy scythe & reape, for the tyme is come to reape: for the harvest of earth is ripe.

The Revelation

16. And another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, having also a sharp sickle.

17. And another angel came out of the earth, and the earth was reded.

18. And he that sat on the cloud cast the sickle on the earth, and cut down the grapes of the vineyard of the earth, and cast them into the great winevat of the wrath of God.

19. And the angel thrust in his sharp sickle on the earth, and cut down the grapes of the vineyards of the earth, and cast them into the great winevat of the wrath of God.

20. And the winevat was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the fat, even into the horse babies, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs.

The xv. Chapter.

1. Seven angels have the seven last plagues. The song of them that overcome the beast.

2. The seven vials of God's wrath.

3. And I saw another angel flying in the heaven, great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues, for in them is filled up the wrath of God.

4. And I saw as it were a glassy sea mingled with fire, and there was an island in the sea, with a round mountain, with a mountain on the north, and a sea of glass.

5. And before the throne, and around the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes, four and four, and full of eyes before and behind.

6. And I saw, and I heard as it were a voice of many waters, and as it were the voice of many harpers singing aloud, saying: Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty, just and true are thy ways thou hast of saints.

7. And who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for thou only art holy, and all nations shall come and worship before thee, for thy judgments are made manifest.

8. And after that I looked, and beheld, and there was the temple of God, and the temple of the tabernacle of testimony was opened in heaven.

9. And I saw the holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down from heaven out of God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

10. And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying: Behold, the tabernacle of the Lord God Almighty, and the temple of God, are come down out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

11. And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from heaven from God out of the Lord and the holy spirit.

12. And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as it were the voice of many waters, and as it were the voice of mighty roars, saying: Alleluia! for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.

13. In the sight of him that sat, and in the sight of the twenty-four elders and of the four beasts, and of the angels of God.

14. And in the sight of his servants, and in the sight of the ancients of his people, and in the sight of all the earth, and all them that dwell in the seas.

15. And a voice cried, saying: Alleluia! for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.
O you a beast rite out of the sea, having ten ffead, and tenne heads, and upon his hones tenne crownes, and upon his heads, the name of blasphemie.

And the beast which I saw, was like a Leopard, and his ffeates were as the ffeates of a Bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a Lion: and the Dragon gave him his power, and his ffeate, and great authorith.

And I saw one of his heads as it were wounded to death, and his deadly wound was healed: and all the world wondered after the beast.

And they woodhipped the Dragon which gaue power into the beast, and they woodhipped the beast, saying, Who is like unto the beast? Who is able to warre with him?

And ther was giuen unto him a mouth, speaking great things, and blasphemies, and power was giuen unto him, to doe ffortie and two moneths.

And hee opened his mouth unto blasphemie against God, to blaspheme his name, and his tabernacle, and them that dwel in heauen.

And it was giuen unto him to make warre with the fainted, and to overcome them: and power was giuen him over all kinrres, and tongues, and nations.

And all that dwell upon the earth, shall worship him, whose names are not written in the booke of life of the lambe, which was killed from the beginning of the world.

If any man have aneare, let him heare.

He that leadeth into captivity, shall goe into captivity: See that killethe with a fword, must be killed with a fword, here is the patience and the faith of the fainted.

And I beleve another beast comming up out of the earth, and he had two hones like a lambe, and hee spake as did the Dragon.

And hee deth all that the fift beast could doe in his presence, and hee caueth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the fift beast, whose deadly wound was healed.

And hee deth great wonderes, so that he make fire come downe from heauen on the earth in the light of men.

And deceuith them that dwell on the earth, by the meanes of those ffigures which hee had power to doe in the sight of the beast, saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast which hath the wound of a fword, and did live.

And hee had power to giue a spirit buto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast woulde both speake, and shold cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast, should be killed.

And hee caueth all, both small and great, rich and poore, free and bond, that he shoulde giue them a marke in their right hand, or in their foreheads.

And that no man might buy or sell, save hee that had the marke, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

Here is wisdome. Let him that hath wt, count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man, and his number is six hundred threecent and frite.

The Epistle

And looed, and lo, a lambe on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred foure and foure thousand, hauing his fathers name written in their foreheads.

And I heard a boffe from heauen, as the sound of many waters, and as the boffe of a great thunder: and I heard the boffe of Harpers, harping with their Harpes:

And they luy as it were a new long before the throne, and before the foure beastes, and the SChers, and no man could learne that long, but the hundred and foure and foure thousand, which were redeemed from the earth.

These are they which were not defiled with women: for they are virgins: These are they which followe the Lambe whithersoever hee goet: These were redeemed from men, being the foure frutes into God, and to the Lambe.

And in their mouth was founde no guile: for they are without spot before the throne of God.

And I sawe another Angel fsee in the midst of heauen, hauing the everlasting Gospel, to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to all nations, and kinrres, and tongues, and peopel.

Saying with a loude boffe, *Heare, God, and guide thy people, to the hour of his judgenement is come: * and worship him that madeth heauen and earth, and the fse, and fountains of wateres.

And there followed another angel, saying, *Babylons fallen, is fallen, that great cite, for shee made all nations drinke of the wine.
wine of the wrath of her fornication. 9 And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand, 10 the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out of the vials of his indignation in the presence of the holy angels, and before the Lamb, 11 and the smoke of their torment ascends up for evermore: and there is no rest day or night which worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

12 Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.

14 And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sitting like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle.

15 And another angel came out of the temple crying with a loud voice to him that sitteth on the cloud: Thrust in thy sickle and reap, for the time is come to reap, for the harvest of the earth is ripe.

16 And he that sitteth on the cloud thrust in his sickle on the earth, and the earth was reaped.

17 And another Angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, having also a sharp sickle.

18 And another angel came out from the altar, which had power over fire; and cried with a loud voice to him that had the sharp sickle, saying, Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vineyard of the earth, for her grapes are ripe.

19 And the angel thrust in his sharp sickle on the earth, and gathered the clusters of the vineyard of the earth, and cast it into the great winefat of the wrath of God.

20 And the winefat was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the fat even unto the horse bridles by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs.

The xvi. Chapter.

The songs of them that overcome the beast.

2 I saw a sign in heaven great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues, and in them is fulfilled the wrath of God.

3 And they were clothed in purple robes: and their faces and their hair was white as wool. 4 And they were having power over the kings of the earth, and of the whole world; to smite them with sword, and to take peace from them, and toGovern them for a time of six hundred years.

5 And the names of them are these; the first, Mount Sion: and the second, The city of the great King.

6 And there followed them that had reigned on earth; and to them was given power over fire to炕 all that cursed them, and over them that blasphemed the name of God, which gave power over these plagues; and they repented not to give him glory.

7 And it was given unto me, John, to see the scenes of the great vials of wrath of God。

8 And the first vial was poured out, and there came out blood as an horse, and they dyed the earth with blood.

9 And I heard the seven angels, the seven vials being ready to be poured out of the hands of the seven angels.

10 And the first went, and poured out his vial on the earth; and it became a burning fiery furnace, and the inhabitants of the earth died of the sore heat.

11 And there came not one hurt by the plagues of the other angels which had the vials to pour out their powers.

12 And the colour of the sea was changed into blood: and the blood was as the blood of a dead man; and the sea became full of bodies.

13 And every living Creature died in the sea, and in the rivers, and in the fountains, and in the springs.

14 And I heard the second angel, saying, It is come, and it is come, the judgement of the great one of the earth.

15 And he poured the second vial on the sea; and it turned into blood, and caused that things which live in the sea, and whatsoever swimmeth in the sea, both little fish and great.

16 And I heard the third angel, saying, It is come, and it is come, the judgement of the third part of the rivers, and of the springs of waters.

17 And he poured the third vial on the rivers and streams: and they became blood.

18 And I heard the name of the river of the third vial, saying, This is the blood of the third part of the earth.

19 And the third angel poured out his vial on the trees, which healed all the people of the earth were smitten that drank of the water of the tree of the vine.

20 And the name of the tree was called, The Tree of Life, which bare four fruits, after every season.

21 And the sixth angel poured out his vial on the great sea; and there came a great and strong wind from the heaven, and it turned the sea into a bloody beast.

22 And every living creature died in the sea; and the dead were cast into the sea: and the sea became full of dead creatures, and of their stink.
Euphaeaned the God of heaven, for their swords, and for their keys, and prevented not their dedes.
And the last Angell powred out his vial upon the great water Gupphates, and the names thereof died up, that the way of the citie of cuphe, and he prepared.
And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs, come out of the mouth of the Dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet.
And I heard a great voice out of the temple of God, and out of the whole world, to gather the battell of the great day of God Amightie.

Behold, I come as a thief. Happie is hee that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, that hee walketh naked, and men maek his filthy.
And hee gathered them together into a place, called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon.
And the seventh Angell powred out his biall into the aire, and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, It is done.
And there followed voices, thunberings, and lightenings, and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, to mightie an earthquake, and to great.
And the great citie was divided into three partes, and the citie of the nations fell: And great Babylon was fallen, and is called the citie of devils, the citie of sinners, the citie of the beast, and the citie of the Kings of the earth.
Every vse also fledde away, and the mountaines were not found.
And there fell great hail, as it had bene talents, out of heauen, upon the men, and the men blasphemed God, because of the plague of the hail: for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

The xvii. Chapter.

The description of the great whore, and her finnes, and punishment.

So there came one of the seven Angels, which had the seven glasses, and talked with me, saying vnto me, Come, I will shew vnto thee the judgement of the great whore, that sitteth upon many waters: With whome have committed fornication the kings of the earth, and the inhabitants of the earth are drunken with the wine of her fornication.

So hee carried me away in the spirit into the wilderness: I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads, and ten horns, 4 And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet colour, and decked with gold, pietous done, and pearls, having a cuppe of goldes in her hand, full of abomenations and filthinesse of her fornication.
5 And in her head was a name written, a mysterie, great Babylon, the mother of whoredome and abominations of the earth.
And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the Martyrs of Jesus: and when I saw her, I wondered with great maruell.
And the Angel spade unto me, saying, Woe be unto them that dwell in earth: For in one hour are they filled full with vnaught.
And the beast that thou sawest, was, and is not, and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and goeth into perdicion, and they that dwell on earth shall wonder, whose names are not written in the booke of life from the beginning of the world, when they shall behold the citie that was, and is not, and is.

And here is a meaning that hath wilde.
The beasts, are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth: they are also seven kings.
And five are fallen, one is, and the other is not yet come: And when he commeth, he must continue a short space.
And the beast that was, and is not, is even the eight, and is one of the seven, and goeth into destruction.
And the ten horns which thou sawest, are ten kings, which have received no kingdom as yet: But receive power as kings at one hour with the beast.
These have one mind, and shall gie their power and strenght into the beast.
These shall fight with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: For he is the Lord of Lords, and the King of kings, and they that are on his side, are called, and chosen, and faithful.
And the sea became one with thee, the waters which thou sawest where the woman sitteth, are people, and folkes, and nations, and tongues.
And the ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast, are they that haue the power of the woman, and shall make her desolate, and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burne her with fire.
For God hath put in their hearts to fulfill his will, and to doe with one consent, to doe to the kings of the earth, and to the whole world, to doe to them that haue his name, and the kings of the earth.
And the woman which thou sawest, is that great citie which reigneth over the kings of the earth.

The xvii. Chapter.

3. And the lourers of the world are fore for the fall of whore of Babylon: So But they that be of God cause to rejoyce for her destruction.
And Babylon is fallen, the voice of song is changed to weeping and mourning in Babylon. For it is the voice of them that have fallen, the voice of them that are destroyed, the voice of the graver and the sword, the voice of the plunderer and of the spoiler: because Jehovah, the Lord of hosts, hath destroyed all the land. The cities of the king are full of the slain. He hath said, I will bring back to Zion, and Jerusalem shall be my glory. Babylon is as the garden by the banks of a river: there all the fair virgins, and all the King's daughters, clothed together with her that is graced. How is she fallen from the roof of cedars, and the cedars of Lebanon have brought her down with them. For the Chaldeans have taken thee away out of the land of the living, and have cast thee into the Hague of the dead, into the city of devouring. She that was in Babylon told, and cried with a loud voice, in the wine-cup: \( \text{Hos 3:5} \), \( \text{Ps 78:39} \), \( \text{Eccl 12:1} \), \( \text{Isa 13:1} \), \( \text{Isa 13:2} \), \( \text{Isa 13:10} \).

The ix. Chapter.

Praises are given unto God for judging the whore.

And after these things, I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, \( \text{Revel 16:15} \), \( \text{Revel 16:16} \), \( \text{Revel 16:17} \), \( \text{Revel 16:18} \), \( \text{Revel 16:19} \), \( \text{Revel 16:20} \).
much people, even as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of strong thunders, and lightning. Alleluia. For the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.

Let us be glad and rejoice, and give thanks to him, for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made her self ready.

And to her was granted that she should be arrayed with pure and spotlesse raimes: for the raimes are the righteousness of saints.

And he saide unto me, Write, Happy are they which are calleth upon the name of the Lamb, and the worke of his God: and shall be for a kingdom, and for priests unto God, and shall reign.

And I saw an Angel standing in the Sunne, and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the fowles that flieth by the middles of heaven, Come and gather together into the supper of the great God.

Which ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that ride on them, and the flesh of all men, and bond men, and of small and great.

And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies gathered together, to make war against him that sat on the horse, and against his army.

And the beast was taken, and with him that false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that received his mark in his right hand, and in his forehead, these both were cast into the bottomless pit, from whence there is no escape; but where many thousands shall be thrown down.

And the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sat upon the horse, which sword proceeded out of his mouth: and the fowles were filled with their flesh.
And I saw a new heaven, and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea.

And I John saw the holy city new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

And I heard a great voice out of heaven, saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself will be with them, and be their God.

And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are gone.

And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write, for these words are true and faithful.

And he said unto me, It is done: I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. And when I saw it, I fell down to worship: and he said unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

And he said unto me, Write, for these words are true and faithful.

And he said unto me, It is done: I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end.

And he said unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

And he showed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb.

And the city.hath no need of the sun, neither of the moon, for the light of the kings of this world is darkness: but the kings of this world shall be tribulation, and distress, and sorrow: and the light of this world is the brightness of the secret:

And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: for there shall be no night.

And they shall walk in the streets thereof by day, because the light of the sun shall be there as a lamb.

And he measured the wall thereof, one thousand furlongs, and the length, and the breadth, and the height of it were equal.

And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and four miles, and the street thereof, four miles wide.

And he measured the wall, fourscore cubits, and the breadth thereof, was fourscore cubits.

And the foundations of the walls of the city were adorned with all manner of precious stones. The first was sardonyx, the second sapphire, the third chrysolite, the fourth emerald,

The fifth sardius, the sixth sapphire, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chrysoprasus, the eleventh jacinth, the twelfth carnelian.

And the twelve gates were twelve pearls: every gate was of one pearl: and the street of the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass.

And the foundations of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper, the second sapphire, the third chalcedony, the fourth emerald,

The fifth sardonyx, the sixth sapphire, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chrysoprasus, the eleventh jacinth, the twelfth carnelian.
